Une discographie de

Robert Wyatt

ARCHIVE 6
au 1er juin 2026

Discographie
Interviews & articles
Abécédaire

UNE DISCOGRAPHIE DE Robert Wyatt

Archive 6 au 1er juin 2026

RADIO ROBERT

THE LAST 10 UPDATES

- LES ANNÉES BEFORE
- SOFT MACHINE
- MATCHING MOLE
- SOLO
- INTERVIEWS & ARTICLES
- LYRICS
- SCORES/PARTITIONS
- WITH FRIENDS
- SAMPLES
- COMPILATIONS
- VARIOUS ARTISTS
- CONCERTS & CLIPS
- IN CONVERSATION
- CRITIQUES/REVIEWS
- BOOTLEGS
- REPRISES
- POCHETTES
- ABÉCÉDAIRE
- VIDÉOS & DVD
- INDEX
- BOOKS

Last Update :25/05/2026

- S'inscrire à la newsletter
- Subscribe with the newsletter
- The Official Robert Wyatt Fan Club Song
- 1 239 disques référencés
- Contact
- Links

Liste des ajouts et des modifications de l'archive 6 du 1er juin 2026

L'archive 6 du site au 01/06/2026 comporte au total 4 977 pages pdf.
De nombreuses corrections et modifications ont été apportées tout au long de l'année ainsi que les principaux ajouts suivants :

Discographie

49 nouvelles références discographiques :

- Word Of Mouth (15 Recommended New Songs For Autumn 2004) - 2004 (Various Artists)
- Now Yearbook '80-'84 (The Final Chapter) - 2022 (Various Artists)
- Stelline ft. Libby Leist - Sea Song - 2017 (Reprises)
- Autarkic - Terms & Conditions - 2020 (Reprises)
- Emi Sounds Aime Tricatel - 2010 (Various Artists)
- Orchestra SMS - Musica Sparpagliata - 2025 (Reprises)
- Bruce Brubaker - Eno Piano - 2023 (Reprises)
- Berlin Musicians in Solidarity with Palestine - Loud & Clear - 2025 (Reprises)
- Bruce Brubaker - Eno Piano 2 - 2024 (Reprises)
- Hatfield And The North - O.R.T.F. January 2, 1973 - 2024 (With Friends)
- Stray Signals - Dedicated To Palestine - 2024 (Various Artists)
- NkCz - Sea Song (a Robert Wyatt cover) - 2020 (Reprises)
- L'esprit Woodstock - 2009 (Various Artists)
- Middle Earth - The Soundtrack Of London's Legendary Psychedelic Club 1967-1969 (Various Artists)
- Kevin Ayers - All This Crazy Gift Of Time - The Recordings 1969-1973 - 2024 (With Friends) (Reprises)
- Eiko Ishibashi & Tatsuya Yoshida - Slip Beneath The Distant Tree - 2007 (Reprises)
- Cloudland Blue Quartet - Variation on Brian Eno's 'Music For Airports' - 2021 (Reprises)
- In Dark Trees - Under Cover - 2012 (Reprises)
- Ex Norwegian - Something Unreal: The Best Of Ex Norwegian - 2019 (Reprises)
- Jet Stream: Autumn Flight - 2003 (Various Artists)
- Mésange - Signed Curtain - 2019 (Reprises)
- Unknowns Psychedelic Music Vol.1 - 2000 (Various Artists)
- Soft Machine - Turns 'On 67 - 2025 (Soft Machine)
- Tears For Fears - Songs From The Big Chair (Deluxe Edition) - 2006 (Reprises)
- Kevin Ayers - Bananamour (Reissue) - 2003 (With Friends)
- Edmund John - Robert Wyatt's Sea Song - 2013 (Reprises)
- Anaïd - Orchestra : Live - 2025 (Reprises)
- Church Chords - Otherly Love Presents 01: Tribute to Robert Wyatt - 2024 (Reprises)
- Group Listening - Clarinet & Piano Selected Works Vol. 1 - Remixed - 2019 (Reprises)
- Pick'n'Mix - 15 tracks from the Rough Trade Vaults - Compiled by Pulp - 2025 (Various Artists)
- 391 - The Experience Machine - 2015 (Reprises)
- The Jimi Hendrix Experience - TTG Studios October 1968 (Bootlegs)
- Glass & Friends - Canterburied in Seattle 2002 - 2022 (Reprises)
- Glass & Friends - Progman 2003 - 2022 (Reprises)
- Richard Sinclair Trio - Le Triton - 2025 (Reprises)
- Soft Machine - MoonJune Years 2002-2018 (Sampler) - 2018 (Reprises)
- Matching Mole - Kings Cross Cinema 1972 - 2025 (Bootlegs)
- Soft Works - Abracadabra In Tokyo - 2025 (Reprises)
- Cassiber - 1982-1992 (30th Anniversary Cassiber Box) - 2013 (Reprises)
- Richard Sinclair Band - SchioLife - 2024 (?) (Reprises)
- Ben Varian - Funny Souls Singles Series - 2020 (Reprises)
- Hatfield And The North Le Triton - 2024 (?) (Reprises)
- WMWM - London April 14, 1973 - (?) (Bootlegs)
- WMWS - One Night Stand (Reissue) - (2015) (With Friends)

- Richard Sinclair - Century 21 - 2024 (Reprises)
- Get The Blessing - Rarer Teas - 2020 (With Friends)
- Tears For Fears - The Collection - 2003 (Reprises)
- Luciano Margorani - Nan True's Hole - 2026 (Reprises)
- La 1919 - Giorni Felici - 1997 (Samples)

Interviews & articles - Vol. 1 (in english)

25 nouveaux articles :

- Soft Machine man's switch - Melody Maker - July 18, 1970
- The Mike Ratledge Interviews - Facelift - N° 2 - September 1999
- 'Matching Mole : the beginning of an other ear' - Time Out - June 16th-22nd 1972
- Soundtrack of my life: Robert Wyatt - The Guardian - 26 October 2014
- Soft Machine - looking for more complicated musical ideas... - Record Mirror - October 25, 1969
- New Model Army - Mojo - N° 88 - March 2001
- When In Rome... - Sounds - July 12, 1975
- Mantler paints it black + Gorey stories - Melody Maker - April 17, 1976
- No thing can stop him - Option #39 - July-August 1991
- East / West - Collusion - #2 - February-April 1982
- Robert Wyatt : Whistling in the dark - New Sounds New Styles - June 1982
- Soft Machine album - an MM preview - Melody Maker - May 30, 1970
- 'Other' Music - The Village Voice - October 23, 2007
- Max Remembered - Modern Drummer Magazine - December, 2007
- Canterbury Scene Pioneers 1 : The Soft Machine - Audion - Issue #54 - August 2008
- This Is What Happens - Shindig ! - January-February 2011
- Two pound notes must copulate - Bath Festival of Blues and Progressive Music '70 Program
- 'I've no idea what's next' - The Guardian - 22 September 2003
- Who, Wyatt, Where - The Amazing Pudding - June 1993
- Q&A: Robert Wyatt - The Birth Of The Cool - Stop Smiling - July, 12 2006
- His Master's Voice - Strange Fruit - Freedom - Vol:43 No 22 - 13th November 1982
- Nothing to kill or die for - New Musical Express - March 10, 1984
- Pink Floyd in Wyatt Charity at Rainbow - Record & Radio Mirror - November 3, 1973
- 2500 Ball at IT-Launch - The International Times - October 31 - November 13, 1966
- Interview: Robert Wyatt The only way is up when you've hit rock bottom - Independent - 30 September 1997

Interviews & articles - Vol. 2 (en français)

7 nouveaux articles :

- La résurrection de la douce machine de Robert Wyatt - Mad -17 mars 1999
- Wyatt Hotel - crisscross-jazz.com - décembre 2010
- Mike Ratledge, l'homme-moustache de Soft Machine - Gonzaï - 9 février 2025
- Mike Ratledge 1943-2025 - Rock & Folk - N° 692 - avril 2025
- Robert Wyatt: tout ce que vous ne deviniez pas ! - Jazzmania.be - 8 août 2022
- Chute et ascension de Robert Wyatt - Aide-mémoire - N° 77 - juillet - août - septembre 2016
- Byg Records - Le magnifique catalogue - Rock & Folk - juillet 2023

Interviews & articles - Vol. 3 (autres langues)

9 nouveaux articles :

- Rock Bottom, al habla con la directora María Trenor - Ruta 66 - 19 diciembre, 2024
- Soft Machine - Raropiù - N° 71 - Settembre 2019
- Io E Robert - Faremusica - N° 202 - 1998
- Robert Wyatt. Maestro de maestros - Heraldo de Aragon - 1 de Junio de 2024
- La Magia Di Rock Bottom - Prog Italia - Ottobre-Novembre 2024
- Muzakoncerto - Muzak 4 - Luglio 1975
- Heavy Mental - Ciao 2001 - N. 5 - 4 Febbraio 1992
- Jimi Hendrix feat. Robert Wyatt Studio Recordings Guide - Alla Ricerca del Vinile Perfetto - 5 gennaio, 2013
- Robert Wyatt - Ci fidiamo di lui - Rockerilla - 15 Ottobre/15 Novembre 2007

Abécédaire

4 nouvelles sections :

- Toucher le fond
- Mary Halvorson's Turning Point: "Robert Wyatt’s able to incorporate the weird with the beautiful in such a nice way” - Jazzwise - May 22, 2025 in Rock Bottom section
- Rock Bottom sorti en salles le 9 juillet 2025
- Robert Wyatt et le cinéma

Books :

- Rock psychédélique - un voyage en 150 albums de David Rassent - Le Mot Et Le Reste (2025)
- Electrosound: Storia ed estetica della musica elettroacustica di Giacomo Fronzi - EDT (2013)
- Jazz Rock - Esprits libres et fusion des genres de Marc Alvarado - Le Mot Et Le Reste (2019)
- Underground 2 - Derviches Tourneuses & punks cosmiques de Arnaud Le Gouëfflec (texte) et Nicolas Moog (dessins) - Glénat (2025)
- Rock City Guide - Les villes qui ont changé le cours de la musique de JD Beauvallet (auteur) et Frédéric Peltier (illustrateur) - GM éditions (2025)
- Jean-Jacques Lebel - Galerie Louis Carré & Cie - catalogue d'exposition publié à l’occasion de l’exposition 'Recycler, détourner' (2012)
- L'âge d'or du rock progressif anglais 1965 - 1979 - tome 3 de Didier Gonzalez - Camion Blanc (2025)
- Encyclopédie illustrée du rock de Nick Logan et Bob Woffinden - RTL Edition (1980)
- Rock Graphic - 10 ans d'affiche de rock'n'roll de Mike Farren - Editions Henry Veyrier (1976)
- Rock'n'roll - tome 2: La discothèque rock idéale. 101 disques à écouter avant la fin du monde de Philippe Maneuvre - Editions Rock & Folk / Albin Michel (2011)
- Rock'n'Roll : la discothèque idéale : 101 disques qui ont changé le monde de Philippe Maneuvre - Editions Rock & Folk / Albin Michel (2005)
- Anthologie du rock progressif - Voyages en ailleurs de Jérôme Albérola - Camion Blanc (2010)
- Mountains Come Cut of the Sky - The illustrated history of prog rock by Will Romano - Backbeat (2010)
- Listening to the Future - The time of progressive rock 1968-1978 by Bill Martin - Open Court (1998)
- Synths, Sax & Situationists (The French Musical Underground 1968-1978) by Ian Thompson - Round Table Books (2025)

Archives & concerts :

- Orchestra SMS - Sea Song - Excerpt from MUSICA SPARPAGLIATA 2015-2025 (Concerts & clips)
- Concert Rock Bottom de l'Ateleier Play It Again ! à Paris 8 - 12 juin 2024
- Dondestan for Palestine - 2025
- Delta Saxophone Quartet with Hugh Hopper - 2007 & 2008
- Odeia - Alifib - 2017 & 2025
- University Of Errors Play The Soft Machine - 2006
- 3 Degrees of Robert Wyatt - 2015
- John Greaves & Friends - Piacenza - 5 Agosto 2023
- Berlin Jazz Festival - 1971

In conversation :

- Retour de plage ... Robert Wyatt, un ange à la table - France Musique - 18 juillet 2024
- Mark Boyle on meeting Soft Machine at UFO in 1967
- Midweek with Libby Purves - 1999
- Laurenzo Mattotti sur Robert Wyatt - 2025
- Éloge de Kevin Ayers, poète de l’âge psychédélique - A Very Good Trip - 2024
- Les chemins de la musique de Alain Dister et Christian Rosset - 1997
- Le rêve aquatique de Robert Wyatt - 2024

Words :

- Mike Ratledge - A tribute
- Richard Sinclair about Matching Mole and Rock Bottom - 2022

- Nicolas Klotz - Derives.tv - 2020

Critiques/reviews :

- Robert Wyatt - Rock Bottom/Ruth Is Stranger Than Richard in BLAH BLAH NEWS juillet-août 1998
- Dondestan in BLAH BLAH NEWS - février 1999
- Matching Mole in SHUNDIG!- May 2025
- Robert Wyatt - Going Back A Bit: A Little History Of Robert Wyatt in THE WIRE N°125 - July 1994
- Robert Wyatt in Rivista Anarchica - #201 - giugno-luglio '93
- Hot Chip with Robert Wyatt and Geese in Les Inrockuptibles - N° 694 - 17 mars 2009
- Robert Wyatt - Old Rottenhat in Spex - Dezember 1985
- Robert Wyatt - Comicopera in The Observer - October 14, 2006
- Matching Mole - Little Red Recod in A FACEBOOK POST BY CRAIG RUNYON - May 2025
- Robert Wyatt - Shleep in FACELIFT - May 1998

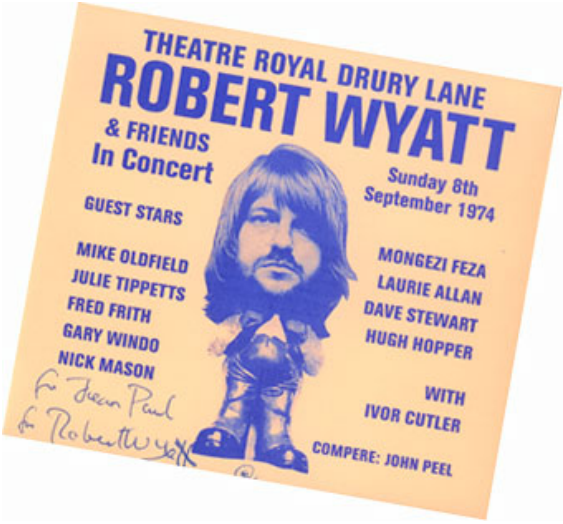
DVD & videos :

- Rock Fieber - 2004
- Soft Machine - Other Doors - Tour 23/24
- Rock Bottom, un film de Maria Trenor - 2025

Scores :

- Stefano Giannotti - Sea Song arrangements
- Serge Wodrascka - Muddy Mouth

Prochain archivage : version 7 au 1er juin 2027 .



Back

HOME

Précisions

Mettre en ligne une discographie de Robert Wyatt, alors qu'il existe de nombreuses pages consacrées à ce musicien ne s'imposait peut-être pas. J'avais initialement l'intention de réaliser une sorte de juke-box, quelques pages illustrées des pochettes d'albums que j'aurais installées sur mon PC à partir desquelles je souhaitais pouvoir "jouer" mes morceaux préférés.

Du juke-box au site web, l'idée s'est imposée rapidement et je me suis pris au jeu du recoupement d'informations, du plaisir de découvrir un album inconnu, de pister une reprise ou un bootleg à travers des moteurs de recherche du monde entier. Les premiers messages d'encouragements (merci à Jean-Philippe et Chris, mes deux premiers visiteurs) m'ont incité à continuer même si je vérifie chaque jour l'adage "plus on en sait, moins on en sait" sur Robert Wyatt comme sur le reste...

Quelques précisions sur la manière dont j'ai construit ce site :

LA DISCOGRAPHIE

- Le classement des disques est chronologique selon leur première date de parution (et non leur réédition en CD ou leur date d'enregistrement) à l'exception des bootlegs (disques pirates) dont je ne connais pas toujours la date de sortie. Dans ce dernier cas, j'ai adopté un classement basé sur la date (probable) de l'enregistrement.

- Bien qu'intitulé "Une discographie de Robert Wyatt..." ce site n'a pas la prétention de rendre compte de manière exhaustive des références discographiques de chaque album. Les codifications divergent d'un pays à l'autre et les catalogues de Robert Wyatt, de Soft Machine ou de Matching Mole sont passés entre les mains de nombreux labels et compagnies ce qui allonge la liste des références de chaque disque. J'ai noté les références les plus courantes, parfois les plus récentes, pour faciliter les recherches.

- Le format des albums, s'il est différent de CD, est mentionné à la suite de leur référence (LP, EP, K7, Digital...).

- Dans la discographie, les titres auxquels Robert Wyatt a participé en tant qu'interprète et/ou compositeur sont en [noir/gras]. Les morceaux sans Robert Wyatt sont affichés en [gris/maigre].

Parfois, il n'a pas été possible d'identifier précisément le ou les morceaux auxquels Robert Wyatt est associé. Dans "Thank You For... " de Bridget St. John, Robert Wyatt confirme y avoir joué des percussions mais ignore quels morceaux en ont finalement bénéficié. Et dans "La Via Negativa" et "Shadows" de Lorenzo Brusci, ce dernier ne se souvient plus quelles séquences comportent les samples de RW (parmi les centaines d'artistes samplés pour ces deux oeuvres). Dans ces rares cas très rares, tous les morceaux de l'album sont en [noir/maigre].

- Si l'oeuvre de Robert Wyatt est au centre de mon projet, j'ai voulu y associer les reprises de ses morceaux car c'est toujours avec gourmandise que je découvre de nouvelles interprétations de ces "classiques" que sont pour moi Moon In June, Gloria Gloom, Sea Song ou Gharbzadegi... J'espère vous les faire découvrir et je vous invite à m'en faire connaître de nouvelles. Ces reprises sont à prendre au sens le plus large possible: certains morceaux ne sont pas signés Robert Wyatt mais sont considérés dans la base comme des reprises de R. W. (c'est le

Copyrighted material on this website is used in accordance with 'Fair Use', for the purpose of study, review or critical analysis, and will be removed at the request of the copyright owner(s). As a non-profit, non-revenue producing site, disco-robertwyatt.com provides its content as a free, educational, and informative service for its readers. Copyrighted content on this site may not be further used for profitable purposes without the expressed written permission and consent of the copyright cas des reprises de morceaux de Hugh Hopper ou Kevin Ayers initialement interprétés par Soft Machine ou de certains morceaux de Matching Mole par exemple...).

Certaines reprises peuvent d'ailleurs faire l'objet d'un débat. J'ai en effet choisi de mentionner des albums ou des morceaux qui ne sont pas à proprement parler des reprises de Robert Wyatt car celui-ci n'en est pas l'auteur ou le compositeur mais qui ont bien un lien avec lui.
C'est par exemple le cas lorsque Robert Wyatt en est l'interprète ou un des interprètes de référence (les morceaux de Soft Machine écrits par Kevin Ayers, Mike Ratledge ou Hugh Hopper par exemple), mais aussi des morceaux dont la reprise s'inspire surtout de l'interprétation qu'a pu en faire R. Wyatt.
A titre d'exemples :
- I'm Believer et Locomotive dans Mop Meuchiine Plays Robert Wyatt (2010) qui sont deux morceaux repris par Robert Wyatt (mais traités par Mop Meuchiine comme des reprises de Robert Wyatt).
- Les nombreuses reprises de Shipbuilding (d'ailleurs parfois signé" E. Costello, parfois C. Langer/D. MacManus : en règle générale je reproduis ce qui est mentionné sur le support).
- Del Mondo dans l'album de l'ONJ Around Robert Wyatt (2009)
- Tous les morceaux d'H. Hopper de l'album du Delta Saxophone Quartet (2007)
- Certains morceaux signés K. Ayers ou H. Hopper de University of Errors (2004) et bien d'autres encore...

j'ai cependant considéré que ces morceaux avaient un lien indirect mais réel avec Robert Wyatt qui d'une manière ou d'une autre y est associé et qu'ils méritaient d'être cités. C'est une position subjective mais ne pas les référencer m'aurait gêné encore plus.

De même, j'ai choisi de classer les albums de Soft Machine post-Fourth dans la rubrique "Reprises" lorsqu'ils contiennent des morceaux créés à l'époque où Robert Wyatt jouait dans ce groupe. C'est le cas par exemple de Live in France ou de Drop, a fortiori les albums de Soft Machine Legacy, Soft Bunds etc.

Avec l'essor du streaming et des plateformes de diffusion de type Bandcamp ou Soundcloud, les choses se compliquent : les notions d'album et de label s'estompent au profit d'un format digital omniprésent mais pas toujours bien référencé. C'est ainsi que les mentions NO LABEL et Digital Format sont parfois les seules indications accompagnant un titre publié sur ces plateformes.

A partir des années 2010 (environ), une version numérique est quasi systématiquement publiée en complément des versions CD ou vinyl, qu'il s'agisse de nouveautés ou de rééditions. C'est pourquoi j'ai décidé de ne mentionner la version numérique ("Digital Format") que lorsque l'album n'est publié que sous ce seul format.

L'ABÉCÉDAIRE

Cette rubrique a été mise en ligne plus tardivement (printemps 2004). Elle s'enrichit progressivement, le concept d'Abécédaire me permettant de créer autant de thèmes que je le souhaite. J'y traite différents aspects de l'oeuvre et de la personnalité de R.W. au gré de mes envies et des informations que je collecte, en ne m'interdisant pas un point de vue subjectif et arbitraire... Depuis le printemps 2005 j'ai entamé le référencement et la publication des très nombreux articles et interviews de Robert Wyatt parus dans la presse internationale. Tâche herculéenne que je mène au rythme de mes recherches et des informations que me transmettent des aficionados du monde entier.

ASTUCE...

La page "Pochettes" présente toutes les pochettes de la discographie. Celles-ci s'affichent dans l'ordre de leur mise en ligne. Pour connaître les derniers disques répertoriés, il suffit de consulter cette rubrique et de owner.

Le matériel protégé par les droits d'auteur sur ce site Web est utilisé conformément à «l'utilisation équitable», à des fins d'étude, d'examen ou d'analyse critique, et sera supprimé à la demande du ou des titulaires des droits d'auteur.
En tant que site à but non lucratif et non générateur de revenus, disco-robertwyatt.com fournit son contenu sous forme de service gratuit, éducatif et informatif pour ses lecteurs. Le contenu protégé par le droit d'auteur sur ce site ne peut pas être utilisé à des fins lucratives sans l'autorisation écrite expresse et le consentement du titulaire du droit d'auteur.

découvrir les albums affichés en fin de page.

THE LAST 10 UPDATES

Une nouvelle page créée en 2024 "The last 10 updates" permet de découvrir les 10 derniers nouveautés du site.

EN CONCLUSION

Je compte sur les visiteurs de ce site pour m'aider à l'enrichir. Parfois une pochette ou un détail me manque, parfois une référence est erronée ou incomplète... N'hésitez pas à me les signaler et à m'envoyer toute information utile. De même, analyses ou coups de coeurs pour un album, un morceau, trouveront leur place sur le site s'ils me paraissent intéressants/séduisants: je serai heureux d'en faire profiter les internautes qui me font l'honneur de le visiter régulièrement.

A bientôt

Jean-Paul Marillier

Le site a été ouvert à la mi-octobre 2003. Il était optimisé pour une résolution 800 x 600 (afin de permettre une impression papier optimum) avec un navigateur Microsoft Internet Explorer pour version 4 et plus, affichage "taille du texte" moyenne.

Téléchargez toute la discographie au format PDF

La discographie est mise à la disposition des personnes souhaitant conserver une trace du site au format PDF sur leur propre ordinateur.
Ce fichier est annuellement mis à jour pour tenir compte des nouvelles entrées.

Post Scriptum:
j'ai également réalisé le site lafondation-paris.com dédié aux archives sonores et visuelles de LA FONDATION, collectif parisien créé avec quelques amis aux débuts des années 80.

Et aussi : lesot.space, une station spatiale sonore en hommage à Bertrand Mérino-Péris, vidéaste et musicien iconoclaste, créateur et animateur de Haute-Tension avec Alain Burosse et Michel Éli, agent actif de l'Oeil du Cyclone et de bien d'autres aventures aventureuses. Et ami, trop tôt parti.

Et depuis le 10/07/2019, Radio Robert :

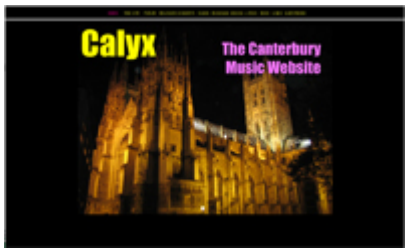
...une sorte de jukebox automatique et aléatoire plein de surprises et d'enchainements inattendus... la radio dont j'ai toujours rêvé...

... a kind of automatic and random jukebox full of surprises and unexpected sequences ... the radio I've always dreamed of ...

Crédits



Deux sites et un livre m'ont apporté une aide décisive dans la réalisation du présent site. Je veux les citer ici et remercier leurs auteurs :

- Hulloder - The ultimate Robert Wyatt Discography qui répertorie également les enregistrements des autres musiciens fondateurs du Soft Machine.
  N'est malheureusement plus mis à jour depuis novembre 2000.
  Hébergé depuis 2019 sur le site Calyx.

- Calyx est l'encyclopédie la plus complète sur "l'école de Canterbury" qu'on puisse trouver sur le web.

  Ce site, très agréable à consulter est une mine d'informations sur les musiques et les musiciens de cette mouvance anglaise des seventies qui continuent à jouer et à enregistrer...

- Faux mouvements est un journal qui rapporte fidèlement la carrière de Robert Wyatt, depuis ses années d'enfance et sa découverte du jazz jusqu'à la sortie de Shleep en 1997.

  Ponctué par des extraits d'interview de R.W. ou d'amis musiciens, cette biographie est complétée par un index discographique très complet.

  Faux mouvements de Michael King aux éditions Camion blanc (1998).

- Depuis le lancement de ce site (octobre 2003), de nombreuses personnes m'ont contacté pour m'encourager, me signaler des omissions ou me faire des suggestions. Parmi celles-ci je souhaite spécialement remercier:

Hélène Collon	Dominique Fellmann	Philippe Renaud
Jan van Driel	François Grapard	Svenn Sivertssen
Michel Ramond	Jean-Philippe Ramos	Ferdinando Faraò
Philippe Paye	Daniel Mercurin	Alessandro Achilli
Aymeric Leroy	Bernard Tuyttens	David Greenberger
Chris Steyer	Olivier Fromentin	Alexis Reisenhofer
Stéphane Fougère	Frederic Janosy	Todd Beasley
Jean-Philippe Cimetière	Xavier Béal	Paul Feary
Marc-Olivier Waintraub	David Fenech	Tony Grippo
Jérôme Lefdup	Alan Bershaw

  ... qui ont contribué à enrichir le site depuis son lancement.

- Crédits des photos de la page d'accueil :
  - Robert Wyatt avec cigarette > photo sur note de pochette de The End Of An Ear
  - Soft Machine en concert > Jochen Mönch (pochette de Virtually)

- Robert Wyatt de face > Famiglia Trentotto (in Musiche n°17 - Primavera 1996)
- Robert Wyatt "à la casquette" > pochette de Bananamoon

Une discographie de

Robert Wyatt

ARCHIVE 6
au 1er juin 2026

Discographie

> Zoom

> Booklet

Tales Of Canterbury
1994

The Wilde Flowers

- Impotence (69) [H. Hopper/R. Wyatt]
- Those Words They Say (66) [H. Hopper]
- Memories (66) [H. Hopper]
- Don't Try To Change Me (65) [H. Hopper + G. Flight & R. Wyatt (words - second and third verses)]
- Parchman Farm (65) [B. White]
- Almost Grown (65) [C. Berry]
- She's Gone (65) [K. Ayers]
- Slow Walkin' Talk (65) [B. Hopper]
- He's Bad For You (65) [R. Wyatt]
- It's What I Feel (A Certain Kind) (65) [H. Hopper]
- Memories (Instrumental) (66) [H. Hopper]
- Never Leave Me (66) [H. Hopper]
- Time After Time (66) [H. Hopper]
- Just Where I Want (66) [H. Hopper]
- No Game When You Lose (66) [H. Hopper]
- Impotence (66) [H. Hopper/R. Wyatt]
- Why Do You Care (With Zobe) (68)
- The Pieman Cometh (With Zobe) (68)
- Summer Spirit (With Zobe) (68)
- She Loves To Hurt (69) [H. Hopper]
- The Big Show (69) [B. Hopper]
- Memories (69) [H. Hopper]

- Robert Wyatt - drums and voice

- Hugh Hopper - bass guitar
- Pye Hastings - guitar
- Brian Hopper guitar, voice, alto saxophone
- Richard Coughlan - drums
- Graham Flight - voice
- Richard Sinclair - guitar
- Kevin Ayers - voice
- Dave Lawrence - voice, guitar, bass guitar
- Bob Gilleson - drums
- Mike Ratledge - piano, organ, flute.

Enregistrements de 1965 à 1969.

Une édition spéciale - tirage limité à 2000 ex. - intitulée The Wilde Flowers Story - Brian's Tale publiée à la même date avec un livret de 13 pages retrace la génèse du groupe par Brian Hopper et comprend de nombreuses photos et documents.

- VOICEPRINT (VP 123) CD
- VOICEPRINT (VPB 123CD) CD

Critiques/Reviews

Lyrics

> Zoom

Canterburied Sounds - Vol.1
1998

Canterburied Sounds - Vol.1

- Feelin',Reelin',Squealin' (Caravan)
- Mummie [B. Hopper/R. Wyatt]
- Da-Da-Dee & Bolivar [T. Monk]
- Orientasian [B. Hopper]
- You Really Got Me [R. Davies]
- Thinking Of You Baby [D. Clark]
- Man In A Deaf Corner [B. Hopper, H. Hopper, M. Ratledge, R. Wyatt]
- If I Ever Leave You (Zobe)
- Stop Me And Play One
- Piano Standards 1 (Mike Ratledge)
- Belsize Parked [B. Hopper, H. Hopper, R. Wyatt]
- Summertime [G. Gershwin]

Dans l'ordre des morceaux :

- Caravan
- Robert Wyatt & Brian Hopper
- Mike Ratledge & Robert Wyatt
- Brian Hopper & Robert Wyatt
- Wilde Flowers
- Wilde Flowers
- Brian & Hugh Hopper, M. Ratledge & R.Wyatt
- Zobe - Brian's band
- Robert Wyatt and A Guitarist
- Mike Ratledge
- Brian & Hugh Hopper with R. Wyatt
- Caravan

Enregistrements de 1962 à 1964.

- VOICEPRINT (VP 201) CD

An Introduction To Canterburied Sounds

- That's Allright Mama
- Interview Brian & Hugh Hopper & Pye Hastings
- Tanglewood Tails

Extraits de morceaux tirés des 4 volumes de Canterburied Sounds entrecoupés de commentaires de Brian & Hugh Hopper et Pye Hastings.

> Zoom

An Introduction To Canterburied Sounds
1998

- Interview Brian & Hugh Hopper & Pye Hastings
- Thinking Of You, Baby
- Interview Brian & Hugh Hopper & Pye Hastings
- Man In A Deaf Corner
- Interview Brian & Hugh Hopper & Pye Hastings
- Summertime
- Interview Brian & Hugh Hopper & Pye Hastings
- Esther's Nose Job/interview Brian & Hugh Hopper & Pye Hastings
- interview Brian & Hugh Hopper & Pye Hastings
- Feelin', Reelin', Squealin'
- Interview Brian & Hugh Hopper & Pye Hastings
- Austin Cambridge (Caravan)

- VOICEPRINT (VPPROMO1) CD

> Zoom

Canterburied Sounds - Vol.2
1998

Canterburied Sounds - Vol.2

- Carazobe (Caravan & Zobe)
- Instant Pussy [R. Wyatt]
- Esther's Nose Job [M. Ratledge]
- Moorish [R. Wyatt/B. Hopper]
- Summertime [G. Gershwin]
- Indian Rope Man (Zobe)
- Drums Solo [R. Wyatt]
- Mirror For The Day (Pye Pastings)
- Love Song With Cello
- As I Feel I Die (Caravan)
- Where But For Caravan Would I? (Caravan)

Dans l'ordre des morceaux :

- Caravan & Zobe
- Robert Wyatt
- Soft Machine
- Robert Wyatt & Brian Hopper
- Mike Ratledge & Robert Wyatt
- Zobe - Brian Hopper's outfit
- Robert Wyatt
- Pye Hastings
- Robert Wyatt plus others
- Caravan
- Caravan

Enregistrements de 1963 à 1969.

- VOICEPRINT (VP 202) CD

> Zoom

Canterburied Sounds - Vol.3
1998

Canterburied Sounds - Vol.3

- Slow Walkin' Talk (68) [B. Hopper]
- Frenetica (63/64) [M. Ratledge, R. Wyatt]
- Idle Chat [M. Ratledge, R. Wyatt]
- 1/4 Blues Thing In F [M. Ratledge, R. Wyatt]
- More Idle Chat Tape (Zobe)
- The Pieman Cometh (Zobe)
- Llu-Ba (63) [B. Hopper, H. Hopper, R. Wyatt]
- Kansas City/Rip It Up (B. & H. Hopper)
- That's Alright Mama (B. & H. Hopper)
- Tanglewood Tails [B. Hopper, H. Hopper, R. Wyatt]
- The Big Show/Central Park West/Songs (Zobe)
- If I Could Do It All Over Again I'd Do It All Over You (Caravan)

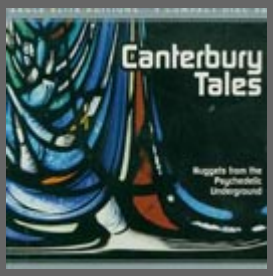
Dans l'ordre des morceaux :

- Robert Wyatt & Jimi Hendrix
- Mike Ratledge & Robert Wyatt
- Mike Ratledge & Robert Wyatt
- Mike Ratledge & Robert Wyatt
- Zobe
- Zobe
- R. Wyatt, Hugh & Brian Hopper + (?) guitarist
- Brian & Hugh Hopper with Pete Lawson
- Brian & Hugh Hopper
- Robert Wyatt, Brian & Hugh Hopper - Zobe
- Caravan

Enregistrements de 1963 à 1968.

- VOICEPRINT (VP 203) CD

> Zoom



Canterburied Sounds - Vol.4

- Slow Walkin' Talk (Zobe)
- Some Of The Time [M. Ratledge, B. Hopper, R. Wyatt]
- Ghosts [A. Ayler]
- With An ear To The Ground You Can Make It (Caravan)
- Dalmore Rode [B. Hopper, R. Wyatt]
- Piano Standards 2 (64) (Mike Ratledge)
- Johnny B. Goode (64) [C. Berry]
- Cecillian (62) [M. Ratledge, B. Hopper, H. Hopper, R. Wyatt]
- Austin Cambridge (Caravan)

Dans l'ordre des morceaux :

- Zobe
- B. Hopper, M. Ratledge, R. Wyatt & Guitarist
- M. Ratledge, R. Wyatt & Guitarist
- Caravan
- Robert Wyatt and Brian Hopper
- Mike Ratledge
- Wilde Flowers
- B. & H. Hopper, M. Ratledge and R. Wyatt
- Caravan

Canterburied Sounds - Vol.4
1998

> Zoom

Canterbury Tales
2001

Canterbury Tales/Nuggets From The Psychedelic Underground

- Portrait Of A Shrinking Man (National Health)
- The Hands Of Che Quevara (Jakko)
- The Piano Player (Dave Sinclair)
- A Potted History (Richard Sinclair And Hugh Hopper)
- Wise Man In Your Heart (Extract) (The Magik Brothers)
- Unmasked [Robert Wyatt]
- Strawberry Fields Forever (Pip Pyle And Friends)
- Leeway (Brian Hopper And Robert Fenner)
- Pack Light (Hugh Hopper And Lisa Klossner)
- Pot-Head Pixies (Gong)
- Jocelyn (Pip Pyles Equipe Out)
- If I Could Do It All Over Again Id Do It All Over You (Caravan)
- Golden Section (Hugh Hopper Band)
- Those Words They Say [Wilde Flowers]
- Memories [Wilde Flowers]
- As Long As He Lies Perfectly Still (Jakko Dave Stewart Hugh)
- Lizard On A Rock (Rick Biddulph)
- Sometimes It Is (Brian Hopper)
- Was A Friend
- Esthers Nose Job (Extract)
- When Your Love Falls Down (The Happy Accidents)
- Midnight Judo (Pip Pyles Equipe Out)
- Time After Time (Wilde Flowers)
- Zep-Tepi (Elton Dean)
- Arriving Twice (National Health)
- I Never Glid Before (Gong)
- A Million Reasons Why (Phil Manzanera)
- Foetal Fanfare Fandango (Pip Pyles Equipe Out)
- Slow Walkin Talk [B. Hopper]
- Tales Of A Damson Knight (National Health)
- I Wanted A Child (Jakko)
- Moon Over Man (Dave Sinclair)
- Scat Up A Tree (Hugh Hopper)
- Old Chrome Moon (Hugh Hopper)
- I See You (Hugh Hopper And Lisa Klossner)
- Kew Rhone (John Greaves)
- Herbaceous Border (The Magick Brothers)
- The Big Show [Wilde Flowers]
- Its Flotsam And Jetsam Foreshore (Brian Hopper And R Fenner)

Enregistrements de 1962 à 1964.

- VOICEPRINT (VP 204) CD

- EAGLE RECORDS (EEECD006) 3xCD

> Zoom

The Wilde Flowers
2001

The Wilde Flowers (Vinyl Reissue)

- Impotence
- Those Words They Say
- Don't Try To Change Me
- Parchman Farm
- Almost Grown
- She's Gone
- Slow Walkin' Talk
- He's Bad For You
- It's What I Feel (A Certain Kind)
- Never Leave Me
- Just Where I Want
- Time After Time
- No Game When You Lose

- VINYL LOVERS (900723) LP

> Zoom

Canterburied Sounds
4 CD Box Set
2013

- Why Do You Care
- The Pieman Cometh
- Summer Spirit
- She Loves To Hurt
- The Big Show
- Memories

Canterburied Sounds 4 CD Box Set

Disc 1
- Feelin',Reelin',Squealin' (Caravan)
- Mummie [B. Hopper/R. Wyatt]
- Da-Da-Dee & Bolivar [T. Monk]
- Orientasian [B. Hopper]
- You Really Got Me [R. Davies]
- Thinking Of You Baby [D. Clark]
- Man In A Deaf Corner [B. Hopper, H. Hopper, M. Ratledge, R. Wyatt]
- If I Ever Leave You (Zobe)
- Stop Me And Play One
- Piano Standards 1 (Mike Ratledge)
- Belsize Parked [B. Hopper, H. Hopper, R. Wyatt]
- Summertime [G. Gershwin]

Disc 2
- Carazobe (Caravan & Zobe)
- Instant Pussy [R. Wyatt]
- Esther's Nose Job [M. Ratledge]
- Moorish [R. Wyatt/B. Hopper]
- Summertime [G. Gershwin]
- Indian Rope Man (Zobe)
- Drums Solo [R. Wyatt]
- Mirror For The Day (Pye Pastings)
- Love Song With Cello
- As I Feel I Die (Caravan)
- Where But For Caravan Would I? (Caravan)

Disc 3
- Slow Walkin' Talk (68) [B. Hopper]
- Frenetica (63/64) [M. Ratledge, R. Wyatt]
- Idle Chat [M. Ratledge, R. Wyatt]
- 1/4 Blues Thing In F [M. Ratledge, R. Wyatt]
- More Idle Chat Tape (Zobe)
- The Pieman Cometh (Zobe)
- Llu-Ba (63) [B. Hopper, H. Hopper, R. Wyatt]
- Kansas City/Rip It Up (B. & H. Hopper)
- That's Alright Mama (B. & H. Hopper)
- Tanglewood Tails [B. Hopper, H. Hopper, R. Wyatt]
- The Big Show/Central Park West/Songs (Zobe)
- If I Could Do It All Over Again I'd Do It All Over You (Caravan)

Disc 4
- Slow Walkin' Talk (Zobe)
- Some Of The Time [M. Ratledge, B. Hopper, R. Wyatt]
- Ghosts [A. Ayler]
- With An ear To The Ground You Can Make It (Caravan)
- Dalmore Rode [B. Hopper, R. Wyatt]
- Piano Standards 2 (64) (Mike Ratledge)
- Johnny B. Goode (64) [C. Berry]
- Cecillian (62) [M. Ratledge, B. Hopper, H. Hopper, R. Wyatt]
- Austin Cambridge (Caravan)

4 CD Box Set - Réédition des 4 CD parus en 1998.

- FLOATING WORLD/VOICEPRINT (7201012) 4xCD

The Wilde Flowers (Reissue)

Disc 1
- Impotence [H. Hopper/R. Wyatt]
- Those Words They Say [B. Hopper]
- Memories [H. Hopper]
- Don't Try To Change Me

Disc One
1. Impotence
- Robert Wyatt - drums & voice
- Hugh Hopper - bass guitar

> Zoom 1 2 3 4 5 6 7 8 9 10 11 12

The Wilde Flowers (Reedition)
2015

[H. Hopper + G. Flight & R. Wyatt (words - second and third verses)]
- Parchman Farm [B. White]
- Almost Grown [C. Berry]
- She's Gone [K. Ayers]
- Slow Walkin' Talk [B. Hopper]
- He's Bad For You [R. Wyatt]
- It's What I Feel (A Certain Kind) [H. Hopper]
- Memories (Instrumental) [H. Hopper]
- Never Leave Me [H. Hopper]
- Time After Time [H. Hopper]
- Just Where I Want [H. Hopper]
- No Game When You Lose [H. Hopper]
- Impotence (alt. version) [H. Hopper/R. Wyatt]
- Why Do You Care (With Zobe)
- The Pieman Cometh (With Zobe)
- Summer Spirit (With Zobe)
- She Loves To Hurt [H. Hopper]
- The Big Show [B. Hopper]
- Memories [H. Hopper]

Disc 2
- The Pieman Cometh [B. Hopper]
- Mummie [R. Wyatt/B. Hopper]
- That's Alright Mama [A. 'Big Boy' Crudup]
- Orientasian [B. Hopper]
- Frenetica [M. Ratledge/R. Wyatt]
- 3/4 Blues Thing in F [M. Ratledge/R. Wyatt]
- Slow Walkin' Talk [B. Hopper]
- Man in a Deaf Corner[B. & H. Hopper/M. Ratledge/R. Wyatt]
- Summertime [G. Gershwin]
- Belsize Parked [B. & H. Hopper/R. Wyatt]
- Where But For Caravan Would I? [B. Hopper/P. Hastings/R. Sinclair/ R. Coughlan/D. Sinclair]
- Hope For Hapiness [B. Hopper]

- Pye Hastings - guitar
Recorded Regent Sound Studios - London. 6th August 1969

2. Those Words They Say
- Robert Wyatt - voice & tambourine
- Brian Hopper - guitar & backing vocals
- Hugh Hopper - bass guitar
- Richard Coughlan - drums
Recorded: Wout Steenhuis Studio, Broadstairs, Kent. Spring 1968

3. Memories
- Robert Wyatt - voice
- Brian Hopper - guitar
- Hugh Hopper - bass guitar
- Richard Coughlan - drums
Recorded: Wout Steenhuis Studio, Broadstairs, Kent. Spring 1968

4. Don't Try To Change Me
- Robert Wyatt - drums & percussion
- Graham Flight - voice
- Brian Hopper - lead guitar
- Hugh Hopper - bass guitar
- Richard Sinclair - rhythm guitar
Recorded:Sellindge, Kent. Automn 1965

5. Parchman Farm
- Robert Wyatt - drums & percussion
- Kevin Ayers - voice
- Hugh Hopper - bass guitar
- Richard Sinclair - rhythm guitar
- Brian Hopper - alto saxophone
Recorded: Wout Steenhuis Studio, Broadstairs, Kent. 16th March 1965

6. Almost Grown
- Robert Wyatt - drums & backing vocals
- Brian Hopper - lead guitar & vocals
- Hugh Hopper - bass guitar
- Kevin Ayers - backing vocals
Recorded: Wout Steenhuis Studio, Broadstairs, Kent. 16th March 1965

7. She's Gone
- Robert Wyatt - drums
- Kevin Ayers - voice
- Brian Hopper - lead guitar
- Richard Sinclair - rhythm guitar
- Hugh Hopper - bass guitar
Recorded: Wout Steenhuis Studio, Broadstairs, Kent. 16th March 1965

8. Slow Walkin'Talk
- Robert Wyatt - drums & percussion
- Hugh Hopper - bass guitar
- Richard Sinclair - rhythm guitar
- Graham Flight - voice
- Brian Hopper - lead guitar
Recorded:Sellindge, Kent. Summer/Automn 1965

9. He's Bad For You
- Robert Wyatt - voice & drums
- Graham Flight - voice
- Brian Hopper - alto saxophone
- Richard Sinclair - rhythm guitar
- Hugh Hopper - bass guitar
Recorded:Sellindge, Kent. Summer/Automn 1965

10. It's What I Feel (A Certain Kind)
- Robert Wyatt - drums & backing vocals
- Richard Sinclair - voice & guitar
- Hugh Hopper - bass guitar
- Brian Hopper - guitar & backing vocals
Recorded:Sellindge, Kent. Summer/Automn 1965

11. Memories (Instrumental)
- Robert Wyatt - drums
- Brian Hopper - lead guitar
- Hugh Hopper - bass guitar
- Richard Sinclair - rhythm guitar
Recorded: Wout Steenhuis Studio, Broadstairs, Kent. 16th March 1965

12. Never Leave Me
- Robert Wyatt - voice & tambourine
- Brian Hopper - guitar & backing

vocals
- Hugh Hopper - bass guitar
- Richard Sinclair - rhythm guitar
Recorded: Wout Steenhuis Studio, Broadstairs, Kent. Spring 1966

13. Time After Time
- Robert Wyatt - voice
- Brian Hopper - guitar
- Hugh Hopper - bass
- Richard Coughlan - drums
Recorded: Wout Steenhuis Studio, Broadstairs, Kent. Spring 1966

14. Just Where I Want
- Robert Wyatt - voice
- Brian Hopper - guitar
- Hugh Hopper - bass
- Richard Coughlan - drums
Recorded: Wout Steenhuis Studio, Broadstairs, Kent. Spring 1966

15. No Game When You Lose
- Robert Wyatt - voice & tambourine
- Brian Hopper - guitar
- Hugh Hopper - bass
- Richard Coughlan - drums
Recorded: Wout Steenhuis Studio, Broadstairs, Kent. Spring 1966

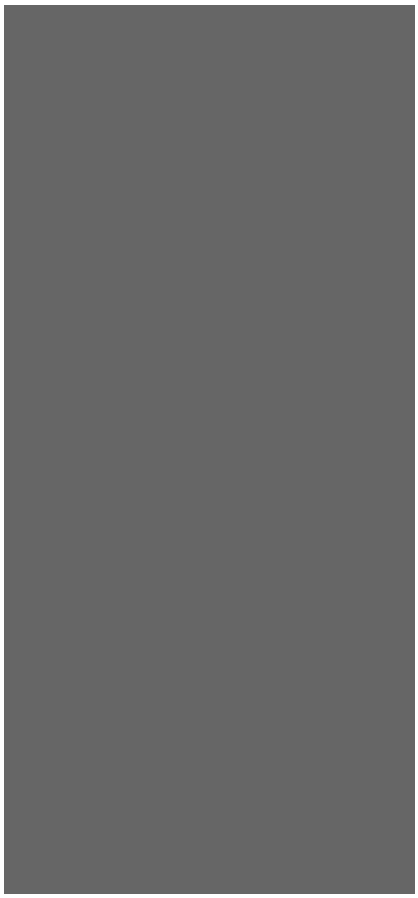
16. Impotence (alt. version)
- Robert Wyatt - voice
- Brian Hopper - guitar
- Hugh Hopper - bass
- Richard Coughlan - drums
Recorded: Wout Steenhuis Studio, Broadstairs, Kent. Spring 1966

20. She Loves To Hurt
- Robert Wyatt - drums & backing vocals
- Pye Hastings - voice & 12 string guitar
- Hugh Hopper - bass guitar
- Brian Hopper - guitar
Recorded Regent Sound Studios - London. 6th August 1969

21. The Big Show
- Robert Wyatt - voice & drums
- Brian Hopper - soprano saxophone & guitar
- Hugh Hopper - bass guitar
- Mike Ratledge - flute
Recorded Regent Sound Studios - London. 6th August 1969

22. Memories (alt. version)
- Robert Wyatt - voice & drums
- Hugh Hopper - bass guitar & acoustic guitar
- Mike Ratledge - piano & organ
Recorded Regent Sound Studios - London. 6th August 1969

Disc Two
1. The Pieman Cometh
Performed by Brian Hopper and Robert Wyatt
Recorded 2003



2. Mummie
Performed by Robert Wyatt and Brian Hopper
Recorded 1962

4. Orientasian
Performed by Brian Hopper and Robert Wyatt
Recorded 1963

5. Frenetica
Performed by Mike Ratledge and Robert Wyatt
Recorded 1963

6. 3/4 Blues Thing in F
Performed by Mike Ratledge and Robert Wyatt
Recorded 1963/64

7. Slow Walkin' Talk
Performed by Robert Wyatt and friends
Recorded 1968

8. Man in a Deaf Corner
Performed by Brian & Hugh Hopper, Mike Ratledge & Robert Wyatt
Recorded 1963/64

9. Summertime
Performed by Mike Ratledge and Robert Wyatt
Recorded 1962/63

10. Belsize Parked
Performed by Brian & Hugh Hopper & Robert Wyatt
Recorded 1963/64

12. Hope For Happiness
Performed by Brian Hopper & Robert Wyatt
Recorded 2003

Personnel:
- Robert Wyatt - vocals, drums, percussion, cornet, piano, keyboards,
- Brian Hopper - guitar, soprano, alto and tenor saxes, flute, keyboards, audio-programming & backing vocals
- Hugh Hopper - bass guitar, cello,
- Mike Ratledge - piano

- FLOATING WORLD RECORDS (FLOATD6250) 2xCD

> Zoom 1 2 3

1967

Love Makes Sweet Music

- Love Makes Sweet Music [K. Ayers]
- Feelin 'Reelin Squeelin' [K. Ayers]

- Robert Wyatt - drums, vocals

- David Allen - guitar, whistle
- Mike Ratledge - piano, organ
- Kevin Ayers - bass, guitar, vocals

On B-side Feelin' Reelin' Squeelin' is credited to Ellidge (Robert Wyatt) and not Ayers !

- POLYDOR (BM 56151) S

Critiques/Reviews

Lyrics

> Zoom 1 2 3

1967 (or 1969 ?)

Shadows In The Sun (Feelin' Reelin' Squeelin') / Beautiful (Soft Machine)

- Shadows In The Sun [The Beautiful]
- Walter's Dream

"Los Angeles-based producer and impresario Kim Fowley came to London in 1967 and managed to insert himself behind the controls for the first recordings of the Soft Machine, darlings of the nascent London psychedelic music scene.

Sneaking the tapes, still piping hot, back to Los Angeles, Fowley released Feelin' Reelin' Squeelin' (renamed Shadows in the sun) under the fabricated name Beautiful on the one-off Cyclops label."

- CYCLOPS RECORDS (CS-71X) S

> Zoom 1 2 3

Why Are We Sleeping?

- Why Are We Sleeping?
- Joy Of A Toy

- Robert Wyatt - drums, vocals

- Mike Ratledge - organ
- Kevin Ayers - bass, guitar, vocals

Promo Version.

- PROBE (CP-452) S
- HIT (1647) S

> Zoom

1968

> Zoom 1 2

> Zoom 1 2 3

1968

The Soft Machine

- Hope For Happiness [B. Hopper, K. Ayers, M. Ratledge]
- Joy Of A Toy [K. Ayers, M. Ratledge]
- Hope For Happiness (Reprise) [B. Hopper, K. Ayers, M. Ratledge]
- Why Am I So Short? [H. Hopper, K. Ayers, M. Ratledge]
- So Boot If At All [K. Ayers, M. Ratledge, R. Wyatt]
- A Certain Kind [H. Hopper]
- Save Yourself [R. Wyatt]
- Priscilla [M. Ratledge, K. Ayers, R. Wyatt]
- Lullabye Letter [K. Ayers]
- We Did It Again [K. Ayers]
- Plus Belle Qu'une Poubelle [K. Ayers]
- Why Are We Sleeping? [M. Ratledge, K. Ayers, R. Wyatt]
- Box 25/4 Lid [M. Ratledge, H. Hopper]

- Robert Wyatt - drums, vocals

- Kevin Ayers - bass
- Mike Ratledge, organ
- Hugh Hopper (on Box 25/4)
- Cake - backing vocals (on Plus Belle qu'Une Poubelle)

Enregistré à Record Plant, New York City, avril 1968.

Hope For Happiness est signé par Hugh Hopper, Kevin Ayers et Mike Ratledge alors que les versions de Daevid Allen - Brainville Live In The UK et If Ever I Am sont signées par Brian Hopper qui a effectivement composé et déposé les droits de ce morceau.

- PROBE (CPLP4500) LP
- PROBE (CPLP4500X) LP
- BIG BEAT (WIKA 57) LP
- PROBE (4500HLP) (Reissue) LP
- BIG BEAT (WIKC57) Cassette
- SUNDAZED MUSIC (SC6305) CD
- POLYDOR (532 050-5) CD
- ELEMENTAL MUSIC (700198) LP

Critiques/Reviews

Vidéos

Lyrics

> Zoom

Autographes (Mike & Hugh)

> Zoom

> Zoom

Edition française du 1er album Volume One.

- BARCLAY FRANCE (920082) LP

Vidéos

> Zoom

1968

Edition japonaise du 1er album Volume One.

Réédition en 2006 par Universal/Geffen.

- PELOV (SR303) LP
- UNIVERSAL/GEFFEN (UICY-9687) CD

> Zoom

1968

> Zoom

1969

> Zoom 1 2 3

> Zoom

1969

The Soft Machine - Volume Two

- Pataphysical Introduction, Pt. 1 [R. Wyatt]
- Concise British Alphabet, Pt. 1 [H. Hopper-arr R. Wyatt]
- Hibou, Anemone And Bear [M. Ratledge, R. Wyatt]
- Concise British Alphabet, Pt. 2 [H. Hopper-arr R. Wyatt]
- Hulloder [H. Hopper-arr R. Wyatt]
- Dada Was Here [H. Hopper-arr R. Wyatt]
- Thank You Pierrot Lunaire [H. Hopper-arr R. Wyatt]
- Have You Ever Bean Green? [H. Hopper-arr R. Wyatt]
- Pataphysical Introduction, Pt. 2 [R. Wyatt]
- Out Of Tunes [M. Ratledge, H. Hopper, R. Wyatt]
- As Long As He Lies Perfectly Still [M. Ratledge, R. Wyatt]
- Dedicated to You But You Weren't Listening [H. Hopper]
- Fire Engine Passing With Bells Clanging [M. Ratledge]
- Pig [M. Ratledge]
- Orange Skin Food [M. Ratledge]
- A Door Opens And Closes [M. Ratledge]
- 10:30 Returns To The Bedroom [M. Ratledge, H. Hopper, R. Wyatt]

Edition hollandaise du 1er album Volume One, réservée aux abonnés du Record Club.

- EMI (D 109/5) LP

- Robert Wyatt - drums, vocals

- Mike Ratledge - organ, piano
- Hugh Hopper - bass, alto sax, acoustic guitar
- Brian Hopper - tenor sax, soprano sax

Enregistré à Olympic Sound, février-mars 1969.

- PROBE (SPB 1002) LP
- PROBE (CPLP 4505) LP
- BARCLAY (921 019) LP
- BIG BEAT (WIKA58) LP
- ONE WAY RECORD (22065) CD
- POLYDOR (532 050-6) CD

Critiques/Reviews

Vidéos

Lyrics

> Zoom

The Soft Machine (Dutch Edition - Horzu)

- Hibou Anemone And Bear
- Dada Was Here
- Out Of Tunes
- As Long As He Lies Perfectly Still
- Dedicated To You But You Weren't Listening
- Hope For Happiness

Edition hollandaise comportant des morceaux des deux premiers albums Volume One et Volume Two.

- STATESIDE (5C054-91600) LP
- HORZU (SHZE 908 BL) LP

> Zoom

1969

- Joy Of A Toy
- Hope For Happines
- Plus Belle Qu'une Poubelle
- Why Are We Sleeping?
- Box 25/4 Lid

> Zoom

1969 (?)

The Soft Machine (Dutch Edition - SR)

- Hibou Anemone And Bear
- Dada Was Here
- Out Of Tunes
- As Long As He Lies Perfectly Still
- Dedicated To You But You Weren't Listening
- Hope For Happiness
- Joy Of A Toy
- Hope For Happines
- Plus Belle Qu'une Poubelle
- Why Are We Sleeping?
- Box 25/4 Lid

Edition hollandaise comportant (sous réserve) des morceaux des deux premiers albums Volume One et Volume Two.

- SR INTERNATIONAL (20165) LP

> Zoom 1 2

1969

Volumes One And Two

Disc 1
- Hope For Happiness
- Joy Of A Toy
- Hope For Happiness (reprise)
- Why Am I So Short?
- So Boot If At All
- A Certain Kind
- Save Yourself
- Priscilla
- Lullabye Letter
- We Did It Again
- Plus Belle Qu'une Poubelle
- Why Are We Sleeping?
- Box 25/4 Lid

Disc 2
- Pataphysical Introduction-Pt. I
- A Concise British Alphabet-Pt. I
- Hibou, Anemone And Bear
- A Concise British Alphabet-Pt. II
- Hulloder
- Dada Was Here
- Thank You Pierrot Lunaire
- Have You Ever Bean Green?
- Pataphysical Introduction, Pt. II
- Out Of Tunes
- As Long as He Lies Perfectly Still
- Dedicated To You But You Weren't Listening
- Fire Engine Passing With Bells Clanging
- Pig
- Orange Skin Food
- A Door Opens And Closes
- 10:30 Returns To The Bedroom

Réédition des deux premiers albums Volume One et Volume Two.

- PROBE (GTSP204) LP
- BIG BEAT (CDWIKD 920) 2xCD

Volumes One And Two (Italian Edition)

Disc 1
- Hope For Happiness

Réédition italienne des deux premiers albums Volume One et Volume Two.

> Zoom

1970

- Joy Of A Toy
- Hope For Happiness (Reprise)
- Why Am I So Short?
- So Boot If At All
- A Certain Kind
- Save Yourself
- Priscilla
- Lullabye Letter
- We Did It Again
- Plus Belle Qu'une Poubelle
- Why Are We Sleeping?
- Box 25/4 Lid

Disc 2
- Pataphysical Introduction-Pt. I
- A Concise British Alphabet-Pt. I
- Hibou, Anemone And Bear
- A Concise British Alphabet-Pt. II
- Hulloder
- Dada Was Here
- Thank You Pierrot Lunaire
- Have You Ever Bean Green?
- Pataphysical Introduction, Pt. II
- Out Of Tunes
- As Long As He Lies Perfectly Still
- Dedicated To You But You Weren't Listening
- Fire Engine Passing With Bells Clanging
- Pig
- Orange Skin Food
- A Door Opens And Closes
- 10:30 Returns To The Bedroom

- PROBE (C154-50185/86) 2xLP

> Zoom 1 2 3

Third

Disc 1
- Facelift [H. Hopper]
- Slightly All The Time [M. Ratledge]

Disc 2
- Moon In June [R. Wyatt]
- Out-Bloody-Rageous [M. Ratledge]

- Robert Wyatt - drums, vocals, piano, organ, bass

- Mike Ratledge - organ, piano
- Hugh Hopper - bass
- Elton Dean - alto sax, saxello
- Rab Spall - electric violin

Enregistré à I.B.C. Recording Studio, mai 1970.

- CBS (66246) 2xLP
- SONY (SONP 50336-7) 2xLP
- BARCLAY (0920 224/225) 2xLP
- COLUMBIA (CGK 30339) CD
- COLUMBIA (471407 2) CD

Critiques/Reviews

Vidéo1 et Vidéo 2

Lyrics

> Zoom

1970

Flyer published upon the release of Third

> Zoom

> Zoom

1971

Fourth

- Teeth [M. Ratledge]
- Kings And Queens [H. Hopper]
- Fletcher's Blemish [E. Dean]
- Virtually, Pt. 1 [H. Hopper]
- Virtually, Pt. 2 [H. Hopper]
- Virtually, Pt. 3 [H. Hopper]
- Virtually, Pt. 4 [H. Hopper]

> Zoom

- Robert Wyatt - drums

- Mike Ratledge - organ, piano
- Hugh Hopper - bass
- Elton Dean - alto sax, saxello
  +
- Roy Babbington - double bass
- Nick Evans - trombone
- Alan Skidmore - tenor sax
- Jimmy Hastings - bass clarinet
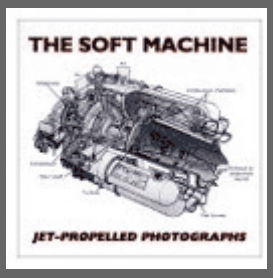
- Marc Charig - cornet

Enregistré à Olympic Studios, London, 16, 17, 18 novembre 1970.

- COLUMBIA (30754) LP
- CBS (64280) LP
- ONE WAY (26254) CD
- SONY (ESCA 5417) CD

Critiques/Reviews



> Zoom

Jet-Propelled Photographs (At The Beginning)

> Zoom

> Zoom

> Zoom

> Zoom

> Zoom 1 2 3

- That's How Much I Need You Now [R. Wyatt]
- Save Yourself [R. Wyatt]
- I Should've Known [H. Hopper]
- Jet-Propelled Photograph [K. Ayers]
- When I Don't Want You [H. Hopper]
- Memories [H. Hopper]
- You Don't Remember [R. Wyatt/ D. Allen]
- She's Gone [K. Ayers]
- I'd Rather Be With You [K. Ayers]

- Robert Wyatt - drums, vocals

- Daevid Allen - guitar
- Mike Ratledge - piano, organ
- Kevin Ayers - bass, vocals

Titres enregistrés à Londres en avril 1967 et produits par Giorgio Gomelsky. Antérieurs au 1er album "officiel", ils seront très souvent réédités à partir de 1971 sous différentes appellations.

- CHARLY (CR30196) LP
- CHARLY (2933 212) LP
- CHARLY (CD 197) CD
- GET BACK (GET560) LP
- VARESE SARABANDE (302061264) CD
- ATLAS (RKCD442)
- PICCADILLY (PIC 3331) LP
- NEON (NE 34531) CD
- BYG (529 907) LP
- METRONOME (200 137) LP
- DRESSED TO KILL (METRO380) CD
- BROOK (1037) CD

Vidéos

Lyrics

> Zoom

> Zoom 1 2

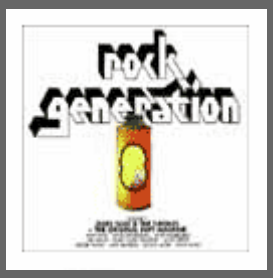
> Zoom

> Zoom

> Zoom

> Zoom

> Zoom

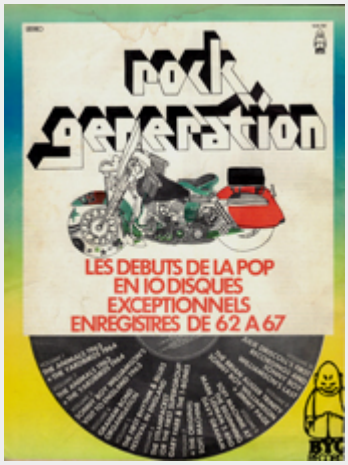


> Zoom 1 2

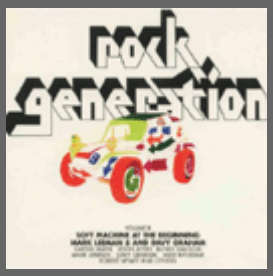
> Zoom

> Zoom 1 2

1971



Rock Generation - Vol. 7



Side 1
GARY FAR & THE T-BONES
- How Many More Times
- I'm A Lover Not A Fighter
- Dearest Darling
- You Don't Love Me
- Quit Teasing Me Baby
- Louisiana Red

Side 2
THE ORIGINAL SOFT MACHINE
- That's How Much I Need You Now
- Save Yourself
- I Should've Known
- Jet-Propelled Photograph

Reprises des titres de la 1ère face de l'album Jet-Propelled Photographs.

- BYG (5529.707 T) LP
- SPALAX (14556) CD

> Zoom 1 2

1971

Rock Generation - Vol. 8

Side 1
SOFT MACHINE AT THE BEGINING
- When I Don't Want You
- Memories
- You Don't Remember
- She's Gone
- I'd Rather Be With You

Side 2
MARC LEEMAN 5 AND DAVID GRAHAM
- Portland Fair
- When Did You Leave Heaven
- Blues Raga

Reprises des titres de la seconde face de l'album Jet-Propelled Photographs.

- BYG (5529.708 T) LP
- SPALAX (14557) CD

> Zoom

1973

The Soft Machine (US Reissue)

Disc 1
- Hope For Happiness
- Joy Of A Toy
- Hope For Happiness (reprise)
- Why Am I So Short?
- So Boot If At All
- A Certain Kind
- Save Yourself
- Priscilla
- Lullabye Letter
- We Did It Again
- Plus Belle Qu'une Poubelle
- Why Are We Sleeping
- Box 25/4 Lid

Disc 2
- Pataphysical Introduction, Pt. 1

Réédition américaine des deux premiers albums Volume One et Volume Two.

- ABC COMMAND (RSSD 964-2)
  2xLP

- Concise British Alphabet, Pt. 1
- Hibou, Anemone And Bear
- Concise British Alphabet, Pt. 2
- Hulloder
- Dada Was Here
- Thank You Pierrot Lunaire
- Have You Ever Bean Green?
- Pataphysical Introduction, Pt. 2
- Out Of Tunes
- As Long as He Lies Perfectly Still
- Dedicated to You But You Weren't Listening
- Fire Engine Passing With Bells Clanging
- Pig
- Orange Skin Food
- Door Opens And Closes
- 10:30 Returns To The Bedroom

> Zoom

1973

The Soft Machine Vol.1 (Record Bazaar)

- Hope For Happiness
- Joy Of A Toy
- Hope For Happiness (reprise)
- Why Am I So Short?
- So Boot If At All
- A Certain Kind
- Save Yourself
- Priscilla
- Lullabye Letter
- We Did It Again
- Plus Belle Qu'une Poubelle
- Why Are We Sleeping
- Box 25/4 Lid

Réédition du premier album Volume One.

- ABC RECORDS (70-RB73) LP

> Zoom 1 2 3 4

1975

Architects Of Space Time

Disc 1
- Hope For Happiness
- Joy Of A Toy
- Hope For Happiness (reprise)
- Why Am I So Short?
- So Boot If At All
- A Certain Kind
- Save Yourself
- Priscilla
- Lullabye Letter
- We Did It Again
- Plus Belle Qu'une Poubelle
- Why Are We Sleeping
- Box 25/4 Lid

Disc 2
- Pataphysical Introduction, Pt. 1
- Concise British Alphabet, Pt. 1
- Hibou, Anemone And Bear
- Concise British Alphabet, Pt. 2
- Hulloder
- Dada Was Here
- Thank You Pierrot Lunaire
- Have You Ever Bean Green?
- Pataphysical Introduction, Pt. 2
- Out Of Tunes
- As Long As He Lies Perfectly Still
- Dedicated To You But You Weren't Listening
- Fire Engine Passing With Bells Clanging
- Pig
- Orange Skin Food
- Door Opens And Closes
- 10:30 Returns To The Bedroom

Réédition française des deux premiers albums Volume One et Volume Two.

- ATLANTIC (60113) 2xLP

Milestones

> Zoom

1975

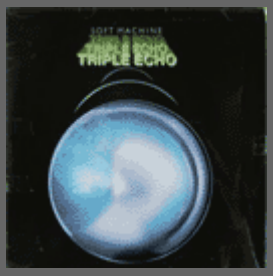
Disc 1
- Hope For Happiness
- Joy Of A Toy
- Hope For Happiness (reprise)
- Why Am I So Short?
- So Boot If At All
- A Certain Kind
- Save Yourself
- Priscilla
- Lullabye Letter
- We Did It Again
- Plus Belle Qu'une Poubelle
- Why Are We Sleeping
- Box 25/4 Lid

Disc 2
- Pataphysical Introduction, Pt. 1
- Concise British Alphabet, Pt. 1
- Hibou, Anemone And Bear
- Concise British Alphabet, Pt. 2
- Hulloder
- Dada Was Here
- Thank You Pierrot Lunaire
- Have You Ever Bean Green?
- Pataphysical Introduction, Pt. 2
- Out Of Tunes
- As Long as He Lies Perfectly Still
- Dedicated To You But You Weren't Listening
- Fire Engine Passing With Bells Clanging
- Pig
- Orange Skin Food
- Door Opens And Closes
- 10:30 Returns To The Bedroom

Réédition hollandaise des deux premiers albums Volume One et Volume Two.

- PROBE (SC-184-50) 2xLP

> Zoom 1 2



1976

We Did It Again

- Hope For Happiness
- Joy Of A Toy
- Hope For Happiness (reprise)
- Why Am I So Short?
- So Boot If At All
- A Certain Kind
- Save Yourself
- Priscilla
- Lullabye Letter
- We Did It Again
- Plus Belle Qu'une Poubelle
- Why Are We Sleeping?
- Box 25/4 Lid

Réédition hollandaise du 1er album Volume One sous le titre We Did It Again.

- ABC RECORDS (27 135ET) LP

> Zoom

1977

Triple Echo

Disc 1
- Love Makes Sweet Music
- Feelin' Reelin' Squeelin'
- Memories
- She's Gone
- Why Am I So Short?
- So Boot If At All
- A Certain Kind
- We Did It Again
- Plus Belle Qu'une Poubelle
- Why Are We Sleeping?
- A Concise British Alphabet - Part 2
- Hulloder
- Dada Was Here
- Thank You Pierrot Lunaire
- Have You Ever Bean Grean?
- Pataphysical Introduction - Part 2
- As Long As He Lies Perfectly Still
- Dedicated To You, But You Weren't Listening

Disc 2
- The Moon In June
- Esther's Nose Job
- Mousetrap
- Noisette
- Backwards
- Mousetrap (reprise)
- Slightly All The Time

- Robert Wyatt - drums, vocals

- Kevin Ayers - bass, vocals
- Mike Ratledge - organ, electric piano
- Hugh Hopper - bass
- Elton Dean - alto sax, saxello, electric piano
- Phil Howard - drums
- John Marshall - drums
- Karl Jenkins - sax, oboe, piano, keyboards
- Roy Babbington - bass, double bass
- Allan Holdsworth - guitar
- John Etheridge - guitar
- Alan Wakeman - saxes

Compilation.

- HARVEST (SHTW800) 3xLP

- Out Bloody Rageous
- Eamonn Andrews

Disc 3
- Teeth
- Kings And Queens
- All White
- Bone
- Stanley Stamps Gibbon Album
- Carol Ann
- Hazard Profile - Part 1
- The Tale Of Taliesin

> Zoom

1977

Soft Machine - Volume Two

- Pataphysical Introduction, Pt. 1
- Concise British Alphabet, Pt. 1
- Hibou, Anemone And Bear
- Concise British Alphabet, Pt. 2
- Hulloder
- Dada Was Here
- Thank You Pierrot Lunaire
- Have You Ever Bean Green?
- Pataphysical Introduction, Pt. 2
- Out Of Tunes
- As Long As He Lies Perfectly Still
- Dedicated To You But You Weren't Listening
- Fire Engine Passing With Bells Clanging
- Pig
- Orange Skin Food
- Door Opens And Closes
- 10:30 Returns To The Bedroom

Réédition hollandaise du second album Volume Two.

- ABC RECORDS (28601XAT) LP

> Zoom

1978

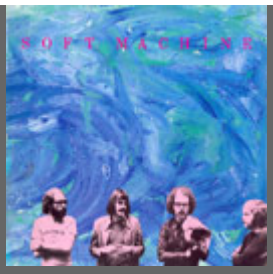
The Soft Machine - Vol. 2

- Pataphysical Introduction, Pt. 1
- Concise British Alphabet, Pt. 1
- Hibou, Anemone And Bear
- Concise British Alphabet, Pt. 2
- Hulloder
- Dada Was Here
- Thank You Pierrot Lunaire
- Have You Ever Bean Green?
- Pataphysical Introduction, Pt. 2
- Out Of Tunes
- As Long As He Lies Perfectly Still
- Dedicated To You But You Weren't Listening
- Fire Engine Passing With Bells Clanging
- Pig
- Orange Skin Food
- Door Opens And Closes
- 10:30 Returns To The Bedroomf

Réédition italienne du second album Volume Two.

- RECORD BAZAAR (RB 159) LP

> Zoom



1982

Memories

- I Should Have Know
- Jet Propelled Photograph
- When I Don't Want You
- She's Gone
- Memories
- You Don't Remember
- That's How Much I Need You
- Save Yourself

Cet album reprend les morceaux de Jet-Propelled Photographs dans un ordre différent.

- ACCORD (SN-7178) LP

> Zoom 1 2 3 4

1987

Soft Machine (Spanish Compilation)

- Mousetrap
- Noisette
- Backwards
- Mousetrap (reprise)
- Slightly All The Time
- Teeth
- Kings And Queens
- All White

Compilation espagnole.

Tracks 1 à 4:
Mousetrap, Noisette, Backwards et Mousetrap (reprise) sont identiques aux morceaux éponymes parus en 2003 sur le disc 2 de BBC Radio 1967-1971.

Track 5:
Slightly All The Time est identique au morceau éponyme paru en 2003 sur le disc 1 de BBC Radio 1967-1971.

Tracks 6 et 7:
Teeth et Kings And Queens sont extraits de Fourth.

Cet album recèle plusieurs anomalies surprenantes :
- Robert Wyatt n'apparait pas sur les photos de la pochette alors qu'il joue sur tous les morceaux sauf le dernier.
- Certains morceaux indiqués au verso ne sont pas présents sur le disque (Out Bloody Rageous et Eamonn Andrews)
- Le morceau Teeth est orthographié Peeth.
- Kevin Ayers (orthographié Ayres) est crédité au verso de la pochette alors qu'il n'est aucunement concerné par cette publication.

- PDI (30.1384) LP

> Zoom

1988

Live At The Proms

- Out-Bloody-Rageous
- Facelift
- Esther's Nose Job: Pig|Orange Skin Food|A Door Opens And Closes|Pigling Bland|10-30 Returns To The Bedroom

- Robert Wyatt - drums, voice

- Elton Dean - alto sax, saxello
- Hugh Hopper - bass
- Mike Ratledge - keyboards

Recorded August 13th, 1970 at Henry Wood Promenade Concert, Royal Albert Hall.

- RECKLESS (RECK5) CD

The Proms Concerts Program

The Peel Sessions

Disc 1
- Moon In June
- Esther's Nose Job
- Mousetrap|Noisette|Backwards Mousetrap (reprise)
- Slightly All The Time
- Out-Bloody-Rageous
- Eamonn Andrews

- Robert Wyatt - drums, piano, vocals

- Mike Ratledge - organ, electric piano, flute
- Hugh Hopper - bass, alto sax

> Zoom

1990

1991

Disc 2
- Facelift
- Virtually Pigling Bland
- Neo Cariban Grides
- Drop
- As If
- Dedicated To You But You Weren't Listening

- Brian Hopper - soprano sax on 1
- Elton Dean - alto sax, saxello on 2-4, 6-7
- Nick Evans - trombone on 2, 3
- Mark Charig - cornet on 2, 3
- Lyn Dobson - soprano sax on 2, 3

BBC Top Gear sessions recorded at Maida Vale on :
- June 10, 1969
- November 10, 1969
- May 4, 1970
- December 15, 1970
- November 15, 1971

- STRANGE FRUIT (SFRLP201) 2xLP
- STRANGE FRUIT (SFRCD201) 2xCD
- WMD RECORDS (672009) 2xCD

> Zoom

1991

As If ...

- As If
- Drop
- Slightly All The Time
- Facelift
- Chloe And The Pirates
- Kings And Queens

- Robert Wyatt - drums, percussion

- Mike Ratledge - organ, electric piano
- Hugh Hopper - bass
- Karl Jenkins - piano, electric keyboards
- Elton Dean - alto sax, saxello, electric piano
- John Marshall - drums, percussion
- Phil Howard - drums
- Nick Evans - trombone
- Mark Charig - cornet
- Lyn Dobson - soprano sax
- Roy Babbington - double bass
- Jimmy Hastings - flute, bass clarinet

Compilation de morceaux extraits de Third, Fourth, Fifth et Six.

- ELITE (006) CD

> Zoom

1993

BBC Radio One Live In Concert

- Blind Badger
- Neo Caliban Grides
- (continuous medley) Out Bloody Rageous|Eamonn Andrews|All White| Kings and Queens|Teeth
- Pigling Bland

- Robert Wyatt - drums

- Elton Dean - sax
- Marc Charig - cornet
- Mike Ratledge - electric piano, organ
- Nevill Whitehead - bass
- Phil Howard - drums
- Hugh Hopper - bass
- Paul Nieman - trombone
- Roy Babbington - bass

Recorded March 11th, 1971 at The Paris London Theatre.

- WINDSONG INTERNATIONAL (WINCD 031) CD

> Zoom

1996

Spaced

- Spaced One [H.Hopper/M. Ratledge/ R. Wyatt]
- Spaced Two [H.Hopper/M. Ratledge/ R. Wyatt]
- Spaced Three [H.Hopper/M. Ratledge/ R. Wyatt]
- Spaced Four [H.Hopper/M. Ratledge/ R. Wyatt]
- Spaced Five [B.Hopper/M. Ratledge]
- Spaced Six [H.Hopper/M. Ratledge/ R. Wyatt]
- Spaced Seven [H.Hopper/M. Ratledge/ R. Wyatt]

- Robert Wyatt - drums

- Mike Ratledge - organ, electric piano
- Hugh Hopper - bass, alto sax
- Brian Hopper - saxes

Enregistré en 1969.

- CUNEIFORM (RUNE 90) CD

Critiques/Reviews

> Zoom

1996

Live At The Paradiso

- Hulloder
- Dada Was Here
- Thank You Pierrot Lunaire
- Have You Ever Bean Green
- Pataphysical Introduction
- As Long As He Lies Perfectly Still
- Fire Engine Passing With Bells Clanging
- Hibou Anemone And Bear
- Pig
- Orange Sking Food
- 10:30 Returns To The Bedroom

- Robert Wyatt - drums, vocals

- Hugh Hopper - bass
- Mike Ratledge - keyboards

Enregistré Live At Paradiso, 29 mars 1969.

- BLUEPRINT (BP193CD) CD
- MOVIEPLAY GOLD (74033) CD

Critiques/Reviews

> Zoom

1998

Live 1970

- Facelift (excerpt)
- Moon In June (excerpt)
- Out-Bloody-Rageous
- Facelift
- Pig
- Orange Skin Food
- A Door Opens And Closes
- 10-30 Returns To The Bedroom

- Robert Wyatt - drums, vocals

- Mike Ratledge - keyboards
- Hugh Hopper - bass
- Lyn Dobson - saxes on 1 & 2
- Elton Dean - saxes on 3-8

Tracks 1 & 2:
recorded live at Swansea or at London School of Economics on February 13 or 14, 1970.

Tracks 3-8:
recorded at Henry Wood Promenade Concert, Royal Albert Hall on August 13, 1970.

- BLUEPRINT (BP290CD) CD

Critiques/Reviews

Virtually

> Zoom

1998

- Facelift
- Virtually
- Slightly All the Time
- Fletcher's Blemish
- Neo Caliban Grides
- Out-Bloody-Rageous
- Eamonn Andrews
- All White
- Kings And Queens
- Teeth
- Pigling Bland

- Robert Wyatt - drums

- Elton Dean - alto sax, saxello
- Hugh Hopper - bass
- Mike Ratledge - organ, electric piano

Enregistré le 23 mars 1971 à Gondel Filmkunst Theater, Bremen, Allemagne.

- CUNEIFORM (RUNE 100) CD

> Zoom

1999

Fourth/Fifth

- Teeth
- Kings And Queens
- Fletcher's Blemish
- Virtually Part 1
- Virtually Part 2
- Virtually Part 3
- Virtually Part 4
- All White
- Drop
- M C
- As If
- Lbo
- Pigling Bland
- Bone

Réédition CD des albums Fourth et Fifth.

- COLUMBIA (COL 4933412) CD

> Zoom

2000

Noisette

- Eamonn Andrews
- Mousetrap
- Noisette
- Backwards
- Mousetrap (reprise)
- Hibou, Anemone And Bear
- Moon In June
- 12/8 Theme
- Esther's Nose Job
- We Did It Again

- Robert Wyatt - drums, vocals

- Elton Dean - alto sax, saxello
- Lyn Dobson - soprano sax, flute, vocals
- Hugh Hopper - bass
- Mike Ratledge - organ, electric piano,

Enregistré le 4 janvier 1970 à Fairfield Hall Craydon, Angleterre.

- CUNEIFORM (RUNE 130) CD

Critiques/Reviews

> Zoom

2001

Turns On - Vol. 1

- I Should've Known
- We Know What You Mean [K. Ayers]
- I'm So Low
- Clarence In Wonderland [K. Ayers]
- Hope For Happiness
- I Should've Known
- We Know What You Mean
- She's Gone
- Save Yourself
- Lullaby Letter
- I Should've Known
- Certain Kind
- Clarence In Wonderland
- May I? (instrumental version)
- We Know What You Mean
- Hope For Happiness

- Robert Wyatt - drums & vocal

- Mike Ratledge - organ
- Kevin Ayers - bass guitar & vocal
- David Allen - guitar, voice on 1, 3, 6, 8

- Tracks 1, 3 : recorded April 1967 at DeLane Lea Studios, London UK. [only "Various UK studio" in the liner notes]
- Tracks 2, 11: Recorded 22 September 1967, at Vitus Studio, Bussum (Netherlands). [only "European studio" in the liner notes]
- Tracks 4, 5, 7, 12 : recorded 5 December 1967 at BBC Radio Studios, London UK. [only "Various UK studio" in the liner notes]
- Tracks 6, 8 : recorded June 1967

at Sound Techniques, Chelsea, UK. [only "Various UK studio" in the liner notes]
- Tracks 9, 10, 13 to 16: recorded 10 November 1967 at Middle Earth, London, UK. [also "Speakeasy Club" in the liner notes]
- Track 14 - This is an instrumental interpretation by Mike Ratledge based on the chord sequence of the middle section of the Kevin Ayers song 'May I?'.

- VOICEPRINT (VP231) CD

> Zoom

2001

Turns On - Vol. 2

- Moon In June
- I Should've Known
- Certain Kind
- Save Yourself
- Lullaby Letter
- Organistics
- Lullaby Letter|Priscilla
- We Did It Again
- Why Are We Sleeping?
- Joy Of A Toy
- Hope for Happiness
- Clarence In Wonderland
- Moon In June
- Esther's Nose Job

- Robert Wyatt - drums & vocal

- Mike Ratledge - organ
- Kevin Ayers - bass guitar & vocal

- Tracks 1 to 5 - Concertgebouw, Amsterdam, Netherlands 10th December 1967.
- Track 6 - Middle Earth, London, UK, 10th December 1967
- Tracks 7 to 14 - Col Ballroom, Davenport, Iowa, USA - 22th August, 1968.

Track 2-1 and 2-13 wrongly titled "Moon in June" are in fact respectively "That's How Much I Need You Now" and "You Don't Remember".
Track 2-14 wrongly titled "Esther's Nose Job" is in fact an Improvisation followed by "10:30 Return To The Bedroom".

- VOICEPRINT (VP234) CD

> Zoom

2001

Man In A Deaf Corner - Anthology 1963-1970

Disc 1
- Belsize Parked
- Dear Olde Benny Green Is A-turning In His Grave
- Frenetica
- Orientasia
- Da- Da Dee Bolivar Blues
- Man In A Deaf Corner
- We Know What You Mean
- I Shouldve Known
- Hope For Happiness

Disc 2
- Hulloder
- Dada Was Here
- Thank You Pierrot Lunaire
- Have You Ever Bean Green
- Pataphysical Introduction Part II
- Hibou Anmone And Bear
- Pig
- Orange Skin Food
- A Door Opens And Closes
- 10 30 Returns To The Bedroom
- Fadelift
- Moon In June
- Mousetrap
- Noisette
- Backwards
- Mousetrap (reprise)
- As Long As He Lies Perfectly Still

Enregistrements live dont une partie du concert donné au Paradiso d'Amsterdam en 1969.

- MOONCREST RECORDS (CRESTDCD 062) 2xCD

> Zoom

2002

Backwards

- Facelift
- Moon In June
- Esther's Nose Job
- Facelift
- Hibou Anemone And Bear
- Moon In June (demo version)

- Robert Wyatt - drums, vocals (+ all instruments on the first half of track 6)

- Mark Charig - trumpet
- Elton Dean - alto sax, saxello
- Lyn Dobson - soprano sax, tenor sax
- Nick Evans - trombone
- Hugh Hopper - bass
- Mike Ratledge - electric piano, organ

Tracks 1-3:
recorded in late May, 1970 in London, England

Tracks 4-5:
recorded in late November, 1969 in Paris, France.

The first part of track 6 was recorded in October and November, 1968 in the USA, while the second part was recorded in mid 1969 in England.

- CUNEIFORM (RUNE 170) CD

> Zoom

2002

Facelift

Disc 1
- Slightly All The Time
- Out-Bloody-Rageous
- Moon In June
- Mousetrap
- Noisette
- Backwards
- Mousetrap (reprise)
- Hibou Annemone And Bear

Disc 2
- Facelift
- Eamonn Andrews
- Esther's Nose Job
- Pigling Bland
- I Should've Known
- Esther's Nose Job (reprise)

- Robert Wyatt - drums

- Mike Ratledge - organ, piano, electric piano
- Hugh Hopper - bass
- Elton Dean - alto sax, saxello

Enregistré le 26 avril 1970 au Fairfield Halls, Croydon.

- VOICEPRINT (VP233) 2xCD

> Zoom 1 2

2003

BBC Radio 1967-1971

Disc 1
- Clarence In Wonderland
- We Know What You Mean
- Certain Kind
- Hope For Happiness
- Strangest Scene (aka Lullaby Letter)
- Facelift|Mousetrap|Noisette| Backward|Mousetrap (reprise)
- The Moon In June
- Instant Pussy
- Slightly All The Time|Out Bloody Rageous

Disc 2
- Virtually
- Fletcher's Blemish
- Neo-Caliban Grides
- Dedicated To You But You Weren't Listening
- Eamonn Andrews|All White
- Mousetrap|Noisette|Backwards| Mousetrap (reprise)|Esther's Nose Job

- Robert Wyatt - drums, piano, vocals

- Kevin Ayers - bass, vocals, guitar on 1-5
- Mike Ratledge - organ, electric piano, flute on 1-7
- Hugh Hopper - bass, alto sax on 6-7, 9-12, 14-15
- Brian Hopper - soprano sax on 6
- Elton Dean - alto sax, saxello on 9-12, 14-15
- Nick Evans - trombone on 15
- Mark Charig - cornet on 15
- Lyn Dobson - soprano sax on 15

Enregistrements de la BBC pour l'émission de John Peel Top Gear. Ce disque comprend également des sessions réalisées en 1967 avec Kevin Ayers.

BBC Top Gear sessions recorded at:
- Aeolian Hall on December 5, 1967
- Maida Vale on June 10, 1969 - November 10, 1969 - May 4, 1970 - December 15, 1970 -

June 1, 1971.

- HUX RECORDS (HUX037) 2xCD

> Zoom

2003

Kings Of Canterbury

Disc 1
FROM LIVE AT THE PARADISO
- Hulloder
- Dada Was Here
- Thank You Pierrot Lunaire
- Have You Ever Been Green?
- Pataphysical Introduction Pt II
- As Long As He Lies Perfectly Still
- Fire Engine Passing With Bells Clanging
- Hibou, Anemone And Bear
- Fire Engine (reprise)
FROM LIVE 1970
- Facelift
- Moon in June

Disc 2
FROM FACELIFT
- Slightly All The Time
- Mousetrap
- Noisette|Backwards
- Mousetrap
- Eamonn Andrews
- Esther's Nose Job
- Pigling Bland
- I Should've Known
- Esther's Nose Job
- Reprise
FROM LIVE 1970
- Pig|Orange Skin Food
- A Door Opens and Closes
- 10-30 Returns To The Bedroom

- Robert Wyatt - drums, vocals

- Mike Ratledge - organ,
  electric piano
- Hugh Hopper - bass
- Elton Dean - alto sax, saxello
  (disc 2)
- Lyn Dobson - sax
  (disc 1>10-11)

Enregistrements live tirés des 3 albums suivants : Live At The Paradiso, Facelift et Live 1970.

- SNAPPER MUSIC (SMD456)
  2xCD

2004

Live In Concert

Disc 1
- Blind Badger
- Neo CalibanGrides
- (continuous medley)
Out Bloody Rageous|Eamonn Andrews|
All White|Kings and Queens|Teeth
- Pigling Bland

Disc 2
- Fanfare
- All White
- Slightly All The Time
- M.C.
- Drop
- Stumble
- L.B.O.
- As If
- Riff

Le disque 1 reprend les enregistrements de l'album BBC Radio One Live In Concert.

- STRANGE FRUIT (SFRSCD126)
  2xCD

> Zoom

2004

Somewhere In Soho

Disc 1
- Slightly All The Time
- Out-Bloody-Rageous
- Eamonn Andrews
- Mousetrap
- Noisette
- Backwards
- Mousetrap (reprise)
- Hibou, Anemone And Bear

Disc 2
- Facelift
- Moon In June
- Esther's Nose Job
- Pigling Bland

- Robert Wyatt - drums, voice

- Mike Ratledge - Lowey organ,
  electric piano
- Hugh Hopper - bass
- Elton Dean - alto sax, saxello

Recorded at Ronnie Scott's Jazz Club between 20 & 25 April 1970.

- VOICEPRINT (VP262CD)
  2xCD

- Cymbalism
- Esther's Nose Job (reprise)

> Zoom

2005

The Story Of Soft Machine

Disc 1
THE SOFT MACHINE
- I Should've Known (version 1)
- We Know What You Mean (version 1)
- I'm So Low
- Clarence In Wonderland (version 1)
- Hope For Happiness (vVersion 1)
- I Should've Known (version 2)
- We Know What You Mean (version 2)
- She's Gone
- Save Yourself
- Lullaby Letter
- I Should've Known (version 3)
- Certain Kind
- Clarence In Wonderland (version 2)
- May I?
- We Know What You Mean (version 3)
- Hope For Happiness (version 2)

Disc 2
ROBERT WYATT
- Short Break
- Tubab
- Kutcha
DAVID ALLEN WITH HUGH HOPPER
& PIP PYLE
- Fohat Digs Holes In Space
- Who's Afraid?
- Flowers Gone
- Hope For Happiness
HUGH HOPPER & LISA S KLOSSNER
- As I Turn
- Visitors
- Still

- DEJAVU RETRO (R2CD 43-01)
  2xCD

> Zoom

> Zoom

2005

Breda Reactor

Disc 1
- Eamonn Andrews
- Mousetrap
- Noisette
- Backwards
- Mousetrap (reprise)
- Hibou, Anemone And Bear

Disc 2
- Facelift
- Moon In June
- 12/8 Theme
- Drum Link
- Esther's Nose Job
- Pigling Bland
- Cymbalism
- Out-Bloody-Rageous (excerpt)
- Esther's Nose Job (reprise)
- We Did It Again

- Robert Wyatt - drums, voice

- Mike Ratledge - Lowery organ,
  electric piano
- Hugh Hopper - bass guitar
- Elton Dean - alto sax, saxello
- Lyn Dobson - tenor & soprano
  saxes, flute, harmonica, voice

Recorded live on 31st January 1970 in Het Turfschip, Breda, Netherlands.

- VOICEPRINT (VP345CD)
  2xCD

Out Bloody Rageous
(An Anthology 1967-1973)

> Zoom

2005

Disc 1
- Feelin' Reelin' Squelin'
- Love Makes Sweet Music
- Hope Of Happiness
- Joy Of A Toy
- Hope For Happiness (reprise)
- We Did It Again
- Why Are We Sleeping?
- Pataphysical Introduction - Part One
- Concise British Alphabet - Part One
- Hibou Anemone And Bear
- Concise British Alphabet - Part Two
- HulloDer
- As Long As He Lies Perfectly Still
- Dedicated To You But You Weren't Listening
- Out-Bloody-Rageous
- Moon In June

Disc 2
- Teeth
- Virtually Part 4
- Kings & Queens
- All White
- Pigling Bland
- Drop
- Gesolreut
- Soft Weed Factor
- Chloe & The Pirates
- Penny Hitch
- Down The Road

- SONY (5200392) 2xCD

> Zoom

2005

BBC In Concert 1971 (Soft Machine & Heavy Friends)

- John Peel Introduction
- Blind Badger
- Neo-Caliban Grides
- Out Bloody Rageous (excerpt)| Eamonn Andrew|All White|Kings And Queens| Teeth|Pigling Bland|10.30 Returns To The Bedroom
- Slightly All The Time (excerpt)| Noisette

- Robert Wyatt - drums

- Elton Dean - sax
- Marc Charig - cornet
- Mike Ratledge - electric piano, organ
- Nevill Whitehead - bass
- Phil Howard - drums
- Hugh Hopper - bass
- Paul Nieman - trombone
- Roy Babbington - bass
- Ronnie Scott - tenor sax

Recorded March 11th, 1971
at The Paris London Theatre

Réédtion du BBC Radio One Live In Concert publié en 1993, enrichi de John Peel Introduction et Slightly All The Time.

- HUX RECORDS (HUX067) CD

Critiques/Reviews

> Zoom

2005

Orange Skin Food

Disc 1
- Slightly All The Time
- Out-Bloody-Rageous
- Moon In June
- Mousetrap
- Noisette
- Backwards
- Mousetrap (reprise)
- Hibou Anemone AndBear
- Eamonn Andrews
- Esther's Nose Job
- Pigling Band

Disc 2
- Facelift
- Moon In June
- Out-Bloody-Rageous
- Facelift
- Fire Engine Passing With Bells Clanging
- Pig

Compilation allemande.
Versions non identifiées : il est possible que Robert Wyatt ne joue pas sur tous les morceaux.

- AMBITIONS (223135) 2xCD

- Orange Skin Food
- A Door Opens And Closes
- 10 30 Returns To The Bedroom
- Pigling Bland
- 10 30 Returns To The Bedroom (reprise)
- I Should've Known

> Zoom 1 2

2006

Grides

FIRST SET
- Facelift
- Virtually
- Out-Bloody-Rageous
- Neo-Caliban Grides

SECOND SET
- Teeth
- Slightly All The Time
- Eamonn Andrews
- Esther's Nose Job

ENCORE
- Slightly All The Time|Noisette

The CD war recorded on October 25, 1970 at the Concertgebouw, Amsterdam, The Netherlands.

The DVD was recorded on March 23, 1971 at Radio Bremen's TV studio/Bremen, Germany.

- CUNEIFORM (RUNE 230/231) CD/DVD

> Zoom 1 2 3 4

2006

Middle Earth Masters

- Clarence In Wonderland
- We Know What You Want
- Bossa Nova Express
- Hope For Hapiness
- Disorganisation
- We Did It Again
- Why Are We Sleeping?
- I Should've Known
- That's How Much I Need You Now
- I Should've Known
- A Certain Kind
- We Did It Again (bonus track)

- Robert Wyatt - drums, vocals

- Kevin Ayers - guitar, bass, vocals,
- Mike Ratledge - organ

Tracks 1-8:
Middle Earth, Covent Garden, London, UK, September 16, 1967

Tracks 9 & 10:
Middle Earth, Roundhouse, Chalk Farm, London, UK, May 1968

Tracks 11 & 12:
Unknown, (11= Autumn 1967)

- CUNEIFORM (RUNE 235) CD

Critiques/Reviews

> Zoom 1 2 3 4 5 6 7

2007

Fourth (Remastered)

- Teeth
- Kings And Queens
- Fletcher's Blemish
- Virtually, Pt. 1
- Virtually, Pt. 2
- Virtually, Pt. 3
- Virtually, Pt. 4

Reissue of Fourth remastered from original tapes.

Booklet includes new sleeve notes and photographs.

- SONY-BMG (82876872912) CD

Third (Remastered)

Disc 1
THE ORIGINAL ALBUM
- Facelift
- Slightly All The Time

Reissue of Third remastered from original tapes.

Includes Bonus Disc recorded at the

> Zoom 1 2 3 4 5 6 7

2007

- Moon In June
- Out-Bloody-Rageous

Disc 2
BONUS
- Out-Bloody-Rageous
- Facelift
- Esther's Nose Job | Pig | Orange Skin Food | A Door Opens And Closes | Pigling Bland | 10:30 Returns To The Bedroom

Promenade Concert at The Royal Albert Hall for BBC Radio Three on 13th August 1970.

- SONY-BMG (82876872932) 2xCD

> Zoom 1 2 3

2008

Grides (Japanese Version)

FIRST SET
- Facelift
- Virtually
- Out-Bloody-Rageous
- Neo-Caliban Grides

SECOND SET
- Teeth
- Slightly All The Time
- Eamonn Andrews
- Esther's Nose Job

ENCORE
- Slightly All The Time|Noisette

Japanese version of Grides released in 2006.

- CUNEIFORM (RUNE 230/231) CD/DVD

> Zoom 1 2 3 4 5 6 7 8 9 10 11

2009

The Soft Machine (Remastered)

- Hope For Happiness
- Joy Of A Toy
- Hope For Happiness (Reprise)
- Why Am I So Short?
- So Boot If At All
- A Certain Kind
- Save Yourself
- Priscilla
- Lullabye Letter
- We Did It Again
- Plus Belle Qu'une Poubelle
- Why Are We Sleeping?
- Box 25/4 Lid

(Bonus)
- Love Makes Sweet Music
- Feelin' Reelin' Squeelin'

Reissue of The Soft Machine (Vol. 1) remastered with enhanced packaging and 2 Bonus Tracks.

- POLYDOR (532 050-5) CD

> Zoom 1 2 3

2009

The Soft Machine - Volume Two (Remastered)

RIVMIC MELODIES
- Pataphysical Introduction-Pt. I
- A Concise British Alphabet-Pt. I
- Hibou, Anemone And Bear
- A Concise British Alphabet-Pt. II
- Hulloder
- Dada Was Here
- Thank You Pierrot Lunaire
- Have You Ever Bean Green?
- Pataphysical Introduction, Pt. II
- Out Of Tunes

ESTHER'S NOSE JOB
- As Long as He Lies Perfectly Still
- Dedicated To You But You Weren't Listening
- Fire Engine Passing With Bells Clanging
- Pig
- Orange Skin Food

Reissue of The Soft Machine Volume Two digitally remastered with enhanced packaging.

- POLYDOR (532 050-6) CD

- A Door Opens And Closes
- 10:30 Returns To The Bedroom

> Zoom 1 2 3

2009

Live At Henie Onstad Art Centre 1971

Disc 1
FIRST SET
- Facelift
- Virtually
- Slightly All The Time
- Fletcher's Blemish

Disc 2
SECOND SET
- Neo-Caliban Grides
- Out-Bloody-Rageous
- Eamonn Andrews
- All White
- Kings and Queens
- Teeth
- Pigling Bland
- Noisette

- Robert Wyatt - Ludwig maple drums, cow bell, voice

- Michaël Ratledge - Lowrey Holiday Deluxe organ, Hohner pianet, Fender Rhodes Stage piano Mark1
- Hugh Hopper - Fender Jazzman bass guitar
- Elton Dean - Selmer alto sax, saxello, Hohner pianet

Performing two continuous sets of compositions, improvisations and dynamisme. All instruments, except saxes, variously processed with electronic effect devices.
A Cd- Rom including extensive notes and concert photographs is included.

Live at the Henie Onstad Art Centre, Oslo Norway, February 28th, 1971

- REEL RECORDINGS (RR014/015) 2xCD

Critiques/Reviews

> Zoom

2010

Live At Henie Onstad Art Centre 1971 (LP)

Disc 1
- Facelift
- Virtually
- Slightly All The Time
- Fletcher's Blemish

Disc 2
- Neo-Caliban Grides
- Out-Bloody-Rageous
- Eamonn Andrews
- All White
- Kings and Queens
- Teeth
- Pigling Bland

Version vinyl du concert édité par Reel Recordings.

Live at the Henie Onstad Art Centre, Oslo Norway, February 28th, 1971

- SMALLTOWN SUPERJAZZ (STSJ187) 2xLP

> Zoom

2010

Original Album Classics

Disc 1
THIRD
- Facelift
- Slightly
- Moon In June
- Out-Bloody-Rageous

Disc 2
FOURTH
- Teeth
- Kings And Queens
- Fletcher's Blemish
- Virtually Part 1
- Virtually Part 2
- Virtually Part 3
- Virtually Part 4

Disc 3
FIFTH
- All White

Rééditione en boxset des 5 albums de Soft Machine suivants : Third , Fourth, Fifth, Six, Seven.

- LEGACY (88697781442) 5xCD
- COLUMBIA (88697781442) 5xCD
- SONY (88697781442) 5xCD

- Drop
- M C
- As If
- L B O
- Pigling Bland
- Bone
- All White (Take Two) (bonus track)

Disc 4
SIX
- Fanfare (Live)
- All White (Live)
- Between (Live)
- Riff (Live)
- 37½ (Live)
- Gesolreut (Live)
- E.P.V. (Live)
- Lefty (Live)
- Stumble (Live)
- 5 From 13 (Live)
- Riff II (Live)
- The Soft Weed Factor
- Stanley Stamps Gibbon Album (For B.O)
- Chloe And The Pirates
- 1983

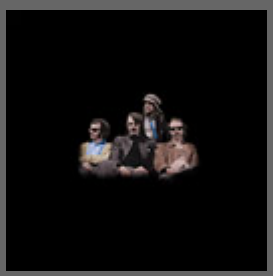
Disc 5
SEVEN
- Nettle Bed
- Carol Ann
- Day's Eye
- Bone Fire
- Tarabos
- D.I.S.
- Snodland
- Penny Hitch
- Block
- Down The Road
- The German Lesson
- The French Lesson

> Zoom

2011

Ronnie Scott's Jazz Club

Disc 1
- Slightly All The Time/Out-Bloody-Rageous
- Eamonn Andrews
- Mousetrap medley (including: Mousetrap / Noisette / Backwards / Mousetrap - Reprise)



Disc 2
- Hibou Anemone And Bear
- Facelift
- Moon In June
- Esther's Nose Job medley (including: Esther's Nose Job / Pigling Bland Cymbalism / Esther's Nose Job - Reprise)

- Robert Wyatt - drums, voice

- Mike Ratledge - Lowery organ, electric piano
- Hugh Hopper - bass
- Elton Dean - alto sax, saxello

Recorded at Ronnie Scott's Jazz Club between 20 & 25 April 1970.

- VINYL LOVERS (901226) 2xLP

> Zoom

2011

Live At Het Turfschip

Disc 1
- Eamonn Andrews
- Mousetrap
- Noisette
- Backwards
- Mousetrap (reprise)
- Facelift

Disc 2
- Moon In June
- 12/8 Theme
- Drum Link
- Hibou Anemone & Bear
- Esther's Nose Job
- Pigling Bland
- Cymbalism
- Out-Bloody-Rageous
- Esther's Nose Job (reprise)
- We Did It Again

- Robert Wyatt - drums, vocal

- Mike Ratledge - Lowery organ, electric piano
- Hugh Hopper - bass
- Elton Dean - alto sax, saxello
- Lynn Dobson - tenor & soprano saxes, flute, harmonica & voice

Recorded live at Het Turfschip, Netherlands, 31 January 1970.

- VINYL LOVERS (901240) 2xLP

> Zoom

2013

The Soft Machine (Featuring Kevin Ayers) - London 1967

- That's How Much I Need You Now
- Save Yourself
- I Should've Known
- Jet-Propelled Photograph
- When I Don't Want You
- Memories
- You Don't Remember
- She's Gone
- I'd Rather Be With You

- Robert Wyatt - drums, vocals

- Daevid Allen - guitar
- Mike Ratledge - piano, organ
- Kevin Ayers - bass, vocals

La sortie de cette nième édition de l'album Jet Propelled Photographs - quelques jours après le décès de Kevin Ayers survenu le 18 février 2013 - explique sans doute la mention "Featuring Kevin Ayers" ajoutée par Charlie Records.
Version digitale diffusée uniquement sur les plateformes de téléchargement.

- CHARLY DIGITAL - Digital Format

> Zoom 1 2 3 4 5 6

2014

Soft Machine Live In 1970

Disc 1
- Slightly All The Time
- Out Bloody-Rageous
- Eamonn Andrews
- Mousetrap
- Noisette
- Backwards
- Mousetrap (reprise)
- Hibou Anemone & Bear

Disc 2
- Facelift
- Moon In June
- Esther's Nose Job
- Pigling Band
- Cymbalism
- Esther's Nose Job (reprise)

Disc 3
- Eamonn Andrews
- Mousetrap
- Noisette
- Backwards
- Mousetrap (reprise)
- Hibou Anemone & Bear

Disc 4
- Facelift
- Moon In June
- 12/8 Theme
- Drum Link
- Esther's Nose Job
- Pigling Bland
- Cymbalism
- Out-Bloody-Rageous (excerpt)
- Esther's Nose Job (reprise)
- We Did It Again

Disc One and Two recorded at Ronnie Scott's Jazz Club between 20 & 25 April, 1970 :

- Robert Wyatt - drums, vocals
- Hugh Hopper - bass guitar
- Mike Ratledge - Lowery organ and electric piano
- Elton Dean - alto sax and saxello

Disc Three and Four recorded at Het Turfship, Breda, Netherlands on 31st January, 1970:

- Robert Wyatt - drums and voice
- Hugh Hopper - bass guitar
- Mike Ratledge - Lowery organ and electric piano
- Elton Dean - alto sax and saxello
- Lyn Dobson - tenor and soprano saxes, harmonica and voice

- FLOATING WORLD RECORDS (SOFT163) 4xCD

Soft Machine - Turns On (An Early Collection)

Disc 1
- I Should've Known
- We Know What You Mean
- I'm So Low
- Clarence In Wonderland
- Hope For Happiness
- I Should've Known
- We Know What You Mean
- She's Gone

- Robert Wyatt - drums, vocals
- Mike Ratledge - organ, piano (on disc 1 : pistes 1 à 16)
- Kevin Ayers - bass, guitar, vocals
- Daevid Allen - guitar, vocals (disc 1 : piste 1, 3, 6 et 8)

Disc 1

> Zoom

2014

- Save Yourself
- Lullaby Letter
- I Should've Known
- Certain Kind
- Clarence In Wonderland
- May I? (instrumental version)
- We Know What You Mean
- Hope For Happiness

Disc 2
- Moon In June
- I Should've Known
- A Certain Kind
- Save Yourself
- Lullaby Letter
- Organistics
- Lullaby Letter|Priscilla
- We Did It Again
- Why Are We Sleeping?
- Joy Of A Toy
- Hope for Happiness
- Clarence In Wonderland
- Moon In June
- Esther's Nose Job

- Tracks 1, 3 : recorded April 1967 at DeLane Lea Studios, London UK. [only "Various UK studio" in the liner notes]
- Tracks 2, 11: Recorded 22 September 1967, at Vitus Studio, Bussum (Netherlands). [only "European studio" in the liner notes]
- Tracks 4, 5, 7, 12 : recorded 5 December 1967 at BBC Radio Studios, London UK. [only "Various UK studio" in the liner notes]
- Tracks 6, 8 : recorded June 1967 at Sound Techniques, Chelsea, UK. [only "Various UK studio" in the liner notes]
- Tracks 9, 10, 13 to 16: recorded 10 November 1967 at Middle Earth, London, UK. [also "Speakeasy Club" in the liner notes]
- Track 14 - This is an instrumental interpretation by Mike Ratledge based on the chord sequence of the middle section of the Kevin Ayers song 'May I?'.

Disc 2
- Tracks 1 to 5 - Concertgebouw, Amsterdam, Netherlands 10th December 1967.
- Track 6 - Middle Earth, London, UK, 10th December 1967
- Tracks 7 to 14 - Col Ballroom, Davenport, Iowa, USA - 22th August, 1968.

Track 2-1 and 2-13 wrongly titled "Moon in June" are in fact respectively "That's How Much I Need You Now" and "You Don't Remember".
Track 2-14 wrongly titled "Esther's Nose Job" is in fact an Improvisation followed by "10:30 Return To The Bedroom".

Reissue of two separate Voiceprint releases from 2001 : Soft Machine Turns On Volume 1 and Soft Machine Turns On Volume 2.

- FLOATING WORLD RECORDS (FLOATD6217) 2xCD

> Zoom 1 2 3 4

2014

The Soft Machine - Tanglewood Tails

Disc 1
- Tanglewood Tails [R. Wyatt, H. Hopper, B. Hopper]
- Drum Solo [R. Wyatt]
- 3/4 Blues Thing In F [Wyatt, M. Ratdledge]
- Cecilian [H. Hopper, B. Hopper, R. Wyatt, M. Ratdledge]
- I'm So Low [K. Ayers]
- Clarence In Wonderland [K. Ayers]
- Hope For Happiness [B. Hopper]
- She's Gone [K. Ayers]
- Save Yourself [Wyatt]
- Lullaby Letter [K. Ayers]
- We Know What You Mean [K. Ayers]
- I Should've Known [H. Hopper]

Disc 2
- We Did It Again [K. Ayers]
- Why Are We Sleeping [K. Ayers, R. Wyatt, M. Ratdledge]
- Moon In June [R. Wyatt]
- Esther's Nose Job [M. Ratledge]
- As Long As He Lies Perfectly Still [R. Wyatt, M. Ratdledge]
- Fire Engine Passing With Bells Clanging [M. Ratdledge]
- Eamonn Andrews [M. Ratledge]
- Esther's Nose Job [M. Ratledge]
- Pigling Bland [M. Ratledge]
- Moon In June [R. Wyatt]
- Hibou Anemone And Bear [R. Wyatt,

Disc One - Track 1:
- Robert Wyatt - cornet & drums
- Brian Hopper - alto sax & cello
- Hugh Hopper - cello
1963 - Home Recording

Disc One - Track 2:
- Robert Wyatt - drums
1963 - Home Recording

Disc One - Track 3:
- Robert Wyatt - drums
- Mike Ratledge - piano
1963/64 - Home Recording

Disc One - Track 4:
- Robert Wyatt - drums
- Brian Hopper - alto sax
- Hugh Hopper - bass
- Mike Ratledge - piano
1963 - Home Recording

Disc One - Track 5:
- Robert Wyatt - drums
- Daevid Allen - guitar
- Mike Ratledge - organ
- Kevin Ayers - bass & vocals
1967 - Studio Recording

Disc One - Track 6:
- Robert Wyatt - drums & vocals

M. Ratdledge]

- Mike Ratledge - organ
- Kevin Ayers - guitar, bass & vocals
1967 - Studio Recording

Disc One - Track 7:
- Robert Wyatt - drums & vocals
- Mike Ratledge - organ
- Kevin Ayers - bass
1967 - Studio Recording

Disc One - Track 8:
- Robert Wyatt - drums & vocals
- Mike Ratledge - organ & piano
- Kevin Ayers - bass & vocals
- Daevid Allen - guitar
1967 - Studio Recording

Disc One - Tracks 9 & 10:
- Robert Wyatt - drums & vocals
- Mike Ratledge - organ
- Kevin Ayers - bass
1967 - Livre Recording at Middle Earth

Disc One - Track 11:
- Robert Wyatt - drums & vocals
- Mike Ratledge - organ
- Kevin Ayers - bass & vocals
1967 - Studio Recording

Disc One - Track 12:
- Robert Wyatt - drums & vocals
- Mike Ratledge - organ
- Kevin Ayers - bass & vocals
- Daevid Allen - guitar
1967 - Studio Recording

Disc Two - Tracks 1 to 4:
- Robert Wyatt - drums & vocals
- Mike Ratledge - organ
- Kevin Ayers - bass & vocals
11 August 1968 Live recording. Col Ballroom, Davenport, Iowa, USA

Disc Two - Track 5:
- Robert Wyatt - drums & vocals
- Mike Ratledge - organ
- Hugh Hopper - bass
1969 Live Recording. Paradiso, Amsterdam, Holland

Disc Two - Track 6:
- Robert Wyatt - drums
- Mike Ratledge - organ
- Kevin Ayers - bass & vocals
1969 Live Recording. Paradiso, Amsterdam, Holland

Disc Two - Track 7 to 11:
- Robert Wyatt - drums
(+ vocals on 7)
- Mike Ratledge - organ
- Hugh Hopper - bass
- Elton dean - alto sax & saxello
26th April 1970 Live Recording. Fairfield Halls, Croydon, UK

- SECRET RECORDS (SECDD102)
2xCD

> Zoom 1 2 3

2014

Memories - Hugh Hopper - Volume 1

- Memories - Hugh Hopper's Demo with Soft Machine
- Was A Friend - Hugh Hopper Franglo Band
- Shuffle Demons - North & South
- Playtime - Hugh Hopper Interprets Alan Gowen
- Debonaire - Hugh Hopper Franglo Band
- MGH - Hugh Hopper & Nigel Morris
- Long Piece - Hugh Hopper Computer Collage

A Retrospective of Rare Tracks as Introduced by Hugh.

1. Memories
- Robert Wyatt - drums, vocals
- Hugh Hopper - bass guitar, acoustic guitar
- Mike Ratledge - piano, organ
Recorded August 6th, 1969. Regent Studios, London UK.

2. Was A Friend
- Hugh Hopper - bass guitar,
- Patrice Meyer - electric guitar
- Pierre-Olivier Govin - saxes
- François Verly - drums
Recorded May 29th, 2004. St. Jean-aux-

> Zoom

2015

Anatomy Of A Facelift - Hugh Hopper - Volume 9

- Hugh's Preface
- Le Bataclan - Paris - 1969
- Actuel Festival- Amougies - 1969
- Fairfield Halls - Croydon -1970
- Henie Onstad Art Centre - Oslo - 1971
- Turfchip - Breda - 1971

Evolution of Hugh's Signature Composition.

1. Hugh's Preface: Workshop Session, Cremona, Italy, March 3rd, 2007.

2. Soft Machine:
- Robert Wyatt - drums
- Mike Ratledge - organ
- Hugh Hopper - bass guitar

Recorded at Le Bataclan, Paris, June 25th, 1969
(mono source).

3. Soft Machine:
- Robert Wyatt - drums
- Mike Ratledge - organ, electric piano
- Hugh Hopper, bass guitar
- Elton Dean - alto sax
- Lyn Dobson - tenor sax, flute
- Nick Evans - trombone
- Mark Charig - cornet

BYG/Actuel Festival, Amougies, Belgium, Oct. 28th, 1969
(mono off-air radio recording).

4. Soft Machine:
- Robert Wyatt - drums
- Mike Ratledge - organ, electric piano
- Hugh Hopper, bass guitar
- Elton Dean - alto sax, saxello
- Lyn Dobson - tenor sax, flute

Fairfield Halls, Croydon, Sussex, England. January 4th 1970
(ambient stereo reel).

5. Soft Machine:
- Robert Wyatt - drums
- Mike Ratledge - organ, electric piano
- Hugh Hopper, bass guitar

Henie Onstad Art Centre, Oslo, Norway. February 27th 1971
(ambient stereo reel).

6. Soft Machine:
Bois, France

3. Shuffle Demons
- Hugh Hopper -bass guitar
- Steve Kettley - tenor saxophone
- Paul Flush - keyboards
- Mike Travis - drums, percussion

Recorded August 23rd, 1995. Aberdeen, Scotland

4. Playtime
- Hugh Hopper, computer programming

Recorded circa 2002. Whistable, UK.

5. Debonaire:
- Hugh Hopper - bass guitar,
- Patrice Meyer - electric guitar
- Pierre-Olivier Govin - saxes
- François Verly - drums

Recorded May 29th, 2004. St. Jean-aux-Bois, France

6. MGH:
- Hugh Hopper - fuzz bass
- Nigel Morris - drums, percussion

Recorded circa 2002. California and Whistable, U.K.

7. Long Piece:
- Hugh Hopper + Many friends = Many Surprises

Recorded circa 2002.Whistable, U.K.

- GONZO MULTIMEDIA (HST240CD) CD

- Robert Wyatt - drums
- Mike Ratledge - organ, electric piano
- Hugh Hopper, bass guitar

Turfchip, Breda, The Netherlands. March 28th 1971 (board stereo reel).

- GONZO MULTIMEDIA
(HST260CD) CD

> Zoom

2015

Third (Vinyl Reissue)

- Facelift
- Slightly All The Time
- Moon In June
- Out-Bloody-Rageous

180 gram audiophile vinyl.

Limited pressing of 1000 numbered copies on transparent vinyl.

- MUSIC ON VINYL
(MOVLP183) LP

> Zoom

2015

Wonderland

- I'm So Low
- Clarence In Wonderland
- She's Gone
- Save Yourself
- We Know What You Mean
- As Long As He Lies Perfectly Still
- Fire Engine Passing With Bells Clanging
- Esther's Nose Job
- Moon In June

Limited edition LP (500 copies).
Record Store Day exclusive release.
180 gram vinyl.

- Tracks 1 to 5 : previously released on Soft Machine Turns On Vol. 1
- Tracks 6, 7 : previously released on Live At The Paradiso 1969
- Tracks 8 & 9 : previously released on Facelift

- SECRET RECORDS LIMITED
(SECLP117) LP

> Zoom 1 2

2015

Live At The Paradiso (Reissue)

- Hulloder
- Dada Was Here
- Thank You Pierrot Lunaire
- Have You Ever Bean Green
- Pataphysical Introduction (Pt. 2)
- As Long As He Lies Perfectly Still
- Fire Engine Passing With Bells Clanging
- Hibou Anemone And Bear
- Pig
- Orange Sking Food
- A Door Opens And Closes
- 10:30 Returns To The Bedroom

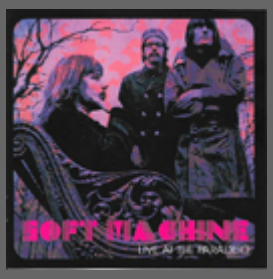
Recorded Live At Paradiso, March 29, 1969.

- FLOATING WORLD
(FLOATM6245) CD

Fourth (Vinyl Reissue)

- Teeth]
- Kings And Queens
- Fletcher's Blemish
- Virtually, Pt. 1
- Virtually, Pt. 2
- Virtually, Pt. 3
- Virtually, Pt. 4

180 gram audiophile vinyl.



Limited pressing of 1000 numbered copies on transparent vinyl.

- MUSIC ON VINYL
(MOVLP1602) LP

> Zoom

2016

> Zoom 1 2

2017

Live At The Paradiso (LP Reissue)

- Dada Was Here
- Hulloder
- Thank You Pierrot Lunaire
- Have You Ever Bean Green
- Pataphysical Introduction (Pt. 2)
- As Long As He Lies Perfectly Still
- Fire Engine Passing With Bells Clanging
- Hibou Anemone And Bear
- Fire Engine Passing With Bells Clanging (Reprise)
- Pig
- Orange Sking Food
- A Door Opens And Closes
- 10:30 Returns To The Bedroom

Recorded Live At Paradiso, March 29, 1969.

Purple vinyl limited to 1000 copies.

Même front cover que la version CD de 2015, mais Dada Was Here ouvre le concert à la place de Hulloder et une reprise de Fire Engine Passing With Bells Clanging démarre la seconde face du disque.

- REAL GONE MUSIC (RGM-0517) LP

> Zoom

2018

We Did It Again Plus

Disc 1
SOFT MACHINE LIVE IN PARIS 1970
- Plain Tiffs
- All White
- Slightly All The Time
- Drop
- M.C.
- Out-Bloody-Rageous
- Facelift
- And Sevens

Disc 2
- Feelin',Reelin',Squealin' (Caravan)
- Mummie [B. Hopper/R. Wyatt]
- Da-Da-Dee & Bolivar [T. Monk]
- Orientasian [B. Hopper]
- You Really Got Me [R. Davies]
- Thinking Of You Baby [D. Clark]
- Man In A Deaf Corner [B. Hopper, H. Hopper, M. Ratledge, R. Wyatt]
- If I Ever Leave You (Zobe)
- Stop Me And Play One
- Piano Standards 1 (Mike Ratledge)
- Belsize Parked [B. Hopper, H. Hopper, R. Wyatt]
- Summertime [G. Gershwin]

Les morceaux du CD1 proviennent du concert de Paris du 2 mai 1972 et non pas en 1970 comme indiqué sur la pochette.

Le CD2 reprend les morceaux de Canterburied Sounds - Vol.1.

- FLOATING WORLD RECORDS (FLOATM63670) 2xCD

Paradiso '69

- Hulloder
- Dada Was Here
- Thank You Pierrot Lunaire
- Have You Ever Bean Green
- Pataphysical Introduction (Pt. 2)
- As Long As He Lies Perfectly Still
- Fire Engine Passing With Bells Clanging
- Hibou Anemone And Bear
- Fire Engine Passing With Bells Clanging (Reprise)

Recorded Live At Paradiso, March 29, 1969.

Numbered black vinyl edition, 500 copies

- TONEFLOAT RECORDS (TF204) LP

> Zoom

2021

- Pig
- Orange Sking Food
- A Door Opens And Closes
- 10:30 Returns To The Bedroom

> Zoom

2022

Virtually (Live) - The classic Berlin and Brussells Broadcasts from 1971

LIVE NOVEMBER 7, 1971
BERLINER JAZZ TAGE (GERMANY)
- Neo-Caliban Grides
- All White
- Slightly All The Time
- Drop
- M.C.
- Out-Bloody-Rageous
- Pigling Bland

LIVE JUNE 19, 1971
- Improvisation
- Neo-Caliban Grides
- Out-Bloody-Rageous
- Kings And Queens
- Teeth
- Pigling Bland
- Slightly All The Time/10:30 Returns To The Bedroom
- Mousetrap
- Noisette

LIVE OCTOBER 17, 1971 DONAUESCHINGER MUSIKTAGE FESTIVAL (GERMANY)
- All White
- Slightly All The Time
- Drop
- M. C.
- Out-Bloody-Rageous
- As If
- Dark Swing
- Intropigling
- Pigling Bland

- Robert Wyatt - drums, vocals

- Mike Ratledge - organ, piano
- Hugh Hopper - bass
- Elton Dean - alto sax, saxello

Tracklisting fantaisiste et date erronée : la seconde partie avec Robert Wyatt concerne le concert du 15 janvier 1971 au Théâtre 140 de Bruxelles.

La mention (Live) a été ajoutée au titre de l'album par les plateformes de téléchargement.

- LO-LIGHT RECORDS - Digital Format

> Zoom 1 2 3 4 5 6 7 8

2022

Facelift France & Holland

Disc 1
MARCH 2, 1970 - THEATRE DE LA MUSIQUE, PARIS, FRANCE
- Eamonn Andrews
- Mousetrap
- Noisette
- Backwards
- Mousetrap (Reprise)
- Out-Bloody-Rageous
- Facelift
- Slightly All The Time
- Moon In June / Vocal Improvisation
- Esther's Nose Job / Pigling Bland

Disc 2 - DVD
MARCH 2, 1970 - THEATRE DE LA MUSIQUE, PARIS, FRANCE
+ audio bonus materia (entire concert - audience recording :
- Eamonn Andrews
- Mousetrap
- Noisette
- Backwards
- Mousetrap (Reprise)
- Out-Bloody-Rageous
- Facelift
- Slightly All The Time
- Moon In June
- 12-8 Theme
- Vocal Improvisation
- Esther's Nose Job / Pigling Bland

Disc 3
JANUARY 17, 1970 - CONCERTGEBOUW AMSTERDAM, THE NETHERLANDS
- Facelift
- Moon In June
- Esther's Nose Job / Pigling Bland

- Robert Wyatt - drums, vocals

- Mike Ratledge - Hohner pianet, Lowrey Holiday Deluxe organ
- Hugh Hopper - bass
- Elton Dean - alto sax, saxello
- Lyn Dobson - soprano and tenor sax, flute, harmonica, vocals

The DVD was recorded on March 2, 1970 at Théâtre de la Musique, Paris, France.

Contact print images by Mark Ellidge.

- CUNEIFORM RECORDS/INA (RUNE 495/496/497) 2xCD/DVD

> Zoom

2023

Facelift France & Holland (vinyl edition)

Disc 1
MARCH 2, 1970 - THEATRE DE LA MUSIQUE, PARIS, FRANCE
- Facelift
- Backwards /- Mousetrap (Reprise) / Out-Bloody-Rageous

Disc 2
MARCH 2, 1970 - THEATRE DE LA MUSIQUE, PARIS, FRANCE
- Eamonn Andrews / Esther's Nose Job / Pigling Bland

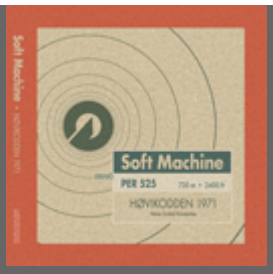
JANUARY 17, 1970 - CONCERTGEBOUW AMSTERDAM, THE NETHERLANDS
- Facelift / Moon In June / 12-8 Theme / Drum Solo

Vinyl edition of Facelift France & Holland. + same DVD as the CD edition.

- CUNEIFORM RECORDS/INA (RUNE 495) 2xLP/DVD

> Zoom

2023



Soft Machine Essentials

- Aubade
- Priscilla
- Hazard Profile, Pt. 4 (2022 Remaster)
- The French Lesson (Remastered 2006)
- Out of Season
- Why Am I So Short?
- The Man Who Waved At Trains (2022 Remastered)
- Carol Ann (Remastered 2006)
- The Tale of Taliesin
- Joy Of A Toy
- Bundles (2022 Remaster)
- Slightly All The Time (Remastered 2006)
- Song of Aeolus
- We Did It Again
- The Floating World (2022 Remaster)
- Pataphysical Introduction Pt. 2 (Live)
- Song of the Sunbird
- A Certain Kind
- Hazard Profile, Pt. 5 (2022 Remaster)
- Etika
- Day's Eye (Remastered 2006)
- Hope For Happiness
- Hazard Profile, Pt. 1 (2022 Remaster)
- Second Bundle
- Penny Hitch (Remastered 2006)
- Virtually Part 4 (Remastered 2006)
- Behind The Crystal Curtain
- Moon In June (Remastered 2006)
- Bone Fire (Remastered 2006)
- Kings And Queens (Remastered 2006)
- Pigling Bland (Remastered 2006)
- Facelift (Live - Remastered 2006)
- Snodland (Remastered 2006)
- As Long as He Lies Perfectly Still
- Stumble (Live) (Remastered 2006)
- Virtually Part 1 (Remastered 2006)
- Over 'N' Above
- Hulloder (Live)
- Between (Live) (Remastered 2006)
- All White (Remastered 2006)
- Isle Of The Blessed
- Thank You Pierrot Lunaire (Live)
- Riff (Live) (Remastered 2006)
- Teeth (Remastered 2006)
- Heart off Guard
- Gesolreut (Live) (Remastered 2006)
- Virtually Part 2 (Remastered 2006)
- Odds Bullets and Blades (Part I)

Playlist diffusée sur différentes plate-formes numériques, comportant un nombre variable de morceaux (de 11 à 48).

- APPLE MUSIC - Digital Format

Høvikodden 1971

> Zoom 1 2

2024

Disc 1
FEBRUARY 27, 1971 - FIRST SET
- Facelift
- Virtually
- Slightly All The Time
- Fletcher's Blemish

Disc 2
FEBRUARY 27, 1971 - SECOND SET
- Neo-Caliban Grides
- Out-Bloody-Rageous
- Vocal Improvisation
- Eamonn Andrews
- All White
- Kings and Queens
- Teeth
- Pigling Bland

Disc 3
FEBRUARY 28, 1971 - FIRST SET
- Facelift
- Virtually
- Slightly All The Time
- Fletcher's Blemish

Disc 4
FEBRUARY 28, 1971 - SECOND SET
- Neo-Caliban Grides
- Out-Bloody-Rageous
- Vocal Improvisation
- Eamonn Andrews
- All White 02:38
- Kings and Queens
- Teeth
- Pigling Bland
- Slightly All The Time [encore]

- Robert Wyatt - drums, vocals

- Mike Ratledge - Hohner pianet, Lowrey Holiday Deluxe organ, Fender Rhodes
- Hugh Hopper - bass
- Elton Dean - alto sax, saxello, Hohner pianet

Original recordings at the Henie-Onstad Art Center, Høvikodden, Norway, February 27-28, 1971.

- CUNEIFORM RECORDS (RUNE530V) 4xLP
- CUNEIFORM RECORDS (RUNE530) 4xCD

↑

> Zoom

2024

De Doelen, Rotterdam, Holland 1970

- Teeth
- Slightly All the Time > Kings and Queens
- Esther's Nose Job

- Robert Wyatt - drums

- Mike Ratledge - organ
- Hugh Hopper - bass
- Elton Dean - alto sax, saxello

October 24th 1970.

- HOMESPUN/DAMP MUSIC - Digital Format

↑

> Zoom

2024

Live In Europe 1970

Disc 1
POP 2 - THEATRE DE LA MUSIQUE - PARIS - FRANCE MARCH 2nd 1970 ORTF
- Eamon andrews
- Mousetrap
- So Real
- Noisette
- Backwards
- Mousetrap (reprise)
- Out-Bloody-Rageous
- Facelift
- Slightly All The Time
- Moon In June

Disc 2
DE DOELEN - ROTTERDAM - NETHERLANDS - OCTOBER 24th 1970 VPRO
- 18-8 Theme
- Vocal Improvisation
- Esthers Nose Job
- Teeth
- Slightly All The Time
- Esthers Nose Job

- Robert Wyatt - drums

- Mike Ratledge - organ
- Hugh Hopper - bass
- Elton Dean - alto sax, saxello
- Lyne Dobson - saxes, flutes (only on disc 1)

- HOMESPUN (HSP2CD2059) 2xCD

> Zoom

2025

Turns On '67

- That's How Much I Need You Now
- Save Yourself
- I Should've Known
- Jet-Propelled Photograph
- When I Don't Want You
- Memories
- You Don't Remember
- She's Gone
- I'd Rather Be With You

Turns On '67 présente les toutes premières démos de The Soft Machine, enregistrées en avril 1967 par Giorgio Gomelsky.
Restaurée pour le Record Store Day 2025, cette édition se présente sous la forme d'un vinyl transparent avec effet fumé.

- CHARLY (RSD 2025) LP

Les années Before | Soft Machine | Matching Mole | Solo | With Friends | Samples | Compilations | V.A. | Bootlegs | Reprises

HOME

> Zoom

1972

Matching Mole

- O Caroline [D. Sinclair/R. Wyatt]
- Instant Pussy [R. Wyatt]
- Signed Curtain [R. Wyatt]
- Part Of The Dance [P. Miller]
- Instant Kitten [R. Wyatt]
- Dedicated To Hugh, But You Weren't Listening [R. Wyatt]
- Beer As In Braindeer [R. Wyatt]
- Immediate Curtain [R. Wyatt]

- Robert Wyatt - drums, voice. piano, mellotron

- Phil Miller - guitar
- Dave McRae - electric piano
- Bill McCormick - bass
  Guest Super Star)
- David Sinclair - piano, organ

- CBS (S 64850) LP
- EPIC/SONY (ESCA 5425) CD

Critiques/Reviews

Lyrics

> Zoom

Une pochette "collector"- front
(sans impression du texte)

> Zoom

Une pochette "collector"- back
(sans impression du texte)

> Zoom

> Zoom

1972

O Caroline/Signed Curtain

- O Caroline
- Signed Curtain

Promo Version.

- CBS (S 8101) S

> Zoom

Little Red Record

- Starting In The Middle Of The Day We Can Drink Our Politics Away
[D. McRae/R. Wyatt]
- Marchides [D. McRae]
- Nan True's Hole [P. Miller/R. Wyatt]
- Righteous Rhumba [P. Miller/R. Wyatt]
- Brandy As In Benj [D. McRae]
- Gloria Gloom [B. MacCormick/ R. Wyatt]
- God Song [P. Miller/R. Wyatt]
- Flora Fidgit [B. MacCormick]
- Smoke Signal [D. McRae]

- Robert Wyatt - drums, voice, lyrics

- Phil Miller - guitar
- Dave McRae - electric piano, organ
- Bill McCormick - bass
- Brian Eno - Vcs3 (on Gloria Gloom)

- CBS (S 65260) LP
- COLUMBIA (KC-32148) LP
- COLUMBIA (CT 32148) K7
- COLUMBIA (471488-2) CD

Critiques/Reviews

Vidéos

Lyrics

> Zoom

1972

> Zoom

BBC Radio 1 Live In Concert

- Instant Pussy
- Lything And Gracing
- Marchides
- Part Of The Dance
- Brandy As In Benge

> Zoom

1994

- Robert Wyatt - drums

- Phil Miller - guitar
- Dave McRae - electric piano
- Bill McCormick - bass

Enregistré à The Paris Theatre, London le 27 juillet 1972

- WINDSONG (WINCD 063) CD

Smoke Signals

- Intro
- March Ides I
- Smoke Rings
- Nan True's Hole
- Brandy As In Benji
- Electric Piano Solo
- March Ides II
- Instant Pussy
- Smoke Signal
- Lything And Gracing

> Zoom 1 2

2001

- Robert Wyatt - drums

- Phil Miller - guitar
- Dave McRae - electric piano
- Bill McCormick - bass

Divers live gigs in Europe.

- CUNEIFORM (RUNE 150) CD

March

- March
- Instant Pussy
- Smoke Signal
- Part Of The Dance
- No 'Alf Measures
- Lything And Gracing
- Waterloo Lilly

> Zoom 1 2 3

2002

- Robert Wyatt - drums

- Phil Miller - guitar
- Dave McRae - electric piano
- Bill McCormick - bass

- CUNEIFORM (RUNE 172) CD

On The Radio

> Zoom 1 2 3 4

2007

- Marchides | Instant Pussy | Smoke Signal
- Part Of The Dance
- No 'Alf Measures
- Lithing And Gracing
- Immediate Kitten
- Instant Pussy
- Lithing And Gracing
- Marchides
- Part Of The Dance
- Brandy As In Benj

- Robert Wyatt - custom Ludwig drums

- Phil Miller - Gibson SG special electric guitar, effects pedals
- Dave McRae - modified Fender Rhodes electric piano, wha-wha pedal
- Bill McCormick - Gibson EB3 bass guitar, fuzz pedal
- Dave Sinclair - Hammond A100 organ

Track 1:
John Peel Session recorded 17.04.1972 - First broadcast 09.05.1972

Tracks 2 & 5:
John Peel Session recorded 17.01.1972 - First broadcast 25.01.1972

Tracks 3 & 4:
John Peel Session recorded 06.03.1972 - First broadcast 24.03.1972

Tracks 6-10:
BBC Radio 1 Live In Concert 27.07.1972

- HUX RECORDS (HUX083) CD

> Zoom 1 2 3 4 5 6 7 8 9 10 11

2012

Matching Mole (Expanded Edition)

Disc 1
THE ORIGINAL ALBUM REMASTERED
- O Caroline
- Instant Pussy
- Signed Curtain
- Part Of The Dance
- Instant Kitten
- Dedicated To Hugh, But You Weren't Listening
- Beer As In Braindeer
- Immediate Curtain
BONUS TRACKS
A & B sides of single:
- O Caroline (Single version)
- Signed Curtain (Single edit)
Previously unreleased:
- Part Of The Dance Jam

Disc 2
ALBUM SESSION RECORDINGS DECEMBER 1971 / JANUARY 1972
Previously unrealised:
- Signed Curtain (Take two)
- Memories Membrane
Previously unrealised:
-Part Of The Dance (Take One)
Previously unrealised:
- Horse
BBC RADIO ONE (SESSIONS)
John Peel Show, January 1972
- Immediate Kitten
John Peel Show, April 1972
-Marchides/Instant Pussy/Smoke Signal

Disc1
- Robert Wyatt - drums, voice, piano, mellotron

- Phil Miller - guitar
- Bill McCormick - bass guitar
- David Sinclair - piano, organ
- Dave McRae - electric piano on Instant Pussy, Part Of The Dance, Dedicated To Hugh But You Weren't Listening, Beer As In Braindeer

Disc 2
Tracks 1 & 2:
- Robert Wyatt - drums, voice, piano, mellotron
- Phil Miller - guitar
- Bill McCormick - bass guitar
- David Sinclair - piano, organ

Tracks 3 - 5:
- Robert Wyatt - drums, voice, piano, mellotron
- Phil Miller - guitar
- Bill McCormick - bass guitar
- Dave McRae - electric piano
- David Sinclair - piano, organ

Track 6:
- Robert Wyatt - drums, voice, piano, mellotron
- Phil Miller - guitar
- Bill McCormick - bass guitar
- Dave McRae - electric piano

- ESOTERIC RECORDINGS (ECLEC 22311) 2xCD

Little Red Record (Expanded Edition)

Disc 1
THE ORIGINAL ALBUM REMASTERED
- Starting In The Middle Of The Day We Can Drink Our Politics Away - Marchides

- Robert Wyatt - drums, mouth (and the extremely silly voice parts were composed and performed by R.W.)

> Zoom 1 2 3 4 5 6 7

8 9 10 11

2012

- Nan True's Hole
- Righteous Rhumba
- Brandy As In Benj
- Gloria Gloom
- God Song
- Flora Fidgit
- Smoke Signal

Disc 2
BBC RADIO ONE "IN CONCERT" SESSION
Recorded at the Paris Theatre, London on 27th July 1972 - Introducing by Mike Harding
- Instant Pussy Lithing And Gracing
- Marchides
-Part Of The Dance/Brandy As In Benj

RECORDED AT CBS STUDIO, LONDON IN AUGUST 1972 - Previously Unreleased
- Smoke Signal (Take Four)
- Flora Fidget (Take Eight)
- Mutter

- Phil Miller - guitars
- Bill McCormick - bass
- Dave McRae - grahnd piano, electric piano Hammond organ and Eno's synthesizer keyboard (on Flora Fidgit)

- This Summer's guest Super-Star Brian Eno - V.C.S.3 Synthesizer (on Gloria Gloom)

- ESOTERIC RECORDINGS (ECLEC 22312) 2xCD

Matching Mole (Japanese Reissue)

> Zoom 1 2

2014

- O Caroline [D. Sinclair/R. Wyatt]
- Instant Pussy [R. Wyatt]
- Signed Curtain [R. Wyatt]
- Part Of The Dance [P. Miller]
- Instant Kitten [R. Wyatt]
- Dedicated To Hugh, But You Weren't Listening [R. Wyatt]
- Beer As In Braindeer [R. Wyatt]
- Immediate Curtain [R. Wyatt]
Bonus
- O Caroline (Single Version)
- Signed Curtain (Single Edit)
- Signed Curtain (Take Two)
- Part Of The Dance (Take One)
- Memories Membrane
- Horse
- Sandwich

- Robert Wyatt - drums, voice. piano, mellotron

- Phil Miller - guitar
- Dave McRae - electric piano
- Bill McCormick - bass
Guest Super Star)
- David Sinclair - piano, organ

Cette réédition comporte 7 bonus tracks.

- SONY RECORDS INTERNATIONAL (SICP 30321) CD BLU-SPEC

Matching Mole (Expanded Edition - RSD 2024)

> Zoom

2024

Disc 1
- O Caroline [D. Sinclair/R. Wyatt]
- Instant Pussy [R. Wyatt]
- Signed Curtain [R. Wyatt]
- Part Of The Dance [P. Miller]
- Instant Kitten [R. Wyatt]
- Dedicated To Hugh, But You Weren't Listening [R. Wyatt]
- Beer As In Braindeer [R. Wyatt]
- Immediate Curtain [R. Wyatt]

Disc 2 - Bonus
- O Caroline (Single Version)
- Signed Curtain (Single Edit)
- Signed Curtain (Take Two)
- Part Of The Dance (Take One)
- Memories Membrane
- Horse
- Sandwich

Limited edition of 1000 individually numbered copies on yellow & orange marbled vinyl.

- RECORD STORE DAY 2024 (MOVLP3366) 2LP

> Zoom

1970

The End Of An Ear

- Las Vegas Tango Part 1 (Repeat) [G. Evans]
- To Mark Everywhere [R. Wyatt]
- To Saintly Bridget [R. Wyatt]
- To Oz Alien Daevyd And Gilly [R. Wyatt]
- To Nick Everyone [R. Wyatt]
- To Caravan And Brother Jim [R. Wyatt]
- To The Old World (Thank You For The Use Of Your Body, Goodbye) [R. Wyatt]
- To Carla, Marsha And Caroline (For Making Everything Beautifuller) [R. Wyatt]
- Las Vegas Tango Part 1 [G. Evans]

- Robert Wyatt - drums, mouth, piano, organ

- Mark Ellidge - piano
- Cyril Ayers - assorted percussion
- Marc Charig - cornet
- Elton Dean - alto sax/saxello
- Neville Whitehead - double bass
- David Sinclair - organ

- CBS (31846) LP
- CBS (64189) LP
- COLUMBIA (COL 473005-2) CD
- COLUMBIA (COL 493342-2) CD

Critiques/Reviews

> Zoom 1 2

1974

Rock Bottom

- Sea Song [R. Wyatt]
- A Last Straw [R. Wyatt]
- Little Red Riding Hood Hit The Road [R. Wyatt]
- Alifib [R. Wyatt]
- Alifie [R. Wyatt]
- Little Red Robin Hood Hit The Road [R. Wyatt]

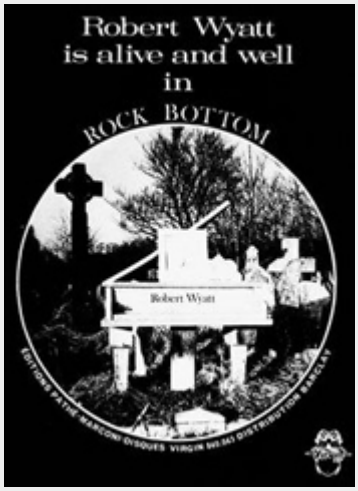
- Robert Wyatt - voice, keyboards, James' drum

- Richard Sinclair - bass guitar
- Laurie Allan - drums
- Hugh Hopper - bass guitar
- Ivor Cutler - voice
- Mongezi Feza - trumpet
- Alfreda Benge - voice
- Gary Windo - bass clarinet, tenor sax
- Fred Frith - viola, piano
- Mike Oldfield - guitar

- VIRGIN (840 043) LP
- WARNER or VIRGIN USA (VR 13-112) LP
- VIRGIN (ORL 8307) LP
- VIRGIN (V 2017) LP
- VIRGIN (CDV 2017) CD
- DOMINO RECORDS (REWIGCD40) CD
- DOMINO RECORDS (REWIGLP40) LP

Critiques/Reviews

Abécédaire

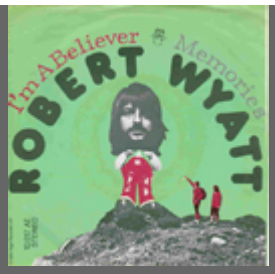


Vidéos

Lyrics

Robert Wyatt on Rock Bottom

> Zoom



> Zoom

Une curiosité: Rock Bottom sans titre imprimé sur la pochette

I'm A Believer/Memories

> Zoom

Germany

> Zoom

UK

> Zoom

Spain

> Zoom

US

> Zoom

- I'm A Believer [N. Diamond]
- Memories [H. Hopper]

- Robert Wyatt - vocals, piano, keyboards

- Dave MacRae - piano on I'm A Believer
- Fred Frith - guitar, violin
- Richard Sinclair - bass
- Nick Mason - drums

- VIRGIN Germany (13617 AT) S
- VIRGIN UK (VS 114) S
- VIRGIN US (56000) S
- VIRGIN Spain (13617 A) S
- VIRGIN France (640040) S
- VIRGIN Australia (K5681) S
- VIRGIN Netherlands (13591AT) S
- VIRGIN Yugoslavia (S53881) S
- COLUMBIA Japan (YK-3-VR) S

Vidéos

Critiques/Reviews

Australia

> Zoom

Yugoslavia

> Zoom

France

> Zoom

Netherlands

1974

> Zoom 1 2 3

Japanese promo edition
1975

Yesterday Man/I'm A Believer

> Zoom

1974

- Yesterday Man [C. Andrews]
- I'm A Believer [N. Diamond]

- VIRGIN France (640 059) S

> Zoom

1975

Ruth Is Stranger Than Richard

- Soup Song [B. Hopper:R. Wyatt]
- Sonia [M. Feza]
- Team Spirit [B. MacCormick/ P. Manzanera/R. Wyatt]
- Song For Che [C. Haden]
- Muddy Mouse [a] [F. Frith/R. Wyatt]
- Solar Flares [R. Wyatt]
- Muddy Mouse [b] [F. Frith/R. Wyatt]
- 5 Black Notes And 1 White Note [Offenbach/R. Wyatt]
- Muddy Mouse [c] [F. Frith/R. Wyatt]
- Muddy Mouth [F. Frith/R. Wyatt]

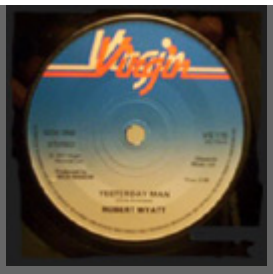
- Robert Wyatt - drums, mouth, piano, keyboards, imitation electric piano

- Laurie Allan - drums
- Nisar Ahmad "George" Khan - baritone sax
- Bill MacCormick - bass
- Gary Windo - tenor sax
- Mongezi Feza- trumpet
- John Greaves - bass
- Brian Eno - direct inject anti-jazz ray gun, guitar, synthetiser
- Fred Frith - piano, violin

- VIRGIN (V 2034) LP
- VIRGIN (840 079) LP
- VIRGIN (CDV 2034) CD

Lyrics

Critiques/Reviews



> Zoom

Yesterday Man/Sonia

- Yesterday Man [C. Andrews]
- Sonia [M. Feza]

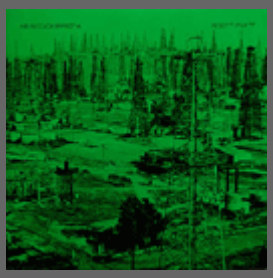
- Robert Wyatt - vocals, piano, drums



- Gary Windo - alto sax, tenor sax, bass clarinet
- Mongezi Feza - trumpet

1977

- John Greaves - bass

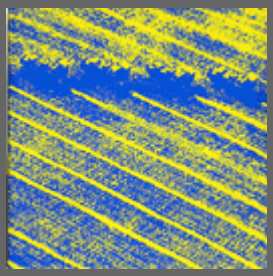
- VIRGIN (VS 115) S

> Zoom

1980

Arauco/Caimanera

- Arauco [V. Parra]
- Caimanera [Trad.]



- Robert Wyatt - keyboards, piano, guitar, vocal, percussion

- Bill MacCormick - bass
- Harry Beckett - flugelhorn

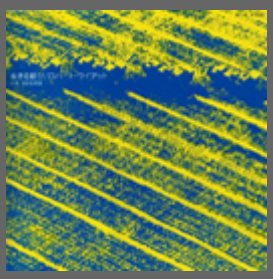
- ROUGH TRADE (RT037) S

> Zoom

> Zoom

1980

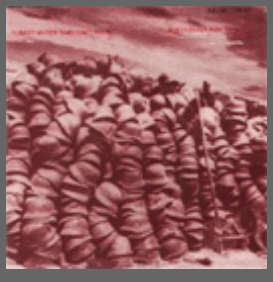
At Last I'm Free/Strange Fruit



- At Last I'm Free [Edwards/Rodgers]
- Strange Fruit [Lewis]

- Robert Wyatt - keyboards, vocals, percussion on At Last I'm Free

- Frank Roberts - piano
- Mogotsi Mothle - double bass



- ROUGH TRADE (RT052) S

Critiques/Reviews

> Zoom 1 2

Japanese Edition
1980

Stalin Wasn't Stalling/ Stalingrad

- Stalin Wasn't Stalling'[B. Johnson]
- Stalingrad [P. Blackman]

Présentoir chez un disquaire avec les slogans
"Rough Trade, le Quartier réservé de la Musique"
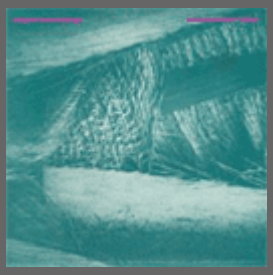
3x45 tours - Robert Wyatt
"à des prix pas trop rough"



- Robert Wyatt - vocals

- Peter Blackman - vocals on Stalingrad

- ROUGH TRADE (RT046) S

> Zoom

1981

1981

Grass/Trade Union

- Grass [I. Cutler]
- Trade Union [A. Salique]

- Robert Wyatt - vocals

- Kadir Durvesh - shehnai
- Esmael Shek - tabla
- Abdul Salique - vocals (?) and several unknown members

- ROUGH TRADE (RT081) S

> Zoom 1 2 3 4 5 6

1982

> Zoom 1 2 3

1993

The Animals Film

- The Animals Film [R. Wyatt]

- Robert Wyatt - vocals, piano, keyboards, percussion

La version originale a une durée de 28 minutes 11.
(side A = 15 minutes 15 side B = 12 minutes 56).
La version CD a été ramenée à 20 minutes 01.

La réédition CD japonaise de 1993 comporte 4 bonus tracks : The Wind Of Change 7 inch version, The Wind Of Change 12 inch version, Namibia 7 inch version and Namibia 12 inch version.

- ROUGH TRADE (40) EP
- ROUGH TRADE (R3172) CD
- ROUGH TRADE JAPAN (TDCN-5025) CD

Critiques/Reviews

Rock Bottom/Ruth Is Stranger Than Richard (Reissue LP - CD & K7)

Disc 1
- Sea Song
- A Last Straw
- Little Red Riding Hood Hit The Road

Réédition des deuxième et troisième albums solo de Robert Wyatt.

Virgin Records a republié à plusieurs reprises (1981, 1983, 1989...) ces deux albums en même temps.

> Zoom

> Zoom 1 2 3 4

1983

- Alifib
- Alifie
- Little Red Robin Hood Hit The Road

Disc 2
- Soup Song
- Sonia
- Team Spirit
- Song For Che
- Muddy Mouse [A]
- Solar Flares
- Muddy Mouse [B]
- 5 Black Notes And 1 White Note
- Muddy Mouse [C] Muddy Mouth

- VIRGIN (60017) 2xLP
- VIRGIN (VGD 3505) 2xLP
- VIRGIN (VGDC 3505) K7
- VIRGIN (301645) 2xLP
- VIRGIN (CDV 2017 0777 7 87712 2 7) 2xCD
- VIRGIN (CDV 2034 0777 7 87716 2 3) 2xCD

Critiques/Reviews

> Zoom

1982

Nothing Can Stop Us

- Born Again Cretin [R. Wyatt]
- At Last I Am Free [Edwards/Rodgers]
- Caimanera [Trad.]
- Grass [I. Cutler]
- Stalin Wasn't Stallin [B. Johnson]
- Shipbuilding [E. Costello] (titre présent à partir de l'édition de 1983)
- Red Flag [Trad.]
- Strange Fruit [Lewis]
- Arauco [V. Parra]
- Trade Union [A. Salique]
- Stalingrad [P. Blackman]

- ROUGH TRADE (ROUGH35) LP
- ROUGH TRADE (CD35) CD
- HANNIBAL (1433) CD
- RYKODISC (VACK-1227) CD
- DOMINO RECORDS (REWIGCD42) CD
- DOMINO RECORDS (REWIGLP42) LP

Critiques/Reviews

Lyrics

> Zoom

> Zoom

1982

Shipbuilding/Memories Of You/'Round Midnight

- Memories Of You [E. Blake]
- 'Round Midnight [T. Monk]
- Shipbuilding [E. Costello]

- Robert Wyatt - percussion, vocal

- Clive Langer - organ
- Steve Nieve - piano
- Mark Bedford - double bass
- Martin Hughes - drums
- Elvis Costello - backing vocals
- Dave MacRae - piano and synthesizer on Memories Of You and 'Round Midnight

- ROUGH TRADE (RT115T) EP

Critiques/Reviews

Lyrics

> Zoom

Shipbuilding/Memories Of You

- Shipbuilding [E. Costello]
- Memories Of You [E. Blake]

Il y a 4 versions différentes de pochette d'après une illustration de Stanley Spencer pour ce Single.

- ROUGH TRADE (RT115) S
- STUNN (BFA 1076) S

Vidéos

> Zoom

> Zoom

> Zoom

1982

> Zoom

1982

> Zoom

1984

> Zoom 1 2

1984

> Zoom

1984

Work In Progress

- Biko [P. Gabriel]
- Amber And The Amberines [H. Hopper/R. Wyatt]
- Yolanda [P. Milanes]
- Te Recuerdo Amanda [V. Jara]

- Robert Wyatt - percussion, keyboards, vocals

- ROUGH TRADE (RTT149) EP
- ROUGH TRADE/VIRGIN (80125) EP

Lyrics

Biko/Amber And The Amberines

- Biko [P. Gabriel]
- Amber And The Amberines [H. Hopper/R. Wyatt]

- Robert Wyatt - percussion, keyboards, vocals

White label pressing with stickers identifying A & B tracks.

- ROUGH TRADE (RTT149) EP

4 Tracks EP

- I'm A Believer [N. Diamond]
- Yesterday Man [C. Andrews]
- Team Spirit [B. MacCormick/ P. Manzanera/R. Wyatt]
- Memories [H. Hopper]

- Robert Wyatt - vocals, piano, drums, keyboards

Reprise des titres parus en 1974 (I'm a Believer,Memories), 1975 (Team Spirit) et 1977 (Yesterday Man).

- VIRGIN (WYATT1) EP

Lyrics

The Age Of Self

> Zoom 1 2

1984

- The Age Of Self [R. Wyatt]
- Raise Your Banners High
  (The Grimethorpe Colliery Brass Band)

- Robert Wyatt - percussion, keyboards, vocals

Disque réalisé en soutien aux luttes des mineurs (All proceeds from the sale of this record will go to the TUC MINERS HARDSHIP FUND).

- ROUGH TRADE (TUC784) S

Old Rottenhat

> Zoom 1 2

1985

- Alliance [R. Wyatt]
- United States Of Amnesia [R. Wyatt]
- East Timor [R. Wyatt]
- Speechless [R. Wyatt]
- Age Of Self [R. Wyatt]
- Vandalusia [R. Wyatt]
- British Road [R. Wyatt]
- Mass Medium [R. Wyatt]
- Gharbzadegi [R. Wyatt]
- P.L.A. [R. Wyatt]

- Robert Wyatt - drums, keyboards, vocals

- ROUGH TRADE (ROUGH 69) LP
- ROUGH TRADE (70406) LP
- ROUGH TRADE (CD69) CD
- HANNIBAL (1434) CD
- DOMINO RECORDS (REWIGCD43) CD
- DOMINO RECORDS (REWIGLP43) LP

Critiques/Reviews

Lyrics

Shipbuilding/At Last I Am Free

Zoom

1986

- Shipbuilding [E. Costello]
- At Last I Am Free [Edwards/Rodgers]

Promo version.

- GRAMAVISION (18-1212-1) LP

Nothing Can Stop Us (US Edition)

> Zoom 1 2 3 4 5

1986

- Shipbuilding [E. Costello]
- Stalin Wasn't Stallin [B. Johnson]
- Born Again Cretin [R. Wyatt]
- At Last I Am Free [Edwards/Rodgers]
- Caimanera [Trad.]
- Grass [I. Cutler]
- Memories Of You [E. Blake]
- Red Flag [Trad.]
- Strange Fruit [Lewis]
- Arauco [V. Parra]
- Trade Union [A. Salique]
- Round Midnight [T. Monk/C. Williams/B. Hanighen]

Some (presumably early) copies included an A6 double sided insert with info about Dishari on one side and the Trade Union lyrics on the reverse.

- GRAMMAVISION (18-8614-1) LP

> Zoom 1 2 3

1986

Late '70's-Early '80's + Old Rottenhat

Disc 1 -
LATE '70's-EARLY '80's
- Red Flag
- Strange Fruit
- Arauco
- Born Again Cretin
- At Last I Am Free
- Caimanera
- Grass
- Stalin Wasn't Stallin'
- Shipbuilding
- Yolanda
- Te Recuerdo Amanda
- Biko
- Amber And Amberines
- Memories Of You
- Round Midnight

Disc 2
OLD ROTTENHAT
- Alliance
- United States Of Amnesia
- East Timor
- Speechless
- Age Of Self
- Vandalusia
- British Road
- Mass Medium
- Gharbzadegi
- P.L.A.

Japan Double Pack CD.

Cet album est également présent dans la rubrique Compilations.

-JAPAN RECORD (TOKUMA JAPAN COMMUNICATIONS) 2xCD

> Zoom

1987

Chairman Mao

- Chairman Mao [C. Haden/R. Wyatt]

- Robert Wyatt - vocals, keyboards

Single italien en vinyl rouge, enregistré sur une seule face et publié avec un recueil de textes et d'interviews consacrés à Robert Wyatt.

- STAMPA ALTERNATIVA (SCONC-002) S

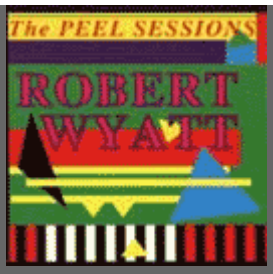
Abécédaire

Lyrics

> Zoom

The Peel Sessions

- Alifib [R. Wyatt]
- Soup Song [B. Hopper/R. Wyatt]
- Sea Song [R. Wyatt]
- I'm a Believer [N. Diamond]



- Robert Wyatt - voice, piano, marimba on 2, BBC's organ and Leslie on 2 & 3

- STRANGE FRUIT (SFPS037) EP
- STRANGE FRUIT (DEI 8336-2) CD

Critiques/Reviews

> Zoom

1987 - 1991

> Zoom

1991

Dondestan

- Costa [R. Wyatt/A. Benge]
- The Sight Of The Wind [R. Wyatt/A. Benge]
- Catholic Architecture [R. Wyatt/A. Benge]
- Worship [R. Wyatt/A. Benge]
- Shrinkrap [R. Wyatt/A. Benge]
- CP Jeebies [R. Wyatt]
- Left On Man [R. Wyatt]
- Lisp Service [H. Hopper/R. Wyatt]
- N.I.O. (New Information Order) [R. Wyatt]
- Dondestan [R. Wyatt]

- Robert Wyatt - vocals, keyboards, piano, percussion, acoustic guitar on Shrinkrap, melodica on Left On Man

- ROUGH TRADE (ZN 017) LP
- ROUGH TRADE (30870) CD
- ROUGH TRADE (R2742) CD
- HANNIBAL RECORDS (HNCD 1436) CD
- RYKODISC (VACK-1229) CD
- GRAMAVISION (79469) CD
- DOMINO (REWIGLP44) LP
- DOMINO (REWIGCD44) CD

Critiques/Reviews

Lyrics

> Zoom

> Zoom

1991

The Peel Sessions 1974

- Soup Song [B. Hopper/R. Wyatt]
- Alifib [R. Wyatt]
- I'm A Believer [N. Diamond]
- Sea Song [R. Wyatt]

Réédition de l'album The Peel Sessions de 1987.

- STRANGE FRUITS (WMD672005) CD-S

A Short Break

- Short Break [R. Wyatt]
- Tubab [R. Wyatt]
- Kutcha [R. Wyatt]

- Robert Wyatt - vocals, percussion, piano, keyboards

Recorded on 4-Track at home, summer

> Zoom 1 2 3 4 5

1992

- Venti Latir [R. Wyatt]
- Unmasked [Tutti/Carter/Wyatt]

1992.
The photographs were taken forty years ago.

"This Compact-Disc is approximately 21 minutes of new music. Please do not confuse this with either a full lenght CD or a CDSingle. It has been sold to your retailer with this in mind".

Un coffret Collector en édition limitée comprenant un livret d'une vingtaine de pages est sorti en même temps que la version CD de 1992.

- VOICEPRINT (VP108CD) CD
- VOICEPRINT (VP 108 CD) (Box Set Collector) CD
- VINYL LOVERS (VL900686) EP (re-edit 2009)

Lyrics

Critiques/Reviews

Booklet

1994

Rock Bottom/Ruth Is Stranger Than Richard (CD Reissue)

Disc 1
- Sea Song
- A Last Straw
- Little Red Riding Hood Hit The Road
- Alifib
- Alifie
- Little Red Robin Hood Hit The Road

Disc 2
- Soup Song
- Sonia
- Team Spirit
- Song For Che
- Muddy Mouse [A]
- Solar Flares
- Muddy Mouse [B]
- 5 Black Notes And 1 White Note
- Muddy Mouse [C] Muddy Mouth

- VIRGIN (France) (7243 8 39752 2 8) 2xCD

> Zoom 1 2

1997

Shleep

- Heaps Of Sheeps [A. Benge/R. Wyatt/ arr B. Eno]
- The Duchess [R. Wyatt]
- Maryan [R. Wyatt/P. Catherine]
- Was A Friend [R. Wyatt/H. Hopper]
- Free Will And Testament [R. Wyatt/Kramer]
- September The Ninth [A. Benge/ R. Wyatt]
- Alien [A. Benge/R. Wyatt]
- Out Of Season [A. Benge/R. Wyatt]
- A Sunday In Madrid [A. Benge/R. Wyatt]
- Blues In Bob Minor [R. Wyatt]
- Whole Point Of No Return [P. Weller]
- September In The Rain [A. Dubin/ H. Warren] (titre bonus réservé à l'édition japonaise)

- Robert Wyatt - vocals, keyboards, bass, percussion, Polish fiddle, trumpet

- Brian Eno - synthesizer, backing vocals, synth bass
- Jamie Johnson - guitar
- Evan Parker - soprano sax, tenor sax
- Philip Catherine - guitar
- Chikako Sato - violin
- Chucho Merchan - double bass, percussion, bass, bass drum
- Alfreda Benge - voice of the apparition
- Paul Weller - guitar, acoustic guitar, backing vocals
- Annie Whitehead - trombone
- Phil Manzanera - guitar
- Gary Adzukx - djembe
- Jamie Johnson, Alfreda Benge, Charles Rees - chorus

- HANNIBAL (HNCD 1418) CD
- RYKODISC (VACK-1230) CD
- DOMINO RECORDS (REWIGCD45) CD

- DOMINO RECORDS (REWIGLP45) 2xLP

Critiques/Reviews

Lyrics

> Zoom

1997

Free Will And Testament/The Sight Of The Wind

- Free Will And Testament
- The Sight Of The Wind

- Robert Wyatt - voice, keyboard, percussion on Free Will And Testament and voice and all instruments on The Sight Of The Wind

- Paul Weller - guitar, harmony vocals

- ISLAND/TRADE2 (TRDSC010) S

> Zoom

1997

Heaps Of Sheeps

- Heaps Of Sheeps
- A Sunday In Madrid

- HANNIBAL (VHCD1418) S

> Zoom

1998

Rock Bottom (Hannibal Reissue)

- Sea Song [R. Wyatt]
- A Last Straw [R. Wyatt]
- Little Red Riding Hood Hit The Road [R. Wyatt]
- Alifib [R. Wyatt]
- Alife [R. Wyatt]
- Little Red Robin Hood Hit The Road [R. Wyatt]

Reédition de l'album paru en 1974. A noter que le morceau Alifie est désomais nommé Alife.

- HANNIBAL (HNCD 1426) CD

Ruth Is Stranger Than Richard (Hannibal Reissue)

Side RICHARD
- Muddy Mouse [a] [F. Frith/R. Wyatt]
- Solar Flares [R. Wyatt]
- Muddy Mouse [b] [F. Frith/R. Wyatt]
- 5 Black Notes And 1 White Note [Offenbach/R. Wyatt]
- Muddy Mouse [c] [F. Frith/R. Wyatt]
- Muddy Mouth [F. Frith/R. Wyatt]

Side RUTH

Reédition de l'album paru en 1975.

Les morceaux ne sont pas présentés dans le même ordre.

De nombreuses rééditions seront ensuite publiées au fil des ans en particulier suite à la reprise du catalogue de Robert Wyatt par le label Domino en 2007.

> Zoom 1 2 3

1998

- Soup Song [B. Hopper:R. Wyatt]
- Sonia [M. Feza]
- Team Spirit [B. MacCormick/ P. Manzanera/R. Wyatt]
- Song For Che [C. Haden]
-

- HANNIBAL (HNCD 1427) CD
- THIRSTY EAR (THI 57044.2) CD
- HANNIBAL (VACK-1139) CD
- RYKODISC (VACK-1226) CD
- DOMINO (REWIGLP41) LP
- DOMINO (REWIGCD41) CD
- DOMINO (DNO 201) CD + LP Deluxe limited edition

> Zoom

1998

Dondestan (Revisited)

- CP Jeebies
- N.I.O. (New Information Order)
- Dondestan
- Sight Of the Wind
- Shrinkrap
- Catholic Architecture
- Worship
- Costa
- Left On Man
- Lisp Service

- Robert Wyatt - all instruments

- HANNIBAL (HNCD 1436) CD
- DOMINO RECORDS (REWIGCD44) CD
- DOMINO RECORDS (REWIGLP44) LP

> Zoom

2002

Airplay

- Fridge [R. Wyatt]
- When Access Was A Noun [R. Wyatt]
- Salt/Ivy [R. Wyatt]
- Signed Curtain [R. Wyatt]

- Robert Wyatt - voice, keyboards, percussion, cornet, bass guitar, piano

Edition japonaise. Ce CD était offert en bonus avec l'achat d'un coffret de 6 albums solo de Robert Wyatt.

Ces morceaux seront repris en 2003 sur le CD qui accompagne le recueil M4W de Jean-Michel Marchetti.

- RYKODISC (SVAM 0064) CD

> Zoom 1 2 3

2003

Solar Flares Burn For You

- Alifib [R. Wyatt]
- Soup Song [B. Hopper/R. Wyatt]
- Sea Song [R. Wyatt]
- I'm A Believer [N. Diamond]
- Blimey O'Riley [H. Hopper/R. Wyatt]
- Solar Flares Burn For You [R. Wyatt]
- God Song/ Fol De Rol [P. Miller/ R. Wyatt]
- Little Child [A. Petrov/I. Kostal/ T. Harrison]
- We Got An Arts Council Grant [R. Wyatt]
- Righteous Rhumba [P. Miller/R. Wyatt]
- 'Twas Brillig [H. Hopper/R. Wyatt]
- The Verb [R. Wyatt]

- Robert Wyatt - vocals, percussion, cornet, keyboards

- Francis Monkman - synthesizer, piano, electric piano, backing vocals
- Hugh Hopper - bass, loops

Les titres 1, 2, 3, 6, 7 et 8 ont été enregistrés à Langham 1, London, BBC Top Gear Recording.

- CUNEIFORM (RUNE 175) CD

Cuckooland

PART ONE 'NEITHER HERE...'
- Just A Bit [R. Wyatt]
- Old Europe [A. Benge/R. Wyatt]
- Tom Hay's Fox [R. Wyatt]
- Forest [A. Benge/R. Wyatt]
- Beware [K. Mantler]
- Cuckoo Madame [A. Benge/R. Wyatt]
- Raining In My Heart [Bryant and

- Robert Wyatt - vocals, keyboards, cornet, percussion, trumpet

- Brian Eno - last note (on 3)
- Jamie Johnson - bass
- Alfreda Benge - voice of

> Zoom

2003

Bryant]
- Lullaby For Hamza [A. Benge/R. Wyatt]

Silence
A suitable place for those with tired ears to pause and resume listening later

PART TWO 'NOR THERE'
- Trickle Down [R. Wyatt]
- Insensatez [A.C. Jobim/V. Demoraes]
- Mister E [K. Mantler]
- Lullaloop [A. Benge]
- Life Is Sheep [K. Mantler]
- Foreign Accents [R. Wyatt]
- Brian The Fox [R. Wyatt]
- La Ahada Yalam [N. Zreik]
- La Cancion De Julietta [R. Wyatt/G.G. Lorca] (titre bonus réservé à l'édition japonaise)

Lullaloop
- Paul Weller - guitar, acoustic guitar, backing vocals
- Annie Whitehead - trombone
- Phil Manzanera - voice
- David Gilmour- guitar
- Gilad Atzmon
- Yaron Stavi
- Karen Mantler
- Tomo Hayakawa
- Tomo Noro
- Michael Evans
- Jennifer Maidman

- HANNIBAL/RYKODISC (HNCD 1468) CD
- DOMINO RECORDS (REWIGCD47) CD
- DOMINO RECORDS (REWIGLP47) 2xLP

Critiques/Reviews

Abécédaire

Vidéos

Lyrics

> Zoom 1 2 2bis 3 4

2005

Theatre Royal Drury Lane - Robert Wyatt & Friends In Concert - 8th September 1974

- Introduction by John Peel
- Dedicated To You But You Weren't Listening [H. Hopper]
- Memories [H. Hopper]
- Sea Song [R. Wyatt]
- A Last Straw [R. Wyatt]
- Little Red Riding Hood Hit The Road [R. Wyatt]
- Alife [R. Wyatt]
- Alifib [R. Wyatt]
- Mind Of A Child [J. Tippetts]
- Instant Pussy [R. Wyatt]
- Signed Curtain [R. Wyatt]
- Calyx [P. Miller/R. Wyatt]
- Little Red Robin Hood Hit The Road [R. Wyatt]
- I'm A Believer [N. Diamond]

- Robert Wyatt - voice

- Dave Stewart - keyboards
- Laurie Allan - drums
- Hugh Hopper - bass guitar
- Fred Frith - violin, guitar, viola
- Mongezi Feza - trumpet
- Mike Oldfield - guitar
- Julie Tippetts - keyboard, voice
- Nick Mason - drums
- John Peel - voice
- Ivor Cutler - voice

A noter une intrigante double version du texte de Robert Wyatt sur le verso du CD : voir les visuels 2 et 2bis du Zoom...

Un montage "Please Smile" constitué de bandes mixées à l'envers et à l'endroit (voix-guitare-batterie) défile après le dernier morceau (I'm A Believer) et les applaudissements du public suivis d'un silence de plusieurs minutes.

- HANNIBAL/RYKODISC (HNCD 1507) CD
- DOMINO RECORDS (REWIGCD48) CD
- DOMINO RECORDS (REWIGLP487) 2xLP

Critiques/Reviews

Lyrics

> Zoom 1 2 3 4 5 6 7 8

2007

Comicopera

ACT ONE LOST IN NOISE
- Stay Tuned [Anja Garbarek]
- Just As You Are [A. Benge/R. Wyatt]
- You You [A. Benge/R. Wyatt]
- A.W.O.L [A. Benge/R. Wyatt]
- Anachronist [R. Wyatt]

ACT TWO THE HERE AND THE NOW
- A Beautiful Place [R. Wyatt/B. Eno]
- Be Serious [R. Wyatt]
- On The Town Square [R. Wyatt]
- Mob Rule [R. Wyatt]
- A Beautiful War [R. Wyatt/B. Eno]
- Out Of The Blue [A. Benge/R. Wyatt]

ACT THREE AWAY WITH THE FAIRIES
- Del Mondo [Ferreti/Zamboni/Maroccolo/ Magnelli/Canali]
- Cancion De Julieta [G. Lorca/R. Wyatt]
- Pastafari [O. Robinson]
- Fragment [A. Benge/R. Wyatt]
- Hasta Siempre Comandante [C. Puebla]

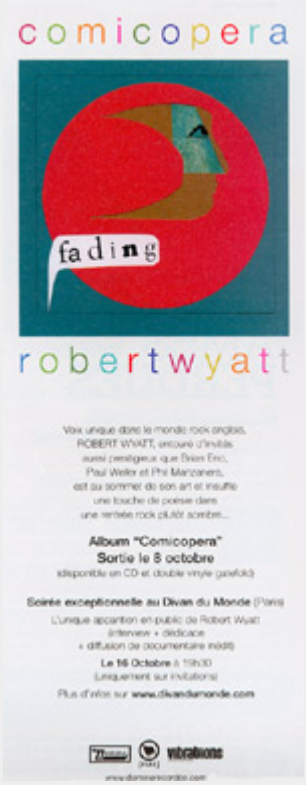
> en savoir plus

- Robert Wyatt - voice, piano, percussion, trumpet, cornet, old metronome, keyboard, karenotron (i.e. voice of Karen Mantler), Enotron (i. e. voice of Brian Eno), pocket trumpet, monicatron (i.e. voice of Monica Vasconcelos)

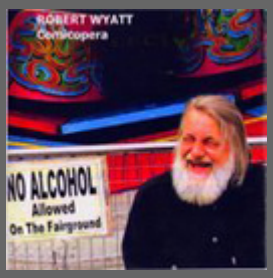
- Robert Wyatt, Jamie Johnson - electrical interference

- Brian Eno - keyboards, effects
- Seaming To Voice - clarinet
- Annie Whitehead - trombone, baritone horn
- Yaron Stavi - bass violin
- Monica Vasconcelos - voice
- Paul Weller - guitar
- Gilad Atzmon - saxophones, tenor saxophone, clarinet
- Jamie Johnson - bass guitar
- David Sinclair - piano
- Phil Manzanera - guitar
- Del Bartle - guitar
- Orphy Robinson - steelpan, vibraphone
- Chucho Merchan - bass violin
- Maurizio Camardi - saxophones
- Alphonso Santimone - piano, keyboards
- Alessandro Fedrigo - bass guitar
- Paolo Vidaich - percussion
- Gianni Bertoncini - drums



- Alfreda Benge - art and design

La 4ème face du double LP ne comporte pas de sillon mais un poème gravé dans le vinyl (voir ci-contre Zoom 7 et 8).



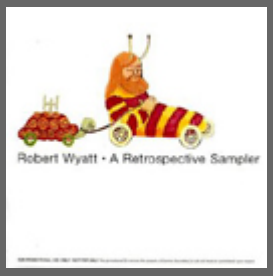
- DOMINO RECORDS (WIGCD202) CD
- DOMINO RECORDS (WIGLP202) 2xLP

Critiques/Reviews

Lyrics

> Zoom

> Zoom 1 2



2007

Comicopera Sampler

- Just As You Are
- A Beautiful War
- Hasta Siempre Comandante

CD-R Promo Edition

- DOMINO RECORDS

> Zoom 1 2

2008

A Retrospective Sampler

- Introduction By John Peel
- Sea Song
- Little Red Robin Hood Hit the Road
- Solar Flares
- Soup Song
- At Last I Am Free
- Stalin Wasn't Stallin'
- Memories (Live)
- I'm A Believer (Live)

CD-R Promo Edition

- DOMINO RECORDS

Shleep (LP Domino Reissue)

Disc 1
- Heaps Of Sheeps
- The Duchess

Réedition de Shleep en double-vinyl avec les morceaux supplémentaires

> Zoom

2008

- Maryan
- Was A Friend
- Free Will And Testament
- September The Ninth
- Alien

Disc 2
- Out Of Season
- A Sunday In Madrid
- Blues In Bob Minor
- The Whole Point Of No Return
- Te Recuerdo Amanda
- Yolanda
- When Access Was A Noun
- Fridge
- Salt/Ivy
- Signed Curtain (Plus Cornet)
- September In The Rain
- I Wonder How Your Breath Can Last [R. Wyatt/Trad. & G. Atzmon]

suivants :

- Te Recuerdo Amanda et Yolanda extraits de Work In Progress

- When Access Was A Noun, Fridge, Salt/Ivy extraits de Airplay.

- Signed Curtain (version inédite avec R. Wyatt - voice, cornet, keyboards)

- September In The Rain (version inédite avec R. Wyatt - voice, cornet, keyboards & Paul Weller - guitar)

- I Wonder How Your Breath Can Last (nouveau morceau avec R. Wyatt - voice, keyboards & Gilad Atzmon - tenor saxophone).

- DOMINO RECORDS (REWIGLP45) 2xLP

> Zoom 1 2 3

2009

Radio Experiment Rome, February 1981

- Opium War [R. Wyatt]
- Heathens Have No Souls [R. Wyatt]
- L'Albero Degli Zoccoli [R. Wyatt]
- Holy War [R. Wyatt]
- Revolution Without "R" [R. Wyatt]
- Billy's Bounce [Ch. Parker]
- Born Again Cretin [R. Wyatt]
- Prove Sparse [R. Wyatt]

- Robert Wyatt - vocals, piano, keyboards, objects, jew's harp, percussion

Programme réalisé par Robert Wyatt pour la RAI italienne en février 1981. Plusieurs versions non officielles circulent depuis plusieurs années sur internet.

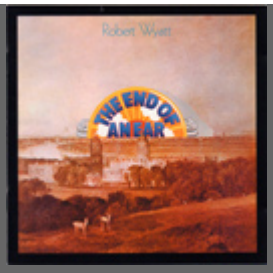
- TRACCE (RTPJ 0014) CD
- TRACCE (RTPJ 0014) LP

Critiques/Reviews

> Zoom

2010

Rock Bottom / Comicopera (Double CD Reissue)



ROCK BOTTOM
- Sea Song
- A Last Straw
- Little Red Riding Hood Hit The Road
- Alifib
- Alife
- Little Red Robin Hood Hit The Road

COMICOPERA
Act One - Lost In Noise
- Stay Tuned
- Just As You Are
- You You
- A.W.O.L.
- Anachronist

Act Two - The Here And The Now
- A Beautiful Peace
- Be Serious
- On The Town Square
- Mob Rule
- A Beautiful War
- Out Of The Blue

Act Three Away With The Fairies
- Del Mondo
- Cancion De Julieta
- Pastafari
- Fragment
- Hasta Siempre Comandante

- DOMINODOUBLES (DOMDBL06CD) 2xCD

> Zoom 1 2 3 4 5 6 7 8

2012

The End Of An Ear (Remastered)

- Las Vegas Tango Part 1 (Repeat)
- To Mark Everywhere
- To Saintly Bridget
- To Oz Alien Daevyd And Gilly
- To Nick Everyone
- To Caravan And Brother Jim
- To The Old World (Thank You For The Use Of Your Body, Goodbye)
- To Carla, Marsha And Caroline (For Making Everything Beautifuller)
- Las Vegas Tango Part 1

This reissue has been newly remastered from the original master tapes and features a booklet that restores all original album artwork.

- ESOTERIC RECORDINGS (ECLEC 2324) CD

> Zoom 1 2 3 4 5 6 7 8 9

2013

Robert Wyatt '68

- Chelsa [Robert Wyatt/Kevin Ayers*]
- Rivmic Melodies [Robert Wyatt]
- Slow Walkin' Talk [Brian Hopper]
- Moon In June [Robert Wyatt]
- Rivmic Melodies - Radio Edit [Robert Wyatt] (bonus on digital version)

- Robert Wyatt - vocals, piano, electric piano, Hammond organ, bass, drums, percussion

- Jimi Hendrix - bass (Slow Walkin Talk)
- Hugh Hopper - bass (second half of Moon In June)
- Mike Ratledge - Lowrey organ (second half of Moon In June)

Recorded in October-November 1968 at T.T.G. Studios, Hollywood , CA and The Record Plant, New-York City, NY, USA. The second half of Moon In June was recorded in mid-1969 in England.

*Aymeric Leroy qui a fait l'interview de Robert Wyatt publié dans le booklet m'a écrit (25/12/2013) :
"Les crédits d'écriture du morceau Chelsa attribuent à tort le texte à Kevin Ayers (c'était le souvenir - erroné - de Robert), alors qu'il est en réalité de Daevid Allen.
Il existe d'ailleurs une version de cette chanson (musique différente car signée elle aussi d'Allen) sur le CD d'archives de Gong "Camembert Eclectique" paru dans les années 90."

- CUNEIFORM RECORDS (375) CD
- CUNEIFORM RECORDS (375-V) LP USA (375-VE) LP outside USA

Critiques/Reviews

> Zoom 1 2

2020

A Short Break (Picture disc reissue)

- Short Break [R. Wyatt]
- Tubab [R. Wyatt]
- Kutcha [R. Wyatt]
- Venti Latir [R. Wyatt]
- Unmasked [Tutti/Carter/Wyatt]

Vinyl reissue of the 1992 version. Single Sided, EP, Picture Disc, Remastered.

One sided picture disc.

- TIGER BAY (TB 6468 & TB6508) EP

> Zoom

Love Is 1968

Eric Burdon & The Animals

Disc 1
- River Deep, Mountain High
- I'm an Animal
- I'm Dying, Or Am I?
- Ring Of Fire
- Colored Rain

Disc 2
- To Love Somebody
- As the Years Go Passing By
- Madman
- Gemini

- Robert Wyatt - backing vocals on River Deep, Mountain High (uncredited)

- Eric Burdon - vocals
- Zoot Money - organ, piano, bass, vocals
- Andy Summers - guitar, vocals
- John Weider - bass, guitar, vocals
- Barry Jenkins - drums

- MGM US (SE-4591/92) 2xLP
- MGM UK (C-8105) LP (3 morceaux de moins que sur l'édition US)
- ONE WAY (OW 30338) CD

> Zoom

Sun Rise
1969

Eire Apparent

- Yes, I Need Someone
- Got To Get Away
- The Clown
- Mr. Guy Fawkes
- Someone Is SureTo (Want You)
- Rock & Roll Band
- Morning Glory
- Magic Carpet
- Captive In the Sun
- Let Me Stay
- 1026

- Robert Wyatt - backing vocals on The Clown

- Ernie Graham - rhythm guitar, vocals
- Eric Stewart - bass
- David Lutton - drums
- Jimi Hendrix - guitar
- Noel Redding backing vocals on The clown

- BUDDAH RECORDS (203 021) LP

↑

> Zoom

River Deep, Mountain High
1969

Eric Burdon & The Animals

- River Deep, Mountain High
- White Houses

River Deep, Moutain High est extrait de Love Is.

- MGM SPAIN (MGM 61.026) S

↑

Kevin Ayers

- Joy Of A Toy Continued
- Town Feeling
- The Clarietta Rag

- Robert Wyatt - drums & tambourine on 1-2-3-5 and 8

> Zoom

Joy Of A Toy
1969

- Girl On A Swing
- Song For Insane Times
- Stop This Train (Again Doing It)
- Eleanor's Cake (Which Ate Her)
- Lady Rachel
- Oleh Oleh Bandu Bandong
- All This Crazy Gift Of Time

- Kevin Ayers - vocals, guitar, bass, piano
- David Bedford - piano, arrangements
- Rob Tait - drums
- Mike Ratledge - organ, piano, flute
- Hugh Hopper - bass
- Jeff Clyne - double bass
- Paul Minns - oboe
- Paul Buckmaster - cello
- Cyrille Ayers, Sean Murphy, Jean & Mary - backing vocals

- HARVEST (SHVL 763) LP

> Zoom

The Madcap Laughs
1970

Syd Barrett

- Terrapin
- No Good Trying
- Love You
- No Man's Land
- Dark Globe
- Here I Go
- Octopus
- Golden Hair
- Long Gone
- She Took A Long Cold Look
- Feel
- If It's In You
- Late Night

- Robert Wyatt - drums

- Syd Barrett - guitar, vocals
- Mike Ratledge - organ, piano on Love You
- Hugh Hopper - bass

- HARVEST (C 062-04261) LP

> Zoom

Shooting At The Moon
1970

Kevin Ayers And The Whole World

- May I
- Rheinhardt And Geraldine
- Colores Para Dolores
- Lunatics Lament
- Pisser Dans Un Violon
- The Oyster And The Flying Fish
- Underwater
- Clarence In Wonderland
- Red Green And You Blue
- Shooting At The Moon

- Robert Wyatt - backing vocals

- Kevin Ayers - guitar, vocals
- David Bedford - piano, organ, accordion
- Lol Coxhill - saxes
- Mike Oldfield - guitar, bass
- Mick Fincher - percussion, bottles, ashtrays
- Bridget St. John - vocals on The Oyster And The Flying Fish

- HARVEST (SHSP 4005) LP
- BGO (CD 13) CD

Critiques/Reviews

> Zoom

Garden Of Love
1970

Kevin Ayers, Mike Oldfield, Robert Wyatt, David Bedford, Lol Coxhill

- Garden Of Love (words by William Blake, music by David Bedford)

- Robert Wyatt - drums, percussion

- David Bedford - organ, electric piano
- Kevin Ayers - guitar, vocals
- Lol Coxhill - soprano sax, tenor sax
- Mike Oldfield - bass

Augmented by The London Sinfonietta:

- Sebastian Bell - flute
- Anthony Pay - clarinet

- Antonia Cook -horn
- Peter Reeve -trumpet
- Daryl Runswick- double bass
- David Atherton - conductor

26/9/1970, London Sinfonietta, Queen Elizabeth Hall, BBC Radio 3 recording

- VOICEPRINT (VP180) CD

> Zoom

Piknik Radio Broadcast 1970 (?)

Kevin Ayers And The Whole Wide World

- Interview Kevin Ayers
- The Oyster And The Flying Fish
- We Did It Again
- Hat Song
- Audience
- If You've Got Money
- Clarence In Wonderland
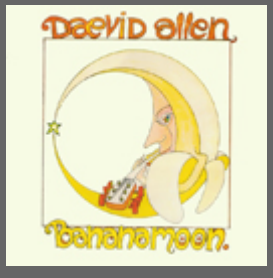
- Rheinhardt And Geraldine ~ Colores Para Dolores
- Why Are We Sleeping
- Lady Rachel

- Robert Wyatt - drums

- Kevin Ayers - vocals, guitar
- Mike Oldfield - bass
- David Bedford - piano, organ
- Lol Coxhill - soprano sax, bird whistle, flute
- Bridget St.John - vocals

Live At Driebergen, Gemeendecentrum, The Netherlands July 30, 1970

- DEAFMUSIC AND LONETAPES PRODUCTION
- HIGHLAND PROJECT (HP164)

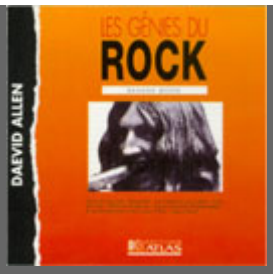


Cet album est également présent dans la rubrique Bootlegs.

> Zoom

> Zoom

> Zoom



Gong

- Time Of Your Life
- Memories
- All I Want Is Out Of Here
- Fred The Fish
- White Neck Blooze
- Stoned Innocent Frankenstein
- & His Adventures In The Land Of Flip
- I Am A Bowl

- Robert Wyatt - drums, guitar, and vocals on Memories and on All I Want Is Out Of Here

- Daevid Allen - guitar, vocals
- Archie Leggett - bass, vocals
- Gary Wright - piano
- Gerry Fields - violin
- Maggie Bell, Barry St. John - backing vocals
- Pip Pyle - drums on Time Of Your Life
- Christian Tritsch - rhythm guitar and bass on Time Of Your Life
- Nick Evans - trombone
- Gilli Smyth - space whisper

- BYG (529 345) LP
- SPALAX (SPA 14945) CD
- ATLAS (1993) (RK CD152) CD
- CHARLY RECORDS (SNAP238CD) CD

Banana Moon
1970

> Zoom

Ear Of The Beholder
1971

Lol Coxhill

Disc 1
- Introduction
- Hungerford
- Deviation Dance
- Two Little Pigeons
- Don Alfonso
- Open Piccadilly
- Feedback
- Vorblifa - Exit
- Insensatez
- Conversation With Children / Jamaican Rumba
- Picadilly With Goofs

Disc 2
- Rasa - Moods
- A Collective Improvisation
- I'm The Walrus
- The Rhytmic Hooter
- Lover Man
- Zoological Fun
- Little Triple One Shot
- That's Why Darkies Were Born
- A Series Of Superbly Played Mellotron Codas

- Robert Wyatt - drums

- Kevin Ayers - guitar (?)
- Mike Oldfield - bass (?)
- Lol Coxhill - sax
- David Bedford - organ

Recorded July 7th, 1970 at Blackhill's Garden Party, Hyde Park.

- DANDELION (69001/DSD 8008) 2xLP
- SEE FOR MILES RECORDS (SEECD414) CD

> Zoom 1 2

Centipede

- Side I
- Side II
- Side III
- Side IV

- Robert Wyatt - drums

- Keith Tippett - piano
- John Marshall - drums, percussion
- Tony Fennell - drums
- Roy Babbington - double bass, bass guitar
- Jeff Clyne - double bass
- Jill Lyons - double bass
- Harry Miller - double bass
- Dave Markee - double bass
- Brian Belshaw - double bass
- Brian Godding - guitar
- Nick Evans - trombone
- Dave Amis - trombone
- Dave Perrottet - trombone
- Paul Rutherford - trombone
- Karl Jenkins - baritone sax, oboe
- Dave White - baritone sax, clarinet
- John Williams - bass sax, soprano sax
- Brian Smith - tenor sax
- Larry Stabbins - tenor sax
- Gary Windo - tenor sax
- Alan Skidmore - tenor sax
- Elton Dean - alto sax, saxello
- Jan Steele - alto sax, flute
- Ian McDonald - alto sax
- Dudu Pukwana - alto sax
- Marc Charig - cornet
- Mongesi Feza - pocket cornet
- Ian Carr - trumpet, flugel horn

> Zoom

Septober Energy
1971

- Peter Parks - trumpet
- Mick Collins - trumpet
- Maggie Nichols - vocal
- Julie Tippett - vocal
- Mike Patto - vocal
- Zoot Money - vocal
- Boz - vocal
And a 19-piece string section

- RCA (VICTOR DPS 2054) 2xLP
- BGO RECORDS (CD-485) CD

> Zoom 1 2

Dedicated To You,
But You Weren't Listening
1971

The Keith Tippett Group

- This Is What Happens
- Thoughts To Geoff
- Green And Orange Night Park
- Gridal Suite
- Five After Dawn
- Dedicated To You, But You Weren't Listening
- Black Horse

- Robert Wyatt - drums, vocals on Five After Dawn

- Keith Tippett - piano, electric piano
- Elton Dean - alto sax, saxello
- Marc Charig - cornet
- Nick Evans - trombone
- Gary Boyle - guitar
- Neville Whitehead - double bass
- Roy Babbington - double bass, bass
- Tony Uta - congas, cow bell
- Bryan Spring - drums
- Phil Howard - drums

Cet album est également présent dans la rubrique Reprises.

- VERTIGO (6360 024) LP
- AKAMA-COMET RECORDS (AK227) CD
- ESOTERIC RECORDINGS (ECLEC 2367) CD

> Zoom

Whatevershebringswesing
1972

Kevin Ayers

- There Is Loving/Among Us/There Is Loving
- Margaret
- Oh My
- Song From The Bottom Of A Well
- Whatevershebringswesing
-Stranger In Blue Suede Shoes
- Champagne Cowboy Blues
- Lullaby

- Robert Wyatt - harmony vocals on Whatevershebringswesing

- Kevin Ayers - vocals, guitar, piano, bass
- Mike Oldfield - bass & lead guitar on Whatevershebringswesing
- David Bedford - keyboards,
- Didier Malherbe - sax, flute
- Dave Dufort - drums
- Gerry Fields - violin
- Johnny Van Derek - violin
- Tony Carr - drums, percussion
- William Murray - drums, percussion

- HARVEST (SHVL 800) LP

Critiques/Reviews

Bridget St. John

- Nice
- Thank You For...
- Lazarus
- Goodbaby Goodbye
- Love Minus Zero, No Limit
- Silver Coin
- Happy Day
- Fly High

- Robert Wyatt - percussion

- Bridget St. John - vocals, twelve-string guitar, guitar
- John Martyn - acoustic guitar, electric guitar
- Pip Pyle - drums
- Gordon Huntley - steel guitar,

> Zoom

Thank You For...
1972

- To Leave Your Cover
- Every Day
- A Song Is As Long As It Wants To Go On

pedal steel
- Rick Kemp - bass, drums
- Dave Mattacks - drums
- Tim Renwick - electric guitar
- Andy Roberts - guitar
- Richard Sanders - guitar
- Rick Sanders - acoustic guitar
- Bruce Thomas - bass
- Ian Whiteman - keyboards, piano
- John Wilson - drums

Robert Wyatt plays percussion on some of the tracks on this album but is not credited (information confirmed by him).

The titles are displayed in black and light characters because RW doesn't remember which titles he has played on.

- DANDELION RECORDS (2310 193) LP
- POLYDOR (2310 193) LP
- TRADING PLACES (TDP54043) LP (Reissue)
- 4 MEN WITH BEARDS (4M190) LP (Reissue)
- ARCANGELO (ARC-7122) CD

> Zoom

> Zoom

New Violin Summit
1972

New Violin Summit

Disc 1
- Valium
- Got My Mojo Working
- Nuggis
- Horizon

Disc 2
- Flipping
- Astrorama
- Violin Summit Nr. II

- Robert Wyatt - drums

- Don "Sugar Cane" Harris - violin
- Jean-Luc Ponty - violin
- Nipso Brantner - violin
- Michal Urbaniak - violin
- Terje Rypdal - guitar
- Wolfgang Dauner - keyboards, electric device
- Neville Whitehead - electric bass

Recorded live at the Berlin Jazz Festival, Berlin Philharmonic Hall, November 7, 1971.

- MPS RECORDS (MPS 15 081) 2xLP
- MPS/BASF (2222 720-0)
- TAKE (35006) 2xLP

Sugar Cane's Got The Blues
1972

Don 'Sugar Cane' Harris

- Liz Pineapple Wonderful
- Sugar Cane's Got The Blues
- Song For My Father
- Where's My Sunshine

- Robert Wyatt - drums

- Don Harris - electric violin, vocals
- Volker Kriegel or Terje Rypdal - guitar
- Wolfgang Dauner - keyboards
- Neville Whitehead - bass

Recorded live at the Berlin Jazz Festival, Berlin Philharmonic Hall, November 7, 1971

- POLYDOR (20878) LP
- MPS (68027) LP
- MPS (15 333) LP
- PROMISING (SPV 441022) CD

> Zoom 1 2

Sugar Cane's Got The Blues
(Réédition)
2008

> Zoom

Bananamour
1973

> Zoom 1 2 3

Soft Machine_Gong
1973

Kevin Ayers

- Don't Let It Get You Down
- Shouting In A Bucket Blues
- When Your Parents Go To Sleep
- Interview
- International Anthem
- Decadence
- Oh! Wot A Dream
- Hymn
- Beware Of The Dog Bath

- Robert Wyatt - harmony vocals

- Kevin Ayers - guitar, vocals
- Archie Leggett - bass, harmony vocals
- Eddie Sparrow - drums, percussion
- Ronnie Price - piano
- Doris Troy, Liza Strike, Barry St. John - backing vocals
- Howie Casey - tenor sax
- Dave Caswell - trumpet
- Lyle Jenkins - baritone sax
- Tristram Fry - cymbal

- HARVEST (SHVL 807) LP
- HARVEST (EMS 1124) LP
- EMI (07243-584351-2-2) CD

Soft Machine_Gong - Complete Family - Daevid Allen - Kevin Ayers - Robert Wyatt - Gary Wright

Disc 1
- That's How Much I Need You Now
- Save Yourself
- I Should've Known
- Jet-Propelled Photograph
- Squeezing Sponges Over Policemens Heads
- Fohat Digs Holes In Space
- Tried So Hard
- Tropical Fish : Selene
- Gnome The Second

Disc 2
- Time Of Your Life
- Memorie
- All I Want Is Out Of Here
- Fred The Fish
- White Neck Blues & Codein Coda
- Ego
- Gongsong
- Princess Dreaming
- 5 & 20 Schoolgirls
- Cos You Got Green Hair

Les 4 premiers morceaux du 1er disque sont extraits de Jet-Propelled Photographs et les 4 premiers morceaux du second disque sont extraits de Banana Moon.

- BYG (DOUBLE ACTUEL 529-201) 2xLP

Hatfield & The North

- The Stubbs Effect
- Big Jobs (poo Poo Extract)
- Going Up To People And Tinkling
- Calyx

- Robert Wyatt - vocal

- Phil Miller - guitars

> Zoom 1 2 3

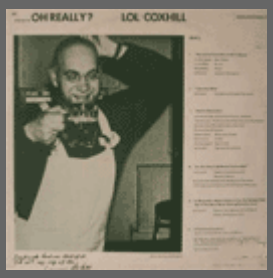
Hatfield & The North
1973

- Son Of There's No Place Like Homerton
- Aigrette
- Rifferama
- Fol De Rol
- Shaving Is Boring
- Licks For The Ladies
- Bossa Nochance
- Big Jobs N 2 (By Poo And The Wee Wees)
- Lobster In Cleavage Probe
- Gigantic Land Crabs In Earth Takeover Bid
- The Other Stubbs Effect

Bonus 1992
- Let's Eat (Real Soon)
- Fitter Stoke Has A Bath

Bonus 2009
- Your Majesty Is Like A Cream Donut Incorporating + Oh What A Lonely Lifetime

- Dave Stewart - organ, electric piano, piano, tone generator
- Richard Sinclair - bass, vocals
- Pip Pyle - drums
- Amanda Parsons, Barbara Gaskin, Ann Rosenthal - vocals
- Jeoff Leigh - saxes, flute
- Jeremy Baines - pixiephone



Réédition 1992 (Virgin CDV2008) avec 2 bonus tracks :
- Let's Eat (Real Soon)
- Fitter Stoke Has A Bath (A & B sides of single released as Virgin VS 116 in November 1974)

Réédition remasterisée 2009 (Esoteric ECLEC2139) avec 2 bonus tracks supplémentaires :
- Your Majesty Is Like a Cream Donut
- Oh What a Lonely Lifetime

- VIRGIN (V2008) LP
- VIRGIN (900 501) LP
- VIRGIN (VR 13-110) LP
- VIRGIN (CDV2008) CD
- TOSHIBA EMI (VJCP-68685) CD
- CAROLINE (CAROL 1833-2) CD
- ESOTERIC (ECLEC2139) CD

Critiques/Reviews

Vidéos

The Story So Far...Oh Really 1974

Lol Coxhill/Steve Miller

- In Memoriam: Meister Eckhart
- Soprano Derivato/Apricot Jam
- The Greatest Off-Shore Race In The World
- Reprise For Those Who Prefer It Slower
- G-Song
- F-Bit
- Songs Of March
- More G-Songs
- Does This

- Robert Wyatt - percussion, voice

- Kevin Ayers - acoustic guitar
- Lol Coxhill - soprano sax
- Archie Leguett - bass

Live at the Twist Cha-Cha Rooms, Camden over 40s Club by Sunny Sax and the Sunshine Orchestra.

- CAROLINE RECORDS (C1507) LP

> Zoom

June 1, 1974
1974

Kevin Ayers/John Cale/Eno/Nico

- Driving Me Backwards
- Babys On Fire
- Heartbreak Hotel
- The End
- May I ?
- Standing In A Bucket Blues
- Stranger In Blue Suede Shoes
- Everybodys Sometime And Some Peoples All The Time Blues
- Two Goes Into Four

- Robert Wyatt - percussion

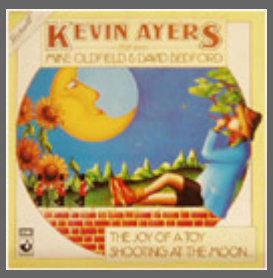
- Kevin Ayers - vocals, guitar
- John Cale - vocals, piano
- Eno - vocals, synthetizer
- Nico - vocals, harmonium
- Mike Oldfield - guitar
- John Bundrick - keyboards
- Archie Legget - bass
- Eddie Sparrow - drums
- Irene Chanter - vocals
- Doreen Chanter - vocals
- Liza Strike - vocals

- ISLAND (ILPS 9291) LP
- ISLAND (842 552-2) CD

> Zoom

> Zoom

Taking Tiger Mountain
(By Strategy)
1975



Brian Eno

- Burning Airlines Give You So Much More
- Back In Judy's Jungle
- The Fat Lady Of Limbourg
- Mother Whale Eyeless
- The Great Pretender
- Third Uncle
- Put A Straw Under Baby
- The True Wheel
- China My China
- Taking Tiger Mountain

- Robert Wyatt - percussion, vocals on Burning Airlines Give You So Much More, Put A Straw Under Baby and The True Wheel

- Eno - vocals, electronics, snake guitar, keyboards
- Phil Manzanera - guitar
- Brian Turrington - bass guitar
- Freddie Smith - drums

- ISLAND (ILPS 9309) LP
- EG (EGCD17) CD

> Zoom

The Joy Of A Toy
Shooting At The Moon
1975

Kevin Ayers Featuring Mike Oldfield & David Bedford

Disc 1
- Joy Of A Toy Continued
- Town Feeling
- The Clarietta Rag
- Girl On A Swing
- Song For Insane Times
- Stop This Train (Again Doing It)
- Eleanor's Cake (Which Ate Her)
- Lady Rachel
- Oleh Oleh Bandu Bandong
- All This Crazy Gift Of Time

Disc 2
- May I
- Rheinhardt And Geraldine
- Colores Para Dolores
- Lunatics Lament
- Pisser Dans Un Violon
- The Oyster And The Flying Fish
- Underwater
- Clarence In Wonderland
- Red Green And You Blue
- Shooting At The Moon

Réédition des deux premiers albums de Kevin Ayers, Joy Of A Toy et Shooting At The Moon.

- HARVEST (C184-52277/78) 2xLP

Phil Manzanera

- Frontera
- Diamond Head
- Big Day
- The Flex
- Same Time Next Week
- Miss Shapiro

- Robert Wyatt - vocals, percussion

- Phil Manzanera - guitar
- John Wetton - bass

> Zoom

Diamond Head
1975

- East Of Echo
- Lagrima
- Alma Cape

- Paul Thompson- drums
- Eno - synthesizer, vocals, backing vocals
- Eddie Jobson - keyboards
- Dave Jarrett - keyboards
- Bill MacCormick - bass
- Charles Hayward - drums
- Ian MacCormick - vocals
- Andy Mackay - saxophone

- ISLAND (ILPS 9315) LP
- POLYDOR UK (2302062) LP

Lyrics

> Zoom

Frontera
1975

Phil Manzanera

- Frontera
- Same Time Next Week

Single allemand sorti en même temp que l'album Diamond Head.

- ISLAND (16213AT) S

> Zoom

Voices And Instruments
1976

Jan Steele/John Cage

- All Day
- Distant Saxophones
- Rhapsody Spaniel
- Experiences No.1
- Experiences No.2
- The Wonderful Widow Of Eighteen Springs
- Forever And Sunsmell
- In A Landscape

- Robert Wyatt - vocals

- OBSCURE RECORDS (OBS5) LP
- OBSCURE RECORDS (EGED 25) LP
- ANTILLES RECORDS (AN 7031) LP

Lyrics

> Zoom

Concerts
1976

Henry Cow

Disc 1
- Beautiful As The Moon|Terrible As An Army With Banners
- Nirvana For Mice
- Ottawa Song
- Gloria Gloom
- Beautiful As The Moon (Reprise)
- Bad Alchemy
- Little Red Riding Hood Hits The Road
- Ruins

Disc 2
- Oslo
- Groningen
- Udine
- Gronigen Again

- Robert Wyatt - vocals on Bad Alchemy & Little Red Riding Hood Hits the Road

- Dagmar Krause - voice, piano on Ruins
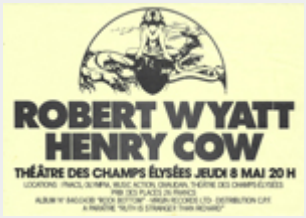
- Lindsay Cooper - bassoon, flute, oboe
- Tim Hodgkinson - organ, clarinet, alto saxophone
- Fred Frith - guitar, piano
- John Greaves - bass, voice, celeste, piano on Little Red Riding Hood Hits the Road
- Chris Cutler - drums

Tracks 6 & 7:
Recorded at the New London Theatre on 21.5.1975.

Album réédité en CD en 1995 et en



2006.

Cet album est également présent dans la rubrique Reprises.

- COMPENDIUM (FIDARDO 1) 2xLP
- L'ORCHESTRA (OLD 01-02) 2xLP
- LTM (LM 1011-12) 2xLP
- ARIOLA (800-345-346) 2xLP
- CAROLINE (CAD 3002) 2xLP
- BROADCAST RECORDS (BC2) 2xLP

> Zoom

> Zoom

> Zoom

> Zoom

The Happless Child
(And Other Inscrutable Stories)
1976

Michael Mantler

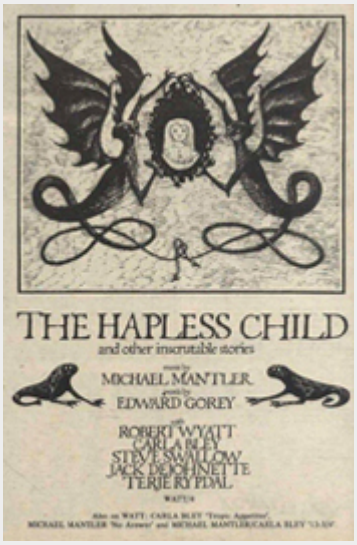
- The Sinking Spell
- The Object-Lesson
- The Insect God
- The Doubtful Guest
- The Remembered Visit
- The Hapless Child

- Robert Wyatt - vocals

- Carla Bley - piano, clavinet, synthesizer
- Terje Rypdal - guitar
- Steve Swallow - bass
- Jack De Johnette - drums, percussion
- Alfreda Benge - speaker
- Nick Mason - speaker
- Albert Caulder - speaker

- WATT (4) LP
- ECM RECORDS (831 826-2) CD

Lyrics



> Zoom

Odd Ditties
1976

Kevin Ayers

- Soon Soon Soon
- Singing A Song In The Morning
- Gemini Child
- Puis-je
- Butterfly Dance
- Stars
- Stranger In Blue Suede Shoes
- Jolie Madame
- Lady Rachel
- Connie On A Rubber Band
- False Mexican Tourist Blues
- Dont Sing No More Sad Songs
- Take Me To Tahiti
- Caribbean Moon
- Star (Single Version)

> Zoom

- Whack Skins (Robert Wyatt) - drums

- Kevin Ayers - vocals, guitar, bass
- David Bedford - piano
- The Ladybirds - backing vocals

- HARVEST (SHSM 2005) LP
- HARVEST (TOCP 65968) CD

> Zoom

"The Madcap Laughs"
And "Barrett"
1976

Syd Barrett

THE MADCAP LAUGHS
- Terrapin
- No Good Trying
- Love You
- No Man's Land
- Dark Globe
- Here I Go
- Octopus
- Golden Hair
- Long Gone
- She Took A Long Cold Look
- Feel
- If It's In You
- Late Night

BARRETT
- Baby Lemonade
- Love Song
- Dominoes
- It Is Obvious
- Maisie
- Gigolo Aunt
- Waiting My Arms In The Air/ I never Lied To You
- Wined And Dined
- Wolfpack
- Effervescing Elephant)

Réédition des deux premiers albums solo de Syd Barrett, The Madcap Laughs et Barrett.

- HARVEST-EMI (2C184-50. 351) 2xLP

Michael Mantler

> Zoom

Silence
1977

- I Walk With My Girl
- I Watch The Clouds
- It Is Curiously Hot
- When I Run
- Sometimes I See People
- Around Me Sits The Night
- She Was Looking Down
- For Instance
- A Long Way
- After My Work Each Day
- On Good Evenings

- Robert Wyatt - vocals, percussion

- Carla Bley - piano, organ, vocals
- Kevin Coyne - vocals
- Chris Spedding - guitar
- Ron McClure - bass, double bass
- Clare Maher - cello

Words by Harold Pinter
(an adaptation of the play 'Silence')

- WATT (5) LP

> Zoom

> Zoom

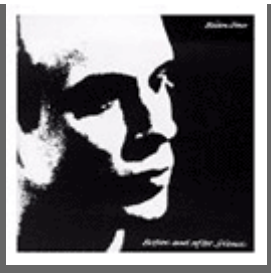
Whatevershebringswesing
Bananamour
1977

Kevin Ayers

Disc 1
- There Is Loving/Among Us/ There Is Loving
- Margaret
- Oh My
- Song From The Bottom Of A Well
- Whatevershebringswesing
- Stranger In Blue Suede Shoes
- Champagne Cowboy Blues
- Lullaby

Disc 2
- Don't Let It Get You Down
- Shouting In A Bucket Blues
- When Your Parents Go To Sleep
- Interview
- International Anthem
- Decadence
- Oh! Wot A Dream
- Hymn
- Beware Of The Dog Bath

Réédition française de Whatevershebringswesing et Banamour.



- PATHE MARCONI (2C 150-52507/8) 2xLP

Brian Eno

- No One Receiving
- Backwater
- Kurt's Rejoinder
- Energy Fools The Magician
- King's Lead Hat
- Here He Comes

- Robert Wyatt (alias Shirley Williams) - brush timbales, time

- Brian Eno - vocals, backing vocals, jazz piano,

> Zoom

Before And After Science
1977

- Julie With...
- By This River
- Through Hollow Lands
- Spider And I

synthesizer, keyboards, bells, melody guitar, Moog
- Kurt Schwitters - vocals (from the Ur Sonata)
- Percy Jones - analogue delay bass
- Dave Mattacks - drums
- Fred Frith - cascade guitars
- Bill MacCormick - bass

- ISLAND (ILPS 9478) LP

↑

> Zoom

Ambient 1 Music For Airports
1978

Brian Eno

- 1/1 [B. Eno/R.Wyatt/R. Davies]
- 2/1
- 1/2
- 2/2

- Robert Wyatt - piano

- Brian Eno - guitar, keyboards, devices
- Christa Fast, Christine Gomez, Inge Zeininger - vocals

All tracks were composed by Eno except 1/1, which was co-composed by Eno with Robert Wyatt and Rhett Davies.

- AMBIENT EG (AMB 001) LP
- EDITIONS EG (EEGCD 17) CD

↑

> Zoom

Sanity Stomp
1980

Kevin Coyne

Disc 1
- Fat Man
- The Monkey Man
- How Strange
- Somewhere In My Mind
- When (See You Again?)
- Taking On The World
- No Romance
- Too Dark (One For The Hero)
- Admit You're Wrong
- Formula Eyes

Disc 2
- New Motorway
- A Loving Hand
- Fear Of Breathing
- In Silence
- Taking On The Bowers
- Wonderful Wilderness
- My Wife Says
- The World Speaks
- You Can't Kill Us

- Robert Wyatt - drums, keyboards, co-composer of Taking On The Bowers

- Kevin Coyne - guitar, keyboards, vocals
- Brian Godding - guitar, keyboards
- Bob Ward - guitar

- VIRGIN (VGD 3504) 2xLP

↑

> Zoom

Afters
1980

Hatfield & The North

- Lets Eat (Real Soon)
- Fitter Stoke Has A Bath
- Mumps
- Share It
- Lounging There Trying
- The Stubbs Effect
- Big Jobs (Poo Poo Extract)
- Going Up To People And Tinkling
- Calyx
- (Big) John Wayne Socks Psychology On The Jaw
- Chaos At The Greasy Spoon
- Halfway Between Heaven And Earth
- Oh Len's Nature!

- Robert Wyatt - voice

- Richard Sinclair - bass, vocals
- Phil Miller - guitar
- Dave Stewart - keyboards
- Pip Pyle - drums and noise

Compilation.

Calyx est extrait de Hatfield And The North.

- VIRGIN (VR5) LP

- Lything And Gracing
- Prenut
- Your Majesty Is Like A Cream Donut

> Zoom

Nick Mason's Fictitious Sports
1981

Nick Mason

- Can't Get My Motor To Start
- I Was Wrong
- Siam
- Hot River
- Boo To You Too
- Do Ya ?
- Wervin'
- I'm A Mineralist

- Robert Wyatt - vocals

- Karen Kraft - vocals
- Carla Bley - keyboards
- Michael Mantler - trumpet
- Gary Windo - tenor sax, bass clarinet, flute
- Gary Valente - trombone
- Howard Johnson - tuba
- Chris Spedding - guitar
- Steve Swallow - bass
- Nick Mason - drums, percussion
- Terry Adams - piano, harmonica, clavinet

Recording at Grog Kill Studio, NYC in October 1979.

- HARVEST (SHSP 4116) LP
- HARVEST (2C070-64216) LP
- CBS (25AP 2047) LP
- COLUMBIA (A 37307) LP
- SONY (SRCS 6408) CD

Lyrics

Fictitious Sports Promotional
1981

Nick Mason

- Hot River
- Can't Get My Motor To Start

Promo version.

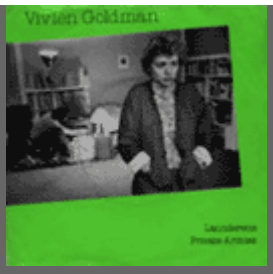
Hot River est extrait de Fictitious Sports.

- COLUMBIA (AS 964) EP

> Zoom

Odyshape
1981

The Raincoats



- Shouting Out Loud
- Family Treet
- Only Loved At Night
- Dancing In My Head
- And Then It´s O.K.
- Baby Song
- Red Shoes
- Go Away

- Robert Wyatt - drums on And Then It's OK

- Gina Birch - bass, balaphone
- Vicky Aspinall - guitar, vocal
- Ana da Silva - guitar
- Ingrid Weiss - finger cymbal

- ROUGH TRADE (ROUGH13) LP

Vivien Goldman

> Zoom 1 2

Launderette/Private Armies
1981

- Launderette
- Private Armies

- Robert Wyatt - percussion,

- Vivien Goldman - vocals
- Keith Levene - guitar
- Vicky Aspinall - violin
- George (Oban) Levi - bass - percussion
- Steve Beresford - toy piano
- Shooz - drum bits

Digital reissue in 2020 (Staubgold/Bandcamp) + a Limited Edition Single of 500 copies.

- WINDOW WIND (9999-05) S
- STAUBGOLD (155) S

↑

> Zoom 1 2

Dirty Washing
1981

Vivien Goldman

- Launderette
- Private Armies
- P.A. Dub

Réédition du single Launderette/Private Armies complété par le morceau P.A. Dub

- 99 RECORDS (99-05) EP

↑

> Zoom

Popular Classical 1981

Epic Soundtracks

- Jelly, Babies
- A 3-Acre Floor
- Pop In Packets

- Robert Wyatt (Robert Ellidge) - (muddy) mouth

- Epic Soundtracks - piano, bass, drums, harmony vocal
- Vicky Aspinall - violin
- Georgie Born - cello
- Flossie (Robert & Alfie's dog) - barks

- ROUGH TRADE (ROUGH084) S

↑

> Zoom

Music For Airplay
1981

Brian Eno

- Baby's On Fire
- Dead Finks Don't Talk
- The Great Pretender
- Third Uncle
- St. Elmo's Fire
- I'll Come Running
- Everything Merges With The Night
- No One Receiving
- Backwater
- King's Lead Hat

Promo Version.

The Great Pretender et Third Uncle sont extraits de l'albumTaking Tiger Mountain.

- EG RECORDS (ENO DJ) LP

↑

Shiny Men

Again
1981

- One Of The Big Shiny Men
- To A Spaceman
- Dream Pussy
- Secret Monkeys
- Ape Ship
- C Jam Bop Larrence Funka-Monk-a Blues
- Cheap Emotion
- Too Wonderful
- Back Back
- Institution
- Model Citizen

- Robert Wyatt - singing, scat gurgling

- Chris Lavelle - vocal, guitar
- Chris O'Neill - keyboards
- Jerry Soffe - bass
- Frank Hockney - drums, percussion

- UNITED DAIRIES EXPERIMENTAL (EX 02)

> Zoom

The Sweetest Girl
1981

Scritti Politti

- The Sweetest Girl
- Lions After Slumbers

- Robert Wyatt - keyboards

- Green - vocals, guitar
- Joe Gang - bass
- Nial Jinks - bass
- Lorenza, Mae, Jackie - chorus
- Tom Morley - Linn drums

- ROUGH TRADE (RT 091) S
- ROUGH TRADE (RT 11) S
- ROUGH TRADE (TRADE 2/12) EP

> Zoom

The Sweetest Girl
German Edition
1981

Scritti Politti

- The Sweetest Girl
- Lions After Slumbers

-German Edition of The Sweetest Girl.

- ROUGH TRADE (6005 140) S

> Zoom 1 2

The Sweetest Girl
French Edition
1981

Scritti Politti

- The Sweetest Girl
- Confidence

-French Edition of The Sweetest Girl.

- ROUGH TRADE (100 162) S

Ben Watt

> Zoom

Summer Into Winter
1982

- Walter And John
- Aquamarine
- Slipping Slowly
- Another Conversation With Myself
- A Girl In Winter

- Robert Wyatt - piano & vocal on Walter And John, piano on A Girl in Winter

- Ben Watt - vocals, guitar

- CHERRY RED (12 CHERRY 36)
  EP

> Zoom 1 2

Man To Woman
1982

Marsha Hunt

- Call Me Bitch
- Nu Age Shuffle>
- All She Wanted Was Marlon Brando
- A Million Tears Ago

- Robert Wyatt - vocal

- Marsha Hunt - vocal
- Jeanette Landrey - vocal
- Eddie Kemp - vocal
- Christine Ellerbeck - vocal
- Other musicians uncredited

- VIRGIN (single non commercialisé)

Songs To Remember
1982

Scritti Politti

- Asylums In Jerusalem
- A Slow Soul
- Jacques Derrida
- Lions After Slumber
- Faithless
- Sex
- Rock A Boy Blue
- Gettin Havin And Holdin
- The Sweetest Girl

- Robert Wyatt - keyboards

- Green - vocals, guitar
- Joe Gang - bass
- Nial Jinks - bass
- Lorenza, Mae, Jackie - chorus
- Tom Morley - Linn drums

- ROUGH TRADE (ROUGH20) LP

> Zoom

Asylums In Jerusalem
1982

Scritti Politti

- Asylums In Jerusalem
- Jacques Derrida

As*ylums In Jerusalem* et Jacques Derrida sont extraits de Songs To Remember.

- ROUGH TRADE (RT 111) EP

Ben Watt

> Zoom

North Marine Drive
1983

- On Box Hill
- Some Things Don't Matter
- Lucky One
- Empty Bottles
- North Marine Drive
- Waiting Like Mad
- Thirst For Knowledge
- Long Time No Sea
- You're Gonna Make Me Lonesome When You Go
- Walter And John
- Aquamarine
- Slipping Slowly
- Another Conversation With Myself
- Girl In Winter

Réédition CD des albums North Marine Drive et Summer Into Winter.

Walter And John et Girl In Winter sont extraits de Summer Into Winter.

- CHERRY RED (BRED 40) CD

> Zoom

The Kevin Ayers Collection
1983

Kevin Ayers

- The Lady Rachel
- May I?
- Puis-Je?
- Stranger In Blue Suede Shoes
- Caribbean Moon
- Shouting In A Bucket Blues
- After The Show
- Didn't Feel Lonely Till I Thought Of You
- Once Upon An Ocean
- City Waltz
- Blue Ayers
- Star Ayers
- Blaming It All On Love
- Strange Song
- Miss Hanagal
- Money, Money, Money

Compilation.

The Lady Rachel est extrait de l'album Joy Of A Toy.

- SEE FOR MILES (LP)
- SEE FOR MILES (SEECD 117) CD

> Zoom

Working Backwards
1983-1973

1983

Brian Eno

Disc 1
APOLLO - ATMOSPHERES & SOUNDTRACKS
- Under Stars
- The Secret Place
- Matta
- Signals
- An Ending (ascent)
- Under Stars II
- Drift
- Silver Morning
- Deep Blue Day
- Weightless
- Always Returning
- Stars

Disc 2
ON LAND
- Lizard Point
- The Lost Day
- Tal Coat
- Shadow
- Lantern Marsh
- Unfamiliar Wind (Leeks Hills)
- A Clearing
- Dunwich Beach, Autumn, 1960

Disc 3
MUSIC FOR AIRPORTS
- 1/1
- 2/1
- 1/2
- 2/2

Disc 4
MUSIC FOR FILMS
- Aragon
- From The Same Hill
- Inland Sea
- Two Rapid Formations
- Slow Water
- Sparrowfall 1
- Sparrowfall 2
- Sparrowfall 3
- Alternative 3

Coffret-compilation de 11 albums (Rareties est un maxi 12") avec extraits de Music For Airports, Before and After Science et Taking Tiger Mountain.

- EG RECORDS (EGBS 002) 11xLP

- Quartz
- Events In Dense Fog
- 'There Is Nobody'
- Patrolling Wire Borders
- A Measured Room
- Task Force
- M386
- Strange Light
- Final Sunset

Disc 5
BEFORE AND AFTER SCIENCE
- No One Receiving
- Backwater
- Kurt's Rejoinder
- Energy Fools The Magician
- King's Lead Hat
- Here He Comes
- Julie With...
- By This River
- Through Hollow Lands
- Spider and I

Disc 6
DISCREET MUSIC
- Discreet Music
- Three Variations On The Canon In D Major By Johann Pachelbel
  I) Fullness Of Wind
  II) French Catalogues
  III) Brutal Ardour

Disc 7
ANOTHER GREEN WORLD
- Sky Saw
- Over Fire Island
- St. Elmo's Fire
- In Dark Trees
- The Big Ship
- I'll Come Running
- Another Green World
- Sombre Reptiles
- Little Fishes
- Golden Hours
- Becalmed
- Zawinul/Lava
- Everything Merges With The Night
- Spirits Drifting

Disc 8
TAKING TIGER MOUNTAIN
- Burning Airlines Give You So Much More
- Back In Judy's Jungle
- The Fat Lady Of Limbourg
- Mother Whale Eyeless
- The Great Pretender
- Third Uncle
- Put A Straw Under Baby
- The True Wheel
- China My China
- Taking Tiger Mountain

Disc 9
HERE COME THE WARM JETS
- Needles In The Camel's Eye
- The Paw Paw Negro Blowtorch
- Baby's On Fire
- Cindy Tells Me
- Driving Me Backwards
- On Some Faraway Beach
- Blank Frank
- Dead Finks Don't Talk
- Some Of Them Are Old
- Here Comes The Warm Jets

Disc 10
MUSIC FOR FILMS VOLUME 2
- The Dove
- Roman Twilight
- Matta
- Dawn, Marshland
- Climate Study
- The Secret Place
- An Ending
- Always Returning (I)
- Signals
- Under Stars
- Drift Study
- Approaching Taidu
- Always Returning (II)

Disc 11
RARITIES
- Seven Deadly Finns

- The Lion Sleeps Tonight (Wimoweh)
- Strong Flashes Of Light
- More Volts
- Mist/Rythm

> Zoom

Venceremos
1984

Working Week

- Venceremos (We Will Win)
- Bottom End

- Robert Wyatt - vocal

- Simon Booth - guitars
- Larry Stabbins - soprano sax, tenor sax, flute
- Harry Beckett - trumpet, flugelhorn
- Annie Whitehead - trombone
- Stuart Matthewman - tenor sax
- Dave Bitelli - clarinet, baritone sax
- Chuchow Mercham - double bass
- Kim Burton - piano
- Mark Taylor - drums
- Dawson - percussion
- Bosco D'Oliveira - percussion
- Tracey Thorn - vocal on 1
- Claudia Figueroa - vocal on 1

- PALADIN/VIRGIN RECORDS (VIN45144) EP

Lyrics

> Zoom

Storm Of Light / Venceremos
1984

Working Week

- Storm Of Light
- Venceremos - We Will Win (Bossa)

- VIRGIN RECORDS (106 818) S

> Zoom

The Last Nightingale
1984

Various Artists

- Moments Of Delight
- In The Dark Year
- Back In The Playground Blues
- Bittern Storm Revisited
- On The Beach At Cambridge

- Robert Wyatt - vocals

- Lindsay Cooper - piano, electric piano, bassoon, sopranino sax
- Chris Cutler - drums, etc.
- Bill Gilonis - guitar, bass
- Tim Hodgkinson - piano, Moog, baritone sax, alto sax

SUPPORT THE MINERS & THEIR FAMILIES

- RE RECORDS (RE1984) EP

Critiques/Reviews

Lyrics

> Zoom

The Wind Of Change
1985

Robert Wyatt With The SWAPO Singers

- The Wind Of Change
- Namibia

- Robert Wyatt - vocal

- Jerry Dammers - piano, synthesizers, guitar
- Ben Mendelsohn - guitar
- Lynval Golding - rhythm guitar
- Mark Lockheart - soprano sax
- Claire Hurst - saxophone
- Dick Cuthell - cornet
- Annie Whitehead - trombone
- Ernest Mogotsi Mothle - double bass
- Roy Dodds - drums
- Bience Gawanas - vocal
- Vaino Shivute - vocal
- Lohmeier Angula - vocal
- Theo Angula - vocal
- Clarina Simbwayi - vocal
- Richard Muzira - vocal

- ROUGH TRADE (RT168) S
- VIRGIN/ROUGH TRADE (80 222) EP

Critiques/Reviews

Lyrics

> Zoom

> Zoom

So Long Trouble
1985

Akimbo

- So Long Trouble
- The Machine
- G & G Blues
- The Criminal
- Kalimbo

- Robert Wyatt - vocal on The Machine and Human Wood Block on The Criminal

- Akimbo
- Louis Colan - double bass

- FSIF RECORDS (LP003) EP

Brian Eno

> Zoom

More Blank Than Frank 1986

- Here He Comes
- Everything Merges With The Night
- On Some Faraway Beach
- I'll Come Running (To Tie Your Shoe)
- Taking Tiger Mountain
- Backwater
- St Elmo's Fire
- No One Receiving
- The Great Pretender
- King's Lead Hat

- Robert Wyatt - percussion on Taking Tiger Mountain

Taking Tiger Mountain est extrait de Taking Tiger Mountain.

- EG (EGLP 65) LP

↑

> Zoom

Desert Island Selection
1986

Brian Eno

- Here He Comes
- Everything Merges With the Night
- I'll Come Running (To Tie Your Shoes)
- On Some Faraway Beach
- Spirits Drifting
- Back In Judy's Jungle
- St. Elmo's Fire
- No One Receiving
- Julie With...
- Taking Tiger Mountain
- 1/1

- Robert Wyatt - percussion on Taking Tiger Mountain, piano on 1/1

Taking Tiger Mountain est extrait de TakingTiger Mountain et 1/1 est extrait de Ambiant # 1.

- EG (CD65) CD

↑

> Zoom

Letters Home
1986

News From Babel

- Who Will Accuse ?
- Heart Of Stone (Megalopolis)
- Banknote
- Moss
- Dragon At The Core
- Dark Matter
- Waited/Justice
- Fast Food
- Late Evening

- Robert Wyatt - vocals

- Lindsay Cooper - piano, keyboards, bassoon, sopranino sax, alto sax
- Chris Cutler - drums, percussion
- Zeena Parkins - harp, accordion
- Bill Gilonis - guitar, bass
- Dagmar Krause - vocals
- Sally Potter - vocals
- Phil Minton - vocals

- ReR RECORDS (1.14) LP

Lyrics

↑

> Zoom

1987

Claustrofobia

- Repulsión
- Carlove
- Tu Traición
- La Sombra Sabe
- ¡Algo En El Amor Tiene Un Sabor Tan Amargo!
- Velvet Nights
- Mis Noches Con Sherezade
- Mamma Winnie
- La Elegancia De Tus Lágrimas
- Sex Machine
- Seppuku

- Robert Wyatt - vocals, backing vocals

- Pedro Burruezo - guitars, vocal
- Maria Jose Pena - piano
- Antoni Baltar - drum programming, bass synthesizer

Une réédition du LP a été publiée la même année avec la même référence et un morceau supplémentaire: Los Milicianos.

- JUSTINE SUMMER RECORDS (C-012) LP

> Zoom

Repulsion (Reissue)
1987

Claustrofobia

- Repulsión
- Carlove
- Tu Traición
- La Sombra Sabe
- ¡Algo En El Amor Tiene Un Sabor Tan Amargo!
- Los Milicianos
- Velvet Nights
- Mis Noches Con Sherezade
- Mamma Winnie
- La Elegancia De Tus Lágrimas
- Sex Machine
- Seppuku

Cette réédition de Repulsion a été publiée la même année avec la même référence et un morceau supplémentaire: Los Milicianos.

- JUSTINE SUMMER RECORDS (C-012) LP

> Zoom

Good Times - Die Katze
1987

Eric Burdon

- Good Times
- River Deep, Mountain High
- Sky Pilot

River Deep, Mountain High est extrait de Love Is.

- POLYDOR (887 349-1) EP

> Zoom

Guitarissimo (1975-1982)
1987

Phil Manzanera

- K-Scope
- Frontera
- TNK
- Criollo
- Diamond Head
- You Are Here
- Rude Awakening
- Listen Now
- Caracas
- Lagrima
- Europe 70-1
- Island
- That Falling Feeling
- Big Dome, Pt. 1
- City Of Light
- Initial Speed
- Big Dome, Pt. 2

Compilation.

Frontera est extrait de Diamond Head.

- EG RECORDS (EGLP69) LP

Syd Barrett

- Opel
- Clowns And Jugglers
- Rats
- Golden Hear
- Dolly Rocker
- Word Song
- Wined And Dined
- Swan Lee (Silas Lang)
- Birdie Hop
- Let's Split
- Lanky (Part One)
- Wouldn't You Miss Me (Dark Globe)
- Milky Way
- Golden Hair

- Robert Wyatt - drums

- Syd Barrett - vocal, guitar
- Mike Ratledge - organ
- Hugh Hopper - bass

- HARVEST (SHSP4126) LP
- HARVEST (CDGO 2055) CD

Opel
1988

Pay Check
1988

> Zoom

Many Have No Speech
1988

Working Week

- Venceremos (We Will Win)
- Storm Of Light
- Sweet Nothing
- I Thought I'd Never See You Again
- Soul Train
- South Africa
- Friend (Touche Pas A Mon Pote)
- Strut
- Largo

- Robert Wyatt - vocal

- Simon Booth - guitars
- Larry Stabbins - soprano sax, tenor sax, flute
- Harry Beckett - trumpet, flugelhorn
- Annie Whitehead - trombone
- Stuart Matthewman - tenor sax
- Dave Bitelli - clarinet, baritone sax
- Chuchow Mercham - double bass
- Kim Burton - piano
- Mark Taylor - drums
- Dawson - percussion
- Bosco D'Oliveira - percussion
- Tracey Thorn - vocal on 1
- Claudia Figueroa - vocal on 1

- VIRGIN (2-90997) CD

Michael Mantler

- Intro
- Just As Someone
- Ce Qu'a De Pis
- Alles Scheint Rand
- Imagine
- In The End
- Vieil Aller
- Rien Nul
- Tant De Temps
- En Face
- Chaque Jour
- Pss
- En Cadence
- Something There
- Comrade
- Den Atem Ausget Ausget
- A L'abattoir
- And What
- D'ou La Voix
- Fous Qui Disiez
- Merk, Jetzt
- Son Ombre
- Reve
- Life Connects
- Prisonniers
- Silence
- Viele Haben Keine Sprache

- Robert Wyatt - vocals

- The Danish Radio Concert Orchestra
- Michael Mantler - trumpet
- Rick Fenn - guitar
- Marianne Faithfull - vocals
- Jack Bruce - vocals

- WATT RECORDS (19) LP
- ECM RECORDS (835 580-2) CD

Lyrics

Jimi Hendrix Experience

- Stone Free
- Radio One Theme
- Day Tripper
- Killing Floor

- Robert Wyatt - backing vocals on Day Tripper

Radio One
1988

- Love Or Confusion
- Drivin' South
- Catfish Blues
- Wait Until Tomorrow
- Hear My Train A Comin'
- Hound Dog
- Fire
- Hoochie Koochie Man
- Purple Haze
- Spanish Castle Magic
- Hey Joe
- Foxy Lady
- Burning Of The Midnight Lamp

- Jimi Hendrix - guitar, vocals
- Noel Redding - bass, backing vocals
- Mitch Mitchell - drums, backing vocals

Recorded in December 15, 1967 at The Playhouse Theatre, London (BBC Top Gear recording).

- WMD (432012) CD

> Zoom

Core
1988

A Conspiracy International Project

- Feeder
- Trapezoid
- Future Shock
- Unmasked
- Overabyss
- Guest + Host=Ghost
- Core

- Robert Wyatt - vocals

- Chris Carter - keyboards, percussion, vocals
- Cosey Fanni Tutti - keyboards, percussion, vocals

- NETTWERK/CAPITOL RECORDS (NTL 30022) LP
- PLAY IT AGAIN SAM (BIAS 95) LP
- PLAY IT AGAIN SAM (BIAS 95-CD) CD

> Zoom

The Peel Sessions
1988

Jimi Hendrix Experience

- Radio One Theme
- Day Tripper
- Wait Until Tomorrow
- Hear My Trai A Comin'
- Spanish Castle Magic

- Robert Wyatt - backing vocals on Day Tripper

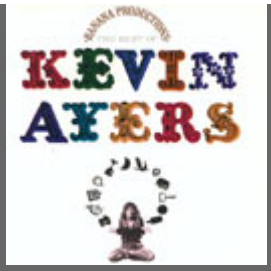
- Jimi Hendrix - guitar, vocals
- Noel Redding - bass, backing vocals
- Mitch Mitchell - drums, backing vocals

Recorded in December 15, 1967 at The Playhouse Theatre, London (BBC Top Gear recording).

- STRANGE FRUIT RECORDS (SFPS065) EP
- STRANGE FRUIT RECORDS (SFPSCD065) CD-S

Radio Radio
1989



Jimi Hendrix Experience

- Day Tripper
- Hoochie Koockie Man
- Hound Dog
- Hear My Train A Comin'
- Stone Free

Promo Version.

Recorded in December 15, 1967 at The Playhouse Theatre, London (BBC Top Gear recording).

- RYKO (PRO-00785) CD

> Zoom

The Best Of 1989

Kevin Ayers

- Butterfly Dance
- Girl On A Swing
- Soon Soon Soon
- Sweet Deceiver
- Caribbean Moon
- Irreversible Neural Damage
- Gemini Child
- Lady Rachel
- Stranger In Blue Suede Shoes
- There Is Loving/Among Us/There Is Loving
- Clarietta Rag
- Rheinhardt And Geraldine/Colores Para Dolores
- Stars
- Hat Song
- Singing A Song In The Mornng
- Ballad Of ASalesman Who Sold Himself
- Clarence In Wonderland
- Diminished But Not Finished
- Song From The Bottom Of A Well

Compilation.

Soon Soon Soon est extrait de Odd Ditties ; Clarietta Rag est extrait de Joy Of A Toy ; Colores Para Dolores et Clarence In Wonderland sont extraits de Shooting At The Moon.

- HARVEST (EM 2032) 2xLP
- HARVEST (CDP 7 92618 2) CD
- HARVEST (CZ 176) CD

> Zoom 1 2

The Early Years
1989

Brian Eno

Disc 1
ANOTHER GREEN WORLD
- Sky saw
- Over Fire Island
- St. Elmo's Fire
- In Dark Trees
- The Big Ship
- I'll Come Running
- Another Green World
- Sombre Reptiles
- Little Fishes
- Golden Hours
- Becalmed
- Zawinul/Lava
- Everything Merges With The Night
- Spirits Drifting

Disc 2
BEFORE AND AFTER SCIENCE
- No One Receiving
- Backwater
- Kurt's Rejoinder
- Energy Fools The Magician
- King's Lead Hat
- Here He Comes
- Julie With...
- By This River
- Through Hollow Lands
- Spider and I

Disc 3
APOLLO
- Under Stars
- Secret Place
- Matta
- Signals
- Ending (Ascent)
- Under Stars II
- Drift
- Silver Morning
- Deep Blue Day
- Weightless
- Always Returning
- Stars

Disc 4
THE EARLY YEARS
- The Court Of The Crimson King (King Crimson)
- Lucky Man (Emerson Lake & Palmer)
- Get It On (T.Rex)
- Virginia Plain (Roxy Music)
- St. Elmo's Fire (Brian Eno)
- Love Is The Drug (Roxy Music)
- Miss Shapiro (801)
- Let's Stick Togheter (Brian Ferry)
- In The Dead Of Night (UK)
- Dance Away (Roxy Music)
- Northstar (Robert Fripp & Daryl Hall)

Coffret de 4 CD publié à l'occasion du 20ème anniversaire d'EG records.
4 CD box issued in celebration of the 20th anniversary of EG Records.

Kurt's Rejoinder et Through Hollow Lands sont extraits de Before And After Science.

- EG RECORDS (EGBC 7)
  4xCD

- America Is Waiting (Brian Eno & David Byrne)
- Elephant Talk (King Crimson)
- Love Like Blood (Killing Joke)
- Is Your Love Strong Enough ? (Bryan Ferry)
- Perpetuum Mobile (Penguin Cafe Orchestra)

The Mystery And The History Of The Planet Gong
1989

> Zoom

The Mystery And The History Of The Planet Gong
2000

Gong

Disc 1
- Concert Intro
- Captain Shaw And Mr. Gilbert
- Love Makes Sweet Music (Live)
- DLT Interview
- Riot 1968
- Dreaming It
- I Feel So Lazy
- And I Tried So Hard
- Radio Gnome Pre-Mix
- Pot Head Pixies
- Majick Brother
- Line Up
- Clarence In Wonderland
- Breakthrough Interview

Disc 2
- Where Have All The Hours Gone?
- Gong Poem
- Deya Goddess
- Opium For The People
- Red Alert
- 13/8
- Gliss U Well
- Future
- The Dream
- Chernobyl Rain
- Let Me Be One

- Robert Wyatt - drums, vocals

- Kevin Ayers - bass
- Mike Ratledge - organ
- Daevid Allen - guitar

- DEMI-MONDE (DMLP 018) 2xLP
- GET BACK (GET-577) 2xLP
- NMC MUSIC (PILOT67) 2xCD

Beauty
1990

Ryuichi Sakamoto

- You Do Me
- Calling From Tokyo
- Rose Music
- Asadoya Yunta
- Futique
- Amore
- We Love You
- Diabaram
- Pile Of Time
- Romance
- Chinsagu No Hana

- Robert Wyatt - lead vocal

- Dali Kimoko-N'Dala - guitar
- Paco Ye - percussion, vocal
- Sibiri Outtara - percussion, vocal
- Seidou 'Baba' Outtara - percussion, vocal
- Pino Palladino - bass
- Milton Cordona - shekere
- Yoriko Ganeko - vocal
- Misako Koja - vocal
- Kazumi Tamaki - vocal
- Ryuichi Sakamoto - keyboards, vocal
- Brian Wilson - vocals

- VIRGIN (CDVUS 14) CD

Ryuichi Sakamoto

- You Do Me
- We Love You Remix
- Amore (piano version)

Version alternative de We Love You extrait de Beauty.

- VIRGIN (VJCP-1404) EP

> Zoom

You Do Me
1990

We Love You
1990

Ryuichi Sakamoto

- We Love You (Remix # 2)
- Strong Relax
- Merry Christmas Mr. Lawrence - Drives R.S.)

Version alternative de We Love You extrait de Beauty.

- VIRGIN AMERICA (VJCP-1417) CD-EP

> Zoom

Good Times
1990

Eric Burdon

- House Of The Rising Sun
- Good Times
- Hey Gyp
- When I Was Young
- I'm An Animal
- Ring Of Fire
- See See Rider
- San Franciscan Nights
- Don't Let Me Be Misunderstood
- Winds Of Change
- Sky Pilot
- Don't Bring Me Down
- We've Gotta Get Out Of This Place
- Paint It Black
- River Deep, Mountain High
- It's My Life
- Closer To The Truth

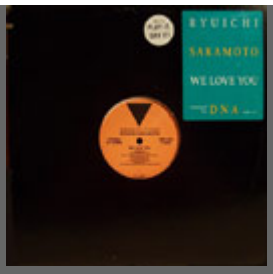
Compilation.

River Deep, Mountain High est extrait de Love Is.

- POLYSTAR (835 677-2) CD

Turn Things Upside Down
1990

The Happy End



- The Oakey Strike Evictions
- Turn Things Upside Down
- What Keeps Mankind Alive?
- Nkosi Sikelelei' Afrika/ANC
- Starstruck
- Sailing The Seas (Depends Upon The Helmsman)
- The Big Rock Candy Mountain
- Rhumba Por Nicaragua
- The Red Flag

- Robert Wyatt - vocals

- 22 pieces big band

- COOKING VINYL (033) LP
- COOKING VINYL (033) CD

Ryuichi Sakamoto

> Zoom

We Love You
Remixed By D.N.A.
1991

- We Love You (12" Mix) Remix DNA
- We Love You (Instrumental) Remix DNA
- Merry Christmas Mr. Lawrence

Version alternative de We Love You remixé par D.N.A. extrait de Beauty.

- VIRGIN (DMD 1597) LP

↑

> Zoom

The Best Of Eric Burdon
1991

Eric Burdon And The Animals

- Don't Bring Me Down
- See See Rider
- Inside Looking Out
- Hey Gyp
- Help Me Girl
- When I Was Young
- Girl Named Sandoz
- San Franciscan Nights
- Good Times
- Anything
- Winds of Change
- Monterey
- Sky Pilot
- White Houses
- River Deep, Mountain High

River Deep, Mountain High est extrait de Love Is.

- POLYDOR (849 388-2) CD

↑

Calling Long Distance
1992

Jimi Hendrix

- The Burning Of the Midnight Lamp
- Little Miss Lover
- Foxy Lady
- Catfish Blues
- Oh Man, Is This Me or What ?
- Purple Haze
- Fire
- Getting my Heart Back Together Again
- Spanish Castle Magic
- Slow Walkin'Talk
- Instrumental improvisation
- Hey Baby (The Land Of The New Rising Sun)
- Red House

- Robert Wyatt - drums, vocals, piano, organ

- Jimi Hendrix - bass on Slow Walkin'talk

Recorded in October 1968.

- UNIVIBES RECORDS (UV 1001) CD

↑

> Zoom

Octopus
The Best of Syd Barrett
1992

Syd Barrett

- Octopus
- Swan Lee
- Baby Lemonade
- Late Night
- Wined and Dined
- Golden Hair
- Gigolo Aunt
- Wolfpack
- It Is Obvious
- Lanky, Pt. 1
- No Good Trying
- Clowns & Jugglers
- Waving My Arms In The Air
- Opel

Compilation

No Good Trying est extrait de The Madcap Laughs.

- CLEOPATRA (CLEO 57712) CD

↑

> Zoom 1 2

Darn It!
1993

Paul Haines

Disc 1
- Threats That Matter
- Curtsy
- What This Was Going To Suppose To Mean
- Funnybird Song
- Outside The City
- Art In Heaven
- Rawalpindi Blues
- Sticks In The Mud
- There Aren't These Things
- Paramedicaux Erotiques
- Jubilee
- On The Way To Elsewhere And Here
- Inexplicably
- Poem For Gretchen Ruth

Disc 2
- Just When I Thought
- This Dedication
- Threats That Count
- What This Was Going To Suppose To Mean
- Breakfast
- Snow Variations On Darn It!
- Darn It
- Route Doubt
- Ask Me If You Know
- Those Sweet Blue Olives Of Bombay
- Hello
- Mrs. Dressup
- Third World Two Medley: She Was Showing Me/Boint Liver
- Breakfast (Late)
- Please Fasten Your Seatbelt Sign
- Testing Testing
- Darn It! (Down In Back) (Reprise)
- Threats That Can't Read
- C'Etait Dans La Nuit

- Robert Wyatt - voices, keyboards, percussion

- Evan Parker - soprano sax

- AMERICAN CLAVE (1014/1018) 2xCD

Lyrics

Critiques/Reviews

> Zoom

Live 1963
1993

Daevid Allen Trio

- Love Is A Careless Sea
- My Head Is A Nightclub
- Capacity Travel
- The Song Of The Jazzman
- Dear Olde Benny Green Is A Turning In His Grave
- Ya Sunne Wot
- Fred Le Poisson Avec Une Frite Sur Le Dos

- Robert Wyatt - drums, homemade trumpet, backing vocals

- Daevid Allen - vocals
- Mike Ratledge - piano
- Kevin Ayers - bass on "Fred le poisson"
- Hugh Hopper- bass

Recorded at The Marquee Club, London, 1963, with one microphone on a Philips monophonics domestic tape recorder).

- VOICEPRINT (VP122) CD

> Zoom 1 2 3 4

Box I - Instrumental
1993

Brian Eno

Disc 1
- Another Green World
- Energy Fools The Magician
- Dover Beach
- Slow Water
- Chemin De Fer
- Empty Landscape
- Reactor
- Secret
- Don't Look Back
- Marseilles
- Two Rapid Formations
- Sparrowfall #1
- Sparrowfall #2
- Sparrowfall #3
- Events in Dense Fog
- 'There Is Nobody'
- Patrolling Wire Borders

Coffret-compilation de 3 albums avec la présence de Robert Wyatt sur un titre extrait de Music For Airports.

- VIRGIN (ENOBX1) 3xCD

- Measured Room
- Task Force
- M386
- Final Sunset
- Dove
- Roman Twilight
- Dawn, Marshland
- Always Returning I
- Signals
- Drift Study
- Approaching Taidu
- Always Returning II
- Asian River

Disc 2
- Theme From Creation
- Saint Tom
- Warszawa (David Bowie)
- Chemistry
- Courage
- Moss Garden (David Bowie)
- Tension Block
- Strong Flashes Of Light
- More Volts
- Mist/Rhythm
- Ho Renomo - Cluster
- Stream With Bright Fish
- Fleeting Smile
- Arc Of Doves (Harold Budd)
- Stars
- Index of Metals

Disc 3
- 1/1
- Ikebukuro
- Lost Day
- Thursday Afternoon
- Discreet Music
- Dunwich Beach, Autumn 1960
- Neroli

> Zoom 1 2 3 4

Box II - Vocal
1993

Brian Eno

Disc 1
- Needle In The Camel's Eye
- Baby's On Fire
- Cindy Tells Me
- On Some Faraway Beach
- Blank Frank
- Dead Finks Don't Talk
- Some Of Them Are Old
- Here Come The Warm Jets
- Seven Deadly Finns
- Burning Airlines Give You So Much More
- Back In Judy's Jungle
- The Great Pretender
- Third Uncle
- Put A Straw Under Baby
- The True Wheel
- Taking Tiger Mountain
- The Lion Sleeps Tonight

Disc 2
- Sky Saw
- Over Fire Island
- St. Elmo's Fire
- In Dark Trees
- The Big Ship
- I'll Come Running
- Sombre Reptiles
- Golden Hours
- Becalmed
- Zawinul / Lava
- Everything Merges
- Spirits Drifting
- No One Receiving
- Backwater
- Kurt's Rejoinder
- King's Lead Hat
- Here He Comes
- Julie With...
- By The River
- Through Hollow Lands
- Spider & I

Disc 3
- R.A.F.
- America Is Waiting

Coffret-compilation de 3 albums avec la présence de Robert Wyatt sur des titres extraits de Before and After Science et Taking Tiger Mountain.

- VIRGIN (ENOBX2) 3xCD

- Regiment
- Jezebel Spirit
- Wireshock
- Ali Click
- Spinning Away
- Empty Frame
- The River
- The Soul Of Carmen Miranda
- The Belldog
- I Fall Up
- Stiff
- Are They Thinking Of Me?
- Some Words
- Under
- Over

> Zoom

United Kingdoms
1993

Ultramarine

- Source
- Kingdom
- Queen Of The Moon
- Prince Rock
- Happy Land
- Urf
- English Kitten
- Instant Kitten
- Badgers
- Hooter
- Dizzy Fox
- No Time

- Robert Wyatt - vocals on Kingdom and Happy Land, backing vocals on Queen of the Moon, Urf, Badgers and Dizzy Fox

- Ian Cooper - acoustic guitar, keyboards, programming
- Paul Hammond - bass, keyboards, programming

- SIRE/GIANT (9 24528-2) CD

Cet album est également présent dans la rubrique Reprises.

Lyrics

> Zoom

Kingdom (Extended Mix)
1993

Ultramarine

- Kingdom
- Goldcrest
- Kingdom Extended Mix

- Robert Wyatt - vocals

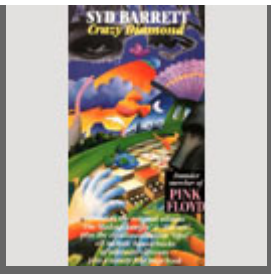
- Ian Cooper - acoustic guitar, keyboards, programming
- Paul Hammond - bass, keyboards, programming

- BLANCO Y NEGRO (NEG65T) EP

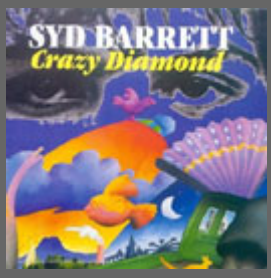
> Zoom

Kingdom (Promo)
1993

Ultramarine



- Kingdom (Radio Edit)
- Kingdom
- Goldcrest (Radio Edit)



- Robert Wyatt - vocals

- Ian Cooper - acoustic guitar, keyboards, programming
- Paul Hammond - bass, keyboards, programming

Promo Version.

- BLANCO Y NEGRO (NEG 065CDDJ) EP

> Zoom

Crazy Diamond
1993

Syd Barrett

Disc 1
THE MADCAP LAUGHS
- Terrapin
- No Good Trying
- Love You
- No Man's Land
- Dark Globe
- Here I Go
- Octopus
- Golden Hair
- Long Gone
- She Took A Long Cold Look
- Feel
- If It's In You
- Late Night
- Octopus - (take takes 1 & 2, bonus track)
- It's No Good Trying - (take 5)
- Love You - (take 1, bonus track)
- Love You - (take 3, bonus track)
- She Took A Long Cold Look - (take 4)
- Golden Hair - (take 5, bonus track)

Disc 2
BARRETT
- Baby Lemonade
- Love Song
- Dominoes
- It Is Obvious
- Rats
- Maisie
- Gigolo Aunt
- Waving My Arms In The Air
- I Never Lied To You
- Wined And Dined
- Wolfpack
- Effervescing Elephant
- Baby Lemonade - (take 1, bonus track)
- Waving My Arms In The Air - (take 1)
- I Never Lied To You - (take 1)
- Love Song - (take 1, bonus track)
- Dominoes - (take 1, bonus track)
- Dominoes - (take 2, bonus track)
- It Is Obvious - (take 2, bonus track)

Disc 3
OPEL
- Opel
- Clowns And Jugglers
- Rats
- Golden Hair
- Dolly Rocker
- Word Song
- Wined And Dined
- Swan Lee (Silas Lang)
- Birdie Hop
- Let's Split
- Lanky (Part One)
- Wouldn't You Miss Me (Dark Globe)
- Milky Way
- Golden Hair
- Gigolo Aunt - (take 9, bonus track)
- It Is Obvious - (take 3, bonus track)
- It Is Obvious - (take 5, bonus track)
- Clowns And Jugglers - (take 1)
- Late Night - (take 2, bonus track)
- Effervescing Elephant - (take 2)it

Coffret comprenant les 3 albums "officiels" de Syd Barrett et un livret de 24 pages. Robert Wyatt est présent sur The Madcap Laughs et Opel.

Réédition en 2005 sous la forme d'un 3xCD.

- HARVEST (0777 7 81412 2 8)
  3xCD

> Zoom

Faubert
1993

Serge Faubert

- C'est De L'Amour
- Aime-Moi
- Je Ne Dirai Plus
- Ce monde Sauvage
- Pour Que Mes Nuits Soient Plus Belles
- Primitif
- Notre Monde Est Beau
- Des R êves Bleus
- Insomnie
- Le Centre Du Monde
- Un Jour Sans Nuit

- Robert Wyatt - backing vocals on Primitif and Insomnie + vocals after Un jour sans nuit

- Serge Faubert - guitar, bass, vocal, programming
- Claude Samblancat - harmonica, vocal
- Simon Hale - piano, arrangements and direction of strings, oboe
- John Mackenzie, Nicolas Fiszman - bass
- Geoff Dugmore, Jean-Pierre Onraedt, Graham Ward - drums

> Zoom

Coffret 3 Compact Discs
1994

Brian Eno

Disc 1
HERE COME THE WARM JETS
- Needles In the Camel's Eye
- Paw Paw Negro Blowtorch
- Baby's On Fire
- Cindy Tells Me
- Driving Me Backwards
- On Some Faraway Beach
- Blank Frank
- Dead Finks Don't Talk
- Some Of Them Are Old
- Here Come the Warm Jets

Disc 2
ANOTHER GREEN WORLD
- Sky Saw
- Over Fire Island
- St. Elmo's Fire
- In Dark Trees
- Big Ship
- I'll Come Running
- Another Green World
- Sombre Reptiles
- Little Fishes
- Golden Hours
- Becalmed
- Zawinul/Lava
- Everything Merges With The Night
- Spirits Drifting

Disc 3
BEFORE AND AFTER SCIENCE
- No One Receiving
- Backwater
- Kurt's Rejoinder
- Energy Fools The Magician
- King's Lead Hat
- Here He Comes
- Julie With...
- By This River
- Through Hollow Lands
- Spider and I

Réédition française des trois premiers albums de Brian Eno dont Before and After Science.

- VIRGIN (TPAK 36-8306852)
  3xCD

> Zoom

L'Expérience Acoustique
1994

François Bayle

Disque 1
THEMES-SONS
- Figure
- Déchirure
- Frémissement
- Respiration
- Cri / Silence

L'AVENTURE DU CRI
- L'Inconscient de La Forme
- Match nul
- Solitioude

LE LANGAGE DES FLEURS
- Substance Du Signe
- Métaphore
- Métaphore/Lignes Et Points
- Journal

Disque 2
LA PREUVE PAR LE SENS
- La Langue Inconnue
- Intervalles Bleus
- Uirapuru
- L'Ecriture Acoustique

- Luis Jardim - percussion
- Jan Maebe - oboe
- Jean-Paul Dessy, Georges Van Dam, Veronique Gilis, Guillermo Cervino Wood, Yves Teicher, Benoit Paquay, Mario Palacio Glez, Eric Gerstmans, Eric Mathot - vocals

- BMG FRANCE (74321137062)
  CD

- Robert Wyatt - vocals on It (based on the ostinato We Did It Again

- François Bayle - all instruments, electronics
- Kevin Ayers - vocals

Enregistré en décembre 1968 à l'O.R.T.F. Paris France

- MAGISON (MGCB694)
- INA-GRM (M10 275042) 2xCD

Réédition en décembre 2014 dans la collection REGRM.

- RECOLLECTION GRM
  (REGRM 010) Digital Format

1994

2014

It [F. Bayle/R. Wyatt]
L'EPREUVE PAR LE SON
Transparence Du Purgatoire
La Philosophie Du Son
Energie Libre, Energie Liée

↑

Ultramarine

> Zoom

Barefoot
1994

- Happy Land (Remixed By Drummie Zeb)
- Hooter (Remixed By Carl Craig)
- The Badger (Remixed By Richard H. Kirk)
- Urf (Remixed By Fila Brazillia)

- Robert Wyatt - vocals

- Ian Cooper - acoustic guitar & programming
- Paul Hammond - bass guitar & programming
- Jimmy Hastings - clarinet & soprano sax
- Phil James - trumpet
- Paul Johnson - additional percussion
- Simon Kay - hammond organ

Happy Land lyrics adapted from a parody of the patriotic victorian song of the same name.

- BLANCO Y NEGRO (NEG67T) EP & (NEG67CD) CD

↑

Brian Eno

> Zoom

Sampler 1 & 2
1994

- Stiff
- Baby's On Fire
- Backwater
- Spinning Away
- I'll Come Running
- No One Receiving
- Third Uncle
- Blank Frank
- Patrolling Wire Borders
- A Measured Room
- M386
- Another Green World
- Sparowfall (1)
- Stars

Promo Version.

Third Uncle est extrait de l'album Taking Tiger Mountain.

- VIRGIN (DPRO-14130) CD

↑

Jimi Hendrix

- Izabella
- Stepping Stone
- Angel
- Day Tripper

- Robert Wyatt - backing vocals on Day Tripper

> Zoom

Rareties On Compact Disc
1994

- Little Drummer
- Auld Lang Syne
- 51st Anniversary
- Stars That Play With Laughing Sams Dice
- Fire
- Gloria
- My Diary
- Utee
- Have You Ever Been To Electric Ladyland
- Come On (Part 1)
- All Along The Watchtower
- Drifters Escape
- Sgt. Peppers Lonely Hearts Club Band
- Sunshine Of Your Love
- Come Down Hard On Me Baby
- Blue Suede Shoes
- Hound Dogs

- Jimi Hendrix - guitar, vocals
- Noel Redding - bass, backing vocals
- Mitch Mitchell - drums, backing vocals

Recorded in December 15, 1967 at The Playhouse Theatre, London (BBC Top Gear recording).

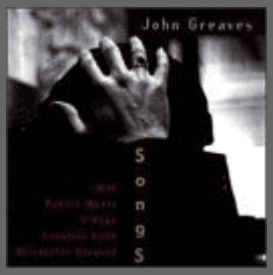
CD Promo.

- RADIO ON THE BROADCASTING (VOL. 1) CD

> Zoom

Jo Fletcher
1994 (?)

Jo Fletcher



- Dare
- Drums
- Wait For Me
- Aladdins Cave
- Follow My Heart
- Must Be Love
- This Is My Heart
- Crazy Love
- Heart And the Shield
- Candle
- I Can Go On
- Treat You Right

- Lucky Day

- Robert Wyatt - vocals

Réédition CD en 2003 sur le label Voiceprint.

- VOICEPRINT (VP270CD) CD

> Zoom

Songs
1995

John Greaves

- Old Kinderhook

- The Song
- Swelling Valley
- Green Fuse

- Kew. Rhone.
- Eccentric Waters
- Silence
- Price We Pay
- L'Aise Aux Ex-Sans-Trique
- Back Where We Began

- Gegenstand

- Robert Wyatt - vocal and percussion

- John Greaves - vocals, accordeon, piano, bass
- Francois Ovide - guitar
- Sophia Domancich - piano
- Paul Rodgers - double bass
- Susan Belling - vocals
- Kristoffer Blegvad - vocals
- Caroline Loeb - vocals
- Elton Dean - saxello
- Mireille Bauer - vibes
- David Cunningham - guitar
- Peter Kimberley - backing vocals
- Benoit Blue Boy - harmonica

- RESURGENCE (RES112CD) CD
- LE CHANT DU MONDE (274 1198) CD

Lyrics

Critiques/Reviews

Fish Out Of Water

- Just Like In The Movies (Part 1)

- Once In A Lifetime
- Take It easy

- Cry From The City
- Belfast Boy
- Her Old Man
- Parisienne Prelude
- Persistence Of Memory

- Robert Wyatt - scat vocals on Once in a lifetime, scat vocals + piano on Cry from the city (4 & 12)

- Genie Cosmas - piano, vocals
- Gerry Hunt - alto & soprano saxophones, flute

Lucky Scars
1995

- MS Madness
- He Like A Drink
- Take It Easy (1)
- Cry From The City (dub)
- Lucky Scars
- Just Like The Movies (Part 2)

- Ganine Edwards - viola
- Donovan Carpenter - double bass
- Ewan Stewart - drums
- Dian - vocals
- Steve Manolias - double bass

- STREAM RECORDS (SRCD 004) CD

↑

> Zoom

Virgin Tracks
1995

Ryuichi Sakamoto

- We Love You (Edited Talking Drums Mix)
- You Do Me
- Calling From Tokyo
- Amore
- Asadoya Yunta
- Rose
- Diabaram
- Lulu
- Sayonara
- Triste
- Cloud #9
- High Tide (English Version)
- Rap The World
- Heartbeat (Club Mix)

Version alternative de We Love You extrait de Beauty.

- VIRGIN JAPAN (VJCP 3110) CD
- VIRGIN (VJCP-28160) CD

↑

> Zoom

A Remark Hugh Made
1995

Hugh Hopper & Kramer

- Free Will & Testament
- A Streetcar Named Desire
- We Can Work It Out
- The Twelve Chairs
- This Island Earth
- Superthunderstingercar
- John Milton Is Dead
- All In My Head
- Sliding Dogs
- His Wife For A Hat
- Lenny Bruce Sings
- His Hat For A Wife
- Our Final Remark

- Robert Wyatt - words and vocals on Free Will & Testament

- Hugh Hopper - bass, fuzz bass, piccolo bass
- Kramer - piano, organ, melltron, voices, tapes, guitar, slide guitar, percussion, bass on 3
- Bill Bacon - drums, percussion
- Gary Windo - tenor sax, voice

- SHIMMY DISC (076) CD

↑

> Zoom

Music For Crying
1995

Kramer

- We Can Work It Out
- Stupid Summer
- Tears Come Down
- The Juliete Mail
- Palm Wine Of Palm Sunday
- You Don't Know
- Slowly
- Nine Minus Seven Is Two
- The Raven
- Thinking Thoughts
- Birth
- Strings
- Subterranean Homesick Blues
- End
- Rain
- Next Time, Try Compassion
- Tatto Of Blood
- Free Will & Testament
- I Can Watch

Compilation.

La date de parution n'est pas certaine (1994, 1995, 1996 ?).

Free Will & Testament est extrait de l'album A Remark Hugh Made.

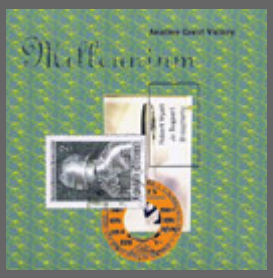
- CREATIVEMAN (CMDD 00011) CD

↑

> Zoom

A Civilised Word
1995

Millennium



- Another Great Victory
- Too Much Heaven
- Prey
- The Cross
- A Thousand Years
- Igor Mortis
- Digest Of A Paperheart
- Erup/Peru
- Everything Will Change
- Kill Me Softly

- Robert Wyatt - vocals

- Jo Bogaert - program. computer
- Blissphemy - vocals
- Chikato Sato - violin
- Michael Brook - guitar
- Geert Maesschalk - bass

- CNR MUSIC (200 23 22) CD

Lyrics

> Zoom

Another Great Victory
1995

Millennium

- Another Great Victory - Radio Version
- Another Great Victory - Trip Hop Remix
- Another Great Victory - Instrumental

Versions alternatives de Another Great Victory, extrait de A Civilised Word.

- CNR MUSIC - CD-S

> Zoom

Dark End Of The Street
1995

Barbara Dickson

- Fine Horseman
- Love Hurts
- Love Needs A Heart
- Brother Can You Spare A Dime?
- Ballad Of Springhill
- Who Knows Where The Time Goes
- First Time Ever I Saw Your Face
- All The Pretty Little Horses
- Dark End Of The Street
- Sandman's Coming
- Just One Smile
- Young Man Cut Down In His Prime

- Robert Wyatt - backing vocals on Dark End Of The Street and perhaps (?) on Love Hurts

- Barbara Dickson - vocals
- Ian Lynn - keyboards except Hammond
- Danny Thompson - acoustic bass
- Dave Mattacks - drums
- Jerry Stevenson - guitars
- Troy Donockley, Uilleann Pipes, Pete Zorn - saxes, flutes, percussion
- John (Rabbit) Bundrick - Hammond
- Tom McConville - fiddle
- Barbara Dickson, Pete Zorn - vocals on 3
- Pip Williams - guitars on 6 and rythm guitar on 11

- TRANSATLANTIC (TRACD 117) CD
- CASTLE COMMUNICATIONS (GAS 0000117) CD

The Raincoats

- Fairytale In The Supermarket
- In Love
- Lola
- Adventures Close To Home
- The Void
- You're A Million
- No Looking

Compilation.
And Then It's O.K. est extrait de l'album Odyshape paru en 1981.

> Zoom

Fairytales
1995

- No Side To Fall In
- Only Loved At Night
- And Then It's O.K.
- Baby Song
- Overheard
- Rainstorm

- TIM/KERR RECORDS
  (TK9412087) LP

> Zoom

Concerts (1995 Reissue)
1995

Henry Cow

Disc 1
- Beautiful As The Moon|Terrible As An Army With Banners|Nirvana For Mice|Ottawa Song|Gloria Gloom|Moon (Reprise)
- Bad Alchemy|Little Red Riding Hood Hits The Road
- Ruins
- Groningen
- Gronigen Again

Disc 2
- Oslo
- Off the Map
- Cafe Royal
- Keeping Warn In Winter|Sweet Heart Of Mine
- Udine

Version CD du double-album publié en 1976.

Bonus tracks pour cette réédition CD : Off the Map, Cafe Royal et Keeping Warn In Winter|Sweet Heart Of Mine

Cet album est également présent dans la rubrique Reprises.

- EAST SIDE DIGITAL (80822)
  2xCD

> Zoom

Manzanera Collection
1995

Phil Manzanera

Disc 1
- Tomorrow Never Knows-801 Live
- Over You-Roxy Music
- Out Of The Blue-Roxy Music
- Fat Lady Of Limbourg-801 Live
- Impossible Guitars-Roxy Music
- Charlie-Tim Finn
- Take A Chance With Me-Roxy Music
- Frontera-Phil Manzanera
- Diamond Head-801 Live
- Needle In A Camel's Eye-Eno
- Miss Shapiro-801 Live
- The End-Nico
- Gun-John Cale
- Europe 70-1 -Phil Manzanera

Disc 2
- Leyenda-Guitar Legends '91
- Frontera '91-Guitar Legends '91
- Southern Cross-Guitar Legends '91
- Sphinx-Guitar Legends '91
- Amazona-Roxy Music
- A Million Reasons Why-Phil Manzanera
- Fifth Wheel-Tim Finn
- It's Just Love-Wetton/Manzanera
- Talk To Me-Wetton/Manzanera
- Suzanne-Wetton/Manzanera
- Black Gang Chine-MacKay/Manzanera
- Lorelei-The Explorers
- Criollo-Phil Manzanera
- Mama Hue-Mancada/Manzanera
- Corazon Corazon-Mancada/Manzanera
- Flor De Azalea-Tania Libertad
- Espiritu-Sergio Dias/Manzanera

Compilation.

Frontera est extrait de l'album Diamond Head.

- CAROLINE (1798-2) 2xCD
- VIRGIN (CDVDM9033) 2xCD

> Zoom

Sirens & Silences / Work Resumed On The Tower / Letters Home
1995

News From Babel

SIRENS AND SILENCES
- Odysseus
- Auschwitz/Babel
- Klein's Bottle
- Black Gold
- Devils
- Dry Leaf

WORK RESUMED ON THE TOWER
- Arcades (of Glass)
- Victory
- Anno Mirabilis

LETTERS HOME
- Who Will Accuse ?
- Heart Of Stone (Megalopolis)
- Banknote
- Moss
- Dragon At The Core
- Dark Matter
- Waited/Justice
- Fast Food
- Late Evening

- Robert Wyatt - vocals

- Lindsay Cooper - piano, keyboards, bassoon, sopranino sax, alto sax
- Chris Cutler - drums, percussion
- Zeena Parkins - harp, accordion
- Bill Gilonis - guitar, bass
- Dagmar Krause - vocals on Late Evening
- Sally Potter - vocals
- Phil Minton - vocals

Bien que représentant la pochette du 1er album de News From Babel dans lequel R. Wyatt n'intervient pas, ce CD est une réédition des 2 albums Work Resumed On The Tower (1984) et Letters Home (avec RW) (1986).

- ReR MEGACORP (RëRNfBCD) CD

> Zoom

Singing The Bruise
The BBC Sessions 1970-72
1996

Kevin Ayers

- Why Are We Sleeping?
- You Say You Like My Hat
- Gemini Chile
- Lady Rachel
- Derby Day
- Interview
- We Did It Again
- Oyster And The Flying Fis
- Butterfly Dance
- Whatevershebringswesing
- Falling In Love Again
- Queen Thing

- Robert Wyatt - drums, backing vocals

- Kevin Ayers - vocals, guitar
- David Bedford - piano
- Mike Ratledge - organ
- Lol Coxhill - soprano sax
- Elton Dean - alto sax
- Lyn Dobson - soprano sax, harmonica
- Nick Evans - trombone
- Hugh Hopper - bass

- BAND OF JOY RECORDS (BOJCD 019) CD
- STRANGE FRUIT (7243 8 45208 2 3) CD

Cet album est également présent dans la rubrique Reprises.

> Zoom

The Peel Sessions (reedit. 96)
1996

Jimi Hendrix Experience

- Radio One Theme
- Day Tripper
- Wait Until Tomorrow
- Hear My Trai A Comin'
- Spanish Castle Magic

Réédition de l'album The Peel Sessions paru en 1988.

- STRANGE FRUIT RECORDS (SFPSCD035) CD-S

Michael Mantler

Disc 1
- Prelude
- Introductions

- Robert Wyatt - voice

- Jack Bruce - vocals

School of Understanding
Sort-Of-An-Opera
1996

- First Lesson
- News
- Love Begins
- War
- Pause
- Understanding

Disc 2
- Health And Poverty
- Love Continues
- Platitudes
- Intolerance
- Love Ends
- What's Left To Say
- What Is The Word

- Per Jorgensen - vocals
- Mona Larsen - vocals
- Susi Hyldgaard - vocals
- Karen Mantler - vocals
- John Greaves - vocals
- Don Preston - vocals, synthesized drums
- Michael Mantler - trumpet, conductor
- Roger Janotta - clarinet, bass clarinet, flute, oboe
- Bjarne Roupé - guitar
- Marianne Sorensen - violin
- Mette Brand - violin
- Mette Winther - violin
- Helle Sorensen - cello
- Kim Kristensen - piano, synthesizer
- Tineke Noordhoek - vibraphone, marimba
- The Danish Radio Concert Orchestra
- Giordano Bellincampi - conductor

- ECM RECORDS (1648/49) 2xCD

↑

Gary Windo

> Zoom

His Master's Bones
1996

- Ntu
- Minipax 1
- Funky Boots March - The Brotherhood Of Breath
- Standfast
- You Ain't Gonna Know Me, 'Cause You Think You Know Me
- Watch Out For The Bones
- Letting Go
- Is This The Time?
- [Untitled Track]
- Baby Fatele
- Anglo-American
- Peaches
- Sun And The Moon
- Radio Improved
- Dumb Waiter
- Ghosts
- Patience

- Robert Wyatt - vocal

- Terri Quaye - backing vocal
- Pam Windo - backing vocal, piano
- Gary Windo - tenor sax, gong
- Richard Brunton - guitar
- Hugh Hopper - bass
- Bill MacCormick - bass
- Nick Mason - drums

- CUNEIFORM (RUNE 89) CD

↑

The Amazing Band

> Zoom

Roar
1997

- Roar Part I
- Roar Part II

- Robert Wyatt - percussion, voice, synthesizer on Part 2

- Mal Dean - trumpet
- Veleroy (Rab) Spall - violin, accordion & flute on Part 1
- Mick Brannan - alto sax, piano on Part 2
- Miriam Spall - voice
- Jim Mullen - double bass, harmonica on Part 1

Enregistré en 1970, Pathway Studios.

- FUTURE MUSIC (CD40-L0797) CD

↑

Jean-Michel Marchetti/Robert Wyatt

- The British Road (Lu En Anglais)
- The British Road (Lu En Français)
- Blues In Bob Minor (Lu En Anglais)

- Robert Wyatt - voice

Ce CD accompagne l'ouvrage M2W de J.M. Marchetti publié par les éditions

M2W
1998

- Entretien Avec R. Wyatt (En Français)

Ænckrages& Co.

- AENCRAGES & Co/IN POLY SONS - CD

> Zoom

The Different You
1998

Robert Wyatt e noi

- Sea Song
- Re-born Again Cretin
- O Caroline
- Alifib
- Gharbzadegi
- Little Red Riding Hood Hit The Road
- Memories
- Left On Man
- Maryan
- Yolanda
- A Sunday In Madrid
- Amber And The Amberines
- Free Will And Testament
- Dondestan
- A Last Straw
- Del Mondo
- Chairman Mao
- Five Black Notes And One White Note

- Robert Wyatt - vocals, keyboards

Les autres titres sont des reprises de R. Wyatt à l'exception du sample de Born Again Cretin.

Cet album est également présent dans les rubriques Reprises et Samples.

- CPI (300 496-2) CD
- MERCURY (300 496-2) CD

Nostra Patria È Il Mondo Intero
1998

Maurizio Camardi

- Viaje
- Danse
- Matisse
- Milonga de un triste
- Landscape
- Managua
- Tecne
- Ninna nanna da levante
- Hasta Siempre Comandante
- Terre del nord
- Radio sahara
- Ikebana

- Robert Wyatt - vocals

- IL MANIFESTO (CD 032) CD

> Zoom

The Greatest
1998

Ryuchi Sakamoto

- Merry Christmas Mr. Lawrence (live)
- The Sheltering Sky - Theme (Piano version)
- We Love You (edited Talking Drums Mix)
- You Do Me
- Calling From Tokyo
- Amore
- Heartbeat (original mix)
- Sayonara (English version)
- High Tide (English version)
- Triste
- Cloud #9
- Heartbeat (Club mix)

Compilation uniquement diffusée au Japon. Version alternative de We Love You extrait de Beauty.

- TOSHIBA EMI JAPAN (VJCP-51051) CD

Jimi Hendrix Experience

> Zoom

BBC Sessions
1998

- Foxy Lady
- Alexis Korner Introduction
- Can You Please Crawl Out Your Window?
- Rhythm And Blues World Series
- (I'm Your) Hoochie Coochie Man
- Traveling With The Experience
- Driving South
- Fire
- Little Miss Lover
- Catfish Blues
- Stone Free
- Love Or Confusion
- Hound Dog
- Hey Joe
- Killing Floor
- Manic Depression
- Driving South
- Hear My Train A Comin'
- Purple Haze
- Radio One
- Wait Until Tomorrow
- Day Tripper
- Introducing The Experience
- The Burning Of The Midnight Lamp
- Spanish Castle Magic
- A Brand New Sound
- Hey Joe
- Jammin'
- I Was Made To Love Her
- Hear My Train A Comin'
- Foxy Lady
- Driving South
- A Happening For Lulu
- Voodoo Child (Slight Return)
- Lulu Introduction
- Hey Joe
- Sunshine Of Your Love

- Robert Wyatt -backing vocals on Day Tripper

- Jimi Hendrix - guitar, vocals
- Noel Redding - bass, backing vocals
- Mitch Mitchell - drums, backing vocal

Additional personnel:
- Alexis Korner - slide guitar
- Stevie Wonder - drums

- EXPERIENCE HENDRIX (MCA3-11742) 3xLP
- MCA RECORDS (MCAD2-11742) 2xCD

> Zoom

The Radio Sessions
1999

Kevin Ayers

Disc 1
- Why Are We Sleeping?
- You Say You Like My Hat
- Gemini Chile
- Lady Rachel

Disc 2
- Derby Day
- The Interview
- We Did It Again
- Oyster And The Flying Fish
- Butterfly Dance
- Whatevershebringswesing
- Falling In Love Again
- Queen Thing

- Robert Wyatt - drums & backing vocals

- Kevin Ayers - guitar, bass & vocals
- David Bedford - piano
- Lol Coxhill - soprano sax
- Elton Dean - alto sax
- Lyn Dobson - flute
- Nick Evans - trombone
- Hugh Hopper - bass
- Mike Ratledge - organ

Tracks 1 & 2: 'Top Gear' - Recorded February, 2, 1970 at Maida Vale 4

Why Are We Sleeping? et You Say You Like My Hat sont extraits de Singing The Bruise - The BBC Sessions 1970-72.

- TURNING POINT (TPM99203V) 2xLP

> Zoom

Les TresOrs (1982-1999)
1999

Claustrofobia

- Rito Zíngaro (recreación de "Rito Gitano")
- Nana Del Amor Amargo
- Carlove
- El Enjambre
- Los Milicianos
- Lluvia Dorada En Tu Boca
- Soledad y Pobreza
- Morir Contigo
- Solas Las Dos (recreación de "Encadenadas")
- Escalofrío
- Sudor y Espuma
- No Olvido
- La Elegancia de Tus Lágrimas
- Encadenados
- Tu Traición
- Diablura
- El Cuento Se Acabó

- Robert Wyatt - voice, percussion

- Antoni Baltar - drum, programming, bass synthesizer
- Maria Jose Pena - piano
- Pedro Burruezo - guitars, vocal

Tu Traición est extrait de l'album Repulsion.

- K INDUSTRIA (K 019) CD

> Zoom

Vozero
1999

> Zoom

Vozero
2005

Phil Manzanera

- Vozero
- Mystic Moon
- Verdadero
- Tuesday
- Rayo De Bala
- Art Of Conversation
- Vida
- Golden Sun
- Mundo Con Paz
- Hymn
- Vida Moderna
- Tropical (titre bonus réservé à l'édition de 2005)

- Robert Wyatt - vocals, backing vocals, trumpet, piano, and percussion, vox percussion, drums, keyboards on Tropical

- Phil Manzanera - guitar, vocals, loops, synths
- Billy Nicholls - backing vocals
- Livingstone Brown - bass
- Ash Howes - drum programming
- Nigel Butler - loops, bass, treatments, programming
- Chucho Merchan - double bass
- Yaron Stavi - double bass on Tropical
- Enriques Bunbury - sampled voice, backing vocals
- Jamie Johnson - bass
- Dan Chiorboli - congas, percussion
- Ravi - birimbao, kora, kavel
- Claire Singers - backing vocals
- African Gypsies Choir - backing vocals
- Mundo Choir - backing vocals
- Andy Mackay - oboe

Réédition en 2005 avec un douzième titre bonus : Tropical.

- EXPRESSION (EXVP 12CD) CD
- EXPRESSION RECORDS/ RYKODISC (HNCD 1474) CD

Nido
1999

Cristina Donà

- Nido
- Goccia
- Qualcosa Che Lasci Il Segno
- Così Cara
- L'ultima Giornata Di Sole
- Volo In Deltaplano
- Brazil
- Mi Dispiace
- Deliziosa Abbondanza
- Volevo Essere Altrove
- Cibo Estremo
- Terapie
- Mangialuomo

- Robert Wyatt - vocals, vocal percussions, whistle, chorus

- MESCAL (508827 2) CD

> Zoom

The Legendary
MPS Sessions
1999 (?)

Volker Kriegel

Disc 1
- Mather
- Vian-De
- Teaming Up
- Riff For Rent
- The Secret Mystery of Hensh
- Big Schlepp
- Country Shit
- Inside Crime
- Suspicious Child
- Soul-Eggs
- Four Reasins/Sitting On My Knees
- Baiafrock/Volker
- Q
- Where's My Sunshine
- From Harp Revolution

Where's My Sunshine est extrait de Sugar Can Got The Blues.

- MPS (559-909-2) 2xLP

Disc 2
- Zoom
- More About D
- Ach Kina
- Slums On Wheels
- Für Hector
- Lift!
- Mindwill
- Saturnalia
- Und schön ist die Fahrt
- Ghana Marathon
- Resonanceo

Parabolic Versions
2000

Hugh Hopper

- Long Lingers Autumn Time
- The Moon In A Bottle
- There You Were
- Oldest Story Ever Told
- C'Est Grâce
- The Painter's Birthday
- Indeterminacy
- Iron Lady
- Kate Come Late
- When I've Grown Old
- Red Poppies In The Corn
- Was A Friend

- Robert Wyatt - vocals, piano

- Hugh Hopper - bass, keyboards
- John Atkinson - vocals, harmonica
- Lisa S.Kloessner - vocals
- Richard Sinclair - vocals, bass
- Mike Travis - vocals
- Rick Biddulph - guitar, backing vocals
- Dionys Breukers - keyboards
- Frank van der Kooij - bcl, s
- Patrice Meyer - guitar
- Mic Mure - guitar
- Muriel Natale - backing vocals

Enregistrements de 1983 à 1998.

- VOICEPRINT (VP209) CD

> Zoom

September Song
2000

Pascal Comelade

- September Song
- Signed Curtain
- Come Prima
- The Sheik Of Araby
- 24 Mila Baci
- Knockin' On Heaven's Door
- L'Italiano

- Robert Wyatt - voices percussion, trumpet

- Pascal Comelade - pianos, accordion, ukulele, e. guitar

Cet album est également présent dans la rubrique Reprises.

- DISQUES DU SOLEIL ET DE L'ACIER/DELABEL (7243 8496562 4) CD
- DELABEL (7243 8496562 4) CD

Lyrics

M3W
2000

Jean-Michel Marchetti/Robert Wyatt

- Robert (Robert Wyatt)
- P.L.A. (Toupidek, Limonade et J. Tagu)
- Alifib (R. Robert, G. Tordjman)
- Toledo Texas (J.M. Montera, E. Martusciello, F.Y Lugli-Martinez)
- Dondestan (Look de Book)
- Sea Song (Klimperei)
- Born Again Cretin (Dominique Répécaud)
- Little Red Robin Hood Hit The Road (Jaggernaut)
- To The Old World (Dominique Grimaud)
- Left On Man (L'Ensemble Rayé)
- Little Red Riding Hood Hit The Road (J. Bogaert, An Pierlé, J. Snauwaert)
- Caroline (D. Fellmann, J. Goetz)

- Robert Wyatt - all instruments

Ce CD édité par les éditions Ænc rages& Co accompagne l'ouvrage M3W de J.M. Marchetti.

Cet album est également présent dans la rubrique Reprises et Samples.

- AENCRAGES & Co/IN POLY SONS (IPS 08 00) CD

- Mass Medium (Ph. Fretun, M. Benita)
- Alifib (Pascal Comelade)
- Heli Plop (Alain de Filipis)
- Toledo Texas (Jean-François Pauvros)
- For R.W. (Ch. Cutler, T. Buck, J.M. Montera, J.F. Pauvros)
- Alifib (Le Piano De La Rue De Vergennes) (Jean-Michel Marchetti

Anthology - Volume 1
2000

Don Sugarcane Harris

Disc 1
- Keep On Driving
- Blues On The Moon
- Which Way Is The Bathroom?
- Desiree
- Almost Broke
- Coitus Interruptus
- Remember The Past
- Liz Pinapple Wonderful
- Song For My Father
- Where's My Sunshine

Disc 2
- Eleanor Rigby
- I'm Gonna Miss You
- The Buzzard's Cousin
- The Pig's Eye
- So Alone
- No Inspiration
- Runnin' Away
- Hatties Bathtub
- Cup Full Of Dreams
- Generation Of Vipers

- Robert Wyatt - drums

- Don Harris - electric violin, vocals
- Volker Kriegel or Terje Rypdal - guitar
- Wolfgang Dauner - keyboards

Recorded live at the Berlin Jazz Festival, Berlin Philharmonic Hall, November 7, 1971.

Liz Pinapple Wonderful, Song For My Father et Where's My Sunshine sont extraits de Sugar Can Got The Blues.

- PAST & PRESENT RECORDS (CD002) 2xCD

> Zoom

No Answer & Silence
2000

Michael Mantler

Disc 1
NO ANSWER
- Number Six (Parts One/Two/Three/Four)
- Number Twelve (Parts One/Two/Three/Four)

Disc 2
SILENCE
- I Walk With My Girl
- I Watch The Clouds
- It Is Curiously Hot
- When I Run
- Sometimes I See People
- Around Me Sits The Night
- She Was Looking Down
- For Instance
- A Long Way
- After My Work Each Day
- On Good Evenings

Réédition CD des deux albums vinyl No Answer et Silence parus en 1973 et 1976.

- WATT (2/5) 2xCD

> Zoom

The Gathering
2000

Annie Whitehead

- Mist
- The Gathering
- Blue Note Bounce
- This Affects That
- The Lonely Heart (Part 1)
- The Lonely Heart (Part 2)
- Before We Knew
- Afro Blue
- Remembering

- Robert Wyatt - vocals, trumpet, drums and cymbales

- Annie Whitehead - trombone
- Ian Maidman - guitar, ukelele, moog, percussion
- Steve Lodder - piano, prepared piano, keyboards
- Steve Lamb - bass
- Liam Genockey - drums, percussion

- PROVOCATEUR RECORDS (PVC1022) CD

> Zoom

Tandem
2000

Ricky Gianco &

- Il Tramonto
- Il Vento Dell'Est
- Cesarini
- Ai Fili Romentick
- Navigare
- E L'Ora Dei Cani Sciolti Come Noi
- Rock Della Solitudine
- Tandem
- Camion
- Parigi Con Le Gambe Aperte
- Te Has Quedado Sola (Sei Rimasta Sola)
- Hasta Siempre Comandante (Con Robert Wyatt)

Lyrics

- Robert Wyatt - vocals

- Ricky Gianco - vocals
- Maurizio Camardi- sax tenore
- Alfonso Santimone - pianoforte-tastiere
- Alessandro Fedrigo - basso
- Gianni Bertoncini - batteria
- Paolo Vidaich - percussioni

COLUMBIA (COL 497529) CD

Goccia
2000

Cristina Donà

- Goccia
- Fireworks
- Terra Blu
- Genesis
- Traccia Rom: Video "Goccia"

Goccia est extrait de Nido.

- MESCAL RECORDS (562842-2) CD-S

> Zoom

The Manzanera
Expression Sampler
2000

Phil Manzanera

- Vozero
- Mystic Moon
- Trot
- Frontera
- East Of Asteroid
- Flight 19
- Law And Order
- Out Of The Blue (801 Live 1977)
- Hot Spot
- Bogota
- Free Yourself
- The Great Leveller
- Yolanda
- Hasta Siempre
- The Beat Goes Off
- Remote Control (Demo)

Vozero et Mystic Moon sont extraits de Vozero.
Frontera est extrait de Diamond Head.

- EXPRESSION (EXP22CD) CD

> Zoom 1 2 3 4

Hide And Seek
2001

Michael Mantler

- Unsaid (Pts. 1 & 2)
- What Did You Say?
- Unsaid [2] [Alternate Take]
- It's All Just Words
- If You Have Nothing to Say
- Unsaid [3] [Mix]
- What Do You See?
- Absolutely Nothing
- Unsaid [4] [Mix]
- What Can We Do?
- Unsaid [5] [Mix]
- It All Has to End Sometime
- Unsaid [6] [Alternate Take]
- I Don't Deny It

- Robert Wyatt - voice

- Susi Hyldgaard - voice
- Roger Jannotta - flute, oboe, clarinets
- Michael Mantler -trumpets
- Martin Cholewa - French horn
- Vincent Nilsson - trombones
- Bjarne Roupé - guitars
- Susi Hyldgaard - accordion
- Tineke Noordhoek - vib, marimba
- Per Salo - piano
- Marianne Sørensen - violins

- I'm Glad You're Glad
- Do You Think We'll Ever Find It
- It Makes No Difference To Me

- Mette Winther - violas
- Helle Sørensen - cellos

A Suite of Songs and Interludes for 2 Voices
and Chamber Orchestra
Words by Paul Auster

- ECM RECORDS (1738) CD

> Zoom

MW Pour Robert Wyatt
2001

MW pour Robert Wyatt

- Some Words Of Introduction (Robert Wyatt)
- P.L.A. (Toupidek, Limonade et J. Tagu) [R. Wyatt]
- Toledo Texas (J.M. Montera, E. Martusciello, F.Y Lugli-Martinez) [R. Wyatt-J.M. Montera]
- En Dondekistan (Look de Book) [R. Wyatt]
- Sea Song (Klimperei) [R. Wyatt]
- Born Again Cretin (Dominique Répécaud)[R. Wyatt]
- Little Red Robin Hood Hit The Road (Jagger Naut) [R. Wyatt]
- Alifib (R. Robert, G. Tordjman) [R. Wyatt]
- To The Old World (Dominique Grimaud) [R. Wyatt]
- Left On Man (L'Ensemble Rayé) [R. Wyatt]
- Robert et André (Kafka) [R. Wyatt]
- Little Red Riding Hood Hit The Road (J. Bogaert, An Pierlé) [R. Wyatt]
- Caroline (D. Fellmann, J. Goetz) [R. Wyatt-D. Sinclair]

- Blues In Bob Minor (read by Robert Wyatt) [R. Wyatt]

- The British Road (read by Robert Wyatt & Michel Benita) [R. Wyatt]
- Mass Medium (Ph. Fretun, M. Benita) [R. Wyatt]
- Alifib (Pascal Comelade) [R. Wyatt]
- Heli Plop (Alain de Filipis) [R. Ryatt-A. de Filipis]
- Toledo Texas (Jean-François Pauvros) [R. Wyatt-J.F. Pauvros]
- For R.W. (Ch. Cutler, T. Buck, J.M. Montera, J.F. Pauvros) [R. Wyatt-J.M. Montera]
- Alifib (Le Piano De La Rue de Vergennes) (Jean-Michel Marchetti) [R. Wyatt]

- Some Words Of Conclusion (Robert Wyatt) [Robert Wyatt]

Ce CD est une réédition des 2 CDs M2W et M3W réalisés pour les éditions Ænerages& Co dans le cadre des projets MW.

Cet album est également présent dans la rubrique Reprises et Samples.

- IN POLY SONS (IPS 0401) CD

Critiques/Reviews

> Zoom

Noi Non Ci Saremo (Vol. 1)
2001

C.S.I. Consorzio Suonatori Indipendenti

- A Tratti
- Intimismo
- Noi Non Ci Saremo
- Tutti Giù Per Terra
- E Ti Vengo A Cercare
- Forma e Sostanza
- Depressione Caspica
- IlGorgo
- Ederlezi
- Fuochi Nella Notte Di S. Giovanni
- Sogni e Sintomi
- Unità di Produzione
- Il Resto

- Del Mondo
- Velluto Rosso

- Robert Wyatt - vocals, keyboards

Del Mondo est également présent sur l'album The Different You - Robert Wyatt e noi.

- BLACK OUT (548 574-2) CD
- MERCURY (548 574-2) CD

> Zoom

Smiling And Waving
2001

Anja Garbarek

- Her Room
- Gown
- Spin The Context
- Stay Tuned
- You Know
- Big Mouth
- The Diver
- That's All
- And Then
- It Seems We Talk

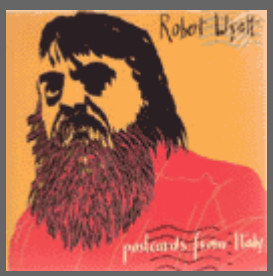
- Robert Wyatt - vocals

- Anja Garbarek - vocal percussion
- Laurence Pendrous - piano
- Chris Laurence - bass
- Melinda Maxwell - oboe
- Martin Ditcham - percussion

- VIRGIN (850 622 23) CD

> Zoom 1 2

Surrealistic Pilot
2001



X-Ray Pop

- L'espace D'Un Instant
- Les Petits Mammifères
- We Can't Funk
- Mauve
- Les Bras Dans Le Vide
- Sors La Tête
- Smakeluk [Robert Wyatt/Doc Pilot]
- Tgv'n Roll
- Shabbes Tsevainik
- Gloria Suckita
- Le Pull Péruvien
- Braguettes
- Ma Jet Set
- Eskual Eria
- Chabada Chatte
- L'Horizon
- La Maman Du Clone
- Je Brûle Déjà
- Elle Aura Craché Sur Dali
- Entre Toi Et Moi
- Un Loup
- Alone
- Oh Belle Nuit!
- Surrealistic

- Robert Wyatt - lyrics

- Zouka Dzaza - lead vocals, keyboards
- Doc Pilot - lead and slide guitars, keyboards
- Patrick Gicquel - bass
- Olivier Gicquel - drums
- Laurent Couliou - saxophone
- Charlotte Bärfuss - volcals
- Fran Zosha - harmonica
- Eric Desfour - violin

- EASTWEST FRANCE (8573-88553-2) CD

> Zoom

Postcards From Italy
2001

Walter Prati & Robert Wyatt

- Variation On The Duchess #1
- Variation On The Duchess #2
- Variation On The Duchess #3

- Robert Wyatt - voice

- Walter Prati - tape, electric guitar, electric bass

- SONIC BOOK (028) CD

Bruno Coulais

- To Be By Your Side
- Masters Of The Field
- Vers Le Nord
- La Traversée
- The Highest Gander
- Tambour Battant
- Le Retour Des Grues
- Le Fil Bleu
- La Forêt Rouge
- Comme Un Souffle
- [Pas De Titre]
- Dans La Fumée Des Usines

- Robert Wyatt - vocals

- VIRGIN (7243 8115724 4) CD

Lyrics

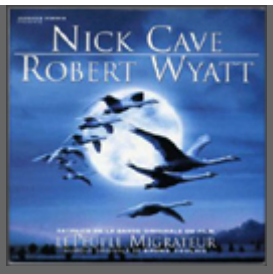
> Zoom

> Zoom

> Zoom

> Zoom

Travelling Birds
2001



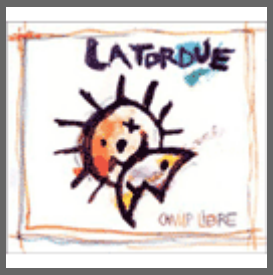
- Le Planeur
- Après La Chasse
- Les Haras En Papier
- Le Vol Des Cygnes
- A Tête Barrée
- La Colombe Poignardée
- Hors Champ

Bruno Coulais/Nick Cave/Robert Wyatt

- To Be By Your Side (Nick Cave)
- Masters Of The Field (Robert Wyatt)

- Robert Wyatt - vocals

- VIRGIN (SA6744) CD-S



> Zoom

Le peuple migrateur/Promo Version
2001

> Zoom

Jazzloops
2002

Champ Libre
2002

Hugh Hopper

- T3
- Afrik
- Garrisoi
- Sfrankl
- Acloop
- Calmozart
- Aintpo
- 1212
- Digwot
- L4
- Nigepo

- Robert Wyatt - vocals, piano

- Hugh Hopper - guitar, bass, keyboard, voice, sampling
- Pierre-Olivier Govin - saxophone

- BURNING SHED - CD

La Tordue

- L'Heureux Mix
- Une Chanson
- Paranoya
- La Vie C'est Dingue
- La Muerte
- Captain Naimo
- Compte-In
- Isgodadog ?
- Le Zèle Des Iles
- Contre Vous
- Je Tombe
- Le Pétrin

- Robert Wyatt - vocals

avec :

- Mme Wang Fu Qumin
- La Tordue
- Ernest Ahippah
- Sabine Cissé
- Danyel Waro
- Serge Dafreville
- Laurent Dalleau
- Yamina et nadia Nidel Mourid
- Slawek Wojnarowski
- Dézoriental
- Olivier Leroy
- Samy Bimbach
- Yt Kha
- Marguerie Morel et Ninon Le Poul
- Dierdre Dubois Haddad
- les Femmouzes T.
- Bruno Garcia
- Jerry
- Magyd Cherfi

- EPIC (EPC5094732) CD

La Tordue

- Le Pétrin

Le Pétrin est extrait de Champ Libre.

CD interdit à la vente distribué dans le cadre d'une action militante contre la "double peine" inscrite dans la législation française.

- SONY MUSIC/EPIC - CD-S

> Zoom 1 2

Le Pétrin
2002

> Zoom

13 Minutes De Champ Libre
2002

La Tordue

- Le Making Of de l'enregistrement
- Le Pétrin En Images

Aucune image de Robert Wyatt sur ce DVD promotionnel mais participation vocale au morceau Le Pétrin.

Le Pétrin est extrait de Champ Libre.

- SONY (SAMPD12228) DVD

M4W
2003

Jean-Michel Marchetti/Robert Wyatt

- Afghanistan's A Country Or At Least Used To Be
- Fridge
- When Access Was A Noun
- Salt /Ivy
- Signed Curtain
- Afghanistan... Alix

- Robert Wyatt - all instruments, voices

- Jean-Michel Marchetti - piano inversé
- Alix Marchetti - voice

Ce CD est édité avec l'ouvrage M4W de J.M. Marchetti.

- AENCRAGES & Co - CD

> Zoom

Joy Of A Toy (Reissue)
2003

Kevin Ayers

- Joy Of A Toy Continued
- Town Feeling
- The Clarietta Rag
- Girl On A Swing
- Song For Insane Times
- Stop This Train (Again Doing It)
- Eleanor's Cake (Which Ate Her)
- Lady Rachel
- Oleh Oleh Bandu Bandong
- All This Crazy Gift Of Time
Bonus
- Religious Experience (Singing A Song In The Morning)
- Lady Rachel
- Soon Soon Soon
- Religious Experience (Singing A Song In The Morning)
- Lady Rachel
- Singing A Song In The Morning

Nouvelle réédition remasterisée de l'album paru en 1969, enrichie de plusieurs bonus.

Les titres bonus de la réédition ne sont pas crédités. Il est possible que Robert Wyatt joue sur les 5 autres titres.

- EMI/HARVEST (07243-582776-2-3) CD

Brian Eno

- Mother Whale Eyeless
- I'll Come Running
- Delta Rain Dream
- King's Lead Hat
- Sparrowfall
- Here He Comes

Compilation.
Disc Promo (Not For Resale).

1/1 est extrait de Ambient #1 Music For Airports.

> Zoom

Brian Eno
2003

- The Jezebel Spirit
- 1/1 [B. Eno/R. Wyatt/R. Davies]
- Third Uncle
- Another Green World
- Here Come The Warm Jets
- Mountain Of Needles
- Taking Tiger Mountain
- Becalmed

- BMG (BMG PUB038) CD

> Zoom

Bananamour (Reissue)
2003

Kevin Ayers

- Don't Let It Get You Down
- Shouting In A Bucket Blues
- When Your Parents Go To Sleep
- Interview
- International Anthem
- Decadence
- Oh! Wot A Dream
- Hymn
- Beware Of The Dog Bath

Bonus
- Connie On A Rubber Band
- Decadence (Early Mix - Previously Unreleased)
- Take Me To Tahiti
- Caribbean Moon

Nouvelle réédition remasterisée de l'album paru en 1973, enrichie de plusieurs bonus.

- EMI/HARVEST (07243-582780-2-6) CD

> Zoom 1 2 3 4

The World Of Daevid Allen And Gong
2003

Daevid Allen And Gong

Disc 1
THE WORLD OF GONG 1970-1973
Magick, Camembert & Radio Gnome
- Glad To Hear Say To Say
- Rational Anthem
- Gong Song
- Foghat Digs Holes In Space
- Tried So Hard
- Tropical Fish
- Radio Gnome Invisible
- Flying Teapot
- Pot Head Pixies
- Octave Doctors And The Crystal Machine
- Zero The Hero And The Witches Spell
- Witches Song
- I Am Your Pussy
- Other Side Of The Sky
- Sold To The Highest Buddah

Disc 2
THE WORLD OF GONG 1973-1974
The Radio Gnome Invisible Trilogy - Part Two
- Castle In The Clouds
- Prostitute Poem
- Givin' My Love To You
- Selene
- Flute Salad
- Oily Way
- Outer Temple
- Inner Temple
- Love Is How You MakeIit
- I Niver Gild Before
- Eat That Phone Book Coda
- Thoughts For Naught
- PHP's Advice
- Magick Mother
- Invocation
- Master Builder
- Sprinkling Of Clouds
- Perfect Mystery
- Isle Of Everywhere
- You Never Blow Your Trip Forever

Disc 3

Save Yourself et You Don't Remember sont extraits de Jet-Propelled Photographs.
Memories, Stoned Innocent Frankenstein, Fred The Fish et White Neck Blooze sont extraits de Bananamoon.

- CHARLY (SNAJ725CD) 3xCD

THE WORLD OF DAEVID ALLEN
Before & After Gong 1967-1980
- Save Yourself (Soft Machine)
- You Don't Remember (Soft Machine)
- Time Of Your Life - Daevid Allen
- Memories
- Stoned Innocent Frankenstein
- Fred The Fish
- White Neck Blooze
- Tony And Orlando Meet The Cockpit Pixie
- Why Do We Treat Ourselves Like We Do
- Poet For Sale
- I Am
- Floatin' Anarchy
- New Age Transformation
- Opium For The People
- Allex Ali
- It's A Fine Air For Fliss
- 333
- Rashnish With Thanks
- Much Too Old

> Zoom

> Zoom

> Zoom

Sixteen Haiku & Other Stories
International Project
2003

Sigmatropic

- [Intro] ON STAGE, 2 (Robert Wyatt)
- Haiku One (Laetitia Sadier)
- Haiku Two (Martine Roberts)
- Haiku Three IN THE MUSEUM GARDEN (Mark Mulcahy)
- Haiku Four (Alejandro Escovedo)
- Haiku Five (Carla Torgerson)
- Haiku Six (Carla Torgerson & Akis Boyatzis)
- Haiku Seven (Akis Boyatzis)
- Haiku Eight (Edith Frost)
- Haiku Nine YOUNG FATE (Mark Eitzel)
- Haiku Ten (Cat Power)
- Haiku Eleven (Simon Joyner)
- Haiku Twelve UNPROFITABLE BOAT LINE (Lee Ranaldo)
- Haiku Thirteen SICK FURY (Alex Gordon)
- Haiku Fourteen A (SUNG IN GREEK) Akis Boyatzis
- Haiku Fourteen B (John Grant)
- Haiku Fifteen (James William Hindle)
- Haiku Sixteen (Lee Ranaldo)
- Dead Sea (LOGBOOK II) (James Sclavunos)
- Water Warm (PLANS FOR A SUMMER) (Pinkie Maclure)
- This Human Body (Howe Gelb)
- The Jasmine (Steve Wynn)

- Robert Wyatt - voice

Album réalisé à partir de poèmes de George Seferis.

- TONGUE MASTER (TMAST 002) CD

Sigmatropic

Disc 1
- [Intro] ON STAGE, 2 (Robert Wyatt)
- Haiku One (Laetitia Sadier)
- Haiku Two (Martine Roberts)
- Haiku Three IN THE MUSEUM GARDEN (Mark Mulcahy)

- Robert Wyatt - voice

Edition limitée avec un second disque en bonus.

> Zoom

Sixteen Haiku & Other Stories
Limited Edition
2003

- Haiku Four (Alejandro Escovedo)
- Haiku Five (Carla Torgerson)
- Haiku Six (Carla Torgerson & Akis Boyatzis)
- Haiku Seven (Akis Boyatzis)
- Haiku Eight (Edith Frost)
- Haiku Nine YOUNG FATE (Mark Eitzel)
- Haiku Ten (Cat Power)
- Haiku Eleven (Simon Joyner)
- Haiku Twelve UNPROFITABLE BOAT LINE (Lee Ranaldo)
- Haiku Thirteen SICK FURY (Alex Gordon)
- Haiku Fourteen A (SUNG IN GREEK) Akis Boyatzis
- Haiku Fourteen B (John Grant)
- Haiku Fifteen (James William Hindle)
- Haiku Sixteen (Lee Ranaldo)
- Dead Sea (LOGBOOK II) (James Sclavunos)
- Water Warm (PLANS FOR A SUMMER) (Pinkie Maclure)
- This Human Body (Howe Gelb)
- The Jasmine (Steve Wynn)

Disc 2
- Intro (Rhodes Mix)
- Haiku 1 (Voice: Edith Frost)
- Haiku 2 (Voice: Carla Torgerson & Akis Boyatzis) (Vangelis Zisis Mix)
- Haiku 13 (Voice: Carla Torgerson)
- This Human Body (Voice: Howe Gelb) (Antonis Liveratos Mix)
- Dead Sea (Original Signatropic Version)

- TONGUE MASTER (TMAST 002) CD

> Zoom 1 2

Shooting At The Moon (Reissue)
2003

Kevin Ayers And The Whole World

- May I
- Rheinhardt And Geraldine
- Colores Para Dolores
- Lunatics Lament
- Pisser Dans Un Violon
- The Oyster And The Flying Fish
- Underwater
- Clarence In Wonderland
- Red Green And You Blue
- Shooting At The Moon

Bonus
- Gemini Child
- Puis-Je?
- Butterfly Dance
- Jolie Madame
- Hat

Nouvelle réédition remasterisée de l'album paru en 1970, enrichie de plusieurs bonus.

- EMI/HARVEST (07243-582777-2-2) CD

> Zoom

Anglo American
2004

Gary Windo

- Round Ginkie
- Standfast
- Carmus
- Spiderman
- Take Off
- Anglo American
- Is This The Time
- Quick Steps
- Free To Go
- Sun & The Moon
- Radio Improved
- Baxter
- Lassie Breaks Out
- Red River Valley

Standfast
- Robert Wyatt - drums
- Gary Windo - tenor saxophone
- Nick Evans - trombone
- Mongezi Feza - pocket trumpet
- Steve Florence, guitar
- Roy Babbington - bass guitar

Recorded live in London, 1971.

Carmus & Spiderman
- Robert Wyatt - drums, percussion, organ, mouth
- Gary Windo - tenor saxophone
- Ron Mathewson - bass, bass guitar
- Dave MacCrae, piano, electric piano

Recorded live in London, April 1973.

> Zoom

The Stolen Hour
2004

Hugh Hopper

- Craig's Distended Train Ride
- Complications At Work
- An Inescapable Encounter With Mrs Pry
- Yearning For The Stolen Hour
- The Long Drive
- An Unregulated Sunset
- A Sideways Peek At Dreamtime
- Snide Wisdom Involving The Immateriality Of Time
- The Stuff He Sees
- Mia's Timely Emergence From The East
- Compatibility
- Sharing The Stolen Hour

Rétrospective 1971-1981.

- CUNEIFORM (RUNE 189) CD

↑

- Robert Wyatt - cornet on 1, 6 & 10, voice loops on 10

- Hugh Hopper - guitar, bass guitar and rhythm loops
- Pierre-Olivier Govin - sax on 1

Initialement réalisé pour accompagner une BD de Matt Howarth, le CD contient un fichier PDF permettant de consulter ses travaux graphiques.

- BURNING SHED (0204) CD

↑

> Zoom

Original Master
Early Works Selection
2004

Brian Eno

- Non One Receiving
- Taking Tiger Mountain
- Back In Judy's Jungle
- Here Come The Warm Jets
- On Some Far Away Beach
- By This River
- Everything Merges With The Night
- Another Green World

Promo version comportant 2 morceaux de chacun des 4 premiers albums.

Taking Tiger Mountain est extrait de Taking Tiger Mountain (By Strategy).

- VIRGIN (ENOPROMO1) CD-S

↑

Original Master
Ambient Work Section
2004

Brian Eno

- Excerpt From Discreet Music
- Excerpt From 1/1
- Wind In Lonely Fences
- The Chill Air
- Lizard Point
- Dunwich Beach, Autumn 1960

Promo version comportant 6 morceaux accompagnés d'un dossier de presse de 6 pages.

Excerpt From 1/1 est extrait de Ambient # 1.

- VIRGIN (ENOPROMO2) CD

↑

> Zoom

Phil Manzanera

- Broken Dreams
- Green Spikey Cactus
- Love Devotion
- Wish You Well
- 6pm
- Waiting For The Sun To Shine
- Manzra
- Cissbury Ring
- Porlock
- Shoreline
- Always You
- Sacred Days

- Robert Wyatt - trumpet on 8, 9 & 11, drums on 8, 11 & 12

- Phil Manzanera - vocals on 8, 11 & 12, guitar on 8, 9, 11 &, 12, piano on 8 & 11, hammond on 12
- Jamie Johnson - bass on 8, 11 & 12
- Yarron Stavi - double bass on 8, 9 & 11
- David Gilmour - guitar on 11

6pm
2004

> Zoom

> Zoom

Didn't Feel Lonely
Till I Thought Of You
2004

Kevin Ayers - The Island Records Years

Disc 1
- Day By Day
- See You Later
- Didn't Feel Lonely Till I Thought Of You
- Everybody's Sometime And Some People's All The Time Blues
- It Begins With A Blessing
- Once I Awakened
- But It Ends with A Curse
- Ballbearing Blues
- The Confessions Of Dr. Dream: Part One: Irreversible Neural Damage Part Two: Invitation Part Three: The One Chance Dance Part Four: Dr. Dream Theme
- Two Goes Into Four
- Observations
- Guru Banana
- City Waltz
- Toujours La Voyage
- Sweet Deceiver
- Diminished But Not Finished
- Circular Letter
- Once Upon An Ocean
- Farewell Again (Another Dawn)

Disc 2
- The Up Song
- After The Show
- Thank You Very Much
- Driving Me Backwards
- Baby's On Fire
- Heartbreak Hotel
- The End
- May I?
- Shouting In A Bucket Blues
- Stranger In Blue Suede Shoes
- Everybody's Sometime And Some People's All The Time Blues
- Two Goes Into Four

& 12
- Claire - backing vocals on 8 & 11

- HANNIBAL (HNCD1471) CD

Réédition de 3 albums de Kevin Ayers chez Island (The Confessions Of Dr. Dream, Sweet Deceiver et June 1st 1974 + 3 bonus tracks au début du disc 2).

Robert Wyatt apparaît sur 7 morceaux de June 1st 1974.

- EDSEL (MEDCD749) 2xCD

> Zoom

Medulla
2004

Björk

- Pleasure Is All Mine
- Show Me Forgiveness
- Where Is The Line
- Vokuro
- Oll Birtan
- Who Is It
- Submarine
- Desired Constellation
- Oceania
- Sonnets / Unrealities Xi
- Ancestors
- Mouth's Cradle
- Midvikudags
- Triumph Of A Heart
- Komid (titre bonus réservé à l'édition japonaise)

- Robert Wyatt - vocals on Submarine

- Björk - vocals on Submarine
- Valgeir Sigurdsson - programming on Submarine

Cet album est également présent dans la rubrique Samples.

- POLYDOR (9867589) CD

Gong

Disc 1
- Gong Concert Intro
- Captain Shaw
- Love Makes Sweet Music
- Riot 1971

- Robert Wyatt - drums, vocals

- Kevin Ayers - bass
- Mike Ratledge - organ

> Zoom

Histories & Mysteries
Of Planet Gong
2004

- Radio Gnome Premix
- Pothead Pixies
- Line Up
- Clarence In Wonderland
- Soft Machine Radio Interview
- Catspin
- French Radio Introduction + Gong Poem
- Moonfield
- Where Have All The Flowers Gone
- Herbacious Border
- Thirteen Eight
- Oo La La
- Deya Goddess

Disc 2
- Radio Brainwave
- Chinese Puzzle
- Afraid
- Hypnotize You
- Gliss U Well
- Radio Oversoul
- Opium For The People
- Dreaming It
- Auburn Mary
- Are You Ready?
- Hypothetical
- Crazy Town
- Muruoa
- Red Alert
- Chernobyl Rain
- Water
- Jaminji
- Hanging Future
- Heart Song

- Daevid Allen - guitar

- VOICEPRINT (VP279CD) CD

↑

> Zoom

Chansons
2004

John Greaves/Elise Caron

- Effilochée
- Mélange
- Trois Fois Rien
- Chanson De L'Orphelinat
- Nez À Nez
- Patience
- Les Fourmis
- Kiev
- Bestiaire
- Nabuchodonosor
- Infini
- Les roseaux
- Prière
- Les p'tits bateaux
- Limbo
- Impatience

- Robert Wyatt - cymbals, snare, mouth percussion & certain vocals

- Elise Caron - voice
- John Greaves - piano & acoustic bass guitar
- David Venitucci - accordion
- Louis Sclavis - clarinets & soprano sax
- Vincent Courtois - cello

- LE CHANT DU MONDE (274 1261) CD

↑

> Zoom

Rééditions
2004

John Greaves

FROM KEW RHONE
- Good Evening
- Twenty-Two Proverbs
- Seven Scenes From The Painting "Exhuming The First American Mastodon"
- Kew. Rhone.
- Pipeline

FROM SONGS
- Old Kinderhook
- Song
- Swelling Valley
- Green Fuse
- KewRhone

FROM TROUBLE WITH HAPPINESS
- Lucky Day
- Trouble With Happiness
- Deck Of The Moon

Promo Version.

Song et KewRhone sont extraits de Songs.

- LE CHANT DU MONDE - CD

↑

Cristina Donà

> Zoom

Cristina Dona - UK Version
2004

- Ultramarine
- Yesterday's Film
- Invisible Girl
- Wherever Finds You
- Truman Show
- Triathlon (Casasonica remix)
- Give It Back (To Me)
- How Deep Is Your Love
- Milly's Song
- One Perfect Day
- Goccia (featuring Robert Wyatt)

Goccia est extrait de Nido.

- MESCAL/RYKODISC (RCD10659) CD

> Zoom

Musik
2004

Gilad Atzmon & The Orient House Ensemble

- Joven, Hermosa Y Triste
- Surfing
- Liberating The American People
- It Takes Tutu Tango
- Musik
- Re-Arranging The 20th Century
- Lili Marlene
- And She Is Happy

- Robert Wyatt - vocal, trumpet

- Gilad Atzmon - soprano and alto saxophone, clarinet, so , trombone, shabbaabeh flute, piccolo
- Frank Harrison - piano
- Yaron Stavi - double bass
- Asaf Sirkis - drums, bandir, riqq
- Romano Viazzani - accordion
- Dumitru Ovidiu Fratila - violin, trumpet-violin

- ENJA (TIP-888 848) CD

> Zoom

If Ever I Am
2005

Brian Hopper

- Blowit
- The Pieman Cometh
- Two To Tutu Tooo
- Sometimes It Is
- Akamalaka
- Hope For Happiness
- Tarzapark Rarka
- For Freedom
- Modality
- If Ever I Am
- Blewit

- Robert Wyatt - vocals and trumpet on The Pieman Cometh, vocals and cornet on Hope For Happiness

- Brian Hopper - piano synthesizers, sequencing, bass, drum programming on The Pieman Cometh, soprano saxophone, midi wind controler, sampling, synthesisers, sequencing, drum programming on Hope For Happiness

Hope For Hapiness est signé par Brian Hopper (qui a effectivement composé et déposé les droits de ce morceau) alors que la version du Soft Machine vol.1 est signée par Hugh Hopper, Kevin Ayers et Mike Ratledge.

Cet album est également présent dans la rubrique Samples.

- VOICEPRINT (VP338CD) CD

Scritti Politti

- Skank Bloc Bologna
- Is And Ought The Western World
- 28/8/78
- Scritlocks Door
- Opec - Immac
- Messthetics
- Hegemony
- Bibbly-O-Tec

The Sweetest Girl est extrait de Songs To Remember.

- ROUGH TRADE (30054) CD

> Zoom

Early Years (1978-1980)
2005

- Doubt Beat
- Confidence
- P.A.S.
- The "Sweetest Girl"
- Lions After Slumbera

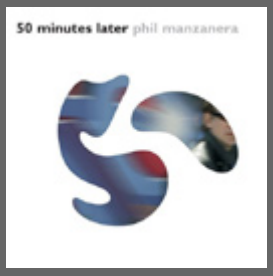
> Zoom

The BBC Sessions
1970 - 1976
2005

Kevin Ayers

Disc 1
- Clarence in Wonderland
- Stop This Train
- Why Are We Sleeping
- You Say You Like My Hat
- Gemini Chile
- Lady Rachel
- Shooting At The Moon
- Derby Day
- Interview
- We Did It Again/Murder In The Air
- Lunatic's Lament
- Oyster And The Flying Fish
- Butterfly Dance
- Whatevershebringswesing
- Falling In Love Again
- Queen Thing

Disc 2
- Interview
- Oh What A Dream
- Shouting In A Bucket Blues
- Another Whimsical Song
- Lady Rachel
- Stop This Train
- Didn't Feel Lonely Till I Thought Of You
- Stranger In Blue Suede Shoes
- Mr Cool
- Love's Gonna Turn You Round
- Star
- Ballad Of Mr Snake



- Robert Wyatt - drums & backing vocals

- Kevin Ayers - guitar, bass & vocals
- David Bedford - piano
- Lol Coxhill - soprano sax
- Elton Dean - alto sax
- Lyn Dobson - flute
- Nick Evans - trombone
- Hugh Hopper - bass
- Mike Ratledge - organ

Tracks 1-4 : 'Top Gear' - Recorded February, 2, 1970 at Maida Vale 4

Why Are We Sleeping et You Say You Like My Hat sont extraits de Singing The Bruise - The BBC Sessions 1970-72.

- HUX RECORDS (HUX 073) 2xCD

> Zoom

50 Minutes Later
2005

Phil Manzanera

- Revolution
- Technicolor UFO
- That's All I Know
- 50 Minutes Mas Tarde
- Desaparecido
- Dusza
- One Step
- Swimming
- Bible Black
- Till The End Of The Line
- Enotonik Bible Black

- Robert Wyatt - keyboards, cornet, vocals, percussion, voice

- Phil Manzanera - vocals, guitars, keyboards
- Paul Thompson - drums
- Jamie Johnson - bass, treatments
- Brian Eno - percussions, keyboards, treatments
- Claire Singers - vocals
- Andy Mackay - sax, oboe
- Yaron Stavi - acoustic bass
- Paddy Milner - piano
- Nigel Simpson - piano
- Brendan Jury - alto violin
- Romano Viazzani - accordion

- HANNIBAL (HNCD 1503) CD

Bruno Coulais

> Zoom

Stabat Mater
2005

- Ya Man - Invocation
- Fac Ut Ardeat Cor Meum
- Quis Non Poset Contristari
- Quis Est Homo Qui Non Fleret
- Prélude : Dolente
- Dolente
- Juxta Crucem Tecum Stare
- O Quam Tristis Et Afflicta
- Sous Les Fouets, Meurtri
- Christe, Cum Sit Hinc Exire
- Fac Ut Portem Christi Mortem
- Pro Peccatis Suae Gentis
- Debout Avec Toi
- Vidit Suum Dulcem Natum
- Wa Zadi Qalilun
- Eia Mater, Fons Amoris
- Chemin
- Stabat Mater Dolorosa
- Virgo Virginum Praeclara
- Quando Corpus Morietur
- Ya Habiba i-Qalbi

- Robert Wyatt - voix off enregistrée

- Aïcha Redouane - chant
- Laurent Korcia - violon solo
- Guillaume Depardieu - chant
- Marie Kobayashi - mezzo-soprano
- Claire Désert - clavecin, piano
- Slim Pezin - guitare
- Marc Chantereau - percussions
- Christophe Guiot - violon 1
- Elisabeth Pallas - violon 2
- Françoise Gneri - alto
- Jean-Philippe Audin - violoncelle
- Choeur de chambre Mikrokosmos
- Loïc Pierre - direction

Création le 28 juin 2005 en la Basilique de St-Denis (France).

- NAIVE (V5038) CD

> Zoom

On An Island
2006

David Gilmour

- Castellorizon
- On An Island
- The Blue
- Take A Breath
- Red Sky At Night
- This Heaven
- Then I Close My Eyes
- Smile
- A Pocketful Of Stones
- Where We Start

- Robert Wyatt - cornet, voice, percussion

- David Gilmour – guitars, bass harmonica, cumbus
- BJ Cole – Weissenborn guitar
- Phil Manzanera – piano
- Andy Newmark – percussion
- Caroline Dale – cello
- Alasdair Malloy – glass harmonica

- EMI RECORDS (3556952) CD

> Zoom 1 2 3 4

Concerts Remastered
2006

Henry Cow

Disc 1
- Beautiful As The Moon|Terrible As An Army With Banners
- Nirvana For Mice
- The Ottawa Song
- Gloria Gloom
- Beautiful As The Moon (Reprise)
- Bad Alchemy
- Little Red Riding Hood Hits The Road
- Ruins
- Groningen
- Groningen Again

Disc 2
- Oslo
- Off The Map
- Cafe Royal
- Keeping Warm In Winter
- Sweet Heart Of Mine
- Udine

Nouvelle réédition remasterisée du CD paru en 1995.

Cet album est également présent dans la rubrique Reprises.

- RERMEGACORP (HC5 & 6) 2xCD

News From Babel

Disc 1
SIRENS AND SILENCES
- Odysseus
- Auschwitz/Babel
- Klein's Bottle
- Black Gold
- Devils
- Dry Leaf
WORK RESUMED ON THE TOWER
- Arcades (of Glass)
- Victory

Nouvelle réédition remasterisée des CDs parus en 1995. Le 3ème CD est la réédition d'un one-sided single paru en 1984.

- ReR MEGACORP (ReR NfBOX) 3xCD

Critiques/Reviews

> Zoom

Sirens & Silences / Work Resumed On The Tower / Letters Home (Reedition) 2006

- Anno Mirabilis

Disc 2
LETTERS HOME
- Who Will Accuse ?
- Heart Of Stone (Megalopolis)
- Banknote
- Moss
- Dragon At The Core
- Dark Matter
- Waited/Justice
- Fast Food
- Late Evening

Disc 3
BONUS
- Contraries

> Zoom

The Man From Gong
The Best Of Daevid Allen
2006

Daevid Allen

- You Don't Remember
- Chainstore Chant & Pretty Miss Titty
- Stoned Innocent Frankenstein
- Fred The Fish
- White Neck Blooze/Codein Coda
- Tried So Hard
- Floatin' Anarchy
- Opium For The People
- Why Do We Treat Ourselves Like We Do ?
- Only Make Love If You Want To
- Poet For Sale
- It'S A Fine Air For Fliss
- No Other Than My Mother Is The Song
- Much Too Old
- Strong Woman
- Pearls
- Bananareggae
- Are You Ready

- Robert Wyatt - drums, backing vocals (vocal on You Don't Remember)

You Don't Remember est extrait de Jet-Propelled Photographs.
Stoned Innocent Frankenstein, Fred The Fish & White Neck Blooze/Codein Codae sont extraits de Banana Moon.

- CHARLY RECORDS (SNAP264CD) CD

> Zoom

Surrounded
2006

Björk

Disc 1
DEBUT

Disc 2
POST

Disc 3
HOMOGENIC

Disc 4
SELMASONGS

Disc 5
VESPERTINE

Disc 6
MEDULLA

- Pleasure Is All Mine
- Show Me Forgiveness
- Where Is The Line
- Vökuró
- Öll Birtan
- Who Is It (Carry My Joy On The Left, Carry My Pain On The Right)
- Submarine
- Desired Constellation
- Oceania
- Sonnets/Unrealities XI
- Ancestors
- Mouth's Cradle
- Midvikudags
- Triumph Of A Heart

Disc 7
DRAWING RESTRAINT 9

y

This boxset contains the first 7 remastered Bjork albums, including Medulla released in 2004.

Discs come packaged in a metallic-pink box.

All seven discs include the original release on the CD side, with the DVD side presenting the original album remastered in Dolby 5.1 and DTS 96/24 Surround Sound (Vespertine only 48 kHz), plus all the videos released from the album (a total of 26 videos in the box).

- RHINO RECORDS (R2 73212) 7xCD + 7xDVD)
- ONE LITTLE INDIAN (TPLP730CDBOX) 7xCD + 7xDVD

> Zoom

Songs From Before
2006

Max Richter

- Song
- Flowers For Yulia
- Fragment
- Harmonium
- Ionosphere
- Autumn Music 1
- Time Passing
- Sunlight
- Lullaby
- Autumn Music 2
- Verses
- From The Rue Vilin

- Robert Wyatt - readings

- Max Richter - piano, mixing
- Natalia Bonner - violin
- Ian Burdge - cello
- Chris Worsey - cello

Robert Wyatt lit des textes de Haruki Murakami.

- FAT CATS RECORDS (CD13-05)
CD

> Zoom

Les TresOrs (1982-1999)
(Reissue)
2006

Claustrofobia

- Rito Zíngaro (recreación de "Rito Gitano")
- Nana Del Amor Amargo
- Carlove
- El Enjambre
- Los Milicianos
- Lluvia Dorada En Tu Boca
- Soledad y Pobreza
- Morir Contigo
- Solas Las Dos (recreación de "Encadenadas")
- Escalofrío
- Sudor y Espuma
- No Olvido
- La Elegancia de Tus Lágrimas
- Encadenados
- Tu Traición
- Diablura
- El Cuento Se Acabó

Réédition de l'album Les TresOrs (1982-1999) paru en 1999.

- K INDUSTRIA (K 019) CD

> Zoom

Henry Cow Box
2006

Henry Cow

Disc 1
LEGEND
- Nirvana For Mice
- Amygdala
- Teenbeat (Introduction)
- Teenbeat
- Nirvana (Reprise)
- Extract From "With The Yellow Half-Moon And Blue Star"
- Teenbeat (Reprise)
- Tenth Chaffinch
- Nine Funerals Of The Citizen King
- Bellycan

Disc 2
UNREST
- Bittern Storm Over Ulm
- Half Asleep; Half Awake
- Ruins
- Solemn Music
- Linguaphonie
- Upon Entering The Hotel Adlon
- Arcades
- Deluge
- Glove
- Torchfire

Disc 3
IN PRAISE OF LEARNING
- War
- Living In The Heart Of The Beast
- Beginning: The Long March
- Beautiful As The Moon | Terrible As An Army With Banners
- Morning Star
- Lovers Of Gold

Disc 4
DESPERATE STRAIGHTS

Coffret de 8 Cds en tirage limité dont une nouvelle réédition remasterisée du CD Concerts paru en 1976 et 1995.

Le 8ème CD est un CD bonus réservé aux 200 premiers souscripteurs du coffret.

Ce coffret est également présent dans la rubrique Reprises.

- RER MEGACORP (RER HCBOX)
8xCD

- Some Questions About Hats
- Owl
- Worm Is At Work
- Bad Alchemy
- Europa
- Desperate Straights
- Riding Tigers
- Apes In Capes
- Strayed
- Giants
- Excerpt From The Messiah
- In The Sickbay
- Caucasian Lullaby

Discs 5 et 6
CONCERTS
- Beautiful As The Moon|Terrible As An Army With Banners
- Nirvana For Mice
- The Ottawa Song
- Gloria Gloom
- Beautiful As The Moon (Reprise)
- Bad Alchemy
- Little Red Riding Hood Hits The Road
- Ruins
- Groningen
- Groningen Again

- Oslo
- Off The Map
- Cafe Royal
- Keeping Warm In Winter Sweet Heart Of Mine
- Udine

Disc 7
WESTERN CULTURE
- History And Prospects: Industry
- History And Prospects: The Decay Of Cities
- History And Prospects: On The Raft
- Day By Day: Falling Away
- Day By Day: Gretel's Tale
- Day By Day: Look Back
- Day By Day: Half The Sky
- Viva Pa Ubu
- Look Back [Alternate Take]
- Slice

Disc 8 (bonus)
UNRELEASED ORCKESTRA EXTRACT
- Untitled
- Would You Prefer Us To Lie?

> Zoom

Bar Elèctric (1975-2005)
2006

Pascal Comelade

Disc 1
- Fluence (PC) + Richard Pinhas
- Sequencia (PC)
- Sequencia (PC)
- Automne (PC) + Gavin Bryars
- Ready Made (PC)
- Bar Electric (PC/VN) + Victor Nubla
- Pluie Japonaise (PC) + David Cunningham / D.D.A.A.
- Chanson (PC) + Cathy Claret
- Petit Ballet Mécanique (PC)
- Dancin' On My Sofa (PC)
- Park Güell (PC)
- Rue des Soeurs Noires (PC)
- Valse de la Demoiselle aux Yeux Verts (PC)
- Honky Tonk Women (Jagger-Richards) + GAT
- Your Labios As Tulips (PC)
- Memories (Wyatt/Hopper) + Laurent Sinclair
- It Hurts Me Too (Elmore James) + Pierre Bastien/Marc Dufourd
- Tango Del Rosselo (PC)
- La Crasse du Tympan (Marcel Duchamp) Enric Casasses/Mark Cunningham
- Patafisiskal Polska (PC)

Disc 2
- The Skatalan Logicofobism (PC) + Bel Canto Orquestra
- 4 Roses pour Maris (PC)
- Arthur Cravan Was A Flor Fina (PC)

Cet album est également présent dans la rubrique Reprises.

- G3G RECORDS (G3PC9) 4xCD

- The Way I Walk (Jack Scott) + OTH
- Danse Du Valseur Callipyge (PC)
- Retrat De L'Enric Amb Xapo (PC)
- Sunny Afternoon (R. Davies)
- Put A Straw Under Babies (Eno)
- Chanson De Charme Pour Faux-Nez (PC)
- The Lolobrigidada Fox-Trot (PC)
- Your Eyes Like Juan Gris Cubist Guitar (PC)
- Le Fakir de la Chapelle (PC)
- A Tombouctou sans Mariachis (PC)
- La Catedral d'Escuradents (PC)
- Betty Page A Go-Go (PC)
- Back To Schizo (PC) + Richard Pinhas
- L'Homme Dibuixat (Sisa)

Disc 3
- Le Soir Du Grand Soir (PC)
- Dona'M Corda (EC/PC) + Enric Casasses
- Souviens-Toi De Ces Douces Soirées (PC)
- The Sad Skinhead (J.H. Peron) + Jean-Hervé Péron
- Domisiladoré (PC) + Général Alcazar
- Teresa (O. Montillor) + Toti Soler
- Love Too Soon (P.J. Harvey/PC) + P.J. Harvey
- Featherhead (P.J. Harvey/PC) + P.J. Harvey
- I Love Joan Jett (Diverses Authors)
- Cadillac (Vince Taylor) + Jac Berrocal
- Springman (PC)
- L'Argot Del Soroll

Disc 4
- Aigua De Florida (PC)
- 13 à Table (PC)
- September Song (Anderson/Weil) + Robert Wyatt
- Tobe Dammit Ornette To Be (PC)
- The Blank Invasion Of Shizofonics Bikinis (PC)
- Si (PC)
- Gégène (PC)
- Egyptian Reggae (J. Richman)
- Numero très (PC)
- La Placa Del Diamant (PC) + Quicu Samso
- Vals Robat (PC)
- Noies Boniques Amb Vestits Bonics (PC)
- Una Aigua Dolca D'Estar Bé (PC)
- Come Prima (Panzer/Taccani/Di Paola)
- The Sheik Of Araby (Snyder/Wheler/Smith)
- Ramona (Autor Desconegut)
- Lo Pardal (Trad.)
- Smoke'n'Cadillac (Deep Purple/ V. Taylor) + Roy Paci
- Lumpen Harmony (PC)

> Zoom

Review (1968-2000)
2007

Michael Mantler

- Unsaid (6)
- I'm Glad You're Glad
- One Symphony - Part 3 (excerpt)
- Introductions
- Love Ends (excerpt)
- Understanding
- Solitudine / Lontano / L'Illuminata Rugiada / Proverbi
- Speechless
- Folly Seeing All This (excerpt)
- PSS
- Comrade
- A L'Abattoir
- When I Run
- Alien - Part 1 (excerpt)
- Twenty
- Movie Two
- Sometimes I See People (excerpt)
- The Sinking Spell
- 13 (excerpt)
- Number Six - Part Four
- Preview
- It Makes No Difference To Me

Compilation de compositions crées entre 1968 et 2000, dont les albums suivants réalisés avec Robert Wyatt :

- Hide and Seek
- The School Of Understanding
- Many Have No Speech
- Silence
- The Hapless Child

- ECM RECORDS (1813) CD

> Zoom

Welcome To The Voice
2007

Steve Nieve

- Prologue Of Dionysos
- Song Of The Ghost Of Carmen
- Grand Grand Freedom
- Unfailing Welcome To The Voice
- Song Of The Ghost Of Butterfly
- Song Of The Ghost Of Norma
- To Be Is Strong
- Perfume Song
- The Desire Of Dionysos
- Troublemaker
- Don't Touch Him
- Distanciation
- Happiness
- Despair
- The Unlikely Duet

Opéra contemporain.

Track 3:
Robert Wyatt – vocal, pocket trumpet
Sting – vocal
The London Voices – choir
Les Amis Francais – choir
Steve Nieve – piano, mini Moog
Ned Rothenberg – saxophones, clarinets
Marc Ribot – guitars
Antoine Quessada – cymbals
Brodsky Quartet

Track 10:
Robert Wyatt – voice
Elvis Costello – voice
The London Voices – choir
Les Amis Francais – choir
Steve Nieve - piano
Ned Rothenberg – bass clarinet, bass flute

Track 12:
Robert Wyatt – pocket trumpet
Nathalie Manfrino – voice
Sara Fulgoni - voice
The London Voices – choir
Les Amis Francais – choir
Steve Nieve – piano
Sting – electric bass guitar
Brodsky Quartet

Track 13:
Robert Wyatt – voice
Sting – voice
Steve Nieve – piano
Ned Rothenberg - clarinet
The Brodsky Quartet

Track 14:
Robert Wyatt – voice, pocket trumpet
Elvis Costello – voice
Sting – voice
Barbara Bonney – voice
Amanda Roocroft - voice
Nathalie Manfrino - voice
Sara Fulgoni – voice
Steve Nieve - piano, mini Moog

Track 15:
Robert Wyatt – voice
Sting – voice
Barbara Bonney - voice
Amanda Roocroft - voice
Nathalie Manfrino - voice
Sara Fulgoni – voice
The London Voices – choir
Les Amis Francais – choir
Steve Nieve - piano, mini Moog
Ned Rothenberg - saxophones, clarinets
Marc Ribot – guitars
Antoine Quessada - cymbals
Brodsky Quartet

- DEUTSCHE GRAMMOPHON (4776524) CD

Pascal Comelade

- Pim Pam Poum Al Concepte
- The Blank Invasion Of Schizofonics Bikinis
- Lumpen-Harmony
- Sense El Resso Del Dring
- Encore Le Semi-Nerf DéJà Claquant
- To Be Dammit Ornette To Be
- A Tombouctou Sans Mariachis
- Domisiladoré
- Le Fakir De La Chapelle

Compilation.

September Song est extrait de September Song.

- BECAUSE MUSIC (3124232) CD

> Zoom

Monofonicorama
Best-Off (?) 2005-1992...
2007

- Love Too Soon
- L'Esquella De La Torratxa
- Le Soir Du Grand Soir
- September Song
- Patafisiskal Polska
- Arthur Cravan Was A Flor Fina
- Un Train Direct Pour Charenton
- La SociéTé Du Piano Obstacle
- 4 Roses Pour Marie
- Face Au Toril
- Chanson De Charme Pour Faux-Nez
- The Skatalan Logicofobism
- Mother Of Earth
- Portrait D'Enric Avec Son Chapeau
- Sardawa Dels Desemparats
- L'Argot Du Bruit

> Zoom 1 2 3 4

The Story So Far...
... Oh Really? (Reissue)
2007

Steve Miller/Lol Coxhill

Disc 1
MILLER/COXHILL
- Chocolate Field
- One For You
- Portland Bill
COXHILL/MILLER
- Will My Thirst Play Me Tricks/The Ant About To Be Crushed Ponders Not The Where Withal Of Boot Leather
- Maggots
- Bath 72
- Wimbledon Baths
- Gog Ma Gog
Bonus
DELIVERY
- Betty (You Pays Your Money, You Takes Your Chances)
- God Song
- Bossa Nochance/Big Jobs
STEVE MILLER
- Big Jobs No. 2
- God Song

Disc 2
Bonus
STEVE MILLER
- Chocolate Field
- One For You
THE STORY SO FAR...
- G Song
- F Bit
- Songs Of March
- More G Songs
- Does This
- The Greatest Off-Shore Race In The World
...OH REALLY?
- Reprise For Thos Who Prefer It Slower
- Tubercular Balls
- Soprano Derivativo/Apricot Jam
- Oh, Do I Like To Be Beside The Seaside?
- In Memoriam: Meister Eckhart, From The Welfare State Epic Of The Same Name Starring Randolph Scott
- A Fabulous Comedian
Bonus
- Coo-Coo-Ka-Chew [Collective Improvisation]

- Robert Wyatt - percussion & vocals

- Lol Coxhill - soprano sax
- Kevin Ayers - acoustic guitar
- Archie Legget - bass guitar

"Joined at a later date by Kevin Ayers's sequence Apricot Jam. Performed live at the Twist Cha-Cha Rooms, Camden Over 40's Club by Sunny Sax and The Sunshine Orchestra."

Nouvelle réédition remasterisée de l'album paru en 1974, enrichie de nombreux bonus.

Cet album est également présent dans la rubrique Reprises.

- CUNEIFORM (RUNE 253/254) 2xCD

Critiques/Reviews

> Zoom 1 2

Bertrand Burgalat

- Balises pour centre d'écoute
- Une Nuit À Taverny
- Nous étions Heureux
- Right Side Up with The World
- This Summer Night
- Mal De Bright
- Anonyme Amour
- Out Of Touch
- Ragle Gumm
- Grande remise
- J'ai Quelque Chose À Dire
- Un Sogno Di Televizione

- Robert Wyatt - voix

- Hervé Bouétard - batterie
- David Forgione - basse
- Stéphane Salvi - guitare
- Bertrand Burgalat - claviers, flûte, choeurs, voix

- TRICATEL (TRICDFR031) CD

Chéri B.B.
2007

- I've been A Bad, Bad Boy
- Happy Inbetween

> Zoom

This Summer Night
2007

Robert Wyatt & Bertrand Burgalat

- This Summer Night
- This Summer Night (Solenzara Mix)

This Summer Night est extrait de Chéri B.B.

- TRICATEL (SP5) S
- DOMINO (RUG283CDP) CD-S

> Zoom 1 2 3

Hyde Park Free Concert 1970
2007

Kevin Ayers & the Whole World

- Clarence In Wonderland
- Red Green And You Blue
- May I?
- Hat Song
- Did It Again
- Why Are We Sleeping

- Robert Wyatt - drums

- Kevin Ayers - electric guitar, vocals
- David Bedford - electric piano, organ
- Lol Coxhill - tenor, soprano saxophone, gibson maestro, slide whistle, percussion
- Mike Oldfield - bass guitar

- REEL RECORDINGS (RR002) CD

Critiques/Reviews

> Zoom

Yellow Gauze
2007

Bibi Tanga Et Le Professeur Inlassable

- Ayo
- Groovyland
- This Is How It's Going To Be
- Pain In My Chest
- Yellow Gauze
- Wade In The Water
- Crazy Funny Story
- Keep That Groove Away
- Ladybird
- Au fil du temps
- Talking Nigga Brothaz
- It's The Earth That Moves
- At War
- Nzapa a bata mo

- Robert Wyatt - lyrics

- Nicolas Repac - guitar
- Olivier Lesolliec - guitar

- L'INLASSABLE DISQUE (INL001) CD

Clear Frame

- Clean Slate
- Tin Plate
- Noise Gate
- Void Crate
- High Rate
- Better Late
- Paperweight
- Figure Eight

- Robert Wyatt - cornet

- Lol Coxhill - soprano saxophone
- Charles Hayward - drums, keyboards
- Hugh Hopper - bass guitar
- Orphy Robinson - vibraphone, steel pan, percussion, FX

- CONTINUITY RECORDS (TINU001) CD

> Zoom

Clear Frame
2007

> Zoom 1 2

J'Irai Au Paradis
2007

Daniel Darc

- J'Irai Au Paradis
- Ça Ne Sert À Rien

- Robert Wyatt - backing vocals

- Daniel Darc - chant
- Frédéric Lo - basse, Beat Box Korg KR-55, guitare, Yamaha CS-50, trompette

Edition promo limitée et numérotée.

- MERCURY (882377-7) S
- MERCURY (11677) CD-S

> Zoom

Amours Suprêmes
2008

Daniel Darc

- Les Remords
- J'irai Au Paradis
- L.U.V.
- Un An Et Un Jour
- La Seule Fille Sur Terre
- Ça Ne Sert À Rien
- Amour Suprême
- La Vie Est Mortelle
- Serais-Je Perdu
- Environ

- Robert Wyatt - voix, respirations

- Daniel Darc - chant
- Frédéric Lo - basse, Beat Box Korg KR-55, guitare, Yamaha CS-50, trompette

- MERCURY (530545 9) CD

> Zoom

Mr Love & Justice
2008

Billy Bragg

- I Keep Faith
- I Almost Killed You
- M for Me
- The Beach Is Free
- Sing Their Souls Back Home
- You Make Me Brave
- Something Happened
- Mr. Love & Justice
- If You Ever Leave
- O Freedom
- The Johnny Carcinogenic Show
- Farm Boy

- Robert Wyatt - backing vocals

- Billy Bragg - vocals, acoustic and electric guitar
- Ben Mandelson - mandolin, baritone bouzouki, harmonica, lap steel, electric bouzouki, national tenor guitar, electric guitar,
- Lu Edmonds - ud, saz, cümbüs, electric guitar
- Ian McLagan - Hammond B3, piano, Würlitzer
- Simon Edwards - double bass, electric bass, marimbula, handclaps
- Martin Barker - hang drum, exp cymbal, drums, handclaps, shaker, snare, bass drum, bongos,reco reco, ride cymbal, tambourine, cajon, mazhar, calabash

- COOKING VINYL (COOKCD452) CD

Billy Bragg

- I Keep Faith (Single Edit Version)
- Like Soldiers Do (Acoustic Version)

- Robert Wyatt - backing vocals

- COOKING VINYL (FRY341) EP

> Zoom

I Keep Faith
2008

- COOKING VINYL (FRY341P) CD-S

> Zoom

Hih
2008

Mônica Vasconcelos

- Nega Deleite
- Arquitetura
- Coisa De Fome
- Out Of The Doldrums [Philipps/Benge/ Wyatt]
- Fogo E Sal
- Hih
- Lâgrimas Negras
- Disritmia
- Sunshine Vignette
- Still In The Dark (You're Not My Sunshine) [Lodder/Wyatt/Benge]
- Pedro
- Oraçao
- Salt Meets Fire (Fogo E Sal) (bonus track)

- Robert Wyatt - backing vocals

- Mônica Vasconcelos - vocals, guitar
- Steve Lodder - keyboards, piano, harmonium
- Dudley Phillips - electric bass, double bass
- Adriano Adewale - percussion
- Dudu Fonseca - drums on 4
- Ingrid Laubrock - soprano saxophone on 4

- MOVAS (003) CD

> Zoom

22 Dreams
2008

Paul Weller

- Light Nights
- 22 Dreams
- All I Wanna Do (Is Be with You)
- Have You Made Up Your Mind
- Empty Ring
- Invisible
- Song for Alice
- Cold Momets
- Dark Pages of Septemberto the New Leaves Of Spring
- Black River
- Why Walk When You Can Run
- Push It Along
- Dream Reprise
- Echoes Round the Sun
- One Bright Star
- Lullaby Fur Kinder
- Where'er Ye Go
- God
- 111
- Sea Spray
- Night Lights

- Robert Wyatt - trumpet, piano

- Paul Weller - guitar
- Steve Cradock - guitars, piano
- Simon Dine - orchestration, percussion

- ISLAND (1773157) CD
- ISLAND (1769350) 2xLP

> Zoom

What More Can I Say...
2008

Kevin Ayers

- Unfinished
- This Song Isn't Called Anything
- Crying
- Clarence In Oyster Land
- Dreaming Doctor
- What More Can I Say...

- Robert Wyatt - drums

- Kevin Ayers - guitars, voice, piano
- Mike Oldfield - bass
- David Bedford - organ

- REEL RECORDINGS (RR009) CD

Critiques/Reviews

> Zoom

Songs For Insane Times:
An Anthology 1969-1980
2008

Kevin Ayers

Disc 1
- Town Feeling
- Song For Insane Times
- Girl On A Swing
- The Lady Rachel
- Stop This Train (Again Doing It)
- Eleanor's Cake (Wich Ate Her)
- Religious Experience (Singing A Song In The Morning)
- Soon Soon Soon
- Rheinhardt & Geraldine/Colores Para Delores
- May I?
- Clarence In Wonderland
- The Oyster And The Flying Fish
- Shooting At The Moon
- Butterfly Dance
- Gemini Child
- Stars
- There Is Loving/Among Us/There Is Loving

Disc 2
- Stranger In Blue Suede Shoes
- Song From The Bottom Of A Well
- Oh My
- Margaret
- Whatevershebringswesing
- Decadence
- Oh! Wot A Dream
- Don't Let It Get You Down
- Interview
- Caribbean Moon
- The Up Song
- The Confessions Of Doctor Dream: Irreversible Neural Damage
- It Begins With A Blessing/Once I Awakened/But It Ends With A Curse
- See You Later
- Ballbearing Blues

Disc 3
- After The Show
- Thank You Very Much
- Observations
- Toujours La Voyage
- Diminished But Not Finished
- Farewell Again (Another Dawn)
- Yes I Do
- Love's Gonna Turn You Round
- Ballad Of Mr. Snake
- Blue
- Ballad Of A Salesman Who Sold Himself
- A View From The Mountain
- Beware Of The Dog II
- Hat Song
- Money, Money, Money
- Super Salesman
- Where Do The Stars End ?

Disc 4
'AFTER THE SHOW' LIVE AT THE QUEEN ELISABETH HALL 1973
- Banana Introduction
- Stranger In Blue Suede Shoes
- Interview
- Whatevershebringswesing
- Oh! Wot A Dream
- Shouting In A Bucket Blues
- Caribbean Moon
- Don't Let It Get You Down
- We Did It Again
- Why Are We Sleeping ?
- After The Show

Compilation.

Town Feeling, Songs For Insane Times et The Lady Rachel sont extraits de Joy Of A Toy ; Soon Soon Soon est extrait de Odd Ditties ; Colores Para Dolores et Clarence In Wonderland sont extraits de Shooting At The Moon ;
et Whatevershebringswesing est extrait de Whatevershebringswesing

Cet album est également présent dans la rubrique Reprises.

- HARVEST (521 5570) 4xCD

Robert Wyatt & Bertrand Burgalat

- This Summer Night
- This Summer Night (Hot Chip remix)

This Summer Night est extrait de Chéri

> Zoom

This Summer Night
2008

B.B.
Réédition avec un remix de Hot Chip en face B.

- DOMINO RECORDS
  (RUG283) S

> Zoom

Losing My Reality
2008

Runningstill

- My House
- Ordinary
- Come Away
- Sun Goes Down
- On My Side
- Fly
- Waiting For You
- Wake Up
- Something Is Wrong
- Float

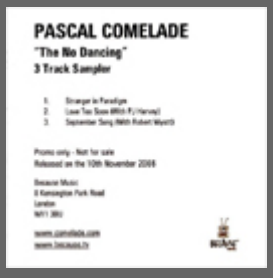
- Robert Wyatt - vocals & cornet

- Asi Meskin - vocals, acoustic guitar, piano, keyboards
- Ben Zwerin - bass
- Raed El-Khazen - electric guitar
- Zach Jones - drums

- COMFORTABLY NUMB
  (CFN2-512178) CD

> Zoom

The No Dancing
2008



Pascal Comelade

- The Blank Invasion of Schizofonics Bikinis
- Stranger In Paradigm
- Jours Tranquilles A Rodez (feat. J. Liebezbt)
- Elvis Loved Dogs
- The Sad Skinhead (feat. J.-H. Péron)
- Sunny Afternoon
- Love Too Soon (feat. PJ Harvey)
- Contre Le Style
- Mother Of Earth
- Cadillac (feat. J. Berrocal)
- Put A Straw Under Baby
- The Indian Of the Group
- Via-Crucis Del Rocanrol
- Don't Touch My Blue Oyster Shoes
- Betty Page A-Go-Go
- Sense El Resso Del Dring
- September Song (feat. R. Wyatt)
- Barman de Satan
- L'U
- Psicotic Music Hall

September Song est extrait de September Song

Compilation.

- BECAUSE MUSIC
  (BEC5772397) CD

> Zoom

The No Dancing Sampler
2008

Pascal Comelade

- Stranger In Paradigm
- Love Too Soon (feat. PJ Harvey)
- September Song (feat. R. Wyatt)

September Song est extrait de September Song

Promo Version.

- BECAUSE MUSIC - CD-S

> Zoom

Bm
2008

Barbara Morgenstern

- Driving My Car
- Come To Berlin
- Reich & berühmt
- Deine Geschichte
- Für Luise
- Camouflage
- Hochhaus
- My Velocity
- Morbus Basedow
- Monokultur
- Jakarta
- Meine Aufgabe
- Hustefuchs

- Robert Wyatt - vocals and lyrics

- Barbara Morgenstern - vocals, piano
- Julia Kent - cellio
- Chor der Kulturender Welt - choir

- MONIKA ENTERPRISE (64) CD

> Zoom

Everything That Happens
Will Happen Today
2008

David Byrne & Brian Eno

- Home
- My Big Nurse
- I Feel My Stuff
- Everything That Happens
- Life Is Long
- The River
- Strange Overtones
- Wanted For Life
- One Fine Day
- Poor Boy
- The Lighthouse

- Robert Wyatt - frame drum solo

- David Byrne - vocals, rhythm guitar
- Brian Eno - backing vocals, organ solo, Omnichord piano, keyboards, programming
- Leo Abrahams - guitars, bass, Dubreq stylophone, programming
- Steve Jones - delay guitar
- Mauro Refosco - bongo, conga, tambourine
- Seb Rochford - live drums

- TODOMUNDO (TODO 002) CD

> Zoom 1 2

Everything That Happens
Will Happen Today (Limited Edition)
2008

David Byrne & Brian Eno

- Home
- My Big Nurse
- I Feel My Stuff
- Everything That Happens
- Life Is Long
- The River
- Strange Overtones
- Wanted For Life
- One Fine Day
- Poor Boy
- The Lighthouse

CD Bonus
- Never Thought
- Walking Along The River
- The Eyes
- The Painting

On Strange Overtones:
- Robert Wyatt - frame drum solo
- David Byrne - vocals, rhythm guitar
- Brian Eno- backing vocals, organ solo, Omnichord piano, keyboards, programming
- Leo Abrahams - guitars, bass, Dubreq Stylophone, programming
- Steve Jones - delay guitar
- Mauro Refosco - bongo, conga, tambourine
- Seb Rochford - live drums

On Never Thought :
- Robert Wyatt - drum [handsonic]
- David Byrne - vocals, guitar, E-Bow
- Brian Eno - backing vocals, guitar, bass, piano [inhauman], programmed by,
- Leo Abrahams - acoustic guitar, piano, percussion, E-Bow
- Melanie Hall QC - backing vocals

Limited Deluxe Package edition design by Sagmeister Inc. includes:
- An enhanced CD featuring four exclusive bonus songs, a short film about the album by Hillman Curtis, Holding Pattern screensaver app customized for this release.
- Everything That Happens miniature hardbound book
- a red and white pill
- a dice with six sentences

- TODOMUNDO (TODO 002) 2xCD

> Zoom

Rétrospective
2008

Bruno Coulais

Disc 1
- La Planète Blanche : Coups D'Ailes Sous La Mer
- Le Fils Du Requin : Quatuor N°2
- Le Fils Du Requin : Le Fils Du Requin (Orchestre)
- Don Juan : Des Masques
- Truands : Générique Début
- Le Peuple Migrateur : The Highest Gander (Bruno Coulais & Robert Wyatt)
- L'Enfant Qui Voulait Etre Un Ours : Vers La Ville
- Déjà Mort : Les Armes
- Genesis : Genesis
- Le Peuple Migrateur : To Be By Your Side (Bruno Coulais & Nick Cave)
- Le Fils Du Requin : Quatuor N°1
- Don Juan : Les Jeux De La Séduction
- Harrison'S Flowers : La Route
- Les Choristes : In Memoriam
- Le Peuple Migrateur : Hors Champ
- Microcosmos : L'Amour Des Escargots
- Agents Secrets : La Traque
- Le Deuxième Souffle : La Fourmi Rouge
- Don Juan : Don Juan Générique
- L'Enfant Qui Voulait Etre Un Ours : Thème
- Microcosmos : L'Abeille Et Les Fleurs
- Le Peuple Migrateur : Le Retour Des Grues
- De L'Amour : La Cabine

Disc 2
- Comme Un Aimant : Is It Really Home ? (Bruno Coulais & Isaac Hayes)
- Mr73 : Le Cauchemar De Justine
- Les Equilibristes : L'Equilibriste
- Himalaya : Opéra
- Himalaya : La Nuit
- Himalaya : Le Lac
- Déjà Mort : Déjà Mort
- Comme Un Aimant : Affrescu (A Filetta & Bruno Coulais)
- L'Enfant Qui Voulait Etre Un Ours : Le Trou Dans La Neige
- Microcosmos : Microcosmos
- Genesis : La Fanfare De La Vie
- Genesis : Désir, Mon Beau Désir
- Les Rivières Pourpres : Générique Début
- Ulzhan : Générique Fin
- Les Choristes : Les Choristes
- Serial Lover : River Of Love
- Don Juan : La Mort De Don Juan
- Le Fils Du Requin : Le Quatuor De La Mer
- Le Deuxième Souffle : Fin De Partie
- Belphégor : La Pyramide
- Comme Un Aimant : Dir Yassin (Bruno Coulais & Millie Jackson)

Compilation des musiques de film de Bruno Coulais.

The Highest Gander est extrait de Travelling Birds (Le Peuple Migrateur)

- NAIVE (K1643) 2xCD

> Zoom

Hot Chip With Robert Wyatt And Geese
2008

Hot Chip With Robert Wyatt And Geese

- Made In The Dark
- Whistle For Will
- We're Looking For A Lot Of Love (remixed by Geese)
- One Pure Thought

- Robert Wyatt - additional vocals, new mix, cornet, Jew's harp, on Made In The Dark

- Robert Wyatt - additional vocals, new mix, whistling, percussion on Whistle For Will

- Robert Wyatt - additional vocals, effects, on We're Looking For A Lot Of Love

- EMI RECORDS CD-EP

> Zoom

Anthologie Du Projet MW
2009

Anthologie Du Projet MW

- September Song (Robert Wyatt + Pascal Comelade)[K. Weill]
- Signed Curtain (P. Comelade) [R. Wyatt]
- O Caroline (P. Comelade) [D. Sinclair / R. Wyatt]
- Memories (P. Comelade) [H. Hopper]
- Alifib 1 (P. Comelade) [R. Wyatt]
- Alifib 2 (P. Comelade) [R. Wyatt]
- Heaps Of Sheep (Rik Van Den Bosch - guitare et chant & Marrijn Slager - guitare avec les voix de A. Marchetti, L. Marchetti, B. Demonet et J.M. Marchetti) [B. Eno - P. George - R. Wyatt / A. Benge]

- Entretien avec Robert Wyatt et lectures de The British Road en français par Philippe Fretun et de The British Road + Blues in Bob Minor en anglais par Robert Wyatt

Ce CD est édité avec l'ouvrage Anthologie du projet MW de J.M. Marchetti publié en mars 2009 aux éditions Ænc rages & Co.

Cet album est également présent dans la rubrique Reprises.

- ÆNCRAGES & Co - CD

> Zoom 1 2 3

1974-5
Volume 2 Of The Henry Cow Anniversary Box Set 2009

Henry Cow

- Introduction
- Ruins I
- Half Asleep, Half Awake
- Ruins II
- Heron Shower Over Hamburg
- Nix

HALSTEREN
- Halsteren 1
- Solo 1
- Solo Extension 1
- Halsteren 2
- Extension 1
- Halsteren 3
- First Suspension
- Extension 2
- Extension 3
- Solo 2
- Solo Extension 2
- Halsteren 4
- Second Suspension
- Extension 4
- Solo 3
- Solo Extension 3
- Hasteren 5

- Living In The Heart Of The Beast

- Robert Wyatt - voice

- Chris Cutler - drums
- Lindsay Cooper - oboe, bassoon, piano
- Fred Frith - guitar, xylophone
- John Greaves - bass
- Tim Hodgkinson - organ, alto sax
- Dagmar Krause - voice

Living In The Heart Of The Beast recorded at Theatre des Champs-Elysées, Paris on May 8 1975 - probably to cassette, by unidentified hand.

- RER MEGACORP (RER HC8) CD

> Zoom 1 2 3

Hamburg
Volume 3 Of The Henry Cow Anniversary Box Set 2009

Henry Cow

- Fair As The Moon
- Nirvana For Rabbits
- Ottawa Song
- Twilight Bridge
- Gloria Gloom
- Hamburg 1
- Hamburg 2
- Red Noise10
- Hamburg 3
- Hamburg 4
- Hamburg 5
- Terrible As An Army With Banners
- A Heart

- Little Red Riding Hood Hit the Road
- We Did It Again

- Robert Wyatt - voice

- Chris Cutler - drums
- Lindsay Cooper - oboe, bassoon
- Fred Frith - guitar
- John Greaves - bass
- Tim Hodgkinson - organ, alto sax
- Dagmar Krause - voice

Cet album est également présent dans la rubrique Reprises.

- RER MEGACORP (RER HC9) CD

Pascal Comelade

> Zoom

La Catedral d'Escuradents
2009

Disc 1
ANEMIC CINEMA (1992-1996)
- Patafisiskal Polska
- Tango Del Rosselló
- Arthur Cravan Was A Flor Fina
- The Skatalan Logicofobism
- Sardana Dels Desemparats
- Rue Des Soeurs Noires
- I Put A Barbara Steele On You
- Records De Vernet
- Danse Du Valseur Callipyge
- Clair De Lune À Pampelune
- Chanson De Charme Pour Faux-Nez
- The Lolobrigidada Fox-Trot
- Toti Al Soler
- Dali's Mustaches with Gitano's Chaussures
- Your Eyes Like Juan Gris Cubist Guitars
- Le Fakir De La Chapelle
- Chanson Triste Pour Ventriloque Aphone
- Back to Schizo

Disc 2
PIANISTA DEL ANTIFAZ (1996 - 2002)
- L'Argot Del Soroll
- Via-Crucis Del Rocanrol
- Domisiladoré
- Marie, Un Faux-Cil Dans La Transmission
- Love Too Soon
- Le Soir Du Grand Soir
- Un Train Direct Pour Charenton
- To Be Dammit Ornette To Be
- The Blank Invasion Of Schizofonics Bikinis
- Lo Misteri Del Triangle Del Vermut
- Sense El Ressó Del Dring
- Aigua De Florida
- Don't Touch My Blue Oyster Shoes
- Lumpen-Harmony
- A Figueres
- Al Pianista Della Bodega Bohemia
- Gégéne
- Un la minimal Nu

Disc 3
SUB-VERSION DE SALON
- September Song
- Brown Sugar
- Come Prima
- The Sheik Of Araby
- Prime Of Life
- The Letter
- Smoke On The Water
- The Way I Walk
- Egyptian Reggae
- Proud Mary
- Put A Straw Under Baby
- Like A Rollin' Stone
- Sunny Afternoon
- Let Me Try
- The Sad Skinhead
- Lonely Woman
- Johnny Guitar
- Sweet Little Sixteen
- Teresa
- Dali's Car

Disc 4
HIPARXIOLOGI DEL PLAT COMBINAT (CONCEPTE ULTRALOCALISTA DE LA MÙSICA POP CATALANA)
- L'Entrellissada
- Ball De L'Arengada
- Ball De Ceret
- Ball De La Candela
- Ball De Sant Blai
- Ball De La Corranda Alta
- Lo Pardal
- Ball De La Post
- Ball De L'ós
- Cançó De Lladre
- Ball De Gegants
- La Gala De Campdevanol
- Contrapás
- La Contradansa D'Alentorn
- La Dansa De Castellterçol
- Ball De L'Aliga
- Ball De Majorales
- La Santa Espina

Compilation.

September Song est extrait de September Song.

- DISCMEDI (DM 4695-02) 4xCD

> Zoom 1 2 3 4

Around Robert Wyatt
2009

Orchestre National de Jazz

Disc 1
- The Song (Robert Wyatt, chant)
- Alifib (Rokia Traoré, chant)
- Just As You Are (Yael Naïm, Arno, chant)
- O Caroline (Daniel Darc, chant)
- Kew Rhone (Robert Wyatt, chant)
- Shipbuilding (Yael Naïm, chant)
- Line
- Alliance (Camille, chant)
- Vandalusia (Robert Wyatt, chant)
- Del Mondo (Irène Jacob, chant)
- Te Recuerdo Amanda (Robert Wyatt, chant)

Discc 2
BONUS
- P L A (Rokia Traoré, chant)
- Gegenstand (Robert Wyatt, chant)
- Rangers In The Night (Robert Wyatt, chant)
- Just As You Are (Yael Naïm, chant)

- Robert Wyatt - chant

- Daniel Yvinec - direction artistique
- Vincent Artaud - arrangements

- Arno - chant
- Camille - chant
- Daniel Darc - chant
- Irène Jacob - chant
- Yael Naïm - chant
- Rokia Traore - chant
- Eve Risser - piano, piano préparé, flûtes & objets sonores
- Vincent Lafont - claviers & électronique
- Antonin-Tri Hoang - saxophone alto, clarinettes & piano
- Matthieu Metzger - saxophones, systalk-box & traitements électroniques
- Joce Mienniel - flûtes & électronique
- Rémi Dumoulin - saxophones & clarinettes
- Guillaume Poncelet - trompette, piano, synthétiseurs & électronique
- Pierre Perchaud - guitare & banjo
- Sylvain Daniel - basse électrique, cor d'harmonie & effets électroniques
- Yoann Serra - batterie

Cet album est également présent dans la rubrique Reprises.

- BEE JAZZ (BEE 030) 2xCD

Critiques/Reviews

> Zoom 1 2

A Season In Hell
2009

A Season In Hell

- Radio Intro
- A Season In Hell
- Radio Outro

- Robert Wyatt - vocal

- Carl Prekopp – narration
- Elisabeth Purnell – soundtrack

BBC Radio 3
Broadcast: sat 14 Nov 2009

"An abridged radio reworking of Rimbaud's intense masterpiece of spiritual disillusionment, narrated by Carl Prekopp with a soundscape by Bristol composer Elisabeth Purnell and poems sung by Robert Wyatt...

Elisabeth Purnell's soundtrack for the work includes composed music, field recordings and processed sound in a raw response to the words; she set the poems specifically for Wyatt, whose voice in its high, delicate register suggests a beyond-the-grave alter-ego to the young Rimbaud."

- DIME - Digital Format

Bibi Tanga & The Selenites

- The Moon
- Red Wine

- Robert Wyatt - lyrics

> Zoom

Dunya
2009

- Swing Swing
- Dunya
- Pasi
- Let Them Run
- Gospel Singers
- Bê Africa
- Shine
- Bonjour Mon Ami Jean
- Goodbye

BONUS
- It's The Earth That Moves

It's The Earth That Moves est extrait de Yellow Gauze publé en 2007.

- NAT GEO MUSIC (NGM 004) CD

> Zoom

Attitude & Orbit Control
2009

Jeanette Lindström

- We Would
- All We Have Is Now
- Morning
- River
- You Say
- Scenery
- Scenery Postludium
- Blue Room Yellow Tree
- Lament
- River (Feat. Robert Wyatt)
- Spacetalk
- Spacewalk

- Robert Wyatt - vocals, trumpet

- Jeanette Lindström – vocals, grand piano, Fender Rhodes
- Andreas Hourdakis – guitars, banjo, mandolin
- Jonas Östholm – grand piano, Wurlitzer, Fender Rhodes, organ, voice
- Thobias Gabrielson – electric bass
- Magnus Öström – drums, percussion, electronics, vibraphone, guitars, synthesizers, voice

Lyrics of Morning by Jeanette Lindström and Robert Wyatt

- DIESEL MUSIC (C-40) CD

> Zoom

River Remix
2010

Jeanette Lindström

- River (Lidbo Remix Feat. Robert Wyatt)
- River
- River (Feat. Robert Wyatt)

- Robert Wyatt - vocals, trumpet

River (Feat. Robert Wyatt) est extrait de Attitude & Orbit Control.

- DIESEL MUSIC - Digital Format

> Zoom

An Introduction To Syd Barrett
2010

Syd Barrett

- Arnold Layne (Pink Floyd)
- See Emily Play (Pink Floyd)
- Apples and Oranges (Pink Floyd)
- Matilda Mother (Pink Floyd)
- Chapter 24 (Pink Floyd)
- Bike (Pink Floyd)
- Terrapin
- Love You
- Dark Globe
- Here I Go
- Octopus
- She Took A Long Cool Look
- If It's In You
- Baby Lemonade
- Dominoes
- Gigolo Aunt

Compilation.

Love You est extrait de Madcap Laughs.

- HARVEST (TOCP-70882) CD

- Effervescing Elephant
- Bob Dylan Blues

> Zoom

Corroncho
2010

Phil Manzanera And Corroncho

- Lowrider
- Complicada
- Rosa
- Para Ti Nengon
- Suavecito
- Angeles Y Lobos
- Esta Vida Prestada
- Cancion Para La Que Sea
- Noche De Putas
- Tu Juventud
- Coyote
- Diario

- Robert Wyatt - trumpet

- Phil Manzanera - guitar, vocals
- Paul Thompson - drums
- Roberto Pla - percussion
- Jamie Johnson - bass
- Ricardo Fernandez - bass
- Yaron Stavi - bass
- Aldo López-Gavilán - piano
- Gilad Atzmon - alto, baritone and tenor saxophone
- Annie Lennox - vocals
- Chrissie Hynde - vocals
- Enrique Bunbury - vocals
- Claire Singers - vocals
- Quimi Portet - vocals

- EXPRESSION RECORDS (EXPCD27) CD

> Zoom

Mop Meuchiine Plays Robert Wyatt
2010

Mop Meuchiine Plays Robert Wyatt

- Locomotive
- Sea Song
- Instant Pussy
- The British Road
- To The Next Track
- Gharbzadegi
- I'm A Believer
- Anachronist; A.W.O.L.
- Calyx
- Big Bang Theory
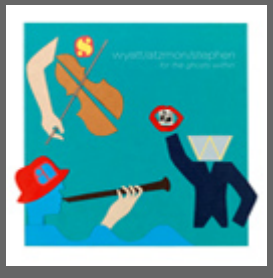
- Five Black Notes And One White Note
- Muddy Mouse



- Robert Wyatt - voix, interview

- Pascal Maupeu - guitare, banjo
- Jean-Baptiste Réhault - saxophone baryton, accordéon, saxhorn alto
- Hugues Vincent - violoncelle
- Cedric Piromalli - piano, fender rhodes, korg ms20
- Nicolas Le Moullec - basse électrique, voix
- Bertrand Hurault - batterie électronique

Cet album est également présent dans la rubrique Reprises.

- LE CHANT DU MONDE (274 1869) CD

Critiques/Review

> Zoom 1 2 3

...For The Ghosts Within' 2010

Wyatt/Atzmon/Stephen

- Laura
- Lullaby For Irena
- The Ghosts Within
- Where Are They Now?
- Maryan
- Round Midnight
- Lush Life
- What's New?
- In A Sentimental Mood
- At Last I Am Free
- What A Wounderful World

- Robert Wyatt - voice, brushes, trumpet, percussion, whistling, backing vocals

- Gilad Atzmon - alto sax, clarinets, soprano sax, bass clarinet, accordion,Palestinian shepherd's flute,
- Ros Stephen - violin, viola, backing vocals
- Richard Pryce - double bass
- Yaron Stavi - double bass, electric bass
- Frank Harrison - keyboards
- Sigamos String Quartet:
  Ros Stephen - violin
  Tom Piggot-Smith - violin
  Rachel Robson - viola
  Daisy Vatalaro - cello
- Julian Rowlands - bandoneon

- Stormtrap (Abboud Hashem) - voice
- Tali Atzmon - backing vocals

Artwork by Alfreda Benge

- DOMINO RECORDS (WIGCD263)
- DOMINO RECORDS (WIGLP263) LP
- DOMINO RECORDS (WIGCD263X) CD+DVD (limited edition)

Critiques/Review

Vidéo

Lyrics

> Zoom

What A Wonderful World
2010

Wyatt/Atzmon/Stephen

- What A Wonderful World

Promotional CD for...For The Ghosts Within'.

- DOMINO RECORDS (RUG388CDP) CD-S

> Zoom

Snakes And Ladders
2010

Sophia Domancich

- Goodnight Instrumental
- High Tide On The Ebb
- In The Box
- S&S
- The Island
- Est-ce L'Heure Du Thé ?
- Tea Time
- Mis manos Te Acarician
- Wilderness Instrumental
- Wilderness
- Lucky Day
- ...Of Night
- Goodnight Instrumental
- Goodnight
- Five O'Clock

- Robert Wyatt - voice

- Sophia Domancich - keyboards, piano, Fender Rhodes, samplers
- Jef Morin - guitar
- Louis Winsberg - guitar
- Simon Goubert - cymbals & brushes
- Jocelyn Moze - keyboards, drums
- Raphaël Marc - samplers, electronics
- Ramon Lopez - percussions, palmas

- CRISTAL RECORDS (CR162) CD

Lyrics

> Zoom

Cry From The City

Genie Cosmas

- Song For Satie Part 1
- Song For Satie Part 2
- MS Madness
- Cry From The City Part 1
- Cry From The City Part 2
- Once In a Liftime
- Take It Easy
- Prisoner's Lament
- Germanic Lullaby
- Clear Spring
- Just Like In The Movies Part 1
- Just Like In The Movies Part 2
- Her Old Man

- Robert Wyatt - scat vocals, piano

- Genie Cosmas - piano
- Gerry Hunt - soprano sax, flute
- Jim Gilbert - tenor sax
- Ricky Edwards - flute
- Janine Edwards - viola
- Tom Jones - violin
- Jonathan Stallick - cello
- Steve Manolias - double bass
- Donovan Carpenter - double bass
- Roger Cole - bass
- Pete Eckford - drums &

Music 4 Film, TV & Radio
2010

- Red Sunset
- Persistence Of Memory
- He Likes A Drink
- Parisienne Prelude
- Lucky Scars
- Domestic Bliss

percussion
- Ewan Stewart - drums & percussion
- Leon Maurice-Jones - drums & percussion
- Xandra Williams - scat vocals

- STREAMS RECORDS (SRCD006) CD

> Zoom

Satellite Sweetheart
2010

Dave Formula

- Elvis In Space
- Satellite Sweetheart
- Saddest Quay
- Via Sacra
- Bison Heard (at the scene)
- A Kiss To The Stars
- The World Behind Your Eyes
- Rhythm For Your Soul
- Parade
- The Reno
- Do It, One More Time
- Major Kong Goes Down
- The Anti-Hero

- Robert Wyatt - cornet, vocals

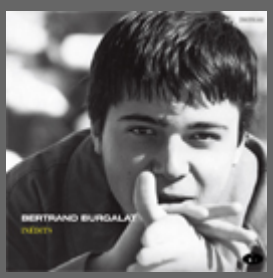
- Dave Formula - pianos, Hammond
- Andrew Amey - tenor sax
- Andy Gammon - guitars
- John Doyle - percussion, kit
- Keith Angel - kit, percussion
- Warren Jolly - bass
- Josh McArdle - vocals

- WIRE-SOUND (WIRED11) CD

> Zoom

Fan No.2
2010

Barbara Morgenstern



Disc 1
FAN No.2
- Ein Versuch
- Das Wort
- Der Augenblick (Mix Expansion)
- Eine Verabredung
- Aus Heiterem Himmel
- Nichts Muss
- The Operator (Piano Version)
- Juist-
- Camouflage (Featuring Robert Wyatt)
- Come To Berlin (Single Version)
- Mountainplace
- Wegbereiter
- Blackbird

Disc 2
ENTER THE PARTYZONE / PLASTIKREPORT
- Am Rand
- Die Liebe
- Im Flug
- Im Wiederhall
- Spiegel & Ich
- Der Morgentau
- Ein Fixpunkt
- Über Uns Liegt Ein Traum
- Mein Zeitbergriff
- Ein Tag Auf Dem Balkon

Compilation + Historic Bonus CD.

Camouflage est extrait de Bm.

- MONIKA ENTERPRISE (MONIKA70) 2xCD

> Zoom

Inédits
2011

Bertrand Burgalat

- Vision Of Love
- This Summer Night (Solenzara Remix)
- If You Never Come To Me
- Winney - Sonata For 3 Fingers
- Citroën BB
- Bertone
- Biscarosse
- Albo
- Kim
- Les Amplis De Mayence
- Haute Volupté
- Gaumont 95
- Sexy Boy
- Pour La Vie

Compilation

Remix du titre This Summer Night (Solenzara Remix) paru en 2007 sur Robert Wyatt & Bertrand Burgalat

- TRICATEL (TRICDFR030) CD

- Dr Timsit Laser
- Citra Hawaï
- Arc En Ciel Rue D'Ulm
- Vice Versa
- Ningette
- Jalousies Et Tomettes
- Holidays

> Zoom

Stream
2011

Dave Sinclair

- Sad Eyes
- Man Is The Child
- Always There
- Where I Long To Be
- The Only Thing We Need To Know
- Springwater
- So Beautiful
- Island
- Distant Star
- Between Us
- Stream

- Robert Wyatt - vocals on Sad Eyes and vocals, whistling and cornet on Stream

- Dave Sinclair - keyboards
- Jimmy Hastings - flutes, clarinets, soprano sax
- Andy Latimer - electric lead guitar
- Annie Haslam - vocal
- Barbara Gaskin - vocal
- Doug Boyle - acoustic & electric guitar
- Fred Baker - bass
- Morgan Fisher - keyboard
- Derby Cathedral - choir
- Yoshitaka Enomoto - drums, percussion

Japan only.

- CRESCENT (CRSCNT 002) CD

> Zoom

Absolute
2011

Scritti Politti

- Wood Beez (Pray Like Aretha Franklin)
- Absolute
- The Word Girl (Flesh And Blood)
- Perfect Way
- Hypnotize (Short Version)
- Oh Patti (Don't Feel Sorry For Loverboy)
- Boom! There She Was (US Mix)
- Umm
- Tinseltown To The Boogiedown (Radio Edit)
- Die Alone
- Brushed With Oil, Dusted With Powder
- Skank Bloc Bologna
- The "Sweetest Girl"
- Asylums In Jerusalem
- Jacques Derrida
- She's A Woman (Little Way Different 7")
- A Day Late And A Dollar Short
- A Place We Both Belong

Compilation

- VIRGIN (CDV 3078) CD

> Zoom

The Music 1972-2008
2011

Phil Manzanera

Disc 1
- Amazona (Roxy Music)
- Needles In The Camel's Eye (Brian Eno)
- Out Of The Blue (Roxy Music)
- Prairie Rose (Roxy Music)
- Frontera (Phil Manzanera)
- Diamond Head (Phil Manzanera)
- Miss Shapiro (801)
- East Of Asteroid (801)
- Manifesto (Roxy Music)
- Over You (Roxy Music)
- Running Wild (Roxy Music)
- Criollo (Phil Manzanera)
- Take A Chance With Me (Roxy Music)
- Big Dome (Phil Manzanera)

Disc 2
- La Vida Moderna (Phil Manzanera)
- Mystic Moon (Phil Manzanera)
- Hymn (Phil Manzanera)

Compilation

Frontera est extrait de Diamond Head.

The DVD contains a documentary report and rare footage.

- EXPRESSION RECORDS (EXPCD28) 2x CD + DVD

- Green Spikey Cactus (Phil Manzanera)
- Broken Dreams (Phil Manzanera)
- 6pm (Phil Manzanera)
- Love Devotion (Phil Manzanera)
- Wish You Well (Phil Manzanera)
- Technicolor Ufo (Phil Manzanera)
- Desaparecido (Phil Manzanera)
- Enotonik Bible Black (Phil Manzanera)

> Zoom

The EMI Album Collection
2011

Cristina Donà

Disc 1
TREGUA
- Ho Sempre Me
- L'aridità Dell'aria
- Stelle Buone
- Labirinto
- Raso E Chiome Bionde
- Le Solite Cose
- Piccola Faccia
- Senza Disturbare
- Ogni Sera
- Risalendo
- Tregua

Disc 2
NIDO
- Nido
- Goccia
- Qualcosa Che Ti Lasci Il Segno
- Così Cara
- L'ultima Giornata Di Sole
- Volo In Deltaplano
- Brazil
- Mi Dispiace
- Deliziosa Abbondanza
- Volevo Essere Altrove
- Cibo Estremo
- Terapie
- Mangialuomo

Disc 3
DOVE SEI TU
- Nel Mio Giardino
- Invisibile
- In Fondo Al Mare
- Triathlon
- The Truman Show (Lui Riprende Dall'Alto)
- Dove Sei Tu
- Il Mondo
- L'Uomo Che Non Parla
- Give It Back (To Me)
- Salti Nell'Aria (Milly's Song)
- Un Giorno Perfetto
- Nel Mio Giardino (Reprise)
- Triathlon (Casasonica Remix)

Disc 4
CRISTINA DONA (UK VERSION)
- Ultramarine
- Yesterday's Film
- Invisible Girl
- Wherever Finds You
- The Truman Show
- Triathlon (Casasonica Remix)
- Give It Back (To Me)
- How Deep Is Your Love
- Milly's Song
- One Perfect Day
- Goccia (Featuring – Robert Wyatt)

Disc 5
LA QUINTA STAGIONE
- Settembre
- Universo
- L'Eclisse
- I Duellanti
- Migrazioni
- Come Le Lacrime
- Non Sempre Rispondo
- Niente Di Particolare (A Parte Il Fatto Che Mi Manchi)
- Laure (Il Profumo)
- Conosci

Disc 6
PICCOLA FACCIA
- Piccola Faccia
- L'Aridità Dell'Aria

Box Set 6 CD remastered, compilation, limited edition.

Goccia est extrait de Nido.

- EMI (50999-029146-2-6) 6xCD

- Goccia
- Salti Nell'Aria
- Settembre
- Sign Your Name
- Mangialuomo
- Stelle Buone
- I'm In You
- Dove Sei Tu
- Nel Mio Giardino
- Universo

> Zoom

The Poppy-Seed Affair
2011

G.F. Fitz-Gerald & Lol Coxhill - Featuring Ian Hinchcliffe

Disc 1 (DVD)
- Soundtrack By Lol Coxhill With Robert Wyatt And Archie Leggett

Disc 2
- 1 10:59
- 2 11:52
- 3 9:19
- 4 9:54
- 5 9:40
- 6 11:35

Disc 3
- Listen Collage: Cameos By Count Simon De La Beyodere Stable, Mouseproof, Simon Sandwich, Various Records, Portobello Rd Sounds... London, Spring 1969
- Fractal One: Solo Improvisation For Electric Guitar And Effects Foot Pedals
- Fractal Two: Solo Improvisation For Electric Guitar And Distorion Box - Band In My Head: Dual TapeLoop For Voice, Guitar, Radio Sampling
- The Team: Tape Collage For Matchbox Purveyors Theatricals

- Robert Wyatt - drums, vocals, [chicken cluks]

- Lol Coxhill - soprano saxophone, tenor saxophone, voice, electronics
- Archie Leggett - bass

Disc One (DVD) - The Matchbox Purveyors: The Poppy Seed Affair. (NTSC All region).
Starring: Ian Hinchcliffe, Mark Long, Dawn Archibal, Foxy, G.F. Fitz-Gerald, Lol Coxhill.
Narration by Jeff Nuttall.
Directed , looesely speaking, by Robin Thornburn.
UK. 1981.
Soundtrack by Lol Coxhill with Robert Wyatt and Archie Leggett.

Disc Two (CD) - G.F. Fitz-Gerald & Lol Coxhill: An Intimate Concert
Spectro Arts Centre, Newcastle upon Tyne, October 22nd, 1981.

Disc Three (CD) - G.F. Fitz-Gerald: Solo Electric Guitar, Tape Collage & Loops (CD). Mid 70's.

Limited edition of 500 copies

- REEL RECORDINGS (RR021/022/023) CD

> Zoom

Working Nights
2012

Working Week

Disc 1
- Inner City Blues
- Sweet Nothing
- Who's Fooling Who
- Thought I'd Never See You Again
- Autumn Boy
- Solo
- Venceremos
- No Cure No Pay

BONUS TRACKS
- Stella Marina (Main Mix)
- Storm Of Light
- Bottom End
- Venceremos (We Will Win) (Jazz Dance Special 12" Edit)

Disc 2 -
BONUS TRACKS
- Venceremos (We Will Win) (Jazz Dance Special 12" Version)
- Afoche
- Murphy's Law (Live)
- Pepe's Samba (Live)
- Inner City Blues (Urban Guerrilla Mix)
- Storm Of Light (Instrumental)
- Who's Fooling Who
- Sweet Nothing
- Where's The Bridge (Longer Mix)
- Venceremos (We Will Win) (7" Bossa Version)
- Stella Marina (Full Rap)

- Robert Wyatt - vocals

- Dawson Miller - percussion
- Joao Bosco De Oliveira - percussion
- Kim Burton - piano
- Larry Stabbins - soprano saxophone, tenor saxophone, flute
- Chucho Merchan - bass
- Mark Taylor - drums
- Louis Moholo - drums (track: 2-1)
- Juliet Roberts - vocals
- Tracey Thorn - vocals
- Claudia Figueroa - vocals (tracks 2-1, 2-10)

Réédition remasterisée avec bonus tracks de l'album éponyme paru chez Virgin en 1985 (sans Robert Wyatt).

- CHERRY RED (CDBRED 538) 2xCD

> Zoom

Point Barre
2012

Philippe Barbot

- Pour Te Plaire
- J'Veux Qu'On M'Aime
- Ta Tenue d'Ève
- Poème Paumé
- Pour Tout
- G-LA-N
- La Valse Des Regrets (Raining In My Heart) [Bryant and Bryant]
- Tes C ôtés
- 1-2-C-4
- Qui T'Es
- Même Pas Mal
- Suite à Cet Esclandre
- Dis

Philippe Barbot pose ses mots et sa voix sur le morceau instrumental Raining In My Heart de l'album Cukooland. t

- NO LABEL - CD

> Zoom 1 2

Keep Yourself Alive
2012

Sulo With Friends

- 2-4-6-8 Motorway (Tom Robinson)
- Hot Swagger In The Big Smoke (Billy Bremner)
- Borstal Breakout (Dave Tregunna)
- Green And Grey (Justin Sullivan)
- Roxette (Wilko Johnson)
- How Long (Paul Carrack)
- Enjoy The Risk (with Robert Wyatt)
- Teenage Depression (Dave Higgs)
- Poor, Poor Heart (Billy Bremner)
- Roses And Rings (Spike Gray)
- The Power And The Glory (Mick Geggus)
- 100 Degrees In The Shade (Terry Chimes & Anita Chellamah)
- I Saw Her Standing There (Dennis Stratton & Dave Edwards)
- Keep Yourself Alive (Sulo & Idde Schultz)

Ce CD accompagne le livre éponyme publié en suédois en 2012 aux éditions Lind & Co.

Cet album est également présent dans la rubrique Various Artists.

- LEGAL RECORDS - CD

> Zoom

The Harvest Years 1969-1974
2012

Kevin Ayers

Disc 1
JOY OF TOY
- Joy Of A Toy Continued
- Town Feeling
- The Clarietta Rag
- Girl On A Swing
- Song For Insane Times
- Stop The Train (Again Doing It)
- Eleanor's Cake (Which Ate Her)
- Lady Rachel
- Oleh Oleh Bandu Bandong 5:36
- All This Crazy Gift Of Time 3:50

Bonus Tracks
- Singing A Song In The Morning (Single Version)-
- Clarence In Wonderland
- Stop This Train-
- Why Are We Sleeping
- You Say You Like My Hat

Disc 2
SHOOTING AT THE MOON
- May I?
- Rheinhardt & Geraldine / Colores Para Delores
- Lunatics Lament
- Pisser Dans Un Violon
- The Oyster And The Flying Fish
- Underwater
- Clarence In Wonderland
- Red Green And You Blue
- Shooting At The Moon

Bonus Tracks
- Butterfly Dance
- Puis Je? 3:38
- Gemini Child 3:11

Box Set compilation.

Cet album est également présent dans la rubrique Reprises.

- HARVEST (956 5092) 5xCD
- EMI (956 5092) 5xCD

- The Lady Rachel
- Shooting At The Moon
- Derby Day
- The Interview
- We Did It Again / Murder In The Air

Disc 3
WHATEVERSHEBRINGSWESING
- There Is Loving / Among Us / There Is Loving
- Margaret
- Oh My
- Song From The Bottom Of A Well
- Whatevershebringswesing
- Stranger In Blue Suede Shoes
- Champagne Cowboy Blues
- Lullaby
Bonus Tracks
- Stars
- Fake Mexican Tourist Blues
- Lunatic's Lament
- Oyster And The Flying Fish
- Butterfly Dance
- Whatevershebringswesing
- Falling In Love Again
- Queen Thing

Disc 4
BANANAMOUR
- Don't Let It Get You Down
- Shouting In A Bucket Blues
- When Your Parents Go To Sleep
- Interview
- International Anthem
- Decadence
- Oh! Wot A Dream
- Hymn
- Beware Of The Dog
Bonus Tracks
- Connie On A Rubber Band
- Caribbean Moon
- Take Me To Tahiti
- The Interview
- Oh! What A Dream
- Shouting In A Bucket Blues

Disc 5
THE CONFESSIONS OF MR DREAM AND OTHER STORIES
- Day By Day
- See You Later
- Didn't Feel Lonely Till I Thought Of You
- Everybody's Sometime And Some People's All The Time Blues
- It Begins With A Blessing / Once I Awakened / But It Ends With A Curse
- Ballbearing Blues
- The Confessions Of Dr Dream
- Part One: Irreversible Neural Damage
- Part Two: Invitation
- Part Three: The One Dance Chance
- Part Four: Doctor Dream Theme
- Two Goes Into Four
Bonus Tracks
- The Up Song
- After The Show
- Thank You Very Much
- Another Whimsical Song
- The Lady Rachel
- Stop This Train
- Didn't Feel Lonely Until I Thought Of You

> Zoom

OCDC
2012

Get The Blessing

- OCDC
- American Meccano
- Torque
- Adagio In Wot Minor
- Between Fear And Sex
- The Waiting
- Low Earth Orbit
- Pentopia

- Robert Wyatt - voice birdsong

- Jim Barr - bass guitar, baritone guitar
- Clive Deamer - drum sets and zildjians
- Pete Judget - trumpet, flugelhorn, melodica, flutes, synth effects
- Jake McMurchie - saxophones, vibraphone, piano (OCDC) effects
- Adrian Utley - guitar

- NAIM JAZZ (NAIMCD170) CD

> Zoom

Unearth
2012

Grasscut

- Cut Grass
- Pieces
- Blink In The Night (East Coker Version)
- Reservoir
- Stone Lions
- A Mysterious Disappearance
- From Towns And Fields
- Lights
- We Fold Ourselves
- Richardson Road

- Robert Wyatt - vocal, piano, cornet

- Andrew Phillips - songs, vocals, instruments
- Marcus O'Dair - double bass

- NINJA TUNE (ZENCD185) CD
- NINJA TUNE (ZEN185) LP

> Zoom

Unearth (Shadow Version)
2012

Grasscut

- Cut Grass
- Pieces
- Blink In The Night (East Coker Version)
- Reservoir
- Stone Lions
- A Mysterious Disappearance
- From Towns And Fields
- Lights
- We Fold Ourselves
- Richardson Road

- Robert Wyatt - vocal, piano, cornet

- Andrew Phillips - songs, vocals, instruments
- Marcus O'Dair - double bass

Alternative versions of each track of Unearth.

- NINJA TUNE (ZENDNL185SW) CD

> Zoom 1 2

Cinéma El Mundo
2012

Lo'Jo

- At The Beginning
- Tout Est Fragile
- La Marseillaise En Créole
- Deux Bâtons
- Magnétik
- Au Temps Qui Passe
- Cinéma 'El Mundo'
- Zetwal
- Alger
- Lila
- El Cabo Blanco
- Comète Algébrique
- Vientiane
- African Dub Crossing The Fantôms Of An Opera
- Au Début

- Robert Wyatt - voix, chant, voix samplées sur Tout est fragile

- Denis Péan - chant
- Richard Bourreau - violon
- Nadia Nid El Mourid - chant
- Yamina Nid El Mourid - chant, kayanm
- Kham Meslien - basse, basse synthé
- Baptiste Brondy - calebasse, batterie, piano Fender Rhodes
- Vincent Ségal - violoncelle
- Guo Gan - erhu

- WORLD VILLAGE (WVF 479068) CD

> Zoom 1 2

François Bayle

CD #01 / 1963-1971

CD #02 / 1969-1971

CD #03 / 1971-1972
L'Expérience Acoustique III - IV - V
III. La Preuve Par Le Sens
8/ La Langue Inconnue
- 3-1
- 3-2
9/ Intervalles Bleus
- 3-3
- 3-4

- Robert Wyatt - vocaliste

- Kevin Ayers - vocaliste
- François Bayle - musique concrète

Coffret 15 CDs.

- INA GRM - 15xCD

50 ans d'acousmatique
2012

10/ Uirapuru
- 3-5
11/ L'Écriture Acoustique
- 3-6
- 3-7
12/ It [Bayle-Wyatt]
- 3-8

CD #04 /1972

CD #05 / 1973-1974

CD #06 / 1976-1982

CD #07 / 1978-1980

CD #08 / 1980-1981

CD #09 / 1981-1983

CD #10 / 1985-1988

CD #11 / 1989-1991

CD #12 / 1994-1996

CD #13 / 1999-2001

CD #14 / 2003-2005

CD #15 / 2006-2012

> Zoom 1 2

Live @ The Roundhouse (London) With The Soft Machine Family 1971
2012

Daevid Allen & Gilly Smyth With The Soft Machine Family

- Introduction
- What Do You Really Want?
- Prostitute Poem: Rational Anthem
- Poet For Sale
- Love Is A Careless Sea
- I Am Your Animal
- Capt. Shaw & Mr. Gilbert
- I Am Your Fantasy
- Fred The Fish
- Death Of Rock

- Robert Wyatt - drums

- Daevid Allen - guitar, spoken word, tape loops
- Gilly Smyth - spoken word, vocal impro
- Hugh Hopper - bass
- Elton Dean - sax

- GONZO MULTIMEDIA (HST115CD) CD

> Zoom 1 2

British Jazz 1960-1975
2012

Trad Dads, Dirty Boppers And Free Fusioneers

- Phrygie
- Scarpo
- Number Three
- An Idea
- Shadow
- Joyce County
- Standfast (Gary Windo's Symbiosis)
- Beer Garden
- For Those Who Prefer It Mid tempo
- Singing For The Small Change

- Robert Wyatt - drums

- Gary Windo - tenor sax
- Mongezi Feza - trumpet
- Nick Evans - trombone
- Steve Florence - guitar
- Roy Babbington - bass guitar

Recorded January 11th, 1971.

- REEL RECORDINGS (RR026) CD

Epic Soundtracks

Disc 1
- You Can Be My Baby
- Emily May (You Make Me Feel So Fine)
- Fallen Down
- Farmer's Daughter
- Wishing Well
- Something's Wrong

Compilation of the Best of the Studio Albums (CD1) and from unreleased material (CD2).

Jelly Babies from Epic's first solo release, the Popular Classical EP of 1981

> Zoom

Wild Smile (An Anthology)
2012

- Something New Under The Sun
- Big Apple Graveyard
- Meet Me On The Beach
- Sweet Sixteen
- Waiting For The Train
- House On The Hill
- There's A Rumour
- I'll Sing A Hymn
- Caroline
- Night Time
- You Better Run
- I Do Declare
- There's A Light Up In The Sky
- Popular Classical Piano Piece

Disc 2
- C'mon Daddy [Live, Knust, Germany 21.10.97]
- Teenage Heart [Sleeping Star Sessions]
- I'll Be Back [Live, Normandy Festival, St. Lo, France]
- Something New Under The Sun [BBC Word Service, France 4.5.95]
- The House On The Hill [Maison Rouge Studio 31.8.96]
- Fade Away [Live, Knust, Germany 22.10.97]
- Meet Me On The Beach [BBC World Service, France 4.5.95]
- King Of Everything [Studio Demo 15.1.94]
- Hear The Whistle Blow [Strings] [Chiswick Peach Studio 1.94]
- I Wanna Be Free (As The Lizards)
- Midnight [4-Track Recording 1984]
- I Wish I Had A Girlfriend [Bernard Lenoir Radio Show 12.1.92]
- Stack-O-Tracks, Pt. 2: She Sleeps Alone [Wake The Dead 5/92]
- I'm Your Puppet [Live, Knust, Germany 22.10.97]
- Bicycle Rider Havoc [4-Track Recording 1984]
- Don't Go To School [A Capella] [Revolution Radio 20.11.84]
- I Have Seen The Light [Wake The Dead 19.5.93]
- Downbound Train [Early 1980's Home Recording]
- Teenage Heart [Vocals] [Sleeping Star Sessions]
- Sad Song Strings [Wake The Dead 4.92]
- Unfaithful Arms [Live, Knust, Germany 22.10.97]
- Jelly, Babies

(Rough Trade RT084) with Robert Wyatt (credited as Robert Ellidge) on lead vocals.

Epic Soundtracks talks about Jelly, Babies in Morrocci Klung! and here in YouTube...

- TROUBADOUR (TRBCD012)
  2xCD

> Zoom

Together
2013

Steve Nieve

- Save The World
- Conversation
- You Lie Sweetly
- What A Holiday
- Tender Moment
- Up
- Vertigo
- Life Preserver
- Halloween (Bonfire Night)
- I Do Not Miss You (Nostalgia #2)
- La Plus Jolie Langue (duet with Robert Wyatt & Muriel Teodori)
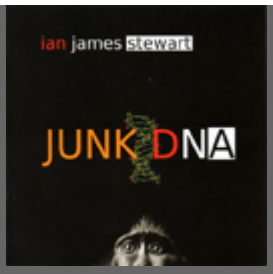
- La Crise
- Voué à l'Oubli
- Burn The Past
- Summer Song

- Robert Wyatt - vocal

- Muriel Teodori - vocal
- Steve Nieve - all electronic instruments

- VERYCORDS (6022046029) CD



Lyrics

Ian James Stewart

- Junk DNA
- Phosphorus
- Big White Monkey
- One More Time
- Path Of Lightning
- Charlie Parker

- Robert Wyatt - backing vocals on No Water, lead vocal and horn on When U Love Somebody

- Ian James Stewart - guitars, vocals, keyboards, bass

> Zoom 1 2 3

Junk DNA
2013

- So Far So Good
- No Water
- Heaven knows
- If This Is Life

Bonus tracks
- When U Love Somebody
- Slow Burn Dance

- Warren Jolly - double-bass on When U Love Somebody
- Sonti Ramirez - backing vocals on No Water
- Jim Drummond - drums, percussion

- DANGEROUS DOGS RECORDS (DDRCD02002) CD

> Zoom

Steam Radio Tapes
2013

Gary Windo

- Ginkie
- Come Into My Garden
- Night Train
- Stand Fast
- Sweetest Angel
- Letting Go
- Is This The Time?
- Missy
- Red River Valley

- Robert Wyatt - vocal

- Gary Windo - tenor sax, gong
- Pam Windo - piano, vocals
- Nick Mason - drums
- Hugh Hopper - bass
- Terri Quaye - vocals
- Richard Brunton - guitar

Is This The Time (1976) est également présent sur la compilation Flotsam Jetsam parue en 1994.

- GONZO MULTIMEDIA (HST190CD) CD

↑

> Zoom

One Doz.
2013

Mr. Swing

- Faddy
- Lumpit (feat. Robert Wyatt)
- Skary
- Howdoyoudo
- I Don't Wannabe in Vogue
- Please Say
- Hunky Funk
- Moreorless
- Night Trukin
- Mr Mangler
- Black Cap
- You Got the Love

- JT MUSIC UK - Digital Format

↑

> Zoom

Fingers Pointing At The Moon
2014

Dworniak Bone Lapsa

- Mortal Man
- Home
    I See Through You
    Conversations In My Head
    Justify Home (Slight Return)
- It Only Takes A Second
- Funny Farm
- Finger Pointing At The Moon

- Robert Wyatt - trumpet

- Joe Dworniak - bass guitar, Spanish guitar, EMS VCS3, Arp 2600, Solina String Ensemble & backing vocals
- Greg Bone - lead and rhythm guitars, 12 string electric and acoustic guitars & backing vocals
- Chris Lapsa - lead vocals, rhythm, 12 string electric & acoustic guitars, Moogs & synths

- PLATINUM PURSUITS LIMITED 2012 (PPLFPATM0912) CD
- PLATINUM PURSUITS LIMITED 2012 (DBL-JL-1-1963) LP

↑

> Zoom

Bananamour (obi-strip)
2014

Kevin Ayers

- Don't Let It Get You Down
- Shouting In A Bucket Blues
- When Your Parents Go To Sleep
- Interview
- Internotional Anthem
- Decadence
- Oh! Wot A Dream
- Hymn
- Beware Of The Dog

Bonus

- Decadence (Early Mix)
- Interview (BBC Bob Harris Session)
- Oh! What A Dream (BBC Bob Harris Session)
- Shouting In A Bucket Blues (BBC Bob Harris Session)
- Didn't Feel Lonely 'Til I Thought Of You (BBC In Concert)
- Stranger In Blue Suede Shoes (BBC In Concert)
- Interview (BBC In Concert)

Edition limitée et remasterisée de l'album Bananamour comprenant 5 morceaux et 2 interviews en bonus.

- PARLOPHONE (WPCR-15527) CD

> Zoom

Rarities (Volumes 1 & 2)
2014

Lindsay Cooper

Disc 1

I. OUTTAKES FOR OTHER OCCASIONS
From The Play The Execution
- Tsar's Band (Lindsay Cooper)
- The Assassination (Lindsay Cooper)
- The Evening Before (Lindsay Cooper)
- Give Us A Smile: Film Score (Lindsay Cooper)

From The Film Green Flutes
- Washing Lines (Lindsay Cooper)
- Against The Current: Film Score (Lindsay Cooper)
- The Times Of Their Lives: Curtain Music (Lindsay Cooper)
- Trih's Song (Lindsay Cooper)

II. THE SMALL SCREEN. MUSIC FOR TELEVISION.
Songs From 5 Short Films Made By Lis Rhodes And Jo Davis (Four Corners, For Channel 4)
- The Song Of The Goose And The Common (Lindsay Cooper)
- Off The Fence (Lindsay Cooper)
- Fair Exchange (Lindsay Cooper)
- Windscale (Lindsay Cooper)
- The Number 8 Bus (Lindsay Cooper)

Music For Green Flutes, A Film About A Republican Flute Band In Glasgow, Directed By Nancy Schierasi For Channel 4
- Belfast (Lindsay Cooper)
- Fanfare (Lindsay Cooper)
- Flute Tune (Lindsay Cooper)
- Priesthill (Lindsay Cooper)

From Domestic Bliss, A Comedy Drama Directed By Joy Chamberlain, Newsreel Collective, For Channel 4
- Domestic Bliss: End Credits (Lindsay Cooper)

From With Our Children, A Film About Lesbian Mothers Directed By Melanie Chait, Luisa Films, For Channel 4
- Court Entry (Lindsay Cooper)
- Lord Wilberforce (Lindsay Cooper)
- Home Movie 1 (Lindsay Cooper)
- Open Letters (Lindsay Cooper)
- Linda B (Lindsay Cooper)
- Home Movie 2 (Lindsay Cooper)
- Three Heads (Lindsay Cooper)
- Julia: End Credits (Lindsay Cooper)

III. LINDSAY COOPER AND ORCHESTRA
- Extract From Concerto Per Sax Sopranino E Archi

IV. A BEGINNER'S GUIDE TO NOMANSLAND
Pieces Originally Written For The Films Das Nächste Jahrhundert Wird Unseres Sein, And Wir Wollen Lieber Fliegen Als Kriechen, Directed By Claudia Von Allemann For Hessicher Rundfunk Television
- In The Archive (Lindsay Cooper)
- Mainz (Lindsay Cooper)
- Paulskirche (Lindsay Cooper)

Compilation.

In The Dark Year est extrait du EP The Last Nightingale sorti en 1984.

- ReR MEGACORP (RER LC2/3)
2xCD

Disc 2
- Le Detroit (Trio Trabant)
- De Breede En De Smalle Weg (Trio Trabant)
- Le Cadran Bleu 3 (Trio Trabant)
- State Of Retrograd (Trio Trabant)
- Vigilanz (Trio Trabant)
- Le Cadran Bleu 5 (Trio Trabant)
- Pictures From The Great Exhibition (Lindsay Cooper)
  - Fingers Weary And Torn
  - Canal Towpath
  - Musical Box
  - Regent Street
  - Women's Wrong
  - Cholera Morbus
  - The Housewife's Nightmare
  - Spitalfield
- In The Dark Year [L. Cooper / C. Cutler / B. Gilonis / R. Wyatt]
- Piano Roulette (Lindsay Cooper)
- Petrified (David Thomas And The Pedestrians)
- Education (C. Bauer / L. Cooper / C. Cutler / B. Gilonis /S. Potter)

> Zoom 1 2

Then & Now
2014

Christof Kurzmann

Disc 1
- I Never Knew (Extended Versions (1992) (Alternate Take)
- Noah's Song (2000) (Ch. Kurzmann/ O. Stotz/R. Wyatt)
- You're My Thrill (2006) (M. Kammerer)
- Alone (2006) (The Year Of)
- Rooms (2004) (Ch. Kurzmann)
- Till The Rain Will End The Drama (2009) (Kammerflimmer Kollektief & Ch. Kurzmann)
- Places (2004) (Ch. Kurzmann)

Disc 2
- Te Recuerdo Amanda (2010) (El Infierno Musical)
- Track 1 (2010)(E. Carrasco & Ch. Kurzmann)
- She (2011) (S. Jernberg & Ch. Kurzmann)
- Something (2012) (The Magic I.D. & J. Butcher)
- Track 2 (2013)(K. Vandermark & Ch. Kurzmann)
- Live at Musikprotokoll (2012) (L. Kaplan & Ch. Kurzmann)
- Live at Klingt.org Gala (2014) (M. Gustafsson & Ch. Kurzmann)
- Everyday I Write A Book (2014) (B. Fleischmann & Ch. Kurzmann)

- Robert Wyatt - trumpet

- Oliver Stotz - electric guitars
- Christof Kurzmann - vocals

- TROST RECORDS (TR 120) 2xLP

> Zoom

Hai Paura Del Buio?
2014

Afterhours

Disc 1
ORIGINAL VERSION - REMASTERED
- Hai Paura Del Buio? (Afterhours)
- 1.9.9.6. (Afterhours)
- Male Di Miele (Afterhours)
- Rapace (Afterhours)
- Elymania (Afterhours)
- Pelle (Afterhours)
- Dea (Afterhours)
- Senza Finestra (Afterhours)
- Simbiosi (Afterhours)
- Voglio Una Pelle Splendida (Afterhours)
- Terrorswing (Afterhours)
- Lasciami Leccare L'adrenalina (Afterhours)
- Punto G (Afterhours)
- Veleno (Afterhours)
- Come Vorrei (Afterhours)
- Questo Pazzo Pazzo Mondo Di Tasse (Afterhours)
- Musicista Contabile (Afterhours)
- Sui Giovani D'oggi Ci Scatarro Su (Afterhours)

- Robert Wyatt - The Friendly Ghost of Robert Wyatt

Robert Wyatt e Cristina Donà – Televisione

"È stata una sfida perché avevo già lavorato con questa squadra più di 15 anni fa, ai tempi dell'album di Cristina Donà, Nido. Robert Wyatt aveva messo voci, tromba e altre parti ritmiche sul brano Goccia e quindi volevo rimettere in piedi quel team con Cristina alla voce, Wyatt alla strumentazione e noi come musicisti aggiunti per rifare Televisione. Cristina è stata impeccabile, come sempre, ha cantato in maniera emozionante ma senza sforzarsi, in modo naturale; Wyatt invece ha collaborato in un modo particolare: lui non incide più e non suona più, non in pubblico almeno; il suo studio, come dice lui, 'è una stanza polverosa piena di

- Mi Trovo Nuovo (Afterhours)
- Televisione (Afterhours)

Disc 2
RELOADED
- Hai Paura Del Buio? (Afterhours, Featuring Damo Suzuki)
- 1.9.9.6. (Afterhours, Featuring Edoardo Bennato)
- Male Di Miele (Afterhours, Featuring The Afghan Whigs)
- Rapace (Afterhours, Featuring Negramaro)
- Elymania (Afterhours, Featuring Luminal)
- Pelle (Afterhours, Featuring Mark Lanegan)
- Dea (Afterhours, Featuring Il Teatro Degli Orrori)
- Senza Finestra (Afterhours, Featuring Joan As Policewoman)
- Simbiosi (Afterhours, Featuring Der Maurer, Featuring Le Luci Della Centrale Elettrica)
- Voglio Una Pelle Splendida (Afterhours, Featuring Samuel Romano)
- Terrorswing (Afterhours, Featuring John Parish)
- Lasciami Leccare L'adrenalina (Afterhours, Featuring Eugenio Finardi)
- Punto G (Afterhours, Featuring Bachi Da Pietra)
- Veleno (Afterhours, Featuring Nic Cester)
- Come Vorrei (Afterhours, Featuring Piers Faccini)
- Questo Pazzo Pazzo Mondo Di Tasse (Afterhours, Featuring Fuzz Orchestra, Featuring Vincenzo Vasi)
- Musicista Contabile (Afterhours, Featuring Marta Sui Tubi)
- Sui Giovani D'oggi Ci Scatarro Su (Afterhours, Featuring Ministri)
- Mi Trovo Nuovo (Afterhours, Featuring Rachele Bastreghi)
- Televisione (2014) (Afterhours, Featuring Cristina Dona', Featuring Robert Wyatt)
- Male Di Miele (Afterhours, Featuring Piero Pelù)

ricordi', però ci ha proposto, quando gli abbiamo chiesto se voleva suonare sul pezzo, di usare tutto quello che potevamo trovare su di lui in giro: pezzi musicali, improvvisazioni. Abbiamo fatto una ricerca e più che utilizzare dei campionamenti dalle sue canzoni, cosa che ci sembrava scontata, abbiamo preso delle improvvisazioni dalle sue esibizioni dal vivo, vocali e strumentali, che non appartenevano a delle canzoni in particolare. In una di queste improvvisazioni, fatte per una radio francese, fa il ritmo della batteria con la voce e magicamente quel ritmo è lo stesso di Televisione. Abbiamo sovrapposto la sua voce alla batteria ed è stato perfetto. Poi abbiamo aggiunto anche altre sue parti musicali e gliel'abbiamo spedito. Ci ha dato alcuni consigli ma è stato entusiasta. Per me è stato fantastico. Con la mia ritrosia, se avessi saputo prima che non suonava più non lo avrei mai contattato. Sbagliando".

Manuel Agnelli

- UNIVERSAL
(UPC 00602537757565) 2xCD

> Zoom 1 2

Different Every Time
Benign Dictatorships
2014

Robert Wyatt - Different Every Time

- The River (Jeanette Lindstrom)
- The Diver (Anja Garbarek)
- We're Looking For A Lot Of Love (Hot Chip)
- Jellybabies (Epic Soundtracks)
- Shipbuilding (Robert Wyatt)
- Richardson Road (Grasscut)
- Turn Things Upside Down (Happy End)
- Still In the Dark (Monica Vasconcelos)
- Venceremos (We Will Win) - (Jazz Dance Special 12" Version) - (Working Week)
- Frontera (Phil Manzanera)
- La Plus Belle Langue (Steve Nieve/Robert Wyatt/Muriel Teodori)
- Goccia (Cristina Dona)
- Slam (Nick Mason)
- A L'Abbattoir (Michael Mantler)
- Sinking Spell (Michael Mantler)
- Submarine (Bjork)
- Experiences No. 2 (John Cage)

Benign Dictatorships est une compilation réalisée par Marcus O'Dair - auteur de la biographie de Robert Wyatt Different Every Time -, qui regroupe des raretés, inédits et collaborations enregistrées avec d'autres musiciens et compositeurs.

Cet album est également présent dans la rubrique Compilations.

- DOMINO RECORDS
(WIGCD347) 2xCD
(WIGLP347-2) LP (Benign Dictatorships)

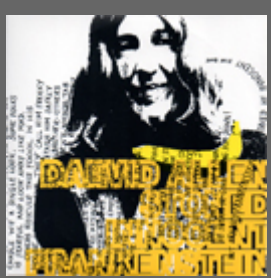
Max Richter

Disc 1
THE BLUE NOTEBOOKS
- The Blue Notebooks
- On The Nature Of Daylight
- Horizon Variations
- Shadow Journal
- Iconography
- Vladimir's Blues

Réédition sous l'appellation "Retrospective" de 4 albums de Max Richter dont Songs From Before avec Robert Wyatt. A noter que le morceau Harmonium est une version différente de l'original, sans Robert Wyatt.

> Zoom

Retrospective
2014



- Arboretum
- Old Song
- Organum
- The Trees
- Written On The Sky
- On The Nature Of Daylight

Disc 2
SONGS FROM BEFORE
- Song
- Flowers For Yulia
- Fragment
- Harmonium
- Ionosphere
- Autumn Music 1
- Time Passing
- Sunlight
- Lullaby
- Autumn Music 2
- Verses
- From The Rue Vilin
- Leo

Disc 3
24 POSTCARDS IN FULL COLOUR
- The Road Is A Grey Tape
- H In New England
- This Picture Of Us. P.
- Lullaby From The Westcoast Sleepers
- When The Northern Lights / Jasper And Louise
- Circles From The Rue Simon - Crubellier
- Cascade NW By W
- A Sudden Manhattan Of The Mind
- In Louisville At 7
- Cathodes
- I Was Just Thinking
- A Song For H / Far Away
- Return To Prague
- Broken Symmetries For Y
- Berlin By Overnight
- Cradle Song For A (Interstate B3)
- Kierling / Doubt
- From 553 W Elm Street, Logan Illinois (Snow)
- Tokyo Riddle Song
- The Tartu Piano
- Cold Fusion For G
- 32 Via San Nicolo
- Found Song For P.
- H Thinks A Journey
- Hope Strings Eternal
- So Long Orpheus
- Thermodynamics

Disc 4
INFRA
-- Infra 1
- Journey 1
- Infra 2
- Infra 3
- Journey 2
- Infra 4
- Journey 3
- Journey 4
- Journey 5
- Infra 5
- Infra 6
- Infra 7
- Infra 8
- Sub Piano

- DEUTSCHE GRAMMOPHON (0289 479 3065 5) 4xCD

> Zoom 1 2 3 4 5 6 7 8

Daevid Allen

Disc 1
- It's The Time Your Life (alt. mix)
- Memories (alt. mix)
- Out Of Here (alt. version)
- Fred The Fish (alt. mix)
- White Neck Blooze (alt. version)
- Stoned Innocent Frankenstein (Too Much For You) (alt. version)
- And His Adventures In The Land Of Flip (alt. version)
- I Am A Bowl (alt. version)

Disc 2
- Poet In The Land Of Flip
- Instrumental In The Land Of Flip

- Robert Wyatt - drums, guitar, vocals on Memories, and on Out Of Here

Stoned Innocent Frankenstein is a double album of unreleased alternative versions and different mixes of Banana Moon (Daevid Allen´s first solo album).

- GAS RECORDS (ARC003CD) 2xCD

Stoned Innocent Frankenstein
2014

- Flips From The Loophouse
- Bass Flip

> Zoom 1 2

One Night Stand
2015

W M W S

- One Night Stand (side A & B)

- Robert Wyatt - drums, vocals

- Dave MacRae - electric/acoustic piano
- Gary Windo - tenor saxophone
- Richard Sinclair - bass guitar

A Performance of Improvised Music-Making Upstairs at Ronnie Scott's April 14th, 1973

Tirage limité à 300 exemplaires.

- IMPROJAZZ (PRMK LP003) LP

Critiques/Reviews

> Zoom 1 2

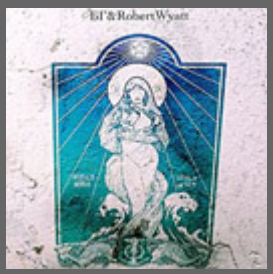
One Night Stand (Reissue)
2015

W M W S

- A Performance Of Improvised Music Making

- Robert Wyatt - drums, vocals

- Dave MacRae - electric/acoustic piano
- Gary Windo - tenor saxophone
- Richard Sinclair - bass guitar



A Performance of Improvised Music-Making Upstairs at Ronnie Scott's April 14th, 1973 .

Comporte les deux mentions suivantes :

- "Dedicated To You; Because You Were Listening - RIP Mike King"

- "Limited Edition Vinyl Album available from Improjazz / Improjazz Mag"

- GONZO MULTIMEDIA (HST310CD) CD
- GONZO MULTIMEDIA (HST310LP) LP

> Zoom 1 2

Stella Maris
2015

БГ & Robert Wyatt

- Stella Maris

- Robert Wyatt - voice, tenor horn, cornet

- Boris Grebenshikov - voice, keyboards, mandoline, ocarina
- Natalya Vergey - voice
- Boris Rubekin - mellotron, flute, piano
- Mitchell Froom - OP1, organ
- Valeria Kurbatova - harp

String quartet:
- Patrick Kiernan - violin
- Bruce White - viola
- Ian Burdge - cello
- Oli Langford - viola
- David Arch - arrangements

Choir:
- Edward Burnaby-Atkins
- Augustus Howland

> Zoom

Was A Friend - Volume 10
2015

Hugh Hopper

- Was A Friend
- Full Flight
- Flight Full
- Dim_04
- Was A friend

- Robert Wyatt - vocals, piano

- Hugh Hopper - keyboards,
  bass samples

Bresse-sur-Grosne, November 1983 &
Elsewhere Studios, Kent, April 1995.

" The first (collaboration) actually over a decade in the making, the backing track produced during the sessions for Hugh's duo album with Richard Sinclair in 1983 - which remained unfinished at the time. "Robert thought about writing some words for it and then decided not to" Hugh later explained.
The vocal-less backing track was recycled for Hugh's 1983 album Hooligan Romantics with vocals and lyrics by John Atkinson (as C'est Grace), until Robert finally wrote lyrics and added his voice to the 1983 recording. Thus completed in 1995, the track only saw release on the Parabolic Versions compilation in 2000, three years after Robert Wyatt had released his own version on Shleep. "

- GONZO MULTIMEDIA
  (HST261CD) CD

> Zoom

Tales For Sunrise
2015

Mojomakerz

- Sacred Tree
- Blue Stars
- Ship Of Fools
- Death By Disco
- Sahara
- Pigs Balls N'You
- I Am No-One
- Zayed
- Weirdiful You
- The Scorpion And The Frog
Youth Mixes
- Sacred Tree
- Blue Stars
- Weirdiful You
- Sahara

- Robert Wyatt - vocalists (on Ship Of Fools and Weirdiful You)

- Charlotte Hubbard - keyboards, vocalists
- Jim Drummond - drums, percussion, mouth drums
- Adel Adoula Karane - hip hop
- BJ Cole - steel guitar
  rapper (on Ship Of Fools)
- Santi Ramirez - vocalists (on Ship Of Fools)

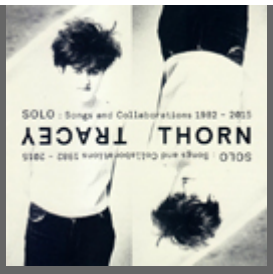
- WEIRDIFUL YOU RECORDS
  (WYRCD01001) CD
  (WYRDLP01001) 2xLP

Tracey Thorn

Disc 1
- Oh, The Divorces! (Tracey Thorn)
- Under The Ivy (Tracey Thorn)
- Small Town Girl (Tracey Thorn)
- Plain Sailing (Tracey Thorn)



Compilation.

- CAROLINE INTERNATIONAL
  (CAROLR024CD) 2xCD

- George Laing (Summerfields)
- Shaunak Desai
- Alessandro D'Orazio
- Theo Nash
- Nicolas Veal-Baschwitz (London
  Russian Music School)
- Pavel Timofejevsky - director

A single CD version was released as a limited edition in 2016 on the label Misteriya Zvuka.

- NO LABEL - Digital Format (2015)
- MISTERIYA ZVUKA
  (CD-M+385-2) CD-S (2016)

> Zoom

Solo : Songs And Collaborations 1982-2015
2015

- Hands Up To The Ceiling (Tracey Thorn)
- Follow Me Down (Tracey Thorn)
- Goodbye Joe (Tracey Thorn)
- Hormones (Tracey Thorn)
- Taxi Cab (Tracey Thorn)
- Sister Winter (Tracey Thorn)
- Overture (The Unbending Trees Featuring Tracey Thorn)
- Kentish Town (Tracey Thorn)
- By Piccadilly Station I Sat Down And Wept (Tracey Thorn)
- The Paris Match (The Style Council Featuring Tracey Thorn)
- Venceremos (We Will Win) (7" Bossa Version) (Working Week Featuring Robert Wyatt, Tracey Thorn, Claudia Figueroa)
- How Wild The Wind Blows (Tracey Thorn)
- Singles Bar (Tracey Thorn)
- The Book Of Love (Tracey Thorn)
- Late In The Afternoon (Tracey Thorn)
- Joy (Tracey Thorn)

Disc 2
- Protection (7") (Massive Attack Featuring Tracey Thorn)
- Easy (Tracey Thorn)
- Better Things (Massive Attack Featuring Tracey Thorn)
- Night Time (Tracey Thorn)
- Raise The Roof (Beyond The Wizard's Sleeve Re-Animation)(Tracey Thorn)
- You Are A Lover (Clock Opera Remix) (Tracey Thorn)
- It's All True (Escort Extended Mix) (Tracey Thorn)
- Grand Canyon (Ada Remix) (Tracey Thorn)
- Why Does The Wind? (Morgan Geist Remix) (Tracey Thorn)
- Damage (Tiefschwarz Featuring Tracey Thorn)
- Without Me (Tevo Howard Radio Edit) (Tevo Howard Featuring Tracey Thorn)
- King's Cross (Hot Chip Remix) (Tracey Thorn)
- Swimming (Visionquest Remix) (Tracey Thorn)
- The Tree Knows Everything (Adam F Featuring Tracey Thorn)

↑

> Zoom

Summer Into Winter/
North Marine Drive
2015

Ben Watt And Robert Wyatt

- Walter And John
- Aquamarine
- Slipping Slowly
- Another Conversation With Myself
- A Girl In Winter
- Long Time No Sea
- You're Gonna Make Me Lonesome When You Go
- On Box Hill
- Some Things Don't Matter
- Lucky One
- Empty Bottles
- North Marine Drive
- Waiting Like Mad
- Thirst For Knowledge

Réédition vinyl des albums North Marine Drive et Summer Into Winter.

Walter And John et Girl In Winter sont extraits de Summer Into Winter.

White virgin vinyl - 140 gram.
Limited to 500 numbered copies.

- MIRU-MIR (MIR100742) LP

↑

Bertand Burgalat

- Balises Pour Centre D'écoute
- Une Nuit À Taverny
- Nous Étions Heureux
- Right Side Up With The World
- This Summer Night
- Mal De Bright
- Anonyme Amour
- Out Of Touch
- Ragle Gumm

Editions vinyl de l'album sorti en 2007.

Il en existe apparemment 2 versions avec la même référence:
- version 1 - 12 titres
- version 2 avec les bonus I've Been A Bad, Bad Boy et Happy Inbetween.

- TRICATEL (TRILPFR031) LP

> Zoom

Chéri B.B. (vinyl edition)
2015

- Grande Remise
- J'ai Quelque Chose À Dire
- Un Sogno Di Televizione

Bonus
- I've Been A Bad, Bad Boy
- Happy Inbetween

> Zoom

L'Argot Del Soroll
2015

Pascal Comelade

- L'Argot Del Soroll (Versió Directe / Barcelona)
- Via Crucis Del Rocanrol
- The Sad Skinhead
- Domisiladoré
- Marie, Un Faux-cil Dans la Transmission
- Love Too Soon
- To The Last Of Imaginery Solutions
- The Great Ricardo Solfa (Versió Directe / Barcelona)
- Le Soir Du Grand Soir / O Gran Paralelo (Versió Directe / Lisboa)
- Teresa
- Si / La Societat Del Piano-Obstacle
- Green Eyes (Versió Ampliada)
- Sardana Dels Desemparats (Versió Ampliada)
- Dona'm Corda
- Toti Al Soler
- September Song [K. Weil/M. Anderson]
- Betty Page A-Go-Go
- La Societat Del Piano-Obstacle (Versió Directe / Barcelona)
- Cadillac
- L'Argot Del Soroll

Edition espagnole de L'Argot Du Bruit.

Plusieurs morceaux - dont September Song - sont absents de la version initiale française de 1998 (Les Disques Du Soleil Et De L'Acier - CDSA 54058) et réciproquement.

- DISCMEDI BLAU (DM5200-02) CD

> Zoom

Rattle That Lock
2015

David Gilmour

- 5 A.M
- Rattle That Lock
- Faces Of Stones
- A Boat Lies Waiting
- Dancing Right in Front Of Me
- In Any Tongue
- Beauty
- The Girl In The Yellow Dress
- Today
- And Then…

DVD (only with DeLuxe Edition)
- Barn Jam 01
- Barn Jam 02
- Barn Jam 03
- Barn Jam 04
- The Animators, Alisdair + Jock
- Rattle That Lock
- The Animators, Danny Madden
- The Girl In The Yellow Dress (Music Video)
- Polly Samson And David Gilmour At The Borris House Festival Of Words And Ideas
- The Making Of The Rattle That Lock Album
- Rattle That Lock (Extended Mix)
- The Girl In The Yellow Dress (Orchestral Version) [Audio Only]
- Rattle That Lock (Youth Mix - 12" Extended Radio Dub)
- Rattle That Lock (Radio Edit)
- Rattle That Lock Album In 5.1 Surround

- Robert Wyatt - cornet

- David Gilmour - guitar, vocals
- Chris Laurence - double bass
- Martin France - drums
- John Parricelli - guitar
- Rado Klose - guitar
- Jools Holland - piano
- Colin Stetson - saxophone

Box Set et Bonus DVD avec la Deluxe Edition.

- COLUMBIA RECORDS (88875123272) CD
- COLUMBIA RECORDS (88875123291) LP
- COLUMBIA RECORDS (88875123272 DC1) BOX-SET Deluxe Edition

> Zoom

Ibrahim
2016

The Great Divide featuring Robert Wyatt

- Ibrahim (featuring Robert Wyatt)
- World (price Of Love)
- The Gone-Away World

- Robert Wyatt - vocals, tenor horn

- Gerald Clark - piano
- Sam Lasserson - bass
- Jon Scott - drums

- THE INTERRUPTING SHEEP (BAA003) LP

> Zoom 1 2

L'Argot Du Bruit
2016

Pascal Comelade

- L'Argot Du Bruit
- Via Crucis Del Rocanrol
- The Sad Skinhead
- Marie, Un Faux-cil Dans la Transmission
- Love Too Soon
- Le Soir Du Grand Soir
- The Great Ricardo Solfa
- Green Eyes
- Sardana Dels Desemparats
- Toti Al Soler
- September Song [K. Weil/M. Anderson]
- Featherhead

- Robert Wyatt - vocal, trompette, percussions
- Pascal Comelade - instrumentsn

Ré-édition de l'album du même nom paru en 1998 (mais qui ne contenait pas le morceau September Song).

- BECAUSE MUSIC (BEC5156514) LP & CD

> Zoom 1 2 3

Rocanrolorama 1974-2016
2016

Pascal Comelade

Disc 1
MY DEGENERATION (1974-1986)
Fluence
- Fluence (a few reasons to stay, a few reasons to split)
- Séquences Paiennes 77/78
- Séquence 1
- Séquence 2
- Séquence 3
- Séquence 4
- Séquence 5
- Séquence 6
- Séquence 7
- Séquence 7
- Séquence 9
- Séquence 10
- Séquence 11
Ready Made
- Eclairage Sur L'eau
- Distant Piano
- Ready Made 4
- Carré
- Bruits De Fond
- Bar Électric
Paralelo
- Mouvement Décomposé D'un Coup De Marteau
- Via Laietana
- Paralelo 1
- Vertical
- Politico
- Automne
- Musique Pour Les Ascenseurs (Paralelo 6)
- A Vacuum Cleaner (Paralelo 7)

- CD 4 - September Song
- Robert Wyatt - vocal, trompette, percussions
- Pascal Comelade - instruments

Coffret de 6 CD + livret de 72 pages et lithographie originale.
Édition de 1000 exemplaires numérotés et signés.

Cet album est également présent dans la rubrique Reprises.

- BECAUSE MUSIC (BEC5156515) 6xCD

- Erratum Musical 1
- Erratum Musical 2

Sentimientos
- A Noise In My Nose (Sentimientos 2)

Précis De Décomposition Bruitiste (1980/1986)
- Karl Marx Alla Romana
- Irregular Organs
- A Perfect Crime
- Scène De Musique Ralentie

15 Minutes De Sonoto-Luddisme
- 15 Minutes De Sonoto-Luddisme

Disc 2

SLOW MUSICS (1980-1997)

Slow Musics (1974-1984)
- Barcelona Tango
- We Did It Again [Kevin Ayers]
- Chanson Pop
- 13 À Table
- The No-Dancing
- Logique Du Sens
- The Curious Sofa
- Un Enemic Del Swing

Détails Monochromes
- Fragments
- Park Guell
- Chanson
- Bel Canto
- Des Yeux Au Bacon
- Dancin' On My Sofa
- Beyrouth 1966

Palimpsestes Sonors
- Blue Afternoon
- Third Eye Of Lya Lys
- Un La Minimal Nu
- Souvenir De Vernet-les-Bains

El Primitivisme
- Valse De Le Demoiselle Aux Yeux Verts
- Honky Tonk Women
- Rue Des Soeurs Noires
- Jac B. And His Dancing Dogs
- It's Hurt Me Too
- Memories [H. Hopper/R.Wyatt]
- Your Labios As Tulips

33 Bars
- Ze Wiski Twist (à Cliff Gallup, inventeur du Rocanrol)
- Vals En Diagonal (à C.R.)
- Rock Del Veneno
- Valse À L'aiguille Creuse
- A Glass Of Gaz
- Patafisiskal Polska

Disc 3

PATAFISISKAL POLSKA (1992-1996)
- 4 Rroses Pour Marie
- Egyptian Reggae
- Dansa Del Sombre Fakir D'Alcoi
- 96 Tears
- Societé Anonyme Du Frisson Rétinien
- Sunny Afternoon
- Put A Straw Under Baby
- Dali's Car
- Arthur's Caravan Was A Flor Fina
- The Skatalan Logicofobism
- Sardana Dels Desemparats
- I Put A Barbara Steele On You
- A La Recherche Du Baron Corvo
- Danse Du Valseur Callipyge
- L'Home Dibuixat
- Also Sprach Ed Marimba
- Like A Rolling Stone

El Cabaret Galàctic
- Chanson De Charme Pour Faux-Nez
- The Lolobrigida Foxtrot
- Your Eyes Like Juan Gris Cubist Guitars
- Le Fakir De La Chapelle (À François Cadarec)
- Tokyo Bay Blues
- On Se L'Hegel En Enfer
- L'Espinosa Ética De La Santa Espina

Musiques Pour Films, Vol. 3
- Toti Al Soler
- Betty Page A-Go-Go
- Sheena Is A Punk Rocker

Les Places De Gràcia
- L'Esquella De La Torratxa
- Paganini Paga Tot A Nono

Flip-Side Of Sophism
- Back To Schizo

Disc 4

MUSIQUE DEGENXRE (1996-2000)
- L'Argot Du Bruit
- The Sad Skinhead

- Marie, Un Faux-Cul Dans La Transmission
- Love Too Soon
- Le Soir Du Grand Soir
- La Société Du Piano-Obstacle
- Sardana Dels Desemparats
- Green Eyes

Muzak De Genre
- Dóna'm Corda
- Cadillac
- Aigua De Florida
- The Great Ricardo Solfa
- To The Last Imaginary Solutions
- September Song [K. Weil/M. Anderson]
- Brown Sugar
- Smoke On The Water
- Ma Gueule
- Ramblin' Rose
- Souviens-Toi De Ces Douces Soirées
- Psycho (Ma Non) Troppo
- Despintura (A) Fònica
- L'Argot Du Bruit

Disc 5

ESPONTEX SINFONIA (2000-2008)

Psicòtic Music'Hall
- The Blank Invasion Of Schyzofonics Bikinis
- Sense El Ressó Del Dring
- Don't Touch My Blue Oyster
- Contre Le Style
- Un Train Direct Pour Charenton
- Mieux Vaut Que Ses Seins Ses Bas Se Tiennent (al pianiste de la Bodega Bohemia)
- Gégène
- A Figueres

Espontex Sinfonia
- Pim Pam Pum Al Concepte
- Mother Of Earth
- The Halucinogenic Espontex Sinfonia
- Com Un Rossinyol Amb Mal De Queixal

Mètode De Rocanrol
- Stranger In Paradigm
- The Indian In The Group (to Jimmy Carl Black)
- Il Luna Park Galactico
- L'Enterrament Des Sardines
- Sans Les Mains! (Zappambarretina)
- Vals Burlesco
- Satisfacció

I Scream Ice Cream (Krazy Kat)
- The Nothing Twist
- Why Are We Sleeping [K. Ayers/ M.Ratledge/R. Wyatt]
- A Wall Of Perukes
- One Of Us

La Catedral D'Escuradents
- Sardana Mecànica
- To Be Damnit Ornette To Be
- Ha Passat Un Àngel

Disc 6

FRIKI SERENATA (2008-2016)

Friki Serenata
- A Freak Serenade
- The Return Of Lux Interior The Magician (El Bolero Del Raval)
- Two Maniaco-Depressive Beatnicks Squabbing Over A Jane Russell Mozzarella's Stereokini
- El Misteri Del Triangle Vermut
- Europe Change Bad

El Pianista Del Antifaz
- O Dancing Del Gran Fumisme (to Albert Pla)
- Hydropathes Marchant Sur Les Os
- Friki Serenata (à Max)
- Flan Sin Nata Inzenight
- Spinoza Was A Soul Garagist
- El Pianista Del Antifaz (Born In Candolle)
- Portrait De L'Artiste Avec Des Lunettes Pour Voir Les Femmes À Poill
- La Bella Dorita

Les Mémoires Du Chanteur Masqué
- En Maison
- Russian Roulette
- Suzanne
- New York 09
- Ha Passat Un Àngel
- The Train Creep' A Looping
- Sex Machine

> Zoom

Songs From Before (Reissue)
2016

Max Richter

- Song
- Flowers For Yulia
- Fragment
- Harmonium
- Ionosphere
- Autumn Music 1
- Time Passing
- Sunlight
- Lullaby
- Autumn Music 2
- Verses
- From The Rue Vilin
- Leo

Réedition de l'album Songs From Before sorti en 2006.
Contient un 13ème titre bonus: Leo.

- DEUTSCHE GRAMMOPHON
(479 5566) CD

> Zoom

Archivos Vol. 1 Tributos Y BSOs
2016

Bunbury

Disc 1
- Hada Chalada (Versión Bossa)
- Vete De Mí
- Voy A Perder La Cabeza Por Tu Amor
- Con El Alma En Los Labios
- Frío
- Afuera
- Corre Por La Jungla
- Candela
- Sí
- Dies Irae

Disc 2
- Hada Chalada
- Papel De Regalo
- Eres Bellísima
- Vámonos
- Como Una Mujer (Just Like A Woman)
- El Botón Del Pánico
- El Jinete

Disc 3
- Tú Eres Mi Destino
- No Quiero Ni Sé Olvidarte
- El Hijo Del Pueblo
- Es Sólo Un Día Más
- Vida (Viure)
- Come Together
- Nada (Shacky Carmine)
- Necesito
- El Tiempo Se Va

Disc 4
- Annabel Lee
- Una Décima De Segundo
- Réquiem Por Un Cabrón
- La Vida Moderna (Featuring – Phil Manzanera, Robert Wyatt)
- Tabú
- Que El Amor No Admite Cuerdas Reflexiones (A La Manera De Santa Fé)
- Un Caballo Llamado Muerte
- Fregonas
- Who By Fire
- Nana De Los Peces Muertos

Compilation.

La Vida Moderna est extrait de Vozero.

- WARNER MUSIC SPAIN
(9029590446) 4xLP

Vivien Goldman

- Launderette (Vivien Goldman)
– Private Armies (Vivien Goldman)
– P.A. Dub (Vivien Goldman)
– Her Story (The Flying Lizards)
– The Window (The Flying Lizards)
– It's Only Money (Chantage)
– Same Thing Twice (Chantage)
– Tu M'Fais Rire (Chantage)
– Interview With Vivien Goldman

Réédition des EP de Vivien Goldman publiés en 1981 (Launderette et Dirty Washing) complétée par des morceaux des deux groupes auxquels Vivien Golman participa (The Flying Lizards et Chantage).

Les crédits des morceaux varient d'une édition à l'autre:

> Zoom 1 2 3

Resolutionary
(Songs 1979-1982)
2016

- sur la première version Launderette/Private Armies, Robert Wyatt n'est crédité que pour le 1er morceau *Launderette (voir ici)*.

- sur la seconde version Dirty Washing éditée la même année, Robert Wyatt semble crédité sur tous les morceaux du EP. (voir ici)

- sur la présente réédition Resolutionary, Robert Wyatt n'est plus du tout crédité dans les notes de pochette. (voir ici)

Il semble néanmoins qu'il ne joue des percussions que sur le premier morceau (Launderette).

Digital reissue in 2020 (Staubgold/Bandcamp) + a Limited Edition Single of 500 copies.

- STAUBGOLD (141) LP
- STAUBGOLD (141) CD

> Zoom

Corroncho 2
2017

Phil Manzanera - Lucho Brieva

- Caballo Blanco
- Arepa
- Palo Santo
- Tus Pies En El Verano
- El Reencuentro
- El Tango Infinito
- Parasiempre
- El Sol
- Aguita Fresca
- Aleluya
- El Ray De Los Caminos
- Bala De Plata
- Volvi

- Robert Wyatt - trumpet

- Phil Manzanera - vocals, guitar, keyboards
- Lucho Brieva - vocals
- Javier Weyler - drums
- Chucho Merchan - bass guitar
- Yaron Stavi - electric and double bass
- Ivan Hidalgo - trombone

- EXPRESSION RECORDS (EXPCD36) CD

> Zoom 1 2

Sulo's Full English
2017

Sulo

- Lady Jane
- Something About That Girl
- Sorry For The Young
- Among The Angels
- Run For Your Life
- Hit Me With Your Rock N' Roll
- Lightning Strikes Twice
- Stand On The Rock
- Is It Love On Your Mind
- Finest Words
- Life's Work
- My Bounty From Above

Bonus
- Hot Swagger In The Big Smoke
- Roxette
- Enjoy The Risk (with Robert Wyatt)
- Poor Poor Heart
- Borstal Breakout
- Roses & Rings
- Teenage Depression

Enjoy The Risk est extrait de Keep Yourself Alive.

- CARGO RECORDS - LIVEWIRE (LW050-2) CD

Ian James Stewart

- March To The Right
- Who Knows Where
- Arcticana

- Robert Wyatt - vocals, voice percussion, piano

> Zoom

Arcticana
2017

- Your Love
- End Of The World
- Blue Alice
- Funny
- So Wrong

- Ian James Stewart - vocals, guitars, keys
- David Stewart - bass and drum programming
- Alice Barnard - backing vocals

- DANGEROUS DOG RECORDS (DDRLP03003) LP

> Zoom

A Kind Revolution
2017

Paul Weller

- Woo Sé Mama
- Nova
- Long Long Road
- She Moves With The Fayre
- The Cranes Are Back
- Hopper
- New York
- One Tear
- Satellite Kid
- The Impossible Idea

- Robert Wyatt - vocals, trumpet

- Paul Weller - electric guitar, bass guitar, mellotron
- Jan Stan Kybert - bass, handclaps, synth ARP
- Charles Rees - drums
- Ben Gordelier - percussion
- Amy Stanford - strings
- Jessica Cox - strings
- Laura Stanford - strings
- Paloma Deike - strings
- Steve Pilgrim - backing vocals

- PARLOPHONE (0190295830601) CD
- PARLOPHONE (0190295845261) LP

> Zoom

A Kind Revolution - Special Edition
2017

Paul Weller

Disc 1
- Woo Sé Mama
- Nova
- Long Long Road
- She Moves With The Fayre
- The Cranes Are Back
- Hopper
- New York
- One Tear
- Satellite Kid
- The Impossible Idea

Disc 2
INSTRUMENTAL VERSIONS
- Who Sé Ma
- Nova
- Long Long Road
- She Moves With The Fayre
- The Cranes Are Back
- Hopper
- New York
- One Tear
- Satellite Kid
- The Impossible Idea

Disc 3
REMIXES, ALTERNATE VERSIONS AND PREVIOUSLY UNRELEASED TRACK
- Alpha
- She Moves With Fayre (Villagers Remix)
- New York (Nightwatch - Prof. Kybert)
- Nova (Toy Remix)
- One Tear (Club Cut - Prof. Kybert)
- Hopper (White Label Remix)
- Satellite Kid (Syd Arthur Remix)
- She Moves With Fayre (Breakdown Inst. - Prof. Kybert)
- Woo Sé Mama (E&TC Remix)

- Robert Wyatt - vocals, trumpet

Special Edition 3CD Set includes album instrumentals, remixes, alternate versions and previously unreleased bonus track Alpha.

- PARLOPHONE (0190295830595) 3xCD

> Zoom

Hallelujah!
2018

Frédéric Lo

- La Clairière
- Cet Obscur Objet Du Désir
- Le Bruit Qui Court
- Dire
- Come
- Eno Song
- En Temps Et En Heure
- Mary
- Ami
- Égaré Dans La Nuit
- Sortez Les Clowns

- Robert Wyatt - voix, bugle

- Frédéric Lo - cristal Baschet, guitare, claviers, voix
- Nicolas Fiszman - basse, guitare
- François Poggio - guitare

- WARNER MUSIC (WM00005CD)
CD

> Zoom 1 2

Unattended Luggage
2018

Nick Mason

Disc 1
FICTITIOUS SPORTS
- Can't Get My Motor To Start
- I Was Wrong
- Siam
- Hot River
- Boo To You Too
- Do Ya ?
- Wervin'
- I'm A Mineralist

Disc 2
PROFILES
- Malta
- Lie For A Lie
- Rhoda
- Profiles Part 1 / Profiles Part 2
- Israel
- And The Address
- Mumbo Jumbo
- Zip Code
- Black Ice
- At The End Of The Day
- Profiles Part 3

>Disc 3
WHITE OF THE EYE
- Goldwaters
- Remember Mike?
- Where Are You Joany?
- Dry Junk
- Present
- Thrift Store
- Prelude And Ritual
- Globe
- Discovery And Recoil
- Anne Mason
- Mendoza
- A World Of Appearances
- Sacrifice Dance
- White Of The Eye

Réédition remasterisée des trois albums Fictitious Sports (1981), Profiles (1985) et White Of The Eye (1987).

Box set compilation.

- PARLOPHONE
(0190295660147) 3xCD

- WARNER MUSIC GROUP
(0190295660222) 3xLP

> Zoom 1 2 3 4 5 6

7 8 9

Henry Cow

Disc 1
LEGEND

Disc 2
UNREST

Disc 3
DESPERATE STRAIGHTS
(Slapp Happy / Henry Cow)

Disc 4

CONCERTS 1
- Little Red Riding Hood Hits The Roads et Bad Alchemy (avec Robert Wyatt): 21 mai 1975, New London Theatre

HAMBURG
- Little Red Riding Hood Hit The Road (avec Robert Wyatt): 27 juin 1975, Piazza Navona, Roma
- We Did It Again (avec Robert Wyatt): 8 mai 1975 Théâtre des Champs-Elysées, Paris

This box set contains re-mastered versions of all the studio CDs and the

The Henry Cow Box Redux
The Complete Henry Cow
50th Anniversary
2019

IN PRAISE OF LEARNING

Disc 5
WESTERN CULTURE
History & Prospects

Disc 6
CONCERTS 1
- Beautiful As The Moon|Terrible As An Army With Banners
- Nirvana For Mice
- The Ottawa Song
- Gloria Gloom
- Beautiful As The Moon (Reprise)
- Bad Alchemy
- Little Red Riding Hood Hits The Road
- Ruins
- Groningen
- Groningen Again

Disc 7
CONCERTS 2

Disc 8
BEGINNINGS

Disc 9
1974-5

Disc 10
HAMBURG
- Fair As The Moon
- Nirvana For Rabbits
- Ottawa Song
- Twilight Bridge
- Gloria Gloom
- Hamburg 1
- Hamburg 2
- Red Noise10
- Hamburg 3
- Hamburg 4
- Hamburg 5
- Terrible As An Army With Banners
- A Heart
- Little Red Riding Hood Hit the Road
- We Did It Again

Disc 11
TRONDHEIM 1

Disc 12
TRONDHEIM 2

Disc 13
STOCKHOLM & GOTEBORG

Disc 14
LATER & POST-VIRGIN

Disc 15
BREMEN

Disc 16
LATE

Disc 17
VEVEY 1976 (DVD)

Disc 18
A COW CABINET OF CURIOSITIES

Disc 19
EX BOX COLLECTED FRAGMENTS 1971-1978
(bonus reserved for subscribers of the boxset).

rare bonus CD (Cabinet of Curiosities);

Subscribers to this boxset received an additional limited edition free bonus CD: Ex Box Collected Fragments 1971 - 1978.

Ce boxset est également présent dans la rubrique Reprises.

- ReR MEGACORP (ReR HCBRX)
  17xCD + DVD

> Zoom

Tutti Shruti
2019

Future Pilot AKA

- Tutti Shruti
- Version

- Robert Wyatt - vocals

- Sushil K Dade - bass, tape, electronics, drums [drum kit], esraj

- GLASS MODERN (GLAMSD001) Digital Format

> Zoom

Orkestra Digitalis
2019

Future Pilot AKA

- Morning Prayers (Ashes At My Guru's Feet)
- The Art Of Good Breathing
- Tutti Shruti
- Hetookherhand / Intuition Told Me Pt.1
- Holy Water
- The Sound Of Jura
- Music Like A Vitamin
- Jai Gopala
- Tu Par Ka Sagar Hai
- The Slave's Lament
- Mingus Take Your Bow And Paint My Heartstrings With Sunshine

- Robert Wyatt - vocals

- Sushil K Dade - bass, tape, electronics, drums [drum kit], esraj

- GLASS MODERN (GLAMLP015) LP

> Zoom 1 2

Last1 And Last2
2019

Caroline Kraabel

- Last1 (For Large Ensemble)
- Last2 (For Small Ensemble)

- Robert Wyatt - voices

Last1 (for large ensemble)
Pre-recorded song by Caroline Kraabel
Sung by Robert Wyatt

- Caroline Kraabel - composer, conductor
- Veryan Weston - piano
- Philipp Wachsmann - viola
- Hannah Marshall - cello
- Neil Metcalfe - flute
- Alex Ward - clarinet
- Tom Ward - bass clarinet
- Jackie Walduck - vibes
- Roland Ramanan - trumpet
- Caroline Hall - trombone
- David Jago - trombone
- Sue Lynch - tenor sax, 2nd conductor
- Cath Roberts - baritone sax
- Seth Bennett - double bass
- Guillaume Viltard - double bass
- Mark Sanders - percussion

2016 March 12 Cafe Oto, London.

Last2 (for small ensemble)
Pre-recorded song by Caroline Kraabel
Sung by Robert Wyatt

- Richard E. Harrison - percussion
- John Edwards - double bass
- Maggie Nicols - voice
- Caroline Kraabel - alto sax, musical director

2017 December 11 Cafe Oto, London.

- EMANEM (5048) CD

> Zoom

Les mémoires d'un ventriloque
Chansons 1981-2018
2019

Pascal Comelade

- We Did It Again (with Sissi)
- The Sad Skinhead (with Jean-Hervé Péron & Faust)
- Cadillac(with Jac Berrocal)
- September Song (with Robert Wyatt)
- Green Eyes (with PJ Harvey)
- Satisfaccio (Satisfaction) (with Sergi Lopez)
- En Maison (with Alex Barbier)
- Ja Som la Foca (I am The Walrus) (with Enric Casasses)
- Cadillac (with Roy Paci)
- Yo Soy Bueno (with Accidents Polipoètics)
- Don't Let Go (with Les Vierges)
- Ma Gueule (with Miossec)
- Larme Secrète (with Marc Hurtado)
- Société Anonyme Du Frisson Rétinien (with Enric Casasses & Mark C.)
- Cares D 'Arguiles (with Pau Riba)
- Suzanne (with Albert Pla)

September Song est extrait de September Song

"Les Mémoires d'un Ventriloque" ("memories of a ventriloquist") is the long-awaited anthology of Comelade's collaborations with singers, recorded between 1981 and 2018.

Limited edition of 500 copies, hand-numbered and signed by Pascal Comelade himself.

Cet album est également présent dans la rubrique Reprises.

- STAUBGOLD (STAUB153)
  2 x LP

> Zoom

Artlessy Falling
2020

Mary Halvorson's Code Girl

- The Lemon Trees
- Last-Minute Smears
- Walls And Roses
- Muzzling Unwashed
- Bigger Flames
- Mexican War Streets (Pittsburgh)
- A Nearing
- Artlessy Falling

- Robert Wyatt - voice on tracks 1, 3 & 5

- Amirtha Kidambi - voice
- Maria Grand - tenor saxophone, voice
- Adam O'Farrill - trumpet
- Mary Halvorson - guitar
- Michael Formanek - bass
- Tomas Fujiwara - drums, beer cans on track 2

- FIREHOUSE RECORDS
  (FH12-04-01-034) CD & 2xLP

> Zoom

Return To Y'Hup The World
Of Ivor Cutler
2020

Citizen Bravo, Raymond Mac Donald and Friends

- Here's A Health For Simon
- Latitude and Longitude (with Phyllis King)
- Size Nine And A Half (with Emma Pollock)
- Mary's A Cow (with Malcolm Benzie)
- Instance The Yam (with Alex Kapranos)
- Pickle Your Knees (with Karine Polwart)
- Gravity Begins At Home (with Rick Redbeard)
- A Cowpuncher And A Bird (with Zoe Graham)
- Boo Boo Bird (with Heather Leigh)
- Vitamin P (with Duglas T. Stewart)
- Green Rain (with Sarah Hayes)
- A Tooth Song (with Adam Stafford)
- Sh Chi (with Stuart Murdoch)
- Women Of The World (with Tracyanne Campbell)
- A Real Man (with James Yorkston)
- Yellow Fly (with Kris Drever)
- Shoplifters
- The Path (with Stuart Braithwaite)
- Muscular Tree (with Megan Airlie)
- Who Tore Your Trousers James? (with Rachel Sermanni and Chris Thomson)
- I Got No Common Sense
- When I Stand On An Open Cart (with Kapil Seshasayee)
- I Believe In Bugs (with Jo Mango)
- Good Morning! How Are You? Shut Up! (with Pictish Trail)

- Robert Wyatt - vocals

- CHEMIKAL UNDERGROUND RECORDS (CHEM255) LP
- CHEMIKAL UNDERGROUND RECORDS (CHEM255CD) CD

Cet album est également présent dans la rubrique Various Artists.

- Out Of Decency (with Robert Wyatt)
- Beautiful Cosmos (with Anna Miles)

> Zoom

Transe de Papier
2020

Lo'Jol

- Pas Pareil
- Permettez Majesté
- Bal La Poussière
- Minuscule
- Transe de Papier
- Sépale
- Black Bird
- Jeudi d'Octobre
- Séoul
- Hôtel du Souvenir
- Kiosco
-La rue passe

- Robert Wyatt - voix

- Denis Péan - piano

- LO'JO/ YOTANKA RECORDS
  CD & LP (édition vinyle blanc)

> Zoom

Rarer Teas
2020

Get The Blessing

- Toggle Buttons
- Hayk (Orchestral version)
- Tarp (Aesoteric mix)
- Cornish Native (Live at Rich Mix)
- Ulysses Frigidair
- The Word for Moonlight is Moonlight
  (Orchestral version)
- Moot
- Viking Death Moped (Thought Forms mix)
- Sunwise (Orchestral version)
- Poem de Terre
- Conch
- Life's too short to be shy
- The Unnameable
- Corniche (Live at Rich Mix)
- Pentopia (Patrick's Dream)
- Curve
- OCDC (Orchestral version)

Marc Gauvin pose sa voix sur American Meccano (de l'album OCDC) qui devient Ulysses Frigidair.

"To mark 20 years together, Get The Blessing is proud to invite you to sample RARER TEAS: a selection of brews, infusions, and cordials drawn from our various recordings, collaborations, and live performances across the years. Steeped in Bristol rainwater, with a dash of the city's notorious cleaning-fluid for additional preservative properties, these previously unreleased tracks from the archives feature special guests including Robert Wyatt, Marc Gauvin, Viv Albertine, John Hegley and more..."

- NO LABEL - Digital Format

> Zoom

The Sleeping Girl - Soundtrack
2021

The Sleeping Men

- Everybody I Know
- Red Mercury Ball by Blackelit (Sleeping Men 's 71 Version)
- Too Far T o o C l o s e
- Die Dinge Dazwischen
- Around The Corner
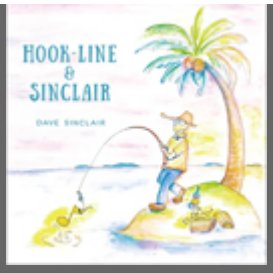
- Flutwelle
- Stupid Me Stupid You (Too)
- Heisenberg
- Vom Himmel Gefallen
- 1000 Times Away
- Wie Wenn Ich Aus Mamor Wäre
- Someone I Knew
- Himmelsbuch
- Kein Wunder
- Ein Bild Von Ihr
- Selbstporträt
- Lieber Beuys
- Everybody I Know

- Robert Wyatt - vocals

- Toni Schifer - bass
- Daniel Paul Behnemann - pianett

The Sleeping Men is a group of musicians who recorded in 2012 the music of the movie score ‚Das schlafende Mädchen' (The Sleeping Girl) by the director Rainer Kirberg.



- NO LABEL - Digital Format

Dave Sinclair

- Yuge'Ve
- Message To My Heart
- Love Of My Life
- Eyes On You

- Robert Wyatt - lead vocal

- Dave Sinclair - backing vocals &
  keyboards

> Zoom

Hook-Line & Sinclair
2021

- The Only Words
- Missin'You
- Reason To Know (For Luke & Elin)
- Always There (Dedicated To Bob Clarke)
- Absent Friends
- Heart Of Gold (For Our Mothers)
- Sweet Breath Of Morning - Makinations

- Richard Sinclair - lead vocal
- Jimmy Hastings - flute
- Billie Bottle - bass guitar - programming
- Derby Cathedral Choir conducted by Tom Corfield

Selection of 12 new and unreleased home and studio recordings. from 1981 to 2019.

About Always There :

Written in 2002, my spiritual reflection after returning to Japan for the second time, and hoping that Japan would always be there to welcome me back. Although this song has already appeared on some previous releases, this particular one I would say is the ultimate 'Canterbury' version, with myself and cousin Richard Sinclair, Jimmy Hastings and Robert Wyatt, Billie Bottle, Derby Cathedral Choir, and orchestration by Neil Saunders.

This version is also dedicated to my long-time friend Bob Clarke, who, for the final five years of my piano shop in Herne Bay Kent, assisted in my piano restoration, shop keeping, and transportation of pianos etc, for no reward except the enjoyment of being around pianos. He himself had one of my pianos and played this song, 'Always There', every single day, it was his favourite piece of music. After he passed away in 2017 his wife Pat organised the playing of this song during his service.

Dave Sinclair

- DSINCS-MUSIC - CD

> Zoom

Extinction!
2022

Vanderwolf

- When the Fire Grows Cold (feat. Robert Wyatt)
- Extinction feat. Daevid Allen with Last Man Standing

- Robert Wyatt - vocal

- Sam Sallon - piano
- Chris Cordoba - guitars
- Chris Wyles - electronics

Robert Wyatt recorded in The Chapel Studio in Lincolnshire, UK.

- VANDERWOLF (V34802)
Digital Format (EP)

> Zoom

It Makes Sense To Me
A Selection From the Public Record
1972-2022
2022

Chris Cutler

Disc 1
- Amygdala (Extract) (Henry Cow)
- Deluge (Henry Cow)
- The Messiah (Slapp Happy/Henry Cow)
- Beginning the Long March (Henry Cow)
- The Labyrinth (Art Bears)
- The Winter Wheel (Art Bears)
- The Slave (Art Bears)
- Knokke (Cinema, Section 3, Extract) (Aksak Maboul)
- Song of the Martyrs (Art Bears)
- State Room (The Work)
- Live in Prague (Extract) (Chris Cutler/Fred Frith)
- The Address (Duck and Cover)
- Dunkle Wolken (Duck and Cover)
- Fragments (Duck and Cover)
- On Suicide (Duck and Cover)

- Robert Wyatt - voice

- Chris Cutler - drums, percussion
- Lindsay Cooper - piano, bassoon, sopranino saxophone
- Zeena Parkins - harp, accordion
- Bill Gilonis - bass

Compilation.
Ce double-CD constitue les voolumes 4 et 5 du coffret Compositions and Collaborations 1972-2022 publié début 2023.

Ce double-CD est également présent (CD4 et CD5) dans le coffret Compositions And Collaborations |

- Und Ich Werde nicht mehr Sehen (Duck and Cover)
- In Eine Minute (Cassiber)
- Heart of Stone (News From Babel)
- Menuet No.2 Motown Version (René Lussier, Jean Derome, Tom Cora, Chris Cutler)
- Not Weak Enough (Peter Blegvad)
- This Was the Way It Was (Intro) (Cassiber)
- Philosophy (Cassiber)
- Gut (Cassiber)

Disc 2
- Final Solution (Pere Ubu)
- Last Cigar Before New York (Les Quatre Guitaristes de l'Apocalypso Bar)
- Glandien - None Are Disbarred (Cutler)
- Delta (The (EC) Nudes)
- Platser Sömm Och Fortsättning (Songs Between)
- Shark (Extract) (Chris Cutler/Zeena Parkins)
- Daughter (Peter Blegvad)
- p53 (Extract) (p53)
- Cinema (NORMA)
- Event Horizon (The Science Group)
- On All 4s (Peter Blegvad)
- Floating Plates / Do not Drink (Chris Cutler/Tom Dimuzio)
- Uncanny Haversack (Vril)
- Impossible Cana (Vril)
- North Car Roulette (Chris Cutler)
- Who's Afraid (Brainville III)
- The New Apocathary (Chris Cutler/Steve MacLean)
- King of Straw (Peter Blegvad)
- Schoenberg U41 (Yumi Hara)
- Nothing (Nobody)
- Encore (Chris Cutler/Fred Frith)

1972-2022 de Chris Cutler paru en 2023.

Heart of Stone est extrait de Letters From Babel.

- ReR MEGACORP (ReR CC4/5) 2xCD

> Zoom

Jazzloops / The Stolen Hour
2023

Hugh Hopper

Disc 1
JAZZLOOPS
- T3
- Afrik
- Garrisoi
- Sfrankl
- Acloop
- Calmozart
- Aintpo
- 1212
- Digwot
- L4
- Nigepo

Disc 2
THE STOLEN HOUR
- Craig's Distended Train Ride
- Complications At Work
- An Inescapable Encounter With Mrs Pry
- Yearning For The Stolen Hour
- The Long Drive
- An Unregulated Sunset
- A Sideways Peek At Dreamtime
- Snide Wisdom Involving The Immateriality Of Time
- The Stuff He Sees
- Mia's Timely Emergence From The East
- Compatibility
- Sharing The Stolen Hour

-
Reedition of these two albums:

- Jazzloops released in 2002.
- The Stolen Hour released in 2004.

- CHERRY RED RECORDS / EXPLORE RIGHTS MANAGEMENT LTD (EXM029) 2xCD

Hatfield And The North

- Intro O.R.T.F.
- God Song / Fol De Rol / Rifferama / A-Mewsing
- Richard talks about the O.R.T.F. recordings

- Robert Wyatt - vocal

- Richard Sinclair - bass & vocal
- Phil Miller - guitar

> Zoom

O.R.T.F.
Office de Radiodiffusion - Télévision Française
Janaury 2, 1973
2024

> Zoom

Compositions and Collaborations 1972-2022
2023

> Zoom

Volume 4 of the box

> Zoom

Volume 10 of the box

Chris Cutler

Disc 1
SOLO

Disc 2
TWICE AROUND THE EARTH (An Experiment In Listening)

Disc 3
THERE AND BACK AGAIN (Volume 2: On Memory)

Disc 4
IT MAKES SENSE TO ME (A Selection From The Public Record | 1972-2022) - CD 1
- Amygdala (Extract) (Henry Cow)
- Deluge (Henry Cow)
- The Messiah (Slapp Happy/Henry Cow)
- Beginning the Long March (Henry Cow)
- The Labyrinth (Art Bears)
- The Winter Wheel (Art Bears)
- The Slave (Art Bears)
- Knokke (Cinema, Section 3, Extract) (Aksak Maboul)
- Song of the Martyrs (Art Bears)
- State Room (The Work)
- Live in Prague (Extract) (Chris Cutler/Fred Frith)
- The Address (Duck and Cover)
- Dunkle Wolken (Duck and Cover)
- Fragments (Duck and Cover)
- On Suicide (Duck and Cover)
- Und Ich Werde nicht mehr Sehen (Duck and Cover)
- In Eine Minute (Cassiber)
- Heart of Stone (News From Babel)
- Menuet No.2 Motown Version (René Lussier, Jean Derome, Tom Cora, Chris Cutler)
- Not Weak Enough (Peter Blegvad)
- This Was the Way It Was (Intro) (Cassiber)
- Philosophy (Cassiber)
- Gut (Cassiber)

Disc 5
IT MAKES SENSE TO ME (A Selection From The Public Record | 1972-2022) - CD2

Disc 6
MAJESTIC THEATRE (Box recording 1972-2022 | Volume 6)

Disc 7
BOX RECORDINGS 1972-2022 | Volume 7

Disc 8
BOX RECORDINGS 1972-2022 | Volume 8

- Dave Sinclair - organ, electric piano
- Pip Pyle - drums & percussion

Recorded live January 2, 1973 at Studio de L'O.R.T.F. des Buttes-Chaumont, Paris and broadcast live (the same day) on "Rock en Stock" TV programme.

In this other album, the recording is dated differently.

- SINCLAIRSONGS CLUB - Digital Format

Box Set. Compilation. Limited Edition.

VOLUME 4 - track 18 : Heart Of Stone (L. Cooper/C. Cutler) :

- Robert Wyatt - voice

- Chris Cutler - drums, percussion
- Lindsay Cooper - piano, bassoon, sopranino saxophone
- Zeena Parkins - harp, accordion
- Bill Gilonis - bass

Heart of Stone est extrait de Letters From Babel.

Ce Volume 4 (+ le volume 5) ont été publiés sous la forme d'un double-CD fin 2022 sous le titre It Makes Senese To Me.

VOLUME 10 - track 1 : Moments Of Delight (C. Cutler/T. Hodgkinson)

- Robert Wyatt - voice

- Lindsay Cooper - sopranino saxophone
- Chris Cutler - drums
- Bill Gilonis - bass, guitar
- Tim Hodgkinson - piano, electric piano, Moog synthesizer, baritone saxophone, alto saxophone

VOLUME 10 - track 2 : In The Dark Year (C. Cutler/L. Cooper)

- Robert Wyatt - voice

- Lindsay Cooper - piano, electric piano, sopranino saxophone, bassoon
- Chris Cutler - drums
- Bill Gilonis - bass, guitar
- Tim Hodgkinson baritone saxophone, alto saxophone

Moments Of Delight et In The Dark Year sont extraits de The Last Nightingale.

- ReR MEGACORP (RERCCBOX) 10xCD + DVD

Disc 9
HOTEL INTERCONTINENTAL (Box Recordings 1972-2022 | Volume 9)

Disc 10
BOX RECORDINGS 1972-2022 | Volume 10
- Moments Of Delight (Chris Cutler/Tim Hodgkinson/Robert Wyatt)
- In The Dark Year (Chris Cutler/Lindsay Cooper/Robert Wyatt)
- Education (Chris Cutler/Lindsay Cooper/Sally Potter)
- Charm Offensive (Chris Cutler/Antonio Duarte/Vitor Rua)
- Golden Rendezvous (Kalahari Surfers)
- Plan For Peace (Kalahari Surfers)
- Free State Fence (Kalahari Surfers)
- For Faust (Chris Cutler)
- Dystopian Fantasy (Brian Woodbury)
- The Sign Of Three (Lutz Glandien/Chris Cutler
- Somewhere In Germany (Chris Cutler/Fred Frith)
- Inaudible (The Electrons)
- After Hours: The Colour Of Blood (Chris Cutler/Shelley Hirsch/Jon Rose)

DVD 1
INSIDE BROADCAST (A Day In Other People's Ears | Volume 11)

Disc 11
COMPOSITIONS AND COLLABORATIONS BOX | 2022

> Zoom

Cœur Sacré!
2023

Cœur Sacré - Un hommage de Frederic Lo à Daniel Darc

- Cœur sacré (Daniel Darc)
- Je suis déjà parti (feat. Etienne Daho)
- Chercher le garçon (feat. Elli Medeiros & Benjamin Biolay)
- La pluie qui tombe (feat. Jean-Jacques Burnel)
- I remember Oh so well (Daniel Darc feat. Bill Pritchard)
- Les armées de la nuit (feat. Dominique A.)
- Mes amis (feat. Jane Birkin & Daniel Darc)
- Without use & all used up (feat. Peter Doherty)
- Paris (feat. Stupeflip)
- Rouge rose (feat. Alex Beaupain)
- What's the point (feat. Lou Doillon & Robert Wyatt)
- Jamais Jamais (Frédéric Lo)

- Robert Wyatt - respirations

- Lou Doillon - chant
- Frederic Lo - tous les instruments

Reprise en anglais du titre Ca ne sert à rien extrait de Amours Suprêmes.

- UNIVERSAL MUSIC (556 272-B) (CD)

> Zoom 1 2 3 4

The Complete Obscure Records Collection 1975-1978
2023

The Complete Obscure Records Collection 1975-1978

Disc 1
GAVIN BRYARS - THE SINGING OF THE TITANIC

Disc 2
CHRISTOPHER HOBBS/JOHN ADAMS/GAVIN BRYARS - ENSEMBLE PIECES

Disc 3
BRIAN ENO - DISCREET MUSIC

Disc 4
DAVID TOOP/MAX EASTLEY - NEW AND REDISCOVERED MUSICAL INSTRUMENTS

Disc 5
JAN STEELE/JOHN CAGE - VOICES AND INSTRUMENTS

- Robert Wyatt - voice

- Richard Bernas - piano duet (on The Wonderful Widow Of Eighteen Springs).

10 CD Edition first ever repress of the complete series. All albums produced by Brian Eno between 1975 and 1978.

Limited and Numbered Edition.

Ensemble Pieces was originally released in 1976.

- DIALOGO (DIACD926BOX) 10xCD
- DIALOGO (DIALP926BOX) 10xLP

JAN STEELE
- All Day
- Distant saxophones
- Rhapsodie Spaniel
JOHN CAGE
- Experiences No 1
- Experiences No 2
- The Wonderful Widow Of Eighteen Springs
- Forever And Sunsmell
- In A Landscape

Disc 6
MICHAEL NYMAN - DECAY MUSIC

Disc 7
MUSIC FROM THE PENGUIN CAFE - PERFORMED BY MEMBERS OF THE PENGUIN CAFE ORCHESTRA

Disc 8
JOHN WHITE/GAVIN BRYARS - MACHINE MUSIC

Disc 9
IRMA - AN OPERA BY TOM PHILLIPS

Disc 10
HAROLD BUDD - THE PAVILLON OF DREAMS

> Zoom 1 2

50 years Of Music
2024

Phil Manzanera

Disc 1
DIAMOND HEAD (1975)
- Frontera
- Diamond Head
- Big Day
- The Flex
- Same Time Next Week
- Miss Shapiro
- East Of Echo
- Lagrima
- Alma
Bonus Tracks
- Carhumba (previously released on 2011 re-issue)
- Corazon Y Alma (previously released on 2011 re-issue)

Disc 2
LISTEN NOW (801) (1977)

Disc 3
K-SCOPE (1978)

Disc 4
PRIMITIVES GUITARS (1982)

Disc 5
SOUTHERN CROSS (1990)

Disc 6
VOZERO (1999)
- Vozero
- Mystic Moon
- Verdadero
- Tuesday
- Rayo De Bala
- The Art Of Conversation
- Vida
- Golden Sun
- Mundo Con Paz
- Hymn
- La Vida Moderna
- Tropical

Compilation

About The Unknown Zone :

- Robert Wyatt - keyboards
- Phil Manzanera - guitar
- Brian Eno - drums [chaos drums], bass [synth bass]
- Yaron Stavi - double bass

"A few years ago when Robert Wyatt was recording Cuckooland at my studio Eno popped round for dinner, a chat, and an overdub or two and after a few bevvies we had a jam. This track, The Unknown Zone grew out of that night's improvisations, as did my track 50 Minutes Later' [released on the album 50 Minutes Later]."
Phil Manzanera.

- UNIVERSAL MUSIC RECORDINGS (5523617) 11xCD

Disc 7
6PM (2004)
- Broken Dreams
- Green Spikey Cactus
- Love Devotion
- Wish You Well
- 6PM
- Waiting For The Sun To Shine
- Manzra
- Cissbury Ring
- Porlock
- Shoreline
- Always You
- Sacred Days
Bonus Tracks
- For You (previously only available on 2016 Japanese reissue)

Disc 8
50 MINUTES LATER (2005)
- Revolution
- Technicolor UFO
- That's All I know
- 50 Minutos Mas Trade
- Desaparecido
- Dusza
- One Step
- Swimming
- Bible Black
- Til The End Of The Line
- Enotonik Bible Black (Mainstream Version)

Disc 9
FIREBIRD V11 (2008)

Disc 10
THE SOUND OF BLUE (2015)

Disc 11
THE MANZANERA ARCHIVES RARE TWO
- Que Fera Fera demo with Nfaly Kouyarte (Previously Unreleased)
- Spanish (Previously Unreleased)
- The Unknown Zone (previously only available as a download 2009)
- Manz 2 (One Slip demo) (Previously Unreleased)
- Tre Amore (Previously Unreleased)
- Chan Chan (previously only available on Japan Live CD)
- Otra Vuelta (Previously Unreleased)
- All the While (Live at Hospital Club, London) (Previously Unreleased)
- Impossible Guitars (Live at Frejus with Roxy Music)
- Bala de Plata (Live at The CCK Buenos Aires) (Previously Unreleased)
- East of Asteroid (Live at Ronnie Scott's) (Previously Unreleased)
- El Vlaje Demo (Previously Unreleased)

> Zoom

All This Crazy Gift Of Time
The Recordings 1969-1973
2024

Kevin Ayers

Disc 1
JOY OF A TOY
- Joy of a Toy Continued
- Town Feeling
- The Clarietta Rag
- Girl on a Swing
- Song for Insane Times
- Stop This Train (Again Doing It)
- Eleanor's Cake (Which Ate Her)
- The Lady Rachel
- Oleh Oleh Bandu Bandong
- All This Crazy Gift of Time
Bonus
- Religious Experience (feat. Syd Barrett)
- Soon Soon Soon
- Religious Experience (Take 103)
- Clarence in Wonderland (BBC Session

- Robert Wyatt on drums: Disc 1 (1-3 ; 5 ; 8), Disc 2 (1-8)

- Robert Wyatt on backing vocals: Disc 1 (14-17), Disc3 (3 ; 8)

- Robert Wyatt on harmony vocals: Disc 5 (1-8) ; Disc 8 (8)

- Robert Wyatt on piano : Disc 1 (13)

Deluxe 9 CD - 1 Blu-Ray limited edition - Box-set of the complete recordings by Kevin Ayers from 1969-1973, with 140 tracks newly remastered from the 10.02.1970)

- Stop This Train (Again Doing It) (BBC Session 10.02.1970)
- Why Are We Sleeping? (feat. Soft Machine) (BBC Session 10.02.1970)
- You Say You Like My Hat (BBC Session 10.02.1970)
- Singing a Song in the Morning (single)

Disc 2
LIVE AT HYDE PARK JULY 1970
- Clarence in Wonderland (live)
- The Lady Rachel (live)
- Rheinhardt and Geraldine /Colores Para Delores (live)
- May I? (live)
- Hat Song (live)
- We Did it Again (live)
- Why Are We Sleeping? (live)
Bonus
- The Garden of Love (live Queen Elizabeth Hall 1970)

Disc 3
SHOOTING AT THE MOON
- May I?
- Rheinhardt and Geraldine / Colores Para Delores
- Lunatics Lament
- Pisser Dans un Violin
- The Oyster and the Flying Fish
- Underwater
- Clarence in Wonderland
- Red Green and You Blue
- Shooting at the Moon
Bonus
- Hat (recorded May 1970)
- Gemini Child (recorded June 1970)
- Butterfly Dance (A-side of single)
- Puis Je? (B-side of single)
- Jolie Madame (recorded November 1970)

Disc 4
BBC SESSIONS - MAY 1970-NOVEMBER 1971
- Love Is (John Peel Concert 17.05 1970) (previously unreleased)
- We Did It Again (John Peel Concert 17.05 1970) (previously unreleased)
- Gemini Child (BBC Session 20.05.1970)
- Lady Rachel (BBC Session 20.05.1970)
- Shooting at the Moon (BBC Session 20.05.1970)
- Derby Day (BBC Session 09.06.1970)
- The Interview (BBC Session 09.06.1970)
- We Did it Again / Murder in the Air (BBC Session 09.06.1970)
- Jolie Madame (with Bridget St. John) (In Concert 31.01.1971)
- The Spider and the Fly (with Bridget St.John) (In Concert 31.01.1971)
- The Oyster and the Flying Fish (with Bridget St. John) (In Concert 31.01.1971)
- Clarence in Wonderland (feat. Gong) (BBC Session 09.11.1971)

Disc 5
WHATEVERSHEBRINGSWESING
- There is Loving / Among Us / There is Loving
- Margaret
- Oh My
- Song from a Bottom of a Well
- Whatevershebringswesing
- Stranger in Blue Suede Shoes
- Champagne Cowboy Blues
- Lullaby
Bonus
- Watching the Sun Go Down (recorded May 1971)
- Whatevershebringswesing (first version) (recorded May 1971)
- Stars (B-side of single)
- All This Crazy Gift of Time (1972 remake)
- The Lady Rachel (1972 remake)
- Sad and Lonely Faces (with David Bedford)
- (Don't Sing No More) Sad Songs
- Fake Mexican Tourist Blues (recorded September 1972)

Disc 6
BBC SESSIONS - JANUARY-MAY 1972
- May I? (In Concert Jan 1972)
- There is Loving / Among Us / There is original master tapes.

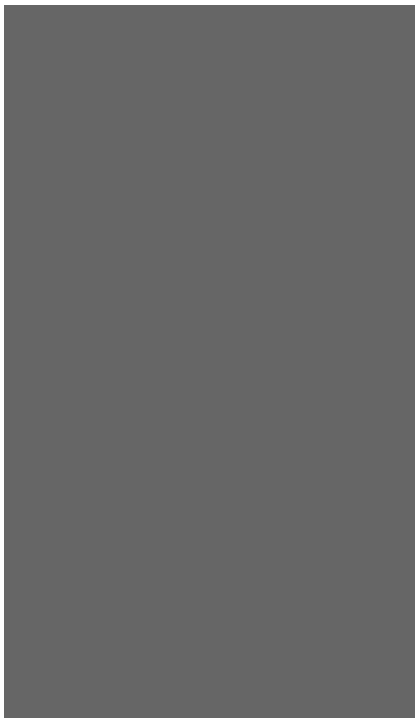
- ESOTERIC RECORDINGS (QECLEC102888)9xCD + 1 BLU-RAY

Cet album est également présent dans la rubrique Reprises.



Loving (In Concert Jan 1972)
- Margaret (In Concert Jan 1972)
- Whatevershebringswesing (In Concert Jan 1972)
- Clarence in Wonderland (In Concert Jan 1972)
- Colores Para Delores (In Concert Jan 1972)
- Lady Rachel (In Concert Jan 1972)
- All This Crazy Gift of Time (In Concert Jan 1972)
- Why Are We Sleeping? (In Concert Jan 1972)
- The Oyster and the Flying Fish (BBC session 17.05.1972)
- Butterfly Dance (BBC session 17.05.1972)
- Whatevershebringswesing (BBC session 17.05.1972)
- Falling in Love Again (BBC session 17.05.1972)
- Queen Thing (BBC session 17.05.1972)

Disc 7
BBC SESSIONS - SEPTEMBER 1972-APRIL 1973
BANANA FOLLIES IN CONCERT - SEPTEMBER 1972
- Introduction (In Concert Sept. 1972)
- (Don't Sing No More) Sad Songs (In Concert Sept. 1972)
- Pretty Little Girl (In Concert Sept. 1972)
- Two Pigeons (In Concert Sept. 1972)
- Murder in the Air (In Concert Sept. 1972)
- 'Orrible Orange (In Concert Sept. 1972)
- Whatevershebringswesing (In Concert Sept. 1972)
- Take Me to Tahiti (In Concert Sept. 1972)
- Oh! Wot a Dream (In Concert Sept. 1972)
- Marlene (In Concert Sept. 1972)
- Ball Bearing Blues (In Concert Sept. 1972)
- Fake Mexican Tourist Blues (In Concert Sept. 1972)
- Interview (In Concert Sept. 1972)
- You Say You Like My Hat (In Concert Sept. 1972)
- Falling in Love Again (In Concert Sept. 1972)
- The End (In Concert Sept. 1972)
- Interview (BBC session 11.04.1973)
- Oh! Wot a Dream (BBC session 11.04.1973)
- Shouting in a Bucket Blues (BBC session 11.04.1973)

Disc 8
BANANAMOUR
- Don't Let it Get You Down
- Shouting in a Bucket Blues
- When Your Parents Go to Sleep
- Interview
- International Anthem
- Decadence
- Oh! Wot a Dream
- Hymn
- Beware of the Dog
Bonus
- Connie on a Rubber Band (B-side of single)
- Caribbean Moon (A-side of single)
- Take Me to Tahiti (B- side of single)
- Decadence (early mix) 14 We Did it Again (live Mile End 1972) (previously unreleased)
- Why Are We Sleeping? (live Mile End 1972) (previously unreleased)

Disc 9
AFTER THE SHOW
LIVE AT QUEEN ELISABETH HALL - MAY 1973
- Banana Introduction (live 1973)
- Stranger in Blue Suede Shoes (live 1973)
- Interview (live 1973)
- Whatevershebringswesing (live 1973)
- Oh! Wot a Dream (live 1973)
- Shouting in a Bucket Blues (live 1973)
- Caribbean Moon (live 1973)
- Don't Let it Get You Down (live 1973)
- We Did it Again (live 1973)
- Why Are We Sleeping? (live 1973)
- After the Show (live 1973)

Disc 10 - BLU-RAY
VIDEO VAULTS 1970-1973
- Clarence in Wonderland (Pop Deux ORTF

France 31.03.1970)
- Why Are We Sleeping? (Pop Deux ORTF France 31.03.1970)
- Oh My (BBC Old Grey Whistle Test 04.04.1972)
- May I? (BBC Old Grey Whistle Test 04.04.1972)
- Why Are We Sleeping? (Pop Deux ORTF France 13.01.1973)
- Stranger in Blue Suede Shoes (Rockenstock ORTF France 30.01.1973)
- Why Are We Sleeping? (Rockenstock ORTF France 30.01.1973)
- Shouting in a Bucket Blues (BBC Old Grey Whistle Test 12.06.1973)
- Oh! Wot a Dream (BBC Old Grey Whistle Test 12.06.1973)
- Caribbean Moon (Promotional film 1973)

Bonus
- Oh My (take 2) (BBC Old Grey Whistle Test 04.04.1972)
- May I? (take 2) (BBC Old Grey Whistle Test 04.04.1972)
- Oh My (take 4) (BBC Old Grey Whistle Test 04.04.1972)

> Zoom

Every Man And Woman Is A Star
1992

Ultramarine

- Discovery
- Weird Gear
- Pansy
- Honey
- Stella
- Geezer
- Panther
- British Summertime
- Saratoga
- Nova Scotia
- Lights In My Brain
- Gravity
- Canoe Trip
- Skyclad

- Robert Wyatt - sampled vocals from Esther's Nose Job (Soft Machine - Vol.2) and A Certain Kind (Soft Machine - Vol.1)

- Ian Cooper - acoustic guitar, keyboards, programming
- Paul Hammond - bass, keyboards, programming

- ROUGH TRADE / DALI STAR RECORDS (61443-2) CD

> Zoom

Giorni Felici
1997

La 1919

- Jingle Jungle
- This Life
- Le Rapide
- Aha!
- Giorni Felici
- Alexia
- Carla
- La Lunga Marcia Dei Lemmings
- Vivace!
- Play It Again, Henry!
- Crimini Di Guerra
- The Puppet Parade

- Robert Wyatt - voice sampled at the 29th second of the track

- Luciano Margorani - sampler, guitar, drum programming
- Piero Chianura - drum programming

- MATERIALI SONORI (MASOCD90094) CD

> Zoom

The Different You
1998

Robert Wyatt e noi

- Sea Song
- Re-born Again Cretin
- O Caroline
- Alifib
- Gharbzadegi
- Little Red Riding Hood Hit The Road
- Memories
- Left On Man
- Maryan
- Yolanda
- A Sunday In Madrid
- Amber And The Amberines
- Free Will And Testament
- Dondestan
- A Last Straw
- Del Mondo
- Chairman Mao
- Five Black Notes And One White Note

- Robert Wyatt - voice sampled on Re-born Again Cretin (Nothing Can Stop Us).

- CPI RECORDS - CD

Cet album est également présent dans les rubriques Reprises et With Friends.

Kahimi Karie

- Good Morning World
- Candyman

Good Morning World contient un sample de So Boot If At All (Soft Machine -

> Zoom

Kahimi Karie
1998

- Elastic Girl
- Mike Alway's Diary
- Le Roi Soleil
- Take It Easy My Brother Charlie
- Zoom Up!
- Serieux Comme Le Plaisir
- Lolitapop Dollhouse
- Dis-Moi Quelque Chose Avant De Dormir
- The Way You Close Your Eyes

Vol.1).

- MINTY FRESH - CD

> Zoom

Aqua Necromancer
1998

Masami Aquita

- Aqua Necromancer
- Contrapuntti Indian
- Soft Drums
- Contrapuntti Patto
- Farsa Del Buen Vivir

Soft Drums utilise des samples du jeu de batterie de Robert Wyatt - période Soft Machine.

- ALIEN8 RECORDINGS (ALIEN10) CD

> Zoom 1 2

Shadows
1998

Timet & Lorenzo Brusci

- Sospensione

L'Attesa
- Il Ricordo
- L'Indolenza
- I Presagi

Il Messaggero
- La Corte
- L'Orgoglio

La Prezensa
- Il Rifiuto
- Le Maniere
- La Sapienza
- Piccole Cose

I Tentatori
- Il Potere
- La Rinuncia
- L'Ambizione

La Comunità
- Il Terore
- L'Accusa
- La Pesantezza

- Autocoscienza
- Santità

Ultima Lotta
- L'Ordine
- Il Pentimento
- L'Abbandono

Morte
- Il Pericolo
- Il Tempo
- Il Traditore

- Requiem

II lavoro si ispira allo spettacolo teatrale Thomas Becket di e con Andrea de Luca.

- Lorenzo Brusci - suoni, metacomposizione, composizione non lineare
- Andrea de Luca - voce

Il lavoro si inspira allo spettacolo teatrale "Thomas Beckett" di e con Andrea de Luca.

La voce di Andrea non è elaborata digitalmente; le sue esecuzioni sono il risultatol di sessioni d''improvvisazione libera o guidata.

Non potendo riprodurre i frammenti di Murder in the Cathedral di T.S. Eliot a cui sia Shadows che lo spettacolo teatrale Thomas Becket si riferiscono, suggeriamo un confronto tra il testo originale e le elaborazioni testuali / musicali compiute.
Si ringrazia il Teatro di Leo per la collaborazione.

Robert Wyatt is one of the many artists sampled in this album (see the full list) but it is not possible to identify the track(s) involved (Lorenzo Brusci himself no longer has this information).

- I DISCHI FORMA (04) CD

> Zoom

Re-Born Again Cretin
1999

Almamegretta

- Re-Born Again Cretin (Radio Edit.)
[R. Wyatt]
- Re-Born Again Cretin (Album Version) [R. Wyatt]

Promo Version.

Re-born Again Cretin est également présent sur la compilation A Different You.

- CPI/MERCURY (5002-542) CD

> Zoom

Somnifer/Transit
(?)

Various Artists

- Somnifer
- Transit

Somnifier is a mix tape using fragments from Albert Ayler, Milton Babbitt, The Beatles, Pat Benetar, Marion Brown, Buffalo Springfield, Captain Beefheart, Bruce Cockburn, Country Joe and the Fish, Donovan, The Doors, Bob Dylan, Electric Flag, Fairport Convention, Jimi Hendrix Experience, Last Poets, Pagliaro, Elvis Presley, Rolling Stones, Ravi Shankar, Stealers Wheel, Steppenwolf, Velvet Underground, Robert Pete Williams, Steve Winwood, and Robert Wyatt.
The mix ranges from being a single thing playing at a time to at least three recordings simultaneously with additional processing.

Robert Wyatt's excerpt : Sea Song

- CONGLOMERATE RECORDS
Cassette

> Zoom 1 2

La Via Negativa
1999

Timet & Lorenzo Brusci

--> E
- E. Sofferma e.
- e. Disorienta E. 1:12
- E. Beve e
- e. Insolve E.

--> Compresenze e popsibilità:
- La Corsa
- La Lettura
- L' Invenzione
- Restituzioni Parte. I
- La Riconduzione
- L' Incontro
- L' Esibizione Dell' Interno
- Aprire E Versare
- Le Ipotesi Fisicominime
- Presunzioni
- È Carne Cruda
- Carne Diffusa
- Decadenze
- Pensiero Cosa n te
- Restituzioni Parte II

- Lorenzo Brusci - suoni, metacomposizione, composizione non lineare
- Préot Buxton - voce maschile
- Beppe Mangione - consulenza elettronica + suoni elettronici per 'E'
- Paolo rollo Mariani - consulenza discografica
- Mirio Cosottini - contributi teorici + improvvisazione di tromba su 'E'
- Ingegnere Paolo Frasconi - sintesi elettronica + coproduzione 'E'
- Andrea Melani - batteria su 'restituzioni parte II'
- Riccardo Onori - chitarra el. su 'restituzioni parte II'
- Brian Mcmahon - voce maschile su 'carne diffusa' + 'pensiero cosa n te'
- Nami Payapackan - voce femminile su 'E'

Robert Wyatt is one of the many artists sampled in this album (see the full list) but it is not possible to identify the track(s) involved (Lorenzo Brusci himself no longer has this information).

- I DISCHI FORMA (05) CD

M3W
2000

Jean-Michel Marchetti/Robert Wyatt

- Robert (Robert Wyatt)
- P.L.A. (Toupidek, Limonade et J. Tagu) [R. Wyatt]
- Alifib (R. Robert, G. Tordjman) [R. Wyatt]
- Toledo Texas (J.M. Montera, E. Martusciello, F.Y Lugli-Martinez) [R. Wyatt]
- Dondestan (Look de Book) [R. Wyatt]
- Sea Song (Klimperei) [R. Wyatt]
- Born Again Cretin (Dominique Répécaud) [R. Wyatt]
- Little Red Robin Hood Hit The Road (Jaggernaut) [R. Wyatt]
- To The Old World (Dominique Grimaud)
- Left On Man (L'Ensemble Rayé) [R. Wyatt]
- Little Red Riding Hood Hit The Road (J. Bogaert, An Pierlé, J. Snauwaert) [R. Wyatt]
- Caroline (D. Fellmann, J. Goetz) [D. Sinclair/R. Wyatt]
- Mass Medium (Ph. Fretun, M. Benita) [R. Wyatt]
- Alifib (Pascal Comelade) [R. Wyatt]
- Heli Plop (Alain de Filipis)
- Toledo Texas (Jean-François Pauvros)[R. Wyatt]
- For R.W. (Ch. Cutler, T. Buck, J.M. Montera, J.F. Pauvros)
- Alifib (Le Piano De La Rue De Vergennes) (Jean-Michel Marchetti) [R. Wyatt]

Heli Plop est constitué d'extraits des 3 premiers albums de Soft Machine et de plusieurs albums de Robert Wyatt (Rock Bottom, Ruth Is Stranger Than Richard - et peut-être d'autres encore...).

- AENCRAGES & Co/IN POLY SONS (IPS 08 00) CD

Cet album est également présent dans la rubrique Reprises et With Friends.

> Zoom 1 2

Robert Et André
2001

Kafka

- La Brave Fille Des Abattoirs (Original De 1947)
- La Brave Fille Des Abattoirs
- Left On Man
- Robert Et André
- Noisy Moon In Trashy June
- Samples Salad
- La Finale

Samples Salad contient un sample de Hibou Anemone And Bear (Soft Machine).

Noisy Moon In Trashy June contient un sample de Moon in June.

Enregistré au Studio Victoria Compoint. Décembre 2000/Janvier 2001.

- KK PROD - CD

Cet album est également présent dans la rubrique Reprises.

> Zoom

MW Pour Robert Wyatt
2001

MW pour Robert Wyatt

- Some Words Of Introduction (Robert Wyatt)
- P.L.A. (Toupidek, Limonade et J. Tagu) [R. Wyatt]
- Toledo Texas (J.M. Montera, E. Martusciello, F.Y Lugli-Martinez) [R. Wyatt-J.M. Montera]
- En Dondekistan (Look de Book) [R. Wyatt]
- Sea Song (Klimperei) [R. Wyatt]
- Born Again Cretin (Dominique Répécaud) [R. Wyatt]
- Little Red Robin Hood Hit The Road (Jagger Naut) [R. Wyatt]
- Alifib (R. Robert, G. Tordjman) [R. Wyatt]
- To The Old World (Dominique Grimaud) [R. Wyatt]
- Left On Man (L'Ensemble Rayé) [R. Wyatt]
- Robert et André (Kafka) [R. Wyatt]
- Little Red Riding Hood Hit The Road (J. Bogaert, An Pierlé) [R. Wyatt]
- Caroline (D. Fellmann, J. Goetz)

Heli Plop est constitué d'extraits des 3 premiers albums de Soft Machine et de plusieurs albums de Robert Wyatt (Rock Bottom, Ruth Is Stranger Than Richard - et peut-être d'autres encore...).

- IN POLY SONS (IPS 0401) CD

Cet album est également présent dans la rubrique Reprises et With Friends.

Critiques/Reviews

[R. Wyatt-D. Sinclair]
- Blues In Bob Minor (read by Robert Wyatt) [R. Wyatt]
- The British Road (read by Robert Wyatt & Michel Benita) [R. Wyatt]
- Mass Medium (Ph. Fretun, M. Benita) [R. Wyatt]
- Alifib (Pascal Comelade) [R. Wyatt]
- Heli Plop (Alain de Filipis) [R. Wyatt-A. de Filipis]
- Toledo Texas (Jean-François Pauvros) [R. Wyatt-J.F. Pauvros]
- For R.W. (Ch. Cutler, T. Buck, J.M. Montera, J.F. Pauvros)[R. Wyatt-J.M. Montera]
- Alifib (Le Piano De La Rue De Vergennes) (Jean-Michel Marchetti) [R. Wyatt]
- Some Words Of Conclusion (Robert Wyatt) [Robert Wyatt]

> Zoom

Medulla
2004

Björk

- Pleasure Is All Mine
- Show Me Forgiveness
- Where Is The Line
- Vokuro
- Oll Birtan
- Who Is It
- Submarine
- Desired Constellation
- Oceania
- Sonnets / Unrealities Xi
- Ancestors
- Mouth's Cradle
- Midvikudags
- Triumph Of A Heart
- Komid (bonus réservé à l'édition japonaise)

- Robert Wyatt - vocals samplers on Oceania

- Björk - vocals on Oceania, programming on Oceania
- The London Choir - vocals on Oceania
- Shlomo - beats on Oceania
- Nico Muhly - piano on Oceania
- Mark Bell - programming on Oceania
- Valgeir Sigurdsson - programming on Oceania

- POLYDOR (9867589) CD

Cet album est également présent dans la rubrique With Friends.

> Zoom

L'Information
2004

Les Productions De L'Invisible

- Petits Guerriers.
- Ne Vous Flattez Pas…
- Uzi 1
- Les Vaches Qui Puent
- Ground Zéro
- Les Chaussons Rouges
- Parking
- Oussama's Blues
- Silence
- Scène De Chasse I
- Les Singes Rouges
- L'Information
- Strange/Krazy
- Uzi 2
- Chasseur
- Scène De Chasse II
- Les Artistes
- Soyons Heureux !
- Portrait De Florence En Vert Et Vermillon
- All Is Loneliness Pour Moi
- C'Est Plus Froid
- La Chansonnette Du Négatif
- Lawrence d'Arabie
- La Lumière Http//
- Dopper's Dream
- Pi's Blues
- Sa Bite à Lui
- Soumission
- La Sexualité, Marielle
- Il Est Trop Tôt Encore
- Habibi
- Ceux Qui Inventent…

Scène de chasse II contient un sample de Sight Of The Wind (Robert Wyatt - Dondestan (revisited).

La mélodie du premier morceau Petits guerriers est inspirée du même morceau Sight Of The Wind.

- TRACE LABEL (018) CD

> Zoom

If Ever I Am
2005

Brian Hopper

- Blowit
- The Pieman Cometh
- Two To Tutu Tooo
- Sometimes It Is
- Akamalaka
- Hope For Happiness
- Tarzapark Rarka
- For Freedom
- Modality
- If Ever I Am
- Blewit

- Robert Wyatt - vocal samples on For Freedom

- Brian Hopper - drum programming on For Freedom
- Gary Flight - processed keyboard on For Freedom

- VOICEPRINT (VP338CD) CD

Cet album est également présent dans la rubrique With Friends.

> Zoom

Outside Closer
2005

Hood

- Int
- The Negatives...
- Any Hopeful Thoughts Arrive
- End Of One Train Working
- Winter 72
- The Lost You
- Still Rain Fell
- L. Fading Hills
- Closure
- This Is It, Forever

The Lost You contient un sample de Gharbzadegi (Robert Wyatt - Old Rottenhat).

- DOMINO (WIGCD148) CD
- DOMINO (WIGLP148) LP

> Zoom

The Lost You
2005

Hood

- The Lost You
- You Can't Breathe Memories
- The Rest Of Us Still Care
- By Island Lake (excerpt)
- Over The Land Over The Sea

The Lost You - extrait de Outside Closer - contient un sample de Gharbzadegi (Robert Wyatt - Old Rottenhat).

- DOMINO (RUG187) EP
- DOMINO (RUG187CD) CD

> Zoom

Sound Sensation
2005

Biggabush

- Sign Of The Dub (The Kode9 & Space Ape)
- Dub an FX (Bigga Bush)
- Popcorn (Lightning Head)
- Ageisheka (the Ogyatanaa Show Band)
- Addis Ababa (Zafari)
- Roll Call (Pablo)
- Hairy Fruit (In Flagranti)
- Little More Oil (DJ /rupture)
- Knok Knok (Soundsystem Version) (Pressure Drop)
- O Canto Da Ema (Carlos Malta e Pife Muderno)
- Get Carter (Peak)
- Que Pasa / Me No Pop I (BiggaBush Re-edit) (Coati Mundi)
- Zuzuku's People (Lightning Head Version) (Up, Bustle & Out)
- Sister Let Him Go (Los Chicharrons Mix) (Junkyard Productions)

Caimanera est un remix de Arauco/Caimanera.

- STEREO DELUXE (SD136-2) CD

- Give It Again (Inverse Cinematics Remix) (Overtone 2)
- Midnight Marauders (Lightning Head Version) (Joe Dukie and DJ Fitchie)
- Caimanera (BiggaBush Re-edit) Remix - Lightning Head (Robert Wyatt)
- Take Me Back To Piaui (Dubben Mix) (Juca Chaves)

> Zoom 1 2

The Unfairground
2007

Kevin Ayers

- Only Heaven Knows
- Cold Shoulder
- Walk On Water
- Friends And Strangers
- Shine A Light
- Wide Awake
- Baby Come Home
- Brainstorm
- Unfairground
- Run Run Run

- Robert Wyatt - The Wyattron

- Kevin Ayers – vocals and guitar
- Gary Olson (Ladybug Transistor) - trumpet
- Jeff Baron (Ladybug Transistor) - guitar
- San Fadyl (Ladybug Transistor) - drums
- Bill Wells (Bill Wells Trio) - bass
- Joe McGinty (baby steps) - keyboards
- Julian Koster (Neutral Milk Hotel/Music Tapes) – singing saw
- Tucson Philharmonia string section

- LO-MAX RECORDS (LOMAX024CD) CD

> Zoom

Keep It Slow
2008

Low Motion Disco

- Intro
- Born On The Low Side
- Things Are Gonna Get Easier
- Talk Low When In Space
- Love Knows Low
- Frantic Low Moment
- Love Love Love
- The Low Murderer Is Out At Night
- Low Italian Déssert (Try It Out)
- East Mountain Low
- People Come In Slowly
- At Last I Am Low
- Keep It Low
-

Long sample de la version de Robert Wyatt At Las I'm Free.

- ESKIMO RECORDINGS (541416 501887) CD & LP

> Zoom

Filling Up The City Skies (Disc 1)
2008

Pretty Lights

- Change Is Gonna Come
- The Time Has Come
- My Other Love
- Cold Feeling
- Solamente
- Fill Your Eyes
- Something's Wrong
- Evening Sun
- Double Love
- Pop Quiz
- At Last I Am Free
- Make You Feel
- Summer's Gone
- Maybe Tomorrow

- PRETTY LIGHTS MUSIC Digital format

Alain De Filippis

- Burn Out
- Héli Plop (Robert Wyatt & Alain De

Heli Plop est constitué d'extraits des 3 premiers albums de Soft Machine et de

> Zoom

Musicien Improbable
2015

Filippis)
- Guggle Bum

plusieurs albums de Robert Wyatt (Rock Bottom, Ruth Is Stranger Than Richard - et peut-être d'autres encore...).

Cette version digitale reprend le titre d'un album paru en 2009 chez InPolySons, mais qui ne comporte pas le morceau écrit initialement pour la compilation M3W.

- INPOLYSONS
  Digital Format

> Zoom

Sheep (Hood By Air FW 15)
2015

Arca

- Matriarch
- Pity
- Drowning
- En
- Sifter
- Submissive
- Umbilical
- Hymn
- Don't / Else
- At Last I Am Free (Interlude)
- Immortal

All the parts of the mixtape is not separated, all the mixtape released as one single file.

Score for Hood By Air's show at Pitti Uomo 87 fashion event in Florence, Italy.

Interlude contains a sample of At Last I Am Free.

- NO LABEL - Digital Format

> Zoom

KiTsuNe
2015

Robert Wyatt & The Future Eve

- KiTsuNe 01.01 - First version (Feat. The Future Eve)
- KiTsuNe 02.03 - Instrumental Version (Feat. The Future Eve)
- KiTsuNe 03.01 - Short Version (Feat. The Future Eve)

- Robert Wyatt - vocal & keyboard

- The Future Eve - instruments & mix

Ces 3 morceaux samplent Brian The Fox, extrait de Cuckooland.
Un quatrième morceau 04.01-08 - Ring version sortira ultérieurement en 2015.

"Received a tape from Robert Wyatt in 1998. The title was "Brian The Fox" and four takes were recorded. We chose one take from it and started working on it. I first dubbed layers of sounds to it and Takaaki Han-ya took over the piece afterwards. The piece was dramatically changed and completed after a total of two years.

I became aware of more possibilities for the piece sometime after we finished the work. That was the beginning of this long journey. The second one was an instrumental version and the third one was a short vocal version. Then, I completed a suite with a story (eight takes) and the new version is still developing at the moment."

- T&R - Digital Format

> Zoom

Dreamland
2017

Jennifer Maidman

- Conspiracy of Dreamers
- Hinterland
- Outside
- Red Heart
- This Man is Dangerous
- The Letting Go
- O Caroline [D. Sinclair/R.Wyatt]
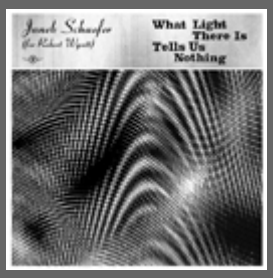
- Over My Head
- No Man's Land
- Bird Dreams
- Open The Door
- Land Of Dreams
- Here
- Home
- The Magic Voice
- Higher Than Life?
- Crow Dance (for Simon)



- Robert Wyatt - trumpet wails and vocal samples

- Jennifer Maidman - vocals, acoustic guitar, bass, ukulele, Wyattotron
- David Torn - electric guitar, loops
- Annie Whitehead - trombones
- Paul Brady - whistle

"This song originally appeared on the 1972 Matching Mole album. It was written by Robert Wyatt and Dave Sinclair. It's a haunting song of love and longing, which I've been singing for many years as part of Annie's Soupsongs project, a band which plays Robert's music, and which accompanied him for the live performances featured in the BBC documentary 'Free Will and Testament'. I originally heard the first line 'David's on piano' as 'Dave sits on piano' , and have sung it like that ever since. It's a reference to Dave Sinclair of course, keyboard player with Matching Mole. Although there's no piano on our version, David (Torn) was next to the piano as he played guitar on the track at Dreamland, albeit not quite actually sitting on it. The vocal, acoustic guitar and creaky stool were recorded live at Dreamland.I had a dreadful sore throat but when I listened to it back I liked the result. Matthew working his magic with the API desk and a Neumann U47. Annie, inspired by the Mellotron on the original, came up with a beautiful trombone arrangement. Paul Brady sent some wonderful whistle all the way from Dublin. I called Robert to tell him what we were up to and back home in Sawkill flew in some trumpet and vocal samples, using the 'Wyatttron'."

- NO LABEL - Digital Format

Cet album est également présent dans la rubrique Reprises.

> Zoom

What Light There Is
Tell Us Nothing
(For Robert Wyatt)
2018

Janek Schaefer

- What Light There Is Tell Us Nothing (For Robert Wyatt)
- Tree At The End Of The World
- Round In Circles
- Corah I
- Corah II
- Battlestar Kaempfert
- Corah III
- To Row Against The Tide

Track 1 is an original soundtrack to the installation "Clouds from Cuckooland". Commissioned by Artistic Director Matt Wright for the Sounds New Festival, Canterbury 2014.

Contains only material sampled from the album Cuckooland performed by Robert Wyatt, licensed courtesy of Domino Recording Company Ltd.
Film & doculmentation at the Janek Schaefer website.

- TRR (305) CD

Eric Lareine - Pascal Maupeu - Wyatt - Marchetti

- Signed Curtain
- Pigs...(in there)
- First Batch / Before We Knew / Un

- Eric Lareine - voix
- Pascal Maupeu - guitare, bandes (claviers et samples)

> Zoom

How Can I Rise If You Don't Fall?
2018

Roman Sportif
- The Age Of Self / The United States Of Amnesia
- Catholic Architecture
- Lullaloop
- Just As You Are

- Jean-Michel Marchetti - traductions

- Samples from Soft Machine in Pigs... (in there) and Lullaloop.

- Sample from Robert Wyatt in The Age Of Self.

Enregistrement live à Saint-Quentin la Tour des morceaux 3 et coda 7.

Ce disque n'est plus disponible et n'est plus référencé.

- MOPDAQUEENPROD (#2) CD

Cet album est également présent dans la rubrique Reprises.

> Zoom 1 2

KiTsuNe / Brian The Fox
2019

The Future Eve featuring Robert Wyatt

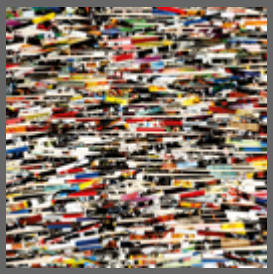
Disc 1
- 01.01
- 02.01
- 02.02
- 02.03
- 03.01

Disc 2
RING VERSION
- 04.01
- 04.02
- 04.03
- 04.04
- 04.05
- 04.06
- 04.07
- 04.08

- Robert Wyatt - vocal and keyboard

- The Future Eve | Takaaki Han-ya & Th - instruments

Disc 1 (1998-2002)
- Rinko - Voice
- Th - violin, guitar
- Takaaki Han-ya - instruments, mix



Disc 2 (2006)
- Th - voice, chours, instruments, mix

The track 02.02 is only available in vinyl.

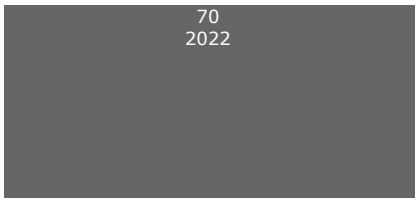
Summer 2013
Towards the end of the 20th century, Th sent me a message asking something like;
"do you have any piece of new material we could work on"-----?
I did have. Brian the Fox was an un-placed, un-worked basic idea I had. unusual for me in that it had no strict tempo, and the words were an attempt to write a text even shorter than a Haiku!
(I just recorded it directly onto tape at home, on cassette, no 'production'.)
the music ending was improvised – the delay before the final chords was me trying to choose the final few chords…
I sent this to Th and Rinko.
they have enhanced the idea beautifully.
Robert Wyatt

- FLAU RECORDS (FLAU61) 2xCD & 2x LP

Critiques/Reviews

> Zoom



RG Rough

- 70 71 72 73 74
- 75 76 77 78 79

A musical jigsaw made out of sounds from the 70s, ripped to shreds, reshaped, reassembled and coerced into fitting.

Limited edition of 300 copies.

A short extract from Sonia (Ruth Is Stranger Than Richard) is used on the second side of the disc.

- BAM BALAM RECORDS (BBLP089) LP
- BAM BALAM RECORDS (BBCD089) CD Promo

> Zoom

1981

Arauco

- Arauco [V. Parra]
- Caimanera [Trad.]
- At Last I Am Free [Edwards/Rodgers]
- Strange Fruit [Lewis]

- ROUGH TRADE GERMANY (6005 139) EP

> Zoom

1981

Compilation (Italy)

- Caimanera [Trad.]
- Arauco [V. Parra]
- Stalin Wasn't Stallin' [B. Johnson]
- Grass [I. Cutler]
- Strange Fruit [Lewis]
- At Last I Am Free [Edwards/Rodgers]
- Trade Union [A. Salique]
- Stalingrad [P. Blackman]

- BASE RECORD (RT 0007) LP

↑

> Zoom

1984

1982-1984

- Shipbuilding [E. Costello]
- Round Midnight [T. Monk]
- Memories Of You [E. Blake]
- Amber And Amberines [R. Wyatt]
- Biko [P. Gabriel]
- Te Recuerdo Amanda [V. Jara]
- Yolanda [P. Milanes]

- ROUGH TRADE (RTSP25) LP

↑

> Zoom

Late '70's - Early '80's

- Red Flag [Trad.]
- Strange Fruit [Lewis]
- Arauco [V. Parra]
- Born Again Cretin
- At Last I Am Free [Edwards/Rogers]
- Caimanera [Trad.]
- Grass [I. Cutler]
- Stalin Wasn't Stallin' [B. Johnson]
- Shipbuilding [E. Costello]
- Yolanda [P. Milanes]
- Te Recuerdo Amanda [V. Jara]

- JAPAN RECORD (32JC-109) LP

1985

- Biko [P. Gabriel]
- Amber And Amberines [R. Wyatt]
- Memories Of You [E. Blake]
- Round Midnight [T. Monk]

> Zoom 1 2 3

1986

Late '70's-Early '80's + Old Rottenhat

Disc 1 -
LATE '70's-EARLY '80's
- Red Flag
- Strange Fruit
- Arauco
- Born Again Cretin
- At Last I Am Free
- Caimanera
- Grass
- Stalin Wasn't Stallin'
- Shipbuilding
- Yolanda
- Te Recuerdo Amanda
- Biko
- Amber And Amberines
- Memories Of You
- Round Midnight

Disc 2
OLD ROTTENHAT
- Alliance
- United States Of Amnesia
- East Timor
- Speechless
- Age Of Self
- Vandalusia
- British Road
- Mass Medium
- Gharbzadegi
- P.L.A.

Japan Double Pack CD.

-JAPAN RECORD (TOKUMA JAPAN COMMUNICATIONS) 2xCD

Cet album est également présent dans la rubrique Solo.

> Zoom

1990

Compilation

- Shipbuilding [E. Costello]
- Stalin Wasn't Stallin' [(B. Johnson]
- Born Again Cretin [R. Wyatt]
- At Last I Am Free [Edwards/Rogers]
- Caimanera [Trad.]
- Grass [I. Cutler]
- Memories Of You [E. Blake]
- Red Flag [Trad.]
- Strange Fruit [Lewis]
- Arauco [V. Parra]
- 'Round Midnight [T. Monk]
- Alliance [R. Wyatt]
- The United States Of Amnesia [R. Wyatt]
- East Timor [R. Wyatt]
- Speechless [R. Wyatt]
- The Age Of Self [R. Wyatt]
- Vandalusia [R. Wyatt]
- Mass Medium [R. Wyatt]
- P.L.A. [R. Wyatt]

- GRAMAVISION (R2-79459) CD

> Zoom

Mid-Eighties

- Yolanda [P. Milanes]
- Te Recuerdo Amanda [V. Jara]
- Biko [P. Gabriel]
- Amber And The Amberines [R. Wyatt]
- Memories Of You [E. Blake]
- 'Round Midnight [T. Monk]
- Pigs... (In There) [R. Wyatt]
- Chairman Mao [C. Haden/R. Wyatt]
- Alliance [R. Wyatt]
- The United States Of Amnesia [R. Wyatt]
- East Timor [R. Wyatt]
- Speechless [R. Wyatt]

- ROUGH TRADE (31093) CD
- GRAMAVISION (R2-79488) CD

Lyrics

Critiques/Reviews

1993

- The Age Of Self [R. Wyatt]
- Vandalusia [R. Wyatt]
- The British Road [R. Wyatt]
- Mass Medium [R. Wyatt]
- Gharbzadezi [R. Wyatt]
- P.L.A. [R. Wyatt]
- You're Wonderin' Now (This Is The End) [R. Wyatt]

> Zoom

> Zoom

1994

Flotsam Jetsam

- Slow Walkin' Talk [B. Hopper]
- Moon In June [R. Wyatt]
- Standfast [G. Windo]
- No 'Alf Measures [K; Ayer/arr R. Wyatt]
- God Song - Fol De Rol [P. Miller/ R. Wyatt - R. Sinclair/R. Wyatt]
- Soprano Derivitavo - Apricot Jam [L. Coxhill/K. Ayers]
- A Little Something [P. Blegvad]
- Now Is The Time [P. Windo/P. & G. Windo]
- Now't Doin [L.S. Baker]
- Born Again Cretin [R. Wyatt]
- Billie's Bounce [C. Parker]
- Locomotive [T. Monk/P. Brown]
- War Without Blood [R. Wyatt]
- Obert Tancat 1 [R. Wyatt]
- Tu Traicion [P. Burruezo]
- Obert Tancat 2 [R. Wyatt]
- Turn Things Upside Down [J.B. Glasier/Mat Fox]
- The Wind Of Change [Jackson/ M. Kaujeua]

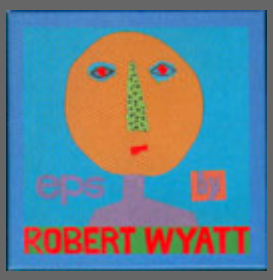
- ROUGH TRADE (8399142) CD

Lyrics

Critiques/Reviews

> Zoom

1994



Going Back A Bit: A Little History Of Robert Wyatt

Disc 1
- Moon In June [R. Wyatt]
- To Caravan And Brother Jim [R. Wyatt]
- O Caroline [R. Sinclair/R. Wyatt]
- Gloria Gloom [B. MacCormick/ R. Wyatt]
- God Song [P. Miller/R. Wyatt]
- Calyx [R. Wyatt/P. Miller]
- Alifib [R. Wyatt]
- Alifie [R. Wyatt]
- Last Straw [R. Wyatt]
- Sea Song [R. Wyatt]
- Soup Song [B. Hopper/R. Wyatt]

Disc 2
- I'm A Believer [N. Diamond]
- Memories [H. Hopper]
- Yesterday Man [C. Andrews]
- Sonia [M. Feza]
- Little Red Robin Hood Hit The Road [R. Wyatt]
- Five Black Notes And One White Note [Offenbach/R. Wyatt]
- Team Spirit [R. Wyatt/P. Manzanera/ B. MacCormick]
- Song For Che [C. Haden]
- The Dubtful Guest [E. Gorey/ M. Mantler]
- The Object Lesson [E. Gorey/ M. Mantler]
- Arauco [V. Parra]
- A L'abattoir [P. Soupault/M. Mantler]
- I'm A Mineralist [C. Bley]
- Rangers In The Night [R. Wyatt]
- All She Wanted [M. Hunt]
- Left On Man [R. Wyatt]
- Lisp Service [R. Wyatt]
- The Internationale [E. Pottier/P.C. Degeyter]

- VIRGIN (CDVDM 90 31) 2xCD

Critiques/Reviews

> Zoom

1999

> Zoom

Disc 1

> Zoom

Disc 2

> Zoom

Disc 3

EP's

Disc 1
- I'm A Believer [Extended Version] [C. Andrews]
- Memories [H. Hopper]
- Yesterday Man [C. Andrews]
- Sonia [Alternate Version] [M. Feza]
- Calyx [Live] [P. Miller/R. Wyatt]

Disc 2
- Shipbuilding [Remastered] [C. Langer/E. Costello]
- Memories Of You [E. Blake/ A. Razafinkeriefo]
- 'Round Midnight [T. Monk/Williams/Hanighen]
- Pigs... (In There) [R. Wyatt]
- Chairman Mao [C. Haden]

Disc 3
- Yolanda [P. Milanes/Arias]
- Te Recuerdo Amanda [V. Jara-Martinez]
- Biko [P. Gabriel]
- Amber And the Amberines [R. Wyatt/ H. Hopper]

Disc 4
- Animals' Film [R. Wyatt]

Disc 5
- Was A Friend [Remix] R. Wyatt/ H. Hopper]
- Maryan [Remix] R. Wyatt/ P. Catherine]
- Sunday In Madrid [Remix] A. Benge/ R. Wyatt]
- Free Will And Testament [Remix] R. Wyatt/Kramer]

Disc 2 : this disc is enhanced with the original Shipbuilding promo video.

Disc 4 / Animal's Film : alors que la version d'origine parue en 1982 a une durée de 28 minutes 11 secondes, cette version rénovée ne dure que 19 minutes 40 secondes.

- HANNIBAL (HNCD 1440) 5xCD
- DOMINO RECORDS (REWIGCD46) 5xCD

Critiques/Reviews

> Zoom

Disc 4

> Zoom

Disc 5

> Zoom

1999

Boxerpts

- I'm A Believer [C. Andrews]
- Shipbuilding [C. Langer/E. Costello]
- Yolanda [P. Milanes/Arias]
- Maryan [R. Wyatt/P. Catherine]

Promo Version.

Les 4 titres proviennent de EP's sauf I'm A Believer qui est la version originale du single (celle de EP's est une extended version).

- HANNIBAL (VHNCD 1440) CD

> Zoom 1 2 3 4

2002

Japan Promo Boxes - 6 Mini-LP Cds

- ROCK BOTTOM (1974)
- RUTH IS STRANGER THAN RICHARD (1975)
- NOTHING CAN STOP US (1982)
- OLD ROTTENHAT (1986)
- DONDESTAN (1991)
- SHLEEP + September In The Rain (Bonus track) (1997)

Japan Promo box - 6 mini-LP Cds.
2 different boxes: Rock Bottom Box & Ruth Is Stranger Than Richard Box.
Limited Edition.

- VIDEOARTS (VACK1225)
- VIDEOARTS (VACK1226)
- VIDEOARTS (VACK1227)
- VIDEOARTS (VACK1228)
- VIDEOARTS (VACK1229)
- VIDEOARTS (VACK1230)
  6xCD

His Greatest Misses

- P.L.A. [R. Wyatt]
- Worship [R. Wyatt/A. Benge]
- Heaps Of Sheeps [R. Wyatt/ A. Benge/arr B. Eno]
- Free Will And Testament [R. Wyatt/ Kramer]

Compilation supported by Strange Days (Japanese music magazine).

Reedition vinyl en 2020 sur Domino Records (Limited edition coloured double

> Zoom 1 2 3

2004

2020

- I'm A Believer [C. Andrews]
- Sea Song [R. Wyatt]
- Little Red Robin Hit The Road [R. Wyatt]
- Solar Flares [R. Wyatt]
- At Last I Am Free [Edwards/Rodgers]
- Arauco [V. Parra]
- The Age Of Self [R. Wyatt]
- Alien [A. Benge/R. Wyatt]
- Shipbuilding [C. Langer/E. Costello]
- Memories Of You [E. Blake/ A. Razafinkeriefo]
- Muddy Mouse [F. Frith/R. Wyatt]
- Mister E [K. Mantler]
- Foreign Accents [R. Wyatt]

vinyl).

- HANNIBAL RECORDS (VACK1282) CD
- DOMINO RECORDS (REWIGCD73) CD (REWIGLP73X) 2xLP

Critiques/Reviews

> Zoom

> Zoom 1 2 3

2009

Box Set

- ROCK BOTTOM (1974)
- RUTH IS STRANGER THAN RICHARD (1975)
- NOTHING CAN STOP US (1982)
- OLD ROTTENHAT (1986)
- DONDESTAN (REVISITED) (1998)
- SHLEEP (1997)
- EPS (1999)
- CUCKOOLAND (2003)
- THEATRE ROYAL DRURY LANE (2005)
- COMICOPERA (2007)

Robert Wyatt Box Set contains all 9 studio albums plus the eps set.

- DOMINO RECORDS (DOMRW1CDX) 14xCD

Different Every Time

Disc 1
EX MACHINA
- Moon In June (Soft Machine)
- Signed Curtain (Matching Mole)
- God Song (Matching Mole)
- A Last Straw
- Yesterday Man
- Team Spirit
- At Last I Am Free
- The Age Of Self
- Worship
- Free Will And Testament
- Cuckoo Madame
- Beware
- Just As You Are

Disc 2
BENIGN DICTATORSHIPS
- The River (Jeanette Lindstrom)

Cette double compilation réalisée par Marcus O'Dair - auteur de la biographie de Robert Wyatt Different Every Time - est constituée de Ex Machina (morceaux extraits de l'oeuvre solo de R. Wyatt) et de Benign Dictatorships qui regroupe des raretés, inédits et collaborations enregistrées avec d'autres musiciens et compositeurs. .

- DOMINO RECORDS (WIGCD347) 2xCD (WIGLP347-1) LP (Ex Machina) (WIGLP347-2) LP (Benign Dictatorships)

> Zoom 1 2 3

2014

- The Diver (Anja Garbarek)
- We're Looking for a Lot of Love (Hot Chip)
- Jellybabies (Epic Soundtracks)
- Shipbuilding (Robert Wyatt)
- Richardson Road (Grasscut)
- Turn Things Upside Down (Happy End)
- Still in the Dark (Monica Vasconcelos)
- Venceremos (We Will Win) - (Jazz Dance Special 12" Version) - (Working Week)
- Frontera (Phil Manzanera)
- La Plus Belle Langue (Steve Nieve/ Robert Wyatt/Muriel Teodori)
- Goccia (Cristina Dona)
- Slam (Nick Mason)
- A L'Abbattoir (Michael Mantler)
- Sinking Spell (Michael Mantler)
- Submarine (Bjork)
- Experiences No. 2 (John Cage)

Benign Dictatorships est également présent dans la rubrique With Friends

> Zoom

The Command Revolution
1969

The Spirited Sounds

- Topless Dancers Of Corfu (Dick Hyman)
- Beautician Blues (The Mystic Number National Bank)
- Both Sides Now (Ray Charles Singers)
- Theme From The Killing Of Sister George (Richard Hayman & His Orchestra)
- Knowing When To Leave (Doc Severinsen)
- Excerpt from Fourth Movement of Shostakovich Symphony No 1 (William Steinberg / Pittsburgh Symphony Orchestra)
- Sound Of Music (William Steinberg / Pittsburgh Symphony Orchestra)
- A Certain Kind (Soft Machine)
- Wichita Lineman (Glenn Miller Orchestra)
- Bamba (Digno Garcia)
- First Movement, Brucker Symphony No. 7 (William Steinberg / Pittsburgh Symphony Orchestra)

A Certain Kind est extrait de Soft Machine - Volume One.

- COMMAND-PROBE (COM 20 SD) LP

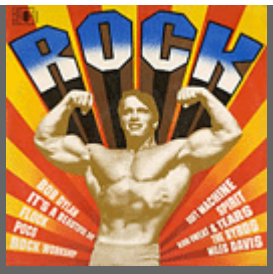
> Zoom

Revolution
1969

The Spirited Sounds Of 1969

- Topless Dancers Of Corfu (Dick Hyman)
- Beautician Blues (The Mystic Number National Bank)
- Both Sides Now (Ray Charles Singers)
- Theme From The Killing Of Sister George (Richard Hayman & His Orchestra)
- Knowing When To Leave (Doc Severinsen)
- Excerpt from Fourth Movement of Shostakovich Symphony No 1 (William Steinberg / Pittsburgh Symphony Orchestra)
- Sound Of Music (William Steinberg / Pittsburgh Symphony Orchestra)
- A Certain Kind (Soft Machine)
- Wichita Lineman (Glenn Miller Orchestra)
- Bamba (Digno Garcia)
- First Movement, Brucker Symphony No. 7 (William Steinberg / Pittsburgh Symphony Orchestra)

A Certain Kind est extrait de Soft Machine - Volume One.



Belgian edition of The Command Revolution.

- COMMAND-PROBE (RS 16 802) LP

Rock Buster

Disc 1
- Don And Dewey (It's A Beautiful Day)
- Somethin' Comin' On (Blood Sweat & Tears)
- Excerpt from Out Bloody Rageous

Out Bloody Rageous est extrait de Third.
To Mark Everywhere est extrait de The End Of An Ear.

> Zoom

Rock Buster

> Zoom

Superb Super
Pop Session N°3
1970

(Soft Machine)
- Miles Runs The Voodoo Down (Miles Davis)
- Uranian Sircus (Flock)
- Black Magic Woman (Santana)
- You Better Think Twice (Poco)
- Time Machine (Mick Softley)
- All Things (Byrds)
- The Days of '49 (Bob Dylan)
- Polly On The Shore (Trees)
- In The Mud (Gary Farr)

Disc 2
- Where Are We Going Wrong? (Argent)
- Primrose Hill (Rock Workshop)
- Mr. Skin (Spirit)
- Mary Clarke (Black Widow)
- Queen Of Bad Intentions (Skin Alley)
- To Mark Everywhere (Robert Wyatt)
- Crazy Cajun Cakewalk Band (Redbone)
- Guess I'll Go Away (Johnny Winter)
- Bootie Cooler (Shuggie Otis
- Don't Wait Too Long (New York Rock & Roll Ensemble)
- An Awful Lot Of Woman (Skid Row)
- Staggolee (Pacific Gas & Electric)
- Tobacco Road (Edgar Winter)
- Country Road (Al Kooper)

Cet album a été réédité sous l'appellation Superb Super Pop Session N°3.

- CBS RECORDS (SPR 48/49)
  2xLP

> Zoom

Different Strokes
1971

Different Strokes

- Blackpatch (Laura Nyro)
- Rock And Roll, Hoochie Koo (Johnny Winter)
- Going To The Mill (The Chambers Brothers)
- A Man Like Me (Poco)
- Mr. Natural (Big Brother And The Holding Company)
- Saturday Miles (Miles Davis)
- Merrimac County (Tom Rush)
- Soapstone Mountain (It's A Beautiful Day)
- Fields Of Joy (The New York Rock Ensemble)
- Big Bird (The Flock)
- Don't Fight It (Feel It) (Elvin Bishop)
- New York (Dreams)
- Found A Child (Ballin' Jack)
- Morning Will Come (Spirit)
- Too Young To Be Married (The Hollies)
- Nothing At All (Bill Puka)
- Out Bloody Rageous (Soft Machine)
- All This Paradise (Fraser & Debolt)
- Maggie (Redbone)

Out Bloody Rageous est extrait de Third.

- COLUMBIA (AS 12) LP

> Zoom

Together
1971

Together (16 Great Tracks From 16 Great CBS Albums)

- Rock And Roll, Hoochie Koo (Johnny Winter)
- Found A Child (Ballin' Jack)
- Move Over (Janis Joplin)
- Se A Cabo (Santana)
- Cast Your Spell Uranus (Argent)
- Mr. Natural (Big Brother And The Holding Company)
- New York City (Dreams)
- Teeth (Soft Machine)
- A Man Like Me (Poco)
- Merrimac County (Tom Rush)
- Lover Of The Bayou (The Byrds)
- Waterfall (Mick Softley)
- Fool (Trees)
- Morning Will Come (Spirit)
- Beads Of Sweat (Laura Nyro)

Teeth est extrait de Fourth.

- CBS (SPR 52) LP

- Going To The Mill (The Chambers Brothers)

> Zoom

PlayBack Promo Version
1972

Matching Mole/Mott The Hoople

- One Of The Boys
- All The Young Dudes
- O Caroline
- Signed Curtain

O Caroline et Signed Curtain sont extraits de Matching Mole.

Promo Version.

- PLAYBACK (AS-39USA) EP

> Zoom

Popmusik Im Unterricht Nr. 2/3
1972

Popmusik Im Unterricht Nr. 2/3

Disc 1
- Bridget The Midget (Ray Stevens)
- Suffer To Sing The Blues (David Bromberg)
- Summertime (Janis Joplin)
- I Washed My Hands In Muddy Waters (Stonewall Jackson)
- And When I Die (Blood, Sweat And Tears)
- Cry Baby (Janis Joplin)
- I Can't Turn You Loose (The Chambers Brothers)
- Johnny B. Goode (Johnny Winter)
- Me And Bobby Mcgee (Janis Joplin)
- Black Magic Woman (Santana)
- Bridge Over Troubled Water (Simon & Garfunkel)
- Bridge Over Troubled Water (Ray Conniff)
- Eleanor Rigby (Percy Faith)
- Hey Jude (Don Ellis)

Disc 2
- Tired Of Waiting (The Flock)
- Virtually Part 4 (Soft Machine)
- Fire And Rain (Andy Williams)
- Fire And Rain (Blood, Sweat And Tears)
- The Preacher Said (Johnny Cash)
- God Bless The Child (Blood, Sweat And Tears)
- The Partisan (Leonard Cohen)
- Singin' In Viet Nam (Johnny Cash)
- 'Indian Reservation (The Raiders)
- Save The Country (Laura Nyro)
- Strange In The World (Niemen)
- It Better End Soon (Chicago)
- Where Do We Go From Here (Chicago)

Virtually Part 4 est extrait de Fourth.

- CBS (LSP 601)
- BREITKOPF & HARTEL (LSP 601) 2xLP

> Zoom

British Sounds

- All The Young Dudes (Mott The Hoople)
- Hold Your Head Up (Argent)
- Going Down (Jeff Beck Group)
- Drop (Soft Machine)
- O Caroline (Matching Mole)
- Night Of The 4th Of May (Al Stewart)
- From The Land Of The Crab (Mick Softley)
- Earth Mother (Lesley Duncan)
- Market Place (Alun Davies)
- Misty Roses (Colin Blunstone)

O Caroline est extrait de Matching Mole.

Promo Version.

- CBS/EPIC (ECPF-2) LP

British Sounds
1972

> Zoom

Musica Alternativa Europea - Inghilterra
1972

Musica Alternativa Europea - Inghilterra

- Creep, Creation, Gipsy Escape (Arthur Brown's Kingdom Come)
- Terrapin (Syd Barrett)
- Starting In The Middle... (Matching Mole)
- Being It As You Really Me (Hawkwind)
- Mystic Sister-Magic Brother (Gong)
- Las Vegas Tango (Robert Wyatt)
- Love Your Neighbor (Global Village Trucking Co.)
- Death Of Electric Citizen (The Edgar Broughton Band)
- Nirvana For Mice (Henry Cow)

Starting In The Middle.. est extrait de Little Red Record.

Las Vegas Tango est extrait de The End Of An Ear.

- NO LABEL - Cassette

↑

> Zoom

The progressives
1973

The Progressives

Disc 1
- You Know You Know (The Mahavishnu Orchestra)
- Country Lane (Walter Carlos)
- Living Time - Event V (Bill Evans)
- Unknown Soldier (Weather Report)
- Pigling Bland (Soft Machine)
- Jump Monk (Charles Mingus)

Disc 2
- Put It Where You Want It (Don Ellis)
- Icarus (Paul Winter/Winter Consort)
- Haida (Paul Horn)
- Knots (Gentle Giant)
- The Men Who Live In The White House / Love Life (Ornette Coleman)
- Compost Festival (Compost)
- Sundance (Keith Jarrett)
- Marchides (Matching Mole)

Marchides est extrait de Little Red Record.

- COLUMBIA (KG 31574) 2xLP

↑

> Zoom

BBC TV's Best Of ...
Top Of The Pops - Vol.1
1974

BBC TV's Best Of ... Top Of The Pops - Vol.1

- Kung Fu Fighting (Carl Douglas)
- I Shot The Sheriff (Eric Clapton)
- The Night Chicago Died (Paper Lace)
- Hello, Hello, I'm Back Again (Gary Glitter)
- Remember (Bay City Rollers)
- Laughter In The Rain (Neil Sedaka)
- Tonight (Rubettes)
- Sad Sweet Dreamer (Sweet Sensation)
- Hey Rock And Roll (Showaddywaddy)
- I'm A Believer (Robert Wyatt)
- My Coo-ca-choo (Alvin Stardust)
- Dancing On A Saturday Night (Barry Blue)
- Slip And Slide (Medicine Head)
- If Tou Go Away (Terry Jacks)

I'm A Believer est extrait du single I'm A Believer/Memories.

- SUPER BEEB RECORDS (BELP 001) LP

↑

3 Virgins

> Zoom

3 Virgins
1974

- You Never Blow Yr Trip Forever (Gong)
- The Isle Of Everywhere (Gong)
- Little Red Robin Hood Hit The Road (Robert Wyatt)
- Sea Song (Robert Wyatt)
- Star's End (David Bedford)

Little Red Robin Hood Hit The Road et Sea Song sont extraits de Rock Bottom.

Promo Version.

- VIRGIN (PR-225) EP

Rare Tracks (UK Version)
1975

> Zoom

Rare Tracks
(Australian Version)
1975

Rare Tracks

- Love Makes Sweet Music (Soft Machine)
- Anyone For Tennis (Cream)
- To Fly Away (Kevin Godley)
- If I Had A Ribbon Bow (Fairport Convention)
- You Turned My Bitter Into Sweet (Linda Lewis)
- Sunshine Day (Jethro Tull)
- Mister Pleasant (Nicki Hopkins & The Whistling Piano)
- Zoot Suit (The High Numbers)
- I'm Gettin' Tired (Jack Bruce)
- Rootin' Tootin' (Jack Bruce)
- Just A Little Bit (Stu Brown And Bluesology)
- Aeroplane (Jethro Tull)
- Desdemona (John's Children)
- Take My Advice (Sly and The Family Stone)
- Dolly Dagger (Jimi Hendrix)
- Ain't That Just Too Bad (Alex Harvey and his Soul Band)
- Feelin' Reelin' Squeelin' (Soft Machine)

Love Makes Sweet Music et Feelin' Reelin' Squeelin' sont extraits du single Love Makes Sweet Music.

- POLYDOR (2482 274) LP
- POLYDOR (2475 711) LP

> Zoom 1 2

Virgin Sound
1975

Virgin Sound

- Tubular Bells (Mike Oldfield)
- I'm A Believer (Robert Wyatt)
- Movement Of A Visionary (Tangerine Dream)
- Isle Of Everywhere (Gong)
- Teenbeat Reprise (Henry Cow)
- Lauft... Heisst Das Es Lauft Oder Es Kommt Band... Lauft (Faust)
- Going Up To People And Thinking (Hatfield & The North)
- Touch Down (Comus)
- Aqua time (Edgar Froese)
- Hergest Ridge (Mike Oldfield)
- Orchestral Tubular Bells (Mike Oldfield)

I'm A Believer est extrait de Yesterday Man/I'm A Believer.

Promo Sample.

- VIRGIN/NIPPON COLUMBIA (Y 96) LP

La Storia Del Rock - Rock Jazz E West Coast - Vol. 5

- Your Mama Don't Dance (Loggins & Messina)
- High And Dry (Poco)

- CBS (SPR 105) LP

> Zoom

La Storia Del Rock - Rock Jazz
E West Coast - Vol. 5
1975

- Hold Man Noll (New Riders Of The Purple Sage)
- Peace On You (Roger McGuinn)
- Sylvia's Mother (Dr. Hook & The Medicine Show)
- Spinning Wheel (Blood, Sweat & Tears*–
- Moon In June (Soft Machine)
- Tombo In 7/4 (Airto)

> Zoom

Viaje Com A Excelsior
A Máquina Do Som - Volume 3
1975

Viaje Com A Excelsior - A Máquina Do Som - Volume 3

- Lucy In The Sky With Diamonds (Elton John)
- Tu Vas Devenir Musicien (Pierre Groscolas)
- Happy People (The Temptations)
- It's Alright (The Peanut Butter Conspiracy)
- Looking For Love (Moon Williams)
- I'm A Believer (Robert Wyatt)
- Save Me (Silver Convention)–
- Derrière Les Barreaux (Frédéric François)
- Bella Senz' Anima (La Nuova Messaggeria)
- California Rain (The Armstrong Brothers)
- I'm Prisioner (Paul Jones)
- Chico And The Man (Sammy Davis Jr.)

I'm A Believer est extrait de Yesterday Man/I'm A Believer.

- SOM LIVRE (404.7059) LP

> Zoom 1 2

V
1975

Compilation Virgin

- Yesterday Man (Robert Wyatt)
- Don Alfonso (Mike Oldfield and Kevin Ayers)
- Go And Sit Upon The Grass (Ivor Cutler)
- Overture (Edgar Froese, Chris Franke, Peter Baumann)
- Marjory Razorblade (Kevin Coyne)
- Looking For The River (Kevin Coyne)
- Mirror Man (live) (Captain Beefheart)
- Upon The My-O-My (Captain Beefheart)
- Extract From The Messiah (Slapp Happy)
- A Worm Is At Work (Henry Cow)
- Sad Sing (Tom Newman and Mike Oldfield)
- Super Man (Tom Newman)
- Charles Semba (Chili)
- Baile / They Are Gone (Jabula)
- Extract From Part 1 (Clearlight Symphony)
- Your Majesty Is Like A Cream Donut (Hatfield And The North)
- White Noise II / Extract (White Noise II)
- Pentagramaspinn (Steve Hillage)

Yesterday Man est extrait du single Yesterday Man/I'm A Believer.

L'édition espagnole de cette compilation s'intitule Las Cosas Del Virgin Sound.

- VIRGIN FR (940 801/2) 2xLP
- VIRGIN GER (88588XBT) 2xLP
- VIRGIN IT (2502) 2xLP
- VIRGIN UK (TVCD 2502) 2xLP
- VIRGIN SP (88588 XH) 2xLP

Virgin Compilation

- Keep On (Camelo Pardalis)
- Hey God (Camelo Pardalis)
- Sea Song (Robert Wyatt)
- Little Red Robin Hood Hits The Road (Robert Wyatt)
- War (Henry Cow/Slapp Happy)
- Living In The Heart Of The Beast (Henry Cow/Slapp Happy)

Japanese Promo Edition.

Sea Song et Little Red Robin Hood Hit The Road sont extraits de Rock Bottom.

- VIRGIN JAP (LWG-1184~5) 2xLP

> Zoom 1 2

Virgin Original Series
1979

- Movement II (White Noise)
- Ergotrip (Clearlight)
- Narcisse Et Goldmund (Clearlight)
- International Disaster (Wigwam)
- Lucky Golden Stripes And Starpose (Wigwam)
- Good Morning (Daevid Allen)
- Wise Man In Your Heart (Daevid Allen)
- Penelope's Shroud (i) (David Bedford)
- King Aeolus (David Bedford)
- Hands Straighten The Water (Pekka Pohjola)
- The Consequences Of Head Bending (Pekka Pohjola)
- Only Reflect (Fred Frith)

↑

> Zoom

Rough Trade New Release Compilation
No. 2
1980

Rough Trade Compilation

- Heart & Soul (Joy Division)
- Health & Efficiency (This Heat)
- Nothing (The Prats)
- TV set (The Prats)
- Strange Fruit (Robert Wyatt)
- Jazz Is The Teacher, Funk Is The Preacher (James Blood Ulmer)
- Stay Out Of It (Cabaret Voltaire)
- Interview (Joe & Jowe)
- Rich Man (Barry Brown)
- Joke (Joe & Jowe)
- Good Consumers (The Gist)
- World Is Africa (Black Uhuru)
- Medley & Comment (NON)
- Big Maz... (Swell Maps)
- Big Empty Field (Swell Maps)
- Mining Villages (Swell Maps)
- Atmosphere (Joy Division)
- Born In Flames (The Red Crayola)
- Stomp (Well Maps)
- Forest Fire (Well Maps)
- Isolation (Joy Division)
- City Hobgoblins (The Fall)
- Martian Man (Essential Logic)
- Big City, Bright Lights (Missing Scientists)
- Horses (Pere Ubu)
- Stalin Wasn't Stallin' (Robert Wyatt)
- Deha (Glaxo Babies)
- Politics (Girls At Our Best)
- Instrumental (Joy Division)

Promo version - C90.

Strange Fruit est extrait de At Last I'm Free/Strange Fruit
Stalin Wasn't Stallin' est extrait de Stalin Wasn't Stalling/ Stalingrad.

All tracks recorded prior to release on disc from cassette, acetate, test pressings etc.

- ROUGH TRADE RECORDS - Cassette

↑

> Zoom

Miniatures
1980

Morgan Fisher

- Bum Love (Ollie Halsall & John Halsey)
- We're A Happy Family + Bali Ha'ithe (Residents)
- The Wreck Of The Hesperus (Roger Mcgough)
- Green And Pleasant (Morgan Fisher)
- Mine Tonight (John Otway)
- My Way (Pete Challis & Phil Diplock)
- Rangers In The Nights (Robert Wyatt)
- Opus (Stinky Winkles)
- Body Language (Mary Longford)
- Andy The Dentist (Andy 'Thunderclap' Newman)
- Wagner's Ring In One Minute (David Bedford)
- The Entire Works Of Henry Cow (Fred Frith)
- Look Beneath The Surface (Maggie Nicols)
- Week-End (Joseph Racaille)
- With Wings Pressed Back (The Work)
- Cum On Feel The Noize (Neil Innes & Son)
- Toscany In Blue (Last Minute)

- Robert Wyatt - vocals

- Morgan Fisher - tape manipulation

Rangers In The Nights a été initialement composé pour cet album.

- CHERRY RED RECORDS (PIPE 2) 2xP (CDBRED361)

Réédition CD en 1994:
- BLUEPRINT (BP159CD) CD

Miniatures
1994

(Herbert Distel)
- An End To The Matter (Lol Coxhill)
- One Minute In The Life Of Ivan Denisovich (Ken Ellis)
- Alice (Steve Miller)
- Sings The Blues Badly (Norman Lovett/John Peel)
- Serrons Nous Les Coudes (Patrick Portella)
- Sounds That Saved My Life (George Melly)
- Miniature (Robert Fripp)
- The History Of Rock'n'roll (Andy Partridge-XTC)
- Breather (Phantom Captain)
- Enterbrain Exit (Ron Geesin)
- An Imaginary Orchestrina (Alejandro Viñao)
- Stop The Music For A Minute (Quentin Crisp)
- Tetrad (Simon Desorgher)
- Sweetest Love (Lament After A Broken Sashcord - On A Theme Of John Donne) (Ralph Steadman)
- Tipperary (R.D.Laing & Son)
- Beach Double (Trevor Wishart)
- Scene De Ballet (John White)
- Brooch Boat (Ivor Cutler)
- Do Tell Us (Hector Zazou)
- A Miniaturization Of Bartok's Sonata For Two Pianos & Percussion - 3rd Movement (Michael Bass & Ellen Tenenbaum)
- A Swift One (Martin Chambers - The Pretenders)
- Refreshment Break (Bob Cobbing & Henri Chopin)
- Night Touch (Dave Vanian-The Damned)
- Racing Poodles (Metabolist)
- After Mendelssohn/137 Years (Gavin Bryars)
- Paint It Black (1/2 Japanese)
- Arthur's Treat (Simon Jeffes)
- Talking World War Iii Blues (Mark Perry)
- 89-90-91-92 (Michael Nyman)
- Index Of Ends (David Cunningham - The Flying Lizards)
- James, Mark & Me (In The Manner Of Tom Waits) (Kevin Coyne)
- Hep! (Etron Fou Leloublan)
- The Minute Warp (Neil Oram & Ken Campbell)
- Chorale From Beethoven's 9th Symphony (Pete Seeger)

> Zoom

Wanna Buy A Bridge ?
1980

Wanna Buy A Bridge ?

- Alternative Ulster (Stiff Little Fingers)
- Mind Your Own Business (Delta 5)
- Man Next Door (The Slits)
- Aerosol Burns (Essential Logic)
- Part Time Punks (T.V. Personalities)
- Read About Seymour (Swell Maps)
- We Are All Prostitutes (The Pop Group)
- Soldier Soldier (Spizzenergi)
- Ain't You (Kleenex)
- Nag Nag Nag (Cabaret Voltaire)
- In Love (The Raincoats)
- Final Day (Young Marble Giants)
- Skank Bloc Bologna (Scritti Politti)
- At Last I Am Free (Robert Wyatt)

Rough Trade Compilation

- Politics (Girls At Our Best!)
- This Is Love (The Gist) (ex-Young Marble Giants)
- Blue Boy (Orange Juice)
- Pretty (Mark Beer)

At Last I Am Free est extrait du single At Last I'm Free/Strange Fruit.

- ROUGH TRADE
  (ROUGH-US 3) LP

Stalin Wasn't Stallin est extrait du single Stalin Wasn't Stallin/ Stalingrad.

- ROUGH TRADE GERMANY
  (RT6435 086) LP

> Zoom

Rough Trade Compilation
1981

- Fanfare In The Garden (Essential Logic)
- Born In Flames (Red Crayola)
- Not Happy (Pere Ubu)
- How I Wrote Elastic Man (The Fall)
- Work (BLUE ORCHIDS) (ex-Fall)
- Stalin Wasn't Stallin (Robert Wyatt)
- Pablo Meets Mr. Bassie (Augustus Pablo & Rockers All Stars)
- Final Day (Young marble Giants)
- Seconds Too Late (Cabaret Voltaire)
- I Know Where Syd Barrett Lives (Televison Personalities)

> Zoom

Gap Tracks 1
1981

Gap Tracks 1

- Transmission (Joy Division)
- What Becomes Of The Broken Hearted (Dave Stewart)
- No Word From China (Pel Mel)
- Non-Alignment Pact (Pere Ubu)
- This Is Love (The Gist)
- Sketch For Summer (The Durutti Column)
- Kneel To The Boss (Cabaret Voltaire)
- She's Lost Control (Joy Division)
- Politics (Girls At Our Best)
- Totally Wired (The Fall)
- In A Lonely Place (New Order)
- Mumbo Jumbo (Woodhead Monroe)
- Modern Dance (Pere Ubu)
- Shadowplay (Joy Division)
- Seconds Too Late (Cabaret Voltaire)
- Warm Leatherette (The Normal)
- Sketch For Winter (The Durutti Column)
- At Last I Am Free (Robert Wyatt)
- Isolation (Joy Division)
- Papa's Got A Brand New Pig Bag (Pig Bag)
- Shabby Abbott (Essential Logic)
- Ceremony (New Order)

At Last I Am Free est extrait du single At Last I'm Free/Strange Fruit.

Promo compilation.

- GAP RECORDS (Australia) - Cassette

> Zoom

History Of Rock Vol.4
1981

History Of Rock Vol.4

- Tubular Bells (Mike Oldfield)
- Stratosfear (Tangerine Dream)
- Yesterday Man (Robert Wyatt)
- A Worm Is At Work (Henry Cow)
- Smoke On The Water (Gillan)
- New Electric Ride (Captain Beefheart)
- Hurdy Gurdy Man (Steve Hillage)
- Full Moon On The Highway (Can)
- Bicentennial Present (Peter Baumann)
- Marlene (Kevin Coyne)

Yesterday Man est extrait du single Yesterday/Believer.

Greece compilation.

- VIRGIN RECORDS (2473 814) - LP

> Zoom

Morrocci Klung !

- Academy One Interview (Michael French)
- Birds With Ears (Mark Beer)
- Quentin Crisp
- Poem By Andrew Darlington
- Epic Soundtracks Introduces New Album
- Eyeless In Gaza Interview
- Joseph Garret
- Vivian Goldman Interview
- The Story Of Len
- Some Recent Records
- Jambo

Cassette-magazine publiée en septembre 1981, présentée dans une enveloppe cartonnée - Cassette

Complete interview

One Hour Of Talk And Music
1981

- Robert Wyatt Interview Part 1
- Robert Wyatt Interview Part 2
- Robert Wyatt Interview Part 3

> Zoom

Le Quartier Réservé
De La Musique
1981

Le Quartier Réservé De La Musique - Best Rough Trade

- Sweetest Girl (Scritti Politti with Robert Wyatt)
- Fanfare In The Garden (Essential Logic)
- Blue Boy (Orange Juice)
- This Is Love (The Gist)
- Fit And Working Again (The Fall)
- Twenty Tens (Virgin Prunes)
- Shouting Out Loud (The Raincoats)
- Work (Blue Orchids)
- Milkmaid (The Red Crayola)
- Pretty (Mark Beer)
- Young Marble Giants (Final Day)
- Strange Fruit (Robert Wyatt)
- Magnificent Dreamer (The Personalities)

Cassette diffusée avec un numéro du magazine Best.

Strange Fruit est extrait du single At Last I'm Free/Strange Fruit.

- ROUGH TRADE France (HS 88) Cassette

> Zoom

Clear Cut
1981

Clear Cut

- Kind Of Funny (Josef K)
- City Hobgoblins (The Fall)
- Simply Thrilled Honey (Orange Juice)
- This Is Love (The Gist)
- Politics (Girls At Our Best)
- Born In Flames (The Red Crayola)
- In Love (The Raincoats)
- You (Delta 5)
- Health And Efficiency (This Heat)
- Music Is A Better Noise (Essential Logic)
- Skank Bologna (Scritti Politti)
- At Last I Am Free (Robert Wyatt)

At Last I Am Free est extrait du single At Last I'm Free/Strange Fruit.

- ROUGH TRADE Japan (RTL-5) LP

> Zoom

Japan Program 2
1981

Japan Program 2

- Feed The Hungry (The Pop Group)
- Obsession (Cabaret Voltaire)
- Include Me Out (Young Marble Giants)
- Rounder (Pere Ubu)
- Simply Thrilled Honey (Orange Juice)
- This Is Love (The Gist)
- Politics (Girls At Our Best)
- In Love (The Raincoats)
- You (Delta 5)
- Kind Of Funny (Josef K)
- Music Is A Better Noise (Essential Logic)
- At Last I Am Free (Robert Wyatt)

At Last I Am Free est extrait du single At Last I'm Free/Strange Fruit.

A Promotional sampler album compiling the first five LPs released by Japan Record.

- JAPAN RECORD (PROG-2) Cassette
- ROUGH TRADE () Cassette

Recommended Records Sampler

Disc 1
- Flaschenzug (Vogel)
- Extract 5 From Faust Party 3. (Faust)
- All Hail! (Art Bears)
- Reparto Novita (Stormy Six)
- Walk Before Imitate (The Homosexuals)
- On ne peut plus compter sur ses

The Internationale a été initialement enregistré pour cet album les 28 et 29 août 1981.

Cet album sera réédité au format 2xCD au Japon en 2008 avec 4 nouveaux morceaux.

> Zoom 1 2

Recommended Records Sampler
1982

doigts (Joseph Racaille & Patrick Portella)
- * (Feliu Gasul)
- Strangelove (The Black Sheep)
- Influences (Univers Zero)
- Boss de crosses dans le doulos (Aksak Maboul/Honeymoon Killers)
- Slice (Henry Cow)
- Viva Pa Ubu (Henry Cow)
- Radio extract (Decibel)

Disc 1
- Simulacres (Art Zoyd)
- 2 from 'chronometers (The Muffins)
- Berlin Ku Damm I2/4/8I (Heiner Goebbels)
- Steer Clear Of England (Amos)
- Commerce Nostalgigue (Conventum)
- Vera C (Hector Zazou)
- Pool (This Heat)
- Walker Westinghouse (The Residents)
- Pedestrian Hop & Copy Me (R. Steve Moore)
- I Talk To My Haircut (Ron Pate)
- Ucoellin del Bosco (Picchio Del Pozzo)
- The Internationale (Robert Wyatt)

Il sera également réédité en 2009 au format 2xCD sous le titre "The Recommended Sampler 1982 · 25th Anniversary Edition" (même contenu que la présente version de 1982, sous le label R&R MEGACORP).

- RECOMMENDED RECORDS (RR8&9) 2xLP

- ReR MEGACORP (ReR 25 A/B) 2xCD

> Zoom 1 2 3 4

Feature Mist
1982

Touch - Feature Mist

- Last Poem/Mayakovski
- New Order
- Soliman Gamil
- Robert Wyatt Interviewed Lebanon Park, early 1982
- The Death And Beauty Foundation
- Hans Eisler/Mayakovski
- Contagion
- Eric Random
- Simple Minds
- Tuxedomoon
- Shostakovich
- New Order
- Flesh
- The Rozztox Manifesto
- Thv Temple Of Psychick Youth
- Video Column

Première réalisation d'une série de six cassettes produites par Touch Magazine et distribuées par Rough Trade - Cassette

Contagion est probablement la plus courte interview que Robert Wyatt ait jamais donnée (13 secondes!).

> Zoom 1 2

C81
1982

NME - Rough Trade Compilation

- The Sweetest Girl (Scritti Politti with Robert Wyatt)
- Twist And Crawl Dub (The Beat)
- Misery Goats (Pere Ubu)
- 7 000 Names Of Wah ! (Wahi Heat)
- Blue Boy (Orange Juice)
- Raising The Count (Cabaret Voltaire)
- Kebab Traume (DAF Live)
- Bare Pork (Furious Pig)
- Raouf (Specials)
- I Look Alone (Buzzcocks)
- Fanfare In The Garden (Essential Logic)
- Born Again Cretin (Robert Wyatt)
- Shooting Out Loud (Raincoats)
- Endless Soul (Josef K)
- Low Profile (Blue Orchids)
- Red Nettle (Virgin Prunes)
- We Could Send Letters (Aztec Camera)
- Milkmaid (Red Crayola)
- Don't Get In My Way (Links)
- The Day My Pad Went Mad (The Massed Carnaby St John Cooper Clarkes)
- Jazz Is The Teacher, Funk Is The Preacher (James Blood Ulmer)
- Close To Home (Ian Dury)
- Greener Grass (Gist)
- Parallel Lines (Subway Sect)

The Sweetest Girl est extrait de Songs To Remember.
Born Again Cretin est extrait de Nothing Can Stop Us.

- NME-ROUGH TRADE COMPILATION (001) Cassette

> Zoom

Long Distance
1982

Long Distance

- Politics (Girls At Our Best)
- Born In Flames (Red Crayola)
- Final Day (Young Marble Giants)
- Seconds Too Late (Cabaret Voltaire)
- Totally Wired (The Fall)
- Try (Delta)
- I Know Where Sid Barrett Lives (TV Personalities)
- Caimanera (Robert Wyatt)
- Pretty (Mark Beer)
- Our Swimmer (Wire)
- Not Happy (Pere Ubu)
- Are You Glad To Be In America (James Blood Ulmer)

Compilation Rough Trade.

Caimanera est extrait du single Arauco/Caimanera.

- NUEVOS MEDIOS (43-010L) LP

> Zoom

Compilation
Rough Trade Deutschland
1982

Compilation Rough Trade Deutschland

- Pillar to Post (Aztec Camera)
- Past Meets Present (Weekend)
- Love At First Sight (The Gist)
- No-One's Little Girl (The Raincoats)
- Shipbuilding (Robert Wyatt)
- Hammer The Hammer (The Go-Betweens)
- I'm On This Rocket (The Panther Burns)
- A Hard Day's Night (Shockabilly)
- More Trouble Coming Every Day (Zounds)
- El Salvador (Mofungo)
- Pagan Lovesong (Virgin Prunes)
- Yashar (Cabaret Voltaire)

Compilation Rough Trade Deutschland.

Shipbuilding est extrait du EP Shipbuilding/Memories Of You/'Round Midnight

- ROUGH TRADE (RTD 5) LP

> Zoom 1 2

Mighty Reel
1982

Mighty Reel

- Town Cryer (Elvis Costello & The Attractions)
- Calling Captain Autumn (Haircut 100)
- Loving You Made A Fool Out Of Me (Spanish Rap) (Kid Creole & The Coconuts)
- A Day In The Life Of... (Weekend)
- Umkumbane (MUSIC from Soweto / Elfas Zondi)
- Dib-Be-Dib-Be-Dize (Brother "D" with Collective Effort)
- White Stuff (The Unfinished) (Fashion)
- Sensation (No More Words) (Yello)
- Petit Matin (The Honeymoon Killers)
- Secret Life Of Arabia (Billy Mackenzie / British Electric Foundation)
- Are You There (With Another Girl) (Mari Wilson)
- Kita Kita O Mo La (King Sunny Ade & The African Beats)
- Sleep Talk (Ornette Coleman)
- 'Round Midnight (Robert Wyatt)
- Futility (The Ravishings Beauties)
- Now Dance (The Three Courgettes)
- Walking On Sunshine (Rockers Revenge featuring Donnie Calvin)
- The Alibi (Fun Boy Three)
- Loosen The Clamp (Cabaret Voltaire)
- Dancibar (Liaisons Dangereuses)
- Forget The Cost (Ub40)
- Trainer (Michael Smith)

Cassette diffusée gratuitement avec le magazine New Musical Express, accompagnée d'un mini-booklet de 32 pages.

'Round Midnight est extrait du EP Shipbuilding/Memories Of You/'Round Midnight

- NME COMPILATION (NME004) Cassette

Zoom

Old Playfellows
1982

Ben Watt/Tracey Thorn/ Marine Girls/Robert Wyatt

- Walter And John
(Ben Watt & Robert Wyatt)
- Aquamarine (Ben Watt)
- Slipping Slowly (Ben Watt)
- Another Conversation With Myself (Ben Watt)
- A Girl In Winter (Ben Watt & Robert Wyatt)
- Goodbye Joe (Tracey Thorn)
- On My Mind (Marine Girls)
- The Lure Of the Rockpools (Marine Girls)
- Cant (Ben Watt)
- Tower Of Silence (Ben Watt)
- Aubade (Ben Watt)

Walter And John et A Girl In Winter sont extraits de l'album Summer Into Winter

- TRIO (AW-25043) LP

Zoom

Wave News 2
1982

Wave News 2

- Kind Of Funny (Josef K)
- City Hobgoblins (The Fall)
- Simply Thrilled Honey (Orange Juice)
- This Is Love (The Gist)
- Politics (Girls At Our Best)
- Born In Flames (The Red Crayola)
- In Love (The Raincoats)
- You (Delta 5)
- Health And Efficiency (This Heat)
- Music Is A Better Noise (Essential Logic)
- Skank Bologna (Scritti Politti=
- At Last I Am Free (Robert Wyatt)

At Last I Am Free est extrait du single At Last I'm Free/Strange Fruit

- INTERCORD (INT 145.061) LP

Zoom

Radio Twelve
Sample Compilation
1983

Radio Twelve Sample Compilation

- The View From Her Room (Weekend)
- Drumbeat For Baby (Weekend)
- Fool For A Valentine (The Gist)
- Trees And Flowers (Strawberry Switchblade)
- The Pelican Songs (Discobolisk)
- Love Is... (Troy Tate)
- I'm Mad (Troy Tate)
- Walkout To Winter (Aztec Camera)
- Rank And File (Rank And File)
- Queens Tattoo (Aztec Camera)
- Memories Of You (Robert Wyatt)
- Round Midnight (Robert Wyatt)

Memories Of You et 'Round Midnight sont extraits du EP Shipbuilding/Memories Of You/'Round Midnight

- ROUGH TRADE JAPAN (RTL3) LP

Zoom

Clear Cut 5 - Second Lenght
1983

Clear Cut 5 - Second Lenght

- Cattle And Cane (The Go-Betweens)
- Set The Killing Free (Aztec Camera)
- The Man Whose Head Expanded (The Fall)
- Three Wishes (T.V. Personalities)
- Jell, Babies (Epic Soundtracks)
- Shipbuilding (Robert Wyatt)
- Once More With Feeling (Jazzateers)
- A Fool For Valentine (The Gist)
- More Trouble Coming Every Day (Zounds)
- Pagan Love Song (Virgin Prunes)
- Burnt To the Grount (Cabaret Voltaire)
- Second Length (Our Swimmer) (Wire)

Shipbuilding est extrait du EP Shipbuilding/Memories Of You/'Round Midnight.

- ROUGH TRADE JAPAN (RTL35) LP

Zoom

MNW
1983

Rough Trade Records - MNW

- Pillar To Post (Aztec Camera)
- Baby Turns Blue (Virgin Prunes)
- Wonderful Offer (Lora Logic)
- Put It On (Cosmetic)
- Love At First Sight (The Gist)
- Drumbeat For Baby (Weekend)
- No Ones Little Girl (The Raincoats)
- Agents Of Change (Blue Orchids)
- Cattle And Cane (The Go-Betweens)
- Shipbuilding (Robert Wyatt)

Shipbuilding est extrait du EP Shipbuilding/Memories Of You/'Round Midnight.

- ROUGH TRADE SWEDEN (MNWX3) LP

> Zoom

Pillows & Prayers
1984

Cherry Red 1982-1984

Disc 1
- Portrait (Five Or Six)
- Eine Symphonie Des Grauens (The Monochrome Set)
- All About You (Thomas Leer)
- Plain Sailing (Tracey Thorn)
- Some Things Don't Matter (Ben Watt)
- Love In Your Heart (Kevin Coyne)
- Modi 2 (Piero Milesi)
- Compulsion (Joe Crow)
- Lazy Wars (Marine Girls)
- My Face Is On Fire (Felt)
- No Noise (Eyeless In Gaza)
- Xoyo (The Passage)
- On My Mind (Everything But The Girl)
- A Bang And A Wimpy (Attila The Stockbroker)
- I Unseen (The Misunderstood)
- Don't Blink (The Nightingales)
- Stop The Music For A Minute (Quentin Crisp)

Disc 2
- Place In The Sun (Marine Girls)
- It's A Fine Day (Jane)
- Feathering The Nest (Kevin Hewick)
- If She Doesn't Smile (Fantastic Something)
- New Risen (Eyeless In Gaza)
- Jet Set Junta (The Monochrome Set)
- Une Homme Et Une Femme (Morgan Fisher)
- Penelope Tree (Felt)
- The Watery Song (Maurice Deebank)
- This Brilliant Evening (In Embrace)
- I'm Used Now (Grab Grab The Haddock)
- Water And John (Ben Watt And Robert Wyatt)
- The Look Of Love (Martyn Bates)
- Chenko (Red Box)

Water And John est extrait du EP Summer Into Winter.

- CHERRY RED RECORDS (CDMRED169) 2xCD

> Zoom

Rough Streets
1983

Rough Streets

- True Love (Zounds)
- The Flood (Blue Orchids)
- General Davis (The Prats)
- Pagan Lovesong (Virgin Prunes)
- We Are All Prostitutes (The Pop Group)
- Jazz The Glass (Cabaret Voltaire)
- Mega City 3 (Spizzenergi)
- Fanfare In The Garden (Essential Logic)
- Love At First Sight (The Gist)
- Shipbuilding (Robert Wyatt)
- Final Solution (Pere Ubu)

Shipbuilding est extrait du EP Shipbuilding/Memories Of You/'Round Midnight.

- ROUGH TRADE GREECE (ROUGH035) LP

> Zoom

The Harvest Story - Vol. 1
1984

The Harvest Story - Vol.1

- Singing A Song In The Morning (Kevin Ayers)
- Love You (Syd Barrett)
- Taking Some Time On (BJH)
- American Boy Soldier (Edgar Broughton Band)
- Druid One (Third Ear Band)
- Things May Come (Peter Brown)
- The Good Mr. Square (Pretty Things)
- Look At Me Now (ELO)
- Down On The Bay (The Move)
- Wring That Nect (Deep Purple)
- Hell's Angels (Roy Harper)

Love You est extrait de The Madcap Laughs.

- HARVEST (EG 26 0097) LP

> Zoom

A Singles Selection
1984

This is Rough Trade

- Oblivious (Aztec Camera)
- Cattle And Cane (The Go-Betweens)
- Drumbeat For Baby (Weekend)
- Show Me (Dislocation Dance)
- Animal Rhapsody (The Raincoats)
- Are You Glad To Be In America? (James Blood Ulmer)
- Hand In Glove (The Smiths)
- The Man Whose Head Expanded (The Fall)
- A Sense Of Belonging (Television Personalities)
- Pagan Lovesong (Virgin Prunes)
- October (Lovesong) (Chris And Cosey)
- Shipbuilding (Robert Wyatt)

Shipbuilding est extrait du EP Shipbuilding/Memories Of You/'Round Midnight.

- ROUGH TRADE (RTRANZ 005) LP

> Zoom

Lost Romance
1984

Lost Romance

- Pillar To Post (Aztec Camera)
- If She Doesn't Smile (Fantastic Something)
- Femme Fatale (Tracey Thorn)
- Love At First Sight (The Gist)
- The End Of The Affair (Weekend)
- Changing Station (Eyeless In Gaza)
- Messidor (The Durutti Column)
- Shipbuilding (Robert Wyatt)
- Cattle And Cane (The Go-Betweens)
- Night And Day (Everything But The Girl)
- A View From Her Room (Weekend)
- Some Things Don't Matter (Ben Watt)
- One By One (Eyeless In Gaza)
- Never Known (The Durutti Column)

Shipbuilding est extrait du EP Shipbuilding/Memories Of You/'Round Midnight

- ROCK-IN-RECORD (ROCKLP3) LP

> Zoom

Raindrops Pattering On Banana Leaves And Other Tunes
1984

A Womad Benefit L.P.

- Raindrops Pattering On Banana Leaves (Tian Jin Song & Dance Group)
- Nuca Llacta/Coraza (Bolivia Manta & Nanda Manachi)
- Zimbo (Echo & The Bunnymen with the Drummers Of Burundi)
- Song Of Greeting (Drummers Of Burundi)
- Lead A Normal Life (Peter Gabriel)
- Excerpt from 'Ya Mohammed Bula Lo' (Nusrat Fateh Ali Khan)
- Grass (Robert Wyatt)
- Mother & Child (Jean Bosco Mwenda)
- Too Nice To Talk To (The Beat)
- Ekipe (Kanda Bongo Man)
- You're My Kind Of Climate (Rip Rig & Panic)

Grass est extrait du single Grass/Trade Union.

- WOMAD (WOMAD1) LP

> Zoom

Tendenz Zur Auflösung Des Rhythmus
(Parallel Zum Punk)
1984

Tendenz Zur Auflösung Des Rhythmus

- Starsailor (Tim Buckley)
- Modern Lesson (Aksak Maboul)
- Fleuve et les manteau (Etron Fou)
- Inte Margarita (Zamla Mammaz Manna)
- La Pointe de tes Seins (ZNR)
- Musique pour L'Odyssée (Art Zoyd)
- Volo Vivace (Tuxedomoon)
- Rats & Monkeys (Art Bears)
- Satisfaction (Residents)
- Paint it Black (Half Japanese)
- Toilet (L. Voag)
- Conspirator's Oath (Red Crayola)
- Frenzy (Peter Blegvad)
- Stalin Wasn't Stalling (Robert Wyatt)
- When It's War (People In Control)
- Only Loud At Night (Raincoats)
- Makeshift Swahili (This Heat)
- I Hate America (Work)

Cassette parue à Zurich en 1984 en édition limitée accompagnée d'un petit livret de 5 pages de Veit F. Stauffer, un des fondateurs/ directeurs du label suisse RecRec Music.

Stalin Wasn't Stalling est extrait du single Stalin Wasn't Stalling'/ Stalingrad.

- EDITION UNBEIRRT C - Cassette

> Zoom

Requiem By Rough Trade
1984

Requiem By Rough Trade

- Red Flag (Robert Wyatt)
- Voice Of America/Damage Is Done (Cabaret Voltaire)
- Makeshift Swahili (This Heat)
- Red Tent 2 (Dome)
- Red Plains (Weekend)
- Nostalgia (Weekend)
- Biko (Robert Wyatt)
- Decline And Fall (Virgin Prunes)
- Justice (The Pop Group)
- Go Ahead (Wire)
- Dreaming In The Past (The Raincoats)
- Please Please Let Me Get What I Want (The Smiths)

Red Flag est extrait de Nothing Can Stop Us.
Biko est extrait de Work In Progress.

- ROUGH TRADE/JAPAN RECORD/TOKUMA (35JC-104) CD

> Zoom

3ª Compilación Rough Trade
1984

3ª Compilación Rough Trade

- Castle And Cane (The Go-Betweens)
- A Sese Of Belonging (Television Personalities)
- Jeane (The Smiths)
- Hand In Glove (Sandie Shaw)
- Pillar To Post (Aztec Camera)
- Animal Rapsody (The Raincoats)
- Mr Soul (The Dream Syndicate)
- Shipbuilding (Robert Wyatt)
- Show Me (Dislocation Dance)
- The Man Whose Head Expanded (The Fall)
- Ugly (Violent Femmes)
- Dolly (Microdisney)
- Women Of The World (Ivor Cutler & Linda Hirst)
- 19th Nervous Breakdown (Shockabilly)

Shipbuilding est extrait du EP Shipbuilding/Memories Of You/'Round Midnight

- NUEVOS MEDIOS (43-091) LP

Rock 80's

- The Order Of Death (Public Imag Limited)
- All You Pretty Girls (XTC)
- In The Ghetto (Nick Cave)
- Sex Machine (The Flying Lizards)
- Drive My Car (Gina X)
- A Million Miles Away (Positive Noise)
- Listen To Your Father (Feargal Sharkey)

Biko est extrait du EP Work In Progress

Venceremos (We Will Win) est extrait du EP Venceremos

- VIRGIN (062-VG 50094) LP

> Zoom

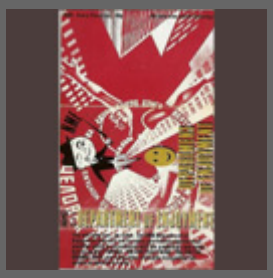
Rock 80's Vol 5
1984

- Biko (Robert Wyatt)
- Venceremos (We Will Win) (Working Week)
- Tenderness (General Public)
- This Is Mine (Heaven 17)
- Lorelei (Explorers)
- Red Guitar (David Sylvian)
- Five Miles Of You (Tom Verlaine)

> Zoom

The New Rock'n'Roll
The A-Z Of Rock In The 80's
1984

The New Rock'n'Roll - The A-Z Of Rock In The 80's



Disc 1
- Fallout (Police)
- Bactrack (Squeeze)
- Antmusic (Adam And The Ants
- Love Will Tear Us Apart (Paul Young)
- Love My Way (Psychadelic Furs)
- I Could Be Happy (Altered Images)
- (Lets All) Turn On (Hoodoo Gurus)
- You Fool You (David Johansen)
- No Word From China (Pel Mel)
- Release The Bats (The Birthday Party)
- Totally Wired (The Fall)
- Sodium Pentathol Negative (Fashion)
- Hammer The Hammer (The Go-Betweens)
- Never Say Never (Romeo Void)
- I'm On Fire (Chelsea)
- Seconds Too Late (Cabaret Voltaire)

Disc 2
- Hepnobeat (The Dynamic Hepnotics)
- Uranium Rock (The Cramps)
- Only A Lad (Oingo Boingo)
- Hip, Shake, Jerk (The Quick)
- Be Cool Be Smart (The Mighty Guys)
- I Married A Monster From Outer Space (John Cooper Clarke)
- African Reggae (Nina Hagen Band)
- Dancing On The Floor (Hooked On Love) (Third World)
- Cant Make Love (Wall Of Voodoo)
- Cold, Cold, Shoes (Fleshtones)
- Jukebox (Payolas)
- Another Girl, Another Planet (The Only Ones)
- Valley Girl (Frank And Moon Zappa)
- Voodoo (Rachael Sweet)
- Shouting Out Loud (The Raincoats)
- Shipbuilding (Robert Wyatt)

Ce double album a été publié à la suite de l'ouvrage éponyme de Glenn A. Baker, Stuart Coupe et Andy Yavasis édité en 1983 aux éditions St. Martin's Press (New-York).

Shipbuilding est extrait du EP Shipbuilding/Memories Of You/'Round Midnight

- CBS PRODUCTIONS (P/L) 2xLP

> Zoom

Department Of Enjoyment
1984

Department Of Enjoyment

- Perfect Skin (Llyod Cole & The Commotions)
- Girl Afraid (The Smiths)
- A Place In My heart Dub Mix 2 (Orange Juice)
- Get Your Feet Out Of My Shoes (The Boothill Foot Tappers)
- Lonely So Long (Paul Young & The Royal Family)
- Millimillenary (The Cocteau Twins)
- Pagan Place (The Waterboys)
- Come Back (Wah)
- I Put A Spell On You (Nick Cave & The Cavemen)
- Reaching My Head The Prisoners)
- Some Kinda Jones (The Moodists)
- Real World (Husker Du)
- Amber & The Amberines (Robert Wyatt & Hugh Hopper)

Dedicated to the Fond Memory of Barney Bubbles.

Amber & The Amberines est extrait du EP Work In Progress.

- NME COMPILATION (011)
Cassette

- Kick Over The Statues ! (The Redskins)
- Fear Is A Man's Best Friend (Billy Bragg)
- Litlle red Rooster (Bourgie Bourgie)
- Dorothy (Dr John)
- The Star Spangled Banner (Wynton Marsalis)
- C'est La Danse (African Connexion)
- Mi God-My King (Papa Levi)
- Wildstyle (Time Zone)
- Beatbox Diversion (The Art Of Noise)

> Zoom

A Rough Trade
1985

A Rough Trade

- Miserable Lie (The Smiths)
- Ain't That Always The Way (Easterhouse)
- Well Well Well (The Woodentops)
- Horse Overboard (Microdisney)
- Forever Party (Float Up C P)
- Bun On The Oven (Princes Tinymeat)
- Mr Somewhere (The Apartments)
- Circle J (Jonathan Richman)
- The Age Of Self (Robert Waytt)
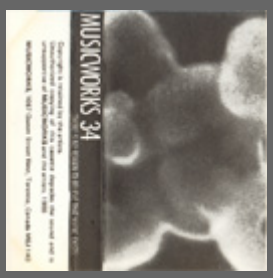
- Whale Head King (David Thomas)
- Stolen Kisses (Chris + Cosey)
- Elementary (Horace Andy)

The Age Of Self est extrait du single The Age Of Self.

- ROUGH TRADE/MEGADISC (MD7982) LP

> Zoom

The Liberator
1986



Artists For Animals

- Pigs... (In There) (Robert Wyatt)
- Animal Farm (Madness)
- Monkey In A Bin (Attrition)
- The Aftermath (Durrutti Column)
- Suffer Dog (Shelleyan Orphan)
- Rain Forest (Kalima)
- When The Last Ship Sails (The Entire Population Of China)
- The Abbatoir (Carla Lane)
- The Boyne Hunt Saboteurs (Gone To Earth)
- I Believe (Pop, Dick And Harry)
- One Million Hamburgers (The Franck Chicken)
- All Cats Are Grey (The Cleaners From Venus)
- Blood Sports (Style Council)
- Toros (Anne Clark & Patrick Fitzgerald)
- Knit Your Own Balaclava (Chumbawamba)
- Hear The Animals Cry (Josi Without Colours)
- Lies (T.V. Smith)
- A Sporting Life (Captain Sensible)

Pigs... a été initialement composé pour cet album.

- DELTIC RECORDS (DELT LP3) LP
- DELTIC RECORDS (DELT CD3) CD
- JIMCO RECORDS (JIM 0039) CD

Lyrics

> Zoom 1 2

There's No Reason To Believe That Music Exists 1986

Musicworks 34

- Just When I Thought... (Paul Haines)
- Making Ends Meet (John Oswald)
- Now... Those Sounds... (Mystery Tape Laboratory)
- Music Lovers, Even You (Mystery Tape Laboratory)
- Third World Two (Davey Williams)
- Porky's Garden (Carl Stallings)
- What's This (Bill Smith)
- Starting With Maya (Larry Wendt)
- Third World Two (Robert Wyatt)
- Collage #1 (James Tenney)
- Third World Two (Jerry Simpson)
- WX (Excerpts) (Mystery Tape Laboratory)

Robert Wyatt lit Third World Two, un texte de Paul Haines. Ce morceau a été initialement réalisé pour cette cassette.

- MUSICWORKS (MW 34) Cassette

> Zoom

Artists For Animals
1986

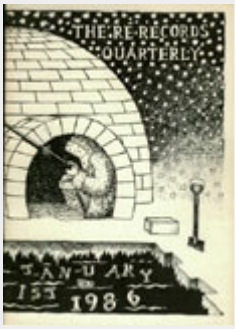
Artists For Animals

- Blood Sports (Style Council)
- Toros (Anne Clark & Patrick Fitzgerald)
- The Cart Horse (Kevin Hewick)
- The Wool To Live (Ralph Steadman)
- Pigs... (In There) - (Robert Wyatt)
- Animal Farm (Madness)
- Monkey In A Bin (Attrition)
- The Aftermath (Durrutti Column)

- SLIP RECORDS (SD003) LP

> Zoom

Volume 1 N°3
1986



Ré Records Quaterly

- Card To Bernard (The Big Guns)
- Early Rest Home (Biota)
- Pigs (Robert Wyatt)
- Sprung from Traps (Roger Turner)
- Little Red Bombadier (Kontroll Csoport)
- Woman Of Water (Adrian Mitchell)
- Coste (Cassix)
- Criota (Cassix)
- Religion (Cassix)
- The Stanislavsky Method (Cassix)
- Tempo Di Pace, Bari (Cassix)
- Copy Machine (Cassix)
- Finta Di Nulla (Cassix)
- Nadja (Nazca)

Ce LP accompagnait le magazine édité par Chris Cutler "Ré Records Quarterly Magazine Volume 1 Number 3 ".

Pigs a été initialement composé pour la compilation Artists For Animals

- RE RECORDS (0103) LP

> Zoom

> Zoom

And Suddenly It's Evening
1986

Cherry Red Records Present

- Night And Day (Everything But The Girl)
- On My mind (Marine Girls)
- Geneva (Morgan-Fisher)
- Walter And John (Ben Watt + Robert Wyatt)
- Plain Sailing (Tracey Thorn)
- For All We Know (Grab Grab The Haddock)
- It´s A Fine Day (Jane)
- Esperansa (Anthony Phillips)
- This Brilliant Evening (In Embrace)
- Primitive Painters (Felt)
- Welcome Now (Eyeless In Gaza)
- The Mating Game (The Monochrome Set)
- Die Liebe (Laibach)

Water And John est extrait du EP Summer Into Winter.

- CHERRY RED (VAP 35506-15) LP

Clear Cut Final

- Remote Control (Red Guitars)
- Simply Thrilled Honey (Orange Juice)
- The View From Her Room (Weekend)
- Sixteen Reasons (Jazzateers)
- Trees And Flowers (Strawberry

The Age Of Self est extrait de Old Rottenhat.

- ROUGH TRADE (32JC-206) CD

> Zoom

Clear Cut Final
1986

Switchblade)
- Orchid Girl (Aztec Camera)
- Cattle & Cane (The Go-Betweens)
- Ambition (Vic Godard & The Subway Sect)
- Inspiration (Easterhouse)
- Travelling Man (The Woodentops)
- Tell Me When It's Over (The Dream Syndicate)
- I'll Keep It With Mine (Susanna Hoffs) (The Bangles)
- Birthday Girl (Microdisney)
- Alphaville (The Monochrome Set)
- Skank Block Bologna (Scritti Politti)
- Man Next Door (The Slits)
- Pagan Love Song (Virgin Prunes)
- We Are All Prostitutes (The Pop Group)
- The Age Of Self (Robert Wyatt)
- Stretch Out And Wait (The Smiths)

↑

> Zoom

Alternativa 2
1987

Alternativa2

- Dying On The Vine (John Cale)
- Shipbuilding (Robert Wyatt)
- My Heart Is Empty (Nico)
- All The Birthdays (The Apartments)
- The Boy With The Thorn In His Side (The Smiths)
- The Moon Is Blue (Colourbox)
- Revolution (The Cult)
- It Will Come (The Woodentops)
- Birthday Girl (Microdisney)
- Ignore The Machine (Alien Sex Fiend)
- Welcome Now (Eyeless In Gaza)
- Free Yourself (The Untouchables)

Shipbuilding est extrait du EP Shipbuilding/Memories Of You/'Round Midnight.

- DIAMOND REKORD (R012) LP

↑

> Zoom

Afrodisiak Vol.2
1987

Afrodisiak Vol.2

- Namibia (Robert Wyatt & SWAPO Singers)
- Happiness (Führs + Fröhling)
- Charm (Tony Banks)
- Paraguay (Jorge Ben)
- Salone De Musique (Sapho)
- Donkeys Bearing Cups (Eek-A-Mouse)
- Wa do dem (Eek-A-Mouse)
- Iko iko (The Belle Stars)

Namibia est extrait du EP The Wind Of Change.

- CBS (26995-1) LP

↑

> Zoom

Mixed Peel
The John Peel Sessions
1987

Mixed Peel - The John Peel Sessions

- Here Comes Summer (The Undertones)
- I Am The Fly (Wire)
- I'm A Believer (Robert Wyatt)
- Bed & Breakfast Man (Madness)
- At Home He's A Tourist (Gang Of Four)
- 5-8-6 (New Order)
- Love And Romance (The Slits)
- Love Gets Dangerous (Billy Bragg)
- Gary Golmore's Eyes (The Adverts)
- Release The Bats (The Birthday Party)
- Two Sevens Clash (Culture)
- Sus (The Ruts)
- Ink Runs Dry (The Folk Devils)
- Ride A White Swan (T-Rex)
- Put Away (The Fall)
- Basement Blues - The Story Of The Blues (Mighty Wah!)
- Mega Armageddon Death/'Chickens'

I'm A Believer est extrait de The Peel Sessions.

- NME/STRANGE FRUIT (NMEPRO6) LP
- NME/STRANGE FRUIT (NME 033) Cassette

(The Electro Hippies)
- New Rose (The Damned)
- Can't Stop (That Petrol Emotion)

> Zoom

Barcelona - Ciudad Abierta
1987

Barcelona - Ciudad Abierta

- Sangre Cristiana (El Ultimo Eslabon)
- Techos Altos (Los Elasticos)
- Claustrofobia/Tu Traicion (Robert Wyatt)
- Nino Bueno (Adhesivo)
- Deseo (Rocker Band)
- Esto Se Esta Hundiendo (El Intante)
- Carlov (Claustrofobia)
- Blanco De Leche (Desperdicis Clinics)
- La Piedra Filosofal (Crimen Pasional)

- Robert Wyatt - vocal and percussions (?)

- Antoni Baltar - drum programming, bass synthesizer
- Maria Jose Pena - piano
- Pedro Burruezo - guitars, vocal

Compilation espagnole.
Claustrofobia est extrait de Repulsion.

- JUSTINE (C-033) LP

> Zoom

Incantations And Elucubrations
1987 (?)

Incantations And Elucubrations

- Namibia (SWAPO Singers)
- Holdin' On (Tony Rallo & The Midnite Band)
- Funky Boogie (John Ozila)
- Mister Blunt (Kissing The Pink)
- Natural Colour (State Of Play)
- Choronzon (Tangerine Dream)
- Transamazonica (Mythos)
- Dju Ya Feza (Zazou, Bikaye and CY1)
- Ya Na Ho (Jim Pepper)I)

Compilation italienne "non-officielle"

Namibia est extrait de The Wind Of Change - Robert Wyatt With The SWAPO Singers.

- COSMIC COMMUNICATIONS (DP-MF 02) EP

> Zoom

Light And Shade
1987

Light And Shade

- Oblivious (Aztec Camera)
- Love At First Sight (The Gist)
- Sacred Heart Hotel (Stars Of Heaven)
- Clock (Young Marble Giants)
- Strange Fruit (Robert Wyatt)
- Holocaust (Rainy Day)
- Harmony Drone (Shelleyann Orphan)
- I Don't Owe You Anything (Sandie Shaw)
- Walk Out To Winter (Aztec Camera)
- This Liberal Love (Microdisney)
- That Summer Feeling (Jonathan Richman)
- The View From Her Room (Weekend)
- Shipbuilding (Robert Wyatt)

Strange Fruit est extrait de At Last I'm Free/Strange Fruit.

Shipbuilding est extrait du EP Shipbuilding/Memories Of You/'Round Midnight.

- ROUGH TRADE (VIL-28080) LP

> Zoom

Ré Records Quarterly

- In Life's Hands (5 uu's)
- Chairman Mao (Robert Wyatt)
- Yeah Mom (John French)
- From Suite Koradi (Arturo Meza)
- Suite (Resume 84-86) (Intellectual Cabaret)
- Christi Crucifixi Ultima Verba (Jocelyn Robert)
- Dance (Hunk Hai!)
- The Barking Dogs Versus The Minimalists (Henry Kaiser)

Ce LP accompagnait le magazine édité par Chris Cutler "Ré Records Quarterly Magazine Volume 2 Number 2".

Chairman Mao a été initialement composé pour le livre-disque de Stampa Alternativa.

> Zoom

Vol. 2 N° 2
1987

> Zoom

Mimi 86
1987

> Zoom

Back On The Road
1988

- RE RECORDS (0202) LP

Festival M.I.M.I 86

- Big Be Big (Purely Purgative Blues) (The Remotobs)
- Blanc (Etron Fou Leloublan)
- Trente Et Un (Joseph Racaille et l'Ensemble Guillaume de Rachaux)
- Making Seek And Hide (Fred Frith)
- The Way Things Fall (Skeleton Crew)
- Idyllic Rhythms (part II) (Regular Music)
- Trahi Ton Secret (Virgule IV)
- Post-Polar (Les Batteries)
- Chanson Pop (= Alifib) (Pascal Comelade Et Le Bel Canto Orquestra) [R. Wyatt]
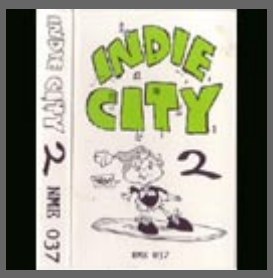
- Park Güell (Pascal Comelade et le Bel Canto Orquestra)

Premier Festival MIMI aux Arènes Coinon à Saint-Rémy-de-Provence entre le 3 et le 6 juillet 1986

- DISQUES INOUI/OBLIQUES MUSIQUE (06910 4680) LP

Cet album est également présent dans la rubrique Reprises.

Back On The Road - 32 Tracks Of The Very Best Of Progressive Underground



Disc 1
- All Right Now (Free)
- All Along The Watchtower (Jimi Hendrix)
- Living In The Past (Jethro Tull)
- Hocus Pocus (Focus)
- Eight Miles High (The Byrds)
- Rainbow Chaser (Nirvana)
- America/2nd Amendment (Nice)
- Northern Sky (Nick Drake)
- On The Road Again (Canned Heat)
- Paranoid (Black Sabbath)
- White Rabbit (Jefferson Airplane)
- Mona (Quicksilver Messenger Service)
- My White Bicycle (Tomorrow)
- Love Really Changed Me (Spooky Tooth)
- Race With The Devil (Gun)
- 10.30 Returns To The Bedroom (Soft Machine)

Disc 2
- Strange Brew (Cream)
- Silver Machine (Hawkwind)
- Meet On The Ledge (Fairport Convention)
- Fire (The Crazy World Of Arthur Brown)
- Woodstock (Matthews Southern Comfort)
- Paper Sun (Traffic)
- Do It (Pink Fairies)
- Tom Tiddler's Ground (Roy Harper)
- Black Night (Deep Purple)
- Out Demons Out (Edgar Broughton Band)
- Loves Like A Man (Ten Years After)
- Venus In Furs (Velvet Underground)
- Fresh Garbage (Spirit)
- One And One Is One (Medicine

10.30 Returns To The Bedroom est extrait de Soft Machine - Volume Two.

- STYLUS RECORDS (SMR 854) 2xLP

Head)
- Change Song (Blodwyn Pig)

> Zoom

Indie City 2
1988

Indie City 2

- Shine (House Of Love)
- Up The Hill And Down The Slope (The Loft)
- Dark streets Of London (The Pogues)
- Wide Open Road (The Triffids)
- Hand In Glove (The Smiths)
- Stalin Wasn't Stallin' (Robert Wyatt)
- There Goes Concord Again (And The Native Hipsters)
- Human Fly (The Cramps)
- Radio free Europe (REM)
- Gangsters (The Special AKA)
- Holiday In Cambodia (Dead Kennedys)
- Fat Man (The Southern Death Cult)
- Spiritwalker (The Cult)
- Really Stupid (The Primitives)
- Roadrunner Twice (Jonathan Richman)
- Hymn For The Village (James)
- Rowche Rumble (The Fall)
- Black Country Chain Massacre (Pop Will Eat Itself)
- Song To The Siren (This Mortal Coil)
- Murder (New Order)

Stalin Wasn't Stalling est extrait du single Stalin Wasn't Stalling/ Stalingrad.

- NME COMPILATION (037)
Cassette

> Zoom 1 2

100 Jahre Die Internationale
1988

100 Jahre Die Internationale

- Pete Seeger
- Delegierte des Berliner Vereinigungsparteitages der KPD und SPD, 1946
- Schalmei-Kapelle des R.F.B. Berlin-Cöpenick 16, Abteilung, 1929
- Matthias Kiessling (DDR) Bearbeiter:Matthias Kiessling
- Chor und Orchester des Rundfunks der UdSSR
- Balalaïkaorchester der Neuen Truppe, 1929
- Blasorchester der Staatkapelle Berlin. Bearbeiter: Hanns Eisler vermütlich 1933
- Ernst Busch (DDR) (Hans-Beimler-Lied, Text Ernst Buch, 1937)
- Teilnehmer der Trauerzuges für Pablo Neruda, 1973
- Ein Kubanisches Ensemble
- Rob van de Meeberg (Niederlande) Bearbeiter: Herman Schonnderwalt, Carl Schulze
- Robert Wyatt (Grossbritannien) Bearbeiter: Robert Wyatt
- Socialist Victory Choir (Grossbritannien) Bearbeiter: Fred Tomlinson
- Sogenanntes Linksradikales Blasorchester (BRD) ("Rote Sonne" - Bearbeiter: Heiner Goebbels)
- Eine Spieluhr
- Banda Musicale Della Città Di Collegno e gli Imputati el Processo dei "56" al Tribunale Di Torino, 1971 Bearbeiter: Aldo Costa
- Hannes Wader (BRD)
- Marc Ogeret (Frankreich)

The Internationale est extrait de l'album The Recommended Records Sampler.

- ETERNA (815171) LP

The Watt Works Family Album

- Fleur Carnivore (Carla Bley)
- Best Of Fields (Karen Mantler)
- Walking Batteriewoman (Carla Bley)
- L'Abattoir, A (Michael Mantler with Robert Wyatt)

L'Abattoir est extrait de Many Have No Speech.
Doubtful Guest est extrait de The Hapless Child.

The Watt Works Family Album
1989

- Crab Alley (Steve Swallow)
- When I Run (Michael Mantler)
- I Can't Stand Another Night Alone (In Bed With You) (Steve Weisberg)
- Allen (part 2) (Michael Mantler)
- Talking Hearts (Carla Bley)
- Twenty (Michael Mantler)
- I Hate To Sing (Carla Bley)
- Movie Six (Michael Mantler)
- Ad Infinitum (Carla Bley)
- Doubtful Guest (Michael Mantler with Robert Wyatt)
- Funnybird Song (Carla Bley)

- ECM RECORDS (3122-2) CD

Zoom

Old Playfellows (Reedit.)
1989

Ben Watt/Marine Girls/ Robert Wyatt

- Walter And John (Ben Watt & Robert Wyatt)
- Aquamarine (Ben Watt)
- Slipping Slowly (Ben Watt)
- Another Conversation With Myself (Ben Watt)
- A Girl In Winter (Ben Watt & Robert Wyatt)
- On My Mind (Marine Girls)
- The Lure Of The Rockpools (Marine Girls)
- Cant (Ben Watt)
- Tower Of Silence (Ben Watt)
- Aubade (Ben Watt)

Réédition japonaise (sans le titre de Tracey Thorne Goodbye Joe) de la compilation Old Playfellows parue en 1982 .

Walter And John et A Girl In Winter sont extraits de l'album Summer Into Winter

- VAP (85052-25) CD

> Zoom

Diving For Pearls - Volume 1
1989

Diving For Pearls

- Is Vic There (Department S)
- Sally Cinamon (The Stone Roses)
- Pale Blue Eyes (Edwyn Collins and Paul Quinn)
- A New England (Kirsty MacColl)
- Night And Day (Everything But The Girl)
- Good Technology (Red Guitars)
- Birthday (The Sugarcubes)
- Hypnotized (Spacemen 3)
- Cry Me A River (Mari Wilson)
- Jet Set Junta (The Monochrome Set)
- It's Obvious (The Au Pairs)
- Shipbuilding (Robert Wyatt)

Shipbuilding est extrait du EP Shipbuilding/Memories Of You/'Round Midnight.

- DINO ENTERTAINMENT (INDLP 1) LP
- DINO ENTERTAINMENT (DINCD 1) CD

> Zoom

Promo Version
1990

Cooking Vinyl

- Turn Things Upside Down (The Happy End With Robert Wyatt)
- Wondering Where The Lions Lions Are (Bruce Cockburn)
- Moyasta Junction (Davy Spillane)
- Mhorag's Na Horo Gheallaidh (Clannad)

Turn Things Upside Down est extrait de Turn Things Upside Down.

- COOKING VINYL - EP

Galaxy

- Diamonds In The Sky (Vangelis)
- The Passage (Seiler/Lorenz)

1/1 est extrait de Music For Airport.

> Zoom

Galaxy - Vol. 2
1990

- Bayreuth Return (Klaus Schulze)
- Ocean Of Tenderness (Ashra)
- Electronic Universe (Software)
- Sun And Moon (Michael Hoenig)
- Mount Teide (Mike Oldfield)
- 1/1 (Brian Eno With Robert Wyatt)
- A Fragile Landscape (Kit Watkins)
- Spacelab (Mind Over Matter)
- Syn-Code-Sunset (Software)
- Meditation (R.Wahnfried)

- INNOVATIVE (IC-710108) CD

> Zoom

A Constant Source
Of Interruption
1990

A Constant Source Of Interruption

- How Soon Is Now ? (Smiths)
- Oblivious (Aztec Camera)
- Lions in My Own Garden (Prefab Sprout)
- That Summer Feeling (Jonathan Richman & the Modern Lovers)
- Anatomy Of Love (Shelleyan Orphan)
- Politics (Girls At Our Best)
- I'll Keep It With Mine (Rainy Day)
- The Lights Of Tetouan (The Stars of Heaven)
- Move Me (Woodentops)
- Let's Go Swimming (Arthur Russell)
- Whistling In The Dark (Easterhouse)
- Stop That Girl (Vic Godard)
- View From Her Room (Weekend)
- River (Daniel Binttii)
- No-One's Little Girl (Raincoats)
- Shipbuilding (Robert Wyatt)

Shipbuilding est extrait du EP Shipbuilding/Memories Of You/'Round Midnight.

- ROUGH TRADE (LCD6004) CD

> Zoom

Oh Boy... The Compilation
1990

Oh Boy... The Compilation

- Twistin' The Night Away (from "That's all you need") (The Faces)
- It's A Plain Shame (from "Humble Pie + Peter Frampton Live in '73") (Peter Frampton)
- Ride Sally ride (from "What ever happened to Dick and Steve?") (LouReed)
- The Rake (from "It's not you") (Edgar Broughton Band)
- Superstitious (from "Let me love you") (Beck, Bogart & Appice)
- Wishing Well (from "Free or dead") (Free)
- Hymn 43 (from "A new day yesterday") (Jethro Tull)
- Children Of The Grave (from "Metal mess") (Black Sabbath)
- Whole Lotta Love (from "1st April (A Paris affair)") (Led Zeppelin)
- Hard Monkeys (from "Live in the Bronx") (Ten Years After)
- Dixie Chicken / Triple face Boogie (from "When the shit hits the fan") (Little Feat)
- Meeting Of The Spirits (from "Live") (Mahavishnu Orchestra)
- Moon In June (from "Live") (Soft Machine)
- Many Are Called - But Few Get Up (from "Brazilian cucumber meet Deke's new nose") (Man)

An edition promo sampler of the bootleg label Oh Boy, limited to 1000 copies.

Live recordings from various sources and dates.

Moon In June est extrait de Soft Machine Live.

- OH BOY (1-9000) CD

> Zoom

> Zoom

> Zoom

Ambition Vol.1 & 2
1991

The History Of Cherry Red Records - Vol.1 & 2

Disc 1
- Bored
- Right Now
- Holiday In Cambodia
- Too Drunk To Fuck
- What Stanley Saw
- You Scare Me To Death
- History Of Rock & Roll
- Rangers In The Nightst (Robert Wyatt)
- Da Ya Think I'm Sexy?
- Celebration
- Hungry So Angry
- Four Corners Of the Earth
- It's A Fine Day
- Sunbursts In
- Chenko
- Johnny Du Lump
- Die Liebe
- Girl
- This Brilliant Evening
- Primitive Painters
- Look Of Love
- Psych-Out
- World
- What's In Your Mind (Mexico 70)

Disc 2
- Jet Set Junta (The Monochrome Set)
- Night and Day (Everything But The Girl)
- From A to B (Eyeless In Gaza)
- Something Sends Me To Sleep (Felt)
- Plain Sailing (Tracey Thorn)
- If She Doesn't Smile (It'll Rain) (Fantastic Something)
- Letter from America (Thomas Leer)
- Xoyo (The Passage)
- Walter And John (Ben Watt With Robert Wyatt)
- Your Holiness (Kevin Coyne)
- On My Mind (Marine Girls)
- Mating Game (The Monochrome Set)
- Spain (Kevin Hewick)
- Talking Glamour (Marc Bolan)
- Foreign Correspondent (Morgan Fisher)
- Penelope Tree (Felt)
- Taboos (The Passage)
- Simply Couldn't Care (Tracey Thorn)
- You Frighten (Eyeless In Gaza)
- Paraffin Brain (The Nightingales)
- Departure (Ben Watt)
- How To Die With Style (Quentin Crisp)
- English Rose (Everything But The Girl)

Rangers in the Nightst est extrait de Miniatures.
Water And John est extrait du EP Summer Into Winter.

- CHERRY RED (CD BRED140)
  2xCD

> Zoom

Before The Fall
1991

Peel Sessions 1967-1977

- Spanish Castle Magic (Jimi Hendrix)
- Songs Of Yesterday (Free)
- Doin' Alright (Queen)
- Ballad Of A Well-Known Gun (Elton John)
- Lady Eleanor (Lindisfarne)
- Rosalyn (Pretty Things)
- Fire (Arthur Brown)
- I'd Rather Go Blind (Chicken Shack)
- Marlene (Kevin Coyne)
- Pictures In The Sky (Medicine Head)
- Sun Eye (T Rex)
- Dedicated To You But You Weren't Listening (Soft Machine)
- Geheim (Can)
- Check Out (Family)
- Dancing In The Moonlight (Thin Lizzy)
- Once I Was (Tim Buckley)
- The Fiddle And The Drum (June Tabor)
- Sofa Head (Bonzo Dog Doo Dah Band)
- Baby Lemonade (Syd Barrett)
- Janitor of Lunacy (Nico)

Dedicated to You But You Weren't Listening est extrait de Soft Machine - Volume Two.

- STRANGE FRUIT (SFRLP 203)
  2xLP
- STRANGE FRUIT (SFRCD 203)
  CD

> Zoom

A Historical Debt
1991

A Historical Debt

- Oblivious (Aztec Camera)
- Push Me Shove Me (Live) (Erasure)
- Halo (Depeche Mode)
- Possible Worlds (The Shamen)
- Pump Up The Volume (Marrs)
- The Sweetest Girl (Scritti Politti)
- Birthday (The Sugarcubes)
- Phobia (Flowered Up)
- The Only One I Know (The Charlatans)
- Sleep Well Tonight (Inspiral Carpets)
- Well Well Well (The Woodentops)
- Godlike (The Dylans)
- All My Dreams Are Dead (Television Personalities
- Jeane (Sandie Shaw)
- Shipbuilding (Robert Wyatt)
- Skin Storm (Bradford)
- Let's Kiss And Make Up (The Field Mice)
- I Wonder Why (The Heart Throbs)
- Arc-Lite (Loop)
- Gods Zoo (Death Cult)

The Sweetest Girl est extrait de Songs To Remember.
Shipbuilding est extrait du EP Shipbuilding/Memories Of You/'Round Midnight.

- BEECHWOOD RECORDS (HIST1 CD) CD
- BEECHWOOD RECORDS (HIST1 LP) 2xLP

Selections From Vol.2
1991

The ReR Quaterly

- Chairman Mao (Robert Wyatt)
- Wedding (Iva Bittova/Pavel Fajt)
- Tra le Due Inghiltterre (LA 1919)
- Christi Crucifixi Ultima Verba (Jocelyn Robert)
- Pageant For Blinking Signal (James Grigsby)
- Flaubears Dancing (J. Lachan)
- Barking Of Dogs Vs. The Minimalists (Henry Kaiser)
- Picasso's Last Stand (Increase The Angle)
- All Thumbs (Bill Gilonis)
- Eggs And I (David Thomas)
- Pegase (Jospeh Racaille)
- Klangfarbenprobe (John Oswald)
- Warsong (Musci/Venosta)
- Ridens/Orbiston/Parva (Luciano Margiorani)
- In Life's Hands (5UU'S)
- Warheads (James Grigsby)
- Under The X-Mas Tree (When)
- Usa Intolerance (Jean Derome)

Chairman Mao a été initialement composé pour le livre-disque de Stampa Alternativa

- RECOMMENDED RECORDS (RERQCD2) CD

> Zoom

The Indie Scene 1982
1992

The Indie Scene 1982 : The Story Of British Independent Music

- Pillar To Post (Aztec Camera)
- Revolutionary Spirit (The Wild Swans)
- Things That Have Learnt to Walk That Ought to Crawl (The Room)
- Night and Day (Everything But the Girl)
- Marching On (The Alarm)
- Shipbuilding (Robert Wyatt)
- Temptation (New Order)
- Saturday Night Special (Fad Gadget)
- Lonely Spy (Lori and the Chameleons)
- On Interstate 15 (Wall of Voodoo)
- All About You (Thomas Leer)
- My Spine Is The Bassline (Shriekback)
- Conspiracy (The Higsons)
- More Than A Dream (The Farmers Boys)

Shipbuilding est extrait du EP Shipbuilding/Memories Of You/'Round Midnight.

- CONNOISSEUR COLLECTION (IBM CD 82) CD

- On My Mind (The Marine Girls)
- Beat the Beat (Mari Wilson With The Wilsations)
- Viva la Revolution (The Adicts)
- Open Your Eyes (The Lords Of The New Church)
- Shaving My Neck (Gene Loves Jezebel)
- Pagan Love Song (Virgin Prunes)
- Xoyo (The Passage)
- Nellie The Elephant (The Toy Dolls)

> Zoom

The Indie Scene 1985
1992

The Indie Scene 1985 : The Story Of British Independent Music

- The Wind Of Change (Robert Wyatt)
- Ball Of Confusion (Love & Rockets)
- Cruisers Creek (The Fall)
- A New England (Billy Bragg)
- It Will Come (The Woodentops)
- Be With Me (Red Guitars)
- Ironmasters (Men They Couldn't Hang)
- Action Paintings (The Blue Aeroplanes)
- Up The Hill And Down The Slope (The Loft)
- You Are My Friend (Rain Parade)
- Ambassadors Of Love (Milkshakes)
- I'm Alright With You (Pastels)
- What's Happening (Jasmine Minks)
- Don't Slip (Meat Whiplash)
- VP (That Petrol Emotion)
- When It All Comes Down (Icicle Works)
- Death Valley '69 (Sonic Youth)
- Crawfish (Johnny Thunders & Patti Paladin)
- Desire (Gene Loves Jezebel)
- Diving For Pearls (1000 Mexicans)

The Wind Of Change est extrait du EP The Wind Of Change.

- CONNOISSEUR COLLECTION (IBM CD 85) CD

> Zoom

Ptolemaic Terrascope Magazine #9
1992

Ptolemaic Terrascope Magazine

- Emily Grace (Green Pajamas)
- Intro And Outro (Robert Wyatt)
- Bluff (Mandragora)
- Ragana (Mick Hutchinson)

- Robert Wyatt - piano

Single diffusé avec le n° 1 - Vol.3 de janvier 1992 de la revue anglaise Ptolemaic Terrascope - EP

American Clavé
1993

American Clavé

Disc 1
- Salute To Elegua
- Tanguedia III
- "...When I Lose Myself In The Darkeness Of Love, No, This Love..."
- ...She Turned So That Maybe a Third Of Her Face Was In This Fuckin'
- 'sputin
- Jes' Grew
- Make Love 2
- Ah, Intruder! (Female)
- Prelude to the Cyclical Night, Pt. 1
- First And Last To Love Me (2, December)
- Ebioso

Curtsy est extrait de Darn It.

- AMERICAN CLAVE RECORDS (AMCL 1020/26 2) 2xCD

- Author Reflects On His Thirty-Fifth Birthday
- Curtsy (Paul Haines with Robert Wyatt)
- At The Moment Of the Serve

Disc 2
- Meaning A Visa
- Two (Still in Half Light)
- Soledad
- Fool-Ology (The Song)
- Lover Divides Time (To Hear How It Sounds)
- India Song
- Poem For Gretchen Ruth
- New Fast
- Velasquez
- There Aren't These Things)

> Zoom

Weird And Wonderful
1993

Weird And Wonderful

- Hello Or Goodbye (The Magnolias)
- Grid Of Absence (Brick Supply)
- Endless Fall (Lydia Lunch & Rowland S. Howard)
- The Ghost Of Lonnie Mack (The Beat Poets)
- He's Dead (Suede)
- Light Of Life (The Celibate Rifles)
- God Cries (Zuzu´s Petals)
- Everytime (Sofahead)
- Slack (Bivouac)
- Loretta's Scars (Pavement)
- Worship (Robert Wyatt)
- While You Were Out (Carter USM)
- Sennen (Ride)
- Jigsaw Blues (Nikki Sudden)
- Here's Johnny (Blaggers ITA)
- Springtime (Leatherface)
- Buffalo Bill (The Boo Radleys)
- Burning Hole (Crane)
- My Right (Unsane)

Worship est extrait de Dondestan.

- ROUGH TRADE (JAC-001) CD

> Zoom

Mr Collector Turns You On
1993

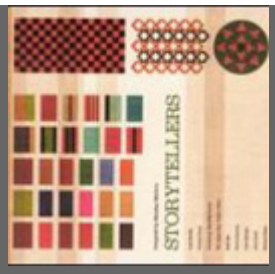
Mr Collector Turns You On

- Why Dontcha (West, Bruce & Laing)
- Stone County (Johnny Winter)
- Sweet Burgundi (Tommy Bolin)
- Mean Old Frisco Blues (Muddy Waters)
- Priceless (Ronnie Wood)
- Coo-Coo (Big Brother & The Holding Company Featuring Janis Joplin)
- Let's Go Home (John Hammond)
- For Yasgur's Farm (Mountain)
- Slow Blues (Mick Taylor)
- Stompin' At The Savoy (The Charlie Watts Orchestra)
- E.P.V. (Soft Machine)
- To Carla, Marsha And Caroline (Robert Wyatt)

Promo Version.

To Carla, Marsha And Caroline est extrait de The End Of An Ear.

- COLUMBIA (SAMPCD 1733) CD



> Zoom

16 Tracks By The Great Singersongwriters Of Today

- Fisherman's Blues (The Waterboys)
- Sunshine On Leith (The Proclaimers)
- This Beautiful Pain (Runrig)
- Candle In The Wind (Elton John)
- Anchorage (Michelle Shocked)
- Don't Go (Hothouse Flowers)
- My Old Friend The Blues (Eddi Reader)
- Copperhead Road (Steve Earle)
- Walk On The Wild Side (Lou Reed)
- Shipbuilding (Robert Wyatt)
- War Baby (Tom Robinson)
- Cry Cry (Oysterband)

Shipbuilding est extrait du EP Shipbuilding/Memories Of You/'Round Midnight.

- NECTAR (NTRCD 012) CD

Storytellers
1994

- Find My Love (Fairground Attraction)
- River Boat Song (J.J. Cale)
- All The Way From America (Joan Armtrading)
- Hawaiian Island World (World Party)

> Zoom

Twilight Notes
1995

Twilight Notes

- Beginn Musik der Zwitter CD (Max Goldt)
- Youth (Spartak)
- Venice Shoes (The Bathers)
- Cheerio (Malaria)
- Drifting Monsters (Rain On Bamboo)
- Sunrise (And Also The Trees)
- Simple Mind (The Pachinko Fake)
- Being In Light (Twice A Man)
- Monsoon (Dissidenten)
- Ship Of Fools (The Residents)
- Gloria Gloom (The More Extended Versions) [R. Wyatt/B. McCormick]
- Lass und ein Wunder sein (Ton Steine Scherben)
- A Better Place (The Setters)
- From Temptation To You (Jeffrey Lee Pierce)
- Down By The Drum (The Vision)

Compilation

- INDIGO (3001-2) CD

Red Heaven
1995

Red Heaven - 20 Of Best From The Cherry Red Label

- It's a fine day (Jane)
- An mp speaks (Mc Carthy)
- Plain sailing (Tracey Thorn)
- Everybody's problem (Pulp)
- On my mind (Marine Girls)
- Sunbursts in (Eyeless In Gaza)
- Xoyo (The Passage)
- All about you (Thomas Leer)
- Nicky (Momus)
- Cat black (the wizard's hat) (Marc Bolan)
- Watery Song (Maurice Deebank)
- Trial of doctor Fancy (King Of Luxembourg)
- Night and day (Everything But The Girl)
- If she doesn't smile (Fantastic Something)
- Walter And John (Ben Watt & Robert Wyatt)
- Jet set junta (The Monochrome Set)
- Parafin brain (The Nightingales)
- This brilliant evening (In Embrace)
- You mary you (Louis Phillipe)
- Reach for your gun (Bid)

Water And John est extrait du EP Summer Into Winter.

- CHERRY RED (NTMCD 520) CD

Raccolta Differenziata 2

- Wait Until Tomorrow (Caetano Veloso/Gilberto Gil)
- Trombonik Tanz (Don Byron)
- Swedish Reggae (Piirpauke)
- Al Fin Te Vi (Cachao)
- Street Music (Dr Didg)
- Our Spanish Love Song (Charlie Haden Quartet West)

Compilation produite par Radio Popolare de Milan (Italie).

A Little Something est extrait de Flotsam Jetsam.

- MERCURY (525 833-2) CD

> Zoom

Raccolta Differenziata 2
1995

- Babuji Dheere Chalna (Geeta Duit)
- Boeves Psalm (Lars Hollmer)
- Zamba del Che (Daniele Sepe)
- Flor Formosa (Travadinha)
- Rah Yabki (Cheika Remitti)
- Agolo (Angelique kidjo)
- A Countess From Hong Kong (Thomas Beckmann)
- A Little Something (Robert Wyatt & Friends)
- Bella Ciao (Tony Coe)

> Zoom

Progressive Rock
1995

Progressive Rock

- America (Nice)
- Time Of Your Life (Daevid Allen)
- Moon In June (Soft Machine)
- You Can't Kill Me (Gong)
- Dedicated To Hugh, But You Weren't Listening (Matching Mole)
- Hurricane Fighter Plane (Red Krayola)
- Intermezzo For Karelia Suite (Nice)
- Urban Guerrilla (Hawkwind)

Moon In June est extrait de Third.

Dedicated To Hugh, But You Weren't Listening est extrait de Matching Mole.

- HOBBY & WORK ITALIANA EDITRICE (GRH0018) CD

Ambitious ?
1996

A Collection Of Some Of Britain's Most Influential Alternative Artists

- Holiday in Cambodia (Dead Kennedys)
- What Stanley Saw (Matt Johnson)
- You Scare Me To Death (Marc Bolan)
- On My Mind (Everything But The Girl)
- History Of Rock 'n' Roll (Andy Partridge)
- Rangers In The Nightst (Robert Wyatt)
- D'ya Think I'm Sexy (Hybrid Kids)
- Celebration (Morgan-Fisher)
- Hungry, So Angry (Medium, Medium)
- Jet Set Junta (The Monochrome Set)
- Die Liebe (Laibach)
- Serpico (Prolapse)
- Chenko (Red Box)
- Goodbye Joe (Tracey Thorn)
- Primitive Painters (Felt)
- World (Blow-Up)
- The Look Of Love (Martyn Bates)
- The Sadness Of Things (Momus)

Rangers in the Nightst est extrait de Miniatures.

- CBS RECORDS (CS-8529-2) CD

Resurgence

- The Hands Of Che Guevara (Jakko)
- Wildlife Choir (Anthony Phillips)
- Then And Now (Jakko)
- Crimsworth (Extract) (Bill Nelson)
- Lonely Swan (Holi)
- The Tin Man (Boon)
- Eastern Cool (Bj Cole)
- No. 1 (Extract) (Peter Knight And Danny Thompson)
- Ingenuity (Ultravox)

Kew Rhone est extrait de Songs.

CD distribué avec le magazine "The Wire" de mars 1996.

- RESURGENCE (RES001CD) CD

Resurgence
1996

- Dangerous Dreams (Jakko)
- Begin To Burn (Bill Nelson)
- Kew Rhone (John Greaves And Robert Wyatt)
- Luna Park (Culturemix With Bill Nelson)
- Flipside (Bill Nelson)
- Babyship Blue (No-Man)
- Angeldust (No-Man With Robert Fripp)

> Zoom

20 Years Of Resistance To Genocide In East Timor
1996

20 Years Of Resistance To Genocide In East Timor

Disc 1
- Amnesty International Appeal For East Timor (Peter Gabriel)
- Fourteen Black Paintings (Peter Gabriel)
- Hands Touching Earth (Paul Moran)
- Kolele Mai (Midnight Oil)
- Priests Of The Golden Bull (Buffy Sainte-Marie)
- East Timor (Ginger Baker)
- Esquadrao Da Morte (Xutos & Pontapés)
- Mothers Of The Disappeared (U2)
- Minha Mae Timor Esta Chorando (Abe Ho Aloz)

Disc2
- Timor From Overseas (MacDonald / Gang)
- Breaking The Silence (Loreena McKennitt)
- Soldado Java (Agio Pereira)
- An Indonesian Appeal (Anonymous)
- Jiwaku Jiwaku (Abe Ho Aloz)
- Casualties Of War (Susan Aglukark)
- Timor (Yothu Yindi)
- O Hele La (Abe Ho Aloz)
- Self-Determination Day (Aloz)
- Em Portugues Vos Amamos (Bonga)
- East Timor (Robert Wyatt)

East Timor est extrait de Old Rottenhat.

- HANDS FREE RECORDS HANDS20CD) 2xCD

> Zoom

Best Of Acid Jazz
1996

Best Of Acid Jazz

Disc 1
- Cantaloop (Us3)
- Space Cowboy (Jamiroquai)
- Midnight At The Oasis [Radio Version] (The Brand New Heavies)
- Everyday [Bluey's 7" Mix] (Incognito)
- Turn On, Tune In, Cop Out [Radio Mix] (Freak Power)
- People In Tha Middle (Spearhead)
- Feel So High (Des'ree)
- Rebirth Of Slick [Cool Like Dat] (Digable Planets)
- Feel The Music (Guru)
- Been Thinking About You [Original Opaz Mix] (Martine Girault)
- So What! (Ronny Jordan)
- Real Love [Nush Glamour Mix] (Drizabone)
- Never Stop [Radio Edit] (The Brand New Heavies)
- Spiritual Love [Natural 7"] (Urban Species)
- Green Screen (New Jersey Kings)
- Mission Impossible (The James Taylor Quartet)
- Keep Steppin' (Omar) 3:50
- Heavy Vibes (Vibraphonic)
- Boundaries [Radio Edit] Leena Conquest & Hip Hop Finger
- Take The L Train [To 8th Avenue] (Brooklyn Funk Essentials)

Disc 2
- Whole Lotta Love (Goldbug)
- Apparently Nothin' [Edit] (Young Disciples)
- Masterplan (Diana Brown & Barrie K Sharpe)
- Something In My Eye (Corduroy)
- Venceremos (Working Week)
- Whirl Keeps Turning [Radio Edit] (Jhelisa)

- Robert Wyatt - vocals

This 5:08 version mix is exclusive to this CD.

- GLOBAL TV (RADCD 35) 2xCD

- Dream Come True (The Brand New Heavies)
- D'Influence [Wow Original] [Dance Energy Edit] (Good Lover)
- Promise Me Nothing [Album Version] (Repercussions)
- The Creator Has A Masterplan (Brooklyn Funk Essentials)
- Now Is The Time [Original Version] (D*Note)
- Find Our Love (City Lix)
- 24 For Betty Page (Snowboy)
- Follow That Arab (Corduroy)
- Turn It All Around (This I Dig)
- Watcha Gonna Do (Xan)
- Whatchugot (Groove Collective)
- Funky Guitar [Sure Shot Deep Mix] (TC 1992)
- Jesse (Mother Earth)
- Let It Last (Carleen Anderson))

> Zoom

Ocean Of Sound 2
1996

Crooning On Venus

- Rangers In The Nightst (Robert Wyatt)
- Time (Sly And The Family Stone)
- Yet So Beautiful (Laurel Macdonald)
- Cais (Milton Nascimento)
- I Still Love Albert Einstein (Earthling)
- Mercury (Royal Tree)
- See Through Love (Arthur Russell)
- My Ideal (Chet Baker)
- I See You Again (Stina Nordenstam)
- Take Me As I Am (John Lee Hooker)
- Starsailor (Tim Buckley)
- Singing Before Hunting (Yanomani Young Men)
- Rain (Tenko/Ikue Mori)
- Taita Inty (Yma Samac)
- Scott walker
- White Jam (Captain Beefheart)
- Young And Supernatural (Lilacs)
- Falling (Judee Cruise)
- Martyn Bates And Mick Harriss
- Autumn Leaves (Coldcut)
- Prelude/Lawns Of Dreams (Nico)
- Protection (Massive Attack)
- Cronica Da Casa Assassinanda (Tom Joblin)
- Diabarum (Ryuichi Sakatmoto)
- Wind Chimes (Beach Boys)
- Honey Moon (Haruomi Hosono)
- You Will Be Loved Again (Mary Margaret O'Hara)
- Twilight Zone (Dr John)
- Higher Than The Sun (Primal Scream)
- Brilliant Trees (David Sylvian)
- Small Hours (John Martyn)
- Ever So Lonely/Eyes/Ocean (Sheila Chandra)
- Lifeforms (The Future Sound Of London)

Rangers in the Nightst est extrait de Miniatures.

- VIRGIN (7245 8 41718 2.7) 2xCD

> Zoom

Untitled
40 Amazing Tracks
One Brilliant Album
1996

Untitled

Disc 1
- Live Forever (Oasis)
- Stupid Girl (Garbage)
- Girls & Boys (Blur)
- Wake Up Boo! (The Boo Radleys)
- Ladykillers (Lush)
- Change (Lightning Seeds)
- King Of The Kerb (Echobelly)
- Waking Up (Elastica)
- Uh Huh Oh Yeh (Paul Weller)
- A Girl Like You (Edwyn Collins)
- Countdown (Pulp)
- Waterfall (The Stone Roses)
- Movin' On Up (Primal Scream)
- Creep (Radiohead)
- Stay Together (Suede)
- Can U Dig It? (The Mock Turtles)
- Weak (Skunk Anansie)

Shipbuilding est extrait du EP Shipbuilding/Memories Of You/'Round Midnight.

- GLOBAL TELEVISION (RADCD32) 2xCD

- Neighbourhood (Space)
- You & Me Song (The Wannadies)
- Dizzy (Vic Reeves & The Wonder Stuff)

Disc 2
- Regret (New Order)
- Get The Message (Electronic)
- This Charming Man (The Smiths)
- Made Of Stone (The Stone Roses)
- Can't Be Sure (The Sundays)
- I'll Stand By You (The Pretenders)
- Road To Nowhere (Talking Heads)
- I Scare Myself (Thomas Dolby)
- Love Shack (The B-52's)
- Shipbuilding (Robert Wyatt)
- Just The One (The Levellers)
- Fishermans Blues (The Waterboys)
- Message In The Box (World Party)
- Mary's Prayer (Danny Wilson)
- Like Lovers Do (Lloyd Cole)
- Somewhere In My Heart (Aztec Camera)
- Don't Go (Hothouse Flowers)
- King Of Rock N' Roll (Prefab Sprout)
- Twist And Shout (Deacon Blue)
- Missing (Blanco / Eternal Radio Edit)(Everything But The Girl)

> Zoom

Dead & Gone
1997

Dead & Gone - Trauermärsche/Funeral Marches

- Leichenzug mit Blaskapelle
- Tres Marias (Banda De Tontontepec)
- Our Prayer (Albert Ayler)
- Song For Che (Robert Wyatt)
- A Village Funeral (Brass Band And Village Drummers In The Fantio Area)
- Nearer Ma God To Thee (Tuxedo Brass Band)
- Trauer-Sturmmarsch (Begräbniskapelle Aus Saigon)
- Hymn (Vrieze's, Jopie Klein Bazuin)
- West Lawn Dirge/Just A Closer Walk With Thee (Buck Funk & Reverend Anthony W. Reves)
- Karfreitagsprozession (Banda Musicale Vucciria,Palermo)
- Begräbnismelodie (Serbische Blaskapelle)
- Marche funèbre (Central Band Of The Raf)
- In The Sweet Bye And Bye (Olympia Brass Band)
- Ases Death (Willem Breuker Kollektief)
- Trauermarsch (Sogenanntes Linksradikales Blasorchester)
- Free As A Bird (Mike Westbrook Orchestra)
- Just A Closer Walk With Thee (George Lewis Eureka Brass Band)
- The Old Rugged Cross (Treme Brass Band)
- Anywhere I Lay My Head (Tom Waits)

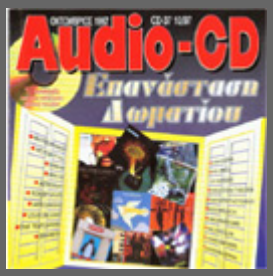
Song For Che est extrait de Ruth Is Stranger Than Richard.

- TRIKONT RECORDS (CD 02342) CD

> Zoom

Never Been Higher! - 16 Musical Encouters Of A Different Kind

- All The Way From Memphis (Mott The Hoople)
- Once Bitten Twice Shy (Ian Hunter)
- God Gave Rock And Roll To You (Argent)
- Moon In June (excerpt) (Soft Machine)
- When The Train Comes (Sutherland Brothers, Quiver)
- Fresh Garbage (Spirit)
- Cosmic Wheels (Donovan)–



Promotion CD giveaway forming part of a Sony Rewind campaign by Sony Music and Andy's Records.

Duration of the excerpt from Moon In June : 4:12 (!)

- COLUMBIA (XPCD2172) CD

Never Been Higher!
1997

- Edward (Nicky Hopkins)
- Ain't No Love In The Heart In The City (Café Jacques)
- Killing Floor (The Electric Flag)
- Black Magic Woman (Fleetwood Mac)
- I'd Rather Go Blind (Christine Perfect)
- Stoned Soul Picnic (Laura Nyro)
- Statesboro' Blues (Taj Mahal)
- No Regrets (The Walker Brothers)
- Beasley Street (John Cooper Clarke)

> Zoom

Audio-CD 37
1997

Audio-CD

- Revolution In Apt 29 (Wayne Kramer)
- Master Celebrator (Not Fun At All)
- If You Say So (Samiam)
- With Automatic Shut Off (Man Or Astroman ?)
- Free Will And Testament (Robert Wyatt)
- Mando Civilizado (Arto Lindsay)
- Mi Nuera / Estando Padre Cura (Louis Delgado)
- In Search Of My Rose (The Tear Garden)
- Indigo (Brainbox)
- Garden Of Fascination (Tom Kazas)
- Fall (Single Gun Theory)
- Eerie Woman (Fantasyy Factoryy)
- Crazy Water (Bokomolech)
- Seen Enough (Kingdom Come)
- Twenty Two (Millencolin)
- Timora (Homo Sapiens)
- [caractères grecs = Diaphana Krina (Kat'archen)]

CD distribué avec le magazine grec Audio Fanzine.

Free Will And Testament est extrait de Shleep.

- AUDIO-CD (CD 37) CD

> Zoom

Une Rentrée 97
1997

Les Inrockuptibles

- Sonnet (The Verve)
- Dream (Forest For The Trees)
- Seven Months (Portishead)
- All Is Full Of Love (Björk)
- Supreme I (Finley Quaye)
- Sounds Of Time (Pressure Drop)
- Good Shit (Cornershop)
- Miss Modular (Stereolab)
- Egérie (Sylvain Vanot)
- On S'attache (Zézé Mago)
- Station Coffee (Jonathan Fire Easter)
- Turn It On (Sleater-Kinney)
- Je Ne Veux Pas Mourir (Mendelson)
- Modern Style (Jean Bart)
- Slim (Alpha)
- Heaps Of Sheeps (Robert Wyatt)
- Talisman (Air)
- Weather Storm (Craig Armstrong)

CD distribué avec le N° 118 de septembre 97 du magazine français Les Inrockuptibles.

Heaps Of Sheeps est extrait de Shleep.

- LES INROCKUPTIBLES - CD

A Progressive And Art Rock Primer
1997

A Progressive And Art Rock Primer

- Germ Patrol (Egg)
- Soup Song (Robert Wyatt)
- How Beautiful You Are (Peter Blegvad)
- Wingful Of Eyes (Gong)
- Spectral Mornings (Steve Hackett)
- My Experience (Peter Hammill)
- Theme One (Van Der Graaf Generator)
- Hang On To A Dream (Nice)
- TNK (Tomorrow Never Knows) (Phil Manzanera)
- Out In The Sun (Patrick Moraz)
- Casablanca Moon (Slapp Happy)
- In The Dead Of Might (UK)
- Nothing To Lose (John Weston)

Soup Song est extrait de Ruth Is Stranger Than Richard.

- VIRGIN (CDOVD 497) CD

> Zoom

Earful Sampler
1997

Earful Sampler

- Main Theme (Joey Altruda With The Cocktail Crew)
- Say That Then (Mark Shannon)
- O Grande Lance... Fazer Romance (Viniclus Cantuaria)
- Free Will And Testament (Robert Wyatt)
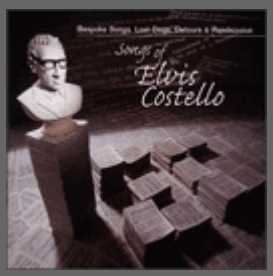
- Fourth Of July - This Is Our Music (Galaxie 500)
- Q Samba (Arto Lindsay)
- Cripple Creek (Mr Hobart Smith)
- Down Where The Drunkards Roll (Maura O'Connell)
- Mar V Tierra (iCubanismol starring Jesus Alemaffy)
- That's Alright (Kelly Joe Phelps)
- A Song From Madocsa (Marta Sebstyen And Muzsikas)
- Fast Tenintu
- This Is As Close As We Get (Lullaby For The Working Class)
- Tongues Of Kali (Martyn Bennett)
- Seretonality (Mr Didg)
- The Mermaid (Paul Clayton)
- The Coming Rains (Bruce Cockburn)
- Hand In Hand (Bruce Cockburn)

Free Will And Testament est extrait de Shleep.

- EARFUL (EARCD001) CD

> Zoom

Strani Frutti
1997



Strani Frutti

- Chimes of Freedom (Youssou'n'Dour)
- Inner City Blues (Working Week)
- Hasta Siempre Comandante (Tony Coe)
- Strange Fruit (Nina Simone)
- I Fought The Law (The Oyster Band)
- El Paso Del Ebro (Henry Lowther)
- Grandola Villa Morena (Charlie Haden)
- Te Recuerdo Amanda (Robert Wyatt)
- A Change Is Gonna Come (Neville Brothers)
- Thulasizwe/I Shall Be Released (Miriam Makeba)
- Working Class Hero (Marianne Faithfull)
- In Kamf (The Klezmatics)
- Nkosi Sikelel 'i Africa - Amampondo + Solid Brass Quintet (Intsholo)
- The Internationale (Billy Bragg)
- We Shall Overcome (Charlie Haden Liberation Music Orchestra)

Compilation produite par Radio Popolare de Milan (Italie).

Te Recuerdo Amanda est extrait de Work In Progress.

- POLYDOR/POLYGRAM ITALIA (555 284-2) CD

> Zoom

Bespoke Songs, Lost Dogs, Detours & Rendezvous
1998

Songs Of Elvis Costello

- Girls Take (Dave Edumnds)
- Unwanted Number (Fro Real)
- My Brave Face (Paul McCartney)
- Hidden Shame (Johnny Cash)
- All Grown Up (Tasmin Archer
- Miss Mary (Zucchero)
- Shadow & Jimmy (Was(Not Was)
- Upon A Veil Of Midnight Blue (Mary Coughlan)
- Deep Dead Blue (Anuna)
- The Comedians (Roy Orbison)
- The Deportees Club (Christy Moore
- Punishing Kiss (Annie Ross & The Low Note Quintet)
- Shamed Into Love (Ruben Blades)
- Shatterproof (Billy Bremner)
- Dirty Rotten Shame (Ronnie Drew)
- Shipbuilding (Robert Wyatt)
- The Birds Will Still Be Singing (Norma Tabor)
- I Want To Vanish (June Tabor)
- The Other End Of The Telescope (Til Tuesday)

Shipbuilding est extrait du EP Shipbuilding/Memories Of You/'Round Midnight.

- RHINO RECORDS (R2 75273) CD

- Indoor Fireworks (Nick Lowe & His Cowboy Outfit)
- Almost Blue (Chet Baker)

Further Mutations
1998

Lo Recordings, Vol. 4: Further Mutations

- Feeling Brown, Pt. 1 (Twisted Science)
- Pooo (Peter Kraut)
- Spiegels
- Blasted Wook (Luke Vibert)
- See Sawing Sea (David Kristian)
- Clockwork (Cujo)
- Time's T-Bone
- We Can't Play for Shit E (Wormhole)
- DMN97
- Wooden League (Voafose)
- Feelin' Brown, Pt. 2 (Twisted Science)
- Lo-Band-Width
- My Name Is Sugar Caine (Barbed)
- Space Notes (The Mellowtrons)
- Cry From the City (2 Player Widescreen Mix) (Fish Out Of Water + Robert Wyatt)
- Cloaking Device
- Scratch (Ganger)
- Itch You Can't Fucking Scratch (Richard Thomas)
- Epicycle
- Eternal Boy (Bedouin Ascent)
- I'm Going to Hit the Ground Running (Richard Thomas)
- Careful With That Rake Eugene (Thurston Moore)
- White Painted Roads (2 Player)
- Demo (Freezer)

Cry from the City est extrait de Lucky Scars.

- LO RECORDINGS (LCD 05) CD

> Zoom

Celestial Voyagers
1998

New Visions/Celestial Voyagers

- Flightpath (Jonn Serrie)
- The Velocity of Love (Suzanne Ciani)
- Full Moon (Tim Wheater)
- Tubular Bells [excerpt] (Mike Oldfield)
- Crystal *White *Fire *Light [excerpt] (Iasos)
- Prelude (Vangelis)
- Harry's Game [From Patriot Games] (Clannad)
- Sacred Heart (Patrick OHearn)
- Starflight 1 (Kevin Braheny)
- On the Way [Space Caravan] (Michael Stearns)
- Courage (Ed VanFleet)
- Touchwood (Tangerine Dream)
- Novus Magnificat: Through the Stargate, Pt. 2 [excerpt] (Constance Demby)
- Shining by the River (Richard Burmer)
- 1/1 [Excerpt] (Brian Eno + Robert Wyatt)
- Crystal Cathedral (Steven Halpern)

1/1 est extrait de Music For Airport.

- RHINO (75266) CD

Alternative Press

-- Kitty Kat Max (1,000 Clowns)
- From Your Mouth (God Lives Underwater)
- Everybody's Free (Baz Luhrmann)
- Public Access Girls (Truly)
- Selections From Tossing A Friend (Muckafurgason)
- Closing Time (Semisonic)
- It's Over, It's Under (Dolls Head)
- Velvet Pants (Propellerheads)
- Make Up Your Mind (The Interpreters)

Compilation.

Heaps Of Sheeps est extrait de Shleep.

- ALTERNATIVE PRESS (APCD18) CD

> Zoom

Spring A.P. Sampler
1998

- Single Orphan First Year Camel (Loop Guru)
- Tell The Time (Eclectics)
- Heaps Of Sheeps (Robert Wyatt)
- Head First, Feet First (Telegraph)
- Burnout (Walk On Water)
- Planet Sweet Planet (Kevin Michaels)
- Ud The Doudouk (Martyn Bennett)
- Come On (Don't Come On) (Fig Dish)
- Friend Island (godheadSilo)

> Zoom

Tête/Head
1998

Compilation Philippe Starck

- Hard Boiled Dub (Hiroshi Fujiwara)
- My Things (Alpha)
- Maryan (Robert Wyatt)
- The Promise (Michael Nyman)
- Sleep (Marianne Faithfull)
- Secret Agent (Philip Glass)
- Regiment (David Byrne/Brian Eno)
- Lament, extrait de Night Song (Nusrat Fateh Ali Khan/Michael Brook)
- Bird's Lament (Moon Dog)
- A Dream (Lou Reed/John Cale)
- The Night Flight From Houston (Laurie Anderson)
- Oh Caroline (Pascal Comelade)

Maryan est extrait de Shleep.

- LES TROIS SUISSES/VIRGIN (8466182) CD

> Zoom

Coeur/Heart
1998

Compilation Philippe Starck

- Sea Song (Robert Wyatt)
- Femme Fatale (The Velvet Underground with Nico)
- Hello It's Me (Lou Reed & John Cale
- Everybody's Talkin' B.O. Midnight Cowboy (Nilsson)
- Love Too Soon (PJ Harvey/Pascal Comelade)
- Street Hassle (Lou Reed)
- Yeh Jo Halka Saroor Sae (Nusrat Fateh Ali Khan)
- Times Square (Marianne Faithfull)
- Who Changed The Order (Manna)
- Al Veiven De MiCarreta (Nico Faquito)
- Mona ki n'Gixica (Bonga)
- Ti Amo (Pascal Comedale)

Sea Song est extrait de Rock Bottom.

- LES TROIS SUISSES/VIRGIN (8466152) CD

De Granada A La Luna
1998

Garcia Lorca Tribute

Disc 1
- Tierra y luna (Martirio)
- La luna asoma (Santiago Auseron)
- Daybreak (John Cale)
- Balad, Balad, Balad Caretas (Los Enemigos)
- El regreso (Enrique Morente)
- La canción de la mariposa (Amancio Prada)
- Casida del herido por el agua (Lagartija Nick Y Step Murray)
- Cancioncilla del primer deseo (Santiago Auseron)
- El llanto de la guitarra (Enrique Morente)
- Son de negros en Cuba (Compay Segundo)
- Canción de la muerte pequeña (Chucho Merchan)

Disc 2
- Landscape of a pissing multitude (Neneh Cherry)
- Oda a Salvador Dalí (Jordi SabateS Y Maria Del Mar Bonet)
- De Granada a la Luna (Michael Nyman)
- Nana de Sevilla (Imperio Argentina)

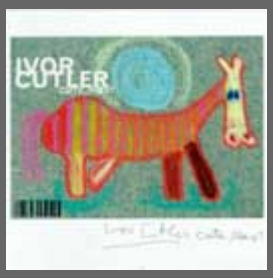
- Robert Wyatt - vocals, keyboards, percussion, trumpet

Canción de Julieta a été initialement composé pour cet album.

- SOMBRA RECORDS (SRCD002) 2xCD

- Preludio (Imperio Argentina)
- Pequeño poema infinito (Jordi Sabates Y Josep palau I Fabre)
- Canción De Julieta (Robert Wyatt)
- Las Gacelas (Lagartija Nick)
- El diálogo del amargo (Mauricio Sotelo)

> Zoom



Hot Rock
1998

Hot Rock

- I Can Water My Plants (Monk & Canatella)
- Bete Noir (Bill Cargill)
- Disenchanted (Eric Wood)
- Are You Happy Now (Sophia)
- L'aridità Dell'aria (Cristina Dona')
- Maryan (Robert Wyatt)
- On Approach (Pell Mell)
- Up River (Jeff Tarlton)
- No Long At Ease (Thanatos)
- The Creeps (Luna)
- Sugar Helping (Long Fin Killie)
- Claister (The Sonora Pine)
- Lullaby Of The Moths (Heliun)
- There Ain't No Sweet Man... (Norma Waterson)

Maryan est extrait de Shleep.

- EDIZIONI OLI (OM0016) CD

> Zoom

Cute (H)ey?
1999

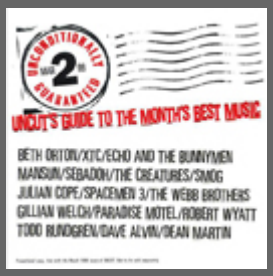
Ivor Cutler

- Shout For Joy (Albert Ammons)
- I Wish I Knew How It Would Feel To Be Free (Nina Simone)
- 6 Romanian Folk Dances (Bartók)
- Beatus "7 Magnificat-Antiphonen, First Movement - Weisheit" (Arvo Pärt)
- Beatus "7 Magnificat-Antiphonen, Third Movement - Spross Aus Isais Wurzel" (Arvo Pärt)
- Turkish Mambo (Lennie Tristano)
- Drum Rhythms (South African Traditional)
- Kilimanjaro (Miriam Makeba)
- I Believe In Bugs (Ivor Cutler)
- Miyagi Mago Uta (Japanese Traditional)
- Didn't It Rain (Mahalia Jackson)
- Mabandla Dance (Chopi Musicians)
- Madoscai Szölö-Orzö (Marta Sebestyen)
- Edesanyam Rozafaja (Marta Sebestyen)
- Grass (Robert Wyatt)
- Beatus "7 Magnificat-Antiphonen, Second Movement - Adonai" (Arvo Pärt)
- Beatus "7 Magnificat-Antiphonen, Seventh Movement - Immanuel" (Arvo Pärt)
- I'm Walkin' To A Farm (Ivor Cutler)

Grass est extrait du single Grass/Trade Union.

- EMI (7243 4 96610 2 8) CD

Live & Direct
In Nottinghamshire
1999



Live & Direct In Nottinghamshire

- Winds Of Change (Byron Wallen)
- Cameo (Septpiece)
- Yolanda (Phil Manzanera)
- September The Ninth (Robert Wyatt)
- Tall Stories (Mark Lockheart And Scratch Band)
- Extracts From 18 Guitars (Regular Music)
- The Snoid Trucks Up Broadway (David Starobin)
- Jigsaw (Noh Ground)

Free CD with The Wire issue 187, September 1999.

September The Ninth est extrait de Shleep.

- NOTTS (002) CD

> Zoom

Unconditionally Guaranteed 2
1999

Unconditionally Guaranteed 2 (Uncut's Guide To The Month's Best Music)

- River of Orchids (XTC)
- Abilene (Dave Alvin)
- Trampoline (Julian Cope)
- Tree (Sebadoh)
- Prettiest Thing (The Creatures)
- I'm a Believer (Robert Wyatt)
- My Morphine (Gillian Welch)
- Hollywood Landmines (The Paradise Motel)
- Forgiven (Echo & The Bunnymen)
- Beyond the Biosphere (The Webb Brothers)
- I Care (Mansun)
- Couldn't Cause Harm (Beth Orton)
- Zen Archer (Todd Rundgren)
- I Could Drive Forever (Smog)
- Revolution (Spacemen 3)
- Ain't That a Kick in the Head (Dean Martin)

CD distribué avec le magazine anglais Uncut de mars 1999.

I'm A Believer est extrait de Boxerpts.

- UNCUT (UG-3 9) CD

> Zoom

La Casa Del Rock Naciente
1999

La Casa Del Rock Naciente

- Good Morning Little Schoolgirl (Live) (Johnny Winter)
- Subterranean Homesick Blues (Bob Dylan)
- Eight Miles High (The Byrds)
- Summertime (Big Brother & The Holding Company)
- Dance To The Music (Sly & The Family Stone)
- Superstition (Beck, Bogert & Appice)
- Mannish Boy (Muddy Waters)
- O Caroline (Matching Mole)
- The Magnificent Seven (The Clash)
- Talking In Your Sleep (The Romantics)
- Voodoo Child (Slight Return) (Stevie Ray Vaughan)
- She's In Fashion (Suede)
- Whatever (Oasis)
- Tranquillizer (Geneva)
- The Everlasting (Manic Street Preachers)
- Angel (Footsteps) (Jeff Beck)

O Caroline est extrait de Matching Mole.

- COLUMBIA (2-493529) CD

> Zoom

The Second Earful Sampler
1999

The Second Earful Sampler

- I'm A Believer (Robert Wyatt)
- Confucious (Jazz Jamaica)
- Superthruster (Sly & Robbie)
- That Wasn't Me (The Robert Cray Band)
- Keys (Golden Smog)
- Extremely Cool (Chuck E Weiss)
- Cumbia En Do Menor (Lito Barrientos)
- Heaven @ 12:07 (Mocean Worker)
- Jamming In Nijmegen (Cubanismo!)
- Clear Spot (Pernice Brothers)
- Up On The Downstroke (Ernest Ranglin)
- Mama Don't Allow (Alvin Youngblood Hart)
- Hope (Sweet Honey In The Rock)
- Time Has Told Me (Kelly Willis)
- Gaviota (Jimmy Bosch)
- One From Your Head (Hank Dogs)
- Cheikhna Demba (Toumani Diabate)

I'm A Believer est extrait du single I'm A Believer/Memories.

- RYKO (EARCD 002) CD

> Zoom

Fear Of A Red Planet
1999

Fear Of A Red Planet

- Thinking Of You (The Indestructible Beat)
- This Funeral Is For The Wrong Corpse (The Mekons)
- The Immortal Rich (T.V. Smith)
- Train On The Move (Barb Jungr)
- Not A Bad Week For The People (Robb Johnson)
- Sarajevo (Attila the Stockbroker)
- Rechem (L.L.)
- One Flag (Red Alert)
- Cut Me Loose (Dave Brown)
- Chog And McGog (Stephen Wells)
- Ghost Story (Roy Bailey)
- Stockpile (D.M.S.)
- Vanity (WOB)
- Days Like These (Red London)
- Hasta Siempre Commandante (Robert Wyatt) [Carlos Puebla]
- Blackleg Miner (The Angelic Upstarts)
- Song Of The Old Communist (Leon Rosselson)
- Xplosive TV (Spizz Energi)
- Westminster And Wandsworth (Blyth Power)
- Militant Red (Alistair Hulett)

Compilation éditée en soutien au quotidien communiste The Morning Star.

- RED PLANET RECORDS (RPRCD1) CD

> Zoom

Unconditionally Guaranteed
Volume 6
1999

Unconditionally Guaranteed - Volume 6

- Hey Self Defeater (Mark Mulcahy)
- Kick Out The Jams/Empty Heart (The MC5)
- Burn The Light (Cast)
- Fair (Remy Zero)
- Shake Off (The Fall)
- Golden Hair (Syd Barrett)
- The Hexx (Pavement)
- Les Nuits [radio edit] (Nightmares On Wax)
- Que Bueno Baila Usted (Ibrahim Ferrer/Buena Vista Social Club)
- Whatevershebringswesing (Kevin Ayers)
- Break Dance/Electric Boogie [edit] (West Street Mob)
- Johannah (Mishka)
- Born On A Sunday (Art Of Noise)
- Finder's Keepers (Chairmen Of The Board)
- Anno Domini No 2 (Regular Fries)
- Whenever You Are Around (Nadine)
- Minas De Cobre [extend-o-mix] (Calexico)

CD distribué avec le magazine anglais Uncut de juillet 1999.

Whatevershebringswesing est extrait de Whatevershebringswesing.

- UNCUT (UG 7-13) CD

> Zoom

Of The Suburbs
1999

John Peel's Sounds Of The Suburbs

Disc 1
- Sound Of The Suburbs (The Samurai Seven)
- Lazy B (High Fidelity)
- Everything Goes Around The Water (Delgados)
- Real Ghost Town (Radio Sweethearts)
- Cough Cap Kitty Cat (Nought)
- Remembering (Pat Thomas)
- Reformation II (Lab 4)
- Dioddef Amdanat (Lucie Chivers)
- Strap Me Up (Gene Reviver)
- Baby Says Yeah (60ft Dolls)
- In C (Blew)
- That Booze Magic (Cheggars mix) (Jones Machine)

Disc 2
- Free Will And Testament (Robert

Free Will And Testament est extrait de Shleep.

- SHIFTY DISCO (SHIFTY9901) 2xCD

Wyatt)
- Holy Roller (Solid Doctor)
- Electric Eye (Crown Yourself King mix) (Back To Base)
- Blue (Mr. Ed)
- Cosy (Lianne Hall)
- Ja Sha Taan (Fun-Da-Mental)
- Desert Song (Exploding Thumbs)
- Ye Mariners All (Waterson & Carthy)
- Don't Go To Darlington (Twosheds)
- Clear (Myormay)
- Turtles Head (Comatose)

> Zoom

> Zoom

English Folk Collection
2000

World Music: English Folk Collection

- Step Back (Bert Jansch)
- Spring Is Returning/Dosvedanya (Rory McLeod)
- Manchester Rambler (Ewan MacColl)
- Turn Things Upside Down (The Happy End with Robert Wyatt)
- Doctor Calls (June Tabor)
- Byker Hill (Barely Works)
- Raining (My Eyes Are Filled With Clouds) (Ancient Beatbox)
- Seventeen Years Of Sorrow (Maddy Prior)
- Rhythm Of Time (Waz)
- Whistle Daughter Whistle (Gods Little Monkeys)
- Promises (Wired To The Moon)
- Hal-An-Tow (The Oyster Band)

Turn Things Upside Down est extrait de Turn Things Upside Down.

- COOKING VINYL (GUMBO CD 015) CD

> Zoom

Canterbury and Beyond...
2000

Selected Runes From The Cuneiform Catalogue

- Was A Friend (Hughscore)
- Voilà Pük (Volapük)
- Surprise! Surprise! (George Cartwright)
- Home Made Ruin (Delivery)
- Moon In June (Soft Machine)
- Neo-Caliban Grides (Elton Dean)
- L'Oubli (Univers Zero)
- At Last The Hand, Shifting (Doctor Nerve)
- Half-Akin To Gladsome (Dave Kerman 5UU'S)
- Lady And Friend (Gilgamesh)
- Volti Riflessi (Piero Milesi)
- Dead Silence (Thinking Plague)
- The Picture Book- X-Rated (Happy Family)
- One Pair (Blast)
- Patience (Gary Windo)
- 8:15-No Safe Place (Djam Karet)
- Train (Mother Mallard's Portable Masterpiece Co.)

- Was A Friend est extrait de Delta Flora.
- Moon In June est extrait de Noisette.

- CUNEIFORM (RUNE 9001) CD

Unknowns Psychedelic Music Vol.1

- The Hands of Che Guevara (Jakko M Jakszyk/Richard Barbieri)

- Unmasked est extrait de A Short

> Zoom

Unknowns Psychedelic Music Vol.1
2000

- A Potted History (Hugh Hopper & Richard Sinclair)
- Wise Man in Your Heart
- Unmasked (Robert Wyatt)
- Leeway
- Pack Light
- Pot-Head Pixies (Gong)
- Jocelyn (Pip Pyle's Equipe Out)
- If I Could Do It All Over Again I'd Do It All Over You (Caravan)
- Golden Section (Hugh Hopper)

Break.

- Europe'72 - Digital Format

> Zoom

Green Indians
2000

Celebrating The Life & Works Of Kevin Wilkinson

Disc 1
- What Nature Intended (Tim Fitzgerald)
- The Light (The Proclaimers)
- A Hole (Gary Clark)
- Farming The Right Acres (Anthony Thistlethwaite)
- Fruit (Live) (Restaurant For Dogs)
- Sacred Ground (King Strut)
- And Then In Death (Bruce McRae)
- Allelujah (Fairground Attraction)
- White Trees (Live) (David Marx)
- Arizona Sky (China Crisis)
- I Will, I Won't (The Peter Bruntell Combination)
- Balls Explode (The Hamsters From Hell)
- The Sky Falls (Robert Fripp)
- Dark Horses (The Caretakers)
- Exhilarating Sadness (The Saw Doctors)
- Fields Of Fire (Midge Ure)
- Lock'n'Chain (Nicky James)
- A Honeydreamer's Spell (The Pagan Fringe)
- The Tyger (Nick Harper)
- October's Carousel (Dave Gregory)
- Somewhere A Drummer Is Drumming (Bruce McRae)
- Where The Green Grass Grows (Eric Bibb)

Disc 2
- Happy Thrashing (Tim, Pinhead & Kev)
- Pearl In The Shell (Howard Jones)
- Unsong (Shriekback)
- Help (Totally Bald Head)
- The Alchemist (The Whales)
- One Week (Gary Mortimer)
- Bernard & The Blinding Light (Gary Daly)
- Suicide Is Not For The Faint Hearted (Bruce McRae)
- Walk Away (Squeeze)
- Invisible (Illuminati)
- Don't You Forget About Me (Live) (Simple Minds)
- When The Sun Comes (Davie Paton)
- I Am A Lion (John Otway)
- Five Years (Live) (Fish)
- Pride & Joy (Nick Robertson)
- Proffered (Robin Boult)
- Sleek White Schooner (The Waterboys)
- Your Love Is Killing Me (The Refugees)
- Sunny Came Home (Josie Wilkinson)
- Kev (Bruce McRae)
- Shipbuilding (Robert Wyatt)

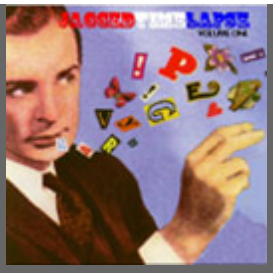
"Kevin Wilkinson, drummer with many bands including the Shriekback-related League Of Gentlemen, Restaurant For Dogs, The Caretakers, Illuminati and The Refugees, took his own life on the 18th of July 1999.

He left behind a rich legacy of music and a lot of friends, and one of them, David Marx, has put together this 2CD compilation as a tribute to Kevin.



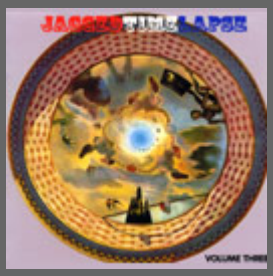
All proceeds go to the Green Indians Trust, set up on behalf of Kevin's children.

The compilation was released on 18th December 2000, and contains many previously unreleased tracks."

Shipbuilding est extrait du EP Shipbuilding/Memories Of You/'Round Midnight.

- REVOLVER (RR110658CD) 2xCD

Jagged Time Lapse



Volume One
2000

- Get Out Your Rock 'N' Roll Shoes (The Crocheted Doughnut Ring)
- Gone (The Factory)
- Head For The Sun (The Movement)
- Love's Immortal Fire (Leviathan)
- Ex Kay One Lx (Nashville Teens)
- Concentration Baby (The Dave Clark Five)
- The Dog Presides (Paul Jones)
- Where Wll You Be Tonight (Freedom)
- It (The Excelsior Spring)
- Fly With Me Forever (Pandamonium)
- Summer Sun Shines (Fresh Windows)
- Is It Love (Jon)
- Magic Mirror (Aphrodite's Child)
- I Won't Hurt You (Neo Maya)
- Feelin' Reelin' Squeelin' (The Soft Machine)
- Little Boy (The Beatstalkers)
- Loving Sacred Loving (The End)
- 53 Summer Street (Turquoise)
- Gypsy Fred (The Koobas)
- I Can See Through You (Episode Six)
- Postcard (Blossom Toes)

Feelin' Reelin' Squeelin' est extrait du single Love Makes Sweet Music.

- FLASHBACK PRODUCTIONS (FBCD01) CD

Volume Three 2000

Jagged Time Lapse

- Happy New Year (Beverley)
- Ride On (The Rokes)
- Junk (The Roulettes)
- Hold On (Chris Andrews)
- Sweet Bacon (Jumian Covey & The Machine)
- Maze Of Love (The Dave Clark Five)
- The Sun Goes Down (Dave Dee Dozy Beaky Mick & Titch)
- Remember The Times (Leviathan)
- Love Me Two Times (New York Public Library)
- Camera Man (Cats' Pyjamas)
- Search For The Sea (The Stoics)
- Flowerman (The Syn)
- You're My Girl (Manfred Man)
- You're My Mother (Mud)MUD
- Whenever You're Ready (Loot)
- We're Not What We Appear To Be (The Bunch)
- Fashion Conscious (The Fresh Windows)
- My New Day And Age (The Mindbenders)
- It's Only The Dog (The Nightrides)
- I Don't Need Your Kind (The Rocking Vickers)
- The Skies Above (The Equals)
- Thread Of Time (The Scenery)
- Love Makes Sweet Music (The Soft Machine)
- Stoned Out Of It (John Fitch & Associates)
- Straight Down To The Bottom (The Vip's)
- The Train (The Kinetic)

Love Makes Sweet Music est extrait du single Love Makes Sweet Music.

- FLASHBACK PRODUCTIONS (FBCD03) CD

> Zoom

The Rock Machine Turns You Back On
2000

The Rock Machine Turns You Back On

- White Rabbit (Jefferson Airplane)
- Sunshine Superman (Donovan)
- I Had To Tell You (13th Floor Elevators)
- America (The Nice)
- I'd Rather Be With You (The Soft Machine)
- California Dreamin' (The Mamas & The Papas)
- Purple Haze (Jimi Hendrix)
- Scarborough Fair (Ocean Drive)
- West Coast Idea (Eric Clapton)
- Heart Full Of Soul (The Yardbirds)
- Acapulco Sunrise (Santana)
- Love Taker (Peter Frampton)
- Questions 67 And 68 (Chicago)
- House Of The Rising Sun (Eric Burdon)
- Love Is All Around (The Troggs)
- Imagine (Jacqui McShee)

I'd Rather Be With You est extrait de Jet-Propelled Photographs.

- DRESSED TO KILL
- METRODOME (METRO501) CD

- A Hard Rain's A-Gonna Fall (The Crazy World of Arthur Brown)

> Zoom

Wildlife Supersampler
2000

Wildlife Supersampler

- The Forbidden Zone (Pure Indigo)
- Pimp Funk (Buena Ventura)
- PmFf Muzik (PmFf)
- See Saw (Lightfoot)
- The Force (K)
- Pimp Funk (Buena Ventura)
- Shakin' (Skeewiff Mix) (Manuka)
- Millennium (PmFf)
- 7/8 (Pure Indigo)
- Ain't No New Thing (The Bob Bhamra Project)
- Sunday In Madrid (PmFf Remix) (Robert Wyatt)
- Once In Our Lifetime (The Bombdroppers)
- Weird Piano (Lightfoot)
- Area 51 (Gould, Brown & Black)
- Electric Boogie (K)

Cette version remixée de A Sunday In Madrid est également présente dans la compilation eps parue en 1999 (Disc 5).

This is a dual format CD. When placed into a computer drive it will auto-boot an 'interactive soundtrack' allowing the user to build-up tunes from the parts of the first 5 tracks. When placed in a standard CD player it will play the remaining 10 audio tracks.

- WILDLIFE (WILD CD1) CD

> Zoom

> Zoom

Jazzactuel
2000

A Collection Of Avant Garde/Free Jazz/Psychedelia From The BYG/Actuel Catalogue Of 1969-1971

Disc 1
- Red Cross (Sunny Murray)
- Blasé (Archie Shepp)
- Note (Steve Lacy)
- Memories (Gong with Robert Wyatt)
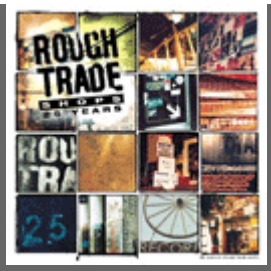
- Soon (Sonny Sharrock)
- Exploration (Grachan Moncur III)
- Pan-African Festival (Clifford Thornton)
- Black Suite, Part 2 [Excerpt] (Jacques Coursil)
- Echo (David Burrell)

Disc 2
- The Utter-Nots (Sun Ra & His Solar-Myth Arkestra)
- Brother B (Arthur Jones)
- From "Out Of Bartok" (Burton Greene Ensemble)
- Get In Line (Art Ensemble Of Chicago)
- Pioneering (Andrew Cyrille)
- Ramblin' (Paul Bley)
- One For John/China, Part 2 (Frank Wright)
- Cello Discordato (Acting Trio)
- Tarik (Dewey Redman)

Disc 3
- Teo-teo-can [Excerpt] (Don Cherry)
- B-Xo NO147a [Excerpt]) (Anthony Braxton)
- Premonitions (Jimmy Lyons)
- Africanasia, Part 1 [Excerpt] (Claude Delcloo/Arthur Jones)
- The Sound Pool, Part 1A [Musica Elettronica Viva]
- Blessing (Kenneth Terroade)
- Squeezing Sponges Over Policemen's Heads/ Foghat Digs Holes In Blessing (Gong)
- The Seasons, Part 6 (Alan Silva & The Celestrial Communication Orchestra)



Memories est extrait de Banana Moon.

Boxset.

Reédition remasterisée en 2013 par Charly Records.

- BYG/ACTUEL (GETBACK 300) 6xLP
- CHARLY (CDNEW 137-2) 3xCD
- CHARLY (SNAJ 707) 3xCD
- CHARLY (CHARLY 707 J) 3xCD

Rough Trade Shops

25 Years
2001

Disc 1
- 30 Seconds Over Tokyo (Pere Ubu)
- Boredom (Buzzcocks)
- Fisherman (The Congos)
- Nag Nag Nag (Cabaret Voltaire)
- T.V.O.D. (The Normal)
- Suspect Device (Stiff Little Fingers)
- United (Throbbing Gristle)
- Ambition (Subway Sect)
- Part Time Punks (Television Personalities)
- Fairytale In The Supermarket (The Raincoats)
- Reality Asylum (Crass)
- Transmission (Joy Division)
- People Say (The Go-Betweens)
- Let's Build A Car (Swell Maps)
- Final Day (Young Marble Giants)
- How I Wrote 'Elastic Man' (The Fall)
- Mr. Clarinet (The Birthday Party)

Disc 2
- There Goes Concorde Again (And The Native Hipsters)
- The Sweetest Girl (Scritti Politti)
- Shipbuilding (Robert Wyatt)
- Gums Bleed (Foetus)
- Hand In Glove (The Smiths)
- Sugar Hiccup (Cocteau Twins)
- Krieg In Den Stadten (Einstürzende Neubauten)
- Tupelo (Nick Cave & The Bad Seeds)
- Raod To Nowhere (Talking Heads)
- Death Valley ' 69 (Sonic Youth featuring Lydia Lunch)
- Hard Left (Tackhead)
- Jungle (Dub Syndicate, Lee Perry)
- Birthday (The Sugarcubes)

Disc 3
- Bone Machine (The Pixies)
- Touch Me I'm Sick (Mudhoney)
- Revolution (Spacemen 3)
- Different Drum (Lemonheads)
- Further Back And Faster (Coil)
- The Light That Will Cease To Fail (Stereolab)
- Her Jazz (Huggy Bear)
- Fade Into You (Mazzy Star)
- Song To The Siren (The Chemical Brothers)
- Pink Frost (The Chills)
- Soaky In The Pooper (Lambchop)
- Sciew Spoc (Gescom)
- Plastique (Video Mix) (Plastikman)
- Gak 4 (Gak)

Disc 4
- Gam Jullandar Shere (Cornershop)
- Presha III (Studio Pressure)
- Everything You Do Is A Ballon (Boards Of Canada)
- Flashlegs - Suite (Echoboy)
- As The Rain (Adrian Sherwood On-U Sound Remix) (Jeb Loy Nichols)
- Monkey On Your Back (Clinc)
- Hot Topic (Le Tigre
- To You (I Am Kloot)
- In The Bath (Lemon Jelly)
- Fuck The Pain Away (Peaches)
- My Winding Wheel (Ryan Adams)
- Talk To Me / 91 Version) (Tindersticks)

Shipbuilding est extrait du EP Shipbuilding/Memories Of You/'Round Midnight.

- MUTE RECORDS - 4xCD

Summer Of Love

Disc 1
- White Rabbit (Jefferson Airplane)
- Sunshine Superman (Donovan)
- I Had To Tell You
- America
- I'd Rather Be With You (The Soft Machine)
- California Dreamin'
- Purple Haze (Jimi Hendrix)
- Scarborough Fair
- West Coast Idea (Eric Clapton)

I'd Rather Be With You est extrait de Jet-Propelled Photographs.
Jet-Propelled Photographs est extrait de Jet-Propelled Photographs.

- DRESSED TO KILL - 3xCD

> Zoom

Summer Of Love
2001

- Heart Full Of Soul (The Yardbirds)
- Acapulco Sunrise (Santana)
- Love Taker (Peter Frampton)
- Questions 67 And 68 (Chicago)
- House Of The Rising Sun
- Love Is All Around (The Troggs)
- Imagine
- Hard Rain's Gonna Fall (The Crazy World Of Arthur Brown)

Disc 2
- Angel Of The Morning (P.P. Arnold)
- Don't Do It No More (Julie Driscoll)
- Lay Lady Lay (Melanie)
- Dream A Little Dream Of Me (Mama Cass)
- White Rabbit
- Terry (Twinkle)
- Woodstock
- First Cut Is The Deepest (P.P. Arnold)
- Oh No Not My Baby (Maxine Brown)
- California Dreamin'
- What Have They Done To My Song Ma (Melanie)
- My Best Friend (Grace Slick)
- Flight Tonight
- I Don't Want To Have To Do It (Julie Driscoll)

Disc 3
- Straight Shooter [Live]
- Every Reason
- Baby Blue
- We Shall Overcome
- Voodoo Child (Slight Return) (Jimi Hendrix)
- Turn Turn Turn (Pentangle)
- Jet Propelled Photographs [A.K.A. Shooting At the Moon] (The Soft Machine)
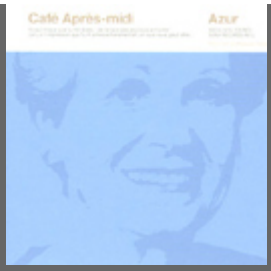
- Choler (Eric Clapton)
- Don't Send Me No Flowers (Jimmy Page)
- When I Was Young (Eric Burdon)
- Does Anybody Really Know What Time It Is (Chicago)
- Coconut Grove (Santana)
- For Emily
- All Our Yesterdays (The Small Faces)
- Madame - Peter Frampton
- 3/5 Of A Mile In 10 Seconds (Jefferson Airplane)
- Shadows Of You (Brian Auger)
- War And Peace

> Zoom



To Be Someone
2001

To Be Someone

- Ballad of Tom Jones (Space & Cerys Matthews)
- I Get the Sweetest Feeling (Jackie Wilson)
- Route 66 (Sandie Shaw)
- Wichita Lineman (Glen Campbell)
- Sunday Girl (Blondie)
- Sitting in Limbo (Jimmy Cliff)
- N.I.T.A. (Young Marble Giants)
- Oliver's Army (Elvis Costello & The Attractions)
- There There My Dear (Dexys Midnight Runners)
- Ghosts (Japan)
- To Be Someone (didn't we have a nice time) (The Jam)
- Shipbuilding (Robert Wyatt)
- Love Song (The Cure)
- Kinky Afro (Happy Mondays)
- I'll Be Home (Randy Newman)
- Safe From Harm (Massive Attack)
- I Can't Stand the Rain (Ann Peebles)
- This is a Low (Blur)
- Here's Where the Story Ends (The Sundays)

Shipbuilding est extrait du EP Shipbuilding/Memories Of You/'Round Midnight.

- VIRGIN (CDV2933) CD

> Zoom

Cafe Apres-Midi Azur
2001

Cafe Apres-Midi Azur

- Sexy Mama (Laura Nyro)
- Aguas De Marco (Stan Getz)
- I Use Her (Tony Kosinec)
- Oh! Caroline (Matching Mole)
- There Is Nothing More To Say (The Millennium)
- Snow Queen (The City)
- Pelas Ruas Do Recife (Cynara E Cybele)
- It Doesn't Matter Anymore (The Cyrkle)
- The More I See You (Salena Jones)
- Everlasting Love (The Love Affair)
- Quase Maluco (Milena)
- Saia Rota (Edson Conceicao)
- My World Feel Down (Sagittarius)
- I Love To Love (Tina Charles)
- More Today Than Yesterday (Spiral Starecase)
- Peaceful (Georgie Fame)
- La La La (Mongo Santamaria)
- Vou Morar No Teu Sorriso (Trio Ternura)
- Rio (Paul Winter)
- Blue Lou (Art Van Damme Quintet)
- There's A Samll Hotel (Claude Thornhill Orchestra)
- Wild World (Bobby Scott)
- Vamonos (Elkin & Nelson)
- Suicide Is Painless (Johnny Mandel)
- Waltz Bossa Nova (Ennio Morricone)

Oh ! Caroline est extrait de Matching Mole.

- SONY (SRCS-2476) CD

Storytellers - Vol.1
2001

Storytellers

- At Seventeen (Janis Ian)
- Penny To My Name (Eva Cassidy)
- May You Never (John Martyn)
- Jerusalem Tomorrow (Emmylou Harris)
- Walking On A Wire (Richard & Linda Thompson)
- Galway Girl, The (Sharon Shannon)
- Whirly Whorl (Eliza Carthy)
- To Ramona (Sinead Lohan)
- Galway To Graceland (Sean Keane)
- Who Knows Where The Time Goes (Fairport Convention)
- No Mermaid (Joan Baez)
- Northern Sky (Nick Drake)
- Thorn Upon The Rose, The (Mary Black)
- Midnight On The Water (Waterson Carthy)
- Our Town (Kate Rusby)
- Shipbuilding (Robert Wyatt)

Shipbuilding est extrait du EP Shipbuilding/Memories Of You/'Round Midnight.

- GRAPEVINE (GRACD 298) CD

> Zoom

Freedom Of Art
2001

Il Grande Rock - Freedom Of Art

- If I Could Do It All Over Again, I'd Do It All Over You (Caravan)
- Fohat Digs Hole In Space (Gong)
- Maahnt (Magma)
- O Caroline (Matching Mole)
- Antarctica Stars Here (John Cale)
- Everybody's Sometimes And Some People All The Time Blues (Kevin Ayers)
- Baby's On Fire (Brian Eno)
- Square Dance (Material)
- Little Wing (Paolo Lotti)
- Mingle (Percy Howard, Charles Hayward, Fred Frith, Bill Laswell)
- Bitter Bark (Joeboy In Mexico)
- Erzindjian (Alesini & Andreoni)
- Mother London (Steve Jansen & Richard Barbieri)

O Caroline est extrait de Matching Mole. Everybody's Sometimes And SomePeople All The Time Blues est extrait de June 1, 1974.

- DeAGOSTINI (R09936-2) CD

Hannibal Records 20 Years Of Rich And Rare Music

> Zoom

Music Fall Out The Sky
2001

- Rio Longe (Moreno + 2)
- Marie Laveaux (Cubanismo In New Orleans)
- Ol' Georgie Buck (Taj Mahal & Toumani Diabate)
- Deus Do Fogo E Da Justiçainia Rodrigues (Virginia Rodrigues)
- Cheikhna Demba (Toumani Diabate with Ballake Sissoko)
- Máramarosi Táncok (Muszikas with Márta Sebestyén)
- Maryan (Robert Wyatt)
- Wall Of Death (Richard & Linda Thompson)
- The Hoochi Coochi Coo (The Taj Mahal & Phantom Blues Band)
- What'll I Do (Kate & Anna McGarrigle)

Maryan est extrait de Shleep.

- HANNIBAL RECORDS (HNCD 1460) CD

> Zoom

Anti NY
2001

Anti NY

Disc 1
- Launderette (Vivien Goldman)
- If I Gave You A Party (Sexual Harassment)
- Drum Mode (Gray)
- Girl's Imagination (The Dell/ Byzanteens)
- Love Attack (Konk)
- N.C.R. (Ike Yard)
- Exterior St. feat. Rammellzee (Death Comet Crew)

Disc 2
- Drum Mode (Gray/Paul Mogg Remix)
- Launderette (Vivien Goldman/Munk Remix)
- If I Gave You A Party (Sexual Harassment/Syrup Remix)
- Exterior St. feat. Rammellzee (Death Comet Crew/Protein Remix)
- N.C.R. (Ike Yard/Funkstorung Remix)

Launderette est extrait du single Launderette/Private Armies.
Le second titre est une version alternative du même morceau.

- GOMMA (013) 2xLP

> Zoom

Strange Daze
The Psychadelic Sixties
2001

Strange Daze - The Psychadelic Sixties

- Straight Shooter (Live) (Mamas & Papas)
- Every Reason (Donovan)
- Baby Blue (13th Floor Elevators)
- We Shall Overcome (Maggie Willow Steadman)
- Voodoo Chile (Jimi Hendrix)
- Turn Turn Turn (Pentangle)
- Jet-Propelled Photographs (Aka Shooting At The Moon) (Soft Machine)
- Choker (Eric Clapton)
- Don't Send Me No Flowers (Jimmy Page)
- When I Was Young (Eric Burdon)
- Does Anybody Really Know What Time It Is (Chicago)
- Coconut Grove (Santana)
- For Emily (Dreams
- All Our Yesterdays (The Small Faces)
- Madame (Peter Frampton)
- 3/4 Of A Mile In Ten Seconds (Jefferson Airplane)
- Shadows Of You (Julie Driscoll & Brian Auger)
- War & Peace (The Nice)

Jet-Propelled Photographs est extrait de Jet-Propelled Photographs.

- DRESSED TO KILL (METRO504) CD

Uncut - A Tribute To John Lennon

> Zoom

A Tribute To John Lennon
2002

- John Lennon (Hammell On Trial)
- Instant Karma (Paul Weller)
- Jealous Guy (Ian McCulloch)
- Everybody's Got Something To Hide Except For Me And My Monkey (Kristin Hersh)
- Working Class Hero (Marianne Faithfull)
- The Ballad Of John And Yoko (Teenage Fanclub)
- Bless You (The Pretenders)
- Happiness Is A Warm Gun (The Breeders)
- Come Together (Ike and Tina Turner)
- Love (Robert Wyatt)
- Gimme Some Truth (Generation X)
- Isolation (Mercury Rev)
- Cold Turkey (Icicle Works)
- Give Peace A Chance (Toots And The Maytals)
- Gimme Some Truth (Ash)
- Happy Xmas (War Is Over) (John Holt)
- I Am The Walrus (Spooky Tooth)
- In My Life (Roddy Frame)

- Robert Wyatt - vocals, keyboard

CD distribué avec le magazine anglais Uncut (11/2002).

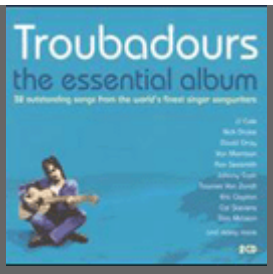
Love a été initialement interprété pour cet album.
Recorded exclusively for this compilation.

- UNCUT RECORDS (2002 11) CD

Lyrics

Cherry Red for Cafe Apres-Midi
2002

Cherry Red For Cafe Apres-Midi



- Each and Everyone (Everything But The Girl)
- On Box Hill (Ben Watt)
- Place in the Sun (Marine Girls)
- Femme Fatale (Tracey Thorn)
- North Marine Drive (Ben Watt)
- Goodbye Joe (Tracey Thorn)
- 1000 Guitars of St. Dominiques (Fantastic Something)
- You're a Queer One, Les Mun (The Hepburns)
- I'm Used Now (Grab Grab The Haddock)
- Bittersweet (Everything But The Girl)
- If She Doesn't Smile (Fantastic Something)
- I Saw the Light (Mood Six)
- Changing Stations (Eyeless In Gaza)
- Shouting in Cafes (In Embrace)
- New Risen (Eyeless In Gaza)
- Homme et une Femme (Morgan Fisher)
- Walter And John (Ben Watt & Robert Wyatt)
- It's a Fine Day (Jane)
- Lazy Ways (Marine Girls)
- Love in Your Heart (Kevin Coyne)
- I'll Scry Instead (The Monochrome Set)
- Portrait (Five Or Six)
- Compulsion (Joe Crow)
- Preacher in England (Felt)
- You're Gonna Make Me Lonesome (Ben Watt)
  When You Go (Everything But The Girl)
- Night and Day (The Florentines)

Water And John est extrait du EP Summer Into Winter.

- CHERRY RED RECORDS (VICP-61760) CD

Troubadours - The Essential Album

> Zoom

Troubadours - The Essential Album
2002

- Hold On Baby (Jj CALE)
- Everybody's Talking (Harry Nilson)
- Vincent (Don Mc Lean)
- Time of No Reply (Nick Drake)
- Gutters Full of Rain (David Gray)
- New Train (John Prine)
- Pancho and Lefty (Townes Van Zandt)
- Another Long Story (Kevin Montgomery)
- Sweetness (Don Bern)
- Tell Me Again (Ron Sexsmith)
- Therapy (Loudon Wainwright III)
- Song for You (Leon Russel)
- Juliana (Michael Nesmith)
- I Walk the Line (Johnny Cash)
- Tell It Like It Is (Aaron Neville)
- Time in a Bottle (Jim Croce)
- Brown Eyed Girl (Van Morrisson)
- Let It Grow (Eric Clapton)
- Bell Bottom Blues (Bobby Whitlock)
- Long Goodbye (Paul Brady)
- Father and Son (Cat Stevens)
- Hidden World of She (Jackie Leven)
- Universal Soldier (Donovan)
- Breathing In (Gordon Haskell)
- Just When I Needed You Most (Randy Vanwarmer)
- Strolling Down the Highway (Bert Jansch)
- Streets of London (Ralph Mctell)
- Harry Stone (Hearts of Coal) (John Tams)
- Hambledon Hill (Gordon Haskell)
- Put You Down (Alejandro Escovedo)
- Levi Stubbs Tears (Billy Bragg)
- Shipbuilding (Robert Wyatt)

Shipbuilding est extrait du EP Shipbuilding/Memories Of You/'Round Midnight.

- MANTECA RECORDS (MANTDCD207) CD

> Zoom

Thrice Upon A Time
(Nothing Is Real)
2002

Thrice Upon A Time (Nothing Is Real)
Rubble - Vol. 20)

- What on Earth (Blossom Toes)
- Buffalo Billycan (Apple)
- Love Makes Sweet Music (The Soft Machine)
- Which Dreamed It (Boeing Duveen & The Beautiful Soup)
- Light of Your Mind (The David)
- Don't Make a Sound (Kate)
- Mr. Boyd (Argosy)
- Winston Built a Bridge (The Bump)
- Iekk! I'm a... Freak (Adjeef the Poet)
- The Sun Shines From His Eyes (Pandemonium)
- In My Life (Chapter Four)
- Mud in Your Eye (Les Fleur de Lys)
- Devil's Grip (The Crazy World of Arthur Brown)
- Walter's Dream (The Beautiful)
- Supernatural Fairytales (Art)
- Silver Tree Top School for Boys (The Beatstalkers)

Love Makes Sweet Music est extrait de Love Makes Sweet Music/Feelin 'Reelin Squeelin'.

- PAST & PRESENT RECORDS (PAPRLP020) LP

> Zoom

Electroclash : Massive 19 Track Mix From Miss Kittin

Miss Kittin

- Who I Am (Vocal Intro) Miss Kittin
- Wireless Internet (Arpanet)
- Drugs Work (System 01)
- Fool's Gold (With Miss Kittin Background Vocals) (Mateo Murphy)
- Love Is Stronger Than Pride (Michael Mayer)
- Vicious Game (David Carretta)
- House Of God 2000 (DHS)
- Substance (Felix Da Housecat Remix With Miss Kittin Background Vocals) (Dot Allison)
- Energiekriese (T Raumschmiere)
- Estress Audio (Audible)
- Teurastamo (Pan Sonic)

La reprise de A Certain Kind est extrait de A Certain Kind.

- MUZIK MAGAZINE (MUZIKMAG87) CD

2002

- Rippin' Kittin (Ellen Allien Remix) (Goldenboy)
- Shari Vari (Ectomorph Remix) (A Number Of Names)
- Frank Sinatra 2001 (Miss Kittin & The Hacker)
- A Certain Kind (Carsten Jost)
- Stadtkind (Barbara Morgenstern Remix) (Ellen Allien)
- A16 (Ultra-Red)
- Living In A Magazine (Paper Faces Remix) (Zoot Woman)
- Klicks (Thomas Brinkmann)
- Berlin Is Burning (Vocal Outro) (Miss Kittin)

> Zoom

10 Corso Como
2002

10 Corso Como

Disc 1
THE SOUND OF IDA
- New Ghosts (Albert Ayler)
- Death Letter (Cassandra Wilson)
- Inexile (Capercaillie)
- Mosaik (Ductia)
- In Ainm An Athar Le Bua (Hector Zazou)
- Rahamana (Consuelo Luz)
- To A Beloved (Shweta Jhaveri)
- To The River (Djivan Gasparyan)
- Ashkabad (Anouar Brahem)
- Arcana (Roberto Cacciapaglia)
- Black Lotus (Bill Laswell)
- Lam Saravane (Jah Wobble)

Disc 2
THE SOUND OF PINGALA
- Afro Blue (Abbey Lincoln)
- Bilebo (Baka Beyond)
- Theme For Lester Young (Charles Mingus)
- Caimanera (Robert Wyatt)
- Brigitte Bardot (Mike Westbrook Brass Band)
- Ne Me Quitte Pas (Natacha Atlas)
- Saida (Cheikha Rimitti)
- Dea Del Mare (Cecilia Chailly)
- Karmakamo (Feel Good Productions)
- Ayena (Nuclearte)
- Siip Siie (Ekova)
- Boogie Chilin N.2 (John Lee Hooker & Canned Heat)

Caimanera est extrait de Nothing Can Stop Us.

- NUN ENTERTAINMENT (NUN0136232) 2xCD

> Zoom

Cuneiform Records
2002

An Introduction To Cuneiform Records

- The Man Of The Past Future [excerpt] (Deus Ex Machina)
- Cineme 1920 (NeBeLNeST)
- No Man's Land (Djam Karet)
- The Fly-Toxmen's Land (Univers Zéro)
- Kongi's Theme [excerpt] (Brotherhood Of Breath)
- Dear Mona (The Muffins)
- Belexes (Proto-Kaw/Kansas)
- Space Flight Cat (Curlew)
- Spacetime 3 (Mujician)
- Excerpt From "Plook The Asbestos Lobster" (Michael Gulezian)
- Instant Pussy (Matching Mole)
- Facelift [excerpt] (Soft Machine)
- Mine Of Nothingness (Miriodor)
- Malstrom Part 3 (Sotos)
- Oklahoma (Curlew)
- Couple #3 Is A Solo (Dave Kerman /5 uu's)
- Tight Trousers [excerpt] (Arkham)
- Efrim [excerpt] (Richard Pinhas)

Instant Pussy est extrait de March.
Facelift est extrait de Backwards.

- CUNEIFORM (9002) CD

Rebellious JukeBox
2003

Rebellious JukeBox

- Santa Ana River Delta Blues (Wiskey Biscuit)
- Moving Up Country, Roaring The Gospel (James Yorkston & The Athletes)
- Heart String Blues (Thea Gilmore)
- Sea Song (Robert Wyatt)
- American Music (The Blasters)
- Tightly (Neko Case)
- Dance To The Underground (Radio 4)
- Gold In Them Hills (Ron Sexsmith)
- To Love Somebody (Slobberbone)
- Eisler On The Go (Billy Bragg)
- Rebellious Jukebox (The Fall)
- Steps Into Miles (Hayden)
- Rumba De Barcelona (Manu Chao)
- Born Out Of Your Mouth (Andy Partridge)
- Trafalgar Square (Chris Difford)
- What Presence?! (Orange Juice)
- Three Questions (Bonnie 'Prince' Billy)
- The War (Bill Hicks)

CD distribué avec le magazine anglais Uncut.

Sea Song est extrait de Rock Bottom.

- UNCUT RECORDS (2003 02) CD

> Zoom

The Best Prog Rock Album
In The World Ever
2003

The Best Prog Rock Album In The World Ever

Disc 1
- Theme 1 (Van Der Graaf Generator)
- Dancing With The Moonlit Knight (Genesis)
- Roundabout (Yes)
- Joybringer (Manfred Mann's Earthband)
- Back Street Luv (Curved Air)
- Silver Machine (Hawkwind)
- Locomotive Breath (Jethro Tull)
- Hocus Pocus (Focus)
- Hoedown (Emerson, Lake and Palmer)
- Tomorrow Night (Atomic Rooster)
- Child In Time (Deep Purple)
- Valentyne Suite (Colosseum)

Disc 2
- Here Comes The Flood (Peter Gabriel)
- Tubular Bells (Part 1) (Mike Oldfield)
- Winter Wine (Caravan)
- May I? (Kevin Ayers & The Whole World)
- Sympathy (Rare Bird)
- A Salty Dog (Procol Harum)
- Mocking Bird (Barclay James Harvest)
- Which Way The Wind Blows (Anthony Phillips with Mike Rutherford & Phil Collins)
- Lucky Man (Emerson, Lake And Palmer)
- In Every Dream Home A Heartache (Roxy Music)
- 10538 Overture (Electric Light Orchestra)
- Mumps (Hatfield & The North)

Disc 3
- Peaches En Regalia (Frank Zappa)
- Rhayader (From The Snow Goose) (Camel)
- Pantagruel's Nativity (Gentle Giant)
- Germ Patrol (Egg)
- O Caroline (Matching Mole)
- Bedside Manners Are Extra (Greenslade)
- Meditation Of The Snake (Steve Hillage)
- Spectral Mornings (Steve Hackett)
- Ships In The Night (Be Bop Deluxe)
- Keep On Crinting (Man)
- Plague Of Lighthouse Keepers (Van Der Graaf Generator)

O Caroline est extrait de Matching Mole.

- VIRGIN (VTDCD533) 3xCD

> Zoom

Piece Of Cake
20 Years Of Ryko
2003

Piece Of Cake/20 Years Of Ryko (MOJO Magazine)

- Thank You Friends (Big Star)
- Slaveship (Josh Rouse)
- Numb As A Statue (Warren Zevon)
- Chain (The Fire Theft)
- Chrome Plated Suicide (The Flaming Lips)
- I'm The Slime (Frank Zappa)
- Cure For Pain (Morphine)
- Barrio Superstarrio (Pilot to Gunner)
- PLateau (Meat Puppets)
- Jarabi (Tourmani Diabate)
- Lullaby For Hamza (Robert Wyatt)
- Mama Guela (Spanish Harlem Orchestra)
- I Will Dare (The Replacements)
- Freaks (Soul Asylum)
- Crooked Frame (Alejandro Escovedo)
- Still Alive (Joe Jackson Band)
- Fourth Of July (Galaxie 500)
- Untitled #1 (Spain)
- Wait Until Dark (Kelly Willis)
- Window Grin (Kelly Joe Phelps)

The November 2003 issue of Mojo Magazine included a Rykodisc sampler.

Lullaby For Hamza est extrait de Cuckooland.

- MOJO MAGAZINE (NOV. 2003) CD

> Zoom

No More (No Mouroir)
2003

No More (No Mouroir)

- Un train direct pour Charenton Part I (Pascal Comelade)
- Un train direct pour Charenton Part II (Pascal Comelade)
- Une souris verte (Pierre Bastien & Klimperei)
- Que Lindo Meu Amor (Oedipus)
- River Dart (Oedipus)
- Georges va au plumard Part I (Toupidek Limonade)
- Depuis que (Toupidek Limonade)
- Heaven Help Yourself (Les Batteries)
- Un do l'enfant do (Look de Bouk)
- La marionnette du Chinois (Look de Bouk)
- Flamme & Co II (L'Ensemble Rayé)
- Dog's God (Pierre Bastien)
- Clear The Cumb (Klimperei)
- Ma copine (Klimperei)
- Pour mon Papa (Klimperei)
- La nuit (Klimperei)
- Le baluchon (Klimperei)
- La vieille carriole (Klimperei)
- Crisis As Usual (AA Kismet)
- Oscilloscope (AA Kismet)
- "... Je vous prédis la fin du monde." (Jean-François Pauvros)
- Dondestan (Alix Marchetti, Robert Wyatt & Jean-Michel Marchetti)

- INPOLYSONS (IPS 1301) CD

Une rentrée 2003 - Vol.1
2003

Les Inrocks

- Echoes (The Raptures)
- We Don't Play Guitars (Chicks On Speed)
- Beastmaster (Relaxed Muscle)
- Follow (Bang Gang)
- No Reason To Cry Your Eyes Out (Hawksley Workman)
- Fall Dog Bombs The Moon (David Bowie)
- People (Alfie)
- Suicide Is Painless (Lady & Bird)
- Forest (Robert Wyatt)
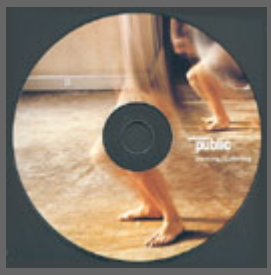
- Trying To Find A Balance (Atmosphere)
- Some Thing's Coming (I Monster)
- Where Is My Mind (Placebo)

CD distribué avec le magazine français Les Inrockuptibles.

Forest est extrait de Cuckooland.

- LES INROCKUPTIBLES (CD LI 03 75) CD

- Little Electric Chair (Iggy Pop)
- Shake The Dope Out (The Warlocks)
- Lighthouse (Joe Henry)
- End Of May (Keren Ann)



Indétendances 15
2003

Indétendances 15

- Opearte (Peaches)
- Spinach Girl (Agoria)
- A Moscou (Le Tone)
- La vie en communaute (I:Cube)
- Old Europe (Robert Wyatt)
- Let It Blow (Hector Zazou)
- En d'autres circonstances (La Tropa)
- Le racheteur d'ardoise (Les hurlements de Léo)
- Les abeilles (Jérémie Kisling)
- Je me réveille (Mendelson)

Old Europe est extrait de Cuckooland.

- FNAC (INDÉ 144) CD

> Zoom

Dancing/Listening
2003

Dancing/Listening

- Steve's Big Organ (Steve Blake)
- Kir (The Tractor's Revenge)
- Tunnel (Julian Swales)
- Reuben's Train (Martin Simpson)
- Dancing Machine (Borut Krzisnik)
- Biped Part IV (Gavin Bryars)
- Nemesis (extract) (Scanner)
- Underwater, Rooftop (Stomp)
- Left On Man (Robert Wyatt)
- Demons (David O'Higgins
- The Lost Dances Of Egon Schiele (extract) (Steve Blake)
- String Quartet N° 2, movement 1 (Lyric Quartet)
- String Quartet N° 2, movement 6 (Lyric Quartet)
- Bacalao Sala'o (Sidestepper)
- Numbers 1-4 (Penguin Cafe Orchestra)

Left On Man est extrait de Dondestan (revisited).

Le CD accompagne un ouvrage illustré de 40 pages consacré à des chorégraphies contemporaines et à leur environnement sonore.

- UNKNOWN PUBLIC (UP15) CD

> Zoom

1983-2003
2003

Ryko 20

- Thank You Friends (Big Star)
- Love Vibration (Josh Rouse)
- Window Grin (Kelly Joe Phelps)
- Chrome (Joe Jackson Band)
- Cure For Pain (Morphine)
- Chrome Plated Suicide (The Flaming Lips)
- Tonight We Dine On Fumes (The Carlsonics)
- What You Gon' Do (Stiffed)
- Put It In The Post (Pilot To Gunner)
- I'm The Slime (Frank Zappa)
- X-Ray Gun (Mink Lungs)
- A Sunday In Madrid (Robert Wyatt)
- I Will Dare (The Replacements)
- If I Left You (Kelly Willis)
- Jarabi (Toumani Diabate)
- Mama Gueia (Spanish Harlem Orchestra)
- Think Twice (Detroit Experiment)
- Black Buddah (Dj Logic)
- Walk Alone (Sky City)
- Poverty (Ennio Morricone)

Sunday In Madrid est extrait de Shleep

- RYKO (RCD 10646) CD

> Zoom

All Time Greatest Hits
Of The 70's Disco
2003

All Time Greatest Hits Of The 70's Disco

Disc 1
- Dancing On A Saturday Night (Barry Blue)
- Rhinestone Cowboy (Glen Cambell)
- Yellow River (Christie)
- Good Grief Christina (Chicory Tip)
- Love Grows (Edison Lighthouse)
- Goodbye Mr Love (Glitter Band, The)
- Rock Your Baby (George McCrae)
- Sugar Baby Love (The Rubettes)
- Tiger Feet (Mud)
- Fell The Need (The Detroit Emeralds)
- The Last Farewell (Roger Whitaker)
- Sandy (John Travolta)
- Just My Imagination (Temptations)
- Heaven Must Be Missing An Angel (Tavares)
- He's The Greatest Dancer (Sister Sledge)
- Wishing On A Star (Rose Royce)
- Patches (Clarence Carter)

Disc 2
- White Rabbit (Jefferson Airplane)
- Sunshine Superman (Donovan)
- I Had To Tell You (13th Floor Elevators)
- America (The Nice)
- I'd Rather Be With You (Soft Machine)
- California Dreaming (Mamas & Papas)
- Purple Haze (Jimi Hendrix)
- Scarborough Fair (Ocean Drive)
- West Coast Idea (Eric Clapton)
- Heart Full Of Soul (Yardbirds)
- Acapulco Sunrise (Santana)
- Love Taker (Peter Frampton)
- Question 57 & 58 (Chicago)
- House Of The Rising Sun (Eric Burdon)
- Love Is All Around (Troggs)
- Imagine (Jacqui McShee)
- A Hard Rain's Gonna Fall (Crazy World Of Arthur Brown)

Disc 3
- Juke Box Jive (The Rubettes)
- In The Summertime (Mungo Jerry)
- One Nation Under A Groove (Funkadelic)
- Son Of My Father (Chicory Tip)
- Let's Get It On (Marvin Gaye)
- Angel Face (Glitter Band, The)
- It's Been So Long (George McCrae)
- Superfly (Curtis Mayfield)
- Oh Boy (Mud)
- I'd Like To Teach The World To Sing (The New Seekers)
- Ring My Bell (Anita Ward)
- Greased Lightnin' (John Travolta)
- Papa Was A Rollin' Stone (Temptations)
- Never Had Love Like This Before (Tavares)
- Lost In Music (Sister Sledge)
- Love Don't Live Here Anymore (Rose Royce)
- Bridge Over Troubled Water (Linda Clifford)

I'd Rather Be With You est extrait de Jet-Propelled Photographs.

- TRILOGIE RECORDS (205858) 3xCD

> Zoom

15 Masters Of British Rock
2003

British Rock Legends

- Heart Full Of Soul (The Yardbirds)
- Season Of The Witch (Donovan)
- Natural Born Boogie (Humble Pie)
- L.A. Breakdown (The Allstars/Jimmy Page)
- Boom Boom (The Animals)
- Man Of The World (Fleetwood Mac)
- Paint It Black (Chris Farlowe)
- I Should've Known (Soft Machine)
- It's My Life (Eric Burdon)
- Diary Of An Empty Day (The Nice)
- Train Kept A Rollin' (The Yardbirds)
- So Much To Say (Rod Stewart)
- Cold Blooded Woman (Savoy Brown)

I Should've Known est extrait de Jet-Propelled Photographs.

- FUEL 2000 RECORDS (302 061 368 2) CD

- I'm Your Witch Doctor (John Mayall's Bluesbreakers)
- Afterglow (The Small Faces)

> Zoom

The Composer's Cut
2003

Maurizio Marsico

- Light My Firebird (M. Marsico/A. Tich)
- 1st Variation on "The Duchess" (W. Prati/R. Wyatt)
- Piece For 4 Pianos (Morton Feldman)
- New-York Dresser (Excerpt From) (Daniele Cavallanti)
- Revealing The Commas (M. Harrison)
- A Penguin Is A Penguin (M. Marsico/ A. Tich)
- Tommaso Leddi: Veli Alba (T. Leddi)
- Song From "Endings" (G. Harries/Zelda)
- Nei Puri Silenzi (Massimo Mariani)
- Mr. Jack Russell (D. Bailey/L. Margorani)
- The Farmer's Wife (M. Marsico)
- The Kings Of Edom, Whose Crowns Are Not (R. Chatham)

1st Variation on "The Duchess" est extrait de Postcards From Italy.

- AUDITORIUM (AUD 01303) CD

> Zoom

Jet Stream: Autumn Flight
2003

Jet Stream: Autumn Flight

- Beyond The Rainbow (Jose Luis Gonzalez)
- Someday The Prince (Pim Jacobs with Roger van Autello)
- Only Two (Louis Lewis Van Dyke)
- Goldberg Variations BWV988-Aria (Glen Gould)
- Dream (Paul Crossley)
- Moonlight In Vermont (Rita Rice & Pim Jacobs)
- Harry To Me (Ennio Morricone)
- Jamaican Song (Booker T)
- Oh Caroline (Matching Mole)
- Demon Called Love (Anne Burton)
- Milongita (Astor Piazzolla)
- Waltz For Debbie (Pim Jacobs with Roger Van Autello)
- Lonely Night (Sonia Rosa With Yuji Ono)
- Frank Lloyd Wright Song Dedicated To (Simon & Garfunkel
- Quiet Moments (Ronnie Liston Smith)
- Favela (Pete Jolie)
- You And Me (Paul Winter with Carlos Lila)
- Feel Like Makin' Love (Johnny Mathis)
- Brazilian Rhyme(Earth Wind & Fire)
- Cruel (Prefab Sprout)
- Corcovado (Tony Bennett) (
- Wild World (Bobby Scott)
- Aguas de Marco (Stan Getz)

Compiled by Tohru Hashitomo from a Japanese radio show Jet Stream.

- SONY MUSIC (MHCP-90) CD

> Zoom

Impossible But True
2003

The Kim Fowley Story

- Animal Man (Kim Fowley)
- Bubblegum (Kim Fowley)
- Justine (The Rangers)
- To Die Alone (The Bush)
- Alley-Oop (The Hollywood Argyles)
- Reputation (The Rangers)
- Nut Rocker (B. Bumble And The Stingers)
- Popsicles & Icicles (The Murmaids)
- Shush-Boomer (Alpinestars)
- Trip (Kim Fowley)
- Comedown Song (Spider)
- Security (The 'N Betweens)
- Daydreaming Of You (Hellions)
- Portobello Road (Cat Stevens)
- Satan's Holiday (The Lancasters)
- Charge! (The Renegades)
- You Been Torturing Me (The Hollywood Argyles)
- Like Long Hair (Paul Revere & the Raiders)

Feelin' Reelin' Squeelin' est extrait du single Love Makes Sweet Music.

- ACE RECORDS (CDCHD 888) CD

- Heads Up, High Hopes Over You (The Pharoahs)
- Gloria's Dream (The Belfast Gypsies)
- Ski Storm, Pt. 1 (Snowmen)
- No More (Little Victor and the Vistas)
- Louisiana Teardrops (Elfstone)
- Wild Thing (Cathy Rich)
- Space Odyssey (Kim Fowley)
- Fallin' Off the Edge Of My Mind (The Seeds)
- Rainbow At Midnight (Gene Vincent)
- Feelin' Reelin' Squeelin' (The Soft Machine)
- People! Let's Freak Out (Freaks of Nature)
- Pink Dominos (Crescents)
- Honest I Do (The Innocents)
- Papa-Oom-Mow-Mow (The Rivingtons)

The Anthology
2004

Ryko

Disc 1
- Changes (Sugar)
- This Magic Moment (Misfits)
- Honey White (Morphine)
- Looking Forward To Seeing You (Golden Smog)
- Happiness Is Drumming (Rhythm Band)
- Satisfaction (Devo)
- Put Your hand Inside (They Might Be Giants)
- Take Me Down (Kelly Willis)
- I Will Dare (Replacements)
- Wicked World (Osaka Popstar)
- Tied To The Tracks (Soul Asylum)
- Valentine (Nils Lofgren)
- Pink Moon (Nick Drake)
- Ai Du (Ry Cooder, & Ali Farka Toure)
- Not So Far To Go (Kelly Joe Phelps)
- 24/7 (Robert Cray)
- Day After Day (Badfinger)
- Lullaby For Hamza (Robert Wyatt)
- Thank You Friends (Big Star)
- Even The Clouds Get High (James 'Superstar' Kochalka)

Disc 2
- Chain (Fire Theft)
- Joe's Garage (Frank Zappa)
- Tear Stained Letter (Richard Thompson)
- Come Back (Light Therapy) (Josh Rouse)
- Walking On Thin Ice (Yoko Ono)
- Bubblehouse (Medeski, John & Billy Martin/Chris Wood)
- Ain't No End (Jayhawks)
- Academy Fight Song (Mission Of Burma)
- Fire (Jimi Hendrix)
- Crooked Frame (Alejandro Escovedo)
- Awkward Age (Joe Band Jackson)
- Descarga De Hoy (Cubanismo)
- Pacing The Cage (Bruce Cockburn)
- Paris 1919 (John Cale)
- Cougar Run (Mickey Hart)
- Confession Time (Cops) (Bill Hicks)

The Tapestry Of Delights

- Fanfare/Fire Poem (The Crazy World Of Arthur Brown)
- Black Snake (Atomic Rooster)
- First Intro
- Misleading Colours (The Gods)
- Second Intro
- Why Are We Sleeping? (Soft Machine)
- Brain (Action)
- The Joke (High Tide)

Lullaby For Hamza est extrait de Cuckooland.

- RYKO (RCD 105551) CD

Why Are We Sleeping? est extrait de Soft Machine - Volume One.

- BLACK WIDOW RECORDS (BWR054) 2xLP & CD

> Zoom

The Tapestry Of Delights
2004

- Rumbling Spires (Tyrannosaurus Rex)
- Evil Woman (Black Sabbath)
- Uncle Harry (Pink Fairies)
- We Took the Wrong Step Years Ago (Hawkwind)
- Red Sun (Janus)
- Poor Lady (Arcadium)
- Jewel (T.Rex)
- Evening Over Rooftops (Edgar Broughton Band)
- Soul Thing (Arzachel)

> Zoom

Out Of The Darkness...
2004

Out Of The Darkness...

- Let It Be Love (Craig Armstrong)
- K56 (Cranes)
- This Time Is Goodbye (Perry Blake)
- Let's Go Out To Night (Blue Nile
- Hallelujah (Live Version) (John Cale)
- No Romance (Kevin Coyne)
- Angeline (John Martyn)
- Unmasked (Robert Wyatt)
- Home (Gramophone)
- Tides Of The Moon (Mercury Rev)
- Stay Human (Michael Franti)
- Postscript (Terry Lee Hale)
- Very Near A Cliff (Felix Hans)
- Fragile (Cranes)
- Free Light Of The Day (Neal Casal)
- Into My Arms (Sarah-Jane Morris)

Track 12, 13 & 14 are reversed.
In reality:
12 = Very Near A Cliff (Felix Hans)
13 = Fragile (Cranes)
14 = Postscript (Terry Lee Hale)

- M10 (323962) CD

> Zoom

Winter 2004
2004

Rykomusic - New Releases - New Signings

- Summertime (The Fire Theft)
- How The Stars Got Crossed (Radio 4)
- Oh Boy (Transcargo)
- We Drink On The Job (Earlimart)
- Contact (The Beatnuts)
- Get Swamba (Garage A Trois))
- Smooth Sailing (Isley Brothers)
- Call Me Diamond (Mike Heron)
- Yala (Oumou Sangare)
- My Heart's In New South Wales (Dave Swarbrick)
- Cuckoo Madame (Robert Wyatt)
- Unan (Didier Squiban)

Cuckoo Madame est extrait de Cuckooland

- RYKOMUSIC (PRCD VRC014) CD

> Zoom

Monster 8
2004

Rock & Folk

- Mars A-Z (Blues Explosion)
- Last Post On The Bugle (The Libertines)
- Shake The Foundation (Radio 4)
- Kick Out The Chairs (Munk)
- Chicken Payback (The Bees)
- Glimpse At The Good Life (Dogs Die In Hot Cars)
- Don't Make Promises (Paul Weller)
- Will My Lord Be Gardening (Lilys)
- Green Spikey Cactus (Phil Manzanera)
- Goccia (Cristina Donà Featuring Robert Wyatt)
- Hello Halo, Goodbye Glands (Les Savy Fav)
- Feel These Blues (The Flash Express)
- Love Has Got Me Crying Again (Denise James)
- Willamette (Richmond Fontaine)
- Eli Said (Don Nino)
- Comets (Piano Magic Avec Angèle David-Guillou)

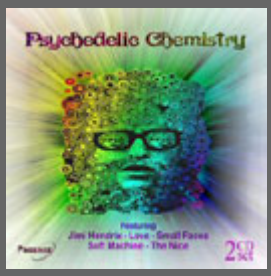
CD distribué avec le n° 446 d'octobre 2004 du magazine français Rock & Folk.

Goccia est extrait de Cristina Dona - UK Version

- ROCK'N'FOLK (CD8) CD

> Zoom

Monster 9
2004



Rock & Folk

- NYC Of Time (Giant Sand)
- The Irish Keep (The Thrills)
- After Dark (Le Tigre)
- I Found Out (Nathaniel Mayer)
- No Cities Left (The Dears)
- The Sure Ain't Right (The Datsuns)
- Goodbye (The Czars)
- Mean Man (The Detroit Cobras)
- Sugarcoated (Aimee Mann)
- LSF (Lost Soul Forever)(Kasabian)
- From Cayman Islands With Love (Stina Nordenstam)
- 7 heures du matin (Jacqueline Taïeb)
- Si Haut (Jenifer Jackson)
- Turning Inside Out (The Methadones)
- Hold Me Now (The Polyphonic Spree)
- Love Or A Lesson Midnight Movies)
- P.L.A. (Robert Wyatt)
- Dreaming (...Again) (Polmo Polpo)
- Broken (Motherkingdom)
- Closer To You (Honky Stomp)

CD distribué avec le n° 449 de janvier 2005 du magazine français Rock & Folk.

P.L.A. est extrait de Old Rottenhat.

- ROCK'N'FOLK (CD9) CD

> Zoom

Psychedelic Chemistry
2004

Psychedelic Chemistry

Disc 1
- Shapes Of Things (The Yardbirds)
- Purple Haze (Jimi Hendrix)
- You're Gonna Miss Me (The 13th Floor Elevators)
- White Rabbit (Jefferson Airplane)
- Soul Sacrifice (Santana)
- Hot Smoke & Sassafras (Bubble Puppy)
- San Franciscan Nights (Eric Burdon)
- When I Was Young (Eric Burdon)
- Alone Again Or (Love)
- Man Of The World (Fleetwood Mac)
- America (The Nice)
- Madame George (Van Morrison)
- 7 & 7 Is (Love)
- Circles (The Fleur De Lys)
- Light My Fire (Jose Feliciano)
- I Should've Known (Soft Machine)

Disc 2
- California Dreamin' (The Mamas & Papas)
- Brown Eyed Girl (Van Morrison)
- Itchycoo Park (Small Faces)
- Thoughts Of Emerlist Davjack (The Nice)
- Creeque Alley (The Mamas & Papas)
- Marbles (John McLaughlin)
- Somebody To Love (Jefferson Airplane)
- Wild Thing (Jimi Hendrix)
- Fire Engine (The 13th Floor Elevators)
- Jingo (Santana)
- Sherlock Holmes (The Red Krayola)
- Magick Brother (Gong)
- Stroll On (The Yardbirds)
- I'm Your Witchdoctor (John Mayall's Bluesbreakers Featuring Eric Clapton)
- Tell Me/Have You Ever Seen Me (Apostolic Intervention)
– On The Road Again (Canned Heat)

I Should've Known est extrait de Jet-Propelled Photographs.

- PAZZAZZ (2PAZZ027) 2xCD

Nationwide Mercury Prize 2004

- Good Luck (Basement Jaxx)
- Dark Of The Matinee (Franz Ferdinand)
- Superstar (Jamelia)
- I'm A Cuckoo (Belle & Sebastian)
- Stronger Than Me (Amy Winehouse)

Old Europe est extrait de Cuckooland.

- MERCURY PRIZE LTD (MMP CD13) CD

> Zoom

Album Of The Year
2004

- Can't Stop Now (Keane)
- Super Duper Love (Joss Stone)
- Ha Ha (Ty)
- Run (Snow Patrol)
- Old Europe (Robert Wyatt)
- Fit But You Know It (The Streets)
- You Will You Won't (The Zutons)
- Jus A Rascal (Dizzee Rascal)

> Zoom

> Zoom

Exclusive Tracks
From Uncut's Top
15 Albums Of 2003
2004

Exclusive Tracks From Uncut's Top 15 Albums Of 2003

- Oughta Go Around (Hamell On Trial)
- Things (John Cale)
- Prison Grove (Warren Zevon)
- Crackle & Drag (Paul Westerberg)
- Here I Am (Emmylou Harris)
- Soft Hand (Willard Grant Conspiracy)
- Far From Any Road (The Handsome Family)
- Two Fat Feet (The Fiery Furnaces)
- Foreign Accents (Robert Wyatt)
- The Train (Tahiti 80)
- Tour De France (single edit) (Kraftwerk)
- Rise (Josh Rouse)
- Slow Jam (Four Tet)
- Get Down Moses (Joe Strummer & The Mescaleros)
- Universal Hall (The Waterboys)

CD distribué avec le n° de janvier 2004 du magazine anglais Uncut.

Foreign Accents est extrait de Cuckooland.

- UNCUT RECORDS (2004 01) CD

> Zoom

Rock Suite
50 Anni Di Rock – 14
2004

Rock Suite - 50 Anni Di Rock – 14

- Aqualung (Jethro Tull)
- Roundabout (Yes
- Killer (Van Der Graaf Generator)
- Stop Swimming (Porcupine Tree)
- Marie Antoniette (Curved Air)
- Baby's On Fire (Brian Eno)
- All White (Soft Machine)
- You're Gone (Marillion)
- O' Caroline (Matching Mole)
- Lucky Man (Emerson, Lake & Palmer)

Edizione non in Vendita Separatamente dalle Testate del Gruppo Editoriale L'Espresso.

O' Caroline est extrait de Matching Mole.

- GRUPPO EDITORIALE L'EXPRESSO (50ROCK14) CD

> Zoom

Clean (BOF)
2004

Clean (Music From The Motion Picture Soundtrack)

- An Ending (Ascent)
- Strawberry Stain
- Taking Tiger Mountain
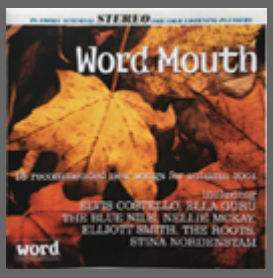
- Breakaway
- Down In The Light
- Dead Disco
- Spider And I
- Neon Golden
- Wait For Me
- Knives From Bavaria
- She Can'T Tell You
- Dead Disco (Bonus Track)

Taking Tiger Mountain est extrait de Taking Tiger Mountain (By Strategy).

- NAIVE (NV 802111) CD



> Zoom

Sound Concierge
#401: Do Not Disturb
2004

Sound Concierge Selected And Mixed By Fantastic Plastic Machine

- Daddy's Delight (FPM Talker Vocal Mix) (Kenji Jammer)
- Something (Chet Baker)
- Climb (Nikakoi)
- Eple (Röyksopp)
- Literature Is Fluff (Hight Llamas)
- A Love Song (Ego-Wrappin')
- La Sombra (Dionisio De Jesús Valdés)
- Moments In Love (Beaten) (Art Of Noise)
- Natural Born Dub (Riverside Christmas Remix) (Hiroshi Fujiwara)
- Love To Share (Carlton And The Shoes)
- Komm Und Spiel Mit Mir (Manfred Krug)
- Pranto De Poeta (Cartola)
- Sentimental Walk (Vladimir Cosma)
- Strange Fruit (Robert Wyatt)
- Brazilian Suite (Michel Petrucciani)
- Baby (Os Mutantes)
- If You Don't Want My Love (Bobby Womack)
- Girl In Black-Tango (Para Mi Negra) (Gato Barbieri)

> Zoom

Word Of Mouth
(15 Recommended New Songs For Autumn 2004)
2004

Word Of Mouth (15 Recommended New Songs For Autumn 2004)

- With Arms Outstretched (Rilo Kiley)
- The Delivery Man (Elvis Costello & The Imposters)
- Sweetwater (Tres Chicas)
- Stand In The World (Marjorie Fair)
- Manhattan Avenue (Nellie McKay)
- Augustus Golden (Ella Guru)
- Nobody's Sleeping (Anne McCue)
- Somebody's Gotta Do It (The Roots)
- Goccia (Cristina Donà Featuring Robert Wyatt)
- Weightlifting (Trashcan Sinatras)
- Get On With Your Life (Stina Nordenstam)
- Soul Boy (The Blue Nile)
- Banjo #1 (James Yorkston & The Athletes)
- Come Undone (The Delgados)
- Twilight (Elliott Smith)

> Zoom 1 2 3

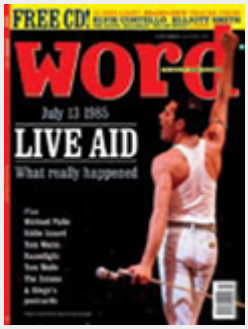
Archives GRM
2004

Archives GRM

Disc 1
LES VISITEURS DE LA MUSIQUE CONCRETE
- Jazz et Jazz (Andre Hodeir)
- Etude 1 (Pierre Boulez)
- Etude 2 (Pierre Boulez)
- Etude (Jean Barraque)
- La rivière endormie (Darius Milhaud)
- L'amen de verre (Roman Haubenstock-Ramati)
- Aspect Sentimental (Henri Suguet)
- Désert - Interpolation 1 (Edgar Varese)
- Texte 2 (Andre Boucourechilev)
- Points-Mouvements (Claude Ballif)
- Concret PH (Iannis Xenakis)
- Timbres Durées (Olivier Messiaen)

Disc 2

↑



Strange Fruit est extrait de At Last I'm Free/Strange Fruit.

- CUTTING EDGE (CTCR-14292) CD

↑

Goccia est extrait de Cristina Donà.

Free with issue 21 of Word magazine (November 2004).

- WORD MAGAZINE - CD

↑

It est extrait de L'Expérience Acoustique.

- INA (C 1030) 5xCD

L'ART DE L'ETUDE
- Etude Pathétique (Pierre Schaeffer)
- Etude Vocale (Monique Rollin)
- Etude no 1 (Michel Phillippot)
- Boite à musique (Phillppe Athuis)
- Etude aux allures (Pierre Schaeffer
- Etude aux sons tendus (Luc Ferrari)
- Etude Floue (Luc Ferrari)
- Etude aux accidents (Luc Ferrari)
- Prelude (Francois Bernard-Mache)
- Etude aux objets, 1st mvt. (Pierre Schaeffer)
- Etude 1 (Mireille Chamass-Kyrou)
- Reflets (Ivo Malec)
- Phonologie (Phillippe Carson)
- Etude no 2 (Akira Tamba)
- Mer d'Azov (Beatriz Ferreyra)
- Etude aux sons réalistes (Alain Savouret)
- Etude numérique (Alain Savouret)

Disc 3
LE SON EN NOMBRES
- Eros Bleu (Francois Bayle)
- Voyage au Paradis (Dieter Kaufmann)
- Sud (Jean-Claude Risset)
- Week-end (Ivo Malec)
- Wind Chimes (Denis Smalley)
- Anamorphées (Gilles Racot)
- Variations didactiques (Yann Geslin)
- Affleurements (Benedict Mailliard)
- Quatre saisons (Hiver) (Jean Schwarz)
- Novars (Francis Dhomont)

Disc 4
LE TEMPS DU TEMPS REEL
- Exercisme (Bernard Parmegiani)
- Les objets obscurs (Ake Parmerud)
- Pli de perversion (Denis Dufour)
- Ash (Horacio Vaggione)
- La complainte du bossue (Alain Savouret)
- Mimameta (Francis Bayle)
- Subgestuel (Gilles Racot)
- Daniel Teruggi
- De la distance (Ramon Gonzales Arroyo)
- Appel d'air (Michel Redolfi)

Disc 5
LE GRM SANS LE SAVOIR
- Indicatif Roissy (Bernard Parmegiani)
- It (Robert Wyatt/Francois Bayle)
- Indicatif France Culture (Bernard Parmegiani)
- Valse molle (Alain Savouret)
- Indicatif Stade 2 (Bernard Parmegiani)
- II était une fois (Jean Schwarz pour Carolyn Carson)
- Sonal France Culture (Jean Schwarz)
- Chantakoa (Michel Portal/Jean Schwarz)
- L'alcool tue (Boris Vian/Bernard Parmegiani)
- Les Shadoks (Robert Cohen-Solal)
- Canon sur une trompe africaine (Guy Reibel)
- Rengaine à pleurer (Edgardo Canton)
- La roue Ferris (Bernard Parmegiani)
- Sonal Ratp (Christian Zanesi)

> Zoom

Ars Longa Vita Brevis
2005

A Compendium Of Progressive Rock 1967-1974

Disc 1
- The Thoughts Of Emerlist Davjack (The Nice)
- Aeroplane (Jethro Tull)
- The Wheel's On Fire (Julie Driscoll, Brian Auger & The Trinity)
- Song Of A Baker (Small Faces)
- Fire (Crazy World Of Arthur Brown)
- America (The Nice)
- One Inch Rock (Tyrannosaurus Rex)
- Road To Cairo (Julie Driscoll, Brian Auger & The Trinity)
- The Sky Is Burning (Sam Gopal)
- Xoanan Bay (Woody Kern)
- I Keep Singing That Same Old Song

Hibou, Anemone And Bear est extrait de Soft Machine - Volume Two.

- CASTLE MUSIC (CMETD727)
3xCD

(Heavy Jelly)
- Walking In The Park (Colosseum)
- Hibou, Anemone And Bear (Soft Machine)
- Man Of The World (Fleetwood Mac)
- Sinnin' For You (Live) (Keef Hartly Band)
- Seen Through A light (The Mooche)
- Mrs. Moon And The Thatched Shop (Mike Oldfield)
- Natural Born Bugie (Humble Pie)
- Shangri-La (The Kinks)

Disc 2
- Billy The Monster (The Deviants)
- Spunk Box (Man)
- Who Do You Love? (Juicy Lucy)
- Kings And Queens (Renaissance)
- Down The Dustpipe (The Status Quo)
- Come To The Sabbat (Black Widow)
- The Green Manalishi (Fleetwood Mac)
- All In Your Mind (Stray
- Bath Sister (Jody Grind)
- The Answer (Pete Bardens)
- Tomorrow Night (Atomic Rooster
- Junior's Wailing (Status Quo)
- Follow You Home (UFO)
- Money Can't Save Your Soul (Savoy Brown)
- Lucky Man (Emerson Lake & Palmer)
- Levinia (Streamhammer)
- Diana (Comus)

Disc 3
- Prelude To The Arena (Marsupilami)
- Blind To Your Light (Carol Grimes/Delivery)
- Devil's Answer (Atomic Rooster)
- Mice And Rats In The Loft (Jan Dukes De Grey)
- Wishful Thinking (Hiroshima)
- Gone With The Mouse (Fuchia)
- Eternal Messenger (Kingdom Come)
- Daughter Of The Hillside (Chicken Shack)
- Easy Livin' (Uriah Heep)
- Skin Alley Serenade (Skin Alley)
- Buffalo (Writing On The Wall)
- Sad Go Round (Groundhogs)
- Karn Evil 9 (1st Impression Part 2) (Emerson Lake & Palmer)
- Starlight Starbright (Gravy Train)
- Funeral Empire (Tempest)
- Opening Move (Gryphon)
- The Seventh Secret (Fruupp)

> Zoom

John Peel - A Tribute
2005

John Peel - A Tribute

Disc 1
- Lost John (Lonnie Donegan)
- Debora (T-Rex)
- Set The Controls For The Heart Of The Sun (Pink Floyd)
- Spanish Castle Magic (Jimi Hendrix Experience)
- Sweet Thing (Van Morrison)
- Life On Mars (David Bowie)
- Five To One (The Doors)
- Song For A Siren (Tim Buckley)
- Stay With Me (Faces)
- I Can Take You To The Sun (The Misunderstood)
- Not So Sweet Martha Lorraine (Country Joe & The Fish)
- Meet On The Ledge (Fairport Convention)
- Big Eyed Beans From Venus (Captain Beefheart)
- Be Careful There's A Baby In The House (Loudon Wainwright III)
- I Am A Lonesome Fugitive (Roy Buchanan)
- Mr Apollo (The Bonzo Dog Doo Dah Band)
- I Don't Want To Walk Around With You (Ramones)
- Complete Control (The Clash)
- Love Will Tear Us Apart (Joy Division)
- Ceremony (New Order)

Shipbuilding est extrait du EP Shipbuilding/Memories Of You/'Round Midnight.

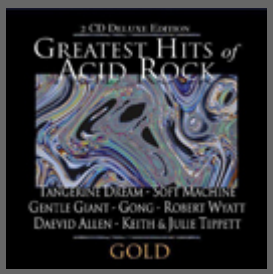
- WSM (WSMCD226) 2xCD

Disc 2
- Teenage Kicks (The Undertones)
- Happy Birthday (Altered Images)
- How Soon Is Now? (The Smiths)
- Pearly Dewdrops' Drops (The Cocteau Twins)
- Sidewalking (The Jesus & Mary Chain)
- Song 2 (Blur)
- Lion Rock (Culture)
- New England (Billy Bragg)
- Shipbuilding (Robert Wyatt)
- Brassneck (The Wedding Present)
- Sheila Na Gig (Pj Harvey)
- Common People (Pulp)
- Theme From Sparta F.C. #2 (The Fall)
- Something For The Weekend (Super Furry Animals)
- Bird Of Cuzco (Nina Nastasia)
- Pull The Wires From The Wall (The Delgados)
- Lazy Line Painter Jane (Belle & Sebastian)
- Two Seconds (Laura Cantrell)
- Chime (Orbital)
- Dust My Blues (Elmore James)

> Zoom

John Peel's Festive 15
2005

John Peel's Festive 15



- The Trumpton Riots (Half Man Half Biscuit)
- Take The Skinheads Bowling (Camper Van Beethoven)
- Where's Captain Kirk? (Spizzenergi)
- Remember (Mighty Wah!)
- Birthday (Sugarcubes)
- Well Well Well (Woodentops)
- The Saturday Boy (Billy Bragg)
- Sensitive (Field Mice)
- Foolish Harp/Waerera (Bhundu Boys)
- Gold Soundz (Pavement)
- Primative Painters (Felt featuring Elizabeth Fraser)
- Destroy The Heart (House Of Love)
- Everyone Thinks He Looks Daft (Wedding Present)
- Shipbuilding (Robert Wyatt)
- Eat Y'self Fitter (Fall)

CD distribué avec le n° de janvier 2006 du magazine anglais Uncut.

.Shipbuilding est extrait du EP Shipbuilding/Memories Of You/'Round Midnight.

- UNCUT RECORDS (2006 01) CD

> Zoom

Greatest Hits Of Acid Rock
2005

Greatest Hits Of Acid Rock

- Two Bunch Palms (Tangerine Dream)
- Floating Into A Birthday Gig (Gong)

- Slightly All The Time (Soft Machine)
- Rain-Bow (Keith & Julie Tippett)
- Free Hand (Gentle Giant)
- Magic Brother (Daevid Allen)
- Tubab (Robert Wyatt)
- The Menu (Code Black)
- Augment & Lady (Mother Gong)
- Eamonn Andrews (Soft Machine)
- Weather (Mother Gong)
- Graffiti Street (Tangerine Dream)
- Funny Ways (Gentle Giant)
- Have You Seen My Friend? (Daevid Allen)
- Radio Gnome 25 (Gong)
- Die In Disneyland (Code Black)
- Purple Haze (Tangerine Dream
- Poet & Peasant (Beggars Opera)

Slightly All The Time et Eamonn Andrews sont des versions mono Live (de qualité sonore très médiocre).

Tubab est extrait de A Short Break.

- DEJAVU RETRO GOLD COLLECTION (R2CD 43-03) 2xCD

> Zoom

The Best Of British Rock
...And More
2005

The Best Of British Rock ...And More

Disc 1
- All Day And All Of The Night (The Kinks)
- Do Wah Diddy Diddy (Manfred Mann)
- I'm A Man (The Spencer Davis Group
- Here Comes My Baby (The Tremeloes)
- Bus Stop (The Hollies)
- Time Of The Season (The Zombies)
- Paint It Black (Chris Farlowe)
- Don't Let The Sun Catch You Crying (Gerry & The Pacemakers)
- Have I The Right? (The Honeycombs)
- I'm Telling You Now (Freddie & The Dreamers
- Heart Full Of Soul (The Yardbirds)
- Hippy Hippy Shake (The Swinging Blue Jeans)
- Sitting On A Fence (Twice As Much)
- Little Children (Billy J. Kramer/The Dakotas)
- World Without Love, A (Peter & Gordon)
- Hush (Deep Purple)
- Pictures Of Matchstick Men (Status Quo)
- Itchycoo Park (The Small Faces)
- King Midas In Reverse (The Hollies)
- Hurdy Gurdy Man (Donovan)

Disc 2
- For Your Love (Yardbirds)
- Season Of The Witch (Donovan)
- Couldn't Get It Right (Climax Blues Band)
- L.A. Breakdown (The Allstars featuring Jimmy Page)
- Boom Boom (The Animals)
- Man Of The World (Fleetwood Mac)
- Long Cool Woman (The Hollies)
- I Should've Known (Soft Machine)
- It's My Life (Eric Burdon)
- Diary Of An Empty Day (The Nice featuring Keith Emerson)
- Train Kept A Rollin' (The Yardbirds)
- So Much To Say (Rod Stewart)
- Cold Blooded Women (Savoy Brown)
- I'm Your Witchdoctor (Bluesbreakers)
- Afterglow (The Small Faces)

.I Should've Known est extrait de Jet-Propelled Photographs.

- FUEL 2000 RECORDS - 2xCD

> Zoom

Rykodisc Summer 2005 Sampler
A Rykodisc State Of Mind
2005

Rykodisc Summer 2005 Sampler

Disc 1
NEW AND UPCOMING RELEASES
- So Lonely (Waltham)
- Conversations (The Posies)
- Whoever (J-Live)
- Don't Slander Me (Roky Erickson)
- My Love Has Gone (Josh Rouse)
- All Right (Aight) / Interlude (Ali Shaheed Muhammad)
- Escape From The Island (Ralph Myerz & The Jack Herren Band)
- Better Days (Perfect)
- Sink My Teeth In (Jess Klein)
- Mine Exclusively (Big Star)
- Madness (The Beatnuts)
- Wicked World (Osaka Popstar)
- Friends (Dumptruck)
- Everyday Is Halloween (Ministry)
- No Regrets (SVT)
- You Can't Say No To Hell (Tara Angell)
- Bang It! (The Frontline)

Disc 2
GEMS FROM THE CATALOG
- Hit And Run Holiday (My Life With The Thrill Kill Kult)
- Thursday (Morphine)
- I'm The Slime (Frank Zappa)
- Pacing The Cage (Bruce Cockburn)
- Sixteen Blue (The Replacements)
- Not Forgotten You (Kelly Willis)
- Adios Mi Vida (Cesar Rosas)
- Taboo Tu (Arthur Lyman)
- Mambo UK (¡Cubanismo!)

CD Promo.

Heaps Of Sheeps est extrait de Shleep.

- RYKODISC (PRCD V0627) 2xCD

- Think (Medeski, Martin & Wood)
- Down Here (Lori Carson)
- Heaps Of Sheeps (Robert Wyatt)
- I Got Kinda Lost (Chris Bell)
- Baby's Arms (Robert Cray)
- Walking On A Wire (Richard & Linda Thompson)
- Airstream (Fastball)
- Dance Of The Hunter's Fire (Mickey Hart)
- I'll Fly Away (The Kossoy Sisters With Additional Banjo And Guitar Accompaniments By The Kossoy Sisters With Erik Darling)

> Zoom

Nanas Contemporáneas / Contemporary Lullabies
2005

Nanas Contemporáneas / Contemporary Lullabies Canciones De Ternura En Los Tiempos Del Rencor

- L' inexorable pas del temps (Ramon Civit)
- Nacer (Fernando Mas)
- Christmas lullaby (Montserrat Figueras)
- La princesita de la caja de música quiere volar (Lea Shalom & Bohemia Camerata)
- La lluna, etc. (Pascal Comelade)
- Cançó de bressol (Maria del Mar Bonet)
- My love (Marlango)
- Nacimiento (Esperanza Fernández)
- Un cuento para mi niño (Lole y Manuel)
- El noi de la mare (Toti Soler)
- El niño inseminado (Vainica Doble)
- La Teresita mira a la luna (Cathy Claret)
- My Love Goes With You (The Innocence Mission)
- Lullaby for Hamza (Robert Wyatt)
- El círculo (Kevin Johansen)
- Birdy (Velure)
- Un niño que llora en los montes de María (Petrona)
- Libre como el viento (Muchachito)
- Berta ((Marc Parrot)
- Nana del amor amargo (Claustrofobia)

.

Lullaby for Hamza est extrait de Cuckooland.

- K INDUSTRIA (K054CD) CD

> Zoom

La Biennale Takes A Trip
2005

Fred Elalouf Aka Oof

- Grace (Country Joe And The Fish)
- Eastern Light (Mad River)-
- In The Time Of Our Lives (Iron Butterfly)
- The Season Of The Witch (Vanilla Fudge)
- No Quarter (Led Zeppelin)
- Fearless (Pink Floyd)
- Mommy, What's A Funkadelic? (Funkadelic)
- Le Roi Des Mouches Et La Confiture De Rose (Jean-Claude Vannier)
- Venus In Furs (Amon Tobin Vs Velvet Underground)
- Hummous (Salaryman)
- Ravi Shankar (Dub Syndicate)
- Nero's Expedition (Moondog)
- Love Without Sound (White Noise)
- All Is Loneliness (Big Brother & The Holding Company Feat. Janis Joplin)
- Fragrance (Holger Czukay)
- The Black Regent (Add N To (X))
- Gloria Gloom (Matching Mole)
- The Isle Of Everywhere (Gong)
- Cielo Drive / 17 (Dashiell Hedayat)
- Devil Woman (Manfred Mann)
- Hornets (Herbie Hancock)
- Sirens Of Salo (Jimi Tenor)
- E.V.A. (Jean-Jacques Perrey)
- Kolumbo (Dick Hyman)
- A Rainbow In Curved Air (Terry Riley)
- The Anguish Of Space Time (Apparat Organ Quartet)
- Pendulum (Broadcast)
- House At Pooneil Corners (Jefferson Airplane)
- The Dream Machine (Sukia)

.

Gloria Gloom est extrait de Little Red Record.

Soundtrack for a psychedelic art exhibition of the famous 'Biennale de Lyon' from September to December 2005 at Le Fort de St-Jean.
Mixed live without computer! Selection made out of 3000 tracks...

Promo version.

- PING PONG (DJOOF005) CD

- The Psychedelic Warlords (Hawkwind)
- Ruckzuck (Kraftwerk)
- Trippin' With The Birds (Stereolab/Nurse With Wound)
- Spoon (Can)
- Kosmos (Lynch Mob Bonus Beats) (Paul Weller)
- I Walk The Earth (King Biscuit Time)
- Orbit Around The Moon (Joe Meek & The Blue Men)
- Sailor's Tale (King Crimson)
- Exposition (Deep Purple)
- The Lamb (Aphrodite's Child)
- Surge (Funki Porcini)
- Spirit Fingers (Fourtet)
- Memory Of A Free Festival (David Bowie)
- Voyage 34 (Porcupine Tree)

> Zoom

Monster 13
2006

Rock & Folk

- Juicebox (The Strokes)
- Fuck Forever (Baby Shambles)
- Pattern Skies (The Greenhornes)
- You Could Have It So Much Better (Franz Ferdinand)
- Velvet (The Lords Of Altamont)
- Seer (The Brian Jonestown Massacre)
- The Purple Bottle (Animal Collective)
- Rocket (El Presidente)
- America's Boy (Broadcast)
- Fake Tales Of San Francisco (Arctic Monkeys)
- Afterburner (The Accidents)
- The Only One (Readymade)
- Sugar (Made Out Of Babies)
- A Spoonful Blues (Charley Patton)
- Time Attack (New Black)
- Greenland (The Kingsbury Manx)
- Technicolor Ufo (Phil Manzanera)
- Memories (Robert Wyatt)
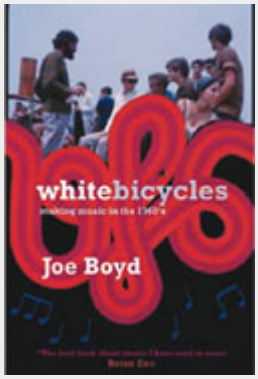
- Catch Electrique (We)
- Last Exit To Paradise (Hubert-Felix Thiefaine)
- Going To Brazil (Green Dollar Colour)
- Kill Rock'n'Roll (System Of A Down)

CD distribué avec le n° 465 de janvier 2006 du magazine français Rock & Folk.

Memories est extrait de Theatre Royal Drury Lane - Robert Wyatt & Friends In Concert - 8th September 1974.

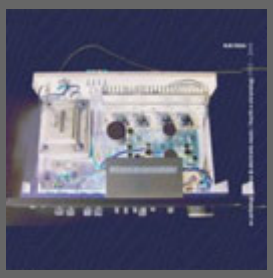
- ROCK'N'FOLK (CD13) CD

> Zoom



White Bicycles:
Making Music in the 1960s
2006

White Bicycles: Making Music in the 1960s - The Joy Boyd Story



- Crossroads (Eric Clapton & The Powerhouse)
- Way Back In The 1960s (The Incredible String Band)
- Because It Wouldn't Pay (Johnny Handle)
- Spanish Ladies Medley (Dave Swarbrick, Martin Carthy & Diz Disley)
- Arnold Layne (Pink Floyd)
- Granny Takes A Trip (The Purple Gang)
- She's Gone (Soft Machine)
- If I Had A Ribbon Bow (Fairport Convention)
- Seven Yellow Gypsies (Shirley Collins)
- Chinese White (The Incredible String Band)
- Autopsy (Fairport Convention)
- The Deserter (Fairport Convention)
- Poor Boy (Nick Drake)
- The Sea (Fotheringay)
- Flowers Of The Forest (Mike Heron)
- Come Wind Come Rain (Vashti Bunyan)
- Primrose Hill (John & Beverley Martyn)
- I Don't Mind (The New Nadir)
- Church Mouse (Dudu Pukwana & Spear)
- Andromeda (Chris Mcgregor's Brotherhood Of Breath)
- Afraid (Nico)
- Way To Blue (Nick Drake)
- Brazil (Geoff & Maria Muldaur)

Ce CD a été publié en même temps que l'ouvrage éponyme de Joe Boyd, paru chez Serpent's Tail en octobre 2007.

She's Gone est extrait de Triple Echo.

- FLEDG'LING RECORDS (FLED 3061) CD

> Zoom

> Zoom

An Anthology Of Noise And Electronic Music - Vol. 4
2006

An Anthology Of Noise And Electronic Music - Vol. 4

Disc 1
- Wire Recorder Piece (El Balh, Halim)
- Piece Electronique 3 (Ligeti, Gyorgy)
- Mutations (Risset, Jean-Claude)
- Demeures Aquatiques (Ferreyra, Beatriz)
- Bounce (Ratkje, Maja)
- Sediment (Spiegel, Laurie)
- Pendulum Music (Reich, Steve)
- Marfa Mix (Vitiello, Stephen)
- Ressac 4 (eRikm)
- Sea Food (Changcun, Wang)
- Ungoya (Chlorgeschlecht)
- Funktion Grau (Koenig, Michael)

Disc 2
- Broken Music Composition (Knizak, Milan)
- Fucked Up And Naked (Denudes, Ralizes)
- Weaving The Magic (Vibrocathedral Orchestra)
- Nine Tails (Hawkins, Andy)
- Still And Moving Lines Of Silence In Families Of Hyperbolas (Lucier, Alvin)
- Circa 1901 (Loop Orchestra)
- Still Warm (Watermann, John)
- It (Bayle, Francois & Robert Wyatt)
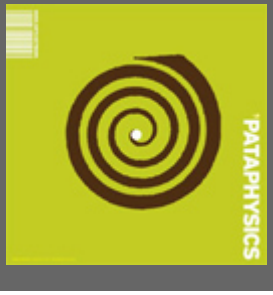
- Present Time Excercise (Burroughs, William S.)
- Air Attack Over Kabul Airfield (Whitehead, James)
- Aerobruitisme Dynamique (Vivenza, Jean-Marc)
- Oraison (Messiaen, Olivier)

.It est extrait de L'Expérience Acoustique.

- SUB ROSA (SR 250) 2xCD

> Zoom

2003 (Ein Jahr Und Seine 20 Songs)
2006



2003 (Ein Jahr Und Seine 20 Songs)

- Rock Me (Liz Phair)
- Hey Ya! (Outkast)
- Darts Of Pleasure (Franz Ferdinand)
- Go With The Flow (Queens Of The Stone Age)
- Insensatez (Robert Wyatt)
- Things I Miss The Most (Steely Dan)
- Bank Holiday Monday (Stephen Duffy & The Lilac Time)
- I Don't Know What It Is (Rufus Wainwright)
- Are You Gonna Be My Girl (Jet)
- I Believe In A Thing Called Love (The Darkness)
- Jessica (Adam Green)
- When I See You (Macy Gray)
- Indian Flute (Timbaland & Magoo)
- Carta (Toranja)
- Don't Look Back Into The Sun (The Libertines)
- I Need Your Love (The Rapture)
- Denkmal (Wir Sind Helden)
- Trouble (Pink)
- The New Year (Death Cab For Cutie)
- I Don't Blame You (Cat Power)

Book + CD. Part of the Süddeutsche Zeitung Diskothek Series (1955-2004).

Insensatez est extrait de Cuckooland.

- SÜDDEUTSCHE ZEITUNG DISKOTHEK (2003) Book + CD

Pataphysics

- Marche Funèbre Composée Pour Les Funérailles D'un Grand Homme Sourd (Alphonse Allais)
- Hanson Du Décervelage (Alfred Jarry, Charles Pourny, Claude Terrasse)
- Hymne Des Palotins (Alfred Jarry, Charles Pourny, Claude Terrasse)
- Erratum Musical (Marcel Duchamp)
- Kangaroo-Pouch Machine (Percy Grainger)

Patasoft est une version totalement remixée de A Pataphysical Introduction et The British Alphabet du Soft Machine Vol. 2

- SONIC ARTS NETWORK (SAN2005) CD

> Zoom

Pataphysics
2006

- Le Déserteur (Boris Vian)
- Harpo Boogie-Woogie (Harpo Marx)
- L'apres-Midi D'un Magnétophone: Palindromes Phonétiques (Luc Etienne)
- Gai Savoir (Jean Dubuffet)
- Patasoft (R.Wyatt/H.Hopper)
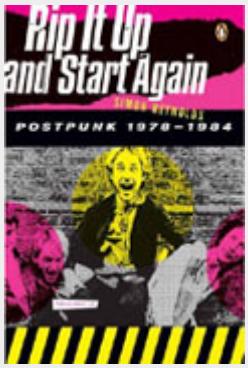
- Ponukélian Melody (Gavin Bryars)
- The Man With The Axe (Nigey Lennon)
- L'auteur Se Retire (Christopher Hobbs)
- Nicholas Through The Mist (Andrew Hugill)
- D'un Jet (Frédéric Inigo)
- Einsiedler (Gullibloon)
- Pataphonic Studies 1 (John Levack Drever)
- Pataphonic Studies 2 (John Levack Drever)
- Pataphonic Studies 3 (John Levack Drever)
- Interior/Interior (Neil Salley)
- Just To Be Clear (Ramuntcho Matta)
- Bam_Haha (Marc Battier)
- To End, Caruso Sang Figure 1 Moto Perpetuo (Andrew Hugill)

> Zoom



Rip It Up And Start Again
2006

Rip It Up And Start Again (Postpunk 1978-1984 - Compiled By Simon Reynolds)

- Fiery Jack (Fall)
- Praying Hands (Devo)
- Devil Lives In My Husbands Body (Pulsallama)
- Sluggin' Fer Jesus (part 1)(Cabaret Voltaire)
- Sense Of Guilt (Josef K)
- PAs (Scritti Politti)
- Spend Spend Spend (Slits)
- Violence Grows (Fatal Microbes)
- Grass (Robert Wyatt)
- Slowdive (Siouxsie & The Banshees)
- Only Loved At Night (Raincoats)
- Choci Loni (Young Marble Giants)
- Dancevision (Human League)
- Tight As A Drum(Thomas Leer)
- White Car In Germany (Associates)
- Give Me Back My Man (B-52's)
- Beasley Street (John Cooper Clarke)
- Friday Night Saturday Morning (Specials)
- I'm Your Money (Heaven 17)
- Dumb Magician (Blue Orchids)

Ce CD a été publié en même temps que l'ouvrage éponyme de Simon Reynolds, paru chez Penguin Books en janvier 2006.

Grass est extrait du single Grass/Trade Union.

- V2 (VVR1040352) CD

> Zoom 1 2

Plague Songs
2006

Plague Songs

- Blood (Klashnekoff) (The Plague Of Blood)
- Relate the Tale (King Creosote) (The Plague Of Frogs)
- The Meaning of Lice (Stephin Merritt) (The Plague Of Lice)
- Flies (Brian Eno With Robert Wyatt) (The Plague Of Flies)
- The Fifth Plague (Laurie Anderson) (The Death Of Livestock)
- Boils (Cody ChesnuTT) (The Plague Of Boils)
- Hailstones (The Tiger Lillies) (The Plague Of Hail)
- Glittering Cloud (Imogen Heap) (The Plague Of Locusts)
- Darkness (Scott Walker) (The Plague Of Darkness)
- Katonah (Rufus Wainwright) (The Death Of The Firstborn)

- Bobby "Buzzer" Wyatt - fly

- Hannah Eno - high voice
- Steve Jones - second guitar
- Brian Eno - all other intruments and voices

Flies a été initialement composé et interprété pour cet album.

- 4AD/ARTANGEL (CAD2616CD) CD

> Zoom

Classics From John Peel's All-Time Festive Fifty
2006

Classics From John Peel's All-Time Festive Fifty

- Teenage Kicks (The Undertones)
- White Man In Hammersmith Palais (The Clash)
- Common People (Pulp)
- True Faith (New Order)
- Another Girl Another Planet (The Only Ones)
- French Disko (Stereolab)
- Going Underground (The Jam)
- Sheela-Na-Gig (PJ Harvey)
- Visions Of Johanna (Bob Dylan)
- Shipbuilding (Robert Wyatt)
- Northern Sky (Nick Drake)
- Song To The Siren (Tim Buckley)
- Can't Be Sure (The Sundays)
- Heroin (The Velvet Underground)
- Brassneck (Wedding Present)
- New Rose (The Damned)
- How I Wrote Elastic Man (The Fall)
- This Charming Man (The Smiths)
- New Dawn Fades (Joy Division)

- UNIVERSAL MUSIC (984 345-2) CD

> Zoom

Cuneiform Promo 4
2006

Cuneiform Records

- Family Affair [Excerpt] (Harry Miller's Isipingo)
- Gnat Prong [Excerpt] (Hugh Hopper)
- Ready 4 Luv (Hamster Theatre)
- Someplace Else (Bill Brovold & Larval)
- Creature Council [Excerpt] (Far Corner)
- The Old Ones (Nebelnest)
- The Fabulous Story of Tigroo and Leloo [Excerpt] (Richard Pinhas)
- Bossa Nova Express (Soft Machine)
- Xenantaya (Univers Zéro)
- Scherzo #C (Zaar)
- Second Avenue (Microscopic Septet)
- There's No Going Back Now [Excerpt] (Mujician)
- Brooklyn in the Fifties (Microscopic Septet)
- Slightly All the Time/Noisette (Soft Machine)
- Amen - Birdsongs of the Mesozoic with Oral Moses

Promo Edition.

Bossa Nova Express est extrait de Middle Earth Masters.

Slightly All the Time/Noisette est extrait de Grides.

- CUNEIFORM RECORDS (PROMO4) CD

> Zoom

Dirty Diamonds III
2006

Dirty Diamonds III

Disc 1
- Walking In The Rain (Flash & The Pan)
- Morning Wonder (The Earlies)
- Spiders (Kidsmoke) (Wilco)
- Leaf House (Animal Collective)
- Red Tape (Brooks)
- Shrinkrap (Robert Wyatt)
- Bees (Caribou)
- Derrick Starter (Turzi)
- Soon Soon Soon (Kevin Ayers)
- California Shake (Margo Guryan)
- She's My Baby (Mazzy Star)
- Smalltown Boy (André Herman Düne)

Disc 2
- Plongée De Glace (François De Roubaix)
- Somewhere In The Waves, We Will Find You (Cristian Vogel)
- How To Build A Super Computer (The Emperor Machine)
- So (Extended) (Soft Cell)
- Lovemachine (Supermax)
- Enrico (Isolée)
- Afraid (Nico)
- Symphonie Pour L'Attentat (Ennio Morricone)
- The End Of The World (Skeeter Davis)

Shrinkrap est extrait de Dondestan.

Soon Soon Soon est extrait de Odd Ditties.

- DIAMOND TRAXX (DIAM052CD) 2xCD

> Zoom

Girlmonster
2006

Girlmonster

Disc 1
- Girlmonster Intro
- Fine As Fuck (Scream Club Vs. Ben Adorable Feat. Peaches)
- Demons Of Love (Mignon)
- Hot Topic (Le Tigre)
- Mountain Place (Barbara Morgenstern)
- G. G. (Gaudy Good) (Angie Reed)
- Honeyland (Pam Hogg)
- Speedometer (Rhythm King And Her Friends)
- Get It Back (Hanin Elias)
- Me Saw Me Momma (Kevin Blechdom)
- Full Moon (Ana da Silva)
- Virtual Leisure (Anat Ben David)
- Super Hero (Sir Alice)
- Plastic Surgery (Chicks On Speed)
- Launderette (Vivien Goldman)
- Incognito (Tina Weymouth)
- Down To The Underground (Client)
- Break Dance Hunx (Market Value Mix) (Kids On TV)
- School Of Etiquette (Boyskout)
- Dust (Erase Errata)
- No Woman No Crime (No Bra)

Disc 2
- Ungawa Pt. 2 Remix (Pulsallama)
- Typical Girls (Live) (The Slits)
- Mind Your Own Business (Delta 5)
- Nameless Dogs (Cherry Sunkist)
- Get The Picture (Japanese Intelligence Mind Control)
- Anchors Away (Autonervous)
- Mr. Chang (Cobra Killer)
- Changes (Planningtorock)
- Pita Pata (Hanayo)
- Storm (Björk)
- Panic Of The Square (Tobi Vail)
- We Shall Overcome (Gustav)
- Our Inventions (Bonnie Vs. Hunter)
- You Can't Put Your Arms Around A Memory (Françoise Cactus)
- Die Matrosen (LiliPUT)
- Your Girlfriend (Katastrophe)
- Sedition (Lesbians On Ecstasy)
- Sheets (Electric Indigo & Dorit Chrysler)
- Licking The Juice (Cosey Fanni Tutti)

Disc 3
- Sucker Man (Hotel Motel)
- Girl Boogie (Gudrun Gut)
- Godzilla (Siouxsie And Budgie's Girl Monster Mix) (The Creatures)
- Maybe A Dog (Soffy O)
- New Year's Eve (Ella Bandita)
- Somos Las Perras (Las Perras Del Infierno)
- You're Speaking My Language (Juliette And The Licks)
- Pinkitan (Miss Le Bomb)
- Sexy (Cat5)
- Get RID! (Robots In Disguise)
- Fom Fom (People Like Us)
- Manifesto (Michaela Melián)
- Heroes (History Mix) (Susanne Brokesch)
- International (Scream Club Vs. Leonard DeLeonard)
- Crystal Cookie (Lesson 1) (Crystal Cookie)
- Say Trees (Caro Snatch)
- Your Turn To Run (Malaria!)
- Shouting Out Loud (The Raincoats)
- Seven Days (Vivien Goldman w/ Andy Caine & Manasseh Sound)
- Baby Mother (Toxicgirl Strip Mix) (Ari Up)
- Sell It 2 The Kids (Megaphone Version) (Miss Pain)

Launderette est extrait de Launderette/Private Armies.

- CHICKS ON SPEED RECORDS (COSR33CD) 3xCD

Girlmonster EP 1

- Fine As Fuck (Scream Club Vs. Ben Adorable Feat. Peaches)

Launderette est extrait de

> Zoom

Girlmonster EP 1
2006

- Break Dance Hunx (Market Value Mix) (Kids On TV)
- Plastic Surgery (Chicks On Speed)
- G. G. (Gaudy Good) (Angie Reed)
- Launderette (Vivien Goldman)
- Down To The Underground (Client)

Launderette/Private Armies.

- CHICKS ON SPEED RECORDS (COSR34CD) EP

> Zoom

Late Night Tales: Air
2006

Late Night Tales: Air

- All Cats Are Grey (The Cure)
- Planet Caravan (Black Sabbath)
- O' Venezia Venaga Venusia (Nino Rota)
- I Shall Be Released (Band & Bugles Of The Light Division/Owen)
- Camille (Georges Delerue)
- Ghosts (Japan)
- Old Man's Back Again (Scott Walker)
- Come Wander With Me (Jeff Alexander)
- Metal Heart (Cat Power)
- Loving You (Minnie Riperton)
- For The World (Tan Dun)
- Long De La Riviere Tendre (Sebastien Tellier)
- My Autumn's Done Come (Lee Hazlewood)
- P.L.A. (Robert Wyatt)
- Let's Get Lost (Elliott Smith)
- Cousin Jane (The Troggs)
- Musica (Air/Alessandro Baricco)
- Pavane Pour Une Infante Défunte (Ravel/Cleveland Orchestra)

Cet album fait également partie de la compilation de 27 CD LateNightTales (TheDecadeBox) éditée en 2011 en tirage limité numéroté.

P.L.A. est extrait de Old Rottenhat.

- AZULI RECORDS (ALNCD15) CD

> Zoom

Singer Songwriter - Vol.1
2006

Rough Trade Shops

Disc 1
- Beneath The Rose (Micah P. Hinson)
- Calendar Hung Itself (Bright Eyes)
- I've Changed My Number (Plush)
- Irony Engine (Franklin Bruno)
- Girl From The Estuary (Adrian Crowley)
- Metal Heart (Cat Power)
- Come Down Slowly (James William Hindle)
- Take Courage (Mark Eitzel)
- Plain Sailing (Tracey Thorn)
- Waving (Bevis Frond)
- 1952 Vincent Black Lightning (Richard Thompson)
- Dress (PJ Harvey)
- I Want You (Elvis Costello)
- Little Boy Blue (Tom Waits)
- Scissors (Barbara Manning)
- Needle In The Hay (Elliott Smith)
- Alabaster (Simon Joyner)
- Where Do We Go Now But Nowhere (Nick Cave & The Bad Seeds)
- Someplace Simple (James Yorkston)
- Snow Falls In November (Julie Doiron)

Disc 2
- Summer Of Drugs (Victoria Williams)
- Hotel Room (Richard Hawley)
- Easy To Be Around (Diane Cluck)
- Danny Carlisle (Vic Chesnutt)
- Way That She Really Is (Mark Mulcahy)
- Number One (Matthew Hattie Hein)
- Is Everyone Happy (Jane Weaver)
- Forever Instant (Lou & His Sentridoh Barlow)
- Blues In Bob Minor (Robert Wyatt)
- Don't Let The Record Label Take You Out To Lunch (Jeffrey Lewis)
- Sundrops (Kristin Hersh)
- Just After 11 She Left (Creosote King)
- To A Scrapyard Bustop (Charlie Parr)

Blues In Bob Minor est extrait de Shleep.

- MUTE RECORDS (CD STUMM 273) CD

- Dear Darling (Mary Margaret O'Hara)
- Cripple And The Starfish (Antony & The Johnsons)
- Masher (Mountain Goats)
- Endless Sleep (Nick Lowe)
- Speeding Motorcycle (Daniel Johnson)
- Woodrow (Tom Russell)

> Zoom

Une rentrée 2007 - Vol. 3
2007

Les Inrocks

- Nantes (Beirut)
- Let's Dance To Joy Division (The Wombats)
- Melody Day (Caribou)
- Shake Your Limbs (Mattafix)
- Pumpkin Soup (Kate Nash)
- High (Brisa Roché)
- A Beautiful War (Robert Wyatt)
- Afterglow (Arthur & Yu)
- What Would Wolves Do? (Les Savy Fav)
- Cinema (Twisted Charm)
- Like Dancing (Syd Matters)
- Légère (soulève-moi) (Pauline Croze)
- Cunnilingus Mon Amour! (Dyonisos)
- Le Loup (Fear Not) (Le Loup)
- Grand Jumble Army (Flexa Lyndo)
- Le Frigo Est En Panne (L'épicier)

A Beautiful War est extrait de Comicopera.

- LES INROCKUPTIBLES (CD LI 07 153) CD

> Zoom

Real Life Permanent Dreams
2007

Real Life Permanent Dreams (A Cornucopia Of British Psychedelia 1965-1970)

Disc 1
SOWING THE SEEDS
- My Friend Jack (The Smoke)
- No More You And Me (The Tornados)
- Cheat (Lord Sutch)
- Doctor Doctor (Frame)
- Day And Night (The Drag Set)
- Fancy (The Kinks)
- I Don't Want You (Traffic Jam)
- Breaking Up Scene (Honeybus)
- Snow White (Winston's Fumbs)
- I Like It - Christian (Neil & The Crusaders)
- Black Sheep RIP (The Australian Playboys)
- Circles (Fleur De Lys)
- Lilac Hand Of Menthol Dan (Marc Bolan & John's Children)
- You're Holding Me Down (Buzz)
- I Take It That We're Through (The Riot Squad)
- Come On Back (Paul & Ritchie aka The Cryin' Shames)
- It's A Crime (Kirkbys)
- Love Me 'Til The Sun Shines (The Kinks)
- Hippy Gumbo (Marc Bolan)
- Gently Tender (The Incredible String Band)
- Sunny Goodge Street (Donovan)
- Linda Loves Linda (Floribunda Rose)
- Up On The Wooden Hills To Bedfordshire (The Small Faces)
- Rubber Monkey (Santa Barbara Machine Head)
- You've Got To Hold On (The Deviants)
- Season Of The Witch (Julie Driscoll with Brian Auger & The Trinity)

Disc 2
PLANT A FLOWER CHILD TODAY
- Loving Sacred Loving (The End)
- All Day All Night (Blonde On Blonde)
- Crazy One (Ramases & Selket)
- Man In Black (Skip Bifferty)
- Yellow Balloon (Icarus)
- Real Life Permanent Dream (The Orange Machine)
- Clown (Eire Apparent)
- When The Wind Arises (Rokes)
- I'm Flying (Serendipity)
- Trip On An Orange Bicycle (The Orange Bicycle)
- Utterly Simple (Smoke)

Compilation - Remastered - Box-set.

Thank You Pierrot Lunaire/Have You Ever Been Green/Pataphysical Introduction 2 sont extraits de Volume 2.

- CASTLE MUSIC (CMXBX1239) 4xCD

- London Social Degree (Billy Nicholls)
- Golden Lion (Lomax Alliance)
- Sunshine Day (Jethro Tull)
- Boy Meets Girl (Paper Blitz Tissue)
- Cave Of Clear Light (Bystanders)
- I Wonder Where My Sister's Gone (Anan)
- Man In A Shop (Marmalade)
- Lord John (Bobcats)
- Mazy (Peep Show)
- Bakerman (Moon's Train)
- Love Hate Revenge (Episode Six)
- Good Evening (Tickle)
- It (Excelsior Spring)
- Night Is A Comin' aka Lindyloo) (Warm Sounds)
- Fire (Crazy World Of Arthur Brown)

Disc 3
HAPPYDAYSTOYTOWN
- Pictures Of Matchstick Men (Status Quo)
- Five White Horses (Sun Dragon)
- Riding A Wave (Turnstyle)
- I Know She Believes (Picadilly Line)
- Hey Mr Carpenter (Fox)
- Bitter Thoughts Of Little Jane (Timon)
- Disappear (Gilbert)
- Encapsulated Marigold (Our Plastic Dream)
- Henry Long (Epics)
- Lullaby: Grapefruit)
- I've Seen To Dream (Harmony Grass)
- Nodnol (Spectrum)
- Colour Sergeant Lilywhite (West Coast Consortium)
- Seeing Things Green (Yellow Bellow Room Boom)
- Golden Apples (The Californians)
- Don't Turn Around (Loot)
- Silver Tree Top School For Boys (Beatstalkers)
- Give Him A Flower (The Crazy World Of Arthur Brown)
- Fade Away Maureen (Tony Hazzard)
- Yellow Rainbow (Rockin' Berries)
- Sylvie (Hill)
- Fool From Upper Eden (Andy Ellison)
- Love And Best Wishes (Uglys)
- Sunshine (Gun)
- Green Circles (Twice As Much)
- Mr Job (Alan Bown Set)
- Happydaystorytown (The Small Faces)

Disc 4
CIRCUS DAYS ARE HERE AGAIN
- Circus Days (Junior's Eyes)
- No Home Today (Kult)
- Lady Caroline (Velvett Fogg)
- Go Your Way (Andromeda)
- Diamond Hard Blue Apples Of The Moon (The Nice)
- Horse (Sam Gopal)
- Candlelight (Eddie Hardin & Pete York)
- How Can I Live (Fat Mattress)
- Tarot (Andy Bown)
- Light Of Love (Humble Pie)
- On A Meadow Lea (Bobak Jons Malone)
- Open Ground (Pussy)
- Fair Maiden (Woody Kern)
- Empty Room (Man)
- Venus (Samson)
- My Gration Or (Opal Butterfly)
- Thank You Pierrot Lunaire/Have You Ever Been Green/Pataphysical Introduction 2 (The Soft Machine)
- Felix (Andwella's Dream)
- Born In A Trunk (Spice)
- All In Your Mind (Stray)

> Zoom

Burning Shed Free Sampler

- Craig's Distended Train Ride (Hugh Hopper & Matt Howarth)
- Another World (A Marble Calm)
- Angling (Roger Eno)
- White House, Blach Ash (UXB)
- Goodbye Honeypot (Pedaltone)
- Black Sun (Andrew Keeling)
- Brave Dreams (Tim Bowness)
- Howling for the Highway Home (Terry Stamp)
- Cellosphere (Marvin Ayres)

Craig's Distended Train Ride est extrait de The Stolen Hour.

- BURNING SHED (0702) CD

Sampler 3
2007

- Inside World (Allan Mostert)
- Take it All (The Lost Levels)
- Europa II (Europa String Choir)
- Empty Space (Peter Chilvers)
- Spirit of the Void (Cipher)
- Thin Air (Michael Bearpark & Peter Chilvers)
- Fiery Pyre (William D. Drake)

> Zoom 1 2

Eutsi!
2007

Gose, Potemkin + 12 abesti zutik irauteko

- Eutsi (Gose)
- Comunicado Empresarial Para la Concordia Y El Bienestar Social (Gose)
- Dena Ongi Dabil (Potemkin)
- Eutsi Gogor (Hertzainak)
- Ustela (Itoiz)
- After Boltxebike (Kortatu)
- Ezin Leike (Delirium Tremens)
- The Age Of Self (Ruper Ordorika) [R. Wyatt]
- Maiatzaren Lehena (Zarama)
- No Future (Baldin Bada)
- Langile Baten Galderak Liburu Baten Aurrean (Mikel Laboa)
- Euskadi (Jotakie)
- Callejon Sin Salida (Barricada)
- La Clase Obrera (Potato)
- Un Rayo De Sol (La Polla Records)

- OIHUKA (PC-365) CD

> Zoom

In Search Of Syd
2007

In Search Of Syd: MOJO Presents 15 Mind-Bending Freak-Outs!

- Things'll Never Be the Same (Spacemen 3)
- She is Death (Flaming Lips)
- If You Don't Give Me What I Want (Blind Boy Fuller and Floyd Council)
- C. C. and O. Blues (Pink Anderson)
- Humanoid Boogie (Bonzo Dog Band)
- Oh! Wot A Dream (Kevin Ayers)
- Take My Hand (Jennifer Gentle)
- Who Are the Brain Police? (Mothers Of Invention/Frank Zappa)
- 5 and 20 Schoolgirls (Gong/Daevid Allen)
- Portobello Man (The Bevis Frond)
- Cymbaline (Hawkwind)
- SOL 07 Pt 1 (Wooden Shjips)
- I Should've Known (Soft Machine)
- Ailantus Glandulosa (AMM)
- Crystal Rainbow Pyramid (Acid Mothers Temple & Melting Paraiso UFO)

CD distribué avec le n° d'octobre 2007 du magazine anglais MOJO.

I Should've Known est extrait de Jet-Propelled Photographs (At The Beginning).

- MOJO MAGAZINE (OCTOBER 2007) CD

> Zoom

Blitz Aprova
Os Melhores De 2007
2007

Blitz Aprova Os Melhores De 2007

- North American Scum (LCD Soundsystem)
- She's A Go-Go Dancer (Wraygunn)
- Fake Empire (The National)
- Sexto Andar (Clã)
- Bamboo Banga (M.I.A.)
- Silent Void (David Fonseca)
- Heart Of Hearts (!!!)
- Love Is A Loosing Game (Amy Winehouse)
- Heretics (Andrew Bird)
- Atlas (Battles)
- Black Skin Blue Eyed Boys (Map Of Africa)
- Take Pills (Panda Bear)
- You've Got Yr. Cherry Bomb (Spoon)
- Doing It Right (The Go! Team)
- Books From Boxes (Maxïmo Park)
- Heimdalsgate Like A Promethean Curse (Of Montreal)
- Hasta Siempre Comandante (Robert

Hasta Siempre Comandante est extrait de Comicopera.

- SONY BMG (88697224702) CD

Wyatt)
- The Prayer (Bloc Party)
- Dashboard (Modest Mouse)

> Zoom

Independent Innovative Creative 19
2007

Independent Innovative Creative 19

– Twenty Five Sins (iLiKETRAiNS)
- Cost I (Black Dog)
– Shine Shine (Boys Noize)
– Crocodile (Pete Heller Mix) (Underworld°
- Like Something For Porno! (Felix Da Housecat)
- Militant Style (Border Crossing)
– Witness (Roots Manuva)
– That Kind Of Man (The Heavy)
- Ex Guru (The Fiery Furnaces)
– Giving Your Gifts (Buen Chico)
– Stay Tuned (Robert Wyatt)
– Little Blue Mailbox - Radio Edit (Fink)
– After Wanda (Paris Motel)
– Penalty (Beirut)
– Arabesque (Harmonia)

CD promo.

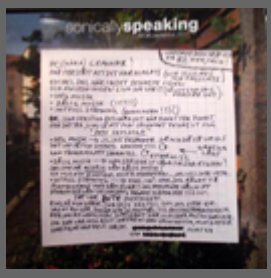
Stay Tuned est extrait de Comicopera.

- VITAL SALES & MARKETING (INDIECREATIVE 19) CD

> Zoom 1 2

Nova 1956-1980
2007

Nova 1956-1980/Les Racines De Nova En 25 CD Et 300 Titres



Disc n° 16 (1971)
- Rock Steady (Aretha Franklin)
- The Pusher (Hoyt Axton)
- Freedom To The People (Heptones)
- Chrysler Rose (Dashiell Hedayat)
- The Revolution Will Not Be Televised (Gil Scott Heron)
- La Libertad Logica (Eddie Palmieri)
- 80 A B (Pierre Barouh)
- Moment Of Truth (Earth, Wind & Fire)
- Virtually Part 1 (Soft Machine)
- Thiely (Star Band)
- Cloud Nine (Live At Montreux) (Mongo Santamaria)
- Loss (Don Ellis)
- Ostinato (Suite For Angela) (Herbie Hancock)

Disc n° 17 (1972)
- Woman To Woman (Joe Cocker)
- Che Che Cole (Willie Colon)
- Do The Dirt (The Meters
- Instant Pussy (Matching Mole)
- Give It Everything You Got (Edgar Winter)
- Too Much Time (Captain Beefheart & The Magic Band)
- Ali Baba (Louie Ramirez)
- Communication (Bobby Womack)
- Sail Away (Randy Newman)
- Clean Up Woman (Betty Wright)
- Fohat Digs Holes In Space (Gong)
- Brasil (Gato Barbieri)
- Waka / Jawaka (Frank Zappa)

Coffret de 25 CD édité par Radio Nova.

Virtually Part 1 est extrait de Fourth.
Instant Pussy est extrait de Matching Mole.

- NOVA (3128692) 25xCD

> Zoom

Sonically Speaking Vol. 36
2007

Sonically Speaking Vol. 36 - September 2007

- Won´t Back Down (Jonas Game)
- Tristeza Maleza (Manu Chao)
- Mary Jane (Dieter Schöön)
- A Beautiful War (Robert Wyatt)
- The Opposite Of Hallelujah (Jens Lekman)
- Englar Og Dárar (Ólöf Arnalds)
- You Finally Said Something Good (When You Said Goodbye) (Teddy Thompson)
- Little Lovin´ (Irene)
- And I Still Blush (Josef Och Erika)
- Boy With A Coin (Iron And Wine)
- Entrapped (Kissey Asplund)
- Ice Cream (New Young Pony Club)
- Little Bit (Lykke Li)
- Peacebone (Animal Collective)

A Beautiful War est extrait de Comicopera.

- SONIC MAGAZINE (SONIC 036) CD

- Our Life Is Not A Movie Or Maybe (Okkervil River)
- Cheer Me Up Thank You (New Buffalo)

> Zoom

Un-Herd Volume 6
2007

Un-Herd... Volume 6

- Heartsong (Maggie Reilly)
- Every Angel (All About Eve)
- Dealer (John Martyn)
- Fast Approaching (Gordon Giltrap / Rick Wakeman)
- Right By You (Martin Stephenson & The Daintees)
- A Short Break (Robert Wyatt)
- I Hear You Now (Jon Anderson)
- Ritt Mickley (Refugee)
- Magick Brother (Daevid Allen & Euterpe)
- Dare (Jo Fletcher)
- Tilted Cross (Fish)
- Hell's Bells (Bruford)
- Spirit Of The Age (Hawkwind)

Free CD on the cover of Rock n Reel Magazine's November/December 2007 edition.

A Short Break est extrait de A Short Break.

Dare est extrait de Jo Flechter.

- R2 (R2-06) CD

> Zoom

Now Hear This!
2007

Now Hear This!

- Why Do Men Fight? (Carbon/Silicon)
- Rainin' In Paradize (Manu Chao)
- Go To Hell (David Ford)
- To The Dogs Or Whoever (Josh Ritter)
- Fool That I Am (Kula Shaker)
- A Beautiful War (Robert Wyatt)
- Cold Shoulder (Kevin Ayers)
- High Shelf Booze (Eilen Jewell)
- While You Where Sleeping (Elvis Perkins)
- Heavy Sigh (Edwyn Collins)
- Cockle Shell (King Creosote)
- A Sunday Smile (Beirut)
- Stepping Out In Front Of Cars (Morning Bride)
- Pagan Angel And A Borrowed Car (Iron & Wine)
- Intruder (Susanna)

A Beautiful War est extrait de Comicopera.

CD distribué avec le magazine anglais The Word (N° 56 - 10/2007).

- WORD MAGAZINE (CD36) CD

> Zoom

Recommended Records Sampler (Japanese Reissue)
2008

Recommended Records Sampler (Japanese Reissue)

Disc 1
- Flaschenzug (Vogel)
- Extract 5 From Faust Party 3. (Faust)
- All Hail! (Art Bears)
- Reparto Novita (Stormy Six)
- Walk Before Imitate (The Homosexuals)
- On ne peut plus compter sur ses doigts (Joseph Racaille & Patrick Portella)
- * (Feliu Gasul)
- Untitled - No Artist
- Strangelove (The Black Sheep)
- Influences (Univers Zero)
- Boss de crosses dans le doulos (Aksak Maboul/Honeymoon Killers)
- Houdini (The Work) - Slice (Henry Cow)
- Viva Pa Ubu (Henry Cow)
- Radio extract (Decibel)

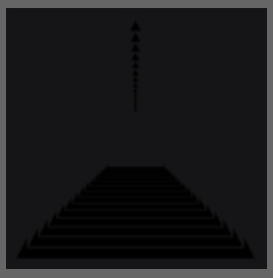
Réédition japonaise du CD (avec 4 nouveaux morceaux en fin de CD2) paru initialement en 1982.

- ReR MEGACORP (ReR 25 A/B) 2xCD

Disc 2
- Simulacres (Art Zoyd)
- 2 from 'chronometers (The Muffins)
- Berlin Ku Damm I2/4/8I (Heiner Goebbels)
- Steer Clear Of England (Amos)
- Commerce Nostalgigue (Conventum)
- Vera C (Hector Zazou)
- Pool (This Heat)
- Walker Westinghouse (The Residents)
- Pedestrian Hop & Copy Me (R. Steve Moore)
- I Talk To My Haircut (Ron Pate)
- Ucoellin del Bosco (Picchio Del Pozzo)
- The Internationale (Robert Wyatt)
- Frenzy (Peter Blegvad)
-Total Drop (Homosexuals)
- Extract VI (Faust) - What Are You Looking At! (R. Stevie Moore)
- Flowers Sleep Into The Night (R. Stevie Moore)

> Zoom

Give Peace A Chance
2008



Give Peace A Chance

- Songdog (Days Of Armageddon)
- The Sons Of The Pioneers (Old Man Atom)
- Robert Plant & The Strange Sensation (Another Tribe)
- The Sound (Missiles)
- David Rovics (The Draft Is Coming)
- Purple Tree (I Don't Wanna Be A Soldier)
- The Long Ryders (Masters Of War)
- Marah (Round Eye Blues)
- Bob Frank & John Murry (Doc Cunningham)
- Eric Bogle (The Band Played Waltzing Matilda)
- Richard Thompson (Dad's Gonna Kill Me)
- Robert Wyatt (A Beautiful War)
- Julian Cope (Can't Get You Out Of My Country)
- Steve Earle (Steve's Hammer [For Pete])
- Roy Harper (I Hate The White Man)

A Beautiful War est extrait de Comicopera.

CD distribué avec le magazine anglais Uncut (01/2008).

- UNCUT RECORDS (2008 01) CD

> Zoom

Rvng Prsnts Mx5.5: Purple Pills For Sleepless Nights
2008

Tim Sweeney

- Sea Song (Robert Wyatt)
- Hypnotized (Spacemen 3)
- 2069: A Spaced Oddity (US69)
- This Is How We Walk On The Moon (Arthur Russell)
- Get Thy Bearings (Donovan)
- Dream Baby Dream (Suicide)
- Dream (Phew)
- In Heaven (Lady In The Radiator Song (David Lynch & Peter Ivers)
- Fire (The Crazy World Of Arthur Brown)
- Circle Sky (The Monkees)
- Trapezoid (The Mickey Bliss Band)
- I Walk On Guilded Splinters (Dr. John)
- Jungle Taitei (Laughter Robot's Hemp Mix) (Boredoms)
- It Was A Robot (Yura Yura Teikoku)
- The House Of The Rising Sun (The Animals)
- The Orchids (Psychic TV)
- Ohayo (P-Model)

"Rvng's resident recluse Tim Sweeney compiled this superb, 17 track mix for an exclusive version of the Beats In Space t-shirt printed for the shops Colette (Paris) and Jet Set (Tokyo)"..

For Promotional Purposes Only.
Limited to 150 copies.

- RVNG INTL. (RVNGMX5.5) CD

Cocktail Mol6t8v : La Bande Son De La R évolte

Disc 1
- Intro : Cocktail molotov
- Things Are Going To Get Better (The Small Faces)
- Voeux du Général de Gaulle : Que sera 1968

I Should've Known est extrait de Jet-Propelled Photographs (At The Beginning).

> Zoom

Cocktail Mol6t8v
2008

- 7h du matin (Jacqueline Taieb)
- Nature du mouvement du 22 mars (Daniel Cohn-Bendit)
- Who Do You Love (Quicksilver Messenger Service)
- Petits précis d'instruction civique (Red Noise) + Du ragoût & des couleurs (Barricade)
- Satisfaction Guaranteed (The Morning Reign)
- Occupation de la Sorbonne
- Il pleut (Brigitte Fontaine)
- Ca y'est ils chargent...
- Stroll On (The Yardbirds)
- Un spectacle extraordinaire (Jean-Claude Bourret & Jean-Pierre Elkabbach)
- Dance To The Music (Sly & The Family Stone)
- La violence face à la violence (Daniel Cohn-Bendit)
- Run Run Run (The Velvet Underground)
- Vertebrate Twist (Red Noise)
- Somebody To Love (Jefferson Airplane)
- Spirits Rejoice - La Marseillaise (Albert Ayler)
- Rational Anthemn (Gong)
- Les anarchistes + Il est interdit d'interdire (Léo Ferré)
- Drapeau rouge sous les barricades + Mirror Mozarts (Red Noise)
- Too fortiche (Pierre Henry)
- Star Spangled Banner + Smashing Of The Amps (Jimi Hendrix)
- Ambiance à Colombey-Les-Deux-Eglises
- Section 43 (Country Joe & The Fish)

Disc 2
- Judy In Disguise (with Glasses) (John Fred & Playboy Band)
- Slip Inside This House (13th Floor Elevators)
- Cohn-Bendit juif allemand ?
- Born To Be Wild (Steppenwolf)
- Bulletin d'info - Parlons peu parlons pop (Barricade)
- Stranger In A Strange Land (Blackburn & Snow)
- Allo Pierre Lantenac - Sirènes mourantes (Barricade)
- Fais pas ci fais pas ça (Jacques Dutronc)
- Pierre Lantenac Live Again
- Get together [The Youngbloods)
- Occupation des usines
- Glue (The Are Of Cups)
- Sartre à Billancourt
- Priez pour St Germain-Des-Prés (Jacques Higelin)
- Festival de Cannes 68
- Fall Of Another Year (Can)
- Amour gel (Fille qui mousse) + Head Of Night (Mahogany Brain)
- Vous n'aurez pas ma fleur (François Béranger)
- La réforme oui, la chienlit non + See You Soon Beefoon (Barricade)
- I Should Have Known (The Soft Machine)
- Réouverture des usines - Plus de congé payé pour les ouvriers
- I Feel Like I'm Fixin' To Die Rag (Country Joe & The Fish)
- Paris mai (Claude Nougaro)

- LE SON DU MAQUIS (LM54122) 2xCD

> Zoom

Spirit Of Joy
Tales From The Polydor Underground
1967-1974
2008

Spirit Of Joy - Tales From The Polydor Underground 1967 - 1974

Disc 1
- Prelude - Nightmare Fire Poem Fire (Arthur Brown)
- Fire Poem (Arthur Brown)
- Fire (Various Artists)
- How Does It Feel To Feel (The Creation)
- Feelin', Reelin', Squealin' (The Soft Machine)
- Good Times (Eric Burdon & The Animals)
- It's Alright Ma, It's Only Witchcraft (Fairport Convention)
- We're Going Wrong (Cream)
- This Wheel's On Fire (Julie Driscoll, Brian Auger & The Trinity)

Feelin', Reelin', Squealin' est extrait de Love Makes Sweet Music.

- POLYDOR UK (5307992) 3xCD

- Sunshine Day (Jethro Tull)
- Born On The Wrong Side Of Time (Taste)
- People You Were Going To (Van Der Graaf Generator)
- Dogs (The Who)
- Grandma's Lawn (Caravan)
- Reality (Second Hand)
- All Is One (Eric Burdon & The Animals)
- Road To Cairo (Julie Driscoll, Brian Auger & The Trinity)
- Magic Mirror (Aphrodite's Child)
- Firebrand (Van Der Graaf Generator)
- Deserted Cities Of The Heart (Cream)

Disc 2
- Amazing Journey (The Who)
- Weird Of Hermiston (Jack Bruce)
- Banquet (Audience)
- Break-Out (Julie Driscoll)
- Something In The Air (Thunderclap Newman)
- Extrapolation (John McLaughlin)
- She Was Naked (Supersister)
- One Word (Tony Williams)
- Sinner Boy (Taste)
- Gypsy Escape (Arthur Brown's Kingdom Come)
- Let Me Ride (Ginger Baker's Air Force)
- Can't Believe Its True (Rory Gallagher)
- No Tree Will Grow (On Too High A Mountain) (Supersister)
- War Girl (The Pink Fairies)
- Time Is Passing (Pete Townshend)
- Sunrise In The Third System (Tangerine Dream)
- Spirit Of Joy (Arthur Brown's Kingdom Come)

Disc 3
- Prologue (The Pink Fairies)
- Right On, Fight On (The Pink Fairies)
- Naked Eye (The Who)
- There's A Forest (Jack Bruce)
- Morning Story (Jack Bruce)
- A Better Land (Brian Auger's Oblivion Express)
- I Spider (The Web)
- Meadow Meal (Faust)
- Epic Forest (Rare Bird)
- Rising Sun (Medicine Head)
- Are You Receiving Me (Golden Earring)
- The Great 1974 Mining Disaster (Barclay James Harvest)
- Hocus Pocus (Focus)

> Zoom

Les Miniatures - vol. 12
2008

Les Miniatures

Disc 1
- Prologue (People)
- I've Got My Car and My TV (Faust)
- Arcades (Henry Cow)
- Junkie Chase (Curtis Mayfield)
- Eintrachtkreis-Paranoia (Seesselberg)
- Two Goes Into Four (Kevin Ayers)
- Wurlitzer & Celeste (Sun Ra)
- Ah! Melody (Serge Gainsbourg)
- Drums on Phasing No. 6 (Joe Ufer)
- Hobo's Blues (Paul Simon)

Disc 2
- Saidas E Bandeiras No. 1 (Milton Nascimento)
- Mouvement pour Arcet (Raymond Vincent)
- Mother Beautiful (Sly & The Family Stone)
- Korkulu Ruya (Erkin Koray)
- Wild Luck (Orchester Fritz Maldener)
- Billy Green is Dead (Gil Scott-Heron)
- Electronic News No. 3 (Sammy Burdson Group)
- New York Telephone Conversation (Lou Reed)
- Dog's Heart (Franco Bixio)
- Muddy Mouse (A) (Robert Wyatt)
- Days of Steam (John Cale)

Muddy Mouse (A) est extrait de Ruth Is Stranger Than Richard.

Cette compilation "à la manière d'un LP" est un mix circulant sur internet (mp3) sans avoir fait l'objet d'une publication discographique.

- MUSIQUE DU MONDE
  (MDM-1005) - Digital Format

> Zoom 1 2

Rebel Music
Songs Of Protest And Insurrection
2008

Rebel Music - Songs Of Protest And Insurrection

- Tommy Gun [Live from Shea Stadium] (The Clash)
- MPLA (Tapper Zukie)
- Soul Rebel (Bob Marley)
- There Is Power In A Union (Billy Brag)
- This Land Is Your Land (Woody Guthrie)
- Choice Of Colors (The Impressions)
- Backlash Blues (Nina Simone)
- When The Revolutions Comes (The Last Poets)
- H20gate Blues (Gil Scott-Heron & Brian Jackson)
- Out Of The Blue (Robert Wyatt)
- Rock El Casbah (Rachid Taha)
- More Bread To The People (The Action 13)
- Leggo Violence (Dillinger)
- Clampdown [Live from the Levisham Odeon] (The Clash)

Out Of The Blue est extrait de Comicopera.

CD distribué avec le magazine anglais Mojo (11/2008).

- MOJO MAGAZINE (NOVEMBER 2008) CD

> Zoom

Disco Not Disco
Post Punk, Electro & Leftfield Disco Classics - 1974-1986
2008

Disco Not Disco - Post Punk, Electro & Leftfield Disco Classics - 1974-1986

- Launderette (Vivien Goldman)
- Mind Your Own Business (Delta 5)
- My Spine Is The Bassline (12" Edit)(Shnekback)
- Your Life (Konk)
- Crunch Cake (Isotope)
- Contort Yourself (August Darnell Remix) James White & The Blacks)
- Love Tempo (Remix) (Quango Quango)
- Seoul Music (Gina X Performance)
- Don't Lose Control (Material)
- Binary (Kazino)
- Los Niños Del Parque (12" Mix) (Liaisons Dangereuses)
- Sharevari (Instrumental) (A Number Of Names)
- Beat 'Em Right (Six Sed Red)
- Silent Street/Silent Dub (Maximum Joy)

Launderette est extrait de Launderette/Private Armies.

- STRUT (STRUT032CD) CD

Miniatures One + Two
2008

Miniatures One + Two

Disc 1
- Bum Love (Ollie Halsall & John Halsey)
- We're A Happy Family + Bali Ha'ithe (Residents)
- The Wreck Of The Hesperus (Roger Mcgough)
- Green And Pleasant (Morgan Fisher)
- Mine Tonight (John Otway)
- My Way (Pete Challis & Phil Diplock)
- Rangers In The Nights (Robert Wyatt)
- Opus (Stinky Winkles)
- Body Language (Mary Longford)
- Andy The Dentist (Andy 'Thunderclap' Newman)
- Wagner's Ring In One Minute (David Bedford)
- The Entire Works Of Henry Cow (Fred Frith)
- Look Beneath The Surface (Maggie Nicols)

Réédition du premier et du second album "Miniatures" parus respectivement en 1980 et 2000.

Rangers In The Nights a été initialement composé pour l'album Miniatures 1.

- CHERRY RED RECORDS (CDBRED361) 2xCD

- Week-End (Joseph Racaille)
- With Wings Pressed Back (The Work)
- Cum On Feel The Noize (Neil Innes & Son)
- Toscany In Blue (Last Minute) (Herbert Distel)
- An End To The Matter (Lol Coxhill)
- One Minute In The Life Of Ivan Denisovich (Ken Ellis)
- Alice (Steve Miller)
- Sings The Blues Badly (Norman Lovett/John Peel)
- Serrons Nous Les Coudes (Patrick Portella)
- Sounds That Saved My Life (George Melly)
- Miniature (Robert Fripp)
- The History Of Rock'n'roll (Andy Partridge-XTC)
- Breather (Phantom Captain)
- Enterbrain Exit (Ron Geesin)
- An Imaginary Orchestrina (Alejandro Viñao)
- Stop The Music For A Minute (Quentin Crisp)
- Tetrad (Simon Desorgher)
- Sweetest Love (Lament After A Broken Sashcord - On A Theme Of John Donne) (Ralph Steadman)
- Tipperary (R.D.Laing & Son)
- Beach Double (Trevor Wishart)
- Scene De Ballet (John White)
- Brooch Boat (Ivor Cutler)
- Do Tell Us (Hector Zazou)
- A Miniaturization Of Bartok's Sonata For Two Pianos & Percussion - 3rd Movement (Michael Bass & Ellen Tenenbaum)
- A Swift One (Martin Chambers - The Pretenders)
- Refreshment Break (Bob Cobbing & Henri Chopin)
- Night Touch (Dave Vanian-The Damned)
- Racing Poodles (Metabolist)
- After Mendelssohn/137 Years (Gavin Bryars)
- Paint It Black (1/2 Japanese)
- Arthur's Treat (Simon Jeffes)
- Talking World War Iii Blues (Mark Perry)
- 89-90-91-92 (Michael Nyman)
- Index Of Ends (David Cunningham - The Flying Lizards)
- James, Mark & Me (In The Manner Of Tom Waits) (Kevin Coyne)
- Hep! (Etron Fou Leloublan)
- The Minute Warp (Neil Oram & Ken Campbell)
- Chorale From Beethoven's 9th Symphony (Pete Seeger)

Disc 2
- Jump Time (Jean Houston
- It's Coming 'A Fanfare For The Millenium' (John Paul Jones)
- Beacon Of Hope (Peeni Wali & Linton Kwesi Johnson)
- Chakras (Talitha MacKenzie)
- 2000 Lights (Hugh Cornwell)
- Minute Quartet (Piero Milesi)
- Atoms And Stars (Howard Jones)
- One Minute Blackout (Kazufummi Miyazawa)
- Jodler (Klaus Trabitsch)
- Newgrange Aeon Fragment (BJ Cole)
- A Dog Barks At Midnight (Terry Riley)
- Here's To The Next One (Michael Nyman)
- Panda Chant Ii (Meridith Monk)
- Last Christmas (Sainkho Namtchylak)
- The Healing Voice (Jill Purce)
- Little Orchestra Of Disaster And Hope (Dagmar Andrtova)
- Solo No. 3 (Wolfgang Mitterer)
- Garland Hirschi's Cows (Philip K. Bimstein)
- Red (Piano Circus)
- Blast (Robert Fripp & Trey Gunn)
- A Un (Isao Osada)
- Oxalis (David Cunningham)
- A Pythagorean Roll (Penguin Café Orchestra)

- One Call (Shizuru Ohtaka)
- Feira De Asakusa 'Asakusa Market' (Hermeto Pascoal)
- Shaka Shaka Shaka (Chris Hughs)
- Light Of Love (Dissidenten)
- Hunter's Dream (Christos Hatziz)
- Timeless (Baka Beyound)
- Freedom 'Universal Mix' (Ottmar Liebert)
- Qui Sait? (Mamadou Doumbia)
- Ashtanga (Tananas)
- (Sae Koto) Vortex
- Invisible Guides (Michael Shrieve & Jeff Greinke)
- Jesus' Blood Never Failed Me Yet 'Miniature' (Gavin Bryars)
- The Narrow Bridge (Jane Siberry)
- Soundtrack For Sandin (Laurie Spiegel)
- Ghu Zu Jun (Cheng Gongliang)
- Another 21st Century Day (John Fiddler)
- Islands (Nastya)
- The Lighthouse (Geoffrey Richardson)
- Gurdjieff / De Hartman Music (Thomas De Hartman)
- Seascad Siocand I Dtreo Millenium 'Sixty Seconds Towards A Millenium' (Peadar O Riada)
- Fail Better (Daniel Figgis)
- Theme For The Peaceful Revolution (The Deep Season)
- Takeda No Komori Uta 'Lullaby Of Takeda' (Heat Wave)
- Passion Sauce (Woof Woof)
- 5 Cam Saw Stayed (Minus)
- Flowers Of Silence (Morgan Fisher)
- Gutan Yerg (Komitas Vardapet)
- Introspection (David Darling)
- Six To Four (Lol Coxhill)
- Dead Dog Of Kairouan (Trans Global Underground)
- Hope Street 'Rain Chant Remix' (The Levellers)
- Have A Nice Century! (Chris Butler)
- Cosmicode (Moondog) (Louis Hardin)
- Snow (Ashtik Peter Lynch)
- Toorina (Tokiko Kato)
- Passionless Moments (Jane Campion)
- Alala Das Marinas (Milladoiro)

> Zoom

This Is Not A Folk Song
Protestlieder Nach Punk
(Rare Trax Vol. 56)
2008

This Is Not A Folk Song - Protestlieder Nach Punk (Rare Trax Vol. 56)

- Give the Anarchist a Cigarette (Chumbawamba)
- Ideology (Billy Bragg)
- Johnny Miner (Mekons)
- Ironmasters (The Men They Couldn't Hang)
- Stonestampers Song (The Ex)
- Gebt den Faschisten keine neue Chance (Die Mimmi's)
- Take the Skinheads Bowling (Camper Van Beethoven)
- Pearly Blues (Live in Greenwich Village) (Roger Manning)
- Fogtown (Michelle Shocked - featuring MDC)
- Butcher's Death Parade (A Subtle Plague)
- Shipbuilding (Robert Wyatt)
(Bonus)
- [Talking Books Presentation]
- Die Hörbuch-Hörprobe: Benjamin Kunkel "Unentschlossen"
- "Die Österreichische Methode" (Kinofilm-Trailer/Quicktime Video

↑

Shipbuilding est extrait du EP Shipbuilding/Memories Of You/'Round Midnight.

CD distribué avec l'édition allemande du magazine "Rolling Stone" de mars 2008.

- ROLLING STONE GERMANY (03/2008) CD

Il Gesto Del Suono

- The Creative Act [Frammento] (Marcel Duchamp)
- Music for Marcel Duchamp (Marcel Duchamp)
- December Train (Steve Jansen)
- Flautofonie e l'altro (Demetrio Stratos)

↑

1st Variation on "The Duchess" est extrait de Postcards From Italy.

- AUDITORIUM EDIZIONI (AUD03308) CD

> Zoom

Il Gesto Del Suono
2008

- Studio 2A (Emanuele Casale)
- My Brother Called (Robert Ashley)
- Postkarten 7 (Edoardo Sanguineti & Stefano Scodanibbio)
- Atom and Cell (Nine Horses)
- 1st Variation On "The Duchess" (Walter Prati & Robert Wyatt)
- The Border (Fred Frith)
- IV Frammento de Heterodyne (Massimiliano Viel)
- Epitaffio (Picchio dal Pozzo)

> Zoom

14 Tracks That Rock The Modfather's World
2008

The Paul Weller Jukebox

- He Doesn't Know Why (Fleet Foxes)
- I Came Out Of The Wilderness (Pete Molinari)
- 100 Years (Dr. Dog)
- Are You Trying To Be Lonely? (Paul Weller & Andy Lewis)
- Free Will And Testament (Robert Wyatt)
- Memphis, Tennessee (Chuck Berry)
- Jesse (Mother Earth)
- Trouble (The Rakes)
- The Big Man Set (John McCusker)
- Good Golly Miss Molly (Little Richard)
- Never Say Never (Ian McLagan & The Bump Band)
- Bony Moronie (Larry Williams)
- Pay To Join (Little Barrie)
- Danny Boy (Slim Whitman)

Free Will And Testament est extrait de Shleep.

CD distribué avec le n° de décembre 2008 du magazine anglais Uncut.

- UNCUT (UK 2008 12) CD

> Zoom

Monster 27
2009

Rock & Folk

- Dinosaur (SSM)
- My Balloon (Men Without Pants)
- Carnival Of Crows (The Parlor Mob)
- Bells (Cirkus)
- The Chancer (The Von Bondies)
- This Train (Whomadewho)
- The Noise It Makes (Barth)
- Coco (Powersolo)
- Put Us Down (The Redwalls)
- Love Has Left The Room (A Camp)
- Complicated Shadows (Elvis Costello)
- Aux Yeux De L'Univers (Brats)
- The Reason Why Mr Heart's In Misery (Lat low)
- Tail & Mane (Cryptacize)
- Two-Headed Coin (Orbits)
- Alliance (Orchestre National de Jazz featuring Camille) [R. Wyatt]
- Rezo Zero (Kap Bambino)
- Throught My Gloves (Forest Fire)
- J'Etais Perdu (Papercuts)
- J'Etais Perdu (Asyl)
- The Man In Me (Vandaveer)
- Pilchard (Jarvis Cocker)

CD distribué avec le n° 503 de juillet 2009 du magazine français Rock & Folk.

Alliance est extrait de Around Robert Wyatt .

- ROCK'N'FOLK (CD27) CD

> Zoom

Big Sounds International

- Bad Stuff (Shona Foster)
- The Summer Night (with Robert Wyatt) (Bertrand Burgalat)
- I've Been A Bad, Bad Boy (cover) (Bertrand Burgalat)
- Freedom (The Boxing Lesson)
- Atomic bomb (NSM PSM)
- Easy Answers (Jump Back Jake)
- Paper Float (Cassettes Won't Listen)
- The Remix (RAC Maury Remix) (Wallpaper)
- Everytime We Do It (RAC Maury Remix) (Wallpaper)
- Go There With You (Chin Chin)

The Summer Night est extrait de Chéri BB.

- BIG SOUNDS INTERNATIONAL (DISC 2) CD

Winter Sampler 2009
2009

- Halfway Gone (Dead Heart Bloom)
- Farther Than You (Dead Heart Bloom)
- Make A Difference (Blind Melon)
- I Gotta Know (Jackopierce)
- White Doors (Wallabies)
- Dirty Old T Shirt (The Priscillas)
- Paper Boat (Cocoon)
- On My Way (Cocoon)
- Dark Side Of The Moog (The Boxing Lesson)

> Zoom

The BYG Deal
2009

The BYG Deal

- Que Pouvons-Nous Faire Ensemble ? (Alice)
- L'Automne (François Wertheimer)
- Ca Va Faire Un Hit (Brigitte Fontaine And Areski)
- Hip Hypnotise You (Gong)
- Ny Change Rien (Alan Jack)
- Mademoiselle Marie (Coeur Magique)
- Si Ma Chanson Pouvait (Valerie Lagrange)
- Astral Abuse (Alpha Beta)
- Rockers En Liberté (Jacques Barsamian)
- Je Veux Juste Dire (Ame Son)
- Rock Out (Art Ensemble Of Chicago)
- Rational Anthem (Gong)
- Dirty Water (Freedom)
- Stuffed Tomato (Vangelis)
- Eclosion (Marie Aux Quatre Vents) (Ame Son)
- Mon Petit Garçon (Paul Semama)
- Floating (Inter-Groupie Psychotherapeutic Elastic Band)
- All I Want Is Out Of Here (Banana Moon)
- Viens (Alice)
- Pacha (Coeur Magique)
- Bloody Rockers (Joachim And Rolf Kuhn)
- Mister Long Shanks (Oh Mother I Am Your Fantasy) (Gong)

All tracks comes from records produced by BYG Records between 1969 and 1978.

All I Want Is Out Of Here est extrait de Banana Moon.

- FINDERS KEEPERS RECORDS (FKR025CD) CD
- FINDERS KEEPERS RECORDS (FKR025LP) 2xLP

> Zoom

Momentos 2007 Volumen I Canciones Internacionales
2008

Momentos 2007 Volumen I Canciones Internacionales

- Comfy in Nautica (Panda Bear)
- Ghost Hardware (Burial)
- Heart of Hearts (!!!)
- It's the Beat (Simian Mobile Disco)
- Hunting for Witches (Bloc Party)
- Books From Boxes (Maxïmo Park)
- By Your Side (Irene)
- Tonight the Streets Are Ours (Richard Hawley)
- And I Was a Boy From School (Portastatic)
- Those Dancing Days Are Gone (Carla Bruni)
- Nantes (Beirut)
- Dans la Merco Benz (Benjamin Biolay)
- Saltbreakers (Laura Veirs)
- Open Your Heart (Lavender Diamond)
- Snakes and Ladders (Basia Bulat)
- Napalm Love (AIR)
- Stay Close Sit Tigh (Malcolm Middleton)
- A Beautiful War (Robert Wyatt)
- The Air Is Thin (Jesse Sykes & the Sweet Hereafter)
- Nobody Knows My Name (Rickie Lee Jones)

A Beautiful War est extrait de Comicopera.

CD distribué avec le n° de janvier 2008 du magazine espagnol Rockdelux.

- SINEDIN MUSIC (SM-110) CD

The Man Machine

- The Robots (Kraftwerk)
- 45:33 (Pilooski Remix) (LCD Soundsystem)
- Slow Motion (Ultravox)
- We Own The Sky (M83)
- Growls Garden (Clark)
- Roberta Flack (Flying Lotus)
- Dazzle Ships (Parts II, III And VII) (Orchestral Manoeuvres In The Dark)

We're Looking For A Lot Of Love est extrait de Hot Chip With Robert Wyatt And Geese.

CD distribué avec le n° de novembre 2009 du magazine anglais Mojo.

- MOJO MAGAZINE (NOVEMBER 2009) CD

> Zoom

The Man Machine
Mojo Celebrates
The Electronic Revolution
2009

- Sequent C (Tangerine Dream)
- We're Looking For A Lot Of Love (Hot Chip With Robert Wyatt And Geese)
- Goosebumps (Fujiya & Miyagi)
- Oxygène Part IV (Jean Michel Jarre)
- Outlands (the Orb)
- My Angel Rocks Back And Forth (Four Tet)
- Mouth To Mouth (Audion)
- Like A Bird (Komputer)o)

> Zoom

No Coast #1
2009

No Coast Collective

- Ashdod (3alef)
- Dean M (Amir Bolzman)
- Feed My Paranoia Live (220v)
- Domino Rali (Avivit Israelof)
- Zugzuf (Lior Gekler)
- Above The Ground (Dana Joe)
- A Num Ber (dd/mm/yy)
- Shhhhhh1111 (Wizard Ashdod
- אשכרה מתים-מעצבן את הקיץ
- Woman Screaming (Yaniv Schonfeld)
- Murder Song (Tamar Weiss)
- רייסקינדר - מבעבע
- Politically Correct (Ori)
- אני (--------)
- Witch (The Postinorz)
- If (Uri Pezias)
- Slow Down (Dirty Hands On A Trash Like You)
- קרן עופר -אדם

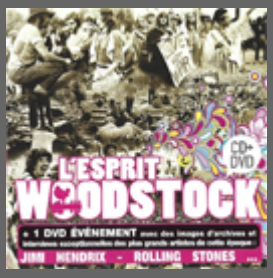
A collection of new music from Jerusalem.

Ashdod = East Timor cover.

- NO COAST (#1) Digital Format

> Zoom

15 Tracks From Uncut's
150 Albums Of the Decade
2009



Uncut 150

- Just As Was Told (Lift To Experience)
- Why Do They Leave? (Ryan Adams)
- Hold Your Breath (The Acorn)
- Two Broken Hearts (Richmond Fontaine)
- Our Life Is Not A Movie Maybe (Okkervil River)
- Don't Wake The Scarecrow (The Felice Brothers)
- Up With People (Lambchop)
- Lua (Bright Eyes)
- First Night (The Hold Steady)
- Let It Blow (Richard Thompson)
- Black Heart (Calexico)
- Lookout Mountain (Drive-By Truckers)
- Lullaloop (Robert Wyatt)
- Beyond The Shore (Willard Grant Conspiracy)
- Spiders (Kidsmoke) (Wilco)

Lullaloop est extrait de Cuckooland.

CD distribué avec le n° de novembre 2009 du magazine anglais Uncut.

- UNCUT (UK 2009 11) CD

> Zoom

L'esprit Woodstock
2009

L'esprit Woodstock

- Soul Sacrifice (Santana)
- Somebody To Love (Jefferson Airplane)
- Voodoo Chile (The Jimi Hendrix Experience)
- Ball & Chain (Big Brother & The Holding Company Feat. Janis Joplin)
- For Your Love (The Yardbirds)
- On The Road Again (Canned Heat)
- River Deep Mountain High (Ike And Tina Turner)
- Lazy Sunday (The Small Faces)
- Spill The Wine (Eric Burdon)
- California Dreamin' (The Mamas And The Papas)
- Foxy Lady (The Jimi Hendrix Experience)

Contient également un DVD de 75 mn - VF "avec des images d'archives et interviews exceptionnelles des plus grands artistes de cette époque !"

- LM MUSIC - CD + DVD

- Brown Eyed Girl (Van Morrison)
- I Want To Take You higher (Ike And Tina Turner)
- White Rabbit (Jefferson Airplane)
- Wild Thing (The Troggs)
- Jingo (Santana)
- Frankenstein (Edgar Winter)
- Man Of The World (Fleetwood Mac)
- Choker (Eric Clapton & Jimmy Page)
- Natural Born Bugie (Humble Pie)
- Memories (Soft Machine)
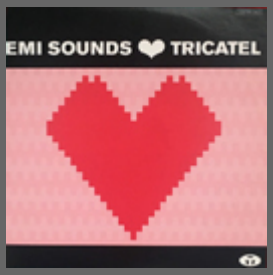
- On The Top Of The World (John Mayall & The Bluesbreakers)



> Zoom

Ashes To Ashes
2010

Series 3 Original Soundtrack

- Alex Drake (No Artist/Dialogue)
- Opening Titles (Edmund Butt)
- Let's Dance (David Bowie)
- Mad World (Tears For Fears)
- True (Spandau Ballet)
- Only You (Yazoo)
- Wake Up (No Artist/Dialogue)
- Gene Undercover (Edmund Butt)
- Town Called Malice(The Jam)
- Golden Brown (The Stranglers)
- Uptown Girl (Billy Joel)
- All In My Head (No Artist/Dialogue)
- Get Me Home (Edmund Butt)
- Promised You A Miracle (Simple Minds)
- Electric Avenue (Eddy Grant)
- Girls Just Wanna Have Fun (Cyndi Lauper)
- Video Killed The Radio Star (The Buggles)
- Couldn't Love You More (John Martyn)
- The Kiss (Edmund Butt)
- I'm In A Mess (No Artist/Dialogue)
- The Lovecats (The Cure)
- The Cutter (Echo & The Bunnymen)
- Shipbuilding (Robert Wyatt)
- War Baby (Tom Robinson)
- Rockit (Herbie Hancock)
- Two Tribes (Frankie Goes To Hollywood)

- SONY MUSIC (8697675222) CD

> Zoom

Emi Sounds Aime Tricatel
2010

Emi Sounds Aime Tricatel

- Aux Cyclades Electroniques (Bertrand Burgalat, A.S Dragon)
- This Summer Night (Bertrand Burgalat, Robert Wyatt)
- Somewhere Up Above (April March)
- What Makes You So Special (Count Indigo)
- Mafia Croco (Bertrand Burgalat)
- Foolin' Around (Hypnolove Remix) (Showgirls)
- Célibataires (Michel Houellebecq)
- 95C (Valérie Lemercier)
- Bertone (Bertrand Burgalat)
- Chunky Monkey (Allegra)
- Bröder Kung (Bertrand Burgalat)
- Passons L'Eté (Etienne Charry)
- Zero Zero (April March)
- Sasha Pop (Bertrand Burgalat)
- Le Temps Presse (Les Shades)
- Mais Pas Chez Moi (A.S Dragon)
- Sunshine Yellow (Bertrand Burgalat)
- Bombe A (Etienne Charry)

- TRICATEL (EDITRI 003) CD

> Zoom

Best Of 2010 -15 Tracks From Uncut's Albums Of The Year

- We Want War (These New Puritans)
- Crazy Car (Ólöf Arnalds)
- Shaky (The Duke & The King)
- In Your Eyes (Edwyn Collins)
- It's Easier (John Grant)
- Burn It Down (Los Lobos)
- Go Long (Joanna Newsom)
- Jarabi (AfroCubism)
- The Burning Of Auchindoun (Alasdair Roberts & Friends)

Maryan est extrait de ...For The Ghosts Within'.

CD distribué avec le n° de janvier 2011 du magazine anglais Uncut.

- UNCUT (UK 2011 01) CD

Best Of 2010
2011

> Zoom

4 Cds Of The Greatest Psychedelic Rock Music
2011

- Next Girl (The Black Keys)
- Adieu, England (Trembling Bells)
- Maryan (Robert Wyatt, Gilad Atzmon, Ros Stephen)
- Sabu Yerkoy (Ali Farka Toure And Toumani Diabate)
- I Can't Stand (Zola Jesus)
- Set Fire To The Forest (Voice Of The Seven Thunders)

Pure... Psychedelic Rock

Disc 1
- Rainy Day Woman #12 & 35 (Bob Dylan)
- Get Together (The Youngbloods)
- Summer in the City (The Lovin' Spoonful)
- San Francisco (Be Sure to Wear Flowers in Your Hair) (Scott McKenzie)
- Eight Miles High (The Byrds)
- White Rabbit (Jefferson Airplane)
- Sure 'Nuff 'n' Yes, I Do (Captain Beefheart & the Magic Band)
- Wild Child (Lou Reed)
- Teenage Head (Flamin Groovies)
- Journey to the Center of the Mind (The Amboy Dukes)
- Indian Reservation (The Lament of the Cherokee Reservation Indian) Paul Revere & the Raiders
- Green Tambourines (The Lemon Pipers)
- Groupie (Superstar) (Delaney & Bonnie)
- Different Drum (Michael Nesmith)
- Ruby Tuesday (Melanie)
- Fresh Garbage (Spirit)
- Soul Sacrifice (Santana)

Disc 2
- (Don't Fear) The Reaper (Blue Öyster Cult / Sly & the Family Stone)
- I Want to Take You Higher (Zager & Evans / Sly & the Family Stone)
- In the Year 2525 (Exordium & Terminus) (Zager & Evans / Moby Grape)
- Omaha (Moby Grape / Gun)
- Race with the Devil (Randy California / Gun)
- Day Tripper (The Chambers Brothers / Randy California)
- Time Has Come Today (The Chambers Brothers / Al Kooper)
- It Takes a Lot to Laugh, It Takes a Train to Cry (The 5th Dimension / Al Kooper / Stephen Stills)
- Sweet Blindness (The 5th Dimension)
- Madame George (Van Morrison / Laura Nyro)
- Stoned Soul Picnic (Argent / Laura Nyro)
- Hold Your Head Up (Argent / Pavlov's Dog)
- Julia (Pavlov's Dog / Skip Spence)
- War in Peace (Tim Hardin / Alexander Spence)
- Hoboin' (Tim Hardin)
- John McLaughlin (Miles Davis)
- Ball and Chain (Big Brother & the Holding Company)

Disc 3
- Frankenstein (The Edgar Winter Group)
- American Woman (The Guess Who)
- Two Heads (Jefferson Airplane)
- Red Chair Fade Away (The Cyrkle)
- Kicks (Paul Revere & the Raiders)
- Coming Down (The United States of America)
- Theme from an Imaginary Western (Mountain)
- When the Wind Arises (The Rokes)
- Road (Trees)
- Garden of Eden (New Riders of the Purple Sage)
- Sittin' in Circles (Electric Flag)
- Mind Gardens (The Byrds)
- Abba Zaba (Captain Beefheart & the Magic Band / Captain Beefheart)
- Las Vegas Tango, Pt. 1 (Repeat) (Robert Wyatt)
- Singing Winds, Crying Beasts (Santana)
- Waterfall (Weather Report)
- Meeting of the Spirits (Mahavishnu

- SONY MUSIC (88697753132)
4xCD

Orchestra)

Disc 4
- The Letter (The Box Tops)
- I Got a Line on You (Spirit)
- Rock and Roll, Hoochie Koo (Johnny Winter)
- Hush (Love Affair)
- Love Psalm (Stone Country)
- So You Say You Lost Your Baby (Gene Clark)
- 8:05 (Moby Grape)
- Albatross (Fleetwood Mac)
- Say You Don't Mind (Colin Blunstone)
- Strawberry Letter 23 (Shuggie Otis)
- The Witch Queen of New Orleans (Redbone)
- Spinning Wheel (Blood, Sweat & Tears)
- Up, Up and Away (The 5th Dimension)
- Simon Says (1910 Fruitgum Company)
- Witchi-Tai-To (Brewer & Shipley)
- Daydream Nightmare (Grace Slick & the Great Society)
- Glass (Sagittarius)
- Lay Down (Candles in the Rain) Melanie

> Zoom

15 Tracks Of Riotous '80s Indie Insurrection
2011

Panic

- Blue Skinned Beast (Madness)
- Shipbuilding (Robert Wyatt)
- Which Side Are You On? (Billy Bragg)
- The World Of The Workers Is Wild (The Three Johns)
- Getting Nowhere Fast - Girls At Our Best!
- National Shite Day (Half Man Half Biscuit)
- The Day That Margaret Thatcher Dies (Wah! / Pete Wylie)
- Lean Period (Orange Juice)
- First My Job (The Nightingales)
- Paradise Estate (Television Personalities)
- Grey Streets (Felt)
- Abernant 1984/5 (Mekons)
- Lev Bronstein (Redskins)
- Red Sleeping Beauty (McCarthy)
- The Band Of Holy Joy (Who Snatched The Baby?)

Shipbuilding est extrait du EP Shipbuilding/Memories Of You/'Round Midnight.

CD distribué avec le n° 209 d'avril 2011 du magazine anglais Mojo.

- MOJO MAGAZINE (APRIL 2011)
  CD

> Zoom

The Old Grey Whistle Test (40th Anniversary Album)
2011

The Old Grey Whistle Test (40th Anniversary Album)

Disc 1
- Trampled Under Foot (Led Zeppelin)
- Baba O'Riley (The Who)
- My Brother Jake (Free)
- Whiskey in the Jar (Thin Lizzy)
- The Killing of Georgie (PT 1 & 2) (Rod Stewart)
- Oh! You Pretty Things (David Bowie)
- Do the Strand (Roxy Music)
- It's So Easy (Linda Ronstadt)
- Short People (Randy Newman)
- Fire or Rain (James Taylor)
- Stuck in the Middle with You (Stealers Wheel)
- Feel Like Makin' Love (Bad Company)
- Listen to the Music (The Doobie Brothers)
- Hocus Pocus (Focus)
- Cheap Sunglasses (ZZ Top)
- Jessica (The Allman Brothers Band)
- Just What I Needed (The Cars)
- Psycho Killer (Talking Heads)

Disc 2
- Tiny Dancer (Elton John)
- Hurricane (Bob Dylan)
- Let It Grow (Eric Clapton)
- Go Your Own Way (Fleetwood Mac)
- Free Bird (Lynyrd Skynyrd)
- Ventura Highway (America)
- Cold As Ice (Foreigner)
- 25 or 6 to 4 (Chicago)
- Burning Down One Side (Robert Plant)
- I'm Just a Singer (In a Rock & Roll Band)

- RHINO RECORDS (WMTV173)
  3xCD

(Moody Blues)
- Owner of a Lonely Heart (Yes)
- Born to Be Wild (Steppenwolf)
- Radar Love (Golden Earring)
- Solid Air (John Martyn)
- I Have to Say It in a Song (Jim Croce)
- American Pie (Don McLean)
- Personality Crisis (New York Dolls)
- One Way or Another (Blondie)

Disc 3
- Stand By Me (John Lennon)
- Under My Wheels (Alice Cooper)
- Driver Seat - (Sniff 'N' the Tears)
- Life in a Day (Simple Minds)
- Give Me Everything (Magazine)
- A Day's Wait (Altered Images)
- Walk Out to Winter (Aztec Camera)
- Small Change (Tom Waits)
- Hungry Eyes (Sad Cafú)
- Love & Affection (Joan Armatrading)
- Stars (Janis Ian)
- Shipbuilding (Robert Wyatt)
- Sweet Mystery (Ralph McTell)
- Rock & Roll Doctor (Little Feat)
- So Into You (Atlanta Rhythm Section)
- Guitar Street (Chris Rea)
- I Wanna Be Your Dog (Iggy Pop)
- Rock & Roll High School/ Rock & Roll Radio (Ramones)

> Zoom

Rare Trax Vol. 71 - Round Midnight
A Compilation of Quiet Songs
2011

Round Midnight - A Compilation Of Quiet Songs

- Fall Aside (The Hope Sandoval & Warm Inventions)
- The False Husband (Isobel Campbell & Mark Lanegan)
- Prowler (Bohren & Der Club Of Gore)
- Free Will And Testament (Robert Wyatt)
- Fires P.G.R. (Songs Of Green Pheasant)
- Svíf Birki (Òlöf Arnalds)
- Waxwing (Alasdair Roberts)
- Jag Vet En Dejlig Rosa (Helena Espvall & Masaki Batoh)

Free Will And Testament est extrait de Shleep.

CD distribué avec le n° de mars 2011 du magazine allemand Rolling Stone.

- ROLLING STONE - CD

> Zoom

Come On Let's Go!
A Modern Day Jukebox
2012

Come On Let's Go! A Modern Day Jukebox

- Come On Let's Go (Broadcast)
- Free Will And Testament (Robert Wyatt)
- Young Bride (Midlake)
- Isabel (Baxter Dury)
- The Ride (Joan as Police Woman)
- Night All Night (Diagrams)
- Map Of An Englishman (Erland and the Carnival)
- Sarah (Declan O'Rourke)
- Black Harvest (Cow)
- White Winter Hymnal (Fleet Foxes)
- Alter Ego (Tame Impala)
- Coleen (Joanna Newsome)
- A Case For Vinyl (Tim Burgess)
- River Man (Paul Weller)
- Love Is A Losing Game - Live (Amy Winehouse)

Free Will And Testament est extrait de Shleep.

CD distribué avec le n° d'avril 2012 de la revue Mojo.

- MOJO MAGAZINE (APRIL 2012) CD

I Want The Beatles To Play At My Art Center!

Disc 1
- A Forum Of The Arts (Arne Nordheim)
- Excerpts From Blikk (Sigurd Berge)
- The Space Concerto For Piano And Tape (Bjørn Fongaard)
- Teeth (Soft Machine)
- Norway Spontaneous Music Ensemble)
- Excerpts From Requiem For Janis Joplin

Teeth est extrait de Fourth.

- PRISMA RECORDS (P004) 2xLP

> Zoom

I Want The Beatles
To Play At My Art Center!
2012

(Paal-Helge Haugen & Kåre Kolberg)
- Olga (Svein Finnerud Trio)
- Monkey And Organ Grinder (Hal Clark)

Disc 2
- Dans Til Musikken (The Aller Værste!)
- Excerpts From Muoyce (John Cage)
- Music For Marcel Duchamp (Magne Hegdal)
- Ear Era 7 (Lasse Marhaug)
- Aunt Esther (Jim O'Rourke)
- Studio (Deathprod)
- Improvisations For Karin (Håkon Kornstad)
- You Sign Your Name (Jenny Hva)

> Zoom 1 2

Keep Yourself Alive
2012

Sulo With Friends

- 2-4-6-8 Motorway (Tom Robinson)
- Hot Swagger In The Big Smoke (Billy Bremner)
- Borstal Breakout (Dave Tregunna)
- Green And Grey (Justin Sullivan)
- Roxette (Wilko Johnson)
- How Long (Paul Carrack)
- Enjoy The Risk (with Robert Wyatt)
- Teenage Depression (Dave Higgs)
- Poor, Poor Heart (Billy Bremner)
- Roses And Rings (Spike Gray)
- The Power And The Glory (Mick Geggus)
- 100 Degrees In The Shade (Terry Chimes & Anita Chellamah)
- I Saw Her Standing There (Dennis Stratton & Dave Edwards)
- Keep Yourself Alive (Sulo & Idde Schultz)

Ce CD accompagne le livre éponyme publié en suédois en 2012 aux éditions Lind & Co.

Cet album est également présent dans la rubrique With Friends.

- LEGAL RECORDS - CD

> Zoom 1 2 3 4 5

The Dutch Woodstock 1970
2013

The Dutch Woodstock 1970

DVD
- Gumbo (Santana)
- Zero She Flies (Al Stewart)
- Human Condition (Canned Heat)
- The World's In Tango/So Sad (Canned Heat)
- Giants (Quintessence)
- Won't You Try Saturday Afternoon (Jefferson Airplane)
- Bulgaria (It's A Beautiful Day)
- By The Light Of The Magical Moon (T.Rex)
- Old Blue (The Byrds)
- Big Bird (The Flock)
- Esther's Nose Job (Soft Machine)
- White Rabbit/The Ballad Of You And Me And Pooniel (Jefferson Airplane)
- Savor/Jingo (Santana)
- A Saucerful Of Secrets (Pink Floyd)

Disc 1
- Dust My Blues (Cuby & The Blizzards)
- Human Condition/So Sad (Canned Heat)
- Big Road Blues (Livin' Blues)
- Zero She Flies (Al Stewart)
- Giants (Quintessence)
- The Sun Of East/Irish Theme (East of Eden)
- Freedom (Country Joe)
- Mardis Gras Day (Dr John)
- Drowned In Wine (Family)

Disc 2
- Gumbo/Savor/Jingo (Santana)
- White Rabbit (Jefferson Airplane)
- The Ballad Of You And Me And Pooneil (Jefferson Airplane)
- Wasted Union Blues/Bulgaria (It's a Beautiful Day)
- By The Light Of The Magical Moon (T.Rex)
- Old Blue (The Byrds)
- Big Bird (The Flock)
- Esther's Nose Job (Soft Machine)
- Set The Controls For The Heart Of The Sun (Pink Floyd)
- A Saucerful of Secrets (Pink Floyd)

Holland Pop Festival At Kralingse Bos - Rotterdam (The Netherland) / from 26 to 28 June 1970.

- GONZO MULTIMEDIA (GZ0102CD) 2xCD & DVD

> Zoom 1 2 3

Sounds Of Silence - The Most Intriguing Silences
In Recording History!
2013

Sounds Of Silence - The Most Intriguing Silences In Recording History!

- Single Side (Unknown Artist)
- Disco Party Part 2 (Son Of Pete)
- Companion To TV (Unknown Artist)
- Silence (Copyright 1932) (Andy Warhol)
- B-Side (Unknown Artist)
- The B-Side (Count Backwards)
- Disque De Silence, A-Side (Unknown Artist)
- Two Minutes Silence (John Lennon &Yoko Ono)
- A-Side (Unknown Artist)
- A Minute Silence (Unknown Artist)
- Excerpt (Unknown Artist)
- The Sound Of The One Hand Clapping (Unknown Artist)
- Le Crochet (Œuvre Sup) (Maurice Lemaître)
- (Silence) (Ciccone Youth)
- There's A Riot Goin' On (Sly & The Family Stone)
- The Sound Of Free Speech (Crass)
- Testpressning (Sic) (Unknown Artist)
- Excerpt (Unknown Artist)
- Birthdeath Experience (Whitehouse)
- The Ballad Of Richard Nixon (John Denver)
- 9-11-01 (Soulfly)
- Anniversary Of World War III (The West Coast Pop Art Experimental Band)
- Silence (Robert Wyatt)
- Nutopian International Anthem (John Lennon)
- Are We Here? (Criminal Justice Bill?) (Orbital)
- A One Minute Silence (The Planets)
- Pensées Et Maximes De V.G.E (Thoughts And Sayings Of V.G.E) (Valerie Gee's Car Band)
- Beware (The Funk Is Everywhere) (Silent Version) (Afrika Bambaataa & Family)
- Prince Of Space (Excerpt) (Yves Klein, Charles Wilp)
- Silent Grooves (Unknown Artist)

La plage de 30 secondes (de) Silence de Robert Wyatt, issue du disque Cuckooland (version LP), est située entre Lullaby For Hamza et Trickle Down.

Coproduction Alga Marghen et le FRAC de Franche Comté.

Edition limitée à 500 exemplaires.

ALGA MARGHEN (ALGA046) LP

> Zoom

Losing Our Virginity
The First 4 Years '73-'77
2013

Losing Our Virginity

Disc 1
- Tubular Bells (Two Sides Excerpt) (Mike Oldfield)
- Krautrock (Faust)
- The Pot Head Pixies (Gong)
- I'll Be Home (Steve York's Camelo Pardalis) - Woman's Lib Song (Steve York's Camelo Pardalis)
- Marlene (Kevin Coyne)
- Teenbeat (Reprise) (Henry Cow)
- Giggy Smile (Faust)
- Eastbourne Ladies (Kevin Coyne)
- I'm So Glad, I'm So Proud (Link Wray)
- I Never Glid Before (Gong)
- Upon The My O My (Captain Beefheart)
- Some Velvet Phasing (Klaus Schulze)

Disc 2
- I'm A Believer (Robert Wyatt)
- Down (Like A Movie Star) (Comus)
- Glass c/w Steel (Fred Frith)
- Yesterday Man (Robert Wyatt)
- Let's Eat (Real Soon) (Hatfield & The North)
- An Extract From 'Star's End' (David Bedford)
- Wring Out the Ground (Loosely Now) (The Egg)
- I Believe In Bugs (Ivor Cutler)
- Mirror Man (Live) (Captain Beefheart)
- Road To Morocco (Mallard)
- Sad Sing (Tom Newman)
- Extract From Clearlight Symphony Part One (Clearlight)
- Fitter Stoke Has A Bath (Hatfield & The

- VIRGIN RECORDS (CDV4001) 3xCD

North)
- Hip Kiss (Boxer)

Disc 3
- The Salmon Song (Steve Hillage)
- An Extract From White Noise II (White Noise)
- War (Henry Cow)
- Freddie Are You Ready (Wigwam)
- Epsilon In Malaysian Pale (Edgar Froese)
- The Rio Grande (From 'The Rime Of The Ancient Mariner') (David Bedford)
- Don't Treat Your Woman Bad (Tom Newman)
- The Dirty Dinner (Ivor Cutler)
- Wise Man In Your Heart (Daevid Allen)
- First Excursion (Mike Oldfield)
- It's All Too Much (Steve Hillage)
- Silent Night (Can)
- Don't Say No (Can)

> Zoom

Lost & Rare Tracks
2014

Rare Trax Vol. 84 - Lost & Rare Tracks

- Tonight (Sibylle Baier)
- Strange Stairway (Bill Fay Group)
- Rivmic Melodies (Excerpt) (Robert Wyatt)
- Extraordinary Machine (Fiona Apple)
- The Sound Of Rain (The Go-Betweens)
- A Fond Farewell (Elliott Smith)
- Jack Of Diamonds (Me And My Uncle) (John Phillips)
- Crazy (Neu!)
- Empty Pocket Waltz (Connie Converse)
- Paraphernalia (Miles Davis)

Rivmic Melodies est extrait de Robert Wyatt '68 .

CD distribué avec le n° de mars 2014 de la revue Rolling Stone (Germany).

- ROLLING STONE (RARE TRAX VOL.84) CD

> Zoom

Perpendicular Green Hearts
2014

WASP

- Rock 'n Roll is Killing My Life (Sonic Boom)
- Hanging out and Hung Up To Dry (Julian Cope)
- Erotic City (Prince)
- Thank You (The Pale Fountains)
- Punish Me With Kisses (The Glove)
- Summertime Blues (Blue Cheer)
- Don't Make Me Over (Burt Bacharach)
- Mari (Martin Rev)
- Grass (Robert Wyatt)
- Going Up (Echo and the Bunnymen
- VCI XI (OMD)
- Electric Chair (Chrome)
- Lady Friend (The Byrds)
- Denomination Blues Part 1 (Washington Phillips)
- ESP (The Buzzcocks)

Grass est extrait du single Grass/Trade Union.

- NO LABEL - Digital Format

> Zoom

David Gilmour & Friends
2015

David Gilmour & Friends

- Don't Dig Here (David Crosby & Graham Nash)
- Everybody's Been Burned (Ulver)
- Sacred Days (Phil Manzanera)
- Here, There & Everywhere (David & Joe Gilmour)
- When Your Life Is Your Own (David Courtney)
- The Levels (Ben Watt)
- Steven Wilson (Lazarus)
- Forest (Robert Wyatt)
- Akt Dit (Dungen)
- Nevada (Richard Barbierei)
- The Interloper (BJ Cole)
- Moon Quake 6 (The Orb)
- Changa Masala (Ozric Tentacles)
- Old Man Going (The Pretty Things)

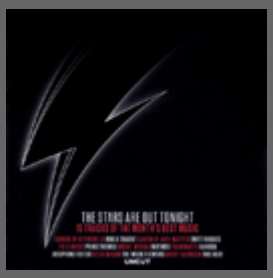
Forest est extrait de Cuckooland.

"In the studio | felt like a rabbit in the headlights but David was very graceful about it," says Robert Wyatt of his appearance on Then | Close My Eyes from Gilmour's On An Island, on which he plays cornet. Wyatt resumes cornet duties on Rattle That Lock's The Girl In The Yellow Dress. The pair's friendship is also evident on this finely-crafted tune from Robert's magnificent 2003 album, Cuckooland which features Gilmour's guitar.

CD distribué avec le n° d'octobre 2015 de la revue Mojo.

> Zoom

Tricatel XX
2015



Tricatel XX Compilation

- Sugar (April March)
- Bungalow (Valérie Lemercier)
- Atomiquement vôtre (Etienne Charry)
- (Come Potrei) Scordare (Bertrand Burgalat)
- He took her to a movie (Bertrand Burgalat version) (Ladytron)
- Derniers temps (Michel Houellebecq)
- 1 tapez 2 (Symphony)
- Coral Bracelet (April March)
- Mais pas chez moi (A.S Dragon)
- Trinity (Count Indigo)
- Chunky Monkey (Allegra)
- Froide (A.S Dragon)
- This Summer Night (Bertrand Burgalat & Robert Wyatt)
- Electrique (Les Shades)
- Foolin' Around (Showgirls)
- Wersailles (Planeur) (Chassol)
- La rose de sang (Bertrand Burgalat)
- I know I'm late (Jef Barbara)
- La route de la trace (Chassol)
- My little princess (Générique fin) (Bertrand Burgalat)

This Summer Night est extrait de Cheri BB.

Compilation éditée à l'occasion du 20ème anniversaire de Tricatel.

- DISQUES TRICATEL (TRICDFR048) CD
- DISQUES TRICATEL (TRILPFR048) LP

> Zoom

The Stars Are Out Tonight
2016

The Stars Are Out Tonight (15 Tracks Of The Month's Best Music)

- Open Your Eyes (School Of Seven Bells)
- Tu Voles (Rokia Traoré)
- Tardis Cymbals (Uncut Edit) (Cavern Of Anti-Matter)
- Rainbow Ends (Emitt Rhodes)
- Disappointed (Field Music)
- A2 (Prins Thomas)
- Cardinal Cross (Mount Moriah)
- Ultimate Care II Excerpt Eight (Matmos)
- The Asp And The Albatross (Freakwater)
- To Melt The Moon (Rangda)
- The Garden Of Earthly Delights (Josephine Foster)
- Planet Sizes (Steve Mason)
- Memories (The Wilde Flowers)
- Evil Kind (Barry Adamson)
- Twilight Furniture (This Heat)

Memories est extrait de The Wilde Flowers.

CD distribué avec le n° de mars 2016 de la revue Uncut.

- UNCUT (2016 03) CD

Le GRM Sans Le Savoir

- Indicatif Roissy (Bernard Parmegiani)
- It (Robert Wyatt/Francois Bayle)
- Indicatif France Culture (Bernard Parmegiani)
- Valse molle (Alain Savouret)
- Indicatif Stade 2 (Bernard Parmegiani)
- Il était une fois (Jean Schwarz pour Carolyn Carson)

It est extrait de L'Expérience Acoustique.

Version digitale du 5ème CD de la compilation Archives Grm.

- MOJO MAGAZINE (OCTOBER 2015) CD

> Zoom

Le GRM Sans Le Savoir
2016

- Sonal France Culture (Jean Schwarz)
- Chantakoa (Michel Portal/Jean Schwarz)
- L'alcool tue (Boris Vian/Bernard Parmegiani)
- Les Shadoks (Robert Cohen-Solal)
- Canon sur une trompe africaine (Guy Reibel)
- Rengaine à pleurer (Edgardo Canton)
- La roue Ferris (Bernard Parmegiani)
- Sonal Ratp (Christian Zanesi)

- INA MUSIQUE(S) - Digital Format

> Zoom

A Découvrir Absolument
Volume 40
2016

A Découvrir Absolument Volume 40

- Bird on the Wire (Yo&Liz) [Leonard Cohen/1969]
- The Man Who Sold The World (Nico&Liz) David Bowie/1970]
- Godevin le Vilain (John Trap) [Ange/1974]
- Johnny and Mary (Witold Bolik) [Robert Palmer/1979]
- Chose Molle (Arnaud Le Gouëfflec + Jorge Bernstein & the pioupioufuckers) [Sublime De Luxe/1979]
- Temporary Secretary (Nicolas Godin) [Paul McCartney/1980]
- Stop The Cavalry (Marianne Dissard) [Jona Lewie/1980]
- A Forest (Arnane) [The Cure/1980]
- When You Were Mine (Watoo Watoo) [Prince/1980]
- Cold (My Imaginary Loves) [The Cure/1982]
- Golden Brown (De Laurentis) [The Stranglers/1982]
- Love Song (this is not a) (Poppy No Good) [P.I.L./1983]
- This Charming Man (Mensch) [The Smiths/1983]
- I've Been Losing You (Garden With Lips) [A-ha/1986]
- Blue Hotel (Séve Duo) [Chris Isaak/1986]
- There Is A Light That Never Goes Out (Grout/Grout) [The Smiths/1986]
- Ne me Laisse Pas Tomber vf de Never Let me Down Again (Centredumonde) [Depeche Mode/1987]
- Summertime Rolls (Kramies) [Janes Addiction/1988]
- Maman (idwan) [Dorothée/1988]
- No Words no More (Lufdbf) [love and rockets/1989]0.
- 18 And Life (Dark Wooden Cell) [Skid Row/1989]
- Merry Christmas (Helluvah) [The Ramones/1989]
- Wicked Game (Chasseur) [Chris Isaak/1989]
- Twin Peaks Theme (My Tiger Side) [Angelo Badalamenti/1990]
- Apprécie Le Silence, Tout Ce Que Je Veux vf de Enjoy The Silence (Glace_9) [Depeche Mode/1990]
- Unmasked (David Fenech) [Robert Wyatt/1992]
- Sister (Serpent) [Sebadoh/1993]
- Rouge est Mon Sommeil (Gu's Music) [Jean-Louis Murat/1993]
- Nuages (La Rive) [Jean Bart/1995]
- Bipolar (Mona Kazu) [Blonde Redhead/1997]
- À l'Ouverture des Miroirs (Thomas Aussenac) [Bertrand Betsch/1997]
- If I Think Of Love (Dyl) [Lisa Germano/1998]
- Garçon Glaçon (Arnaud Le Gouëfflec et John Trap) [April March/1999]
- Et les Filles (Gontard !) [Jean-Luc le Ténia/2000]
- Tue-le (1=0) [inspiré de "A prayer to god" Steeve Albini/2000]

- WEBZINE A DECOUVRIR ABSOLUMENT - Digital Format

Cet album est également présent dans la rubrique Reprises.

- Que Sera Votre Vie (M.Lo) [Kat Onoma/2001]
- Mon Hublot (Betrand Betsch) [Rémi Poncet/2005]
- km 83 (Melicoton) [Françoise Breut/2005]
- Lift Trip To Mars (Old Mountain Station) [Angil and the Hiddentracks/2007]
- July Flame (Willskott) [Laura Veirs/2010]
- Finlande (post Humanism) (Angil and The Hiddentracks) [Francis Bourganel/2010]
- Diamond (Emboe) [Rihanna/2012]
- Myth (Uniform Motion) [Beach House/2012]
- Bouche à Lévres (Philémone) [Odezenne/2015]
- John My Beloved (Benjamin Fincher) [Sufjan Stevens/2015]

> Zoom

The Krautrock & Progressive Box Set 2016

The Krautrock & Progressive Box Set

Disc 1
LOOKING FOR AN ANSWER IN THE SKY
- Watcher Of The Skies (Steve Hackett)
- I Talk To The Wind (Giles, Giles & Fripp)
- God If I Saw Her Now (Anthony Phillips Feat. Phil Collins)
- Friday The 13th (Atomic Rooster Feat. Carl Palmer)
- The Mission (Rick Wakeman)
- The Hunter (GTR)
- Pedro's Party (Dave Greenslade)
- Teatime (Stackridge)
- Unmasked (Robert Wyatt)
- Om Riff (Gong)

Disc 2
THE UNANSWERABLE PASSION OF THE STRANDS
- Lifetime (Van Der Graaf Generator)
- Santa Maria - (Fission Trip)
- Gypsy - Arthur Brown's Kingdom Come
- Heaven Was An Island (Audience)
- Great Equatorial (Part III) (David Bedford)
- Gog And Magog (Third Ear Band)
- The House Is Not The Same (Mother Gong)
- Rabbit Run (Ginger Baker)

Disc 3
VISIONS AND MARMALADE THOUGHTS
- To Play Your Little Game (Cressida)
- Death May Be Your Santa Claus (Second Hand)
- No Chance (Warhorse)
- Beyond Winter (Bodast Feat. Steve Howe)
- Poet (Audience)
- Field Of Eternity (Anthony Phillips)
- The Rut (Blonde On Blonde)
- Scarred For Life (Slapp Happy)
- Stroking The Tail Of The Bird (Daevid Allen)
- Clouded Vision (Hawkwind)
- No (Arthur Brown & Vincent Crane)
- Where One Is (Dick Heckstall-Smith)

Disc 4
PHOSPHORESCENT CREATURES ON GERMAN SKIES
- Hey You Over There (Walpurgis)
- Stop Little Lady (Birth Control)
- He's Got A Gun In His Hand (Atlantis)
- Troubluhs El E Isch (Annexus Quam)
- Schmetterling (Bröselmaschine)
- Requiem Für Einen Wicht (Hölderlin)
- Ich Klage An (Jerry Berkers)
- Die Reise (Emtidi)
- Osmose I (Annexus Quam)
- The Work Is Done (Birth Control)
- Change My Mind (Atlantis)

Disc 5
TRIPPIN' ON KRAUTROCK LANDS
- Got No Time (Embryo)
- Dedicated To Wernher Von Braun

Unmasked est extrait de A Short Break.

- MUSIC BROKERS (MBB7237) 6xCD

(Mythos)
- Die Weisse Alm (Sergius Golowin)
- Die Hohepriesterin (Walter Wegmüller)
- Galactic Joke (Cosmic Jockers)
- Meeting In The Studio (Anima)
- Die Sterne (Walter Wegmüller)
- Hero's Death (Mythos)

Disc 6
ISOLATED MANSIONS ON FARAWAY WEEKENDS
- Stepping Stone (Carmen)
- Choose Your Masques (Hawkwind)
- Mother Universe (Wallenstein)
- Elegy (Mogul Thrash)
- The Hymn (Arthur Brown's Kingdom Come)
- Potted History (Hugh Hopper & Richard Sinclair)
- Celebration (Chillum)
- Sad Song For An Easy Lady (Blonde On Blonde)
- Silver Arms (Wallenstein)
- Der Traum Von Julius (Guy Evans Feat. David Jackson)

> Zoom

Jon Savage's 1967
(The Year Pop Divided)
2017

Jon Savage's 1967 (The Year Pop Divided)

Disc 1
- So You Want To Be A Rock 'N' Roll Star (The Byrds)
- I'm A Man (The Spencer Davis Group)
- The Beat Goes On (Sonny & Cher)
- Try It (The Attack)
- Levitation (Thirteenth Floor Elevators)
- The Behemoth (The Shadows Of Knight)
- Never Ever (The Action)
- Take Me In Your Arms And Love Me (Gladys Knight & The Pips)
- Believe It Or Not (Rex Garvin & The Midnight Cravers)
- Feelin' Reelin' Squeelin' (Soft Machine)
- I Can Hear The Grass Grow (The Move)
- Show Me (Joe Tex)
- Groovin' (The Young Rascals)
- So You Say You Lost Your Baby (Gene Clark)
- Western Union (The Searchers)
- Soul Finger (The Bar-Kays)
- Respect (Aretha Franklin)
- The Hand Don't Fit The Glove (Terry Reid With Peter Jay's Jaywalkers)
- Night Of The Long Grass (The Troggs)
- I'm Five Years Ahead Of My Time (The Third Bardo)
- So Sharp (Dyke & The Blazers)
- Cold Sweat Pt 1 (James Brown & The Famous Flames)
- Mr Soul (Buffalo Springfield)
- Alternate Title (aka Randy Scouse Git) (The Monkees)

Disc 2
- At The Third Stroke (The Picadilly Line)
- Hold On (Sharon Tandy)
- Lazy Life (William E)
- Reflections (Diana Ross & The Supremes)
- The idol (The Fortunes)
- Dream Machine (Svensk)
- I See The Rain (The Marmalade)
- You Keep Running Away (Four Tops)
- Yellow Brick Road (Captain Beefheart And His Magic Band)
- Slim Jenkins Place (Booker T & The MG's)
- Revolution (Tomorrow)
- Stop And Listen (The Shag)
- Psyche Rock (Les Yper Sound)
- Look At Me I'm You (The Blossom Toes)
- Love Power (The Sandpebbles)
- The Wind Blows Your Hair (The Seeds)
- Suzannah's Still Alive (Dave Davies)
- The One I Love (Ken Boothe)
- Can't Stand Myself (When You Touch Me) (James Brown & The Famous Flames
- Chain Of Fools (Aretha Franklin)
- Garden Of My Mind (The Mickey Finn)
- Vacuum Cleaner (Tintern Abbey)
- It's Been A Long Time (Andy Ellison)

Compilation.

- ACE (CDTOP2 1495) 2xCD

- The Music Goes Round My Head (The Easybeats)

> Zoom

English Weather
2017

Bob Stanley & Pete Wiggs

- Love Song With Flute (Caravan)
- Moon Bird (The Roger Webb Sound)
- Early Morning Eyes (The Parlour Band)
- Pamela (Scotch Mist)
- Cloud Home (The Orange Bicycle)
- JLT (T2)
- 'Til The Christ Come Back (Bill Fay)
- Refugees (Van Der Graaf Generator)
- Very Nice Of You To Call (Aardvark)
- Big White Cloud (John Cale)
- Bottles (Belle Gonzalez)
- Watching White Stars (The Way We Live)
- Windfall (Offspring)
- Never Let Go (Camel)
- Wise Man In Your Heart (Daevid Allen)
- O Caroline (Matching Mole)
- Edge Of The Sea (Prelude)
- Evening Shade (Alan Parker & Alan Hawkshaw)

- ACE (CDCHD 1484) CD

> Zoom

Only #s One - 25
2018

Only #s One - 25

- Trouble up the Road (Jackie Brenston)
- Come Rain or Come Shine (Ray Charles)
- Elmer's Tune (Glenn Miller & His Orchestra with Ray Eberle and the Modernaires)
- Slow Walkin' Talk (Robert Wyatt)
- Our Winter Love (Bill Pursell)
- Louisiana (Percy Mayfield)
- Gone (Ferlin Husky)
- Lovers Who Wander (Dion)
- He's Right on Time (Dorothy Love Coates)
- Boppin' the Rock (Clifton Chenier)
- More Than I Can Say (Bobby Vee)
- I'm Gonna Love You Too (Buddy Holly)
- It's Been a Long, Long Time (Bing Crosby & The Les Paul Trio)
- My Funny Valentine (Tony Bennett)
- Are You Real? (Art Blakey & The Jazz Messengers)
- Hanky Panky (Tommy James And The Shondells)
- You Don't Know Me (Ray Charles)
- The Ghetto (The Staple Singers)
- Please Mr. Postman (The Marvelettes)
- Alfie's Theme (Sonny Rollins)

- QIMBAYA ENTRETENIMIENTO S.A.S. - Digital Format

Zoom > 1 2

15 Rare & Unreleased Tracks
From Our Legendary Friends
2018

The Mojo Anthology

- Lights Of Home (U2)
- You're So Dark (Artic Monkeys)
- Alone On The Rope (Noel Gallagher's High Flying Birds)
- Invisible (Robert Wyatt)
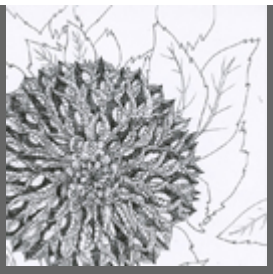
- Green Light (Beck)
- Slow Slow Disco (St. Vincent)
- What Would He say? (Paul Weller)
- A Song With No Name (Norah Jones)
- Changing World (Jim James)
- Pocahontas (Gillian Welch)
- Middle Of The Road (Teenage Fanclub)
- Exit Connection (Johnny Marr)
- Needle Boy (Nick Cave & The Bad Seeds)
- I Never Stopped Loving (Anohni)
- No More Tangles (John Grant)



CD distribué avec le n° 300 de novembre 2018 de la revue MOJO.

- MOJO MAGAZINE (NOVEMBER 2018) CD

DJ*

A SIDE
- L'Opéra des girafes (Jacques Prévert)
- Heure au bourdon et alerte (Renaud

Little Child est extrait de Solar Flares Burn For You

Zoom > 1 2

Phénomènes Suprasegmentaux
2018

Gagneux)
- Ethiopie (Ensemble Tigre)
- L'Opéra des girafes [suite] (Jacques Prévert)
- Geien sei in shvarze (Colette Magny avec Sarah Gorby)
- Arkham (Raein Sønntag)
- Téléchat
- Temps distillé (Semprun & Christodoulides)
- Djevdet Bey [Nazim Hikmet] (Le Groupe Organon)
- Kuuki onna no uta (J. A. Seazer)
- Ici a commencé l'histoire
- Chant avec battements de mains (Iles Hébrides)
- Little Child (Spike Jones)

B SIDE
- Lauréats du concours 1980 "Les meilleurs poèmes à dire"
- Mama Vagina (Péloquin & Sauvageau)
- The Cryptosphere (Steve Lacy)
- Poupée mannequin
- Monotony (The Four Horsemen)
- Nature Death (Edouard Scotto)
- High Fidelity (Spike Jones)
- Robotic (Jean-Pierre Drouet)
- Dans la jungle des villes [Bertold Brecht] (Jean Prodomidès)
- J'suis cool dans mes chaussures (J-P Mas)
- Ode à l'affaire (L'Infonie)
- La Saga du saca (Toubab K)
- Intime panique (Captain Tarthopom)
- Le Conseil de guerre (La Bamboche)
- Little Child (Robert Wyatt)

Mixtape UJNSQ #3 performed by DJ*

Limited Edition Cassette. 50 copies.

- UN JE NE SAIS QUOI
(UJNSQ-024) Cassette

> Zoom

Lullabies For Catatonics:
A Journey Through The British Avant-Pop/Art Rock
Scene 1967-74
2019

Lullabies For Catatonics: A Journey Through The British Avant-Pop/Art Rock Scene 1967-74

Disc 1
SPONTANEOUS UNDERGROUND
- I Should've Known (The Soft Machine)
- I'm Waiting For The Man (The Riot Squad Featuring David Bowie)
- Conquistador (Procol Harum)
- Bypass The By-Pass (The End)
- World War Three (Dantalian's Chariot)
- Butcher's Tale (Western Front 1914) (The Zombies)
- I Talk To The Wind (Giles, Giles & Fripp)
- Tramcar To Frankenstein (The Liverpool Scene)
- The Battle (The Strawbs)
- Xoanan Bay (Woody Kern)
- In The Beginning (Genesis)
- Wasted Ground (Memento Mori) (The Velvet Frogs)
- Beyond And Before (Yes)
- Druid One (Third Ear Band)
- Through The Eyes Of A Child (Bachdenkel)
- All Over The Country (The Crazy World Of Arthur Brown)
- Merry Go Round (Eyes Of Blue)

Disc 2
TEA ON THE LAWN
- Egyptian Tomb (Mighty Baby)
- Banquet (Audience)
- To Play Your Little Game (Cressida)
- Parachute (Pretty Things)
- Crystallised Petard (Rustic Hinge)
- Vivaldi (Curved Air)
- World Of Ice (Sweet Slag)
- Mockingbird (Barclay James Harvest)
- The Prisoner (Comus)
- Home (Reconstruction) (Nirvana)
- Death May Be Your Santa Claus (Second Hand)
- The Prisoner (Eight By Ten) (Spring)
- Don Alfonso (The Coxhill-Bedford Duo)
- Grande Piano (Stackridge)
- Saving It Up For So Long (Samurai)
- No. 2 Psychological Decontamination Unit

- GRAPEFRUIT RECORDS
(CRSEGBOX056) 3xCD

(Blonde On Blonde)
- Me And My Kite (Fuchsia)

Disc 3
THE WIND SINGS WINTER SONGS
- Welcome For A Soldier (Deep Feeling)
- Can I See You? (Open Road)
- O Caroline (Matching Mole)
- Unhinged (9.30 Fly)
- The Machine Grinds On (Gnome Sweet Gnome)
- No More Sunshine Till May (As You Like It)
- A Winter's Tale (Jade Warrior)
- C.F.D.T. (Colonel Frights' Dancing Terrapins) (Bond & Brown)
- Ship (Gnidrolog)
- Anvils In Five (Rupert Hine)
- Upon Composition (Ron Geesin)
- Growing Up And I'm Fine (Mick Ronson)
- Adventures In A Yorkshire Landscape (Be-Bop Deluxe)
- Somewhere In Hollywood (10cc)
- Mother Russia (Renaissance)

> Zoom

Best Of 2007
2019

Les Inrockuptibles présentent

- Time To Get Crazy (LCD Soundsystem)
- 1234 (Van She Remix) (Feist)
- The City, The Airport (Loney, Dear)
- Everything I am (Kanye West)
- Heimdalsgate Like A Promethean Curse (Of Montreal)
- Winter Wonder Land (Animal Collective)
- Hall Of Records (Klaxons)
- Dance Live Au Zenith De Paris (Justice)
- La Chance De Ta Vie (Florent Marchet)
- The Storm (Patrick Watson)
- Standing In The Way Of Control (Gossip)
- Hang Me Up To Dry (Cold War Kids)
- Fans (Kings Of Leon)
- Hasta Siempre Commandante (Robert Wyatt)
- Put The Sun Back (The Coral)

Hasta Siempre Commandante est extrait de Comicopera

Offert avec le N° 24 des Inrocks 2.

- LES INROCKUPTIBLES (CD LI 07156) CD

> Zoom

Further Perspectives & Distortion
An Encyclopedia Of British Experimental And Avante-Garde Music 1976-1984
2019

Further Perspectives & Distortion – An Encyclopedia Of British Experimental And Avante-Garde Music 1976-1984

Disc 1
- Trail Of Traps (Alterations)
- The Force Is Blind (Alternative TV)
- Convergence (AMM III)
- Hang Ten (...And The Native Hipsters)
- Rats And Monkeys (Art Bears)
- Intellectual Stance (A Tent)
- Overspreading Art Genius (Blancmange)
- Positive Paranoid/The City In The Sea (Bodhi Beat Poets)
- After Mendelssohn (137 Years) (Gavin Bryars)
- LMC 1979 (Paul Burwell And David Toop)
- The Giant's Feet (Chris And Cosey)
- Exercise In Magnetic Tape No 4 (Clock DVA)
- Refreshment Break (Bob Cobbing)
- General Strike (Lindsay Cooper)
- Vase (Lol Coxhill And Morgan Fisher)
- Error System (BAGFGAB) (David Cunningham)
- Her Master's Voice (Deux Filles)
- Brighton, Pt. 1 (Doof)
- John Of Patmos (Eyeless In Gaza)

Disc 2
- Burning Feet (Faction)
- Think (Five Or Six)
- Miniature (Robert Fripp)
- The Boy Beats The Rams (Fred Frith)
- Blades Spin Notions (Ron Geesin)
- Mzui (Extract)

- CHERRY RED (CRCDBOX84) 3xCD

(BCGilbert/GLewis/RussellMills)
- Night By The Sea (Bill Gilonis And Tim Hodgkinson)
- Procession (Martin Hannett And Steve Hopkins)
- Wooden Heartthrob Of Peking (Kevin Harrison)
- Industry (Henry Cow)
- Music For the Hanging Of A Minister (Het)
- Junshi (Hula)
- Sounds That Saved My Life (Homage To K.S.) (George Melly)
- Extract From The Compassion And Humanity Of Margaret Thatcher
- Down The Sink (Nocturnal Emissions)
- I Was No Longer His Dominant (Alternate Version) (Nurse With Wound)
- Death Looks Down (Mark Perry)
- In The Nursery (Psychic TV)

Disc 3
- Paralysis (Robert Rental)
- Japanese Headset (Second Layer)
- Scene X (Will Sergeant)
- Scattered Strategies/Oblique References (Nigel Simpkins)
- Kayoo (Soft Machine)
- Opus (Stinky Winkles)
- Robot Factory (Swell Maps)
- WWBC (Test Dept)
- Nostradamus (The Door And The Window)
- Changez Les Blockeurs/Extract (The New Blockaders)
- Amnesty International Report (The Pop Group)
- Crossover (The Wildings)
- Brickyard (The Work)
- 24 Track Loop (This Heat)
- Zyklon B Zombie (Throbbing Gristle)
- Banishing (23 Skidoo)
- Pale Yellow (Two)
- Drinking And Hooting Machine (John White)
- Musical Box (Trevor Wishart)
- Rangers In The Night (Robert Wyatt)
- Baptism Of Fire (Zos Kia)

> Zoom

Return To Y'Hup
The World Of Ivor Cutler
2020

Citizen Bravo, Raymond Mac Donald and Friends

- Here's A Health For Simon
- Latitude and Longitude (with Phyllis King)
- Size Nine And A Half (with Emma Pollock)
- Mary's A Cow (with Malcolm Benzie)
- Instance The Yam (with Alex Kapranos)
- Pickle Your Knees (with Karine Polwart)
- Gravity Begins At Home (with Rick Redbeard)
- A Cowpuncher And A Bird (with Zoe Graham)
- Boo Boo Bird (with Heather Leigh)
- Vitamin P (with Duglas T. Stewart)
- Green Rain (with Sarah Hayes)
- A Tooth Song (with Adam Stafford)
- Sh Chi (with Stuart Murdoch)
- Women Of The World (with Tracyanne Campbell)
- A Real Man (with James Yorkston)
- Yellow Fly (with Kris Drever)
- Shoplifters
- The Path (with Stuart Braithwaite)
- Muscular Tree (with Megan Airlie)
- Who Tore Your Trousers James? (with Rachel Sermanni and Chris Thomson)
- I Got No Common Sense
- When I Stand On An Open Cart (with Kapil Seshasayee)
- I Believe In Bugs (with Jo Mango)
- Good Morning! How Are You? Shut Up! (with Pictish Trail)
- Out Of Decency (with Robert Wyatt)
- Beautiful Cosmos (with Anna Miles)

- Robert Wyatt - vocals

- CHEMIKAL UNDERGROUND RECORDS (CHEM255) LP
- CHEMIKAL UNDERGROUND RECORDS (CHEM255CD) CD

Cet album est également présent dans la rubrique With Friends.

> Zoom

Think I’m Going Weird: Original Artefacts From The British Psychedelic Scene 1966-68
2021

Think I’m Going Weird: Original Artefacts From The British Psychedelic Scene 1966-68

Disc 1
- I Think I'm Going Weird (Art)
- My Clown (Single Mix) (July)
- The View (Gary Walker & the Rain)
- Utterly Simple (Traffic)
- A Woman of Distinction (Caleb)
- Like the Sun, Like the Fire (Simon Dupree & the Big Sound)
- Lazy Old Sun (Alternative Version, Stereo) (the Kinks)
- Plastic Daffodils (Atlanta Roots)
- Psychedelia (Ron Geesin)
- Dream Starts (Elmer Gantry's Velvet Opera)
- Tell Me What You See in Me (Strawbs)
- Funniest Gig (Manfred Mann)
- Sunny Cellophane Skies (the Status Quo)
- Mrs Grundy (Plastic Penny)
- Buffalo Billycan (Apple)
- Charles Brown (Sweet Feeling)
- Rosie Can't Fly (Sleepy)
- I Know, She Believes (the Picadilly Line)
- The Lobster (Fairport Convention)
- Yellow Brick Road (the Mindbenders)
- The Story of David (Granny's Intentions)
- The Devil Rides Out (Icarus)
- Is Anybody Home? (the Mirage)
- Why (Eyes of Blond)

Disc 2
- World War III (Dantalian's Chariot)
- See Through Windows (Family)
- Salad Days (Are Here Again) (Procol Harum)
- The Truth Is Plain to See (Freedom)
- Sun Sing (Force Four)
- Mr Small the Watch Repairer Man (Kaleidoscope)
- Image Blown Out (Genesis)
- Life Is Just Beginning (the Creation)
- Taking Out Time (the Spencer Davis Group)
- That Man (Small Faces)
- You're Haunting Me (the Hi-Fis)
- Mrs Gillespie's Refrigerator (Sands)
- Please Return (Rust)
- Last Minute (the Nashville Teens)
- All Along the Watchtower (the Alan Bown!)
- The Touchables (All of Us) (Nirvana)
- Halliford House (the Virgin Sleep)
- Catherine's Wheel (Denny Laine)
- Girl in the Mirror (Christopher Colt)
- Elevator (Single Mix) (Grapefruit)
- World in My Head (Mike Stuart Span)
- Ufo (Neo Maya)
- The Laughing Man (John Carter & Russ Alquist)
- Floatin' (Vamp)
- Life Does Not Seem What It Seems (Tinsel Arcade)
- Scene of the Lemon Queen (One Step Beyond)

Disc 3
- Happenings Ten Years Time Ago (the Yardbirds)
- Have Some More Tea (the Smoke)
- Walk Upon the Water (the Move)
- Jabberwock (Boeing Duveen and the Beautiful Soup)
- The Mad Hatter's Song (the Incredible String Band)
- Shoplifters (Ivor Cutler Trio)
- Look Out There's a Monster Coming (the Bonzo Dog Doo Dah Band)
- Sara, Crazy Child (Extended German 45 Version) (John's Children)
- Beyond the Rising Sun (Tyrannosaurus Rex)
- Hey Girl (JP Sunshine)
- Mr Sunshine (Film Version) (Barclay James Harvest)
- Tick Tock (Shyster)
- Cheadle Heath Delusions (Felius Andromeda)
- The Incredible Journey of Timothy Chase (Tomorrow)

- Robert Wyatt - drums

- Daevid Allen - guitar
- Mike Ratledge - organ
- Kevin Ayers - bass & vocals

I'm So Low est un morceau "démo" composé par Kevin Ayers et enregistré en 1967. Il n'est jamais sorti sur un disque officiel de Soft Machine.

On le retrouve sur plusieurs compilations des early years telles que Turns On - Vol. 1 (2001) ou The Soft Machine - Tanglewood Tails (2014).

- GRAPEFRUIT RECORDS (CRSEGBOX100) 5xCD

- The Birthday (the Idle Race)
- How Can We Hang on to a Dream? (the Moody Blues)
- Yes Is a Pleasant Country (Circus)
- Summer Sun Shines (the Fresh Windows)
- The Blue Man Runs Away (Crystal Ship)
- What's Happening? (the Crazy World of Arthur Brown)
- Mother's Magazine (Mother's Pride)
- Flying Machine (Turquoise)
- In the Park (the Cortinas)
- Hung Up on a Dream (the Zombies)
- We Are the Moles Part 1 (the Moles)
- We Are the Moles Part 2 (the Moles)

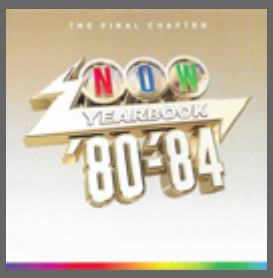
Disc 4
- Armenia City in the Sky (the Who)
- Fredereek Hernando (One in a Million)
- Flowerman (the Syn)
- I Can Hear Colours (the Motives)
- Green (the Lion & the Fish)
- I'm So Low (Aka Jet-Propelled Photograph) (the Soft Machine)
- Jeanetta (Mabel Greer's Toyshop)
- Come Over Stranger (Canto)
- Children of the Sun (Demo Version) (the Misunderstood)
- Brother Can You Spare a Dime (St. Valentine's Day Massacre)
- (I'm So) Sad (the Magic Mixture)
- You've Gotta Have Love Babe (the Graham Bond Organisation)
- Rumble of Mersey Square South - Wimple Winch)
- Cosmic Trip (Third Ear Band)
- I Bring the Sun (John Bryant)
- Police Is Here (a New Generation)
- Spicks and Specks (the Bee Gees)
- Death of the Seaside (the Human Instinct)
- Boys and Girls Together (Friday's Chyld)
- Charge of the Light Brigade (Jason Crest)
- Toymaker's Shop (Louise)
- Plastic Aeroplane (Medium Rare)
- Venusian Moonshine (Live at Middle Earth) (117)

Disc 5
- Path Through the Forest (the Factory)
- Freedom for You (the Attack)
- Walking Through My Dreams (Pretty Things)
- Don't Go 'Way Little Girl (the Shame)
- My Prayer (Tintern Abbey)
- Phantom I (Jade Hexagram)
- Cover Girl (Perfumed Garden)
- Rose Coloured Glasses (the Tickle)
- Amy Peate (the Orange Bicycle)
- Dream in My Mind (Rupert's People)
- Spider (Downliners Sect)
- What on Earth (Single Mix) (Blossom Toes)
- Building Up a Dream (the End)
- The Cat (the Merseys)
- Pandemonium Shadow Show (Mandrake Paddle Steamer)
- Waterways (Demo Version) (East of Eden)
- Which Way (the Sorrows)
- Bun (the Deviants)
- Another Vincent Van Gogh (the 23rd Turnoff)
- Smile at the Sad Sun (Champagne)
- Tales of Brave Ulysses (the Zany Woodruff Operation)
- Sitting on a Blunestone (Tales of Justine)
- Brain (the Action)

> Zoom

Modern Classics

- I'm The Man Who Loves You (Wilco)
- Jubilee Street (Nick Cave & The Bad Seeds)
- Man Is Not A Bird (Broadcast)
- White Winter Hymnal (Fleet Foxes)
- Everything Is Free (Gillian Welch)
- The Spark That Bled (The Flaming Lips)
- Rich Woman (Robert Plant And Alison Krauss)
- Pagan Poetry (Björk)
- Just As You Are (Robert Wyatt)
- Red Dirt Girl (Emmylou Harris)



Just As You Are est extrait de Comicopera

Included with the May 2022 issue of Uncut magazine.

- UNCUT (2022 05) CD

Modern Classics (15 Tracks From The Greatest Albums Of Uncut's Lifetime) 2022

- Eid Ma Clack Shaw (Bill Callahan)
- Andromeda (Weyes Blood)
- I Think I'm In Love (Spiritualized)
- Concerning The UFO Sighting Near Highland, Illinois (Sufjan Stevens)
- Nashville Parent (Lambchop)

> Zoom

Now Yearbook '80-'84 (The Final Chapter)
2022

Now Yearbook '80-'84 (The Final Chapter)

Disc 1
- Freedom (Wham!)
- Love Is A Stranger (Eurythmics, Annie Lennox, Dave Stewart)
- O Superman (Laurie Anderson)
- Sat In Your Lap (Kate Bush)
- What Difference Does It Make? (The Smiths)
- Absolute (Scritti Politti)
- Why? (Bronski Beat)
- When Am I Going To Make A Living (Sade)
- War Baby (Tom Robinson)
- Shipbuilding (Robert Wyatt)
- Round And Round (Spandau Ballet)
- Take A Chance With Me (Roxy Music)
- So Lonely (Single Version) (The Police)
- Nelson Mandela (The Specials)
- Our Lips Are Sealed (Fun Boy Three)
- Kiss The Bride (Elton John)
- The Longest Time (Billy Joel)
- Love On The Rocks (Neil Diamond)
- We All Stand Together (Paul McCartney)

Disc 2
- Na Na Hey Hey (Kiss Him Goodbye) (Bananarama)
- Desperate But Not Serious (Adam Ant)
- Water On Glass (Kim Wilde)
- Thunder In The Mountains (Toyah)
- We Are Glass (Gary Numan)
- Hymn (Ultravox)
- Living On The Ceiling (Blancmange)
- Talk Talk (Talk Talk)
- Tesla Girls (Orchestral Manoeuvres In The Dark)
- Hyperactive! (Thomas Dolby)
- Crushed By The Wheels Of Industry (Edit) (Heaven 17)
- Someone Somewhere (In Summertime) (7" Promo Single Edit) (Simple Minds)
- Where The Heart Is (7" Single Version) (Soft Cell)
- Louise (DJ Edit) (The Human League)
- Hide And Seek (Howard Jones)
- Human Racing (Nik Kershaw)
- Lay Your Hands On Me (Thompson Twins)
- Hang On Now (Kajagoogoo)
- The Medal Song (Culture Club)
- Move Over Darling (Tracey Ullman)

Disc 3
- Run To The Hills (Iron Maiden)
- Modern Girl (Meat Loaf)
- Day After Day (Pretenders)
- Human Touch (Rick Springfield)
- The Lucky One (Laura Branigan)
- Hard Habit To Break (Chicago)
- Say It Isn't So (Daryl Hall & John Oates)
- Better Be Good To Me (Tina Turner)
- One Thing Leads To Another (The Fixx)
- Grey Day (Madness)
- Cherry Oh Baby (UB40)
- A Solid Bond In Your Heart (The Style Council)
- Just Got Lucky (Jo Boxers)
- We Got The Beat (The Go-Go's)
- D-Days (Hazel O'Connor)
- Miss The Girl (The Creatures)
- Just Who Is The 5 O'Clock Hero? (The Jam)
- 11 O'Clock Tick Tock (U2)
- Everything's Gone Green (New Order)
- Silver (Echo And The Bunnymen)
- 18 Carat Love Affair (Associates)
- Cantonese Boy (Japan)

Disc 4
- Running With The Night (Single Version)

Shipbuilding est extrait de Shipbuilding/Memories Of You/'Round Midnight

- SONY MUSIC (CDYBNOW8084) 4xCD
- EMI (CDYBNOW8084) 4xCD

(Lionel Richie)
- Love Is In Control (Finger On The Trigger) (Donna Summer)
- Friends (Shalamar)
- I'm So Excited (The Pointer Sisters)
- Waiting For A Train (Flash And The Pan)
- Forget Me Nots (Single Version) (Patrice Rushen:04
- Fresh (Single Version) (Kool & The Gang)
- Stay With Me Tonight (Jeffrey Osborne
- Treat Her Like A Lady (Single Version) (The Temptations)
- Intuition (Linx)
- Mr. Solitaire (Animal Nightlife)
- Don't Stop That Crazy Rhythm (Modern Romance)
- Abba Medley (Stars On 45/Starsound)
- Piece Of The Action (Bucks Fizz)
- Words (F.R. David)
- When He Shines (Sheena Easton)
- Coward Of The Country (Kenny Rogers)
- Susanna (The Art Company)
- Seven Tears (Goombay Dance Band)
- Save Your Love (Renée & Renato)

> Zoom

Very Good Trip
Une histoire intime de la musique
2022

Michka Assayas présente

Disc 1
- This Time Tomorrow (The Kinks)
- The Days Of Pearly Spencer (David Mcwilliams)
- Alone Again Or (Love)
- Refugees (Van Der Graaf Generator)
- O' Caroline (Matching Mole)
- It's Alright, Ma (I'm Only Bleeding) (Bob Dylan)
- Heroin (The Velvet Underground, Nico)
- Virginia Plain (Roxy Music)
- This Town Ain't Big Enough For Both Of Us (Sparks)

Disc 2
- Pinball Wizard (The Who)
- Roadrunner (Jonathan Richman & The Modern Lovers)
- C'mon Let's Go (The Paley Brothers/The Ramones)
- Teenage Kicks (The Undertones)
- Love Comes In Spurts (Richard Hell & The Voidoids)
- Love Goes To Building On Fire (The Talking Heads)
- On The Road Again (Canned Heat)
- No Face (Traffic)
- Lilac Wine (Jeff Buckley)
- It's A Wonderful Life (Sparklehorse)
- It's Over (Roy Orbison)

O' Caroline est extrait de Matching Mole

"J'ai rembobiné le film de ma vie d'amateur dans un livre de conversations avec Maud Berthomier que nous avons sous-titré Une hist*oire intime de la musique*. Mon existence, comme celle de bien des gens de mon âge, a été bouleversée par la découverte de tout un nouveau monde musical. J'ai senti que le moment était venu de plonger au cœur de cette révélation afin de livrer mon propre témoignage.

Michka Assayas (animateur et programmateur de l'émission Very Good Trip sur France Inter).

Recorded August 16, 17 & 18, 2002 at the Moore Theatre, Seattle WA

- GM PRODUCTIONS - 2xLP

> Zoom

Canterburied in Seattle 2002
2022

Glass & Friends

- Rattlin' in Seattle (Richard Sinclair & David Rees-Williams)
- Was A Friend (Hughscore)
- John's Fragment (Pip Pyle's Bash)
- Vermillion Hue Over Lake Lausanne (Hamster Theatre)
- Bartholomew's Kite (Kopecky)
- Freeworld (Phreeworld)
- Set 2: The Catch / Patrice Mersault's Dream / The War Song / For Ursula Major and Sirius The Dog Star (Glass)
- Oh What A Lonely Lifetime / Nan True's Hole / Felafel Shuffle (Richard Sinclair)
- Disassociation (Richard Sinclair & David Rees-Williams)
- Little Sunflower (David Rees-Williams)
- Good To Meet You (Richard Sinclair)
- Yaman (Azigza
- Tungusta (Stinkhorn)
- Green & Purple Extract (Phil Miller's In Cahoots)

"The 2002 Progman Cometh festival was held in Seattle to bring together some of the "cream of the crop" of Canterbury musicians.

Sadly, twenty years later many of these incredible musicians have passed on, making it all the more important to support those still with us. We are indeed fortunate that their music will live on forever."

"The compilation was mixed and edited under Jerry Cook's supervision in 2003 with the hope of this being released as a double-CD souvenir set, but it never happened." (A. Leroy)

More information on philmillerlegacy.com

- Miles, Monk, Elton & Mom (Jeff Sherman & Elton Dean)
- Dirty Microphone / Hope For Happiness (Daevid Allen's University of Errors)
- Hymn (Kevin Ayers)
- Introduction (Soft Ware)

Bonus Tracks

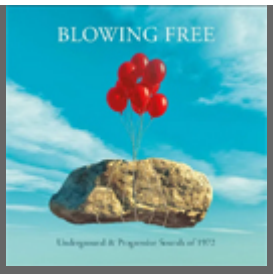
- Ratlift (Elton Dean, John Marshall & Hugh Hopper)
- Stick Connections (Jerry Cook, Pip Pyle, Mark Fletcher & John Marshall)

- GLASS - Digital Format

> Zoom

Progman 2003
2022

Glass & Friends



- Welcome (Jerry Cook)
- Big Sur 9-14-2000 (Jeff Sherman & Friends)
- Give The Man A Hand (Glass)
- For Birgit (Fred Baker)
- Seattle Samba (Fred Baker)
- Toccata in D minor (Bach) (Fred Baker)
- Bonneville Blues (Fred Baker)
- Loop Bass Piece (Fred Baker)
- Underdub (Phil Miller, Richard Sinclair & Fred Baker)
- God Song (Phil Miller, Richard Sinclair & Fred Baker)
- Eastern Region (Phil Miller, Richard Sinclair & Fred Baker)
- Willy The Knee (Elton Dean & Alex Maguire)
- Kings and Queens (Phil Miller, Hugh Hopper, Fred Baker, Elton Dean, Jerry Cook, Alex Maguire & Paul Black)
- Wanglosaxon (Phil Miller, Hugh Hopper, Fred Baker, Elton Dean, Jerry Cook, Alex Maguire & Paul Black)
- Share It (Phil Miller, Richard Sinclair, Alex Maguire, Greg Sherman, Jerry Cook & Paul Black)
- Calyx (Phil Miller, Richard Sinclair, Alex Maguire, Elton Dean, Greg Sherman, Jerry Cook & Paul Black)
- First Trane (Phil Miller, Hugh Hopper, Fred Baker, Elton Dean, Jerry Cook & Paul Black)
- Long Lingers Autumn Time (Richard Sinclair, Hugh Hopper, Fred Baker)
- John's Fragment (Phil Miller, Hugh Hopper, Fred Baker, Elton Dean, Jerry Cook, Alex Maguire & Paul Black)
- Psychic Warrior (Phil Miller, Hugh Hopper, Fred Baker, Elton Dean, Richard Sinclair, Jerry Cook, Alex Maguire & Paul Black
- In The Land of Grey and Pink (Richard Sinclair)
- Going For A Song (Richard Sinclair)
- Keep On Caring (Richard Sinclair)
- What's Rattlin' (Richard Sinclair & Paul Black)
- "Latiny Tune" (Richard Sinclair, Paul Black & Greg Sherman)
- Oh What A Lonely Lifetime / Disassociation (Richard Sinclair)
- Out There (Phil Miller & Fred Baker)
- Upside (Phil Miller & Fred Baker)
- Europa (Glass)
- Baker's Treat (Phil Miller, Hugh Hopper, Fred Baker, Elton Dean, Jerry Cook & Paul Black)
- Facelift / Nan True's Hole / Green & Purple (Phil Miller, Hugh Hopper, Fred Baker, Elton Dean, Jerry Cook, Paul Black, Alex Maguire & Richard Sinclair)

In August 2003, Glass hosted a who's-who of Canterbury Music for a second, two-day "Progman Cometh" festival at the Moore Theatre in Seattle:
- Phil Miller - guitar
- Richard Sinclair - guitar, bass & vocals
- Hugh Hopper - bass
- Elton Dean - saxello & alto saxophone
- Fred Baker - guitar & bass
- Alex Maguire - keyboards

More information here

- GLASS - Digital Format

Blowing Free - Underground & Progressive Sounds of 1972

> Zoom

Blowing Free
Underground & Progressive
Sounds of 1972
2022

Disc 1
- Aaron Copeland (Emerson, Lake & Palmer)
- Time Take My Life (Atomic Rooster)
- Get Out Of Bed / There's Nobody There / Side By Side (Edgar Broughton Band)
- Medicine Man (Barclay James Harvest)
- Marie Antoinette (Curved Air)
- Skin Valley Serenade (Skin Alley)
- Swamp Fever (Open Road)
- Don't Ask Me (Lindisfarne)
- Songs Out Of Clay (Al Stewart)
- Sheep Season (Mellow Candle)
- Epic Forest (Rare Bird)
- My Friend The Sun (Family)
- Do You Believe In Magic (Nektar)
- Seven By Seven (Hawkwind)
- And You And I (Yes)

Disc 2
- Time Was (Wishbone Ash)
- A Winter's Tale (Jade Warrior)
- The Love In Your Eye / To Catch Me A Brother / Subsultus / Debouchment / Tilbury Kecks (Caravan)
- Brainstorm (Hawkwind)
- Theme One (Van Der Graaf Generator)
- Reaffirmation (Help Yourself)
- Burlesque (Family)
- O Caroline (Matching Mole)
- Conquistador (Live) (Procol Harum)
- Lost Tribe (Bond & Brown)
- Speed Queen Of Ventura (Vinegar Joe)
- Wishing Well (Free)

Disc 3
- The Wizard (Uriah Heep)
- Prologue (Renaissance)
- Chilly Morning Mama – (Edgar Broughton Band)
- American Mother (Help Yourself)
- Love Is Good (Pretty Things)
- Turn It All Around (Rare Bird)
- Blowin' Free (Wishbone Ash)
- Bananas (Man)
- Blue Angel (Dave Cousins)
- See the World (Through My Eyes) (Vinegar Joe)
- Lady Of The Lake (Jade Warrior)
- Stranded (Khan)
- Whiskey In The Jar (Thin Lizzy)

Disc 4
- Two Weeks Last Summer (Dave Cousins)
- Nick's Seven (Skin Alley)
- Choo Choo Mama (Ten Years After)
- Hellbound Train (Savoy Brown)
- Peter (Pretty Things)
- Rip Off Train (Pretty Things)
- Instant Kitten (Matching Mole)
- The Boys In The Band (Gentle Giant)
- Midnight Moses (Sensational Alex Harvey Band)
- Walk Don't Run (Pink Fairies)
- Ricochet (Jonesy)
- When The City Sleeps (Bombadil)
- Desolation Valley/Waves (Nektar)
- Melinda More Or Less (Curved Air)
- Hollow Stone (Khan)

O Caroline et Instant Kitten sont extraits de Matching Mole.

Box Set.

- ESOTERIC RECORDINGS (ECLEC42799) 4xCD

> Zoom

Now 80s Alternative
2023

Now 80s Alternative

Disc 1
- Thieves Like Us (New Order)
- Beethoven (I Love to Listen To) (Eurythmics)
- Love Will Tear Us Apart (Joy Division)
- Red Guitar (David Sylvian)
- Party Fears Two (The Associates)
- Stories Of Johnny (Marc Almond)
- Oblivious (Aztec Camera)
- Come Back (Pete Wylie & The Mighty WAH!)
- Broken Land (The Adventures)
- Shades (Iggy Pop)
- Talk Of The Town (The Pretenders)
- So. Central Rain (R.E.M.)
- Monkey Gone To Heaven (Pixies)
- President Gas (The Psychedelic Furs)
- Planet Claire (The B-52's)

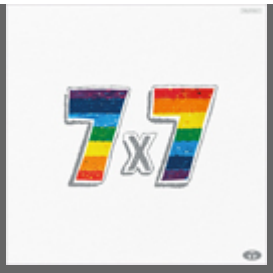
Shipbuilding est extrait du EP Shipbuilding/Memories Of You/'Round Midnight.

The Sweetest Girl est extrait de Songs For Remember.

- SONY MUSIC (CDNNNOW141) 4xCD

- Mad Eyed Screamer (The Creatures)
- The Cutter (Echo And The Bunnymen)
- That's Entertainment (The Jam)
- Atmospherics: Listen To The Radio (Tom Robinson)
- Shipbuilding (Robert Wyatt)

Disc 2
- O Superman (Laurie Anderson)
- I'm In Love With A German Film Star (The Passions)
- European Female (The Stranglers)
- Getting Away With It (Electronic)
- Dr. Mabuse (Propaganda)
- Vicious Games (Yello)
- No Memory (Scarlet Fantastic)
- Suddenly Last Summer (The Motels)
- Always Something There To Remind Me (Naked Eyes)
- I Got You (Split Enz)
- Lawnchairs (Our Daughter's Wedding)
- Whip It (Devo)
- After A Fashion (Midge Ure & Mick Karn)
- Gentlemen Take Polaroids (Japan)
- Dreams Of Immigrants (Sandii & The Sunsetz)
- African And White (China Crisis)
- The First Picture of You (The Lotus Eaters)
- Flowers (Zaine Griff)
- He! Stranger (Anne Pigalle)



Disc 3
- This Corrosion (Sisters Of Mercy)
- Peek-A-Boo (Siouxsie And The Banshees)
- Kick In The Eye (Bauhaus)
- A Forest (The Cure)
- Atmosphere (Joy Division)
- Birthday (The Sugarcubes)
- David Sylvian (Pop Song)
- Snobbery & Decay (Act)
- The American (Simple Minds)
- Down In The Subway (Soft Cell)
- There's A Ghost In My House (The Fall)
- Grimly Fiendish (The Damned)
- Liberator (Spear Of Destiny)
- Do You Believe In The Westworld? (Theatre Of Hate)
- This Is England (The Clash)
- Edie (Ciao Baby) (The Cult)
- Tower Of Strength (The Mission)
- Martha's Harbour (All About Eve)
- Hit The Ground (The Darling Buds)
- Head Over Heels (The Go-Go's)
- I Know What Boys Like (The Waitresses)

Disc 4
- Hand In Glove (The Smiths)
- Love Is A Wonderful Colour (The Icicle Works)
- Driving Away From Home (Jim's Tune) (It's Immaterial)
- The Future's So Bright I Gotta Wear Shades (Timbuk 3)
- Mexican Radio (Wall Of Voodoo)
- Senses Working Overtime (XTC)
- Remembrance Day (B-Movie)
- The Last Film (Kissing The Pink)
- I Love A Man In A Uniform (Gang Of Four)
- Der Kommissar (After The Fire)
- Dead Pop Stars (Altered Images)
- Ieya (Toyah)
- Car Trouble (Adam & The Ants)
- World Shut Your Mouth (Julian Cope)
- Crash (The Primitives)
- Sonic Boom Boy (Westworld)
- Def Con One (Pop Will Eat Itself)
- Medicine Show (Big Audio Dynamite)
- Radio Africa (Latin Quarter)
- The Sweetest Girl (Scritti Politti)

7x7 Project

Disc 1
- Red (Robert Wyatt)
- Green (Mulatu Astatke)
- Orange (Archie Shepp)
- Azul (Kassin)

Tirage limité à 777 exemplaires numérotés.

Zoom > 1 2 3 4 5 6

7x7
2023

Disc 2
- Yellow (Sean O'Hagan)
- Indigo (Nile Rodgers)
- Violet (Terry Riley)

Les deux disques sont accompagnés d'un livret de 64 pages qui illustre le projet que Jean-Pierre Müller a mené en 2012 avec 7 artistes dont Robert Wyatt.

Alhambra Moon, le morceau de Robert Wyatt dans le projet initial de 2012 change de nom et devient Red dans cette production.

- TRICATEL (TRILPFR077)
  2xLP

> Zoom

Happy Land
(A Compendium Of Alternative Electronic Music From The British Isles 1992-1996) (Volume 1)
2023

Happy Land (A Compendium Of Alternative Electronic Music From The British Isles 1992-1996) (Volume 1)

Disc 1
- Soul Vine (70 Billion People) (Cabaret Voltaire)
- Happy Land (Ultramarine Feat. Robert Wyatt – Remix Drummie Zeb)
- True Romance (Thunderhead)

Disc 2
- Carceres Ex Novum (Xeper)
- Housewife (Matthew Herbert)
- Big Decision (Liquid Son)
- Meditation (Syzygy)

- ABOVE BOARD PROJECTS
  (HLLP1) 2xLP

> Zoom

Dedicated To Palestine
2024

Stray Signals

- Lo que hiciste ayer - (Àgata)
- Dondestand - (Andrea Belfi plays Robert Wyatt)
- رثاؤنا ثائر Our Grief Is Revolutionary - (Jessika Khazrik)
- Viva - (Boniface)
- Forte - (WSR)
- Ve - (Herva)
- Butte I - (Mitchell Keaney)
- Enabler Interpreter - (Forster)
- Dark Red (Lacquered) - (EPRC)
- Untitled 229 - (Notte Infinita)
- Supermoon23 - (Augmented Aural)
- In Spirit - (Noumeno)
- Remo - (Gustavo Infante)
- Untitled - (Victor Negri)
- Big Bugs Travelling Band - (Omen)
- Counterpoise Part 1 - (Dylan Kerr + Boniface)
- De Voir De Mémoire - (Rhone Poulenc)
- process nr3 - (Gola)
- Mirage - (XIX (feat. Martina Brandorff)
- Goodnight Moon - (Dorthy Jackson)
- Collapse of Meaning (Absent Intelligence)
- MATERDOLOROSA - (Alga)

This compilation is dedicated to Palestine.

Looking at the oppressive political climate in Germany and the structures of racialised policing that enable it, we urgently recognise that, in whatever we do, a commitment to anti-colonial and pro-Palestinian politics must be upheld. This is how we can cultivate an effective anti-fascist movement locally and internationally. We stand together with the Palestinian people against the genocidal aggression of the Israeli war machine and its enablers.

We will be donating all revenue raised from this compilation 50/50 to the NGOs 'Jüdische Stimme für gerechten Frieden in Nahost' and 'Palästina Kampagne'. Both organisations are doing important work, from planning demonstrations to panels, as well as providing legal support for all those affected by the state led censorship and oppression.

- STRAY SIGNALS - Digital Format

Forever Young - The Best Of 1974

- Commune (Roy Harper)
- The Times They Are A-Changin' (Live 14/2/74) (Bob Dylan)
- Feats Don't Fail Me Now (Little Feat)
- The Psychedelic Warlords (Disappear In

CD distribué avec le magazine anglais MOJO - n° 371 (10/2024).

> Zoom

Forever Young
The Best Of 1974
2024

Smoke) (Hawkwind)
- Dizzy Dizzy (Single Version) (Can)
- The First Time Ever I Saw Your Face (Marcia Griffiths)
- Sea Song (Robert Wyatt)
- $1000 Wedding (Gram Parsons)
- Darkness (L'Immoraliste) (Be-Bop Deluxe)
- Dino (Harmonia)
- Instrumentals Volume 1 (Part 1) (Arthur Russell)
- Something There Is About You (Live 30/1/74) (Bob Dylan & The Band)
- Git In There (Betty Davis)
- I No Get Eye For Back (Fela Kuti)
- Red (King Crimson)

- MOJO MAGAZINE (OCTOBER 2024) CD

↑

> Zoom

Point Me At The Sky
(15 Flashbacks To The Golden Age Of British Psych)
2024

Point Me At The Sky (15 Flashbacks To The Golden Age Of British Psych)

- Feelin' Reelin' Squeelin' (Soft Machine)
- You Thought You Had It Made (Rust)
- Brain (The Action)
- A Prologue To A Magic World (Rupert's People)
- Emily Small / The Huge World Thereof) (Picadilly Line)
- Mr. Evasion (The Pretty Things)
- The Otherside (Apple)
- UFO (Neo Maya)
- The Truth Is Plain To See (Freedom)
- Never Care (Eyes Of Blue)
- Postcard (Blossom Toes)
- Freedom For You (The Attack)
- The Devil Rides Out (Icarus)
- A Little Bit Of Shangrila (Our Plastic Dream)
- Tell You A Story (Fire)

CD distribué avec le magazine anglais MOJO - n° 372 (11/2024).

- MOJO MAGAZINE (NOVEMBER 2024) CD

↑

> Zoom

Middle Earth - The Soundtrack Of London's Legendary Psychedelic Club 1967-1969
2025

Middle Earth - The Soundtrack Of London's Legendary Psychedelic Club 1967-1969

Disc 1
- A Good Friend Of Mine (Family)
- I Should Have Known (Soft Machine)
- Am I Glad To See You (The In Crowd)
- A Kind Of Love-in (Julie Driscoll, Brian Auger & The Trinity)
- Salisbury Plain (Elmer Gantry's Velvet Opera)
- Time Will Show The Wiser (Fairport Convention)
- Grey Man (Paper Blitz Tissue)
- Devil's Grip (The Crazy World Of Arthur Brown)
- I'm Waiting For My Man (The Riot Squad ft David Bowie)
- House Of Love (The Flies)
- She's a Witch (Keith Dangerfield & The Way Ahead)
- Strange Times, Sad Times (Graham Bond)
- Monday Morning (Tales Of Justine)
- Too Much In Love (Denny Laine)
- How Could You Say You're Leaving Me (Piccadilly Line)
- Raga No. 1 (Third Ear Band)
- Images of You and Me (Mabel Greer's

- CHERRY RED RECORDS (CR3JAMBX39) 3xCD

Toyshop)
- Climbing Up The Wall (See Me) (The Action)
- Telegram Tuesday (Blossom Toes)
- Prodigal Son (Eyes Of Blue)
- Canyons Of Your Mind (The Bonzo Doo Dah Dog Band)

Disc 2
- Way Back In The 1960s (The Incredible String Band)
- Feeling Alright? (Traffic)
- Portable People (Ten Years After)
- (The Man From The) Marriage Guidance< And Advice Bureau (The Knack)
- Balloon Burning (The Pretty Things)
- Long Day's Flight (The Electric Prunes)
- Pet Cream Man (Dr. K's Blues Band)
- Mark Time (Eclection)
- Soma (Parts 1 & 2) (Dantalian's Chariot)
- All Day, All Night (Blonde On Blonde)
- Drinking Muddy Water (The Yardbirds)
- Garbage (The Deviants)
- Yellow Brick Road (Captain Beefheart & His Magic Band)
- Sunshine Help Me (Spooky Tooth)
- Black Magic Woman (Fleetwood Mac)
- I Got A Loneliness (Tim Rose)
- I Haven't Done No-One No Harm (Champion Jack Dupree)
- Wings (Tim Buckley)
- Prayer For Peace (Amalgam)
- Up to Earth (The Chris Mcgregor Septet)

Disc 3
- Artificial Energy (The Byrds)
- Uncle Joe, The Ice Cream Man (The Mindbenders)
- Yesterday Today and Tomorrow (Small Faces)
- I'm A Mover (Free)
- Black Snake (Junior's Eyes)
- Evil (Edgar Broughton Band)
- Forget It! (Killing Floor)
- Crown Of Creation (Jefferson Airplane)
- The Week Looked Good On Paper (Pete Brown & His Battered Ornaments)
- On The Road Again (Canned Heat)
- Worried About My Woman (Chicken Shack)
- Crystal Liaison (The Fugs)
- Magic Bus (The Who)
- Baby (The Liverpool Scene)
- Maybelle Rag (John James)
- Sweetness (Yes)
- Love's Immortal Fire - Sleepy
- Sunshine (The Gun)
- Woman Of A Thousand Years (Arcadium)
- Poor Wages (Barclay James Harvest)
- Wang Dang Doodle (Love Sculpture)
- Lost You Too (Steamhammer)
- Floatin' (Vamp)

> Zoom

Pick'n'Mix - 15 tracks from the Rough Trade Vaults - Compiled by Pulp
2025

Pick'n'Mix - 15 tracks from the Rough Trade Vaults - Compiled by Pulp

- Final Day (Young Marble Giants)
- Totally Wired (The Fall)
- I Couldn't Say It To Your Face (Arthur Russell)
- Undertow (Warpaint)
- At Last I Am Free (Robert Wyatt)
- You Made Me Like It (1990s)
- Nag, Nag, Nag (Cabaret Voltaire)
- The Neighbors (Jonathan Richman)
- Blue Thunder (Galaxie 500)
- Women Of The World (Ivor Cutler & Linda Hirst)
- She's The One That Got It (Tav Falco)
- It Must Change (ANOHNI)
- Be Brave (The Strange Boys)
- I Know You Know (Honey Hahs)
- Chelsea Hotel Oral Sex Song (Jeffrey Lewis)

At Last I Am Free est extrait de At Last I'm Free/Strange Fruit.

CD distribué avec le magazine anglais UNCUT - (11/2025).

- UNCUT (202511) CD

> Zoom

Proto
Soft Machine Live In London
(Earliest Recordings)
(2012)

Soft Machine

- Da Da Dee (1)
- Frenetica(2)
- Belsize Parked(3)
- Man In A Deaf Corner(4)
- Bolivar Blues(5)
- Orientasian(6)
- Dear Olde Benny Green is A-turning In His Grave (7)

- Robert Wyatt - drums (1-2-4-5-7) cornet & voice (3) & guitar (6)

- Mike Ratledge - piano (1-2-4-5)
- Hugh Hopper - bass (4-7) & cello (3)
- Brian Hopper - alto sax (3-4) & soprano sax (6)
- Daevid Allen - guitar (7)

Recorded Live in London in the early sixties.

Limited edition (500 copies).

- B13 (B159) LP

> Zoom

Live In London
In The Early Sixties
2019

The Soft Machine

- Da Da Dee (1)
- Frenetica (2)
- Belsize Parked (3)
- Man In A Deaf Corner (4)
- Bolivar Blues (5)
- Orientasian (6)
- Dear Olde Benny Green is A-turning In His Grave (7)

Version identique à l'album Proto paru en 2012.

- DBQP (DBQP15) LP

> Zoom 1 2

Sweet Music - Volume 1
2004 (?)

The Soft Machine

- Contusions
- Another Lover Has Gone
- Fred The Fish
- Love Makes Sweet Music
- Feelin Reelin Squeelin
- She's Gone
- I Should've Known
- Soon Soon Soon
- I Should've Known
- I Should've Known
- A Certain Kind
- Save Yourself/Lullaby Letter
- Clarence In Wonderland
- Soft Machine Jam

Tracks 1 & 2:
Acetate copies from original demo disc. Summer 1966, Kevin Ayers sessions for Anim Publishing demos (studio unknown)
- Robert Wyatt - drums, harmony vocals on 2
- Kevin Ayers - rhythm guitar
- Larry Nolan - guitar
- Daevid Allen - bass, vocals

Track 3:
12/1/1966 and 1/1/1967 -Mr Head or Soft Machine (?) sessions, CBS studios, London, for Fred The Fish/Feelin' Reelin' Squeelin'
NB. Frederique La Poisson avec frite sur le dos, is the song's original title and as such was released on the Voiceprint CD Daevid Allen

> Zoom 1 2

The Soft Machine

- Joy Of A Toy
- Why Are We Sleeping?
- Why Are We Sleeping?
- Lullaby Letter
- Hope For Hapiness
- Save Yourself
- My Mother's Gone To India|Hare Krishna|Time Of The Green Banana| Remember The Name
- Slow Walkin'Talk
- Joy Of A Toy
- Hope For Hapiness (reprise)
- Hope For Hapiness

Tracks 1 & 2:
Mono single releasedin early '69

Tracks 3 & 7:
1968 live and studio recordings by Banana Moon.
- Daevid Allen - guitar, vocals
- Patrick Fontaine - bass
- Marc Blanc - drums
- Gilly Smith - vocals on M*y Mother's Gone To India*. Released (and now sadly out of print) by Trio 1963.
- Robert Wyatt - drums, homemade trumpet, backing vocals,
- Daevid Allen - vocals
- Mike Ratledge - piano
- Kevin Ayers - bass

Tracks 4 & 5:
Direct monaural copies from the original master, 1st Gen. 5/2/1967, Soft Machine, Olympic Sound, London.
- Robert Wyatt - drums, vocals on 4
- Kevin Ayers - bass, guitar on 4, vocals on 5
- Mike Ratledge - organ, piano on 5
- Daevid Allen - guitar, whistle, backing vocals on 5

Tracks 6 & 7:
6/1/1967, Soft Machine, Sound Techniques, London. Produced by Joe Boyd.
- Robert Wyatt - drums, vocals
- Daevid Allen - guitar
- Mike Ratledge - piano, organ
- Kevin Ayers - bass

Tracks 8 & 9:
Direct from the Laser disc Psychomania (they also appear on Turns on vol.1 but they are in much better quality here). Vitus Studio, Bussum, Holland, Hoepla TV Filming 9/22/67 (broadcast date is Oct 9th 67.)
- Robert Wyatt - drums, vocals on 8, backing vocals on 9
- Mike Ratledge - piano, organ
- Kevin Ayers - bass on 8, guitar on 9

Track 10:
Direct from VHS, Scopitone filmed in France 6/8/67)
- Robert Wyatt - drums
- Daevid Allen - guitar, flute (piccolo?)
- Mike Ratledge - organ
- Kevin Ayers - bass

Tracks 11-13:
Fall' 67 Unknown concert recording.
- Robert Wyatt - drums, vocals on 11 & 12
- Mike Ratledge - piano, organ
- Kevin Ayers - bass, vocals on 13

Track 14:
1/67-2/67. Origin unknown, musicians unknown, date unknown. This track appears on Hendrix's Sotheby Reels (or Southeby Reels) along with two other purpoted Soft Machine Jams whose authenticity is more than dubious...

- DISTRIBUTED BY THE LAUGHING MADCAPS - CD

Sweet Music - Volume 2
2004 (?)

- Clarence In Wonderland
- You Don't Remember
- Esther's Nose Job|10:30 Returns To Bedroom

Legend Music (KZLM 1505-1) in France in 1992.

Tracks 4-6:
Oops versions of the 1968 released tracks.

Track 8:
Jimi Hendrix and Robert Wyatt recorded in October 1968 at TGG in Hollywood, Cal. Released on Wyatts Flotsam Jetsam.
- Robert Wyatt - vocals, piano, organ, drums
- Jimi Hendrix - bass

Tracks 9-14:
Live at Post Merry Weather pavillon (Columbia, MD) August 16,1968 - 8:30 PM.
Andy Summers was supposed to be in the band at this time. He wasn' there that night, though!
- Robert Wyatt - drums, vocals
- Mike Ratledge - organ
- Kevin Ayers - bass, vocals

- DISTRIBUTED BY THE LAUGHING MADCAPS - CD

> Zoom 1 2

Sweet Music - Volume 3
2004 (?)

The Soft Machine

- Moon In June
- Hibou, Anemone And Bear
- Moon In June
- Medley: Pigling Band|Facelift|Hibou, Anemone And Bear
- Hibou, Anemone And Bear
- Moon In June
- Eammon Andrews
- Hibou, Anemone And Bear (excerpt)

Track 1:
Recorded in October and November 1968 at TGG in Hollywood and the Record Plant in NYC and overdubbed in approximately April 1969. Released as a bonus track on Backwards (Cuneiform-rune 170)
- Robert Wyatt - vocals, drums, organ, piano, electric piano, flexitones and on second half:
- Mike Ratledge - organ, piano
- Hugh Hopper - bass

Track 2:
Studio out-take from March 1969
- Robert Wyatt - drums, vocals
- Mike Ratledge - piano, organ, flute
- Hugh Hopper - bass, alto sax
- Brian Hopper - tenor sax

Track 3:
Recorded on August 8, 1969 live at the 9th National Jazz & Blues Festival at Plumton Rarecourse, in Lewes, England.
- Robert Wyatt - drums, vocals
- Mike Ratledge - organ
- Hugh Hopper - bass
- Brian Hopper - tenor sax

Tracks 4 & 5:
Supposedly on October 1969 recording. The origin is unknown (possibly the septet or maybe the sextet).

Tracks 6 & 7:
Recorded on October 28, 1969, live at the Actuel Festival in Amougies (Belgium).
On track 6:
- Robert Wyatt - vocals, drums
- Mike Ratledge - keyboards
- Hugh Hopper - bass
On track 7:
- Marc Charig, Elton Dean, Lyn Dobson, & Nick Evans - horns

Track8:
Live in Europe 1 Studios (radio broadcast) Paris November 28, 1969. Same line-up.

> Zoom 1 2

Middle Earth
1999

Soft Machine

- Love Makes Sweet Music
- Feelin' Reelin' Squeelin'
- I Should've Known
- We Know What You Mean
- I Should've Known
- Clarence In Wonderland
- We Know What You Mean
- Hope For Happiness
- Certain Kind
- She's Gone
- I Should've Known
- Save Yourself|Lullabye Letter
- Hope For Happiness

- DISTRIBUTED BY THE LAUGHING MADCAPS - CD

↑

- Robert Wyatt - vocal, drums

- Kevin Ayers - bass, vocal
- Mike Ratledge - keyboards
- Daevid Allen - guitar

Tracks 1-3:
  Southeby Reel 1967

Tracks 4 & 5:
  European TV 1967

Tracks 6-9:
  BBCTop Gear Dec.5 1967

Tracks 10 & 11:
  London Demo

Tracks 12 & 13:
  Middle Earth Club London 1967.

- NO LABEL - CD

↑

> Zoom

Live At Clark University
1999

The Jimi Hendrix Experience

- Jimi Hendrix|Pre-Concert Interview
- Fire
- Red House
- Foxey Lady
- Purple Haze
- Wild Thing
- Noel Redding|Post-Concert Interview
- Mitch Mitchell|Post-Concert Interview
- Jimi Hendrix|Post-Concert Interview

Beyond the concert performances, Live At Clark University provides a further treat in the form of extended interviews with Jimi, Mitch, and Noel. Seven minutes into Jimi's interview, one can hear the opening strains of the second set by the Soft Machine.

Live At Clark University was recorded on March 15, 1968 in the Atwood Hall at Clark University (Worcester, Massachusetts).

- DAGGER RECORDS
  (088 12033-2) CD

↑

> Zoom 1 2 3

Live 1967'-69
2021

Soft Machine

Disc 1
CE SOIR ON DANSE - AUGUST 25TH 1968 ORTF
- A Certain Kind
- Save Yourself
- Lullaby Letter
- Hope For Happiness

Disc 2
LE BATACLAN, PARIS FRANCE, June 25th 1969 ORTF
- Introduction
- Facelift
- Moon In June
- Clarence In Wonderland
- Mousetrap
- Noisette
- Backwards
- Hibou, Anemone And Bear
- Improvisation
- Esther's Nose Job
- Eamonn Andrews
- Mousetrap (Reprise)

CD1
- Robert Wyatt - drums, vocals

- Mike Ratledge - organ
- Kevin Ayers - bass guitar, backing vocals

CD2
- Robert Wyatt - drums, vocals

- Mike Ratledge - organ
- Hugh Hopper - bass

Recordings of two French radio broadcasts featuring Soft Machine, dating back to 1967 and '69 respectively.

- LONDON CALLING
  (LC2CD0005083) 2xCD

↑

> Zoom

Ce Soir On Danse
2021

Soft Machine

- A Certain Kind
- Save Yourself
- Lullaby Letter
- Hope For Happiness

- Robert Wyatt - drums, vocals

- Mike Ratledge - organ
- Kevin Ayers - bass guitar, backing vocals

Recorded in October 1967 for Guy Beart's Bienvenue Show (ORTF) broadcast on August 25th, 1968.

Limited hand-numbered white vinyl 10" + insert.

- LONDON CALLING (LCLPC5083A) LP

> Zoom

Voodoo Jam - Vol. 4
1967-1970 Studio And Live Jams
(?)

Jimi Hendrix Experience

- Tomorrow Never Knows
- Backwards Guitar Experiment
- Three Little Bears Jam
- Robert Wyatt Jam No. 2
- Jungle Jam
- This Flyer
- Electric Indians
- Cherokee Mist
- New Rising Sun/Villanova Junction Jam
- Izabella (piano session)
- Jam Messenger
- Easy Blues
- Funky Jam
- Ain't Too Proud To Beg
- Star Spangled Banner

Audio CD mini LP sleeve.

- EYE OF THE STORE - CD

> Zoom

I Miti Del Rock Live
Live In London & Amsterdam 69
1993

Soft Machine

- Moon In June (Live In London 10/6/1969)
- Thenthirty Returns To The Bedroom (Live in Amsterdam 2/2/1969)
- Esther's Nosejob (Live in London 10/6/1969)
- Slightly All The Time (Live in London 10/6/1969)

Production italienne de la série I miti del rock live (Les mythes du rock Live).

- FABBRI EDITORI (MRL 083) - CD

> Zoom

The ORTF Archives:
Broadcasts And Live

Soft Machine

- I Should've Known
- We Know What You Mean
- A Certain Kind
- Save Yourself
- Priscilla
- Lullabye Letter
- Hope For Happiness
- Esther's Nose Job
- Eamonn Andrews
- Hibou, Anemone and Bear
- Pigling Bland
- Facelift
- Hibou, Anemone and Bear

Bonus tracks:
- Contusions (demo 1966)

- Robert Wyatt - drums, vocals

- Mike Ratledge - keyboards on 1-13, 16
- Kevin Ayers - guitar, bass, vocals on 1-7, 14-15
- Hugh Hopper - bass on 8-13, 16
- Daevid Allen - guitar, flute, vocals on 1, 14-15
- Elton Dean - saxophone on 11-13
- Lyn Dobson - saxophone on 11-13
- Mark Charig - cornet on 11-13
- Nick Evans: trombone on 11-13
- Larry Nowlin: guitar on 14-15
- Brian Hopper: saxophone on 16

Recordings 1967-1969
(?)

- Another Lover Has Gone (demo 1966)
- Hibou, Anemone and Bear (studio outtake 1969)

Track 1 : ORTF TV studios, Paris, France, June 8, 1967.

Track 2 : Palais des Sports, Paris, France, November 17-18, 1967.

Tracks 3 to 7 : ORTF TV studios, Paris, France, August 25, 1968.

Track 8 : Ronnie Scott's, London, England, April 25 1969.

Track 9 & 10 : Théâtre National, Strasbourg, France, December 1, 1969.

Tracks 11 to 13 : ORTF TV Studios, Paris, France, December 7, 1969.

All Performances originally broadcasted by ORTF

- EYE OF THE STORM (EOS 500) CD

> Zoom

Live At The Bataclan
(2021)

Soft Machine

- Introduction
- Facelift
- Moon in June
- Clarence in Wonderland
- Mousetrap
- Noisette
- Backwards
- Hibou Anemone & Bear
- Improvisation
- Esther's Nose Job
- Eamonn Andrews
- Mousetrap (Reprise)

- Robert Wyatt - drums, vocals

- Mike Ratledge - organ
- Hugh Hopper - bass

Live at Le Bataclan, Paris 25th June 1969.

Turquoise Vinyl.
Numbered Housed Gatefold Sleeve.

- LONDON CALLING (LC2LPC5083B) 2xLP

> Zoom

1969-12-08
Theater De La Goutte Paris France
(?)

Soft Machine

- Facelift
- Eamonn Andrews
- Backwards
- Out-Bloody-Rageous
- Pig
- Out-Bloody-Rageous (reprise)
- Dedicated To You But You Weren't Listening
- A Door Opens And Closes

Il s'agit en réalité du concert donné au Théâtre de la Musique à Paris le 2 mars 1970.

- GALAXY RECORDS (T-417) - CD

> Zoom

Live Archives 1969
2020

Soft Machine

Disc 1
FESTIVAL ACTUEL, AMOUGIES, BELGIUM 1969
- Moon In June
- Facelift
- Eamonn Andrews
- Mousetrap / Noisette / Backwords / Mousetrap (Reprise)
- Esther's Nosejob (inc. Pigling Bland)
- Hibou, Anemone And Bear

Disc 2
LYCEUM, LONDON, U.K. 1969
- Moon In June
- Facelift
- Eamonn Andrews
- Mousetrap / Noisette / Backwords / Mousetrap (Reprise)
- Esther's Nosejob

Disc 1 : Live At Festival Actuel - Amougies, Belgium - October 28th 1969

- Robert Wyatt - drums, vocals

- Mike Ratledge - Lovery organ, Hohner pianet
- Hugh Hopper - bass
- Elton dean - alto sax
- Lyn Dobson - soprano sax
- Marc Charig - cornet
- Nick Evans - trombone

Disc 2 : Live At The Lyceum, London, UK, October 5th 1969

- Improvisation / Facelift (Reprise)
- Dedicated To You But You Weren't Listening
- We Did It Again
- Noisette (Reprise)

- Robert Wyatt - drums, vocals

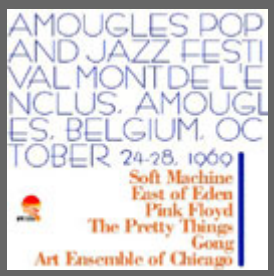
- Mike Ratledge - Lovery organ, Hohner pianet
- Hugh Hopper - bass

- GALAXY (GX136A/B) 2x CD

> Zoom

The Same Night
2007

Soft Machine



Disc 1
LE BATACLAN - PARIS
JUNE 25, 1969
- Moon In June Introduction
- Facelift
- Moon In June
- Clarence In Wonderland
- Mousetrap
- Noisette
- Backwards
- Mousetrap (Reprise)
- Hibou, Anemone And Bear

Disc 2
ROYAL ALBERT HALL - LONDON
FEBRUARY 18, 1969
- A Concise British Alphabet (Pt. 2)
- Hulloder
- Dada Was Here
- Thank You Pierrot Lunaire
- Have You Ever Been Green?
- Pataphysical Introduction (Pt. 2)
- As Long As He Lies Perfectly Still
- Fire Engine Passing With Belle Clanging
- Pig
- Orange Skin Food
- A Door Opens And Closes
- 10:30 Returns To The Bedroom
LYCEUM THEATRE - LONDON
OCTOBER 5, 1969
- Moon In June
- Facelift
- Eamonn Andrews
- Mousetrap
- Noisette
- Backwards
- Mousetrap (Reprise)
- Esther's Nosejob
- Facelift (Reprise)
- Dedicated To You But You Weren't Listening
- We Did It Again
- Noisette (Reprise)

- Robert Wyatt - drums, vocals

- Mike Ratledge - organ, piano
- Hugh Hopper - bass

- AYY (216/217CD) CD

> Zoom

Amougies Pop And Jazz Festival Mont De l'Enclus. Belgium,
October 24-28 1969
(?)

Soft Machine

- Moon In June (Soft Machine) / Rondo (The Nice)
- Confusion (East of Eden)
- Green Is The Colour/Careful With That Axe, Eugene (Pink Floyd)
- Blow Your Mind (The Pretty Things)
- Rational Anthem / ? - ? / ? - ? (Gong)
- Jig-A-Jig (East Of Eden)
- ? (Art Ensemble of Chicago)
- ? - ?
- Eamon Andrews (Soft Machine)
- Alexander (The Pretty Things)
- ? (The Pretty Things)
- Bathers (East Of Eden)
- Hibou, Anemone and Bear (Soft Machine)

- Robert Wyatt - drums, vocals

- Mike Ratledge - organ, electric piano
- Hugh Hopper - bass

- ELASTIC ROCK (ER125) Digital Format

Soft Machine

> Zoom

John Peel's Top Gear '67 & '69
2012

John Peel's Top Gear Show 1967
- Clarence In Wonderland
- We Know What You Mean
- A Certain Kind
- Hope For Happiness
- Strangest Scene

John Peel's Top Gear Show 1969
- Facelift/Mousetrap/Noisette/ Backwards
- Moon In June

- Robert Wyatt - drums, vocals

- Mike Ratledge - organ, electric & flute
- Hugh Hopper - bass & alto saxophone
- Kevin Ayers - vocals, guitar & bass - Brian Hopper - soprano sax

Side one ; recorded for John Peel's Top Gear Show 05/12/1967 (with Kevin Ayers).

Side two : recorded for John Peel's Top Gear Show 10/06/1969 (with Hugh and Brian Hopper).

Limited edition (500 copies).

- B13 (B171) LP

> Zoom

Live At Top Gear BBC,
10 June 1969
2021

Soft Machine

- Moon In June
- Esther'S Nose Job
- Slightly All The Time

- Robert Wyatt - vocal, drums

- Mike Ratledge - keyboards
- Hugh Hopper - bass guitar

Recorded For John Peels Top Gear / 10.06.1969

- NO KIDDING (NK202106) LP

> Zoom

Top Gear UK
2010

Soft Machine

- Clarence In The Wonderland
- We Know What You Mean
- Certain Kind
- Hope For Happiness
- Strangest Scene
- Facelift/Mousetrap/Noisette/ Backwards/Moustrap Reprise
- The Moon In June

- Robert Wyatt - vocal, drums

- Mike Ratledge - organ, electric piano, flute
- Hugh Hopper - bass, alto sax
- Brian Hopper - soprano sax

1-5 : Recorded For John Peels Top Gear / 05.12.1967
6 & 7: Recorded For John Peels Top Gear / 10.06.1969

- KINSHIP RECORDS (KIN001) LP

> Zoom

Volume One And Volume Two 1999

The Soft Machine

- Hope For Happiness
- Joy Of A Toy
- Hope For Happiness (reprise)
- Why Am I So Short?
- So Boot If At All
- A Certain Kind
- Save Yourself
- Priscilla
- Lullabye Letter
- We Did It Again
- Plus Belle Qu'une Poubelle
- Why Are We Sleeping?
- Box 25/4 Lid
- Pataphysical Introduction-Pt. I
- A Concise British Alphabet-Pt. I
- Hibou, Anemone And Bear
- A Concise British Alphabet-Pt. II

- Réédition pirate russe des deux premiers albums de Soft Machine : Volume One et Volume Two.

- ARSNOVA (AN99-0414) CD

- Hulloder
- Dada Was Here
- Thank You Pierrot Lunaire
- Have You Ever Bean Green?
- Pataphysical Introduction, Pt. II
- Out Of Tunes
- As Long as He Lies Perfectly Still
- Dedicated To You But You Weren't Listening
- Fire Engine Passing With Bells Clanging
- Pig
- Orange Skin Food
- A Door Opens And Closes
- 10:30 Returns To The Bedroom

> Zoom

Top Gear Live In London
1967-1969
2019

The Soft Machine

- Clarence In Wonderland
- We Know What You Mean
- A Certain Kind
- Hope For Happiness
- Strangest Scene
- Facelift
- Mousetrap
- Noisette
- Backwards
- Moon In June

Nouvelle édition non-officielle des concerts enregistrés pour l'émission Top Gear de john Peel.

- DBQP (DBQP25) LP

> Zoom

Moon In June Live 1969
2005

Soft Machine

- Moon In June
- Facelift
- Eammon Andrews
- Facelift
- Hibou, Anemone And Bear
- Moon In June

- Robert Wyatt - drums, vocals

- Mike Ratledge - organ, electric piano
- Hugh Hopper - bass

Tracks 1-3:
Recorded at "Actue Festival, Amougies, Belgium-October 28,1969.

Tracks 4-6:
Unknown October 1969 Show?

Track 7:
Recorded August 8, 1969 at Plumpton cecourse, Lewes, England. Soft Machine suffered from a loss of power during their set. So Moon In June was the only song they played that day.

- NO LABEL - Digital Format

> Zoom

Live 1969 Part 1

Soft Machine

- Hulloder
- Dada Was Here
- Thank You Pierrot Lunaire
- Have You Ever Bean Green
- Pataphysical Introduction Part II
- Hibou, Anemone And Bear
- Pig
- Orange Skin Food
- A Door Opens And Closes
- 10-30 Returns To The Bedroom
- Moon In June (Robert Wyatt Demo)

- Robert Wyatt - drums, vocals

- Mike Ratledge - organ, electric piano
- Hugh Hopper - bass

Tracks 1-10:
Recorded live at Paradiso, Amsterdam, 29/3/1969.

- NO LABEL - Digital Format

(Canterbury Anthology - Vol. 5)
2005

> Zoom

Live 1969 Part 2
(Canterbury Anthology - Vol. 6)
2005

Soft Machine

- Moon In June (Actuel Festival, Belgium 10-28-69)
- Facelift (Actuel Festival, Belgium 10-28-69)
- Eammon Andrews (Actuel Festival, Belgium 10-28-69)
- Pigling Band (October 1969)
- Facelift (October 1969)
- Hibou, Anemone And Bear (October 1969)
- Moon In June (Plumpton 8-8-69)
- Moon In June (BBC Top Gear 6-10-69)

- Robert Wyatt - drums, vocals

- Mike Ratledge - organ, electric piano
- Hugh Hopper - bass

- NO LABEL - Digital Format

> Zoom

Just For Old Times Sake
1996

Kevin Ayers

- The Hat Song
- Stop This Train
- Clarence In Wonderland
- Why Are We Sleeping
- Derby Day
- Interview
- We Did It Again
- Lunatic's Lament
- Lady Rachel
- Stop This Train
- Another Whimsical Song
- O! Wot A Dream
- Shouting In A Bucket Blues
- Interview
- Whatevershebringswesing
- Stranger In Blue Suede Shoes
- (announcement)

- Robert Wyatt - drums, vocals

- Kevin Ayers - guitar, bass, vocals
- Lyn Dobson - flute
- David Bedford - piano
- Lol Coxhill - soprano sax
- Nick Evans - trombone
- Elton Dean - alto sax
- Hugh Hopper - bass
- Mike Ratledge - organ

Tracks 1-4:
BBC Top Gear - 10 février 1970.

- GOLD STANDERD (GS-96004) CD

> Zoom

Piknik Radio Broadcast 1970
(?)

Kevin Ayers And The Whole Wide World

-- Interview Kevin Ayers
- The Oyster And The Flying Fish
- We Did It Again
- Hat Song
- Audience
- If You've Got Money
- Clarence In Wonderland
- Rheinhardt And Geraldine ~ Colores Para Dolores
- Why Are We Sleeping
- Lady Rachel

- Robert Wyatt - drums

- Kevin Ayers - vocals, guitar
- Mike Oldfield - bass
- David Bedford - piano, organ
- Lol Coxhill - soprano sax, bird whistle, flute
- Bridget St.John - vocals

Live At Driebergen, Gemeendecentrum, The Netherlands July 30, 1970

- DEAFMUSIC AND LONETAPES PRODUCTION - CD
- HIGHLAND PROJECT (HP164) CD

Cet album est également présent dans la rubrique With Friends.

Kevin Ayers And The Whole Wide World

-- Interview Kevin Ayers
- The Oyster And The Flying Fish

> Zoom

> Zoom

Piknik Broadcast 30th July 1970
2023

- We Did It Again
- Hat Song
- Audience
- If You've Got Money
- Clarence In Wonderland
- Rheinhardt And Geraldine ~ Colores Para Dolores
- Why Are We Sleeping
- Lady Rachel

Réédition du CD publié sur le label DEAFMUSIC AND LONETAPES PRODUCTION.

A noter qu'il existe 2 versions du nom du groupe :
KEVIN AYERS AND THE WHOLE WIDE WORLD
et
KEVIN AYRES AND THE WHOLE WIDE WORLD.

- FM CONCERTS (FMGZ189CD) CD

↑

> Zoom 1 2 3

Paris 1970
2021

Soft Machine

Disc 1
- Eamonn Andrews
- Mousetrap
- Noisette
- Backwards
- Mousetrap [reprise]
- Out-Bloody-Rageous

Disc 2
- Facelift
- Slightly All The Time
- Moon In June [organ solo]
- 18-8 Theme
- Vocal improv.
- Esther's Nose Job

- Robert Wyatt - drums, vocals

- Mike Ratledge - Lowrey organ, Hohner pianet
- Hugh Hopper - bass
- Elton Dean - alto sax, saxello
- Lyn Dobson - soprano sax, flute, voice, harmonica

Soft Machine, live from the Théâtre de la Musique, Paris on March 2nd 1970.

- LONDON CALLING (LC2CD5084) 2xCD

↑

> Zoom

Théâtre De La Musique, Paris, 1970
2016

Soft Machine

- Facelift
- Vocal improv
- Esther's Nose Job
- Out-Bloody-Rageous
- Eamonn Andrews
- Backwards/Mousetrap [reprise]

- Robert Wyatt - drums, vocals

- Mike Ratledge - organ, Hohner pianet
- Hugh Hopper - bass
- Elton Dean - alto sax, saxello
- Lyn Dobson - soprano sax, flute, harmonica, voice

Recorded from TV broadcast.

- ANÖKUMENA (11) K7

↑

Soft Machine

Disc 1
- Eamonn Andrews
- Mousetrap
- Noisette
- Backwards

- Robert Wyatt - drums, vocals

- Mike Ratledge - keyboards, piano
- Hugh Hopper - bass

> Zoom

Complete Live In Paris 1970
2021

- Mousetrap [reprise]
- Out-Bloody-Rageous

Disc 2
- Facelift
- Slightly All The Time
- Moon In June [inc. organ solo]
- 18-8 Theme
- Vocal improvisation
- Esther's Nose Job

- Elton Dean - saxophones
- Lyn Dobson - soprano saxophone, harmonica, flute, voice.

Soft Machine, live from the Théâtre de la Musique, Paris on March 2nd 1970.

- GALAXY (GX143A/B) 2xCD

> Zoom

Joyful Lunacy
2016

Syd Barrett

Disc 1
THE JOHN PEEL 'TOP GEAR' SHOW. BBC RADIO ONE BBC MAIDA VALE 4 STUDIO, MAIDA VALE, LONDON RECORDED: FEBRUARY 24, 1970 TRANSMITTED: MARCH 14, 1970. + MAY 30, 1970 [THE PEEL SESSIONS. STRANGE FRUIT CASSETTE. 1989]
- Gigolo Aunt
- Terrapin
- Baby Lemonade
- Effervescing Elephant
- Two Of A Kind

PETER JENNER EMI REFERENCE REEL 6604Z STUDIO 3. EMI STUDIOS, ABBEY ROAD, ST. JOHN'S WOOD. LONDON COMPILED: AUGUST 13, 1974 [FIRST GENERATION PHILIPS C120 CASSETTE. 1975]
- Milky Way [Take 5. June 7, 1970]
- Wouldn't You Miss Me (Dark Globe) [Take 1. July 26, 1969]
- Silas Lang [Take 1. May 6, 1968]
- Opel [Take 9. April 11, 1969]
- Untitled (Words) [Take 1. July 21, 1970]
- Birdy Hop [Take 1. June 7, 1970]
- Silas Lang (Swan Lee) [Take 5. May 21/28, June 8/20/27, 1968]
- Scream Thy Last Scream [Take 4. August 7, 1967]
- Vegetable Man [Unknown Take. October 9-12, 1967]

PETER JENNER EMI REFERENCE REEL 5896-8T STUDIO 3. EMI STUDIOS, ABBEY ROAD, ST. JOHN'S WOOD. LONDON RECORDED: AUGUST 12, 1974 COMPILED: AUGUST 13, 1974 [FIRST GENERATION PHILIPS C120 CASSETTE. 1975]
- Boogie #1
- Boogie #2
- Boogie #3
- If You Go #1
- Ballad (Unfinished)
- Chooka-Chooka Chug Chug
- If You Go #2
- Untitled
- Slow Boogie
- John Lee Hooker
- Fast Boogie
- Silas Lang [Take 1. May 6 /13, 1968. RM1]

JOHN PEEL 'TOP GEAR' SHOW. BBC RADIO ONE BBC MAIDA VALE 4 STUDIO, MAIDA VALE, LONDON RECORDED: FEBRUARY 24, 1970 [TOP OF THE POPS ? 280/WEEK 14. BBC TRANSCRIPTION SERVICE LP]
- Brian Matthew Introduction
- Gigolo Aunt
- Effervescing Elephant
- Terrapin

Released on Syd Barrett - The Peel Sessions (Strange Fruit).

Disc 2
EXTRAVAGANZA '70 MUSIC AND FASHION FESTIVAL EXHIBITION HALL, OLYMPIA, KENSINGTON, LONDON RECORDED LIVE: JUNE 6, 1970 [SPEED CORRECTED RESTORATION]
- Terrapin
- Gigolo Aunt
- Effervescing Elephant
- Octopus

- Robert Wyatt - drums

- Syd Barrett - guitar, vocals
- Mike Ratledge - organ, piano on Love You
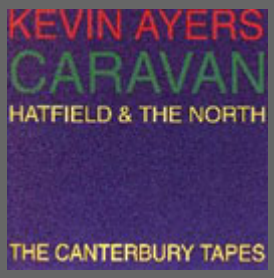
- Hugh Hopper - bass



Edition limitée et numérotée.

- SIGMA (SIGMA169) 4xCD

THE MALCOLM JONES TAPE COMPILED: EARLY 1980S. [SECOND GENERATION CASSETTE. SOURCE #1]
- Love You [Take 1. April 11, 1969]
- Love You [Take 2. April 11, 1969]
- Long Gone [Take 1. July 26, 1969]
- Lanky (Part 2) [Take 1. May 14, 1968]
- Clowns And Jugglers [Take 1. July 20, 1968]
- Clowns And Jugglers [Take 3. April 25/ May 3, 1969]
- Opel [Take 9. April 11, 1969]
- Silas Lang (Swan Lee) [Take 1. June 8/July 20, 1968]
- Swan Lee [Take 5. April 10, 1969]
- Untitled Instrumental [Unknown Take. Unknown Date]
Second Generation Cassette. Source #2
- Love You [Take 1. April 11, 1969]
- Love You [Take 2. April 11, 1969]
- Long Gone [Take 1. July 26, 1969]
- Lanky (Part 2) [Take 1. May 14, 1968]
- Clowns And Jugglers [Take 1. July 20, 1968]
- Octopus [Take 11. June 12, 1969]
- Clowns And Jugglers [Take 3. April 25/ May 3, 1969]
- Opel [Take 9. April 11, 1969]
- Swan Lee [Take 1. June 8/July 20, 1968]
- Swan Lee [Take 5. April 10, 1969]
- Untitled Instrumental [Unknown Take. Unknown Date]
MALCOLM JONES ROUGH MIXES. EMI REEL 76037Z STUDIO 3. EMI STUDIOS, ABBEY ROAD, ST. JOHN'S WOOD. LONDON COMPILED: AUGUST 18, 1987 [FIRST GENERATION CASSETTE. 1987]
- Wouldn't You Miss Me [Take 1. July 26, 1969]
- Swan Lee (Silas Lang) [Take 5. May 28, June 8, 1968, April 10, 1969]
- Scream Thy Last Scream [Take 4. August 7, 1967]
- Vegetable Man [Unknown Take. October 9-12, 1967]
- She Took A Long Cold Look At Me [Take 5. July 26, 1969]

Disc 3
BOB HARRIS 'SOUNDS OF THE SEVENTIES'. BBC RADIO 1. STUDIO S1, BBC TRANSCRIPTION SERVICE, KENSINGTON HOUSE, SHEPHERD'S BUSH LONDON RECORDED: FEBRUARY 16, 1971 TRANSMITTED: MARCH 1, 1971 [SPEED CORRECTED RESTORATION]
- Baby Lemonade
- Dominoes
- Love Song
PHIL SMEE / BRIAN HOGG 'OPEL' REMIXES ROOM 77A, EMI STUDIOS, ABBEY ROAD, ST. JOHN'S WOOD. LONDON COMPILED: AUGUST 17, 1988 [SECOND GENERATION ABBEY ROAD REAL TIME CASSETTE COPY. 1988]
- Opel [Take 9. April 11, 1969]
- Clowns And Jugglers [Take 2. July 20, 1968, April 10. 1969.
Take 3. April 25, 1969, May, 3, 1969]
- Swan Lee (Silas Lang) [Take 5. May 28, June 8, 1968, April 10, 1969]
- Untitled (Words) [Take 1. July 21, 1970]
- Birdy Hop [Take 1. June 7, 1970]
- Rats [Take 1. June 7, 1970]
- Wined And Dined [Take 1. June 7, 1970]
- Wined And Dined [Take 1. June 7, 1970]
- Milky Way [Take 5. June 7, 1970]
- Golden Hair [Remake Take 6. June 12, 1969]
- Golden Hair [Remake Take 6. June 12, 1969. More Echo]
- Lanky (Part One) [Take 1. May 14, 1968]
- Golden Hair [Take 1. May 14, 1968]
- Golden Hair [Take 1. May 14, 1968]
- Dolly Rocker [Take 1. July 14, 1970]
- Let's Split [Takes 1/2. July 14, 1970]
- Wouldn't You Miss Me (Dark Globe) [Take 1. July 26, 1969]
BOB HARRIS SOUNDS OF THE SEVENTIES. BBC RADIO 1. STUDIO S1, BBC TRANSCRIPTION SERVICE, KENSINGTON HOUSE, SHEPHERD'S BUSH. LONDON RECORDED: FEBRUARY 16, 1971 TRANSMITTED: MARCH 1, 1971 [ALTERNATE SOURCE]
- Love Song

Disc 4
EMI STUDIOS, ABBEY ROAD, ST. JOHN'S WOOD. LONDON, 24TH NOVEMBER 1992 [THE 'CRAZY DIAMOND' REMIXES]
- Baby Lemonade [Take 1. February 26, 1970]
- Baby Lemonade [Take 1. February 26, 1970. Edit Section For End]
- Maisie [Take 1. February 26, 1970]
- Maisie [Take 2. February 26, 1970]
- Gigolo Aunt [Take 9. February 27, 1970]
- Waving My Arms In The Air / I Never Lied To You [Take 1. April 2, 1970]
- It Is Obvious [Take 1. July 22, 1970]
- It Is Obvious [Take 2. July 22, 1970]
- It Is Obvious [Take 3. July 22, 1970]
- It Is Obvious [Take 5. July 22, 1970]
- Love Song [Take 1. July 14, 1970]
- Dominoes [Take 1. July 14, 1970]
- Dominoes [Take 2. July 14, 1970]
- Clowns And Jugglers (Octopus) [Take 1. July 20, 1968]
- Late Night [Take 2. May 21, 1968]
- Golden Hair [Take 2. May 14/28, 1968. Renumbered Take 5. June 8/20/27, July 20, 1968]
- Octopus [Take 1. June 12, 1969]
- Octopus [Take 2. June 12, 1969]
- Love You [Take 1. April 11, 1969]
- Love You [Take 3. April 11, 1969]
- It's No Good Trying [Take 3. April 11, 1969]

> Zoom

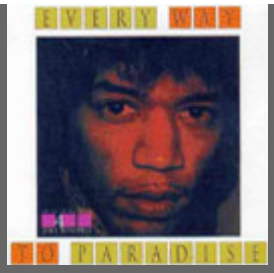
The Canterbury Tapes
1994

Kevin Ayers/Caravan/ Hatfield & The North

Disc 1
KEVIN AYERS
- M16
- There Goes Johnny
- Something In Between
- Irene Good Night
HATFIELD & THE NORTH
- Fitter Stoke Has A Bath|Calyx
- Let's Eat (Real Soon)
- Do The Lethargy Shuffle (yea yea)| Your Majesty is Like a Cream Donut
- Oh, What A Lonely Lifetime
- Shaving Is Boring|Licks For The Ladies
- Your Majesty Is Like A Cream Donut|Going Up to People and Tinkling|Calyx|Your Majesty Is Like a Cream Donut (Loud)

Disc 2
CARAVAN
- Hello Hello
- If I Could Do It All Over Again, I'd Do It All Over You
- As I Feel I Die
- Love Song Without Flute
- Love To Love You
- In The Land Of Grey And Pink
- Memory Lain, Hugh
- L'auberge Du Sanglier (A Hunting We Shall Go/Backwards)
KEVIN AYERS
- Shooting At The Moon
- Gemini Child
- Derby Day
- Another Whimsical Song
- The Hat Song
- I'm Gonna Cry For You (Trying Hard To Know)

- Robert Wyatt - drums, vocals



- Kevin Ayers - guitar, bass, vocals
- Lyn Dobson - flute
- David Bedford - piano
- Lol Coxhill - soprano sax
- Nick Evans - trombone
- Elton Dean - alto sax
- Hugh Hopper - bass
- Mike Ratledge - organ

Top Gear - 10 février 1970.

- OH BOY (2-9031) 2xCD

Jimi Hendrix

- The Thing I Used To Do
- Untitled Jam
- Ain't Too Proud To Beg

Every Way To Paradise - Vol. IV
(?)

- Shame Shame Shame1
- Jungle Jam
- Jazz Jimi Jazz
- Little One (Take One)
- Little One (Take Two)
- Demo Outtake (With Robert Wyatt)
- Gloomy Monday (Takes 1 & 2)

> Zoom

Colours Of The Day
1994

Kevin Ayers And The Whole Wide World

- Oyster And the Flying Fish
- Lady Rachel
- We Did It Again
- Hat Song
- Clarence In Wonderland
- Rheinhardt And Geraldine|Colores Para Dolores
- Why Are We Sleeping
- Garden Of Love
- Gemini Child
- Trying Hard To Know
- Hat Song

Tracks 1-6:
Gemeendecentrum, Drijbergen, Hollande - 30 juillet 1970
- Robert Wyatt - drums
- Kevin Ayers - guitar, vocals
- David Bedford - keyboards
- Lol Coxhill - saxos ,vocals
- Mike Oldfield - bass, guitar
- Bridget St. John - vocals on Oyster and the Flying Fish
- Unidentified audience member - flute, vocals on Rheinhardt And Geraldine/Colores and Para Dolores

Track 8:
Queen Elizabeth Hall, Londres 26 septembre 1970
- Robert Wyatt - drums, percussion
- Kevin Ayers - guitar, vocals
- David Bedford - keyboards
- Lol Coxhill - saxos
- Mike Oldfield - bass
- The London Sinfonietta

Version complète jouée dans Garden Of Love.

Track 11:
Top Gear - 10 février 1970
(même formation)

- NO LABEL (KA-17-94-01) CD

> Zoom

Southeby Reel
(?)

Soft Machine/Jimi Hendrix

- Soft Machine Jam 1
- Castles Made Of Sand
- Spanish Castle Magic
- Instrumental Jam 1
- Have You Ever Been (Electric Ladyland) (inst)
- Wait Until Tomorrow
- Instrumental Jam 2
- Instrumental Jam 3
- One Rainy Wish
- Soft Machine Jam 2
- Soft Machine Jam 3
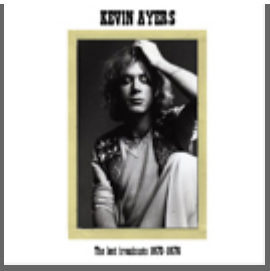
- She's So Fine
- Bold As Love
- Belly Button Window
- Instrumental Jam 4



Soft Machine and Jimi Hendrix recorded in the studio 1967/68.

La présence de Soft Machine (et donc de Robert Wyatt) sur cet album est très controversée.

Kevin Ayers

Disc 1
31 MARCH 1970 TAVERNE DE L'OLYMPIA, PARIS, FRANCE. RECORDED AND FILMED FOR "POP 2"

- Robert Wyatt - drums

> Zoom

The Lost Broadcats 1970-1976
(2013 ?)

TV PROGRAM
- Eleonor's Cake Which Ate Her
- Clarence In Wonderland
- Improvisation
- Clarence Reprise
- Why Are We Sleeping
20 MAY 1970 ALAN BLACK SHOW, BBC STUDIOS, LONDON
- Rheinhardt And Geraldine (cut)
31 JANUARY 1971 BBC RADIO ONE IN CONCERT BRIDGET ST JOHN SESSION WITH GUEST KEVIN AYERS
- Jolie Madame
- The Spider And The Fly
- The Oyster And The Flying Fish
20 MARCH 1972 "MUSIC ALIVE", EDUCATION TV STUDIOS, LONDON
- Hymn
- Collective Improvisation
04 APRIL 1972 "OLD GREY WHISTLE TEST" TV SESSION, BBC STUDIOS, LONDON
- May I
- Oh My

Disc 2
20 SEPTEMBER 1972 BBC IN CONCERT, RECORDED AT HAMPSTEAD THEATRE, LONDON. EXTRACT FROM THE "BANANA FOLLIES" SHOW
- Marlene
14 DECEMBER 1972 FACULTE DE NANTERRE, FRANCE RECORDED FOR "ROCKENSTOCK"* AND "POP 2"# TV PROGRAMS
- Stranger In Blue Suede shoes* (soundcheck, with fake applause at the beginning)
- Why Are We Sleeping* (soundcheck)
- Why Are We Sleeping# (in concert - with the guitar solo at the end taken from another unidentified song)
18 MAY 1973 OLD GREY WHISTLE TEST TV SESSION, BBC STUDIOS, LONDON
- Shouting In A Bucket Blues
- Oh What A Dream
9 JULY 1974 JOHN PEEL SHOW, BBC STUDIOS, LONDON
- Thank You Very Much
AUGUST 1974 LONDON CAPITOL RADIO
- Thank You Very Much
- Piano Duet With Brian
- Lady Rachel
- Goodnite

Disc 3
24 FEBRUARY 1975 SALLE WAGRAM, PARIS. FRANCE INTER RADIO BROADCAST
- La Ville De Paris
- Stranger In Blue Suede Shoes
- The Hat Song
- Interview
- The Confessions Of Doctor Dream (a) Invitation b) The one chance dance c) Doctor Dream theme)
19 AUGUST 1976 POSTAULA, BREMEN, WEST GERMANY. RADIO BREMEN BROADCAST
- May I ?
- Whatevershebringswesing
- Shouting In A Bucket Blues
- Observations
- The Lady Rachel
- Blue
- Mr Cool

- Kevin Ayers - vocals, guitar
- David Bedford- keyboards
- Lol Coxhill - sax

- NO LABEL - Digital Format

> Zoom

Guest Experience
(?)

Jimi Hendrix

- Rock And Roll Band
- Yes I Need Someone
- The Clown
- Morning Glory
- Mr Guy Fawkes
- Captive In The Sun
- Let Me Stay
- Someone Is Sure To (Want You)
- So Much
- Ex Art Student
- Doriella Du Fontaine
- The Everlasting First
- Slow Walking Talk
- Live And Let Die

The Clown est extrait de Sun Rise.

- WESTWOOD ONE (77) CD

> Zoom

TTG Studios October 1968
(?)

The Jimi Hendrix Experience

Disc 1 - 16 or 17 October 1968
- (JS 10) Jam #5 (12 Bar in E)
- (JS 11) Jam #6 in E
- (JS 12) I Just Wanna Make Love To You
- (JS 6) Jam #1 - 12 Bar Blues In D
- (JS 7) Jam #2 in D
- (JS 8) Jam #3
- Sunshine Of Your Love
- (JS 9) Jam #4 in D
- Sunshine Of Your Love

Disc 2 - October 1968
- (JS 31) Jam #4
- (JS2) Isabella (18 Oct.)
- (JS1) Jam
- (JS 4) Jam
- Calling All Devil's Children (21 Oct.)
- Calling All Devil's Children (21 Oct.)
- Calling All Devil's Children (21 Oct.)
- (JS 14) (21 Oct.)
- Hear My Freedom (21 Oct.)
- Electric Church (21 Oct.)
- Look Over Yonder (22 Oct.)
- The New Rising Sun (23 Oct.)

Disc 3 - October 1968
- Peace In Mississippi (24 Oct.)
- Slow Walkin' Talk (25 Oct.)
- (JS 28) Jam #1 (27 Oct.?)
- (JS 29) Jam #2 (27 Oct.?)
- (JS 30) Jam #3 (27 Oct.?)
- Everything's Gonna Be Alright
- Lover Man (Intro) (29 Oct.)
- Lover Man (29 Oct.)
- Lover Man (29 Oct.)
- Session Thing (29 Oct.)

Disc 4 - October 1968
- Gloria (29 Oct.)
- Red House (29 Oct.)
- Let Me Stay
- Magic Carpet
- Morning Glory
- Mr. Guy Fawkes
- Yes I Need Someone
- Someone Is Sure To (Want You)
- The Clown
- Captive In The Sun

Alternate Mixes
- Look Over Yonder (Rainbow Bridge LP Mix)
- Gloria (The Jimi Hendrix Experience LP Boxset Mix)
- Red House (:Blues CD Mix)
- Gloria (Unedited)

DISC 3 - Jam #2 + Jam #3 + Everything Gonna Be Alright :
- Robert Wyatt - drums
- Jimi hendrix - guitar
- Zoot Money - piano
- Andy Summers - bass

All tracks recorded at Studio B, TTG Studios, 1441 N. McCadden Street, Hollywood, California, USA.

- NO LABEL (ATM180 - ATM181 - ATM182 - ATM183) 4xCD

> Zoom

Old Machine
1988

Soft Machine

- Out-Bloody-Rageous
- Eamonn Andrews
- All White
- King And Queens
- Teeth
- LBO
- 10:30 Returns To The Bedroom (Esther's Nose Job)
- Facelift
- Love Makes Sweet Music
- Feelin' Reelin' Squeelin'

- Robert Wyatt - vocal, drums

- Mike Ratledge - piano, organ, keyboards
- Hugh Hopper - bass on 1-8
- Elton Dean - sax, electric piano on 1-8
- Kevin Ayers - bass, vocal on 9-10
- David Allen - guitar on 9-10

Tracks 1-8:
Bremen, 23 mars 1971

Tracks 9 & 10:
Debut single 1967

Les 8 premiers titres sont présents sur Virtually.

> Zoom

Col Ballroom
1983 (?)

Soft Machine

- Lullaby Letter|Priscilla|Lullaby Letter (reprise)
- We Did It Again
- Why Are We Sleeping?
- Joy Of A Toy
- Hope For Happiness
- Clarence In Wonderland
- Moon In June
- Esthers Nose Job
- Excerpt ? (edit)
- New York City Radio Improv (1)
- New York City Radio Improv (2)

- COLLECTOR RECORD LTD - LP & CD

1968 August 11 - Col Ballroom, Davenport, Iowa, Usa,

These recordings are presented with these comments :
Improv (1) is an impro on the theme We Did It Again.
Improv (2) is certainly not live. Mislabeled thus. This is actually an early version of The Moon In June, which is itself based on an early unreleased demo song from 67 called That Is How I Love You.
From the vynil pops and the barely audible lyrics, I'd guess this is from an untouched rip of the acetate version. Wyatt plays all instruments on the first part [NY session], the second part attached is from a London session with the whole band.

NO LABEL - Digital Format

> Zoom

Queen Of The Moon
2001

Soft Machine

Disc 1
- Lullabye Letter
- We Did It Again
- Why Are We Sleeping?
- Joy Of A Toy
- Hope For Happiness
- Clarence In Wonderland
- You Don't Remember
- Organ solo|Collective Improvisation
- 10.30 Returns To Bedroom (inc. "Plus Belle Qu'une Poubelle")
- We Know What You Mean
- Hope For Happiness
- Certain Kind
- I Should've Known

Disc 2
- Clarence In Wonderland
- We Know What You Mean
- Untitled Instrumental
- Hope For Happiness
- Organ Solo
- That's How Much I Need You Now
- I Should've Known
- Certain Kind
- Save Yourself
- Lullabye Letter

- Robert Wyatt - drums, vocals

- Mike Ratledge - keyboards
- Kevin Ayers - bass, vocals
guitar on You don't Remember (?)

Recorded at:

Disc 1 / 1-7:
Col Ballroom, Davenport, Iowa, USA, 11 août 1968

Disc 1 / 8-10:
Aeolian Hall, BBC Top Gear Recording, 5 déc. 1967

Disc 1 / 11:
De Lane Lea, UK, Apr.1967

Disc 2 / 1-5:
Middle Earth, London, 10 novembre 1967

Disc 2 / 6-10:
Concertgebouw, Amsterdam, Holland, 10 déc. 1967.

- PEACE FROG (PF-126D) 2xCD

> Zoom 1 2 3

Soft Machine '69

Soft Machine

- Hulloder
- Dada Was Here
- Thank You Pierrot Lunaire
- Have You Ever Been Green
- Pataphysical Introduction
- As Long As She Perfectly Still
- Hibou Anemone And Bear
- Fire Engine Passing
- Pig
- Orange Skin Food
- A Door Opens
- 10:30 Returns To The Bedroom

- Robert Wyatt - drums, vocals

- Mike Ratledge - organ, electric piano
- Hugh Hopper - bass

Recorded live at Paradiso, Amsterdam, 29/3/1969.

- PRISCILLA RECORDS (4505) LP

Limited Edition
(1971 or 1972 ?)

> Zoom

1994

Soft Machine (Live & Demos)

- Hulloder
Dada Was Here
Thank You Pierrot Lunaire
Have You Ever Bean Green 5
Pataphysical Introduction
As Long As He Lies Perfectly Still
Hibou Anemone And Bear
Fire Engine Passing
Pig
Orange Skin Ood
Door Opens
10:30 Returns To The Bedroom
- Soon, Soon, Soon (bonus)
- So Boot If At All (bonus)
- That's How Much I Need You Now (bonus)
- Save Yourself (bonus)
- When I Don't Want You (bonus)
- You Don't Remember (bonus)

- Robert Wyatt - drums, vocals

- Hugh Hopper - bass on 1
- Mike Ratledge - organ piano
- Kevin Ayers - bass, vocals on 2-7
- Daevid Allen - guitar on 4-7

40 Minutes Live Set enregistré au Paradiso, Amsterdam en 1969, plus Six Demo Tracks datant de 1967 :

Track 1:
recorded live At Paradiso, March 29, 1969 (tous les morceaux du Paradiso sont enchaînés sur une seule plage du CD)

Tracks 2 & 3:
recorded at Vitus Studios, Bussum, Holland on September 22, 1967

Tracks 4-7:
recorded at De Lane Lee Studios in April 1967 (Jet Propelled sessions)

- MPG RECORDS (MPG74033) CD

> Zoom

Turn On Paradiso
1988

The Soft Machine

- Hulloder
- Dada Was Here
- Thank You Pierrot Lunaire
- Have You Ever Been Green?
- Pataphysical Introduction Pt2
- As Long As He Lies Perfectly Still
- Fire Engine Passing With Bells Clanging
- Hibou, Anemone And Bear
- Fire Engine Passing With Bells Clanging (reprise)
- Pig
- Orange Skin Food
- A Door Opens And Closes
- 10.30 Returns To Bedroom

- Robert Wyatt - drums, vocals

- Mike Ratledge - organ, electric piano
- Hugh Hopper - bass

Recorded live at Paradiso, Amsterdam, 29/3/1969.

- AMAZING DISCS (CDLP4505) CD

> Zoom

Live At The Paradiso
2002

Soft Machine

- Hulloder
- Dada Was Here
- Thank You Pierrot Lunaire
- Have You Ever Been Green?
- Pataphysical Introduction Pt2
- As Long As He Lies Perfectly Still
- Fire Engine Passing With Bells Clanging
- Hibou, Anemone And Bear
- Fire Engine Passing With Bells Clanging (reprise)
- Pig
- Orange Skin Food
- A Door Opens And Closes
- 10.30 Returns To Bedroom

- Robert Wyatt - vocal, drums

- Mike Ratledge - keyboards
- Hugh Hopper - bass

Recorded live at Paradiso, Amsterdam, 29/3/1969.

- TURNING POINT (TMP-02212) LP

> Zoom

William
1991

Soft Machine

- Pig,
- Orange Skin Food
- A Door Opens And Closes
- 10.30 Returns To Bedroom
- Hulloder
- Dada Was Here
- Thank You Pierrot Lunaire
- Have You Ever Been Green?
- Pataphysical Introduction Pt2,
- As Long As He Lies Perfectly Still
- Fire Engine Passing With Bells Clanging
- Hibou, Anemone And Bear
- Fire Engine Passing With Bells Clanging (reprise)

- Robert Wyatt - drums, vocals

- Mike Ratledge - organ, electric piano
- Hugh Hopper - bass

Enregistré Live au Paradiso Amsterdam, Hollande,, 29 mars 1969.

- AULICA (CT203) CD

> Zoom 1 2

Moon In June
1989

Soft Machine

- Moon In June
- Esther's Nose Job
- Slightly All The Time|Out Bloody Rageous|Eamonn Andrews

- Robert Wyatt - drums, vocals

- Mike Ratledge - organ, electric piano
- Hugh Hopper - bass
- Elton Dean - alto sax, saxello (2 & 3)

Enregistrés Live à :
- Maida Vale, London, 10 juin 1969 (1)
- Maida Vale, London, 10 nov. 1969 (2)
- Maida Vale, London, 4 mai 1970. (3).

- AULICA (A104) CD

> Zoom 1 2

Transition
2020

Soft Machine

- Ester's Nose Job
- Dedicated To You But You Weren't Listening
- Slightly All The Time
- Hazard Profile
- Eamonn Andrews
- As If
- Improvisation / Teeth
- Hibou, Anemone And Bear
- Spaced 2
- Pigling Bland / Facelift / Hibou, Anemone And Bear

- Robert Wyatt - drums, vocals

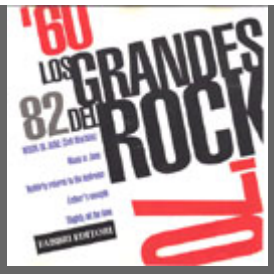
- Mike Ratledge - Lowrey organ, Hohner pianet
- Hugh Hopper - bass
- Elton Dean - alto sax
- Lyn Dobson - soprano sax
- Mark Charig - cornet
- Nick Evans - trombone

Track 8 - Hibou Anemone and Bear : March 1969

Track 9 - Space 2 : June 1969 from Mark Boyle film Beyond Image.

Track 10 - Pigling Bland... : November 28, 1969 - Europe 1 Studios, Paris.

Studio Outtakes and Lives Broadcats Compilation.



- HIGHLAND PROJECT (HLP-183) CD

Soft Machine

- Moon In June
- Tenthirty Returns To The Bedroom
- Esther's Nose Job
- Slightly All The Time

Track 1:
Londres, 10-6-1969 (BBC version)

Track 2:

> Zoom

Los Grandes Del Rock
1993

Amsterdam, 2-2-1969

Tracks 3 & 4:
Londres, 10-6-1969

Material extraido de colecciones privadas, grabadas durante actuaciones en publico.

- FABBRI EDITORI - CD

> Zoom

Live
1990

Soft Machine

- Moon In June
- Facelift
Mousetrap
Backwards
Mousetrap (Reprise)
- Slightly All The Time
Out Bloody Rageous
Eamonn Andrews

- Robert Wyatt - drums, vocals

- Mike Ratledge - organ, electric piano, flute
- Hugh Hopper - bass, alto sax
- Elton Dean - alto sax, saxello (3)
- Brian Hopper, soprano sax (2)

Enregistrés Live à :
- Maida Vale, London, 10 juin 1969 (1 et 2)
- Maida Vale, London, 4 mai 1970 (3).

- OH BOY (1-9025) CD

> Zoom 1 2

Kralingen Pop Festival
(?)

Soft Machine

- Mardi Gras Day (Dr. John)
- Drowned In Wine (Family)
- Human Condition (Canned Heat)
- So Sad (Canned Heat)
- Giants (Quintessence)
- Set The Controls For The Heart Of The Sun (Pink Floyd)
- Saucerful Of Secrets (Pink Floyd)
- Esther's Nose Job (Soft Machine)
- Saturday Afternoon (Jefferson Airplane)
- White Rabbit (Jefferson Airplane)
- Ballad of You & Me & Pooneil (Jefferson Airplane)
- Big Bird (Flock)
- Bulgaria (It's a Beautiful Day)
- Wasted Union Blues (It's A Beautiful Day)
- Freedom is a... (Country Joe McDonald)
- Savor/Jingo (Santana)

- Robert Wyatt - drums

- Mike Ratledge - organ
- Hugh Hopper - bass
- Elton Dean - sax

Kralingen Pop Festival, Rotterdam, Hollande - 28 juin 1970.

- MATRIX (SCH-1/P-1970) CD

> Zoom 1 2

Soft Machine

Disc 1
- Uncle Sam Blues (Hot Tuna)
- Instrumental, Black Magic Woman (Santana)
- Somebody To Love (Jefferson Airplane)
- Air (Exception)
- The Pentangle
- Tyrannosaurus Rex

Disc 2
- You Ain't Going Nowhere, My Back Pages, Doing What You Want Me To Do, Jesus Is Just Alright, All The Things,

- Robert Wyatt - drums

- Mike Ratledge - organ
- Hugh Hopper - bass
- Elton Dean - sax

Kralingen Pop Festival, Rotterdam, Hollande - 28 juin 1970.

- WILD THING RECORD (KRCD17-7753) 3xLP

Kralingen
(?)

Rock 'N' Roll Star (The Byrds)
- When The Saints Come Marching In (Dr John)
- Country Joe McDonald
- It's A Beautiful Day

Disc 3
- Out-Bloody-Rageous (Soft Machine)
- Set The Controls For The Heart Of The Sun, Atom Heart Mother (Pink Floyd)

> Zoom

Stamping Ground Festival
1990

Soft Machine

Disc 1
- Dust my blues (Cuby & The Blizzards)
- Human Condition (Canned Heat)
- So Sad (Canned Heat)
- Big Road Blues (Livin' Blues)
- Zero She File (Al Stewart)
- Giants (Quintessence)
- The Sun Of East (East of Eden)
- Irish Theme (East of Eden)
- Freedom (Country Joe McDonald)
- Mardi Gras Day (Dr. John & The Night Trippers)
- Drowned In Wine (Family)

Disc 2
- Gumbo (Santana)
- Savor (Santana)
- Jingo (Santana)
- White Rabbit (Jefferson Airplane)
- Ballad Of You And Me & Poonell (Jefferson Airplane)
- Wasted Union Blues (It's a Beautiful Day)
- Bulgaria (It's a Beautiful Day)
- Pavillons Of Sun (T.Rex)
- Old Blue (Byrds)
- Big Bird (The Flock)
- Easter's Nose Job (Soft Machine)
- Set The Control To The Heart Of The Sun (Pink Floyd)
- A Saucerful Of Secrets (Pink Floyd)

- Robert Wyatt - drums

- Mike Ratledge - organ
- Hugh Hopper - bass
- Elton Dean - sax

Kralingen Pop Festival, Rotterdam, Hollande - 28 juin 1970.

- AULICA (A-2102/2) 2xCD

> Zoom

> Zoom

Live at Royal Albert Hall in London
on 13th August 1970
2014

Soft Machine

- Out-Bloody Rageous
- Facelift
- Esther's Nosejob
- Pig
- Orange Skin Food
- A Door Opens And Closes
- Pigling Bland
- 10-30 Returns To The Bedroom

- Robert Wyatt - drums, voice

- Mike Ratledge - keyboards
- Hugh Hopper - bass
- Elton Dean - alto saxophone, saxello

Live At Royal Albert Hall In London On 13th August 1970.

Limited edition (500 copies).
Existe en vinyl vert - édition limitée.

- B13 (B218) LP

> Zoom

Live At Royal Albert Hall In London
On 13th August 1970
2019

The Soft Machine

- Out-Bloody Rageous
- Facelift
- Esther's Nosejob
- Pig
- Orange Skin Food
- A Door Opens And Closes
- Pigling Bland
- 10-30 Returns To The Bedroom

- Robert Wyatt - drums, voice

- Mike Ratledge - keyboards
- Hugh Hopper - bass
- Elton Dean - alto saxophone, saxello

Live At Royal Albert Hall In London On 13th August 1970.

- DBQP (DBQP29) LP

> Zoom

In Concert
1990

Soft Machine

- Blind Badger
- Neo-Caliban
Out-Bloody-Rageous,
- Eamonn Andrews
All White
Kings And Queens
Teeth
Pigling Bland,
- Feelin'Reelin'Squeelin'
- I'm So Low (Jet Propelled Photographs aka Shooting At The Moon)

- Robert Wyatt - drums, vocals

- Mike Ratledge - organ, electric piano
- Hugh Hopper - bass
- Elton Dean - alto sax, saxello
- Mark Charig - cornet
- Ronnie Scott - tenor sax
- Paul Nieman - trombone
- Roy Babington - bass

Tracks 1-3:
Paris Theatre, London,
11 mars 1971

Track 4:
Olympic Sound, 5 février 1967

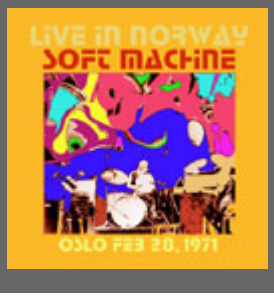
Track 5:
Demos sessions, avril 1967.

- OH BOY (1-9018) CD

> Zoom

Roundhouse 1971
(?)

Soft Machine



- Improv
- Facelift
- Virtually,
- Slightly All The Time
- Fletcher"s Blemish/Out-Bloody-Rageous
- Hope For Happiness
- Eamonn Andrews
- All White/Kings And Queens/Teeth
- Pigling Bland,
- 10:30 Returns To The Bedroom/Noisette

- Robert Wyatt - drums, vocals

- Mike Ratledge - keyboards, piano
- Hugh Hopper - bass
- Elton Dean - saxophones, piano

Live At The Roundhouse, Camden, London, UK - 7th February 1971.

- WINDMILL (080) ?

Soft Machine

Part 1
- Facelift|Virtually|Slightly All The Time|Fletcher's Blemish
Part 2
- Neo-Caliban Grides|Out-Bloody-Rageous|Eamonn Andrews|All White|Kings And QueensTeeth|Pigling Bland

- Robert Wyatt - drums, vocals

- Mike Ratledge - Hohner pianet, organ & electric piano
- Hugh Hopper - bass
- Elton Dean - alto sax, saxello, electric piano, piano

Hovikodden, Oslo Feb 28, 1971.

> Zoom

Live In Norway
(?)

- ELASTIC ROCK (ER008)
  Digital Format

> Zoom

Breda 1971
2008

Soft Machine

Disc 1
- Facelift
- Virtually,
- Slightly All The Time
- Fletcher"s Blemish

Disc 2
- Neo Caliban Grides
- Out-Bloody-Rageous
- Vocal Improvisation
- Eamonn Andrews
- All White
- Kings And Queens
- Teeth
- Pigling Bland
- Noisette

- Robert Wyatt - drums, vocals

- Mike Ratledge - keyboards, piano
- Hugh Hopper - bass
- Elton Dean - saxophones, piano

Live At Turfschip, Breda, Netherlands - 21st March 1971.

- GRAVY TRAIN (001) ?

> Zoom

Live At Henie Onstad Art Centre Oslo
1971
2022

Soft Machine

- Facelift/Virtually
- Slightly All The Time/Fletcher"s Blemish

Excerpt from the concert Live At Henie Onstad Art Centre Oslo - Norway, February 28th, 1971.

- DBQP (52) LP

> Zoom

Live At The Berliner Jazztage Festival, November 4, 1971
(?)

Don SugarCane Harris

- Liz Pineapple Wonderful
- Sugar Cane's Got The Blues
- Song For My Father
- Where's My Sunshine
- It's Not My Fault
- Moog Solo
- Been Down So Long

- Robert Wyatt - drums

- Don Harris - electric violin, vocals
- Volker Kriegel - guitar
- Terje Rypdal -guitar on Song for My Father
- Wolfgang Dauner - keyboards
- Neville Whitehead - bass

Recorded live at the Berlin Jazz Festival, Berlin Philharmonic Hall, November 4, 1971.

Les 3 derniers morceaux sont absents de l'album "officiel" Sugar Cane's Got The Blues.

- NO LABEL - Digital Format

SugarCane Harris - Jean-Luc Ponty

- Lost Sunshine
- Sugar's Blues

- Robert Wyatt - drums on tracks 1, 2 and 3

> Zoom

Absolutely Live
(?)

- Rock My Soal
- Freak Out Violin

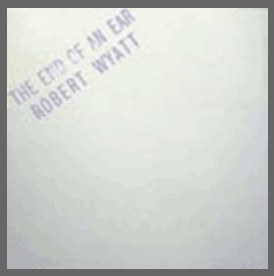
- Don "Sugarcane" Harris - electric violin on tracks 1,2 and 3
- Jean-Luc Ponty - electric violin on track 4
- Nipso Brantner - electric violin on track 3
- Volker Kriegel - guitar on tracks 1 and 2
- Terje Rypdal -guitar on track 3
- Wolfgang Dauner - keyboards on tracks 1, 2 and 3
- Neville Whitehead - bass on tracks 1, 2 and 3.

Recorded at Berlin Jazz Festival, Germany, November 1971.

- Track 1 is actually Where's My Sunshine
- Track 2 is actually Sugar Cane's Got the Blues
- Track 3 is actually Got My Mojo Working
- Track 4 is actually Flipping

- BOOTS PRODUCTIONS (Ru1/Ru2) LP

> Zoom



The End Of An Ear
1980

Robert Wyatt

- Las Vegas Tango Part 1 (Repeat)
- To Mark Everywhere
- To Saintly Bridget
- To Oz Alien Daevyd And Gilly
- To Nick Everyone
- To Caravan And Brother Jim
- To The Old World (Thank You For The Use Of Your Body, Goodbye)
- To Carla, Marsha And Caroline (For Making Everything Beautifuller)
- Las Vegas Tango Part 1s

Première édition pirate vinyl (d'origine italienne ?) du 1er album solo de R. Wyatt.

NO LABEL - LP

The End Of An Ear (2)
(?)

Robert Wyatt

- The End Of An Ear (side A)
- The End Of An Ear (side B)
- Soprano Derivativo/Apricot Jam
- Shipbuilding
- Love Makes Sweet Music
- Feelin' Reelin' Squeelin'

Shipbuilding a été enregistré le 3 juin 1983 au "The Old Grey Whistle Test " avec:

- Robert Wyatt - voca
l
- Clive Langer - organ
- Mark Bedford - bass
- Kiernan O'Connor - drums
- Nick Clyfus - piano

NO LABEL - LP

> Zoom

Robert Wyatt

- Las Vegas Tango Part 1 (Repeat)
- To Mark Everywhere
- To Saintly Bridget
- To Oz Alien Daevyd And Gilly
- To Nick Everyone
- To Caravan And Brother Jim
- To The Old World (Thank You For The Use Of Your Body, Goodbye)
- To Carla, Marsha And Caroline (For Making Everything Beautifuller)
- Las Vegas Tango Part 1

- RACE RECORDS (1001) LP

The End Of An Ear (3)
1979

> Zoom

Pataphysical Machine
1995

Matching Mole

- Lything And Gracing (Brandy As In Benj|Marchides
- Marchides|Instant Pussy
- Instant Pussy
- Smoke Signal
- Part Of The Dance

- Robert Wyatt - vocal, drums

- Phil Miller - guitar
- Dave Macrae - electric piano
- Bill Maccormick - bass

Olympia, Paris. 15 mai 1972.

- CANTERBURY DREAM (CTD-019) CD

Paris 72
2001

Matching Mole

- Improvisation
- Nan True's Hole
- Starting In The Middle Of The Day We Can Drink Our Politics Away
- Marchides
- Instant Pussy
- Smoke Signal
- Part Of The Dance
- Robert Wyatt Interview

- Robert Wyatt - drums, vocals

- Phil Miller - guitar
- Bill MacCormick - bass
- Dave McRae - electric piano

Enregistré Live à l'Olympia, Paris, France, 15 mai 1972.

- ECLIPSE (EC006) ?

> Zoom 1 2

May 15, 1972 - Olympia, Paris
2010 (?)

Matching Mole

- Starting In The Middle Of The Day We Can Drink Our Politics Away
- Marchhides
- Instant Pussy
- Smoke Signals
- Part Of The Dance

- Robert Wyatt - drums, vocals

- Phil Miller - guitar
- Bill MacCormick - bass
- Dave McRae - electric piano

1972-05-15 - Olympia, Paris.

- NO LABEL - CD

> Zoom

Live 1972
2003

Matching Mole

- Part Of The Dance
- March Ides
- March Ides 2
- Instant Pussy
- Smoke Signals
- Instant Kitten
- Dedicated To You But You Weren't Listening
- Instant Pussy
- Lything And Gracing
- Organ Solo
- March Ides
- Part Of The Dance
- Untitled Track

- Robert Wyatt - vocal, drums

- Phil Miller - guitar
- Dave Macrae - electric piano
- Bill Maccormick - bass

- PHAT CAT RECORDS (?)

- Nan True's Hole
- Brandy As In Benj

> Zoom

Kings Cross Cinema 1972
2025

Matching Mole

- Improvisation 1
- Improvisation 2
- Improvisation 2
- Jazz Improvisation

Sous des intitulés paresseux Improvisation (?) se cachent en réalité : Gloria Gloom, Part of the Dance, Marchides, Instant Pussy et Smoke Signal suivis par ce qui ressemble à une jam en rappel.

Recorded Live at Kings Cross Cinema - London, UK, July 8th 1972.

- NO LABEL - CD

> Zoom

Canterbury Anthology - Vol. 10
2006

Matching Mole

- Marchides
- Gloria Gloom
- March Ides 2
- Instant Pussy
- March
- Instant Pussy
- Lything And Gracing
- Organ Solo
- March Ides
- Part Of The Dance
- God Song
- Gloria Gloom
- Nan True's Hole

Track 1:
BBC 1972

Track 2 & 11:
From Little Red Record

Tracks 3 & 4:
BBC 4-17-72

Track 5:
Europe-March 1972

Tracks 6, 7, 8, 9 & 10:
BBC In Concert 7-27-72

Tracks 12 & 13:
BBC 7-21-72

- NO LABEL - Digital Format

Une version CD sans label est publiée en 2025 avec une pochette presque identique.

> Zoom

Version 2025

So Many Of You
2000

Matching Mole

- Brandy As In Benj
- Smoke Signal
- Groria Gloom
- Nan True's Hole
- Righteous Rhumba
- Brandy As In Benj
- Marchides
- Instant Pussy
- Part Of The Dance
- Brandy As In Benj

- Robert Wyatt - vocal, drums

- Phil Miller - guitar
- Dave Macrae - electric piano
- Bill Maccormick - bass

Bilzen Jazz Festival,
Bilzen - Belgique - 18 août 1972.

NO LABEL - CD

London 72
2001

Matching Mole

- God Song
- Starting In The Middle Of The Day We Can Drink Our Politics Away
- Flora Fidgit
- Smoke Signal
- Gloria Gloom
- Nan True's Hole
- Instant Pussy
- Righteous Rumba
- Part Of The Dance
- Brandy As In Benji

- Robert Wyatt - drums, vocals

- Phil Miller - guitar
- Bill MacCormick - bass
- Dave McRae - electric piano

Enregistré Live au Queen Elizabeth Hall, 7 septembre 1972.

- ECLIPSE (EC005) ?

I'm Only Joking
2002

Matching Mole

Disc 1
- Gloria Groom
- Nan True's Hole
- Brandy As Benj
- Marchides
- Instant Pussy
- Smoke Signal
- Instant Kitten
- Dedicated Hugh, But You Weren't Listening

Disc 2
- God Song
- Starting In The Middle Of The Day We Can Drink Our Politics Away
- Flora Fidgit
- Smoke Signal
- Gloria Gloom
- Nan True's Hole
- Instant Pussy
- Righteous Rumba
- Part Of The Dance
- Brandy As In Benji

- Robert Wyatt - vocal, drums

- Phil Miller - guitar
- Dave McRae - electric piano
- Bill Maccormick - bass

Disc 1:
MaidaVale, London, England - 21 juin 1972
Kensington House, London, England -17 avril 1972
Playhouse Theatre, 17 janvier 1972

Disc 2:
Queen Elizabeth Hall, London, England - 7 septembre 1972

- PEACE FROG (PF-221D) 2xCD

> Zoom

Live At The BBC 1972
2013

Matching Mole

- Marchides/Instant Pussy/Smoke Signal
- Immediate Kitten
- Instant Pussy/Lithing And Gracing
- Part Of The Dance/Brandy As In Benj

- Robert Wyatt - mellotron, piano, drums & voice

- Phil Miller - guitar
- Bill McCormick - bass guitar
- Dave McRae - electric piano
- David Sinclair - piano & organ (on Immediate Kitten)

Marchides / Instant Pussy / Smoke Signal: John Peel Show - 17th April 1972

Immediate Kitten : John Peel Show - 17th January 1972

Instant Pussy / Lithing And Gracing and Part Of The Dance / Brandy As In Benj : Paris Theatre, London, 27th July 1972

180gm white vinyl, limited edition of 500.

- BB RECORDS (B202) LP

Matching Mole

- Marchides/Instant Pussy/Smoke Signal
- Immediate Kitten
- Instant Pussy/Lithing And Gracing
- Part Of The Dance/Brandy As In Benj

- Robert Wyatt - mellotron, piano, drums & voice

- Phil Miller - guitar
- Bill McCormick - bass guitar

> Zoom 1 2

Live At The BBC 1972
2019

- Dave McRae - electric piano
- David Sinclair - piano & organ
(on Immediate Kitten)

Marchides / Instant Pussy / Smoke Signal: John Peel Show - 17th April 1972

Immediate Kitten : John Peel Show - 17th January 1972

Instant Pussy / Lithing And Gracing and Part Of The Dance / Brandy As In Benj : Paris Theatre, London, 27th July 1972

All tracks taken from the official 2006 album On The Radio.
Instant Pussy/Lithing And Gracing and Part Of The Dance/Brandy As In Benj were also released on a 1994 mini-album BBC Radio 1 Live In Concert.

- DBQP (DBQP20) LP

Matching Mole

- Lything And Gracing [R. Wyatt]
- Instant Kitten [R. Wyatt]
- Marchides [D. McRae]
- Instant Pussy [R. Wyatt]
- Smoke Signal [D. McRae]
- Part Of The Dance [P. Miller]

- Robert Wyatt - drums, vocals

- Phil Miller - guitar
- Dave MacRae - electric piano
- Bill MacCormick - bass

Enregistré à l'Olympia (Paris - France) le 15 mai 1972.

Edition spéciale publiée à l'occasion du 20ème anniversaire du site Une discographie de Robert Wyatt.

Tirage limité à 100 exemplaires numérotés.

Mention "Can't be sold".

- NO LABEL - USB Key

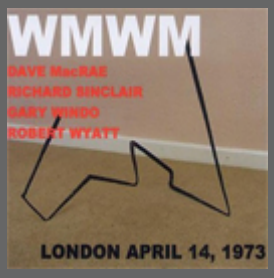
> Zoom 1 2 3

Live In France 1972
2023

> Zoom

Robert Wyatt/Richard Sinclair/Dave MacRae/Gary Windo

- Improvisationi



- Robert Wyatt - voice, vocoder, drums, percussions, organ

- Richard Sinclair -electric bass
- Dave Macrae - electric piano
- Gary Windo - tenor sax

1973-04-14 - London, UK - Ronnie Scott's .

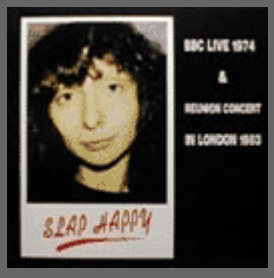
> Zoom

WMWM
(?)

> Zoom

London April 14, 1973
(?)

WMWM



- Improvisation

- Robert Wyatt - drums, vocals

- Richard Sinclair - bass guitar
- Dave MacRae - electric piano, acoustic piano
- Gary Windo - tenor saxophone

1973-04-14 - London, UK - Ronnie Scott's .

- BLUE (867) CD

BBC Sessions Live
(?)

Slapp Happy

- Europa
- A Little Something
- War Is Energy Enslaved
- Me And Parvati

- Robert Wyatt - vocals, percussion

- Anthony Moore - harpsichord, piano, vocals
- Peter Blegvad - guitar & acoustic guitar, vocals
- Dagmar Krause - vocals
- Lindsay Cooper - bassoon, oboe
- Geoff Leigh - soprano sax, flute
- Jeff Clyne - double bass
- Fred Frith - guitar

The Peel Sessions, BBC Langham Studios, London UK - June 25, 1974

- NO LABEL - CD

> Zoom

> Zoom

Henry Cow

Disc 1
- Unreleased Title 1
- Unreleased Title 2
- Nine Funerals Of The Citizen King 1
- Nirvana For Mice
- Nine Funerals Of The Citizen King 2
- Unreleased Title 3

Disc 2

- Beautiful As The Moon|Terrible As An Army With Banners
- Nirvana For Mice
- Ottawa Song ~ Gloria Gloom [R. Wyatt/B. McCormick]
- (improvisation) | Ruins | (improvisation)
- Beautiful As The Moon (reprise)

Disc 1 (demos 1973)
- Geoff Leigh - sax, flute, vocal
- Fred Frith - guitar, violin ,cl, vocal
- Chris Cutler - drums, vocal
- John Greaves- bass, piano, vocal
- Tim Hodgkinson - keyboards, saxophon, clarinet, vocal

Disc 2 (DR Jazz Workshop, Hamburg 1976.3.26)
- Fred Frith - guitar, violin, piano, etc.
- Tim Hodgkinson - keyboards, saxophon, clarinet
- John Greaves - bass, vocal
- Chris Cutler - drums
- Lindsay Cooper - bassoon, oboe, flute
- Dagmar Krause, vocal

- CANTERBURY DREAM (CTD-025) 2xCD

Ruins
1995

> Zoom

Stand Up "Full Metal Amour"
Live At The BBC 1971-1977
2006

Henly Cow (sic)/Slap Happy/Fred Frith/John Greaves and Peter Blegvad

Disc 1
HENRY COW
- Hieronyme's Mad Again
- Poglith Drive's A Vauxhall Viva
- I Came To See You
- Rapt In A Blanket
- Teenbeat
- Guider Tells Of Silent Airborne Machine
- Nine Funerals Of The Citizen King
- Bee

Disc 2
HENRY COW
- Pidgeens: Ruins
- Half Awake
- Bittern Storm Over Ulm

SLAPP HAPPY
- Europa
- Me And Parvati
- A Little Something
- War Is Energy Enslaved

FRED FRITH
- Please Give It Back
- My Need Is Greater Than Yours
- Noise Carruthers Pure Bloody Noise
- In Wich Case The Anxiety
- Warrow Road

JOHN GREAVES AND PETER BLEGVAD
- Mestly Twins And Tries
- From The Trees To The Wheel
- Actual Frenzy

- Robert Wyatt - vocals, percussion

- Anthony Moore - harpsichord, piano, vocals
- Peter Blegvad - guitar & acoustic guitar, vocals
- Dagmar Krause - vocals
- Lindsay Cooper - bassoon, oboe
- Geoff Leigh - soprano sax, flute
- Jeff Clyne - double bass
- Fred Frith - guitar

The Peel Sessions, BBC Langham Studios, London UK - June 25, 1974

- AYY (121-122) 2xCD

> Zoom

More Cambridge Than Canterbury
(Canterbury Anthology Vol. 7)
2005

Henry Cow

- Bittern Storm Over Ulm
- Half Asleep Half Awake
- Teenbeat
- Nine Funerals Of The Citizen King
- I Came To See You (BBC 2-28-72)
- With The Yellow Half Moon & Blue Star (BBC 10-17-72)
- Gloria Gloom-BBC Studios (BBC Peel Sessions 8-5-75)[R. Wyatt/B. McCormick]
- History & Prospects 1. Industry
- Day By Day Falling Away
- Deluge
- The Glove
- Untitles Sontg (7-13-78)

- NO LABEL - Digital Format

> Zoom 1 2

June 1, 1974 - Outtakes
(?)

Kevin Ayers/John Cale/Eno/Nico With Special Guests Mike Oldfield And Robert Wyatt

Disc 1
- Baby's On Fire
- Buffalo Ballet
- Gun
- Das Lied Der Deutschen
- Didn't Feel Lonely Till I Thought Of You
- Whatevershebringswesing
- Everybody's Sometime And Some People
- All The Time Blues

Disc 2

- Robert Wyatt - percussion

- Kevin Ayers - vocals, guitar
- John Cale - vocals, piano, viola
- Eno - vocals, synthetizer
- Nico - vocals, harmonium
- Mike Oldfield - guitar
- Ollie Halsall - guitar
- John Bundrick - keyboards
- Archie Leggett - bass
- Eddie Sparrow - drums, tympani

- Kevin Ayers/Interview
- Kevin Ayers/See You Later
- Kevin Ayers/It Begins With A Blessing-Once
- I Awakened-But It Ends With A Curse-Dr Dream
- Kevin Ayers/Two Goes Into Four
- I've Got A Hard On For You Baby
- Eno/Baby's On Fire

- Irene Chanter - vocals
- Doreen Chanter - vocals
- Liza Strike - vocals

Enregistré au Rainbow Theatre, London le 1er juin 1974.

- NO LABEL - 2xCD

> Zoom 1 2

June 1, 1974 - The Outtakes (?)

Kevin Ayers/John Cale/Eno/Nico

- Introduction by Ian Tilbury
- Buffalo Ballet
- Gun
- Das Lied Der Deutschen
- Didn't Feel Lonely Till I Thought Of You
- Whatevershebringswesing
- Interview
- See You Later
- It Begins With A Blessing / Once I awakened / But it ends with a curse
- Dr Dream theme
- I've Got A Hard On For You Baby
- Baby's On Fire

- Robert Wyatt - percussion, backing vocals

- Kevin Ayers - vocals, guitar
- John Cale - vocals, piano, viola
- Eno - vocals, synthetizer
- Nico - vocals, harmonium
and The Soporifics
- Ollie Halsall - guitar
- John 'Rabbit' Bundrick - organ
- Archie Leggett - bass
- Eddie Sparrow - drums, percussion
with special guests
- Mike Oldfield - guitar
- Robert Wyatt
and three nice lady singers
- Irene Chanter - backing vocals
- Doreen Chanter -backing vocals
- Liza Strike -backing vocals

Recorded Live At The Rainbow Theatre, London on June 1,1974.

- NO LABEL - Digital Format

> Zoom 1 2 3

The BBC Archives: 1971-1977 2008

Henry Cow

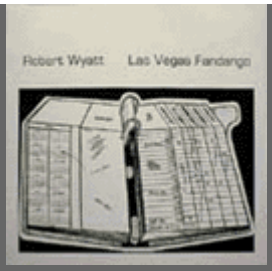
Disc 1
HENRY COW
- Hieronymo's Mad Again
- Poglith Drives a Vauxhall Viva
- I Came To See You
- Rapt In A Blanket
- Teenbeat
- With The Yellow Half Moon & Blue Star
- Guider Tells Of Silent Airborne Machine
- Nine Funerals Of The Citizen King
- Nirvana For Mice

Disc 2
- Pidgeons: a) Ruins b) Half Awake, Half Asleep c) Bitter Storm Over Ulm

SLAPP HAPPY AND FRIENDS
- Europa
- Me & Parvati
- A Little Something
- War Is Energy Enslaved

FRED FRITH
- Please Give It Back
- My Need Is Greater Than Yours
- Noise Carruthers Pure Bloody Noise
- In Which Case The Anxiety
- Narrow Road

JOHN GREAVES & PETER BLEGVAD
- Mostly Twins And Trios
- From The Trees To The Wheel
- Actual Frenzy



- Robert Wyatt - percussion - tracks 11 to 14.

- Anthony Moore - harpsichord
- Peter Blegvad - guitar
- Dagmar Krause - vocals
- Fred Frith - guitar
- Chris Cutler - drums
- Lindsay Cooper - bassoon
- Geoff Leigh - soprano saxophone
- Jeff Clyne - double bass

June 25, 1974 - BBC Top Gear
(1st broadcast: July 16, 1974).

EYE OF STORM (EOS-117) 2xCD

Theatre Royal Drury Lane 8 sept. 1974

> Zoom

Las Vegas Fandango
1981

- Dedicated To You But You Weren't Listening
- Memories
- Sea Song
- A Last Straw
- Little Red Riding Hood Hit The Road
- Alifib
- God Song
- Behind The Eyes
- Instant Pussy
- Signed Curtain
- Calyx
- Little Red Robin Hood Hit The Road
- I'm A Believer

- Robert Wyatt - vocals, keyboards, percussion

- Dave Stewart - keyboards
- Mike Oldfield - guitar
- Fred Frith - guitar, violin
- Hugh Hopper - bass
- Laurie Allen - drums
- Nick Mason - drums
- Gary Windo - bass clarinet, tenor saxophone
- Mongezi Feza - trumpet
- Julie Tippett - vocals
- Ivor Cutler - vocals
- John Peel - percussion

Las Vegas Fandango
- PENGUIN RECORDS (EGG FOUR) LP (9 titres) - tirage limité 500 exemplaires
- ARCHIVE RECORDINGS (ARC 002) CD

Critiques/Reviews

Mercy Me
(?)

> Zoom

Top

Theatre Royal Drury Lane 8 sept. 1974

> Zoom

Sea Song
(?)

- Hopper Tunity Box
- Memories
- Sea Song
- Last Straw
- Little Red Riding Hood Hit The Road
- Alifib
- Instant Kitten
- Instant Pussy
- Signed Curtain
- Starlight
- Little Red Robin Hood Hit The Road
- I'm A Believer

- ASTEROID RECORDS (AR-10) CD

Top

Theatre Royal Drury Lane 8 sept. 1974

> Zoom

Robert Wyatt In Concert
2003

Disc 1
- Introduction by John Peel
- Dedicated To You But You Weren't Listening
- Memories
- Sea Song
- Last Straw
- Little Red Riding Hood Hit The Road
- Alifie|Alifib
- God Song

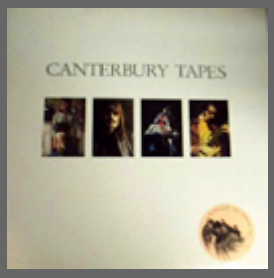
Disc 2
- Child Again

Cet enregistrement du concert mythique du 8 septembre 1974 contient l'introduction de John Peel et les trois titres chantés par Julie Tippett.

- T-399 - 2xCD

- Human Kind
- Dear Friend
- Voices
- Instant Pussy
- Signed Curtain
- Calyx
- Little Red Robin Hood Hit The Road
- I'm A Believer

> Zoom



Robert Wyatt With Friends In Concert 2010 (?)

Robert Wyatt With Friends In Concert - 1974-09-08 Theatre Royal Drury Lane

- Introduction By John Peel
- Ivor Cutler
- Phyllis April King
- Ivor Cutler
- Introduction By John Peel
- Dedicated To You But You Weren't Listening
- Memories
- Intro
- Sea Song
- A Last Straw
- Little Red Riding Hood Hit The Road
- Alife
- Alifib
- Mind Of A Child
- Flute Solo
- Human Unkind
- Behind The Eyes
- Stuff
- Instant Pussy
- Nightclub Smokes
- Signed Curtain
- Calyx (small cut at start)
- Little Red Robin Hood Hit The Road
- I'm A Believer (fades out)

"This installment of the Sonic Residue Recordings brings us a real treat! even thou this show has been released officially this one sounds A LOT better, plus it includes lots of material not on the official release, plus longer versions of some of the officially released tracks... So the next question you might ask is: Can I throw away my official CD... The answer is NO... because this version has a small cut at the beginning of Calyx and I'm A Believer is not complete, it fades out halfway... so download this one and buy the official one and you will have the most complete possible version of this show!"

- SONIC RESIDUE RECORDINGS (SBD MASTER 116.22) Digital Format

> Zoom

Canterbury Tapes 1983 ou 1984 (?)

Canterbury Tapes

Disc 1
SOFT MACHINE
- Hulloder
- Dada Was Here
- Thank You Pierot Lunaire
- Have You Ever Been Green
- Pataphysical Introduction
- As Long As He Lies Perfectly Still
- Hibou Anemone & Bear

Disc 2
KEVIN AYERS
- Dedicated To You
- Piano Duet
- Lady Rachel
- Goodnite

ROBERT WYATT
- God Song
- Fol De Rol
- Alifib
- I'm A Believer
- Muddy Mouse

- Soft Machine Live At Paradiso, Amsterdam 3/29/69.

- Kevin Ayers And The Whole World on The BBC 11/17/71 & with Brian Eno on Capitol Radio 8/74.

- Robert Wyatt with Francis Monkman, BBC 12/5/72 (God Song + Fol de Rol)
- Robert Wyatt on BBC 9/10/74 (Alifib + I'm A Believer)
- Robert Wyatt with Henry Cow (Muddy Mouse) Live At Théâtre des Champs Elysées Paris 5/8/75.

- PORCUPINE (FOUR/FIVE) 2xLP

Hatfield And The North

- Your Majesty Is Like A Cream Donut
Big Jobs (Poo Poo Extract)
Shaving Is Boring
Licks For Ladies
Bossa Nochance
Big Jobs No.2 (By Poo And Wee Wee)
To Mum & The Gongs
Gigantic Land Crabs In Earth
Takeover Bid

- Robert Wyatt - vocal, percussion

- Dave Stewart - organ
- Phil Miller - guitar
- Richard Sinclair - bass, vocal
- Pip Pyle - drums
- Alan Gowen - keyboard
- Steve Miller - keyboard
- Lol Coxhill - soprano sax,

> Zoom

Calyx
2001

- Fol De Rol
Going Upto People And Tinkling
Jamming
Calyx
- Son of "THere's No Place Like Homerton"
Aigrette
Rifferama
- Lobster In Cleacage Probe
Prenut
Your Majesty Is Like A Crean Donuts

flute
- Jimmy Hastings - alto sax, flute
- Jeremy Baines - flute
- The Northettes (Amanda Persons, Barbara Gaskin, Ann Rosenthal)

Enregistré Live au Roundhouse, London - 13 avril 1974.

- LE MATANGO (LM 01010) CD

Hatfield And The North

January 12th, 1973
- Rifferama
- Fol de Rol / Lick for the Ladies
- Finesse Is for Faries / Nan True's Hole / Lything & Gracing

March 19th 1974
- Shaving Is Boring / Lick for the Ladies
- Your Majesty Is Like a Cream Donut
- Aigrette / Rifferama
- Top Gear Commercial

November 21st, 1974
- Do the Lethargy Shuffle (Yeah Yeah)
- Let's Eat Again (Real Soon)
- Fitter Stoke Has a Bath / Calyx

- Dave Stewart - organ, piano, electric piano
- Phil Miller - electric guitar
- Richard Sinclair - bass guitar, vocals
- Pip Pyle - drums

Remastered - Numbered edition limited to 100 copies.

- NOT ON LABEL - CD

> Zoom

Heaven On The BBC
Top Gear Sessions
2004

Hatfield And The North

- Fitter Stoke Has A Bath ~ Calyx
- Let's Eat (Real Soon)
- Do The Lethargy Shuffle (yea yea) ~ Your Majesty is Like a Cream Donut
- Oh, What A Lonely Lifetime
- Medley With Robert Wyatt
- Amsterdamage
- Shaving Is Boring ~ Licks For The Ladies
- Your Majesty Is Like A Cream Donut (Quiet)~Going Up to People and Tinkling~
- Nan True's Hole

Tracks 1-4:
John Peel Show 11-21-74

Track 5:
Paris, France "Rockenstock" 1972

Track 6:
Amsterdam, 1974

Track 7:
BBC Top Gear 3-19-74

Tracks 8 & 9:
Kloojenberg,Netherlands 7-7-73

NO LABEL - Digital Format

> Zoom

Canterbury Anthology - Vol. 12
2006

Brian Wilson

- Intro
- Turning Point
- Heavenly Bodies
- Black Widow
- In The Nightime
- Love & Mercy
- Walkin The Line
- Melt Away
- Baby Let Your Hair Grow long
- Little Children
- One Of The Boys
- Up In The Sky (There's So Many)
- Meet Me In My Dreams Tonight
- He Couldn't Get His Poor Body To Move
- Don't Let Her Know She's An Angel
- Someone To Love
- Water Builds Up
- Don't Let Her Know She's An Angel
- Lets Get Together
- Smart Girls
- We Love You

- Robert Wyatt - lead vocal

Version alternative de We Love You extrait de Beauty.

- VIGOTONE (VIGO125) LP

> Zoom

Come Back Brian !
1988 (?)

- Fantasy Is Reality|Bells Of Madness
- Outro

In The Name Of A Freedom
(?)

Henry Cow Featuring Robert Wyatt

Disc 1
- Beautiful As the Moon; Terrible As An Army With Banners| Nirvana For Mice| Ottawa Song|Gloria Gloom|Ruins| Moon Reprise|
- Muddy Mouse (a)|Solar Flares|Muddy Mouse (b)|5 Black Notes And 1 White Note|Muddy Mouse (c)|Muddy Mouse
- Improvisation
- Bad Alchemy|Little Red Riding Hood Hits The Road

Disc 2
- Living In The Hearts Of The Beast
- Beautiful As The Moon|Terrible As An Army With Banners|Nirvana For Mice|Ottawa Song|Gloria Gloom|Ruins| Moon Reprise
- Muddy Mouse (a)| Solar Flares|Muddy Mouse (b)|5 Black Notes And 1 White Note|Muddy Mouse (c)|Muddy Mouse
- Bad Alchemy|Little Red Riding Hood Hits The Road

Disc 3
- Living In The Hearts Of The Beast
- Muddy Mouse (a)|Solar Flares|Muddy Mouse (b)|5 Black Notes And 1 White Note|Muddy Mouse (c)|Muddy Mouse
- Improvisation
- Bad Alchemy|Little Red Riding Hood Hits The Road
- Living In The Hearts Of The Beast
- We Did It Again

- Robert Wyatt - voice, piano

- Dagmar Krause - voice, piano
- Lindsay Cooper - flute, oboe, bassoon
- Tim Hodgkinson - organ, clarinet, alto sax
- Fred Frith - guitar, violin, xylophone, piano
- John Greaves - bass, piano
- Chris Cutler - drums

Disc 1 à Disc-2.1
New London Theater, London, England. May 21st 1975

Disc 2.2 à Disc-3.1
Piazza Navoa, Roma. Italy, June 27th 1975

Disc 3.2 à 6
Théâtre des Champs-Elysées, Paris, France. May 8th 1975.

- LE MATANGO (LM00007/008/009) 3xCD

> Zoom

Paris Sept. 25 1973
2008 (?)

Hatfield & The North

- God Song [P. Miller-R. Wyatt]
- Big Jobs (extract)
- Part Of The Dance
- Going Up To People And Tinkling
- Calyx [P. Miller]
- There's No Place Like Homerton
- Shaving Is Boring
- Big Jobs
- Htnp
- Aigrette
- Rifferama
- Lything And Gracing
- Nan True's Hole [P. Miller/R. Wyatt]
- Tone Generator Improv
- Fol De Rol
- Bossa Nochance
- Big Jobs
- Lobster In Cleavage Probe
- The Laughing Policeman

- Dave Stewart - keyboard
- Phil Miller - guitar
- Pip Pyle - drums
- Richard Sinclair - bass, vocals

Hatfield & The North Live At Theatre Present de La Villette , Paris , France
25th Sep. 1973.

(ER073) - Digital Format

Hatfield & The North

LIVE AT STUDIO ORTF DES BUTTES CHAUMONT (PARIS - FRANCE)
- God Song
- Fol de Rol
- For Robert
- A-Music
LIVE AT THEATRE PRESENT (PARIS - FRANCE) SEPTEMBER 25th 1973
- Blane Over Paris / Nan True's Hole / Big Jobs No.2
- Going Up To People And Tinkling /

- Robert Wyatt - vocals (tracks 1-4)

- Dave Stewart - keyboards
- Richard Sinclair - bass, vocals, guitar
- Phil Miller - guitar (tracks 1-6)
- Pip Pyle - drums (tracks 1-6)
- Mont Campbell - bass, vocals (tracks 7~9)
- Clive Brooks - drums (tracks 7~9)

> Zoom

Live 1973
2020

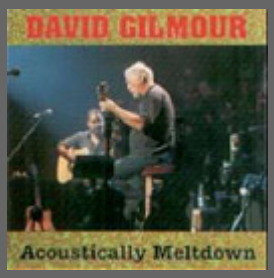
Lobster Extract / Gigantic Land In Earth
Takeover Bid
Bonus Track
EGG - BBC IN CONCERT - FEBRUARY 4th 1971
- A Visitto Newport Hospital
- Long Piece No.3 (Pt2 /Pt3)
- Long Piece No.3 (Pt4)

Tracks 1 to 4 with Robert Wyatt : Live at Studio ORTF des Buttes Chaumont, Paris, France (diffusée le 2 janvier 1973 mais enregistrée fin 1972).

In this other album, the recording is dated differently.

- KING STREET (KINGCD4194) CD

> Zoom



Tread Upon The BBC
2004

Hatfield & The North

- The Stubbs Effect
- Rifferama
- Calyx [P. Miller]
- Fol de Rol
- Finesse Is For Fairies
- Nan True's Hole [P. Miller/R. Wyatt]
- Lying And Gracing [P. Miller/R. Wyatt/D. MacRae]
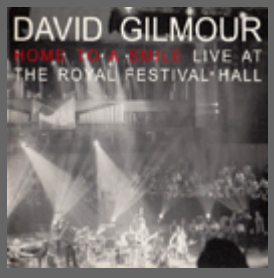
- Shaving Is Boring
- Licks For The Ladies
- Your Majesty
- Aigrette
- Rifferama
- Top Gear Advert
- Fitter Stoke Has A Bath
- Let's Eat (Real Soon)
- Your Majesty Is Like A Cream Donut
- Oh, What A Lonely Lifetime

- Dave Stewart - organ, electric piano
- Richard Sinclair - bass, vocals
- Phil Miller - guitar
- Pip Pyle - drums

- TACHIKA RECORDS (HFNCD 018) CD

> Zoom



Acoustically Meltdown
2001

David Gilmour

- Shine On You Crazy Diamond (Pts.1-5)
- Terrapin
- Fat Old Sun
- Coming Back To Life
- High Hopes
- Je Crois Entendre Encore
- Smile
- Wish You Were Here
- Comfortably Numb (With Robert Wyatt)
- The Dimming Of Tthe Day
- Shine On You Crazy Diamond (Pts.6, 7)
- A Great Day For Freedom
- Hushaby Mountain

Robert Wyatt's Meltdown Festival Hall, London.
06/22/2001.

- HIGHLAND (HL579) CD

> Zoom

Home To A Smile
At The Royal Festival Hall
(June 22 2001)
(?)

David Gilmour

- Shine On You Crazy Diamond I - IV
- Terrapin
- Fat Old Sun
- Coming Back To Life
- High Hopes
- Je Crois Entendre Encore
- Smile
- Wish You Were Here
- Comfortably Numb (with Robert Wyatt)
- The Dimming Of The Day
- Shine On You Crazy Diamond VI - IX
- A Great Day For Freedom
- Hushabye Mountain

Recorded live at the Royal Festival Hall, London, June 22, 2001 as part of Robert Wyatt's Meltdown 2001.

- NO LABEL - CD

David Gilmour

> Zoom

Coming Back To London
2001

- Shine On You Crazy Diamond
- Terrapin
- Fat Old Sun
- Coming Back To Life
- High Hopes
- Je Crois Entendre Encore
- Smile
- Wish You Were Here
- Comfortably Numb (With Robert Wyatt)
- The Dimming Of Tthe Day
- Shine On You Crazy Diamond
- A Great Day For Freedom
- Hushaby Mountain

Robert Wyatt's Meltdown Festival Hall, London.
06/22/2001.

- NORTH STAR RECORDS - CD

> Zoom

> Zoom

Top Gear, BBC
2004

Henry Cow... And Company

- Guider Tells Of Silent Airborne Machine
- 9 Funerals Of The Citizen King
- Bee
- Pidgeons: Ruins|Half Awake Half Asleep|Bittern Storm Over Ulm
- Please Give It Back
- My Need Is Greater Than Yours
- Noise Carruthers Pur Bloody Noise
- In Which Case The Anxiety
- Narrow Road
- Mostly Twins And Trios
- From The Trees To The Wheel
- Actual Frenzy
- War Is Energy Enslaved
- Little Something

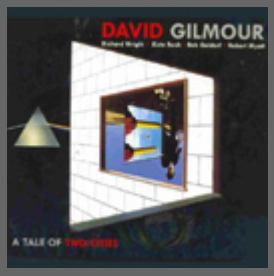
- Robert Wyatt - vocal, percussion

- Anthony Moore - piano
- Peter Blegvad - guitar, vocal
- Dagmar Krause - vocal
- Fred Frith - guitar
- Lindsay Cooper - oboe, bassoon
- Geoff Leigh - saxophone
- Jeff Clyne - double bass

Recorded June 25, 1974.

Pressage "Audiophile Remastered Limited Edition" très limité (100 exemplaires numérotés) qui réunit 5 Top Gear Sessions :

Tracks 1-3:
Henry Cow en 1973



Track 4:
Henry Cow en 1974

Tracks 5-9:
Fred Frith en 1974

Tracks 10-12:
John Greaves-Peter Blegvad en 1977

-Tracks 13 & 14:
Slapp Happy avec Robert Wyatt en 1974

NO LABEL - CD.

> Zoom

A Tale Of Two Cities
2002

David Gilmour

Disc 1
RECORDED LONDON, ROYAL FESTIVAL HALL, 17, JANUARY 2002
- Shine On Your Crazy Diamond Pt.1
- Fat Old Sun
- Coming Back to Life
- Coming Back To Life (Reprise)
- Dominoes
- High Hopes
- High Hopes (Reprise)
- Je Crois Entendre Encore
- Smile
- Breakthrough
- Wish You Were Here
- Comfortably Numb

Disc 2
RECORDED LONDON, ROYAL FESTIVAL HALL, 17, JANUARY 2002
- Dimming Of The Day
- Shine On Your Crazy Diamond Pt.6
- Great Day For Freedom
- Hushabye Mountain

- TWO CERTAIN SOMEBODIES (SLUT001 A/B) 2xCD

RECORDED LONDON, ROYAL FESTIVAL HALL, 16, JANUARY 2002
- Breakthrough
- Comfortably Numb (With Robert Wyatt)
RECORDED LONDON, ROYAL FESTIVAL HALL, 18, JANUARY 2002
- Comfortably Numb
RECORDED PARIS, 24, JANUARY 2002
- Je Fair Pipi
- Comfortably Numb

> Zoom

Acoustically Pink
2002

David Gilmour

Disc 1
- Shine On Your Crazy Diamond Pt.1-5)
- Fat Old Sun
- Coming Back to Life
- Dominoes
- High Hopes
- Je Crois Entendre Encore
- Smile

Disc 2
- Breakthrough
- Wish You Were Here
- Comfortably Numb (With Robert Wyatt)
- Dimming Of The Day
- Shine On Your Crazy Diamond Pt.6-9)
- Great Day For Freedom
- Hushabye Mountain

Royal Festival Hall, London - 16 janvier 2002.

- HIGHLAND RECORDS (HL606-603) 2xCD

> Zoom 1 2 3

Un Certo Discorso

> Zoom

Robert Wyatt

- The Opium War
- Parlato
- L'Albero Degli Zoccoli
- Parlato
- Heathen Heaven Of Souls
- Parlato
- Holy War
- Parlato
- Revolution Without "R"
- Another Song
- Parlato
- Billy's Bounce [Charlie Parker]
- Parlato
- Born Again Cretin
- Parlato
- Prove Sparse I
- Prove Sparse II

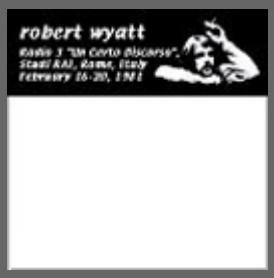
- Robert Wyatt - vocals, percussion, piano, jews harp

Programme réalisé par Robert Wyatt pour la RAI italienne en février 1981 (diffusé au printemps 81 puis rediffusé en septembre 2002 à l'occasion d'une Wyatt Notte sur RadioTre Rai).

Les morceaux parlés (Parlato) sont des lectures de textes de Robert Wyatt sur la musique, le processus créatif, l'improvisation, la politique etc.

La première version présentée ci-contre comporte une illustration originale de l'auteur de la création graphique du CD A Different You - Robert Wyatt e noi.

A noter que la 3ème pochette rend hommage au présent site en piratant sans vergogne le montage photo des visuels de sa page d'accueil... (!).



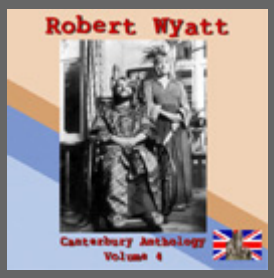
Une version "officielle" est sortie en juin 2009 sur le label italien Tracce.

NO LABEL - Digital Format

> Zoom

(?)

2007



Rome February 16-20, 1981

Robert Wyatt

- The Opium War
- L'Albero Degli Zoccoli
- Heathen Heaven Of Souls
- Holy War
- Revolution Without "R"
- Another Song
- Billy's Bounce [Charlie Parker]
- Born Again Cretin
- Prove Sparse I
- Prove Sparse II

Enregistrement identique aux deux précédents, moins les passages parlés.

BLUE.U-045.1CD - Digital Format ?

> Zoom

Canterbury Anthology - Vol. 4
2004 (?)

Robert Wyatt

- The Whole Point Of No Return
- Soup Song
- Sea Song
- Dedicated To You But You Weren't Listening
- Memories
- Sea Song
- The Duchess
- Righteous Rhumba
- Instant Pussy
- Trickle Down
- Team Spirit
- Heathens Have No Souls
- Billy's Bounce
- Gharbzadegi
- The Verb
- Free Will & Testament

Track 1:
From Shleep

Track 2:
BBC Top Gear 9-10-74

Track 3:
From 'Free Will And Testament'- 1997 BBC4 Documentary

Tracks 4-6:
Royal Drury Lane 9-8-74

Track 7:
From Shleep

Track 8:
BBC Top Gear 12-5-72

Track 9:
Maida Vale-BBC Top Gear 11-10-69

Track 10:
From Cuckooland

Track 11:
From Ruth Is Stranger Than Richard

Tracks 12-13:
AI Studios, Rome, Italy-February,1981

Track 14:
From Old Rottenhat

Track 15:
Recorded At Home 2003

Track 16:
From 'Free Will And Testament'- 1997 BBC4 Documentary

NO LABEL - Digital Format

> Zoom

Soft Works
Live At The Garden Hall,
Tokyo, 10th August 2003
2004

The Soft Machine Legacy

- Seven Formerly
- Alphrazalian
- Baker's Treat
- K-Licks
- Kings And Queens [H. Hopper]
- First Trane
- Willie's Knee/As If
- Facelift [H. Hopper]
- First Trane

– Hugh Hopper, bass
– John Marshall, drums
– Allan Holdsworth, guitar
– Elton Dean, saxophone

Garden Hall, Tokyo, 10th August 2003.

- AYANAMI ULTIMATE SERIES
(254) 2xCD

> Zoom

A Tribute To Robert Wyatt
2007 (?)

Annie Whitehead's Soupsong

- A Sunday In Madrid [A. Benge/R. Wyatt]
- Sea Song [R. Wyatt]
- Muddy Mouse Suite [F. Frith/R. Wyatt]
- Little Red Riding Hood/Alifib/Alfie [R. Wyatt]
- Alliance [R. Wyatt]
- Sight Of The Wind [A. Benge/R. Wyatt]
- Free Will And Testament [R. Wyatt/ Kramer]
- Soupsong [H. Hopper/R. Wyatt]

- Annie Whitehead - trombone dir., arr., backing vocals
- Julie Tippets - vocal
- Harry Beckett - trumpet, flugelhorn
- Ian Maidman - guitar, vocals
- Larry Stabbins - tenor & soprano saxes, flute
- Janette Mason - piano, keyboards
- Steve Lamb - bass
- Liam Genokey - drums

Milano, Teatro Dal Verme, 24 settembre 2001
Broadcast Recording.

(ER010) - Digital Format

> Zoom

Comicoperando - A Tribute
To The Music Of Robert Wyatt
?

Comicoperando - A Tribute To The Music Of Robert Wyatt

- Intro
- Pataphysical Introduction (arr. Alex Maguire) [R. Wyatt]
- September The Ninth (arr. Annie Whitehead) [A. Benge/R. Wyatt]
- Little Red Robin Hood Hit the Road (arr. Cristiano Calcagnile) [R. Wyatt]
- Just as You Are (arr. Gilad Atzmon) [A. Benge/R. Wyatt]
- Calyx (arr. Phil Miller) [R. Wyatt/P. Miller]
- Memories (arr. Michel Delville) [H. Hopper]
- Alifib (arr. Annie Whitehead) [R. Wyatt]
- Double Bass Solo (arr. John Edwards)
- Little Red Riding Hood Hit the Road (arr. Annie Whitehead) [R. Wyatt]
- Guitar Noise (arr. Michel Delville)
- God Song (arr. Phil Miller) [R. Wyatt/P. Miller]
- Maryan (arr. Cristiano Calcagnile) [R. Wyatt/P. Catherine]
- Alliance (instrumental) [R. Wyatt]
- Sea Song (arr. Annie Whitehead) [R. Wyatt]
- Sax Medley (arr. Gilad Atzmon)
- O Caroline (arr. Dave Sinclair) [D. Sinclair/R. Wyatt]
- Band Presentation
- Forest (arr. Annie Whitehead) [A. Benge/R. Wyatt]
- Soup Song [H. Hopper/R. Wyatt]

- Richard Sinclair - vocals, bass guitar
- Dagmar Krause - vocals
- Gilad Atzmon - reeds and flutes
- Annie Whitehead - trombone
- Alex Maguire - piano and keyboards
- Michel Delville - guitars, electronics
- John Edwards - double bass
- Chris Cutler - drums
- Cristiano Calcagnile - percussion

Recorded Sunday March 1st, 2010 at Teatro Comunale Luciano Pavarotti, Modena, Italy for L'ALTRO SUONO festival 2010

- NO LABEL - Digital Format

David Gilmour

> Zoom

Silence Drifting
2006

Disc 1
- Speak To Me
- Breathe
- Time
- Breathe (Reprise)
- Castellorizon
- On An Island
- The Blue
- Red Sky At Night
- This Heaven
- Then I Close My Eyes [D. Gilmour]
- Band Introduction
- Smile
- Take A Breath
- A Pocketful Of Stones
- Where We Start

Disc 2
- Shine On You Crazy Diamond
- Fat Old Sun
- Arnold Layne
- Coming Back To Life
- High Hopes
- The Great Gig In The Sky
- Echoes

Disc 3
- Wish You Were Here
- Find The Cost Of Freedom
- Comfortably Numb

- Robert Wyatt - cornet on Then I Close My Eyes

- David Gilmour - guitar, vocal
- Richard Wright - keyboards
- Guy Pratt - bass, guitar
- Phil Manzanera - guitar
- Jon Carin - keyboards
- Dick Perry - saxophone
- Steve DiStanislao - drums

Concert at Royal Albert Hall, London - 30th May 2006.

- SIRENE RECORDS (158) 3xCD

> Zoom

Aimlessly So Blue
2006

David Gilmour

Disc 1
- Speak To Me
- Breathe
- Time
- Breathe (Reprise)
- Castellorizon
- On An Island
- The Blue
- Red Sky At Night
- This Heaven
- Then I Close My Eyes [D. Gilmour]
- Smile
- Take A Breath
- A Pocketful Of Stones
- Where We Start

Disc 2
- Shine On You Crazy Diamond
- Wot's... Uh The Deal
- Band Introduction
- Wearing The Inside Out
- Coming Back To Life
- High Hopes
- Echoes

Disc 3
- Wish You Were Here
- Find The Cost Of Freedom
- Arnold Layne
- Comfortably Numb

- Robert Wyatt - cornet on Then I Close My Eyes

- David Gilmour - guitar, vocal
- Richard Wright - keyboards
- Guy Pratt - bass, guitar
- Phil Manzanera - guitar
- Jon Carin - keyboards
- Dick Perry - saxophone
- Steve DiStanislao - drums

Concert at Royal Albert Hall, London - 29th May 2006.

- SIRENE RECORDS (157) 3xCD

> Zoom

Milton Keynes 2017
2017

Soft Machine

Disc 1
- Intro
- Bundles
- In The Back Room
- Band Introduction
- Chloe And The Pirates
- Voyage Beyond Seven
- Song Of Aeolus
- Grape Hound

Disc 2
- The Tale Of Taliesin
- Out-Bloody-Rageous [M. Ratledge]
- The Man Who Waved At Trains
- Gesolreut
- Facelift [H. Hopper]

- John Etheridge - guitar
- Roy Babbington - bass
- Theo Travis - saxophone, flute keyboards
- John Marshall - drums, percussion

Stables Theatre, Milton Keynes, UK 2nd November 2017

- AMITY (AMITY421) 2xCD

- Out Of Season
- The Relegation Of Pluto (Including John Marshall Drum Solo.)
- Tarabos
- Hazard Profile

> Zoom

Maiden Sailing
????

Soft Machine Legacy

-- Ash
- Save For Lee
- Baker's Treat
- 1212
- Kings & Queens [H. Hopper]/ Big Creese / Facelift [H. Hopper]

- John Marshall - drums
- Hugh Hopper - electric bass
- John Etheridge - electric guitar
- Elton Dean - saxello, alto saxophone, keyboards

- NO LABEL (CLL-001CD) CD

> Zoom

Max Andrzejewski´s Hütte
Plays The Music Of Robert Wyatt
Jazz & Wine Of Peace
2020

Max Andrzejewski´s Hütte

- The Duchess [R. Wyatt]
- You You [A. Benge/R. Wyatt]
- Little Red Riding Hood Hits the Road [R. Wyatt]
- Cuckoo Madam [A. Benge/R. Wyatt]
- Band Introduction & Spoken Interlude
- Little Red Robin Hood Hits the Road [R. Wyatt]
- N.I.O. (New Information Order) [R. Wyatt]
- Grass [I. Cutler]
- Spoken Interlude
- Instant Kitten [R. Wyatt]
- Starting in the Middle of the Day We Can Drink Our Politics Away [D. McRae/R. Wyatt]
- At Last I am Free [Edwards/Rodgers]

- Johannes Schleiermacher - sax tenore, flauto, sintetizzatore
- Cansu Tanrikulu - voce
- Jörg Hochapfel - organo, chitarra, voce
- Tobias Hoffmann- chitarra
- James Banner - contrabbasso
- Max Andrzejewski - batteria, voce, arrangiamenti

Registrato a Cormòns (Italy), Teatro Comunale, il 22.10.2020.

Cet album est également présent dans la rubrique Reprises.

- NO LABEL - Digital Format

> Zoom

Going Going Live
(?)

Going Going

- Where But For Caravan Would
- Video Shows
- In The Land of Grey and Pink
- Keep On Caring
- Led It Lay
- We Did It Again [K. Ayers] / Miniluv
- Going For A Song
- Hope For Happiness [B. Hopper, K. Ayers, M. Ratledge]
- We Did It Again [encore] [K. Ayers]

- Richard Sinclair - guitar & vocals
- Hugh Hopper - bass
- Mark Hewins - Casio guitar-synth (organ, flute & vibes sounds)
- Vinny Clarke - percussion
- Andy Ward - drums

Recorded Sunday October 14th, 1990 at The Fridge in Brixton, London.

"Going Going was the precursor to Caravan Of Dreams, which consisted of Richard Sinclair on vocals and bass, Mark Hewins on guitar and Andy Ward on drums."
Aymeric Leroy

"This is a "recording of indeterminate origin," i.e. a bootleg. If you buy it from me it'll be the first time anyone in the band has seen a quid from it "
Richard Sinclair.

- SINCLAIRSONGS CLUB - Digital Format

> Zoom

Wyattando
2022

Wyattando

- Alifib [R. Wyatt]
- Little Red Robin Hood Hit The Road [R. Wyatt]
- Left of Man [R. Wyatt]
- Forest [A. Benge/R. Wyatt]
- Gloria Gloom [B. MacCormick/R. Wyatt]
- Sea Song [R. Wyatt]
- God Song [P. Miller/R. Wyatt]
- Maryan [R. Wyatt/P. Catherine]
- Beware [K. Mantler]
- Alliance [R. Wyatt]
- September the Ninth [A. Benge/ R. Wyatt]
- Life Is Sheep [K. Mantler]
- The United States Of Amnesia [R. Wyatt]
- Little Red Riding Hood Hit The Road [R. Wyatt]
- Gharbzadegi [R. Wyatt]
- Team Spirit [B. MacCormick/ P. Manzanera/R. Wyatt]
- The Official Robert Wyatt Fun Song Club [K. Mantler]

- Annie Whitehead - trombone, voce
- Heidi Heidelberg - voce, chitarra
- Mauricio Velasierra - flauto, effetti, cori
- Karen Mantler - organo, voce
- John Greaves - basso, voce
- Chris Cutler - batteria

Registrato presso l'Anfiteatro della Pace, Bari, il 26.8.2022.

Cet album est également présent dans la rubrique Reprises.

- NO LABEL - Digital Format

> Zoom

Les années Before | Soft Machine | Matching Mole | Solo | With Friends | Samples | Compilations | V.A. | Bootlegs | Reprises

HOME

Reprises ? Covers ?

More information...

AN ALPHABETICAL LIST OF COVER VERSIONS

> Zoom

Elton Dean
1971

Elton Dean

- Ooglenovastrome
- Something Passed Me By
- Blind Badger
- Neo-Caliban Grides [E. Dean]
- Part: The Last

- Elton Dean - alto saxophone, saxello, electric piano
- Roy Babbington - bass
- Mark Charig - cornet
- Phil Howard - drums
- Mike Ratledge - electric piano, organ

Recorded live at Advision Studios, London, May 1971.

- CBS (64539) LP
- EPIC (ECPL-46) LP

> Zoom

Bloodrock 3
1971

Bloodrock

- Jessica
- Whiskey Vengeance
- Song For A Brother
- You Gotta Roll
- Breach Of Lease
- Kool-Aid-Kids
- A Certain Kind [H. Hopper]
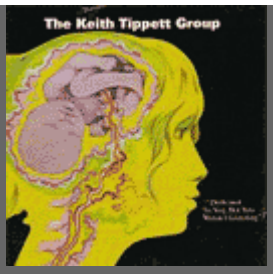
- America, Americ

- Jim Rutledge - lead vocal
- Ed Grundy - bass, vocals
- Rick Cobb - drums, vocals
- Lee Pickens - guitar
- Steve Hill - keyboards, vocals
- Nick Taylor - guitar, vocals

- CAPITOL RECORDS (ST-765) LP



> Zoom 1 2

A Certain Kind/Jessica
1971

Bloodrock

- A Certain Kind [H. Hopper]
- Jessica

- CAPITOL RECORDS (2C 006-80.867 M) S

> Zoom 1 2

Dedicated To You,
But You Weren't Listening
1971

The Keith Tippett Group

- This Is What Happens
- Thoughts To Geoff
- Green And Orange Night Park
- Gridal Suite
- Five After Dawn
- Dedicated To You, But You Weren't Listening [E. Dean/H. Hopper/M. Charig]
- Black Horse

- Robert Wyatt - drums, vocals
  on Five After Dawn

- Keith Tippett - piano, electric piano
- Elton Dean - alto sax, saxello
- Marc Charig - cornet
- Nick Evans - trombone
- Gary Boyle - guitar
- Neville Whitehead - double bass
- Roy Babbington - double bass, bass
- Tony Uta - congas, cow bell
- Bryan Spring - drums
- Phil Howard - drums

- VERTIGO (6360 024) LP
- AKAMA-COMET RECORDS
  (AK227) CD
- ESOTERIC RECORDINGS
  (ECLEC 2367) CD

Cet album est également présent dans la rubrique With Friends.

> Zoom

A Certain Kind/You Gotta Roll
1971

Bloodrock

- A Certain Kind [H. Hopper]
- You Gotta Roll

- CAPITOL RECORDS (3089) S

> Zoom

A Certain Kind/A Certain Kind
1971

Bloodrock

- A Certain Kind [H. Hopper]
- A Certain Kind [H. Hopper]

Promo edition.

- CAPITOL RECORDS
  (SPRO-6187) S

Zapata

- A Certain Kind [H. Hopper]
- Make It All Go [C. Dusey/E. Millis]

- METRO-DOME RECORDS
  (ME-45-1005) S

> Zoom

A Certain Kind/Make It All Go
1972

> Zoom

For Girls Who Grow Plump In The Night
1973

> Zoom

Fluence
1975

> Zoom

Concerts
1976

Caravan

- Memory Lain, Hugh
- Headloss
- Hoedown
- Surprise, Surprise
- C'Thlu Thlu
- The Dog, The Dog, He's At It Again
- Be All Right
- Chance Of A Lifetime
- L'Auberge Du Sanglier / A Hunting We Shall Go / Pengola / Backwards [M. Ratledge] / A Hunting Shall We Go (Reprise)

- DERAM (SDL-R 12) LP
- DERAM (8829802) CD
- DERAM (UICY-76079) CD

Fluence

- A Few Reasons To Stay - A Few Reasons To Split
- Barcelona Tango
- Schizo

Composé par Pascal Comelade, Barcelona Tango est un hommage très inspiré aux albums The End Of An Ear et Rock Bottom.

Album réédité en 2014 sur la compilation de Pascal Comelade My Degeneration Electronics 1974-1983.

Réédition vinyl en 2020 à 750 exemplaires (tirage limité numéroté) sur le label ETATS-UNIS.

- PÔLE RECORDS (PÖLE 0008) LP
- TAPIOCA (TP10012) LP
- ETATS-UNIS (ETAT14) LP

Henry Cow

Disc 1
- Beautiful As the Moon|Terrible As An Army With Banners
- Nirvana For Mice
- Ottawa Song
- Gloria Gloom [R. Wyatt/B. McCormick]
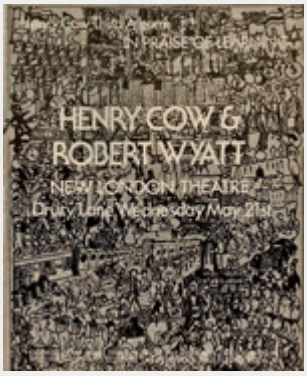
- Beautiful As The Moon (reprise)
- Bad Alchemy|Little Red Riding Hood Hits The Road
- Ruins



Disc 2
- Oslo
- Groningen
- Udine
- Gronigen Again

- Dagmar Krause - voice, piano on Ruins
- Lindsay Cooper - bassoon, flute, oboe
- Tim Hodgkinson - organ, clarinet, alto saxophone
- Fred Frith - guitar, piano
- John Greaves - bass, voice, celeste, piano on Little Red Riding Hood Hits the Road
- Chris Cutler - drums

Album réédité en CD en 1995 et en 2006.

- COMPENDIUM (FIDARDO 1) 2xLP
- L'ORCHESTRA (OLD 01-02) 2xLP
- LTM (LM 1011-12) 2xLP
- ARIOLA (800-345-346) 2xLP
- CAROLINE (CAD 3002) 2xLP
- BROADCAST RECORDS (BC2) 2xLP

Cet album est également présent dans la rubrique With Friends.

> Zoom

↑

> Zoom

Monster Band
1979

Hugh Hopper

- Golden Section
- Sliding Dogs
- Churchy
- Lily Kong
- 12-8 Theme [H. Hopper]
- Sliding Dogs
- Lily Kong
- Nozzles Tecalemit
- Get Together
- Nicaragua
- Mediterraneon

Tracks 1-5 (side one)
Recorded 1973 - Conyer, Kent, G.B.

- Hugh Hopper plays all instruments.

Tracks 6-9 (side two)
Recorded live 20.3.1974 - Bordeaux France.

- Hugh Hopper - bass
- Elton Dean - saxello
- Mike Travis
- Jean-Pierre Carolfi - keyboards
- Jean-Pierre Weiller - bass

Album réédité par Culture Press en 1985 (LP) puis en 1996 (CD) et par Gonzo Multimedia en 2013 (CD).

- ATMOSPHERE (IRI 5003) LP
- CULTURE PRESS (CP 2002) LP
- CULTURE PRESS (CP 2002) CD
- GONZO MULTIMEDIA (HST128CD) CD

↑

> Zoom

Paralelo
1980

Pascal Comelade

- Mouvement Décomposé D'un Coup De Marteau
- Good-Bye Wyatt Hat
- Via-Laietana
- Paralelo
- Vertical
- Musique Ridicule
- Politico
- Automne
- Musique Pour Les Ascenseurs
- Erratum Musical
- Nicaragua
- Mediterraneon

- Pascal Comelade - tous les instruments

Good-Bye Wyatt Hat est non seulement un hommage à Robert Wyatt mais également au musicien américain Charles Mingus - très apprécié de R.W. - qui a composé le fameux morceau Goodbye Pork Pie Hat.

Edition limitée à 1 000 copies.

Album réédité en 2014 sur la compilation de Pascal Comelade My Degeneration Electronics 1974-1983.

Album réédite en 2017 chez Because Music.

- PARASITE (PAR 002) LP
- BECAUSE MUSIC (BEC5543159) 2xLP & CD

↑

Caravan

> Zoom

The Best Of Caravan "Live"
1980

Disc 1
- Introduction - Memory Lain Hugh
- Headloss
- Virgin On The Ridiculous
- Be All Right
- The Love In Your Eye
- Hoedown (Encore)

Disc2
- Introduction - L'Auberge Du Sanglier
- A Hunting We Shall Go
- Backwards [M. Ratledge]
- A Hunting We Shall Go (Reprise)
- Introduction: The Dog, The Dog Is At It Again
- For Richard

- Mike Wedgwood - bass guitar, congas
- Richard Coughlan - drums
- Pye Hastings - guitar, vocals
- David Sinclair - organ, synthesizer Minimoog
- Geoff Richardson - electric viola, guitar, glockenspiel, voice

Recorded at The Fairfield Halls, Croydon, September 1st 1974.

- KINGDOM RECORDS (426002) 2xLP
- VOGUE (426002) 2xLP

> Zoom

Ready-Made
1980

Pascal Comelade

- Again [K. Ayers]
- Éclairage Sur L'Eau
- Again [K. Ayers]
- Canço De Bressol
- Distant Pianos
- San-Salvador

- Pascal Comelade - tous les instruments
- Sissi - voice

Bien que signé "Pascal Comelade", Canço De Bressol est une libre adaptation d'Alifib.

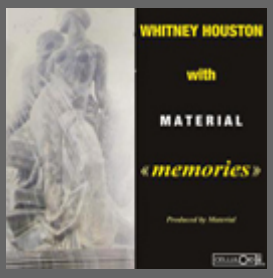
Deux adaptations de Wid Did It Again présent sur l'album de Soft Machine Vol.1.

Edition limitée à 500 copies.

Album en partie (une seule des deux versions de Again) réédité en 2014 sur la compilation de Pascal Comelade My Degeneration Electronics 1974-1983.

- PARASITE (PAR 004) EP

> Zoom



We Dit It Again/And Again
1981

The Modernaires

- We Dit It Again [K. Ayers]
- And Again

- Hugh Hughes - bass
- Dave Baynton-Power - drums
- Phil Bradley - guitar
- Phil Lucking - percussion
- Lea Minshull - Saxophone

- ILLUMINATED RECORDS (ILL4) S

> Zoom 1 2

Memories
1982

Material & Whitney Houston

- Memories [H.Hopper]
- For A Few Dollars More

- Whitney Houston - vocals
- Archie Shepp - tenor saxophone
- Raymond Jones - piano
- Michael Beinhorn -synthesizer
- Bill Laswell - bass
- Yogi Horton - drums

Versions françaises éditées en Single en 1983 puis en EP en 1987 (même référence).

- CELLULOID NEW YORK (CEL NY 193) EP

> Zoom

Memories
1982

Material

- Take A Chance
- I'm The One
- Time Out
- Let Me Have It All
- Come Down
- Holding On
- Memories [H.Hopper]
- Don't Lose Control

- Whitney Houston - vocals
- Archie Shepp - tenor saxophone
- Raymond Jones - piano
- Michael Beinhorn -synthesizer
- Bill Laswell - bass
- Yogi Horton - drums

- CELLULOID (CEL 6633) LP
- ELEKTRA (96 02061) LP

> Zoom

Sentimientos
1982

Pascal Comelade

- White Light
- Approximative But Fair
- Wyatt Ah Um
- Lettre De Mozart À Sa Petite Cousine
- Still Life With Goldfish
- The Grey Velvet Gentleman
- From DC By PC
- Taking Tiger Mountain
- Habanera
- Carmen
- Avant-Midi
- Sicilia
- Again
- White Heat
- Distant Pianos
- Paralelo
- In A Lebanon Park
- Courant D'Air Sur Le Pommier Du Japon
- La Opera
- Barretor

- Pascal Comelade - tous les instruments
- Sissi - voice on Again

Wyatt Ah Um est un hommage au premier album solo de Robert Wyatt The End Of An Ear. Le titre du morceau est aussi un clin d'oeil à l'album de Charles Mingus Ah Um paru en 1959.

Again est une adaptation de Wid Did It Again présent sur l'album de Soft Machine Vol.1.

In A Lebanon Park est une adaptation d'Alifib de Rock Bottom.

Edition limitée à 1000 copies.

Album réédité en 2014 sur la compilation de Pascal Comelade My Degeneration Electronics 1974-1983.

Réédition vinyl en 2020 à 750 exemplaires (tirage limité numéroté) sur le label ETATS-UNIS.

- DYS (DYS 05) LP
- ETATS-UNIS (ETAT15) LP

> Zoom

Material & Witney Houston

- Memories [H. Hopper]
- Take A Chance

Edition française du EP publié à New-York en 1982 avec un morceau différent en face B.

- CELLULOID (CEL1927) S

> Zoom

Memories
1983

> Zoom

Milano Enarmonisto
1984

Pascal Comelade & Bel Canto Orchestra

LIVE 1983
- [Untitled] (Bel Canto Orchestra)
- [Untitled] (Bel Canto Orchestra)
- [Untitled] (Bel Canto Orchestra)
- [Untitled] (Bel Canto Orchestra)
- [Untitled] (Bel Canto Orchestra)
- [Untitled] (Bel Canto Orchestra)
- [Untitled] (Bel Canto Orchestra)
- [Untitled] (Bel Canto Orchestra)
- [Untitled] (Bel Canto Orchestra)

SOLO 1982/1983
- [Untitled] (Pascal Comelade)
- [Untitled] (Pascal Comelade)
- [Untitled] (Pascal Comelade)
- [Untitled] (Pascal Comelade)
- [Untitled] (Pascal Comelade)
- [Untitled] (Pascal Comelade)
- [Untitled] [P. Comelade]
- [Untitled] (Pascal Comelade)
- [Untitled] (Pascal Comelade)
- [Untitled] (Pascal Comelade)

Ce 7ème morceau de la seconde face de la cassette est très inspiré de Alifib.

- ADN (TAPES 05) K7

> Zoom

Détail Monochrome
1984

Pascal Comelade

- Fragments
- Park Guell
- Chanson
- Instants Au Bord De La Mer
- Ritmos Del Fedayin
- Bel Canto
- Bolero Cubiste
- Nature Morte Aux Maracas
- Moment [P. Comelade]
- Dancing On My Sofa
- Mecano Musical
- Pluie Japonaise
- Note Bleue
- Petite Mélodie

Bien que signé Pascal Comelade, Moment est une libre adaptation de Alifib.

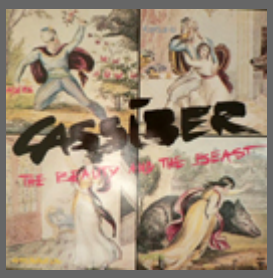
- LES DISQUES DU SOLEIL ET DE L'ACIER (540002) LP

> Zoom



Beauty & The Beast
1984

Cassiber

- Six Rays
- Robert
- Last Call
- Ach Heile Mich
- Haruspices
- Under New Management
- Vengeance Is Dancing
- In Einer Minute
- Und Ich Werde Nicht Mehr Sehe
- Prendre La Lune Avec Les Dents
- At Last I Am Free [Edwards/Rodgers]

- Alfred Harth - bass clarinet, trombone, trumpet [pocket], jew's harp, alto saxophone, tenor saxophone, baritone saxophone
- Chris Cutler - drums, electronic drums, noises, other objects
- Heiner Goebbels - grand piano, synthesizer, bass, electric guitar, tape
- Christoph Anders - synthesizer [Korg], organ, electric guitar, tape [prepared], sequencer, percussion [metal sheets]

- RE RECORDS (Re0110) LP

> Zoom

The Beauty & The Beast
(German Edition)
1984

Cassiber

- Six Rays
- Robert
- Last Call
- Ach Heile Mich
- Haruspices
- Under New Management
- Vengeance Is Dancing
- In Einer Minute
- Und Ich Werde Nicht Mehr Sehe
- Prendre La Lune Avec Les Dents
- At Last I Am Free [Edwards/Rodgers]

Edition allemande de l'album sorti la même année chez Re Records.

- RISKANT (RISKANT 4010) LP

> Zoom

Mercy Dash
1985

Hopper / Dean / Tippett / Gallivan

- Intro
- Calyx [P. Miller]
- Waffle Dust
- Brass Wind Bells
- Anguishy
- Waffling Again
- Punkom

- CULTUR PRESS (CP 2001) LP
- CULTUR PRESS (3012802) CD
- GONZO MULTIMEDIA (HST130CD) CD

> Zoom

I Believe
1985

Tears For Fears

- I Believe (A Soulful Re-Recording)
- Sea Song [R. Wyatt]

- MERCURY (IDEA11) S

> Zoom

The Icicle Works

- Up Here In The North Of England
- It Makes No Difference
- Sea Song [R. Wyatt]
- Nature's Way
- Waylaid

- SITUATION TWO (SIT45T) EP

Up Here In The North Of England
1986

> Zoom

> Zoom

Mothers Talk
1986

Tears For Fears

- Mothers Talk
- Sea Song [R. Wyatt]

- MERCURY (884 638-7) S

> Zoom

Bel Canto
1986

Pascal Comelade

- Blue Afternoon
- Une Andalouse Sur La Pelouse
- La Lluna. Etc...
- Petit Ballet Mécanique
- Chanson Pop (= Alifib) [R. Wyatt]
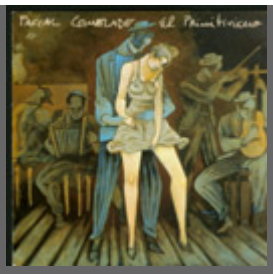
- Ricard Vines Sings The Blues
- Peluqueria Futurista
- Giulietta
- Souvenirs De Vernet-Les-Bains
- 96 Tears At Jazz Colon
- Sardane Ralentie
- Sophisticated Zazie
- Opérette De 2 Notes
- Fragment D'Un Concerto Pour Triangle
- Bésame Mucho
- Rayures Venitiennes
- L'air Des Bijoux
- Still I'm Sad

- Pascal Comelade - instruments

- Laurent Churet - guitars, drums
- Cathy Claret - flutes, toy drums, marimba
- Patrick "Alcazar" Chenière - guitars, violin
- Fabrice Pialet - tenor sax (3,11)
- Bruno Leguen - drums (3)
- Pierre Bastien - cello, trombone, violin, trumpets
- Bérénice Levy - clarinet (14)

- LES DISQUES DU SOLEIL ET DE L'ACIER (DSA54006) LP
- G3G RECORDS (G3PC7) CD couplé avec Détail Monochrome (2002)

Critiques/Reviews



> Zoom

Détail Monochrome
Bel Canto
2002

Pascal Comelade

- Valse De La Demoiselle Aux Yeux Verts

> Zoom

El Primitivismo
1987

- Syldavian Rapsodie
- Petenera
- La Dansa De Castellterçol
- Rue Des Soeurs Noires
- La Notte Di Blu (Standard)
- Les Dimanches Au Palmarium
- Jac B. And His Dancing Dogs
- O Caroline [D. Sinclair/R. Wyatt]
- Amarcord
- Memories [H. Hopper]
- Your Labios As Tulips
- Brune On Brune
- Sweet Little Sixteen
- Ball De l'Aliga
- Lieberslied
- El Cant Dels Ocells
- Volando Voy
- O Caroline [D. Sinclair/R. Wyatt]

- Pascal Comelade - guitare, plastic accordéon, violon, mandoline sur O Caroline (9), tous les instruments sur Memories et grand piano sur O Caroline (19)

- Laurent Sinclair - piano (11)
- Noémi Martinez - guitare (19)
- Gat - tambourin, verre en cristal (19)
- Jordi Agelaga - hautbois, cromone (19)
- Victor Nubla - clarinette basse, clarinette (19)
- Juan Creek - saxophones barytons (19)

Les titres O Caroline (9), Amarcord (10) et Memories (11) sont présents seulement sur le CD paru en 1992.

- LES DISQUES DU SOLEIL ET DE L'ACIER (DSA54011) LP
- LES DISQUES DU SOLEIL ET DE L'ACIER (CDSA54011) CD

> Zoom

Mimi 86
1987

Festival M.I.M.I 86

- Big Be Big (Purely Purgative Blues) (The Remotobs)
- Blanc (Etron Fou Leloublan)
- Trente Et Un (Joseph Racaille et l'Ensemble Guillaume de Rachaux)
- Making Seek And Hide (Fred Frith)
- The Way Things Fall (Skeleton Crew)
- Idyllic Rhythms (part II) (Regular Music)
- Trahi Ton Secret (Virgule IV)
- Post-Polar (Les Batteries)
- Chanson Pop (= Alifib) (Pascal Comelade Et Le Bel Canto Orquestra) [R. Wyatt]
- Park Güell (Pascal Comelade et le Bel Canto Orquestra)

Premier Festival MIMI aux Arènes Coinon à Saint-Rémy-de-Provence entre le 3 et le 6 juillet 1986

- DISQUES INOUI/OBLIQUES MUSIQUE (06910 4680) LP

Cet album est également présent dans la rubrique Various Artists .

> Zoom

Impressionnismes
1988

Pascal Comelade

- Blue Afternon
- La Lluna etc.
- Brune On Brune
- Petit ballet mécanique
- Sophisticated Zazie
- La Dansa De Castellterçol
- Syldavian Rapsodie
- Ricardo Vines Sings The Blues
- Peluqueria Futurista
- 96 Tears At Jazz Colon
- Sardane Ralentie
- Ball De L'Aliga
- Liebeslied
- Giulietta
- Penetera (Honky Tonk Women)
- La Notte Di Blu
- Besame mucho
- Jac B. And His Dancing Dolls
- O, Caroline [D. Sinclair/R. Wyatt]
- Stazione Termini
- Memories [H. Hopper]

Compilation japonaise.

- EVA/WAVE (29 EVA 2004) CD

Ruper Ordorika

- Antzinako Lekuetan
- Hung Up
- The Age Of Self [R. Wyatt]
- Ana Juanixe

- Ruper Ordorika - guitar, voice
- Nando de la Casa - rhythm K & keyboards
- Alberto de la Casa - bass

> Zoom 1 2

Henry Bengoa Inventarium
1988

- Bernardo Atxaga & Jose Mari Iturralde - readers

Performance based on scripts and lyrics by Bernardo Atxaga as well as music sections and songs.

- ELKAR (k-192) Cassette

> Zoom

The Early Years
1988

Bon Scott With The Valentines

- To Know You Is To Love You
- She Said
- Every Day I Have To Cry
- I Can't Dance With You
- Peculiar Hole In The Sky
- Love Makes Sweet Music [K. Ayers]
- I Can Hear Raindrops
- Why Me
- Sooky Sooky

- Bon Scott , vocals
- Bruce Abbott - bass
- Warwick Finlay - drums
- Wyn Milson - guitar
- Ted Ward - guitar, bass
- Vince Lovegrove - vocals

Compilation.

- C5 RECORDS (C5-520) LP

> Zoom

Live À Victoriaville
1988

Heiner Goebbels /Alfred 23 Harth

- Los Campesinos
- The Ballad Of The Durable Grey Goose / Ballade Von Der Haltbaren Graugans
- The Laughing And The Crying Man / Der Lachende Und Der Weinende Mensch
- Lightning Over Moscow / Blitze Über Moskau
- Imagine You're A Dolphin / Stell Dich Vor, Du Bist Ein Dolphin
- On Suicide / Über Den Selbsmord
- Le Rappel Des Oiseaux
- The Peking Opera / Peking Oper
- At Last I Am Free [Edwards/Rodgers]

- Heiner Goebbels - piano, synthesizer, clarinet, tenor saxophone, chinese violin, percussion, voice
- Alfred 23 Harth - tenor saxophone, soprano saxophone, bass clarinet, trombone, clarinet, trumpet

Enregistré Live au 5ème Festival de Musique Actuelle de Victoriaville, le vendredi 2 Octobre 1987 par Radio-Canada.

- LES DISQUES VICTO (VICTO04) LP
- LES DISQUES VICTO (VICTOcd04) CD

> Zoom

Double Bummer
1988

Bongwater

Disc 1
- Lesbians Of Russia
- Frank
- We Did It Again [K. Ayers]
- Homer
- Joy Ride
- Decadent Iranian Country Club
- David Bowie Wants Ideas
- Rock & Roll Part 2
- Just May Be The One
- There You Go
- Shark
- Jimmy
- Crime
- Pornography
- Pew

- Kramer - vocals, instruments
- David Licht - drums
- Ann Magnuson - vocals, instruments
- Dave Rick - guitar

- SHIMMY DISC (011) 2xLP

Disc 2
- Dazed & Chinese
- Bullaby
- So Help Me God
- His Old Look
- Stone
- Number
- Love You Too
- Reaganation
- Double Birth
- Bruce
- Pool
- Rain

> Zoom

Double Bummer +
1989

Bongwater

Disc 1
FIRST BUMMER
- Lesbians Of Russia
- Frank
- We Did It Again [K. Ayers]
- Homer
- Joy Ride
- Decadent Iranian Country Club
- David Bowie Wants Ideas
- Rock & Roll Part 2

SECOND BUMMER
- Just May Be The One
- There You Go
- Shark
- Jimmy
- Crime
- Pornography
- Pew

THIRD BUMMER
- Dazed & Chinese
- Bullaby
- So Help Me God
- His Old Look
- Stone
- Number

Disc 2
FINAL BUMMER
- Love You Too
- Reaganation
- Double Birth
- Bruce
- Pool
- Rain

DOUBLE BUMMER EPILOGUE
-Havana
- Pentagon
- Trtuh

BREAKING NO NEW GROUND
- Ride My See-Saw
- Barely Coping
- 4 Sticks
- U.S.O.
- His New Look
- Julia

THE 7'' SINGLE
- You Don't Love Me Yet
- The Porpoise Song

- Kramer - vocals, instruments
- David Licht - drums
- Ann Magnuson - vocals, instruments
- Dave Rick - guitar

Compilation avec des inédits.

- SHIMMY DISC EUROPE
  (SDE 8901/DCD) 2xCD

> Zoom

Songs From Home
1989

Dimthingshine

- Tra La
- Ten Feet Off The Ground
- The Core
- A Example
- B Example
- Alicia
- Rain Song (Frog Opera)
- Escalate
- Duet Song
- Amber And The Amberines [R. Wyatt]
- Swan Dive
- It's Nice To Be With You
- Zenaida
- Lava
- Elunde

All music recorded between 1983-1988.

- THINGSFLUX MUSIC
  (TF-8889CASS) Cassette

- Cave Pep
- A Cane And A High Starched Collar
- Sun Baked Pee Stains And Puevic Hair
- P.L.A. [R. Wyatt]
- Unreleased Zep
- Chun-Taryon
- The Model
- A Long Introduction
- Popular Poles / Worthy Opponents
- LMC3
- In Heaven
- Street Poems I & II
- Zerefunk

> Zoom

Too Much Sleep
1990

Bongwater

- The Living End
- The Drum
- Mr. and Mrs. Hell
- Too Much Sleep
- Talent Is a Vampire
- The Bad Review
- Ill Fated Lovers Go Time Tripping
- Psychedelic Sewing Room
- Splash I
- He Loved the Weather
- Teena Stays the Same
- One Hand on the Road
- Then the Babies Return
- Why Are We Sleeping? [K. Ayers/ M. Ratledge/R. Wyatt]
- Khomeini Died Tonight
- One So Black
- No Trespassing

- Kramer - backing vocals, instruments
- Ann Magnuson - lead vocals, instruments
- Dave Rick - guitar

- SHIMMY DISC (031) LP & CD
- SHIMMY DISC EUROPE (SDE 9017 CD) CD

> Zoom

Double Bummer /
Breaking No New Ground
1990

Bongwater

Disc 1
FIRST BUMMER
- Lesbians Of Russia
- Frank
- We Did It Again [K. Ayers]
- Homer
- Joy Ride
- Decadent Iranian Country Club
- David Bowie Wants Ideas
- Rock & Roll Part 2

SECOND BUMMER
- Just May Be The One
- There You Go
- Shark
- Jimmy
- Crime
- Pornography
- Pew

THIRD BUMMER
- Dazed & Chinese
- Bullaby
- So Help Me God
- His Old Look
- Stone
- Number

Disc 2
FINAL BUMMER
- Love You Too
- Reaganation
- Double Birth
- Bruce
- Pool
- Rain

DOUBLE BUMMER EPILOGUE
-Havana
- Pentagon
- Trtuh

BREAKING NO NEW GROUND
- Ride My See-Saw
- Barely Coping
- 4 Sticks
- U.S.O.
- His New Look
- Julia

THE 7'' SINGLE

- Kramer - backing vocals, instruments
- Ann Magnuson - lead vocals, instruments
- Dave Rick - guitar

- SHIMMY DISC (001/012) 2xCD

- You Don't Love Me Yet
- The Porpoise Song

> Zoom

Ez Da Posible
1990

Ruper Ordorika

- Urtaroa
- Ez Da Posible
- Zaldiak Negarrez
- The Age Of Self [R. Wyatt]
- Baltsean
- Ene Begiek
- Ene Herrian
- Gizona
- Benetan
- On Gizona Naiz
- Aspaldian
- Fas Fatum

Réédition CD en 1996 puis en 2005.

- GASA (4GA-0414) LP
- GASA (0630158672) CD

> Zoom

September Songs
1990

Horse Latitudes

- O Caroline [D. Sinclair/R. Wyatt]
- What Is More Than Life
- Baby Don't Go
- Harvest Days
- Thrown Away
- Building Mansions (That Will Fall)
- Northen Country Lie
- I Can't Stop Loving You
- [Untitled]

- Robert Grace - drums
- Derek Parker - acoustic guitar
- Chris Clarke - bass
- Wilson N. Scott -electric guitar

Last track is an unlisted/untitled instrumental reprise.

- CHERRY RED (LP MRED 90) LP
- CHERRY RED (LP BRED 90) CD

> Zoom 1 2

Haunted Chateau 1969
1990 (?)

Gong

- Stoned Innocent Frankenstein Jam
- Hello There
- Tropical Fish
- Bloomdido's Rap
- Dreaming It
- Hypnotize Yer
- Mama Maya Mantrum
- Why Are We Sleeping [K. Ayers/ M. Ratledge/R. Wyatt]
- I Am Your Fantasy
- Gongsong
- Est Que Je Suis
- Ali Ba Ba
- Big City Cat
- Zero And The Spell Of The Good Witch

- Daevid Allen
- Gilli Smyth
- Didier Malherbe
- Rachid Houari
- Christian Tritsch
- Daniel Laloux (left March 1970)

+ possibly

- Dieter Gewissler? (left end of 1969)
- Gerry Fields? (from Jan 1970)
- Barre Phillips?
- Tasmin Smyth?

Live 1969 & Réhearsals in Haunted Chateau.

December 1969 : "Gong (minus Gerry Field, who moves to London) settle in Château du Thiel (nicknamed "haunted château") near Bernay in Normandy (France), family seat of the Laperrousaz family, offered to Gong as temporary winter accommodation after the festival of Amougies.
They rehearse there over Christmas and "despite the unsympathetic presence of the ancestral ghost", create "Est-Ce Que Je Suis?", "Hyp Hyp Hypnotise Ya", and "It's The Time Of Your Life".
They also shoot additional sequences for the Amougies film." [calyx-canterbury.fr]

- OFFERSONGS/ GAZ RECORDS - Cassette

> Zoom

Haïkus De Pianos
1991

Pascal Comelade

- Tango Del Rossello
- Smoke On The Water
- Egyptian Reggae
- Let Me Try
- Alifib [R. Wyatt]
- Rue Des Soeurs Noires
- Your Labios As Tulips
- Put A Straw Under Baby
- C'Era Una Volta Il West
- Love Theme From Ben-Hur
- Mexican Theme From Rio Bravo
- Nocturn, A Joan Salvat-Papasseit
- Souvenir De Vernet-Les-Bains
- The Sad Skinhead
- Good-Bye Pork-Pie-Hat
- Greenlands
- Abril 74
- Valse De L'Aiguille Creuse
- 4 Roses Pour Marie
- Marcha Mora
- Amarcord
- I Surrender
- Besame Mucho
- 96 Tears
- Les Humeurs De Catherine

- Pascal Comelade - grand piano, toy piano

- EVA/WAVE (WWCX 2038) CD
- LES DISQUES DU SOLEIL ET DE L'ACIER (CDSA 54020) CD

Dedicated To You,
But You Weren't Listening
1992

The More Extended Versions

- Dedicated To You But You Weren´t Listening|Why Are We Sleeping [H. Hopper-K. Ayers/M. Ratledge/R. Wyatt]
- Little Red Riding Hood Hits The Road [R. Wyatt]
- Alifib [R. Wyatt]
- Stalin Wasn´t Stalling [B. Johnson]
- The Age Of Self [R. Wyatt]
- The British Road [R. Wyatt]
- Chairman Mao [R. Wyatt]
- Gharbzadegi [R. Wyatt]
- Justice [C. Cutler / L. Cooper]
- Dondestan [R. Wyatt]
- Left On Man [R. Wyatt]

- Sigrid Ecker - voc
- Christof Kurzmann - voc, ss, as, omnichord, samp, (git on 1)
- Helmut Heiland - git, bass, loop, dr-computer program
- Mex Wolfsteiner - drums

- NOT ON LABEL (EV0003) CD

> Zoom

Je Ne Fum' Pas Des Bananes
1992

Daevid Allen/Banana Moon Band/Gong

- Intro (Daevid Allen)
- Pretty Miss Titty (Banana Moon Band)
- Rich Girl (Banana Moon Band)
- Un Œuf For You (Banana Moon Band)
- My Mother's Gone To India / Hare Krishna / Time Of The Green Banana / Remember The Name (Banana Moon Band)
- La Belle Cérébrale (Daevid Allen/François Bayle)
- Est-Ce Que Je Suis (Garçon Ou Fille) (Gong)
- Hyp Hypnotise You (Gong)
- Goldilox (Daevid Allen)
- Why Do You Come Knocking At My Door ? (Daevid Allen)
- Rock'N'Roll Angel (Daevid Allen)
- Why Are We Sleeping? (Banana Moon Band) [K. Ayers/R. Wyatt/M. Ratledge]
- French Garden (Banana Moon Band)
- French Garden (Banana Moon Band)
- Pretty Miss Titty (Daevid Allen)
- Pretty Miss Titty (Banana Moon Band)
- Gong Song (Daevid Allen)
- Je Ne Fume Pas Des Bananes (Banana Moon Band)
- Je Ne Fume Pas Des Bananes (Daevid Allen)

- Daevid Allen - guitar, lead vocals
- Patrick Fontaine - bass
- Marc Blanc - drums
- Gilli Smyth - vocals

- LEGEND MUSIC (KZLM15011)CD
- LEGEND MUSIC (LM 9013) CD
- GONZO MULTIMEDIA (HST188CD) CD

> Zoom

BBC Radio 1 Live In Concert
1992

Kevin Ayers And The Whole World

- Lady Rachael
- May I
- Clarence In Wonderland [K. Ayers]
- Whatevershebringswesing
- There Is Loving
- Margaret
- Colores Para Dolores
- Crazy Gift Of Time
- Why Are We Sleeping [M. Ratledge, K. Ayers, R. Wyatt]

une version vinyl existe en bootleg (No Label) qui indique la date d'enregistrement par la BBC le 6/1/1972 au Paris Theatre London. Ces précisions sont absentes des notes de la version CD.

- WINDSONG INTERNATIONAL (WIN CD 018) CD

> Zoom

Double Up
1992

Phil Miller/Fred Baker

- Above & Below
- Underdub
- For Christine
- Second Sight
- Eastern Region
- Loggerheads
- Calyx [P. Miller]
- Green & Purple
- God Song [P. Miller/R. Wyatt]

- CRESCENT DISCS (CD1CD) CD

> Zoom

More Sad Hits
1992

Damon & Naomi

- E.T.A.
- Little Red Record Co.
- Information Age
- Laika
- This Car Climbed Mt. Washington
- Memories [H. Hopper]
- Astrafiammante
- Boston's Daily Temperature
- (Scene Change)
- Sir Thomas And Sir Robert
- Once More
- This Changing World

- Damon, Naomi and Kramer - all intsruments and vocals

- SHIMMY DISC (SHIMMY 058) LP
- SUB POP (SPCD 385) CD
- RYKODISC (RCD 10439) CD
- 20|20|20 (202020.06) CD
- 20|20|20 (202020.06LP) LP

> Zoom

United Kingdoms
1993

Ultramarine

- Source
- Kingdom
- Queen Of The Moon
- Prince Rock
- Happy Land
- Urf
- English Kitten
- Instant Kitten [R. Wyatt]
- Badgers
- Hooter
- Dizzy Fox
- No Time

- BLANCO Y NEGRO
  (4509-93425-2) CD
- WARNER MUSIC (WMC5-643) CD
- SIRE/GIANT (9 24528-2) K7

Cet album est également présent dans la rubrique With Friends.

> Zoom

Live
1993

Short Wave

- The Fox
- Saiseyes
- Frankly Speaking
- The Balladin
- 2 P.M.
- Partout
- Midnight Judo
- Shuffle Demons
- Nan True's Hole [P. Miller]
- VZG
- Et Alors...

- Didier Malherbe - alto saxophone, tenor saxophone, soprano saxophone, flute
- Hugh Hopper - bass
- Pip Pyle - drums
- Phil Miller - guitar, guitar synthesizer

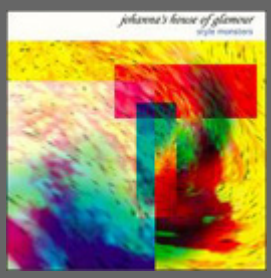
Recorded at Studio de Chennevières, New - Morning, A l'Ouest de la Grosne, Perpignan & Lille Jazz Festival (October 1992).

- GIMINI MUSIC (GM 1003) CD

> Zoom

An Evening Of Magic
1993

Richard Sinclair's Caravan Of Dreams



Disc 1
- In The Land Of Grey And Pink
- Only The Brave / Plan It Earth
- Share It
- Videos
- Heather
- Going For A Song
- O Caroline [D. Sinclair/R. Wyatt]
- Nine Feet Underground

Disc 2
- Felafel Shuffle
- Keep On Caring
- Cruising
- Emily
- Halfway Between Heaven & Earth
- It Didn't Matter Anyway
- Golf Girl

- Richard Sinclair - vocals, guitar
- Andy Ward - drums
- Rick Biddulph - bass, backing vocals
- Dave Sinclair - Korg M1, B3 Hammond organ

Recorded at Teatro Verdi, Genova, 26th March 1993

- MELLOW RECORDS (MMP 160)
  2xCD
- HTD RECORDS (HTD CD 17)
  2xCD

> Zoom

Style Monsters
1993

Johanna's House Of Glamour

- When You Do
- Industrial Beach
- Don't Believe In Miracles
- Incognito
- Sea Song [R. Wyatt]
- Slow Verse And Rhyme
- Liquid Treasure
- I Wonder If You Ever Wonder
- Love
- What's So Wrong About The Truth
- Tumbling Down
- Fresh And Tense
- Not In The Least
- Thick And Thin
- How Little It Takes

- C'EST LA MORT RECORDS
  (CLM 045-2) CD

> Zoom

Ce Monde Sauvage
1993

Faubert

- Ce monde sauvage
- A Certain Kind [H. Hopper]

Single accompagnant la sortie du LP Faubert.

- BMG (74321143942) S

> Zoom

Ce Monde Sauvage (RCA Edition)
1993

Faubert

- Ce monde sauvage
- A Certain Kind [H. Hopper]

Single accompagnant la sortie du LP Faubert.

- RCA (74321143942) S

> Zoom

Moon In June/Cowboy Song
1993

John Wesley Harding And The Monks Of Doom / Junk Monkeys

- Moon In June [R. Wyatt]
- Cowboy Song

- David Immerglück - guitar, vocals
- Victor Krummenacher - bass, vocals
- Greg Lisher - guitar
- Chris Pedersen - drums

Promo Version.

Cowboy Song by Junk Monkey is a Thin Lizzy cover.

- SIRE RECORDS (5965) S

> Zoom

Pascal Comelade

- Honky Tonk Women (Jagger/ Richards)
- The Way I Walk (Scott Jack)
- Let Me Try (Mc5)
- It's All Over Now, Baby Blue (Dylan Bob)
- Brand New Cadillac (Taylor Vince)
- Yo Quiero (Cooder Ry)
- Egyptian Reggae (Richman Jonathan)
- Les Yeux Noirs (Traditionnel)
- Sunny Afternoon (Davies Ray)
- Le Sacre Du Printemps (Stravinsky Igor/Duchamp Marcel)
- L'été Indien (Dassin Joe)

- LES DISQUES DU SOLEIL ET DE L'ACIER (DELABEL 394272) CD

Danses Et Chants
De Syldavie
1994

- The Third Man Theme (Karas Anton)
- C'est Un Parc (Manset Gerard)
- Mexican Theme From Rio Bravo (Tiomkin Dimitri)
- Zuhalter Ballade (Weill Kurt)
- Le Temps Des Cerises (Clément Jean-Baptiste)
- Ti Amo (Tozzi Umberto)
- Amapola (Chamfleury/Lacallo/ Cauvat)
- The Godfather Waltz (Rota Nino)
- La Bella Ciao (Traditionnel Italien)
- Besame Mucho (Velasquez Consuelo)
- Alifib [R. Wyatt]
- The Sad Skinhead "Faust"
- Moulin Rouge (Buckley Tim)
- Put A Straw Under Baby (Eno)
- I Surrender (Suicide)
- L'air Des Bijoux "Igor Wagner"
- Dali's Car (Van Vliet Don)
- It Hurts Me Too (James Elmore)
- The Midnight Special (Traditionnel)

> Zoom

Round About Wyatt
1994

Cpt. Kirk &. The More Extended Versions

- Round Midnight [T. Monk/Williams/ Hanighen]
- How We Could Just Kill A Man
- Racist Friend
- Alliance [R. Wyatt]
- Age Of Self [R. Wyatt]
- Gloria Gloom [R. Wyatt/B. McCormick]
- Born Again Cretin! [R. Wyatt]
- Jelly, Babies [R. Wyatt]
- Kingdom
- Moments Of Delight
- Venti Latir [R. Wyatt]

- WHAT'S SO FUNNY ABOUT (SF142) CD

> Zoom

Tatay
1994

Gorky's Zygotic Mynci

- Thema o gartref
- Beth sy'n digwydd i'r buwch
- Tatay
- Y Ffordd Oren
- Gwres Prynhawn
- Amsermaemaiyndod/cinema
- O, Caroline [D. Sinclair/R. Wyatt]
- Naw. E. Pimp
- Kevin Ayers
- When you Hear the Captain Sing
- O, Caroline
- Tatay (moog mix)
- Anna Apera
- Gegin Nos
- Silff Ffenest
- Backward Dog

Bonus Tracks Japanese Release

- Suzanne
- Monica
- Electric Sailor
- Cinemair

- ANKST (047) CD

Soft Machine

- Fanfare
- All White
- Slightly All The Time [M. Ratledge]
- M.C.
- Drop
- Stumble
- L.B.O.
- As If
- Riff

- Mike Ratledge - electric piano
- Hugh Hopper - electric bass
- John Marshall - drums
- Karl Jenkins - saxophone, keyboards, electric piano

Recorded on July 20, 1972 at The Paris Theatre - London.

> Zoom

BBC Radio 1 Live In Concert
1994

- WINDSONG INTERNATIONAL (WINCD056) CD

> Zoom

'Live 73
1995

Paragong

- Camembert Psilocybin Flashback
- Porquoi Dormons Nous? (The Gnome Rock Dispensation) [Blake, Hillage, Howlett, Malherbe, Moerlin]

- Tim Blake - synths, harmonica, vocals
- Setve Hillage - guitar, vocals
- Mike Howlett - bass
- Didier Malherbe - saxophones
- Pierre Moerlin - drums, percussion

Bien que crédité [Blake, Hillage, Howlett, Malherbe, Moerlin], ce morceau est une (très) libre adaptation de Why Are We Sleeping? de [M. Ratledge, K. Ayers, R. Wyatt].

- GAS RECORDS (A GAS CD 002) CD

> Zoom

Caveman Hughscore
1995

Caveman Hughscore

- A Rabbit Or A Lemon
- More Than Nothing
- Maja Raja
- Dee Dum
- Scooter Trash
- Dust My Mind
- Splinter Cat / Edorian
- A Small Seed
- Dedicated To You, But You Weren't Listening [H. Hopper]
- Virtual Cats
- Oregon Transplant
- Freak Control
- Extra Lung
- Sasquatch Elevator
- Panic

- Hugh Hopper - double speed bass
- Fred Chalenor - double speed bass
- Elaine DiFalco - vocals

- TIM/KERR (TK95CD093) CD

> Zoom

1971-1974 - Pre-Modernist Wireless On Radio :
The Peel Sessions
1995

Gong

- Magick Brother
- Clarence In Wonderland [K. Ayers]
- Tropical Fish / Selene
- You Can't Kill Me
- Radio Gnome Direct Broadcast
- Crystal Machine
- Zero The Hero And The Orgasm Witch
- Captain Capricorns Dream Saloon / Radio Gnome Invisible
- Oily Way

- Daevid Allen - guitar, vocals
- Kevin Ayers - guitar, vocals
- Christian Tritsch - bass
- Gilli Smyth - vocals
- Didier Malherbe - saxophone
- Pip Pyle - drums

Session recorded on 9 November 1971 for John Peel on the Sounds of the Seventies show on BBC Radio 1 (broadcast on the 17th november 1971).

- STRANGE FRUIT (SFR CD 137) CD

> Zoom

Unsettled Scores
1995

Various Artists

Disc 1
- The True Wheelbase / Coco Boudakian (Medley) (Forever Einstein)
- Hobart Got Burned (Kit Watkins & Coco Roussel)
- Onde Crepusculaire (Doctor Zero)
- Ubik (Peter Frohmader)
- Enfield In Summer (Piero Milesi)
- Transsibérien (Philharmonie)
- Unna (Hugh Hopper)
- A Moral Dilemma For Our Times (Birdsongs Of The Mesozoic)
- Promenade Sous Zéro (Miriodor)
- Meccano Pelorus (Phil Miller)
- The March (Or Ornette Went To Cecil's House, But Left After About 10 Minutes) (Henry Kaiser & Friends)

Disc 2
- Bulgarian Flying Spirit Dances (Happy Family)
- Dedicated To K.C. (Djam Karet)
- Pain Waits Till 5pm (Present C.O.D. Performance)
- They Walk Among Us (Richard Pinhas & John Livengood)
- Miniluv (David Borden)
- Three Curiously Insubstantial Duets, No. III (Volapük)
- Summer Walk (Rattlemouth)
- Piége (PFS)
- Complainte (George Cartwright)
- Carousel, Dedicated To Hugh (U Totem) [P. Meyer/H. Hopper]
- Get Moose And Squirrel (Virgil Moorefield)
- She Wears Her Dead Mother's Hat (The Muffins)
- Dyed (C.W. Vrtacek)

- James Grigsby - bass, guitar
- Eric Johnson-Tamai - bassoon
- Emily Hay - flute, voice
- Sanjay Kumar - keyboards
- David Kerman - percussion

Dedicated To Hugh is a cover of Dedicated To You But You Weren't Listening.

- CUNEIFORM RECORDS (RUNE 75/76) 2xCD

Live 14th December 1994
1995

Mirage

Disc 1
- The Great Marsh
- Rhayader|Rhayader Goes To Town
- Song Within A Song
- Speed Of Light
- In Dreams
- Tell Me
- Skylines
- Nine Feet Underground (excerpt)
- Caravan Medley (includ. Wraiks And Ladders)
- All Aboard
- Where But For Caravan Would I
- O Caroline [D. Sinclair/R. Wyatt]
- The Love In Your Eye
- Backwards
- A Hunting We Shall Go

Disc 2
- Never Let Go
- Lizard On A Rock
- The Sleeper
- Timepiece
- For Richard
- Journey
- Freefall
- Lunar Sea
- Gunblasters

- Pete Bardens - keyboards, vocals
- Andy Ward - drums, percussions
- Dave Sinclair - keyboards
- Jimmy Hastings - saxes, flute
- Pye Hastings - guitars, vocals
- Rick Biddulph - bass, vocals
- Steve Adams - guitar, vocals

Recorded at the Manchester Apollo on 14/12/1994.

- MIRAGE MUSIC (MM001CD) 2xCD

Henry Cow

Disc 1
- Beautiful As The Moon|Terrible As An Army With Banners|Nirvana For Mice|

Version CD du double-album publié en 1976.

> Zoom

Concerts (1995 Reissue)
1995

Ottawa Song|Gloria Gloom [R. Wyatt/B. McCormick] |Moon (Reprise)
- Bad Alchemy|Little Red Riding Hood Hits The Road
- Ruins
- Groningen
- Gronigen Again

Disc 2
- Oslo
- Off the Map
- Cafe Royal
- Keeping Warn In Winter|Sweet Heart Of Mine
- Udine

Bonus tracks pour cette réédition CD : Off the Map, Cafe Royal et Keeping Warn In Winter|Sweet Heart Of Mine

- EAST SIDE DIGITAL (80822) 2xCD

Cet album est également présent dans la rubrique With Friends.

> Zoom

Fanfare
1995

Eric Matthews

- Fanfare
- Lids, Nails, Screws
- A Certain Kind [H. Hopper}
- Distant Mother Reality (S.H. Mix)

- Eric Matthews - organ, bass, voice, piano
- Tony Lash - drums

- SUB POP (SP 319) EP

> Zoom

Live In France
1995

Soft Machine

- Plain Tiffs
- All White
- Slightly All The Time [M. Ratledge]
- Drop
- M.C.
- Out-Bloody-Rageous [M. Ratledge]
- Facelift [M. Ratledge]
- And Sevens
- As If
- LBO
- Pigling Bland
- At Sixes

- Elton Dean - saxello, alto sax Rhodes piano
- Hugh Hopper - bass
- John Marshall - drums
- Mike Ratledge - electric piano, organ

Recorded at L'Olympia, Paris, on 1972-05-02.

- ONE WAY RECORDS (OW 31445) 2xCD

> Zoom

Llanfwrog
1995

Gorky's Zygotic Mynci

- Miss Trudy
- Eira
- Methu Aros Tan Haf
- Why Are We Sleeping? [M. Ratledge, K. Ayers, R. Wyatt]

- ANKST (CD 056) CD
- ANKST (ANKST 056) EP

Cassiber

> Zoom

Beauty & The Beast (Reedition)
1995

- Six Rays
- Robert
- Last Call
- Ach Heile Mich
- Haruspices
- Under New Management
- Vengeance Is Dancing
- In Einer Minute
- Und Ich Werde Nicht Mehr Sehe
- Prendre La Lune Avec Les Dents
- At Last I Am Free [Edwards/Rodgers]
- (silence)
- Time Running Out

Reedition de l'album Beauty & The Beast paru en 1984, enrichi du morceau Time Running Out.

- ReR MEGACORP (ReR CCD3) CD
- ReR MEGACORP (ReR CCD2) CD

↑

> Zoom

Clapham Junction
1996

Serious Solid Swineheard Is Better Than Homecooked

- Terry in the bass
- Chamber Music (Along The River)
- Häppi Huberts Potpürree Ensemble
- Buddy & Soul
- Krach
- Words Of Dylan Thomas
- Same procedure
- Memories [H. Hopper}
- Sultan Sinhan
- Englische Besonderheiten In Form Eines halben Walzers
- God Bless The (trigger-gate) Piano
- Straßenzustandsgericht

- AMF MUSIC (AMF 1046) CD

↑

> Zoom

Singing The Bruise
The BBC Sessions 1970-72
1996

Kevin Ayers

- Why Are We Sleeping?
- You Say You Like My Hat
- Gemini Chile
- Lady Rachel
- Derby Day
- Interview
- We Did It Again [K. Ayers]
- Oyster And The Flying Fis
- Butterfly Dance
- Whatevershebringswesing
- Falling In Love Again
- Queen Thing

- Robert Wyatt - drums, backing vocals

- Kevin Ayers - vocals, guitar
- David Bedford - piano
- Mike Ratledge - organ
- Lol Coxhill - soprano sax
- Elton Dean - alto sax
- Lyn Dobson - soprano sax, harmonica
- Nick Evans - trombone
- Hugh Hopper - bass

- BAND OF JOY RECORDS (BOJCD 019) CD
- VIRGIN (72438 45208 2 3) CD
- STRANGE FRUIT (72438 45208 2 3) 2xLP

Cet album est également présent dans la rubrique With Friends.

↑

Saturnine, Marshall, & Lunatic
1996

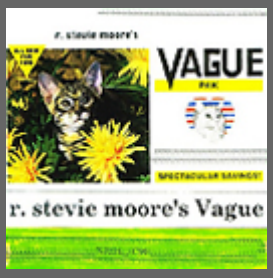
Tears For Fears

- Johnny Panic And The Bible Of Dreams
- Big Chair
- Schrodinger's Cat
- My Life In The Suicide Ranks
- When in Love With A Blind Man
- Pharaohs
- Deja Vu & The Sins Of Science
- Marauders
- Tears Roll Down
- New Star
- Body Wah
- Lord of Karma
- Bloodletting Go
- Always In The Past

- FONTANA (528 114-2) CD

- Sea Song [R. Wyatt]
- Ashes To Ashes
- Empire Building
- Way You Are

> Zoom



Introducing
Gorky's Zygotic Mynci
1996

Gorky's Zygotic Mynci

- Merched Ya Neod Gwalt Eu Gilydd (Girls Doing Each Other's Hari)
- If Fingers Were Xylophones
- Pentree Wrth y Mor (Village by the Sea)
- Game of Eyes
- Kevin Ayers
- Miss Trudy
- Why Are We Sleeping? [K. Ayers/M. Ratledge/R. Wyatt]
- Y Ffordd Oren (The Orange Way)
- Meth Aros Tan Haf (Can't Wait Till Summer)
- Era
- Lechyd Da (Good Health)
- Moon Beats Yellow

Compilation 1994-1995.

- MERCURY (314 532 816-2) CD
- MERCURY (MECT 114) K7

> Zoom

Vague
1996

R. Stevie Moore

Disc 1
WANDERING, UNCLEAR AND NEBULOUS
- Introduction
- Objectivity
- Love Is Dead, Pal
- Tom Wasted
- Hypotenuse #1
- Precious and Few
- My Girlfriend Rules
- Vague
- Hypotenuse #2
- No Flat Cola
- Mama Remembers
- Glee Club
- Displeasure Leisure
- Torture Us
- So Young
- Str Trk (Ng)

Bonus tracks
- Red Chair Fade Away (inst)
- Red Chair Fade Away (vcl)
- What's Happening?? (alt version)
- Electric Guitar Lesson #2
- God Song (live WFMU) [P. Miller/ R. Wyatt]
- Carey (inst)
- Rose Garden (dub version)
- Love Is A Hurtin' Thing (inst)
- Love Is A Hurtin' Thing (vcl extract)
- Love Is A Hurtin' Thing

Disc 2
WOOLY, LAX OR NAIVE
- Profound Trivia
- Red Chair Fade Away
- God Song [P. Miller/R. Wyatt]
- Sleepwalking
- Obj
- Painted Plaque
- Carey
- Mickey Dismantled (Maris the Spider)
- In And Of Itself
- That Said....
- I Don't Want To Be With You (When You're Like This)
- Vague
- Mind Your Own Business D5
- Mind Your Own Business HW
- Cathy's Clown
- Cool Daddio (by Grinknon Band)
- Letterhead (to my house)

Bonus tracks
- Objectivity Megamix Pt. 1
- Objectivity Megamix Pt. 2
- So Young (Students take 1)
- Who's That Knockin' On My Door?
- My Girlfriend Rules (inst)

- (NJ224) 2xCD & K7 (C100)

- My Girlfriend Rules (vcl)
- Precious And Few (inst)
- Byrd Bed
- Roger calls
- Silly Love (vcls)

> Zoom

Negative Capability...
Check It Out!
1996

Urinals

- Dead Flowers
- Hologram
- Last Days Of Man Earth
- Surfin' With The Shah
- Black Hole
- I'm White And Middle Class
- I'm A Bug
- Ack Ack Ack Ack
- Sex
- Go Away Girl
- U
- Scholastic Aptitude
- I Hate
- She's A Drone
- Male Masturbation
- Return Of Jake Boodler, The
- Presence Of Mind
- Sex - (Acousitc)
- I'm Like You
- Orange Anal Sin
- Salmonella
- I'm A Bug
- Ack Ack Ack Ack
- Mr. Encore
- Why Are We Sleeping? [K. Ayers/ M. Ratledge/R. Wyatt]
- Shape Of Things To Come
- You're Gonna Miss Me
- Hologram
- Jetsons Main Theme
- Don't Make Me Kill Again
- You Piss Me Off

- AMPHETAMINE REPTILE (045) CD
- WARNING LABEL RECORDS (WLR003) CD

> Zoom

Forever
1997

Dune

- Who Wants To Live Forever
- 9 Pm Abbey Road
- Somebody
- One Moment
- Against All Odds
- The Promise
- Sea Song [R. Wyatt]
- Little Princess
- The Power Of Love
- Works
- Nothing Compares 2 U
- Variations
- Hide And Seek
- Forever
- Winter Kills
- Reprise

- ORBIT RECORDS (8427942) CD

> Zoom

Jacopo Andreini

- Rivers And Plains
- Song For Che
- Washer
- Keith Jarreth In Jamaica
- The Model
- To Nick Everyone [R. Wyatt]
- Django
- Alifib [R. Wyatt]
- L'Accolita Dei Rancorosi
- Evidence
- So Real

- FRIGORIFERO PROD. - K7

Cover Me Now
1997

> Zoom

Colonial Recordings
1997

Colonial Recordings

- Horrible Pink Legs
- Lady Porconio
- Doggerel
- Fumatori Contro Non Fumatori
- Check
- Scomposti
- Jazz
- Trio Di Corde
- To Be Naked It's Just An Attitude
- Ondoso
- T'ho Visto!
- Please Be Gentle
- Doggerel
- Alifib [R. Wyatt]

- Mat Pogo - vocals
- Edoardo Ricci - alto sax, bass clarinet, cornet, performer [megaphone],
- Nicotina - electric guitar
- Helmut - bass
- Pippo Pedol - electric upright bass
- Jacopo Andereini - drums, alto saxophone, tuba, acoustic guitar

- FRIGORIFERO PRODUCTION - CD

> Zoom

Forever Limited
1997

Dune

Disc 1
INSTRUMENTAL EDITION
- Who Wants To Live Forever
- Somebody
- Against All Odds
- Sea Song [R. Wyatt]
- The Power Of Love
- Nothing Compares 2 U
- Hide And Seek
- Winter Kills

Disc 2
PIANO WORKS
- 9pm Abby Road
- One Moment
- The Promise
- Little Princess
- Works
- Variations
- Forever
- Reprise

Edition limitée à 2000 exemplaires.

-ORBIT RECORDS - 2xCD

> Zoom

Objectivity
1997

Yung & Moore

- Objectivity
- Norway
- Love Is Dead, Pal
- I Like My Life
- Tom Wasted
- God Song [R. Wyatt/Ph. Miller]
- Where We Are Right Now

Bonus Tracks
- Objectivity (BA megamix)
- Norway (rsm)
- I Like My Life (orig dub)
- God Song [R. Wyatt/Ph. Miller]
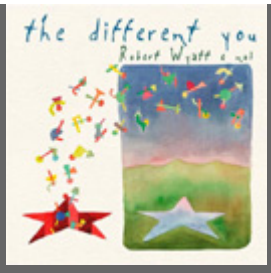
- Where We Are Right Now (orig)
- Promo Flexidisc
- I Wish Marvin Gaye's Father Had Shot Me Instead (chrysanthemums)
- The Holocaust Parade (rsm/chrysanthemums)



- R. Stevie Moore - bass
- Yukio Yung - lead vocal, vibes

- JAR MUSIC (JAR 014) CD

Robert Wyatt E Noi (Tribute)

- Sea Song (Ci S'ha) [R. Wyatt]
- Re-born Again Cretin

Cet album est également présent dans

> Zoom

The Different You
1998

(Almamegretta) [R. Wyatt]
- O Caroline (Max Gazze) [Dave Sinclair/Robert Wyatt]
- Alifib (S. Cosentino / F. Battiato) [R. Wyatt]
- Gharbzadegi (Marco Parente/La Crus) [R. Wyatt]
- Little Red Riding Hood Hit The Road (Estasia) [R. Wyatt]
- Memories (In Circolo/M. Spinosa) [H. Hopper]
- Left On Man (G. Onorato/Madaski) [R. Wyatt]
- Maryan (G. Di Marco/Cristina Dona') [R. Wyatt/Ph. Catherine]
- Yolanda (L. Cherubini/Jovanotti) [P. Milanes]
- A Sunday In Madrid (Area) [A. Benge/R. Wyatt]
- Amber And The Amberines (M. Pagani) [R. Wyatt]
- Free Will And Testament (A. Chimenti/M. Redeghieri) [R. Wyatt/Kramer]
- Dondestan (G. Canali/U. Bator) [R. Wyatt]
- A Last Straw (M. Kuntz/M. Nikaido/ P. Hamilton)[R. Wyatt]
- Del Mondo (Robert Wyatt)
- Chairman Mao (C.S.I.) [R. Wyatt, Charlie Haden]
- Five Black Notes And One White Note (Dissoi Logoi) [Offenbach/ R. Wyatt]

les rubriques With Friends et Samples.

> Zoom

- C.P.I./MERCURY (300496-2) CD

↑

A Robert
1998

Perdio

- A Robert
- Non Lontano Molto Tempo Fa
- Fermati Fermati
- O Caroline [D. Sinclair/R. Wyatt]
- For Love
- Cerca Dentro Te
- Caleidoscopio
- Che Strano Amore
- Deve Esserci
- Magiche Melodie

- Titta Colleoni - keyboards, vocals
- Fulvio Monieri - bass, guitar, vocals
- Michele Capogrosso - drums, vocals
- Diego Valtorta - guitar

- GALLIO (SAF 033) CD

↑

> Zoom

Just Us
1998

Elton Dean

- Ooglenovastrome
- Something Passed Me By
- Blind Badger
- Neo-Caliban Grides [E. Dean]
- Part: The Last
- Banking On Bishopsgate
- Fun Cup

Japanese Bonus Verion
- A.N.1.

- Elton Dean - alto saxophone, saxello, electric piano
- Roy Babbington - bass
- Mark Charig - cornet
- Phil Howard - drums
- Mike Ratledge - electric piano, organ

Reedition of the album release in 1971, including 2 new tracks and a name change "Just Us".

The Japanese version published by Arcàngelo Records contains an extra track.

- CUNEIFORM RECORDS (RUNE 103) CD
- ARCANGELO (ARC-7235) CD (Japanese Version)

↑

Caravan

- HUX RECORDS (HUX 002) CD

> Zoom

Songs For Oblivion Fishermen
1998

- Hello Hello
- If I Could Do It All Over Again, I'd Do It All Over You
- As I Feel I Die
- Love Song Without Flute
- Love To Love You
- In The Land Of Grey And Pink
- Memory Lain Hugh
- A Hunting We Shall Go/Backwards [M. Ratledege]
- Love In Your Eye
- Mirror For The Day
- For Richard
- Virgin On The Ridiculous

> Zoom

Dark Gift Of Time
1998

Christine Collister

- The Whole Night Sky
- Dirt In The Ground
- Deeper Well
- I Want To Vanish
- Black Eyed Dog
- Point Scarlett
- God Bless The Child
- Lowish Time
- Always There
- Free Will And Testament [R. Wyatt/ Kramer]
- Sad & Beautiful World

- FLEDG'LING FLED (3016) CD
- KOCH RECORDS (KOC 8022) CD

> Zoom

Eppur Non Basta
1998

Marco Parente

- Eppur Non Basta (intro)
- Eri
- L'Ultima Cena
- Oio
- Il Mare Si e' Fermato
- Sopra Sopra
- Buone Prestazioni
- Musica Per
- Eppur non Basta
- I Fuochi di Fine Millennio
- L' Aggio Scritt'a Canzone
- Eppur Non Basta (ripresa)
- Oggi Si Ride
- Gharbzadegi [R. Wyatt]

Les deux derniers morceaux (dont Gharbzadegi) n'apparaissent que sur la version Edition Spéciale de ce CD.

Gharbzadegi est également présent sur la compilation A Different You.

- SONICA/CPI - CD

> Zoom

Monochromatic Adventure
1998

Ultra Living

- Monochromatic Adventure
- Sweetest Pleasure
- Freeze, Die & Revive
- (Fire Is The) Ultra Living
- Traves
- Cosmo Vittelli
- God Song [R. Wyatt/Ph. Miller]
- Homesick
- The Sky Is High Enough To Fly
- Mr. Freedom

- CREATION RECORDS (CRECD 211) CD
- CREATION RECORDS (CRELP 211) LP

Bang On A Can

> Zoom

Music For Airports
A 20th-Anniversary Version Of Brian Eno's Ambient Classic
1998

- 1/1 (Arranged By Michael Gordon) [Eno, Wyatt, Davies]
- 1/2 (Eno, arranged by David Lang)
- 2/1 (Eno, arranged by Julia Wolfe)
- 2/2 (Eno, arranged by Evan Ziporyn)

- POINT MUSIC (314 536 847-2) CD

↑

> Zoom

Disinformation
1999

Tin Huey

- Cheap Mechanics
- The Tin Huey Story Part 2
- Otis Says No
- Closet Bears
- Lovely Little Thing
- Missing Persons
- Reliable Sources
- Blow 'em Away
- Robert Takes The Road To Liebernawash + Little Red Riding Hood Hit The Road [R. Wyatt]
- Wise Up
- Almost Transparent Blue
- Seeing(live)
- Living With Strangers
- Sick Jones
- The Tin Huey Story

- Michael Aylward - guitar, vocals
- Stuart Austin - drums, percussion
- Chris Butler - guitar, vocals
- Ralph Carney - Horns (lots of) and the occasional sneeze
- Harvey Gold - keyboards, bass, guitar, vocals
- Ralph Legnini - guitar, vocals
- Mark Price - bass, vocals

- FUTURE FOSSI (DIG3-CDFF) CD

↑

> Zoom

NoTvDoo
1999

Dissòi Logòi

- NoTvDoo
- DHX 119
- Sequenze
- La luna e Venere
- Tagete
- 5 Black Notes [Offenbach/R. Wyatt]
- Absimi
- Baba Yaga
- Glory
- Notturno

- Franco Parravicini - electric and acoustic guitar, electric bass, adungo (ethnical harp from Uganda), programming, tapes and feedbacks
- Alberto Morelli - piano, keyboards, ethnical instruments (zurna, shurnay, soz, choncs), percussions, vibe, voice-chonc, programming, tapes and feedbacks
- Stefano Scarani - zapping man
- Ettore Castagna - lira calabra (ethnical violin from south Italy)
- Steve James - violin and sarod (ethnical string from India)
- Giuditta Colombo - violin
- Piero Milesi - cello
- Daniele Sala - double bass
- Gerardo Cardinale -recorder and programming
- Roberto Mazza - oboe
- Mario Arcari - clarinet
- Gabriele Coltri - biniou kozh (french bagpipe)
- Moni Ovadia - voice
- Eric Wood - voice
- Laura Fedele - voice
- Muna Amari - voice
- Amelia Cuni - voice
- A Mysterious Tibetan Monk - voice
- Federico Sanesi - ethnic percussion (tabla, req, dhol, dumbbek, kangjra, darabuka)
- Giorgio Gallo - percussions
- Francesco D'Auria -drums

5 Black Notes est également présent sur la compilation The Different You - Robert Wyatt e noi.

- COMPAGNIA NUOVE INDYES (LDL 11126) CD

> Zoom

Different
1999

Hopper/S.Klossner

- Lying There
- Pack Light
- And The Rain Falls
- 20th Year
- The Story
- Clouds
- Dream Sequence
- Was A Friend [R. Wyatt/H. Hopper]
- Otherworld
- Yr Protection
- Strawberry Back
- Come, Come
- 20th Year (Reprise)

- Hugh Hopper - cubase programming, keyboards, bass
- Lisa S. Klossner - vocals
- Christine Janet - trompet
- Chrystelle Blanc-Lanaute - flute

- BLUEPRINT (BP303CD) CD

> Zoom

Le Nozze Chimiche
1999

Giancarlo Onorato

- Le Nozze Chimiche
- Left On Man [R. Wyatt]
- Io Sono L'Angelo
- Left On Man (Interferenze) [R. Wyatt]

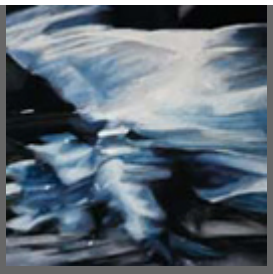
- Giancarlo Onorato - voce, chit. ac., organizer crumar, basso
- Enrico Manera - batteria, cembalo
- Riccardo Torri - basso
- Marco Congiu - chitarra fuzz, pianoforte, organo
- Gabriele Mazzei - pianoforte

- LILIUM PRODUZIONI (LILLIUM022/668402 2) - CD-S

> Zoom

Una musica può fare
1999



Max Gazzé

- Una musica può fare
- O Caroline [D. Sinclair/R. Wyatt]

Promo Version.

O Caroline est également présent sur la compilation The Different You - Robert Wyatt e noi.

- VIRGIN (8957172) CD-S

To Canterbury And Beyond
1999

A Tribute To The Canterbury Scene

Disc 1
- The Isle Of Everywhere (Zoo Lunaire)
- Crumble/Didn't Matter Anyway (Chameleon)
- The Bryden 2-Step/For Amphibians (Phil Mercy)
- Ride (Arbogast)
- Radio Gnome Invisible (Marco Masoni)
- Echec Naturel [R. Wyatt](Patrick Forgas/France)
- Sea Song (Hostsonaten/Italie) [R. Wyatt]
- Dedicated To You, But You Weren't Listening (Ashqelon Quilt/Israel) [H. Hopper]
- The Soft Weed Factor (Synthetic Block)
- Hell's Bells (David Bagsby)
- Hello Hello (Notturno Concertante)

Disc 2
- Wring Out The Ground/Loosely Now (The Underground Railroad)
- Can't Be Long Now/Francoise/For Richard (Tilion)
- The Collapso/Squarer For Maud (L'Imbroglio)
- A Last Straw/Box 25/4 Lid (Mary Newsletter/Italie) [R. Wyatt]
- At Last I'm Free (Nostalgia/Italie) [R. Wyatt version]
- Deconstructing Wyatt (Algebra/Italie)
- Alifib/Alife (Dono Celeste/Italie) [R. Wyatt]
- Spring Any Day Now (Phil Beane)
- Sasquatch (Moonmadness Of Divae)
- Place Of My Own (Rotters' Club)
- Unevensong (Trama)

Track 6 (for information):
including Hope For Happiness and Joy Of A Toy from The Soft Machine Vol. 1.
- Patrick Forgas - vocals, keyboards, programming

Track 7:
- Fabio Zuffanti - vocals, guitar, moog)
- Osvaldo Giordano - organ, synth-bass, programming

Track 8 (for information):
from The Soft Machine Vol. 2.
- Ori Hendel - vocals, guitar
- Shachar Hendel - keyboards, drums, bass-programming
- Corinne Schlomovitch - violin

Track 15:
- Mario Valentino Brame - drums, vocals
- Massimiliano Galbani - vocals
- Marco Gusberti - keyboards, piano
- Massimo Necchi - bass
- Davide Pisi - guitar

Track 16:
- Massimo Mazzeo - guitar, backing vocals
- Andrea Romano - keyboards, programming
- Paola Buscaglia - lead-vocal

Track 17:
including The British Road, The Age of Self, Speechless, Gharbzadegi from Old Rottenhat.
- Rino Pastore - synthetizer, vocals
- Roberto Polcino - keyboards
- Maria Giammetti - flute, sax, vocals
- Franco Ciani - drums, percussion
- Mario Giammetti - vocals, guitar, bass)

Track 18:
- Antony Graham Milner - vocals
- Ignazio Serventi - guitar
- Alessandro Buzzi - drums, percussion
- Giampaolo Piras - bass
- Enrico Ghezzi - keyboards

- MELLOW RECORDS (MMP 361 A/B) 2xCD

Ce double album a fait l'objet d'une réédition au format digital en 2018.

> Zoom

Songbird
1999

Christine Collister

- Kicking In My Stall
- How Far To The Horizon
- Guilty
- Can't Cry Hard Enough
- Black Eyed Dog
- Driving Past
- How Will I Ever Be Simple Again
- Starting All Over
- Free Will And Testament [R. Wyatt Kramer]
- Broken Bicycles
- Cornfield
- Point Scarlett
- I Keep Forgetting

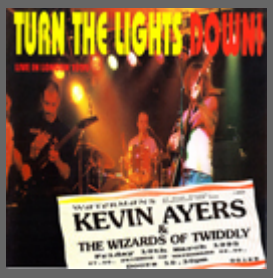
Compilation.

Free Will And Testament est extrait de l'album Dark Gift Of Time.

- FLEDG'LING FLED (3025) CD

- Tracks Of My Tears
- Songbird

> Zoom



Delta Flora
1999

Hughscore

- Was A Friend [R. Wyatt/H. Hopper]
- Facelift [H. Hopper]
- November
- Ramificatios
- Robohop
- Remind Me
- Spacelift
- Based On
- Tokitae

- Fred Chalenor - guitar, bass
- Elaine Di Falco - vocal accordion, organs, keyboards
- Tucker Martine - drums, percussions
- Chrystelle Blanc-Lanaute - flute
- Jon Hide - pedal steel
- Dave Carter - trompet
- Robert Jarvis - trombone
- Craig Flory - saxophone tenor
- Elton Dean - saxophone alto

- CUNEIFORM (RUNE 110) CD

> Zoom

Turn The Lights Down
(Live in London 1995)
1999

Kevin Ayers & Wizards of Twiddly

- There Goes Johnny
- See you Later
- Didn't Feel Lonely ('Till I Thought of You)
- When Your Parents Go To Sleep
- Lady Rachel
- Super Salesman
- Am I Really Marcel ?
- Everybody's Sometime And Some People's All The Time Blues
- Beware of The Dog II
- Ballad of Mr. Snake
- May I ?
- Why Are We Sleeping ? [K. Ayers/ M. Ratledge/R. Wyatt]
- Stranger in The Blue Suede Shoes

- Kevin Ayers - vocals, guitar
- Carl Bowry - guitar, vocals
- Andy Delamere - drums, vocals
- Andy Frizell - vocals, bass
- Martin Smith - trumpet, horn, vocals
- Simon James - vocals, flute, tenor saxophone, keyboards

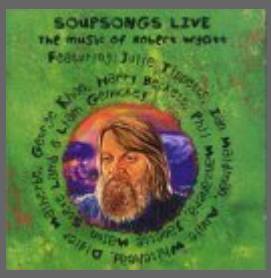
Recorded live at the Waterman's Art Centre, West London, March 10 1995.

- MARKET SQUARE (MSMCD105) CD
- MSI (MSIF 7913) CD
- MSI (MSIL 059) CD

> Zoom

MW3
2000

Robert Wyatt/Jean-Michel Marchetti



- Robert (Robert Wyatt)
- P.L.A. (Toupidek, Limonade et J. Tagu) [R. Wyatt]
- Alifib (R. Robert, G. Tordjman) [R. Wyatt]
- Toledo Texas (J.M. Montera, E. Martusciello, F.Y Lugli-Martinez) [R. Wyatt]
- Dondestan (Look de Book) [R. Wyatt]
- Sea Song (Klimperei) [R. Wyatt]
- Born Again Cretin (Dominique Répécaud) [R. Wyatt]
- Little Red Robin Hood Hit The Road (Jaggernaut) [R. Wyatt]
- To the Old World (Dominique Grimaud)
- Left On Man (L'Ensemble Rayé) [R. Wyatt]
- Little Red Riding Hood Hit The Road (J. Bogaert, An Pierlé, J. Snauwaert) [R. Wyatt]
- Caroline (D. Fellmann, J. Goetz) [D. Sinclair/R. Wyatt]
- Mass Medium (Ph. Fretun, M. Benita) [R. Wyatt]
- Alifib (Pascal Comelade) [R. Wyatt]
- Heli Plop (Alain de Filipis)
- Toledo Texas (Jean-François Pauvros) [R. Wyatt]
- For R.W. (Ch. Cutler, T. Buck, J.M. Montera, J.F. Pauvros)
- Alifib (Le Piano De La Rue De

Ce CD édité par les éditions Ænc rages& Co accompagne l'ouvrage M3W de J.M. Marchetti.

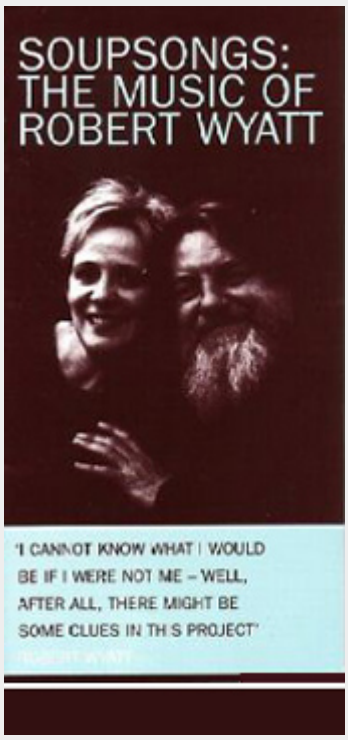
- AENCRAGES & Co/IN POLY SONS (IPS 08 00) CD

Cet album est également présent dans la rubrique With Friends et Samples.

Vergennes) (Jean-Michel Marchetti)
[R. Wyatt]

> Zoom

Soupsongs Live
2000



Soupsongs Live
The Music Of Robert Wyatt

Disc 1
- Sonia [M. Feza]
- Sunday In Madrid [A. Benge/ R. Wyatt]
- Sea Song [R. Wyatt]
- September The Ninth [A. Benge/ R. Wyatt]
- Duchess [R. Wyatt]
- P.L.A. [R. Wyatt]
- Alliance [R. Wyatt]
- Left On Man [R. Wyatt]
- Muddy Mouse [A] [Version] [F. Frith/ R Wyatt]
- Solar Flares [R. Wyatt]
- Muddy Mouse [B] [Mix] [F. Frith/ R Wyatt]
- 5 Black Notes And 1 White Note [Offenbach/R. Wyatt]
- Muddy Mouse [C] [Edit][F. Frith/ R Wyatt]

Disc 2
- Free Will And Testament [R. Wyatt/ Kramer]
- Team Spirit [B. MacCormick/ R. Wyatt/P. Manzanera]
- Vandalusia [R. Wyatt]
- Little Red Riding Hood Hit The Road [R. Wyatt]
- Alifib/Alife [R. Wyatt]
- Sight Of the Wind [R. Wyatt/A. Benge]
- Gharbzadegi [R. Wyatt]
- Soup Song [H. Hopper/R. Wyatt]
- Dondestan [R. Wyatt]
- Heaps Of Sleeps [A. Benge/R. Wyatt B. Eno]

- Julie Tippetts - voice
- Ian Maidman - voice, electric and acoustic guitars, ukulele, accordion
- Annie Whitenead - trombone, voice, arrangements
- Didier Malherbe - flutes, alto & soprano saxophones, doudoux, ocarina
- Georges Khan - tenor & baritone saxophones
- Harry Beckett - trumpet, flugelhorn
- Phil Manzanera - electric guitar
- Janette Mason - keyboards, piano
- Steve Lamb - bass
- Liam Genockey - drums

- JAZZPRINT (JPVP101) 2xCD

> Zoom

September Song
2000

Pascal Comelade

- September Song
- Signed Curtain [R. Wyatt]
- Come Prima
- The Sheik Of Araby
- 24 Mila Baci
- Knockin' On Heaven's Door
- L'Italiano

- Pascal Comelade - pianos

- DISQUES DU SOLEIL ET DE L'ACIER/DELABEL (7243 8496562 4) CD

Cet album est également présent dans la rubrique With Friends.

> Zoom

I Just Shot Myself
In The Foot Again
2000

Mark Mulcahy

- I Just Shot Myself In The Foot Again
- 900 Yards Away
- Shipbuilding [E. Costello/C. Langer]
- Frisky Said

- Mark Mulcahy - vocal, guitar
- Jane Scarpantoni - cello
- Doug Wieselman - clarinet

- MEZZOTINT - CD-S

> Zoom

Surround
2000

Incroyable Jungle Beat

- Surround
- July
- The Sun
- The Red Light
- Pigs [R. Wyatt]
- Wait
- Medicine Man
- Prélude
- The Long March
- Amusement
- Song Of The Idiot
- Agnus Dei
- Body-guard
- Surround dub

- Cyril Atef - voix lead & batterie
- Noël Ekwabi - basse
- Doumé - orgue, Wurlitzer et choeurs
- Christophe Denis - programmation

- FAIRPLAY PUBLISHING (FAI 340) CD

> Zoom

Incommunicado
2000

Kammerflimmer Kollektief

- Nachtwach
- Gras
- Rand
- Venti Latir [R. Wyatt]
- Kissen
- Holler

- Dietrich Foth - saxophone
- Johannes Frisch - double bass
- Michael Ströder - drums
- Anne Vortisch - synth
- Thomas Weber - guitar
- Heike Wendelin - violin

- PAYOLA/COMMUNITY/ VIRGIN E4 (Germany) CD

> Zoom

Primiitive Guitars
(1982/2000)
2000

Phil Manzanera

- Riollo
- Caracas
- La Nueva Ola
- Bogota
- Ritmo de Los Angeles
- Europe 70-1
- Impossible Guitar
- Big Dome
- Europe 80-1
- Criollo (French Re-mix)
- Frontera (instrumental) [P. Manzanera/ B. Mac Cormick/R. Wyatt]

Réédition de l'album paru en 1982 enrichi de 2 bonus dont Frontera en version instrumentale, cosigné par Phil Manzanera, Bill. Mac Cormick et Robert Wyatt.

- Phil Manzanera- all instruments

- EDITIONS EG (EGED 14) LP
- VIRGIN/EXPRESSION RECORDS (EXPCD 19)CD

> Zoom

MW Pour Robert Wyatt
2001

MW Pour Robert Wyatt

- Some Words Of Introduction (Robert Wyatt)
- P.L.A. (Toupidek, Limonade et J. Tagu) [R. Wyatt]
- Toledo Texas (J.M. Montera, E. Martusciello, F.Y Lugli-Martinez) [R. Wyatt-J.M. Montera]
- En Dondekistan (Look de Book) [R. Wyatt]
- Sea Song (Klimperei) [R. Wyatt]
- Born Again Cretin (Dominique Répécaud) [R. Wyatt]
- Little Red Robin Hood Hit The Road (Jagger Naut) [R. Wyatt]
- Alifib (R. Robert, G. Tordjman) [R. Wyatt]
- To The Old World (Dominique Grimaud) [R. Wyatt]
- Left On Man (L'Ensemble Rayé) [R. Wyatt]
- Robert Et André (Kafka) [R. Wyatt]
- Little Red Riding Hood Hit The Road (J. Bogaert, An Pierlé) [R. Wyatt]
- Caroline (D. Fellmann, J. Goetz) [R. Wyatt-D. Sinclair]
- Blues In Bob Minor (read by Robert Wyatt) [R. Wyatt]
- The British Road (read by Robert Wyatt & Michel Benita) [R. Wyatt]
- Mass Medium (Ph. Fretun, M. Benita) [R. Wyatt]
- Alifib (Pascal Comelade) [R. Wyatt]
- Heli Plop (Alain de Filipis) [R. Wyatt-A. de Filipis]
- Toledo Texas (Jean-François Pauvros) [R. Wyatt-J.F. Pauvros]
- For R.W. (Ch. Cutler, T. Buck, J.M. Montera, J.F. Pauvros)[R. Wyatt-J.M. Montera]
- Alifib (Le Piano De La Rue De Vergennes) (Jean-Michel Marchetti) [R. Wyatt]
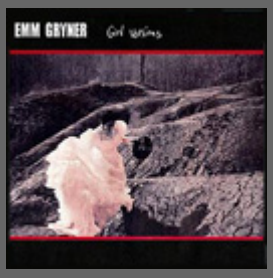
- Some Words Of Conclusion (Robert Wyatt) [Robert Wyatt]



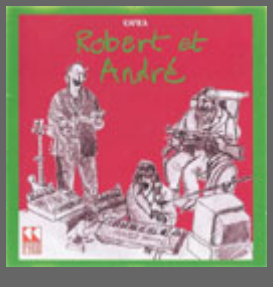
Ce CD est une réédition des 2 CDs M2W et M3W réalisés pour les éditions Ænc rages& Co dans le cadre des projets MW.

Seule la reprise de O Caroline par D. Fellmann et J. Goetz est une version différente de celle présente dans M3W.

- IN POLY SONS (IPS 0401) CD

Cet album est également présent dans la rubrique With Friends et Samples.

Critiques/Reviews



> Zoom

Girl Versions
2001

Emm Gryner

- Waiting Room
- Crazy Train
- Pour Some Sugar On Me
- For What Reason
- Straight To Hell
- Song 2
- Straight To You
- Big Bang Baby
- Sea Song [R. Wyatt]
- The Day We Hit The Coast

- DEAD DAISY RECORDS (DDR 005) CD

Kafka

- La Brave Fille Des Abattoirs (original de 1947)
- La Brave Fille Des Abattoirs
- Left On Man [R. Wyatt]
- Robert Et André
- Noisy Moon In Trashy June [R. Wyatt]
- Samples Salad
- La Finale

Noisy Moon In Trashy June est une reprise de Moon In June.

Enregistré au Studio Victoria Compoint. Décembre 2000/Janvier 2001.

- KK PROD - CD

> Zoom 1 2

Robert Et André
2001

Cet album est également présent dans la rubrique Samples.

The Muffins

- These Castle Children
- Under Dali's Wing
- Walking The Duck
- Nan True's Hole [P. Miller]
- Sam's Room
- QSL
- But Not For Others
- Knitting Factor Blues
- Captain Boomerang Excerpt

- Thomas Frasier Scott - alto saxophone, soprano saxophone, clarinet, flute
- Billy Swann - bass, guitar
- Paul Sears - drums
- Dave Newhouse - piano, organ, baritone saxophone, tenor saxophone, bass clarinet, flute

Nan True's Hole Live at Villa Celimontana Jazz Festival, Rome, Italy, July 28, 2000.

- CoNtOrTeD (CON6) CD

> Zoom

Loveletter #1
2001

Bill Rieflin/Chris Connelly

- Largo
- Pray'r
- Strayed
- Close Watch
- Wake 1
- Rondo
- The Call Girls
- Salt of Joy
- Wake 2
- Wake 3
- Prayer
- Y
- Sea Song [R. Wyatt]

- Chris Connelly - guitar, vocals, string arrangements
- Bill Rieflin - piano, keyboards, vocals, string arrangements
- Caroline LaVelle - cello
- Fred Chalenor - bass

- FIRST WORLD (FWG 01.10) CD

> Zoom

Largo
2001

C.S.I. Consorzio Suonatori Indipendenti

- Maledirai
- Finistère
- Linea Gotica
- Irata
- Chairman Mao [R. Wyatt, Ch. Haden]
- Brace
- Buon Anno Ragazzi
- Polvere
- Non Torna
- Vicini
- Nessuno Fece Nulla
- Mongolishet

- Chairman Mao est également présent sur la compilation A Different You.

- BLACK OUT/UNIVERSAL MUSIC ITALIA - CD

> Zoom

Noi Non Ci Saremo (Vol. 2)
2001

The Married Monk

- Greyhound
- Stuck
- Roma Amor
- Holiday
- Death In Savannah
- Life of Ease
- Painful Summer
- Sea Song [R. Wyatt]
- Sparro
- Ola Mujeres
- All I Have

- Philippe Lebruman- bass
- Christian Quermalet - vocal
- Cyril Quermalet - keyboards
- Jean-Michel Pires - drums
- Fabio Viscogliosi - guitar
- Yann Tiersen - strings

- ICI D'AILLEURS (IDA 2001) CD

Rocky 2001

- Ancora Tu
- Cyro's Request

> Zoom

Nouvelles
2001

Jean-Marc Foussat

- [caractères arabes]
- Se Questo è Un Uomo
- a/2 (i. e.)
- b (i. e.)
- Gloria Gloom's Breath [R. Wyatt/ B. McCormick]
- We Did It Again [K. Ayers]
- Better Than A Garbage Can
- La Cachette
- Basic Thought
- [caractères grecs]
- Longum Iter
- Singuliers - Pluriel
- [caractères chinois ?]
- Usure
- Attente
- Réflexion
- Choix
- Décision
- Gloria Gloom's Meat [B. McCormick]
- Petit Paysage Urbain Avec Fumeur

- Jean-Marc Foussat : souffle sur Gloria Gloom' Breath
- Roger Turner : voix sur Gloria Gloom's Meat

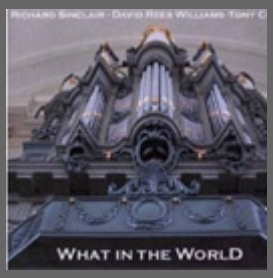
Enregistrements de 1973 à 2001. Comporte une partie Cd-Rom Eye Way de 25 mn.

- POTLACH (P301) CD

Critiques/Reviews

> Zoom

Jazzprint Sampler 2001
2001



Jazzprint Sampler 2001

- P.L.A. (Various Artists - Soupsongs Live) [R. Wyatt]
- Venerable Bede (John Etheridge)
- Things Ain't What They Used To Be (Jim Mullen)
- Power Of Three (Jim Mullen)
- Conditions (Harry Beckett Quintett)
- Interchange (Howard Riley & Keith Tippett)
- Riding Down To Platterback (Westbrook & Company)
- Project (Howard Riley)
- Introduction (Howard Riley)
- Alien Style (Annie Whitehead)
- Theme From Lumpy Gravy (Zappatistats)

Compilation.

P.L.A. est extrait de l'album Soupsongs Live - The music of Robert Wyatt

- JAZZPRINT (JPVP999CD) CD

> Zoom

What In The World
2002

Richard Sinclair/David Rees/Tony Coe

- Out Of The Shadows
- For Absent Friends
- What's Rattlin'?
- Barefoot
- Canterbury Song
- Long Lingers Autumn Time
- Felafel Shuffle
- What In The World
- Fol De Rol
- Calyx [Ph. Miller]

- Richard Sinclair - vocals
- David Rees - C1760 Heinz organ
- Tony Coe - clarinet

- SINCLAIR SONGS (RSS 004) CD

King Size

- King Kong Size
- War Zone
- Paralysed
- Robert Zimmerman
- White Lie

- Philippe - bass, vocals
- Christophe - guitar, vocals
- Stéphane - drums

! White Lies, White Beats !
2002

- Heavy Soul
- For Sale
- O Caroline [D. Sinclair/R. Wyatt]
- Cosmic Trip
- I Got Nothing
- Another World
- Nursery Rhyme
- July
- How Old Do We Have To Get Before It Stops ?

- NO LABEL/MOSAIC DISTRIBUTION - CD

↑

> Zoom

A Night's Tale
Live In The USA
2002

Caravan

- All The Way / A Very Smelly Grubby Little Oik
- Nine Feet Underground
- Medley: Dabsong Conshirtoe / All Aboard / Where But For Caravan Would I / O Caroline [D. Sinclair/R. Wyatt] / The Dabsong / Love In Your Eye / Backwards [M. Ratledge]/ A Hunting We Shall Go
- Nightmare
- I Know Why Your're Laughing
- For Richard

- Jim Leverton - bass, vocals
- Richard Coughlan - drums, percussion
- Doug Boyle - guitar
- David Sinclair - keyboards –
- Simon Bentall - percussion
- Geoff Richardson - viola, flute
- Pye Hastings - vocals, guitar

Recorded at Patriots Theater, Trenton, New Jersey, on 2002-06-29.

- CLASSIC ROCK PRODUCTIONS (CRP1013) CD

↑

> Zoom

The Amos House Collection
Vol II
2002

The Amos House Collection - Vol II

- Test Tones (Wheat)
- Remix for Discos (Spoon Everything Hits at Once)
- Right Into The Arms Of The Queen (Kleenex Girl Wonder)
- Down In Virginia (Emily Sparks)
- Entry Way Song (Bright Eyes)
- Strange Empty Hollow (Jr Corduroy)
- Free Will And Testament (Elf Power) [R. Wyatt/Kramer]
- Stockholm (Skating Club)
- Pretty Things (The Gentle Waves)
- Aporia (James William Hindle)
- Jubilee (Ida)
- The Red Door (Aden)
- One Way (Drew 0'Doherty)
- Saras Song (The Aislers Set)
- Don't You Know (Clairvoyants)
- Bottle Up & Explode (Alternative Version)(Elliott Smith)
- Rise (Deadverse Mix)(Azure Ray)
- Two Girls (Son, Ambulance)
- Chocolat Noir (Misc)

- WISHING TREE RECORDS (WTR-11) CD

↑

Be In The No-Air
2002

A Tribute To Robert Wyatt

Disc 1
- Muddy Mouth [F. Frith/R. Wyatt]
- The Song [P. Blegvad/J. Greaves]
- A Little Something [P. Blegvad]
- God Song [P. Miller-R. Wyatt]
- Sea Song [R. Wyatt]
- Gloria Gloom [B. McCormick]
- A Last Straw [R. Wyatt]

Disc 2
- Was A Friend [R. Wyatt/Kramer]
- Daevid Allen
- Free Will And Testament [R. Wyatt/

Bootleg enregistré le 8 septembre 1998 à The Knitting Factory, New York, avec :

- Fred Frith
- John Greaves
- Peter Blegvad
- Karen Mantler
- Pip Pyle
- Hugh Hopper
- Daevid Allen
- Mark Kramer

Kramer]
- Hope For Happiness [B. Hopper/ K. Ayers/ M. Ratledge]
- Memories [H. Hopper]
- We Did It Again [K. Ayers]

- PEACE FROG (PF-157D) 2xCD

> Zoom

Private Lines
2002

Manishevitz

- Back In The Day
- Private Lines
- Free Will And Testament [R. Wyatt/ Kramer]
- Backwards Deck
- 2HB

- Adam Busch - vocal, guitar

- JAGJAGUWAR (JAG49) EP

> Zoom

A Certain Kind
2002

Carsten Jost

- Black Axis
- Why Are We Sleeping
- A Certain Kind
- Save Yourself

Pas exactement des reprises (les 3 morceux ne sont d'ailleurs pas crédités) mais plutôt un hommage, j'imagine, aux musiciens de la Soft Machine.

- KLANG ELECTRONIK (67) EP

> Zoom

Look Of Joy
2002

Veranda Music

- O Caroline [R. Wyatt]
- Maria Bethania
- Water Of Love
- Father And Son
- Mother Of Earth
- Hey
- Dallas
- Opportunity
- Riding
- Shake The Disease

- Nicolai von Schweder-Schreiner - vocals, guitar
- Christoph Kähler - drums, mandoline, keyboards
- Lars Precht - bass

- XXS (9962-2) CD

Caravan

- Green Bottles For Marjorie
- Place Of My Own
- Feelin', Reelin', Squealin' [K. Ayers]
- Ride
- Nine Feet Underground
- In The Land Of Grey And Pink
- Feelin', Reelin', Squealin' [K. Ayers]
- The Love In Your Eye

- Richard Sinclair - bass, vocals
- Richard Coughlan - drums, percussion
- Pye Hastings - guitar, vocals
- Dave Sinclair - keyboards

Track 3 : Top Gear session - Recorded 31st December 1968.

Track 7 : Radio One In Concert -

> Zoom

Green Bottles For Marjorie
(The Lost BBC Sessions)
2002

Recorded and first broadcast 16th May 1971.

- BBC MUSIC (CARAV 001) CD
- BELLE ANTIQUE (MAR-02758) CD

Caravan

- Memory Lain, Hugh / Headloss
- Virgin On The Ridiculous
- Be Alright / Chance Of A Lifetime
- The Love In Your Eye
- L'Auberge Du Sanglier / A Hunting We Shall Go / Pengola / Backwards [M. Ratledge]/ A Hunting We Shall Go (Reprise)
- The Dog, The Dog, He's At It Again
- For Richard
- Hoedown

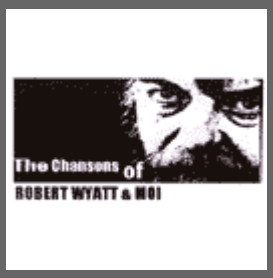
> Zoom

Live At The Fairfield Halls, 1974
2002

- Richard Coughlan - drums
- Pye Hastings - guitar, vocals
- David Sinclair - organ, synthesizer Mini Moog
- Geoffrey Richardson - electric viola, guitar, glockenspiel
- Mike Wedgwood - bass guitar, congas, vocals

Recorded at The Fairfield Halls, Croydon, September 1st 1974.

- DECCA (8829022) CD



Contrepoints Cardinaux
2002

L'Ensemble Rayé

- Gengis K.
- Le Moulin À Histoires
- Crocodiles
- L' Envol Du Pingouin
- La Pluie (Huguenin)
- La Grande Ritournelle
- Le Hérisson
- Madulain
- Après La Pluie
- Course À Pied, Course À Patte
- Left On Man [R. Wyatt]
- Evergreen
- 32 Bis, Rue Des Muguets
- Cumbada

- Pippin Barnett - drums
- Cédric Vuille - guitar, percussion, piano, arranger, bass, ukulele, kalimba, cuatro, bandurria
- Momo Rossel - guitar, mandolin, violin
- Daniel Spahni - drums
- Jean 20 Huguenin - guitar, piano, sitar, sampling, E-Bow, guitar (nylon string), guitar (tenor)
- Pierre Kaufmann - clarinet, arranger, clarinet (bass), sax (alto), sax (tenor)
- Yann Altermath - horn (alto)
- Julien Baillod - guitar, keyboards
- Catherine Trottmann - piano
- Shirley Anne Hofmann - piano, accordion, euphonium
- Raphaël Pedroli - keyboards

- KEIN & ABER (23259) CD

The Chansons
Of Robert Wyatt & Moi
2003

Jean-Philippe Ramos

- Muddy Mouse [F. Frith/R. Wyatt]
- Muddy Mouth [F. Frith/R. Wyatt]
- Dedicated To You But You We're Not Listening [H. Hopper]
- O Caroline [D. Sinclair/R. Wyatt]
- Gloria Gloom [B. McCormick, R. Wyatt]
- Rivmic Melodies [R. Wyatt/H. Hopper/ M. Ratledge]
- Sonia [M. Feza]
- Free Will And Testament [R. Wyatt/ Kramer]
- Dondestan [R. Wyatt]
- Alifie Medley [R. Wyatt]
- Jazz Medley
- Moon In June [R. Wyatt]
- Seasong [R. Wyatt]

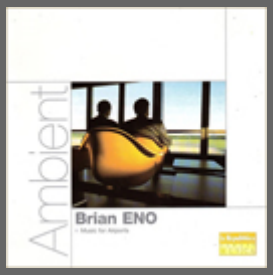
- Jean-Philippe Ramos - saxos, voices, arrangements

- NO LABEL - CD

> Zoom



Ugly Music.4.Monica
2003

Daevid Allen's University Of Errors

- Skulls Of Our Enemies
- Wage Slave
- Mystico Fanatico
- Rich Men Eat My Voice
- So What?
- PHP 2032
- Earthbound
- Moo?
- If You Die
- Clarence In Wonderland [K. Ayers]
- Patapan

- Daevid Allen - guitar, vocals
- Michael Clare - bass
- Josh Pollock - guitar, megaphone, piano, bass, percussion
- Jason Mills - drums, piano, percussion
- Nic Stephanz - Theremin
- Tony Maimone - keys

- UNIVERSITY OF ERRORS (ERRZ CD03) CD
- WEED (WEED 7912) CD

> Zoom

Music For Airports - Ambient/Brian Eno
2003

Bang On A Can

- 1/1 [B. Eno/R. Davies/R. Wyatt]
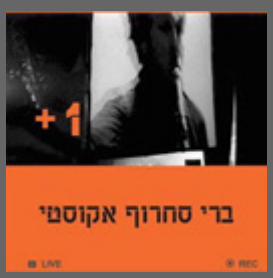
- 1/2
- 2/1
- 2/2

Not for sale separately from the newspaper La Repubblica.

- LA REPUBLICA/SABATO MUSICA - CD

> Zoom



The Collection
2003

Tears For Fears

- Pharaohs
- Shout
- Mad World
- Mothers Talk
- The Working Hour
- Sea Song [R. Wyatt]
- I Believe
- Ideas As Opiates
- Year Of The Knife
- Break It Down Again
- Memories Fade
- Empire Building
- Brian Wilson Said
- Sowing The Seeds Of Love
- Always In The Past
- Change
- Advice For The Young At Heart

Compilation.

- SPECTRUM MUSIC (063 358-2) CD

> Zoom

אקוסטי (Acoustic Live)
2003

Berry Sakharof

- יוסי כמה
- באוויר
- 77
- רגעים
- Heroes
- אל-פלס
- עבדים
- פנים שתי
- Sea Song [R. Wyatt]
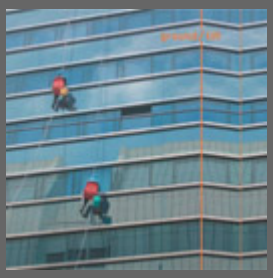
- לבן רעש

- NANA DISC (6152) - CD

> Zoom



Full Circle
2003

Dave Sinclair

- Thru The Night
- Forever Through The Years
- Best Life Of All
- O Caroline [D. Sinclair/R. Wyatt]
- Outside Of Your Love
- Like To Know
- Without You
- Nowhere To Hide
- That Day
- Sancti
- Peace In Time
- And When The Sun Sets

- Dave Sinclair - keyboards, percussion, vocal, backing vocals
- Roxane - vocals and backing vocals
- Marcus Bishop - main drums, percussion, backing vocal, electric & acoustic guitar
- Richard Sinclair - vocals, bass

- POSEIDON RECORDS (PRE-001) CD

> Zoom

Ground/Lift
2003

Ground/Lift

- Besser Ei
- Humbom
- Mskstck
- Beware Of
- Klagit
- +F
- Grant
- A Long Spoon
- Bad Timing
- Unmasked [Tutti/Carter/R.Wyatt]

- Christoph Pajer - guitar, vocals, keys
- Oliver Stotz - guitar, vocals, samples

- KARATE-JOE RECORDS (KJ012) CD

> Zoom

Double Standards
2003

Lea Delaria

- Dancing Barefoot
- Kiko And The Lavender Moon
- Call Me
- Philadelphia
- Just A Girl
- Been Caught Stealing
- Black Hole Sun
- People Are strange
- Tattooed Love Boys
- Alliance [R. Wyatt]
- Longview

- Lea Delaria - vocal
- Gil Goldstein - piano, accordion
- Christian Mc Bride - bass
- Bill Stewart - drums
- Adam Rogers - guitar
- Bill Hayes - glass harmonica
- Bashiri Johnson - percussion

- WARNER JAZZ (093624827429) CD

> Zoom

Tribute To Soft Machine
(Live At Le Triton 2002)
2003

Polysoft

- Facelift Intro [Hugh Hopper]
- Facelift [Hugh Hopper]
- Chloe And The Pirates
- Gesolreut
- Pig
- Dedicated To You But You Weren't Listening [Hugh Hopper]
- As If
- Kings & Queens [Hugh Hopper]
- Slightly All The Time [Mike Ratledge]
- Noisette 1 [Hugh Hopper]
- Backwards [Mike Ratledge]
- Noisette 2 [Hugh Hopper]

- François Merville - drums, percussion
- Serge Adam - trumpet, flugelhorn
- Jean-Rémy Guédon - tenor sax, flute
- Pierre-Olivier Govin - baritone sax, saxello

Guests :
- Hugh Hopper - bass guitar
- Elton Dean - alto sax , saxello
- Emmanuel Bex - Hammond organ

Recorded live at Le Triton on september 13th and 14th 2002.

- LE TRITON (TRI-03506) CD

> Zoom

Jet Propelled Photographs
2004

University of Errors

- That's How Much I Need You Now [R. Wyatt]
- Save Yourself [R. Wyatt]
- I Should've Know [H. Hopper]
- Shooting At The Moon (aka Jet Propelled Photographs) [K. Ayers]
- When I Don't Want You [H. Hopper]
- Memories [H. Hopper]
- You Don't Remember [R. Wyatt/ D. Allen]
- She's Gone [K. Ayers]
- I Rather Be With You [K. Ayers]
- Love Makes Sweet Music [K. Ayers]
- Feelin' Reelin' Squealin' [K. Ayers]
- Hope For Happiness [B. Hopper]
- We Know What You Mean (Soon Soon Soon) [K. Ayers]

- Daevid Allen - vocals
- Michael Clare - bass
- Josh Pollock - guitar
- Warren Heugel - drums

- CUNEIFORM (RUNE 188) CD

> Zoom

Crlustraude
2004

Crlustraude

- Petit Peter
- Mon Ami Pigeon
- Sisters Of Mercy
- Mmh Auchan
- Irascible
- Crlustraude
- Iskedyl
- Rompre
- Alifie Alifib [R. Wyatt/Arr. P. Maupeu]

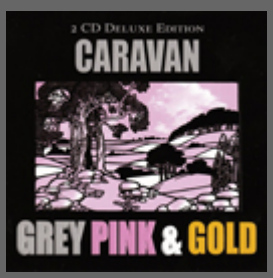
- Pascal Maupeu - guitare, banjo
- Stéphane Decolly - basse électrique
- Nicolas Larmignat - batterie

- YOLK (CDJ2018) CD

> Zoom



Standard
2004 >bréchet>denizet>ponthieux

- O Caroline [D. Sinclair/R. Wyatt]
- Bolivia
- Brake's Sake
- Swing Café
- Twenty Small Cigars
- Pas De Trois
- Zones Sensibles
- Milord Blues
- Frère Jacques
- Blues Toujours
- Valse Triste
- Sweet Georgia Brown

– Pascal Bréchet - electric guitar
- Manuel Denizet - drums
- Jean-Luc Ponthieux - double bass, electric bass

- MUSIVI (MJB 011 CD) CD
- MUSIVI (20058 2) CD

> Zoom

Caravan

- Videos Of Hollywood
- Nine Feet Underground
- Winter Wine
- If I Could Do It All Over Again
- For Richard
- All The Way/A Very Smelly Grubby Little Oik
- Dabsong Conshirtoe/All Aboard/Where But For Caravan Would I/O Caroline [D. Sinclair/R. Wyatt]/The Dabsong/Love In Your Eye/Backwards/ A Hunting We Shall Go
- Nightmare

Compilation.

- DEJAVU RETRO (R2CD 42-73) 2xCD

Grey Pink & Gold
2004

- I Know Why You're Laughing
- Liar
- The Dog, The Dog, He's At It Again
- Nowhere To Hide
- Memory Lain, Hugh/Headloss
- If I Could Do It All Over Again, I'd Do It All Over You

> Zoom

Café Completo
2004

Pascal Comelade

- L'argot Du Bruit
- Un Train Direct Pour Charenton, 1
- Un Train Direct Pour Charenton, 2
- Sardana Dels Desemparats
- Spring-Man
- La Phonométrie Châtiant Les Hérétiques
- Patafisikal Polska
- Si
- Alifib [R. Wyatt]
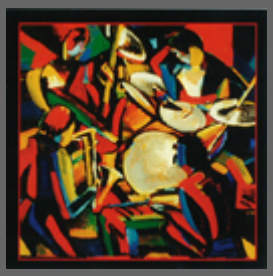
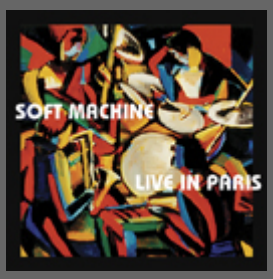
- L'homme Dibuixat

CD distribué avec "G : Utopia" de la revue espagnole Matador.

> Zoom



Desert Heat
2004



Dar Nahmias's Project

- a70's
- Mr Wilson
- If I Look Back
- Dive & Fall
- Desert Heart
- Angel
- Ur Love Is Getting Clear
- Burroughs
- Whisper
- Retro
- Gharbzadegi [R. Wyatt]
- Jame

- Dar Nahmias - piano, vocals, samples

- NO LABEL - CD

> Zoom

Live In Paris
2004

Soft Machine

- Plain Tiffs
- All White
- Slightly All The Time [M. Ratledge]
- Drop
- M.C.
- Out-Bloody-Rageous [M. Ratledge]
- Facelift [M. Ratledge]
- And Sevens
- As If
- LBO
- Pigling Bland
- At Sixes

Réédition de l'album Live In France paru en 1995, renommé Live In Paris.

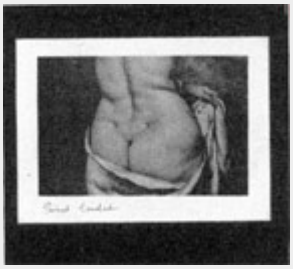
La seconde pochette comportant le nom du groupe et le titre de l'album est celle de la version digitale publiée sur Bandcamp.

- CUNEIFORM RECORDS (RUNE 195/196) 2xCD

> Zoom

Back To Schizo (1975-1983)
2004

Pascal Comelade



- Fluence
- Séquence Un
- Séquence Deux
- Séquence Trois
- Séquence Quatre
- Séquence Cinq
- Séquence Six
- Mouvement Décomposé D'Un Coup De Marteau
- Paralelo Deux
- Paralelo Trois
- Paralelo Quatre
- Automne
- Paralelo Six
- Paralelo Sept
- Paralelo Huit
- Paralelo Neuf
- Paralelo Dix
- Ready-Made One
- Ready-Made Two
- Ready-Made Three
- Ready-Made Four
- Sentimientos Un
- Sentimientos Deux
- Sentimientos Trois
- Logique Du Sens
- A Perfect Crime

Bien que signé "Pascal Comelade", Ready Made 2 est une libre adaptation d'Alifib, initialement publié en 1980 sur l'album Ready Made sous le titre Canço De Bressol.

Sentimientos Deux est signé "Pascal Comelade d'après Robert Wyatt et Jacques Thollot."

Ce titre est très inspiré de The End Of An Ear et Quand Le Son De La Girafe.

Sentimientos 2 a précédemment été édité sur le LP Sentimientos paru en 1981 sous la dénomination (probable) Wyatt Ah Um (DYS RECORDS).

Sentimientos 1982

- GAZUL/MUSEA (GA 8679.AR) CD

> Zoom

Live In The UK
2004

Brainville - Daevid Allen With Hugh Hopper & Pip Pyle

- Fohat Digs Holes In Space
- Who's Afraid?
- Flowers Gone
- Shadow
- Thinkin' Thoughts
- Hope For Happiness [B. Hopper]
- Bullshit & Be

- Hugh Hopper - bass
- Pip Pyle - drums
- Daevid Allen - guitar, voices

Hope For Hapiness est signé par Brian Hopper (qui a effectivement composé et déposé les droits de ce morceau) alors que la version du Soft Machine vol.1 est signée par Hugh Hopper, Kevin Ayers et Mike Ratledge.

- BANANAMOON OBSCURA (BMOVP002CD) CD

> Zoom

My Favorite Songs
2004

Éric Barret Septet

- Syracuse
- Suzanne
- Islands
- Quand Maman Reviendra
- O Caroline [D. Sinclair/R. Wyatt]
- La Vieille Pèlerine
- L'Amour Fou
- Le Temps Du Tango
- E.P. Love

- Éric Barret - saxophone ténor
- Airelle Besson - trompette, bugle
- Pierre-Olivier Govin - saxophone alto, clarinette basse
- Éric Löhrer - guitare
- Benjamin Moussay - piano, piano électrique
- Joe Quitzke - batterie
- Éric Surmenian - contrebasse

Enregistré les 9 et 10 juin à La Fenêtre - Paris.

- BLUE MARGE (1008) CD

> Zoom

Hatwise Choice
2005

Hatfield And The North

- Absolutely Wholesome
- La Barbe Est La Barbe
- Sober Song
- Hattitude
- Strand On The Green
- Hotel Luna
- The Lonely Bubbling Song
- Stay Jung And Beautiful
- Dave Intro
- Take Your Pick
- Son Of Plate Smashing Dog
- Thanks Mont!
- Amsterdamage 11/19
- May The Farce Be With You
- Finesse Is For Fairies
- Ethanol Nurse [P. Miller]
- Writhing And Grimacing
- For Robert
- Blane Over Paris
- Laundry Soup
- Effing Mad Aincha
- Top Gear Commercial

Bonus Track

- K Licks [P. Miller]

- Richard Sinclair - bass, vocals
- Pip Pyle - drums, percussion
- Phil Miller - guitar
- Dave Stewart - keyboards, tone generators

Archive recordings - 1973-1975, Volume 1.

Ethanol Nurse is actually Nan True's Hole ("Ethanol Nurse" is a kind of an anagram of "Nan True's Hole"!).

Only Phil Miller is credited for Ethanol Nurse instead of P. Miller and R. Wyatt.

K Licks is another name for Calyx.

This track is from BBC Radio 1 sessions ("Sounds Of The '70s" - January 22nd 1973).

- HATFIELD & THE NORTH AUTOPRODUCTION (HATCO -CD73-7501) CD

> Zoom

Live In Zaandam
2005

Soft Machine Legacy

-- Ash
- 1212
- Baker's Street
- Kings And Queens [H. Hopper]
- Two Down
- Big Creese

- Hugh Hopper - bass
- Elton Dean - alto saxophone, saxello, electric piano [Fender Rhodes]
- John Etheridge - guitar
- John Marshall - drums

Recorded live in Zaandam (Holland), May 10, 2005.

- MUSEA (FGBG 4617.AR) CD
- MOONJUNE RECORDS (MJR006) CD

> Zoom

Streamer
2005

Régïs Boulard

- Streamer
- Free Will And Testament [R. Wyatt/ Kramer]
- Overlord
- Radio Londres
- A.M.G.O.T.
- Radio Paris
- Over Overlord
- Code Talkers
- Chien Vert
- Lèvre Supérieure Rigide
- U.S. Go Home

- Régïs Boulard - batterie
- Denis Deygout - mellotron, Prophet
- Marc Gauvin- guitare
- Noël Akchoté- guitare
- Jean-François Vrod - électronique, violon-bidon

- SIGNATURE (SIG 11031) CD

Soft Bounds

- La part des anges
- Gimlet abides on the wagon
- Le retour d'Emmanuel
- Kings And Queens [H. Hopper]

- Hugh Hopper - bass guitar
- Elton Dean - alto sax & saxello
- Simon Goubert - drums
- Sophia Domancich - Fender Rhodes & acoustic piano

Recorded live at Le Triton on june 17th 2004.

> Zoom

Live At Le Triton 2004
2005

- LE TRITON (TRI-05511) CD

↑

La 1919

- Out To Dinner
- Il Fantasma Della Balera
- L'Occhio Di Clara
- In Televisione, Ogni Sera...
- Unhappy Hour
- Spettri Per Le Allodole
- A Metà Strada Tra Terra E Cielo
- Instant Pussy [R. Wyatt]
- Instant Pussyfooting
- Winter Song
- Ici On Ne Dance Pas !
- Calcio Totale
- Amis De Viàgg

> Zoom

Freepopjazzrock
2005

- LC - bass, percussion [metal bar]
- Fabrizio Spera - drum [opening drumloop]
- PC - sampler, drum [drum patterns]

- AUDITORIUM EDIZIONI (AUD 02104) CD

↑

Ruper Ordorika

- Urtaroa
- Ez Da Posible
- Zaldiak Negarrez
- The Age Of Self [R. Wyatt]
- Baltsean
- Ene Begiek
- Ene Herrian
- Gizona
- Benetan
- On Gizona Naiz
- Aspaldian
- Fas Fatum

> Zoom

Ez Da Posible (Reissue)
2005

Réédition rematerisée de l'album Ez Da Posible paru en 1990.

- METAK (M067CD) CD

↑

Short Wave

- The Fox
- Saiseyes
- Frankly Speaking
- The Balladin
- 2 P.M.
- Partout
- Midnight Judo
- Shuffle Demons
- Nan True's Hole [P. Miller]
- VZG
- Et Alors...

> Zoom

Live (Reissue)
2005

Réédition de l'album Short Wave Live paru en 1993.

- VOICEPRINT (VP347CD) CD

↑

Soft Machine

> Zoom

Softstage - BBC In Concert 1972
2005

- Fanfare
- All White
- Slightly All The Time [M. Ratledge]
- M.C.
- Drop
- Stumble
- One Across
- As If
- Riff
- Gesolreut

- Mike Ratledge - electric piano
- Hugh Hopper - electric bass
- John Marshall - drums
- Karl Jenkins - saxophone, keyboards, electric piano

Recorded on July 20, 1972 at The Paris Theatre - London.

Reissue in 2011 at HUX RECORDS with the same reference.

- HUX RECORDS (HUX 070) CD
- MSI (MSIG 0226) CD

> Zoom

Hattitude
2006

Hatfield And The North

- Grosso Lavoro
- Drowning In The Bathroom
- K Licks (Long) [P. Miller]
- The Crest
- Pink & Green Machine
- Further Dances
- La Barbe Extract
- Confiture De La Barbe
- Born Again Crustacean
- Elevenses
- Farce Majeure
- Spaces Not Notes
- Song For All Our Mums
- Extract
- The Mens One-Metre Dash
- K Licks (Short) [P. Miller]
- One Of Wildes
- Blane Over The Low Countries
- Drowning Reprise
- Goodbye For Now

Bonus Track

- Al Clark Presents

- Richard Sinclair - bass, vocals
- Pip Pyle - drums, percussion
- Phil Miller - guitar
- Dave Stewart - keyboards, tone generators

Archive recordings - 1973-1975, Volume 2.

K Licks is another name for Calyx.

"This album is a collection of hitherto unreleased material performed exclusively by the classic '70s Hatfield libne-up."

- HATFIELD & THE NORTH AUTOPRODUCTION (HATCO -CD73-7502) CD

> Zoom

La Manera Més Salvatge
2006

Enric Casasses/Pascal Comelade

- Canço
- Sextina
- Allò
- Les Cases Del Meu Carrer
- Sense El Ressò Del Dring
- La Manera Més Salvatge & Mags
- Amèrica
- Plus Ultra
- Rim
- Terminal B
- Cortina Firmada [R. Wyatt, trad. E. Casasses]
- Uh
- Orfeu [Boira Lila]

- Enric Casasses - voix
- Pascal Comelade - pianos électriques, toy piano Kawai

Cortinada Firmada est la traduction de Signed Curtain.

- DISCMEDI BLAU (DM 4148 02) CD

> Zoom

Nuccio D'Angelo

- La leggenda di Astor
- Electric Suite
- Reflections on Amber" (H. Hopper - N. D'Angelo)
- Introduzione e Aria
- Reflections on Sea Song (R. Wyatt - N. D'Angelo)
- CafË 1930
- Tre Invenzioni Liriche
- Canarios

"Reflections on Amber and Reflections on Sea Song, respectively by Hugh Hopper and Robert Wyatt, are both an affectionate homage to these two fine artists as well as to the group "Soft machine" founded by them. The original themes ("Amber and Amberines" and "Sea Song") are employed sometimes integrally, sometimes developed and transfigured with extreme freedom. "

- Nuccio D'Angelo - chit. classica e chit. synth

Homages
2006

- Pietro Horvath - violino
- Stefano Agostini - flauto e ottavino
- Paolo Nardi - oboe
- Pietro Scalvini - viola
- Maria Grazia Dalpasso - pianoforte e synth
- Franco Perfetti - fagotto
- Lello Pareti - c. basso in Reflections on Amber"
- Alessio Riccio percussioni

- MAGIE RECORDS - CD

> Zoom

Bise de Buse Joue Sa Musique
2006

Bise de Buse

- Dodécaféiné
- Valse À 5 Temps
- Triton Diabolique
- Les Lumières De La Nuit
- Chocolate Fields
- Sax-Cello
- Gambang
- Lola
- Valse À 5 Temps
- Appelez-Moi Tex
- Kings And Queens [H. Hopper]
- Errance
- You Can't Kill Me

- Pierre Michel - saxophone alto
- Laurent Spielmann - piano, synthesizer
- Gérard Dosdat - guitare
- Jean-Louis Heitz - guitare basse
- Maxime Malka - batterie

Enregistré en 1979 (?) à Strasbourg (France).

- MUSEA (FGBG 4684AR) CD

> Zoom

Black Forest/Black Sea
2006

Black Forest/Black Sea

- Sevastopol
- Blackbird On Gray Sky
- Middle Song
- Banjo Song
- Beautiful Here
- Sunday Market
- Lumpin Throat

REISSUE BONUS TRACKS
- Sea Song [R. Wyatt]
- Lump In Throat

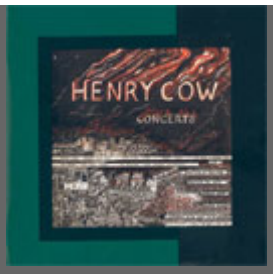
- Jeffrey Alexander - guitar
- Miriam Goldberg - cello

Album publié en 2003 et réédité en 2006 avec 2 titres bonus dont Sea Song (Live On Wmbr Cambridge 2003)

- ASPHALT DUCHESS (AD002) CD
- LAST VISIBLE DOG (LVD049) CD

> Zoom 1 2

Market Rasen
(Dedicated To The Music Of Robert Wyatt)
2006



Max Nagl/Clemens Wenger/Herbert Pirker

- Fatty
- 5 Black Notes And 1 White Note [Offenbach/R. Wyatt]
- Alliance [R. Wyatt]
- Jane's Wallet
- CP Jeebies [R. Wyatt]
- Louth Mouth
- Born Again Cretin [R. Wyatt]
- Box 25/4 Lid [M. Ratledge/H. Hopper]
- A Saturday In Ny
- The British Road [R. Wyatt]
- Rebos
- Gharbzadegi [R. Wyatt]

- Max Nagl - alto saxophone, clarinet, samplings
- Clemens Wenger - synthetizor
- Herbert Pirker - drums

- HANDSEMMEL RECORDS (1107CD) CD

Henry Cow

> Zoom 1 2 3 4

Concerts Remastered
2006

Disc 1
- Beautiful As The Moon|Terrible As An Army With Banners
- Nirvana For Mice
- The Ottawa Song
- Gloria Gloom [R. Wyatt/B. McCormick]
- Beautiful As The Moon (Reprise)
- Bad Alchemy
- Little Red Riding Hood Hits The Road
- Ruins
- Groningen
- Groningen Again

Disc 2
- Oslo
- Off The Map
- Cafe Royal
- Keeping Warm In Winter Sweet Heart Of Mine
- Udine

Nouvelle réédition remasterisée du CD paru en 1995.

- RER MEGACORP (HC5 & 6) 2xCD

Cet album est également présent dans la rubrique With Friends.

> Zoom

What's Left For Kicks?
2006

Monks Of Doom

- The 15th
- Light In The Sky
- Forever
- New Saigon
- No Looking Back
- The Calvary Cross
- Oh Well pt.1
- Dedicated To You, But You Weren't Listening
- "La Dolce Vita" Suite: a)The Black And Crazy Blues b)Parlami di me c)La Dolce Vita
- Hurricane Fighter Plane
- Calvary
- Poison
- Moon In June [R. Wyatt]
- Für Immer

Moon In June est extrait du single Moon In June/Cowboy Song.

- MAGNETIC (MAG0026) CD

> Zoom

Flower Power
2006

Aldo Romano/Rémi Vignolo/Baptiste Trotignon

- Love Me, Please Love Me
- Say It Ain'T So
- Valse De Melody - Je t'aime moi non plus
- Sea Song [R. Wyatt] - Crying Song
- Black Dog
- Don'T Let Me Be Lonely
- Mr Tambourine Man
- Bridge Over Troubled Water
- C'est Extra
- Your Song
- The End

- Aldo Romano - batterie
- Rémi Vignolo - contrebasse
- Baptiste Trotignon - piano

- NAIVE (NV810911) CD

> Zoom

Live At The Fleece,
Bristol, England, 6 June 2003
2006

University Of Errors

- Hope For Happiness [B. Hopper]
- Wage Slave
- Money Doesn't Make It
- Involve Me
- Rich Men Eat My Voice
- So What?
- Mystico Fanatico
- PHP 2032
- Earthbound
- Chainstore Chant/Pretty Miss Titty
- O Caroline [D. Sinclair/R. Wyatt]
- Stoned Innocent Frankenstein
- Shooting At The Moon
- Patapan
- Outro

- Daevid Allen - guitar, vocals
- Josh Pollock - guitar, samples, megaphone
- Warren Heugel - drums, vocals
- Michael Clare - bass

Recorded Live at The Fleece, Bristol, England on 6 June 2003.

- SUBSALT RECORDS (SUBLIVERRZ 1) CD

> Zoom

Common Difference
2006

Sim & Moe Kamura

- 6:4:6
- Along the River
- Sis
- Sea Song [R. Wyatt]
- Roota
- Arm Connect
- Keep The Altitude

- Teruyuki Oshima - guitar, computer
- Yoshio Otani - computer, electronics
- Masahiro Uemura - drums
- Moe Kamura - vocals

- MIDI CREATIVE (CXCA-1199) CD

> Zoom

Henry Cow Box
2006

Henry Cow Box

Disc 1
LEGEND
- Nirvana For Mice
- Amygdala
- Teenbeat (Introduction)
- Teenbeat
- Nirvana (Reprise)
- Extract From "With The Yellow Half-Moon And Blue Star"
- Teenbeat (Reprise)
- Tenth Chaffinch
- Nine Funerals Of The Citizen King
- Bellycan

Disc 2
UNREST
- Bittern Storm Over Ulm
- Half Asleep; Half Awake
- Ruins
- Solemn Music
- Linguaphonie
- Upon Entering The Hotel Adlon
- Arcades
- Deluge
- Glove
- Torchfire

Disc 3
IN PRAISE OF LEARNING
- War
- Living In The Heart Of The Beast
- Beginning: The Long March
- Beautiful As The Moon | Terrible As An Army With Banners
- Morning Star
- Lovers Of Gold

Disc 4
DESPERATE STRAIGHTS
- Some Questions About Hats
- Owl
- Worm Is At Work
- Bad Alchemy
- Europa
- Desperate Straights
- Riding Tigers
- Apes In Capes
- Strayed
- Giants
- Excerpt From The Messiah
- In The Sickbay
- Caucasian Lullaby

Discs 5 et 6
CONCERTS
- Beautiful As The Moon|Terrible As An Army With Banners
- Nirvana For Mice
- The Ottawa Song
- Gloria Gloom [R. Wyatt/B. McCormick]
- Beautiful As The Moon (Reprise)
- Bad Alchemy

Coffret de 8 Cds en tirage limité dont une nouvelle réédition remasterisée du CD Concerts paru en 1976 et 1995.

Le 8ème CD est un CD bonus réservé aux 200 premiers souscripteurs du coffret.

- RER MEGACORP (RER HCBOX) 8xCD

Ce coffret est également présent dans la rubrique With Friends.

- Little Red Riding Hood Hits The Road
- Ruins
- Groningen
- Groningen Again

- Oslo
- Off The Map
- Cafe Royal
- Keeping Warm In Winter
  Sweet Heart Of Mine
- Udine

Disc 7
WESTERN CULTURE
- History And Prospects: Industry
- History And Prospects: The Decay Of Cities
- History And Prospects: On The Raft
- Day By Day: Falling Away
- Day By Day: Gretel's Tale
- Day By Day: Look Back
- Day By Day: Half The Sky
- Viva Pa Ubu
- Look Back [Alternate Take]
- Slice

Disc 8 (bonus)
UNRELEASED ORCKESTRA EXTRACT
- Untitled
- Would You Prefer Us To Lie?

> Zoom

The Bruised Romantic Glee Club
2006

Jakko M. Jakszyk

Disc 1 - NOW
- The Bruised Romantic Glee Club
- Variations On A Theme By Holst
- Catleys Ashes
- Peggy Comes Home
- Highgate Hill
- Forgiveness
- No One Left To Lie To
- The Things You Throw Away
- Doxy, Dali And Duchamp
- Srebrinica
- When We Go Home

Disc 2 - HERE
- As Long As We Lie Perfectly Still
[M. Ratledge, R. Wyatt]
- That Still And Perfect Summer
- Astral Projection In Pinner
- Pictures Of An Indian City
- Nirvana For Mice
- Islands
- 9 Funerals Of The Citizen King
- Soon After

On As Long as He Lies Perfectly Still:

- Jakko M. Jakszyk - vocals, guitars, mellotron
- Hugh Hopper - bass guitar
- Dave Stewart - piano, organ
- Clive Brooks - drums
- Gary Barnacle - alto flute, flute, bass flute, piccolo, tenor & soprano saxes

Cette version de As Long as He Lies Perfectly Still est extraite de la compilation de Soft Machine Man In A Deaf Corner.

- ICENI RECORDS (INCD 2007)
  2xCD

> Zoom

Bar Elèctric (1975-2005)
2006

Pascal Comelade

Disc 1
- Fluence (PC) + Richard Pinhas
- Sequencia (PC)
- Sequencia (PC)
- Automne (PC) + Gavin Bryars
- Ready Made (PC)
- Bar Electric (PC/VN) + Victor Nubla
- Pluie Japonaise (PC) + David Cunningham / D.D.A.A.
- Chanson (PC) + Cathy Claret
- Petit Ballet Mécanique (PC)
- Dancin' On My Sofa (PC)
- Park Güell (PC)
- Rue des Soeurs Noires (PC)
- Valse de la Demoiselle aux Yeux Verts (PC)
- Honky Tonk Women (Jagger-Richards) + GAT
- Your Labios As Tulips (PC)
- Memories [R. Wyatt/H. Hopper] + Laurent Sinclair
- It Hurts Me Too (Elmore James) + Pierre Bastien/Marc Dufourd
- Tango Del Rosselo (PC)
- La Crasse du Tympan (Marcel Duchamp) Enric Casasses/Mark Cunningham

A noter que P. Comelade attribue Memories à [R. Wyatt/H. Hopper] alors que Hugh Hopper en est le seul auteur-compositeur.

- G3G RECORDS (G3PC9) 4xCD

Cet album est également présent dans la rubrique With Friends.

- Patafisiskal Polska (PC)

Disc 2
- The Skatalan Logicofobism (PC) + Bel Canto Orquestra
- 4 Roses pour Maris (PC)
- Arthur Cravan Was A Flor Fina (PC)
- The Way I Walk (Jack Scott) + OTH
- Danse du Valseur Callipyge (PC)
- Retrat De L'Enric Amb Xapo (PC)
- Sunny Afternoon (R. Davies)
- Put A Straw Under Babies (Eno)
- Chanson de Charme pour Faux-Nez (PC)
- The Lolobrigidada Fox-Trot (PC)
- Your Eyes Like Juan Gris Cubist Guitar (PC)
- Le Fakir de la Chapelle (PC)
- A Tombouctou sans Mariachis (PC)
- La Catedral d'Escuradents (PC)
- Betty Page A Go-Go (PC)
- Back To Schizo (PC) + Richard Pinhas
- L'Homme Dibuixat (Sisa)

Disc 3
- Le Soir du grand Soir (PC)
- Dona'M Corda (EC/PC) + Enric Casasses
- Souviens-toi de ces douces Soirées (PC)
- The Sad Skinhead (J.H. Peron) + Jean-Hervé Péron
- Domisiladoré (PC) + Général Alcazar
- Teresa (O. Montillor) + Toti Soler
- Love Too Soon (P.J. Harvey/PC) + P.J. Harvey
- Featherhead (P.J. Harvey/PC) + P.J. Harvey
- I Love Joan Jett (Diverses Authors)
- Cadillac (Vince Taylor) + Jac Berrocal
- Springman (PC)
- L'Argot Del Soroll

Disc 4
- Aigua De Florida (PC)
- 13 à Table (PC)
- September Song (Anderson/Weil) + Robert Wyatt
- Tobe Dammit Ornette To Be (PC)
- The Blank Invasion Of Shizofonics Bikinis (PC)
- Si (PC)
- Gégène (PC)
- Egyptian Reggae (J. Richman)
- Numero très (PC)
- La Placa Del Diamant (PC) + Quicu Samso
- Vals Robat (PC)
- Noies Boniques Amb Vestits Bonics (PC)
- Una Aigua Dolca D'Estar Bé (PC)
- Come Prima (Panzer/Taccani/Di Paola)
- The Sheik Of Araby (Snyder/Wheler/Smith)
- Ramona (Autor Desconegut)
- Lo Pardal (Trad.)
- Smoke'n'Cadillac (Deep Purple/ V. Taylor) + Roy Paci
- Lumpen Harmony (PC)

> Zoom

Eventually, All At Once
2006

Joan Of Arc

- Eventually, All At Once
- I'm Calling Off All Falls From Grace
- Miss Cat Piss And Peppermint
- You Can't Change Your Mind
- Living Out In The Sea Of Umbrellas
- Many Times I've Mistaken
- Words Have Cast Their Spells
- If All These People Can Understand Money
- Scratches A Pencil
- Free Will And Testament [R. Wyatt/Kramer]

- RECORD LABEL (RL17) CD
- RECORD LABEL (RL17) LP

> Zoom

New Morning - The Paris Concert
2006

Soft Machine Legacy

- Ash
- Seven For Lee
- 1212
- Baker's Treat
- Has Riff
- Kings And Queens [H. Hopper]
- Sideburn
- Two Down
- Kite Runner
- Strange Comforts

- Hugh Hopper - bass
- John Marshall - drums
- John Etheridge - guitar
- Elton Dean - saxello, alto saxophone, electric piano (Fender Rhodes)

- IN-AKUSTIK (INAK9076) 2xCD

> Zoom

Lover Album
2006

Clammbon

- Prayer
- That's the Spirit
- As Long As He Lies Perfectly Still [M. Ratledge/R. Wyatt]
- Gaishutsuchuu
- Nami Yosete
- Summer Nude
- Across the Universe
- Night Cruising
- Ikokoro Denshin / You've Got To Help Yourself
- I Am Not A Know It All
- Kahlua Milk
- Odayakana Kurashi
- I Shall Be Released

- Ikuko Harada - vocals, keyboards
- Daisuke Ito - drums, percussions
- Mito - bass, keyboards, rhythm box, percussions, vocal

-TRIAD (COCP-50924) CD

> Zoom

Songs From The Big Chair
(Deluxe Edition)
2006

Tears For Fears

Disc 1
SONGS FROM THE BIG CHAIR
- Shout
- The Working Hour
- Everybody Wants To Rule The World
- Mothers Talk
- I Believe
- Broken
- Head Over Heels / Broken (Live)
- Listen

The Working Hour (Piano Version)

THE B-SIDES
- The Marauders
- Empire Building
- The Big Chair
- Pharaohs (Single Version)
- When In Love With A Blind Man
- Sea Song [R. Wyatt]
- Broken Revisited

Disc 2
RARITIES 1983-1985 - THE 7'' SINGLES
- The Way You Are (7" Version)
- Mothers Talk (Short Version)
- Shout (Edit)
- Everybody Wants To Rule The World (7" Version)
- Head Over Heels (Dave Bascombe 7" N. Mix)
- I Believe (A Soulful Re-Recording)
- Mothers Talk (U.S. Mix)

THE 12" SINGLES
- Shout (U.S. Remix)
- Shout (U.S. Dub Version)
- Everybody Wants To Rule The World (Urban Mix)
- Mothers Talk (Beat Of The Drum Mix)
- Broken / Head Over Heels / Broken (Preacher Mix)

- Roland Orzabal - keyboards, vocals, guitar
- Curt Smith - bass guitar, vocals
- Ian Stanley - keyboards
- Manny Elias - drums

Reissue. Remastered.
DELUXE EDITION includes a 24 page booklet.

- MERCURY (983 073-9) 2xCD

> Zoom 1 2 3 4

The Story So Far...
... Oh Really? (Reissue)
2007

Steve Miller/Lol Coxhill

Disc 1
MILLER/COXHILL
- Chocolate Field
- One For You
- Portland Bill

COXHILL/MILLER
- Will My Thirst Play Me Tricks/The Ant About To Be Crushed Ponders Not The Where Withal Of Boot Leather
- Maggots
- Bath 72
- Wimbledon Baths
- Gog Ma Gog

Bonus
DELIVERY
- Betty (You Pays Your Money, You Takes Your Chances)
- God Song [P. Miller/R. Wyatt]
- Bossa Nochance/Big Jobs

STEVE MILLER
- Big Jobs No. 2
- God Song

Disc 2
Bonus
STEVE MILLER
- Chocolate Field
- One For You

THE STORY SO FAR...
- G Song
- F Bit
- Songs Of March
- More G Songs
- Does This
- The Greatest Off-Shore Race In The World

...OH REALLY?
- Reprise For Thos Who Prefer It Slower
- Tubercular Balls
- Soprano Derivativo/Apricot Jam
- Oh, Do I Like To Be Beside The Seaside?
- In Memoriam: Meister Eckhart, From The Welfare State Epic Of The Same Name Starring Randolph Scott
- A Fabulous Comedian

Bonus
- Coo-Coo-Ka-Chew [Collective Improvisation]

Nouvelle réédition remasterisée de l'album paru en 1974, enrichie de nombreux bonus.

- CUNEIFORM (RUNE 253/254)
  2xCD

Cet album est également présent dans la rubrique With Friends.

Critiques/Reviews

> Zoom

The Bairns
2007

Rachel Unthank And The Winterset

- Felton Lonnin
- Newcastle Lullaby
- Blue Bleezing Blind Drunk
- I Wish I Wish
- Blue's Gaen Oot O'the Fashion
- My Lad's a Canny Lad
- Blackbird
- Minor Place
- Sea Song [R. Wyatt]
- Whitehorn
- Can't Stop It Raining
- My Donald
- Ma Bonny Lad
- Fareweel Regality
- Newcastle Lullaby

- EMI (5099950438020) CD

Mind Capsule

- Stares
- Soft Nine

- CDBABY (122132) CD

> Zoom

The Space Between 2007

- Organism
- Facelift [H. Hopper]
- Clockwork
- 734

> Zoom

Canción Del Océano (Sea Song)
2007

Honduras

- Canción Del Océano (Sea Song) [R. Wyatt]

- Alex Kodric - guitarra, percusión y cuerno boliviano
- Alejandro Leonelli - bajo, percusión y flauta
- Nicolás Kodric - órgano y sintetizador
- Gabriel Falciola - batería y percusión
- Hernán calvo Pardo (músico invitado) - guitarra slide

- IAJERO INMOVIL RECORDS (VIRD109HONDU) S

> Zoom

Still Living In The Desert
2007

Eyes Like Saucers

- Ideas Of Reference
- Sea Song [R. Wyatt]
- Delusion Of Reference
- Still Living In The Desert (And Mostly Inside My Own Head)
- I Want To Believe
- Fruhling Der Seele
- Numinosity
- Desert Song (Where land And Water Meet)

- LAST VISIBLE DOG RECORDS (LVD 117) CD

> Zoom 1 2 3 4

El Primitivismo / Sentimientos
2007

Pascal Comelade

Disc 1
EL PRIMITIVISMO
- Valse De La Demoiselle Aux Yeux Verts (Pascal Comelade)
- Ojos Negros (Tradicional)
- Honky Tonk Women (Jagger, Richards)
- La Dansa De Castellterçol (Tradicional)
- Rue Des Soeurs Noires (Pascal Comelade)
- It's Hurt Me Too (Elmore James)
- Les Dimanches Au Palmarium (Pascal Comelade)
- Jac B. And His Dancing Dogs (Pascal Comelade)
- O, Caroline PART 1 [R. Wyatt/D. Sinclair]
- Amarcord (Nino Rota)
- Memories [R. Wyatt/H. Hopper]
- Your Labios As Tulips (Pascal Comelade)
- Antonico (I. Silva)
- Sweet Little Sixteen (Chuck Berry)
- Ball De l'Àliga (Tradicional)
- Cançó VI (Frederic Mompou)

- Pascal Comelade - òrgan, piano, percussió, guitarra
- Pierre Bastien - violí, violoncel
- Marc Dufourd - guitarra
- Gat - baix
- Laurent Sinclair - piano
- Noémi Martínez - guitarra
- Jordi Argelaga - oboe
- Victor Nubla - clarinet
- Juan Crek - saxo
- Cathy Claret - flauta
- El guitarrista del antifaz - guitarra
- Laurent Churet - saxo
- Jean-Albert Achille - saxo
- Christophe Darmanté - saxo
- Sissi - veu
- Armando Miralles guitarra

Cette réédition réunit les 2 albums El Primitivismo (1987) et Sentimientos

- El Cant Dels Ocells (Tradicional)
- Volando Voy (Veneno)
- O, Caroline PART 2 [R. Wyatt/D. Sinclair]
- Greenlands (Richard Pinhas)
- Onliyu (Pascal Comelade)
- Un Enemic Del Poble (Pascal Comelade)

Disc 2
SENTIMIENTOS
- Irregular Organs (Pascal Comelade)
- Logique Du Sens (Pascal Comelade)
- A Perfect Crime (Pascal Comelade)
- Liebeslied (Pascal Comelade)
- The Curious Sofa (Pascal Comelade)
- Sentimientos, 3 (Pascal Comelade)
- Moments De Bruits Pendant Le Naufrage (Pascal Comelade)
- Sentimientos, 2 [R. Wyatt/J. Thollot]
- From Dc By Pc (David Cunningham)
- Taking Tiger Mountain By Strategy (Brian Eno)
- We Did It Again [K. Ayers]
- Collision (Pascal Comelade)
- Automne (Pascal Comelade)
- Ready-Made (Pascal Comelade)

(1982) avec la même pochette que El Primitivismo sans mention du second disque (à l'exception de la tranche du boîtier CD et des pages intérieures du leaflet).

- G3G RECORDS (G3PC10) 2xCD

> Zoom

Songs From The Beginning
2007

Alain Blesing

- Slightly All The Time [M. Ratledge]
- Beautiful As The Moon
- California
- Mumps (Extracts)
- 1983
- Behind Blue Eyes
- Fracture

- Alain Blesing - guitar
- Hugh Hopper- bass
- John Greaves - voice
- Nicolas Fargeix - clarinet
- Catherine Delaunay - clarinet, bass clarinet, accordion –
- François Verly - piano, keyboards, percussion
- Jean-Luc Landsweerdt - drums
- Yves Rousseau double bass
- Philippe Botta - tenor saxophone, soprano saxophone, flute

Enregistré les 2, 3 et 4 octobre 2006 au Triton (Les Lilas/France).

- MUSEA (FBGB 4655.AR) CD

> Zoom

Dedicated To You... But You Weren't Listening
The Music Of Soft Machine
Featuring Hugh Hopper
2007

Delta Saxophone Quartet

- Dedicated
- Facelift [H. Hopper]
- Somehow With The Passage Of Time...
Kings And Queens [H. Hopper]33 Years Later
- Mousetrap [H. Hopper]
Everything Is You
- To
- Outrageous Moon [M. Ratledge/R. Wyatt/ Fisher]
- Aubade
- Noisette [H. Hopper]
- Floating World
- You
- The Tale Of Taliesin
- Dedicated To You [H. Hopper]
- Epilogue
- Facelift (live) (titre bonus uniquement dans la version de 2012)

- Graeme Blevins - soprano sax
- Peter Whyman - alto & soprano sax
- Tim Holmes - tenor & soprano sax
- Chris Caldwell - baritone & soprano sax with special guest:
- Morgan Fischer - vocals, hurdy gurdy, background electronics (on Outrageous Moon)

Re-packaged in 2012 with one bonus live track, "Facelift", recorded live at Etna Jazz Festival in Catania, Italy in 2007, featuring one and only, Hugh Hopper.

- MOONJUNE RECORDS (MJR017) CD

Eiko Ishibashi & Tatsuya Yoshida

- Sanctuary
- Festival Of Teeth
- Twilight Furniture

- Tatsuya Yoshida - vocals, drums, programmed by, keyboards, acoustic guitar

> Zoom

Slip Beneath The Distant Tree
2007

- Classic Medley
- Hospital
- The Invention Of Parachute
- Time Table
- Across The Storm
- Forgipaska
- Doctor Gradus Ad Pernassum
- Poet And Peasant
- As Long As He Lies Perfectly Still [M. Ratledge, R. Wyatt]
- Planet Of Reverberation

Bonus (Mini-CD)
- Untitled
- Untitled

- Eiko Ishibashi - vocals, piano, keyboards, flute

There are no titles on the bonus mini-CD, but track 1 is a cover of A New Kind of Water by This Heat.

- RHYTHM TRACKS (TRACK-008) CD
- RHYTHM TRACKS (TRACK-003) Mini-CD

> Zoom

Live At The BBC
1968-1975
The Show Of Our Lives
2007

Caravan

Disc 1
- Place Of My Own
- Ride
- If I Could Do It All Over Again, I'd Do It All Over You
- Hello Hello
- As I Feel I Die
- Love To Love You
- Love Song Without Flute
- In The Land Of Grey And Pink
- Nine Feet Underground
- Feelin', Reelin', Squealin' [K. Ayers]
- A Hunting We Shall Go
- Waffle Part One: Be Alright & Chance Of A Lifetime

Disc 2
- Memory Lain Hugh
- Headloss
- The Love In Your Eye
- Mirror For The Day
- Virgin On The Ridiculous
- For Richard
- The Dabsong Conshirtoe
- Stuck In A Hole
- The Show Of Our Lives

Feelin', Reelin', Squealin' recorded for John Peel's "Sunday Concert" at the Paris Theatre, London 6th May 1971.

A Hunting We Shall Go est un medley constitué de plusieurs morceaux dont Backwards composé par Mike Ratledge pour Soft Machine (sera édité pour la 1ère fois en 2000 sur l'album Noisette par Cuneiform).

Ce medley, enregistré pour la BBC au Paris Theatre de Londre le 2 août 1973 comprend les morceaux suivants : L'Auberge Du Sanglier|A Hunting We Shall Go|Backwards et A Hunting We Shall Go (reprise).

- DERAM (5301443) 2xCD

> Zoom 1 2

En Direte A La Plaça Del Sol
22-08-1985
2008

Bel Canto Orchestra

Tracklisting non-identifié mais le premier morceau est une reprise d'Alifib.

Live at Plaça del Sol, Barcelona - 22 August 1985.

Tirage limité 200 exemplaires.

- PARASITE (008) CD

Brainville 3

- Trial By Headline
- Dedicated To PQ But She Couldn't Hear It [D. Allen/H. Hopper]
- Ocean Mother
- Who's Afraid?
- I Bin Stoned Before
- Basement Suite
- Return To Basement
- The Rubiyat Of Honorium Tonsilitisk

– Hugh Hopper - bass
- Chris Cutler - drums
– Daevid Allen - guitar, vocals

- ReR MEGACORP (ReR BV3-1) CD

> Zoom

Trial By Headline
2008

- Hours Gone
- Dididtagin [C. Cutler/D. Allen/ H. Hopper/K. Ayers]

Humi (Hugh Hopper & Yumi Hara Cawkwell)

- Long Dune
- Shiranui
- Seki no Gohonmatsu
- Circular Dance
- Scattered Forest
- Hopeful Impressions Of Happiness [B. Hopper/H. Hopper/Y. Hara Cawkwell]
- Awayuki
- Awayuki II
- Distant Dune
- Futa

– Hugh Hopper - bass guitar, loops, electronics
- Yumi Hara Cawkwell - voice, keyboards, percussion

Hopeful Impressions Of Happiness est une évocation de Hope For Happiness (on The Soft Machine Vol. One)

- MOONJUNE RECORDS (MJR019) CD

> Zoom

Dune
2008

Brainville 01 - Daevid Allen/Pip Pyle/Hugh Hopper/Kramer

- Brainvilla
- Who's Afraid
- Hours Gone
- Hope For Happiness [B. Hopper]
- Bullshit & Be
- Memories [H. Hopper]

- Daevid Allen - guitar, vocals
- Hugh Hopper - Bass
- Pip Pyle - drums

Hope For Hapiness est signé par Brian Hopper (qui a effectivement composé et déposé les droits de ce morceau) alors que la version du Soft Machine vol.1 est signée par Hugh Hopper, Kevin Ayers et Mike Ratledge.

Recorded at Knitting Factory NYC on September 5th, 1998.

- VOICEPRINT (VP427CD) CD

> Zoom

Live In NYC '98
2008

Kevin Ayers

Disc 1
- Town Feeling
- Song For Insane Times
- Girl On A Swing
- The Lady Rachel
- Stop This Train (Again Doing It)
- Eleanor's Cake (Wich Ate Her)
- Religious Experience (Singing A Song In The Morning)
- Soon Soon Soon
- Rheinhardt & Geraldine/ Colores Para Delores
- May I?
- Clarence In Wonderland
- The Oyster And The Flying Fish
- Shooting At The Moon
- Butterfly Dance
- Gemini Child
- Stars
- There Is Loving/Among Us/There Is Loving

Disc 2
- Stranger In Blue Suede Shoes
- Song From The Bottom Of A Well
- Oh My
- Margaret
- Whatevershebringswesing
- Decadence
- Oh! Wot A Dream
- Don't Let It Get You Down

Compilation.

Le 4ème CD de cette compilation est un enregistrement du concert du 25 mai 1973 au Queen Elizabeth Hall de Londres, avec :

- Kevin Ayers - vocals, guitar
- Archie Leggett - bass
- Cal Batchelor - guitar
- Gerry Fitzgerald - guitar
- Henry Crallan - keyboards
- Henry Smith - drums
- Liza Strike - backing vocals
- Doris Troy - backing vocals
- Barry St. John - backing vocals

- HARVEST (521 5570) 4xCD

Cet album est également présent dans la rubrique With Friends.

> Zoom

Songs For Insane Times: An Anthology 1969-1980
2008

- Interview
- Caribbean Moon
- The Up Song
- The Confessions Of Doctor Dream: Irreversible Neural Damage
- It Begins With A Blessing/Once I Awakened/But It Ends With A Curse
- See You Later
- Ballbearing Blues

Disc 3
- After The Show
- Thank You Very Much
- Observations
- Toujours La Voyage
- Diminished But Not Finished
- Farewell Again (Another Dawn)
- Yes I Do
- Love's Gonna Turn You Round
- Ballad Of Mr. Snake
- Blue
- Ballad Of A Salesman Who Sold Himself
- A View From The Mountain
- Beware Of The Dog II
- Hat Song
- Money, Money, Money
- Super Salesman
- Where Do The Stars End ?

Disc 4
''AFTER THE SHOW' LIVE AT THE QUEEN ELISABETH HALL 1973
- Banana Introduction
- Stranger In Blue Suede Shoes
- Interview
- Whatevershebringswesing
- Oh! Wot A Dream
- Shouting In A Bucket Blues
- Caribbean Moon
- Don't Let It Get You Down
- We Did It Again [K. Ayers]
- Why Are We Sleeping ? [K. Ayers/ M. Ratledge/R. Wyatt]
- After The Show

> Zoom

Timemazine #3
2008

Timemazine #3

- Tahitian Melody [Live] (The Salvage Resurrection)
- Drivin Sideways (Merrell Fankhauser & H.M.S. Bounty)
- Ballad of the Hip Death Goddess [Live] (Ultimate Spinach)
- Open Your Eyes [Lost Version] (Hunger!)
- Mystery Ship [Live] (Vibravoid)
- White (Atomic Workers)
- News From The Sun (No Mans Land)
- Thats How Much I Need You Now [Demo] [R. Wyatt] (The Lysergics)
- The River (Dragontears)
- I See (Obskuria)
- My Queen (King Arthurs Court)

Psychedelic Greek Fanzine in English with free CD.

- Issue #3 - Autumn 2008. - CD

> Zoom

Parallel Dune
2008

Humi (Hugh Hopper & Yumi Hara Cawkwell)

- Dune Original Version
- Awayuki (Light Snow) Original Version
- Hopeful Impressions Of Happiness Original Version [B. Hopper/H. Hopper/Y. Hara Cawkwell]
- Nowaki (Wind that Divides the Wild Field) - Egasumi (The Shape Of A Haze)
- Seki no Gohonmatsu (Five Pine Trees Of Seki) Integral Version
- Shiranui MySpace Version
- Awayuki (Light Snow) MySpace Version
- Dune MySpace Version
- Seki no Gohonmatsu (Five Pine Trees Of Seki) MySpace Version

- Hugh Hopper - bass guitar, electronics, loops
- Yumi Hara - keyboards, vocals

Includes alternative versions of tracks from album 'Dune' (hence 'Parallel' Dune) and live recordings.

Track 3 recorded on 19 September 2007.

Compiled and made available as limited edition CDr for HUMI Japan Tour 2008 which Hugh couldn't make due to his sudden illness, and which was replaced by solo gigs by Yumi Hara between September and November 2008. The CDr was sold at these shows. It was also later available for purchase online through Yumi's bandcamp page.

- NO LABEL - CD

> Zoom

Music For Airports (Live)
2008

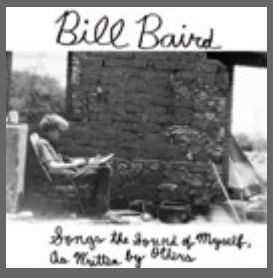
Bang On A Can

- 1/1 (B.Eno/R. Wyatt/R. Davies - arr. Michael Gordon)
- 1/2
- 2/1
- 2/2

- CANTALOUPE MUSIC (CA21045) CD

> Zoom

Jazz Italiano Live Festival 2008 Omaggio Ai Progressive Rock
2008



Roberto Gatto

- Watcher Of The Skies (Rutherford, Gabriel, Collins, Hackett, Banks)
- Matte Kudasai (Belew, Bruford, Fripp Levin)
- Money (Waters)
- Episode One (Gatto)
- Sea Song [Robert Wyatt]
- Talk To The Wind (McDonald , Sinfield)
- Starting In The Middle Of The Day We Can Drink Our Politics Away [D. McRae, R. Wyatt]
- Progressivamente (Gatto)
- Trilogy (Lake, Emerson)

- Roberto Gatto - drums
- Francesco Puglisi - bass, double bass
- Roberto Cecchetto - electric guitar
- Danilo Rea - piano, keyboards
- Maurizio Giammarco - saxophone [tenor], flute
- Gianluca Petrella - trombone (tracks: 2 to 5, 8)
- Fabrizio Bosso - trumpet, flugelhorn (tracks: 1, 6, 7, 9)
- John De Leo - vocals (tracks: 4, 5)

Registrato alla Casa dell Jazz di Roma il 07.04.2008.
Released in the Jazz Italiano Live 2008 series (radio Capital)

Sold with the weekly magazine L'Espresso. - CD

> Zoom

Songs the Sound of Myself, As Written By Others
2008

Bill Baird

- The Dirt (Mark David Ashworth)
- Sea Song [Robert Wyatt]
- Last Fall (Jared Van Fleet)
- Shady Grove (Traditional)
- The Ballad of Sammy Mudd (Sam Sanford)
- I'll Be Here In the Morning (Townes Van Zandt)
- Rake and Rambling Boy (Traditional)
- Hot Burrito 2 Digit (Flying Burrito Brothers)
- Expecting to Fly (Neil Young)
- Walking After Midnight (Searching for Me)
- Be Not So Fearful (Bill Fay)
- Diamond Deserts (Bill Baird)
- This Land Is Your Land (Woody Guthrie)

- TIRED TRAILS
Digital format

Soft Machine

> Zoom

Drop
2008

- Neo Caliban Grides
- All White
- Slightly All The Time [M. Ratledge]
- Drop - Part 1
- Drop - Part 2
- M.C.
- Out-Bloody-Rageous [M. Ratledge]
- As If
- Dark Swing
- Intropigling
- Pigling Bland

- Mike Ratledge - Lowrey organ, Fender Rhodes electric piano
- Elton Dean - saxello, alto saxophone, Fender Rhodes Electric piano
- Hugh Hopper - bass guitar
- Phil Howard - drums

Recorded live during the German tour in the Fall of 1971.

Dedicated to the memory of Elton Dean (1946-2006).

- MOONJUNE RECORDS (MJR023) CD
- SIREENA RECORDS (SIR4025) LP, limited edition.

> Zoom

Covers
2008

Chris Kunkel

- Centerfield (John Fogerty cover)
- Her Majesty (Spin Cycle cover)
- In the Pines (Leadbelly cover)
- Pay No Mind (Beck cover)
- Feel (Syd Barrett cover)
- Sea Song [R. Wyatt]
- Black Angel's Death Song (VU cover)

- NO LABEL - Digital Format

> Zoom

Anthologie du Projet MW
2009

Anthologie du Projet MW

- September Song (R. Wyatt, P. Comelade) [K. Weill]
- Signed Curtain (P. Comelade) [R. Wyatt]
- O Caroline (P. Comelade) [D. Sinclair / R. Wyatt]
- Memories (P. Comelade) [H. Hopper]
- Alifib 1 (P. Comelade) [R. Wyatt]
- Alifib 2 (P. Comelade) [R. Wyatt]
- Heaps Of Sheep (Rik Van Den Bosch - guitare et chant & Marrijn Slager - guitare avec les voix de A. Marchetti, L. Marchetti, B. Demonet et J.M. Marchetti) [B. Eno - P. George - R. Wyatt / A. Benge]
- Entretien avec Robert Wyatt et lectures de The British Road en français par Philippe Fretun et de The British Road + Blues in Bob Minor en anglais par Robert Wyatt

Ce CD est édité avec l'ouvrage Anthologie du projet MW de J.M. Marchetti publié en mars 2009 aux éditions Ænc rages & Co.

- ÆNCRAGES & Co - CD

Cet album est également présent dans la rubrique With Friends.

> Zoom

Stere0types
2009

Cantastorie Sintetico

- Funcia Da Carrua | Soup Song [B. Hopper:R. Wyatt]
- Matri Chi Aviti I Figghi A La Batia (Trad.)
- Lu Libbru Di L'infami (Trad.)
- Sta Bedda Libbirtà (Trad.)
- Tarantella Vietnamita

Funcia Da Carrua | Soup Song is Robert Wyatt's song translated in Sicilian.

- NO LABEL - Digital Format

> Zoom 1 2 3

Hamburg
Volume 3 Of The Henry Cow Anniversary Box Set 2009

Henry Cow

- Fair As The Moon
- Nirvana For Rabbits
- Ottawa Song
- Twilight Bridge
- Gloria Gloom [R. Wyatt/B. McCormick]
- Hamburg 1
- Hamburg 2
- Red Noise10
- Hamburg 3
- Hamburg 4
- Hamburg 5
- Terrible As An Army With Banners
- A Heart
- Little Red Riding Hood Hit the Road
- We Did It Again

- Robert Wyatt - voice

- Chris Cutler - drums
- Lindsay Cooper - oboe, bassoon
- Fred Frith - guitar
- John Greaves - bass
- Tim Hodgkinson - organ, alto sax
- Dagmar Krause - voice

- RER MEGACORP (RER HC9) CD

Cet album est également présent dans la rubrique With Friends.

> Zoom 1 2 3 4

Around Robert Wyatt
2009

Orchestre National de Jazz

Disc 1
- The Song (Robert Wyatt, chant)
- Alifib (Rokia Traoré, chant) [R. Wyatt]
- Just As You Are (Yael Naïm, Arno, chant) [A. Benge/R. Wyatt]
- O Caroline (Daniel Darc, chant) [D. Sinclair/R. Wyatt]
- Kew Rhone (Robert Wyatt, chant)
- Shipbuilding (Yael Naïm, chant) [Mac Manus/Langer]
- Line
- Alliance (Camille, chant) [R. Wyatt]
- Vandalusia (Robert Wyatt, chant)
- Del Mondo (Irène Jacob, chant) [Zamboni/Maroccolo/Magnelli]
- Te Recuerdo Amanda (Robert Wyatt, chant)

Disc 2 - Bonus
- P L A (Rokia Traoré, chant) [R. Wyatt]
- Gegenstand (Robert Wyatt, chant)
- Rangers In The Night (Robert Wyatt, chant)
- Just As You Are (Yael Naïm, chant) [A. Benge/R. Wyatt]

- Robert Wyatt - chant

- Daniel Yvinec - direction artistique
- Vincent Artaud - arrangements

- Arno - chant
- Camille - chant
- Daniel Darc - chant
- Irène Jacob - chant
- Yael Naïm - chant
- Rokia Traore - chant
- Eve Risser - piano, piano préparé, flûtes & objets sonores
- Vincent Lafont - claviers & électronique
- Antonin-Tri Hoang - saxophone alto, clarinettes & piano
- Matthieu Metzger - saxophones, systalk-box & traitements électroniques
- Joce Mienniel - flûtes & électronique
- Rémi Dumoulin - saxophones & clarinettes
- Guillaume Poncelet - trompette, piano, synthétiseurs & électronique
- Pierre Perchaud - guitare & banjo
- Sylvain Daniel - basse électrique, cor d'harmonie & effets électroniques
- Yoann Serra - batterie

- BEE JAZZ (BEE 030) 2xCD

Cet album est également présent dans la rubrique With Friends.

Critiques/Reviews

Comicoperando
A Tribute To The Music Of Robert Wyatt

- Intro
- Pataphysical Introduction (arr. Alex Maguire) [R. Wyatt]
- September The Ninth (arr. Annie Whitehead) [A. Benge/R. Wyatt]
- Little Red Robin Hood Hit the Road (arr. Cristiano Calcagnile) [R. Wyatt]

- Dagmar Krause - voce
- Richard Sinclair - voce, basso elettrico
- Gilad Atzmon - ance
- Annie Whitehead - trombone
- Michel Delville - chitarra synth

> Zoom

Comicoperando
A Tribute To The Music
Of Robert Wyatt
2010

- Just as You Are (arr. Gilad Atzmon) [A. Benge/R. Wyatt]
- Calyx (arr. Phil Miller) [P. Miller]
- Memories (arr. Michel Delville) [H. Hopper]
- Alifib (arr. Annie Whitehead) [R. Wyatt]
- Double Bass Solo (arr. John Edwards)
- Little Red Riding Hood Hit the Road [R. Wyatt](arr. Annie Whitehead)
- Guitar Noise (arr. Michel Delville)
- God Song (arr. Phil Miller) [P. Miller/ R. Wyatt]
- Maryan (arr. Cristiano Calcagnile) [R. Wyatt/P. Catherine]
- Alliance (instrumental) [R. Wyatt]
- Sea Song (arr. Annie Whitehead) [R. Wyatt]
- Sax Medley (arr. Gilad Atzmon)
- O Caroline (arr. Dave Sinclair) [D. Sinclair/R. Wyatt]
- Band Presentation
- Forest (arr. Annie Whitehead) [A. Benge/R. Wyatt]
- Soup Song [B. Hopper/R. Wyatt]

- Alex Maguire - pianoforte e tastiere
- John Edwards - contrabbasso
- Chris Cutler - batteria
- Cristiano Calcagnile - percussioni

L'ALTRO SUONO festival 2010 Teatro Comunale Luciano Pavarotti, Modena 2010 March, 1st

- PRODUZIONE EXB - Digital Format

> Zoom

Mop Meuchiine Plays
Robert Wyatt
2010

Mop Meuchiine Plays Robert Wyatt

- Locomotive [T. Monk/P. Brown]
- Sea Song [R. Wyatt]
- Instant Pussy [R. Wyatt]
- The British Road [R. Wyatt]
- To The Next Track
- Gharbzadegi [R. Wyatt]
- I'm A Believer [N.Diamond]
- Anachronist [R. Wyatt]; A.W.O.L. [A. Benge/R. Wyatt]
- Calyx [P. Miller]
- Big Bang Theory
- Five Black Notes And One White Note [Offenbach/R. Wyatt]
- Muddy Mouse [F. Frith/R. Wyatt]

- Robert Wyatt - voix, interview

- Pascal Maupeu - guitare, banjo
- Jean-Baptiste Réhault - saxophone baryton, accordéon, saxhorn alto
- Hugues Vincent - violoncelle
- Cedric Piromalli - piano, fender rhodes, korg ms20
- Nicolas Le Moullec - basse électrique, voix
- Bertrand Hurault - batterie électronique

- LE CHANT DU MONDE (274 1869) CD

Cet album est également présent dans la rubrique With Friends.

Critiques/Reviews

> Zoom

Go
2010

Annemarieke Coenders & Wim Sebo

-- No Friend Of Mine
- Go
- Lake Greenhouse
- Your Side Of The Road
- Do Not Keep
- I'm A Whale
- Keyhole
- Black Ink
- Costa [R. Wyatt/A. Benge]
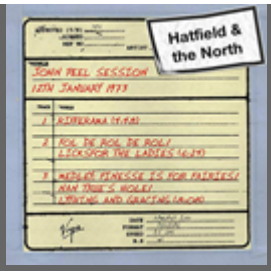
- Another World
- I Want To Go To
- His Way Back
- Rain Coming Down
- Sandman
- November Remains



- Annemarieke Coenders - vocals, guitar
- Wim Sebo - drums, electronic drums
- Sido Martens - electric guitar
- Obed Brinkman - trombone
- Hans Battenberg - violin

- CRS (CECD 34) CD

Hatfield & The North

- Rifferama
- Fol De Rol / Licks For The Ladies
- Finesse Is For Fairies / Nan True's Hole [P. Miller/R. Wyatt] / Lything And Gracing

- Richard Sinclair - bass, vocals
- Pip Pyle - drums, percussion
- Phil Miller - guitar
- Dave Stewart - keyboards, tone

> Zoom

John Peel Session
(12th January 1973)
2010 generators

It seems that the recording took place on January 22, not on January 12.

- VIRGIN RECORDS
  Digital format

> Zoom

What's Rattlin' On The Moon?
A Personal Vision Of The Music
Of Mike Ratledge
2010

Beppe Crovella

... RATTLIN' ALL THE TIME
- Tarabos
- Chloe And The Pirates
- All White
- The Man Who Waved At Trains
- As If
- Hibou, Anemone And Bear [M. Ratledge, R. Wyatt]
- Out Bloody Rageous [M. Ratledge]
- Pig [M. Ratledge]
- Esther's Nose Job [M. Ratledge]
- Slightly All The Time [M. Ratledge]

... BEFORE THE MOON
- Leonardo's E-mail
- Moonvision
- Many Moons, Many Junes

...AFTER THE MOON
- Lunar Impression
- Circular Lines In The Air
- Moon Geezers (To Elton & Hug)

- Beppe Crovella - organ, piano, electric piano, clavinet, mellotron

- MOONJUNE RECORDS (MJR030)
  CD

> Zoom

Everlasting
2010

Rebecca Barnard

- Born in a Shirt
- Age 14
- Everlasting
- Fall And Walk
- Give Away
- Own Time
- Closer To You
- Seasong [R. Wyatt]
- Little Ruffy
- You Are Loved)

- SHOCK RECORDS (LADYBIRD2)
  CD

> Zoom

UFO Planante
2010

Invisible Opera Company Of Tibet

- First Contact
- Sal Paradise
- Stars
- Spirits
- Landing in Shambhala
- Moon in June (Live) [R. Wyatt]

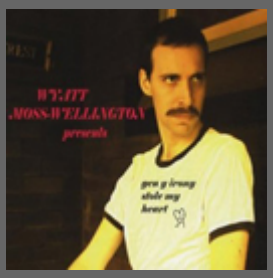
- Fabio Golfetti - guitarra, vocal
- Gabriel Costa - baixo
- Fred Barley - bateria, vocal

- VOICEPRINT BRAZIL
  (VPB125CD) CD

> Zoom



The Covers Album
2010

Harbour

- California Dreaming
- How To Fight Loneliness
- You Turn Me On (I'm a radio)
- Sea Song [Robert Wyatt]
- River
- The Book Of Love
- A Heart Needs A Home
- I Am Lonely
- Into My Arms

A collection of cover versions of favourite songs recorded at home on 8 track in December 2010.

- NO LABEL - Digital Format

> Zoom

Gen Y Irony Stole My Heart
2010

Wyatt Moss-Wellington

- Intro
- Coming Down
- Spencer
- PSA: Sour Visits Sonic Chemical Plant in Dark Castle
- Arguments
- Portnoy's Sanction (Sex is Pretty Good)
- Hammond Song
- Wyatt's Gangsta Rap Yea Pwned
- Screaming for Some Peace
- 40th Anniversary
- Love Song Louise vol. 2
- Prelude to a Sanitary Apocalypse
- The Suicide Bomber
- Alifib [R. Wyatt]

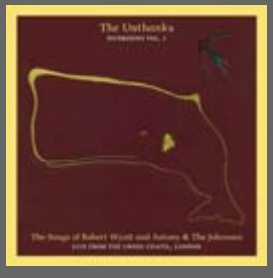
- CD BABY RECORDS /INDYS (386311) CD

> Zoom



Meat Das Tirol !
2010

Tirol

- Les Enfant Terribles
- Los Niños Del Maiz
- Nursery Crimes
- El Yogurt De Alburquerque
- Me Voy Scoutt
- Amiguitos Del Interior
- We Did It Again (Soft Machine) [K. Ayers]

- Andrés Toro - guitarra, voz
- Andrés Smith - guitarra
- Martín Sandoval - bajo
- Luis Maria Ducasse - bateria

- NO LABEL - CD

> Zoom

Diversions, Vol. 1: The Songs Of Robert Wyatt And Antony & The Johnsons

The Unthanks

- Bird Gerhl
- Man Is The Baby
- You Are My Sister
- For Today I Am A Boy
- Paddy's Gone
- Spiralling
- Stay Tuned [A. Garbarek]
- Dondestan [R. Wyatt]
- Lullaby For Hamza [A. Benge/R. Wyatt]
- Lisp Service [H. Hopper/R. Wyatt]
- Free Will And Testament [Kramer/R. Wyatt]
- Out Of The Blue [A. Benge/R. Wyatt]
- Cuckoo Madame [A. Benge/R. Wyatt]

- Rachel Unthank - voice, percussion [feet], dulcitone
- Becky Unthank - voice, percussion [feet]
- Ros Stephen - violin, voice
- Niopha Keegan - violin, accordion, voice
- Becca Spencer - viola, voice
- Lizzie Jones - trumpet, voice
- Adrian McNally - piano
- Adrian McNally - harmonium, voice - Chris Price - drums
- Dean Rivera - double bass
- Jo Silverston - cello, voice

Live From The Union Chapel, London
2011

- Sea Song [R. Wyatt]
- Forest (Excerpt) [A. Benge/R. Wyatt]

Recorded at the Union Chapel, Islington, London on December 8th and 9th 2010.

- RABBLE ROUSER MUSIC (RRM009) CD

> Zoom

Garden Parti & Caroline, Yes !
2011

Caroline

Disc 1
- El Mito
- Run
- The Killers (a Juan)
- Hier Soir Un DJ M'a Sauvé la Vie
- Horses
- L'Indocile
- Comme Tout Le Monde
- La Chaize
- Geranium

Disc 2
- Le portrait de tante Caroline
- Caroline, Yes
- O Caroline [D. Sinclair/R. Wyatt]
- Roses
- Carolina Hard-Core Ecstasy
- Caroline, No
- I Did Acid With Caroline
- Elle s'appelle Caroline
- Sweet Caroline
- Caroline Says I
- Carolyn "Keki" Mingus
- Caroline's a Victim
- Caroline Says II
- Carolina in the Morning
- Caroline

- Brad Scott - vocal on O Caroline
- Sarah Murcia - double bass, keyboards
- Olivier Py - saxophones, flute
- Gilles Coronado - guitars
- Franck Vaillant - drums

- ZIG-ZAG TERRITOIRES (ZZT 110104) 2xCD

> Zoom

The Chansons Of
Robert Wyatt Et Moi...
2011

Jean-Philippe Ramos

- Dondestan [R. Wyatt]
- Free Will And Testament [Kramer/ R. Wyatt]
- Amber And The Amberines [H. Hopper/ R. Wyatt]
- Moon In June [R. Wyatt]
- P.L.A. [R. Wyatt]

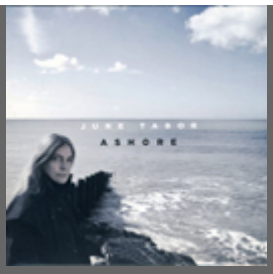
- Jean-Philippe Ramos - saxophones - voix - palimpseste

- NO LABEL - LP



> Zoom

El Firichinio
2011

Maxi Trusso

- King Of Sad
- You Got It
- Discovermen
- Lithium
- Let The Motion
- Oh Caroline [R. Wyatt]

- NO LABEL - EP

> Zoom

Ashore
2011

June Tabor

- Finisterre
- The Bleacher Lassie Of Kelvinhaugh
- The Grey Funnel Line
- Le Vingt-Cinquième Du Mois D'Octobre
- Shipbuilding [C. Langer/D. MacManus]
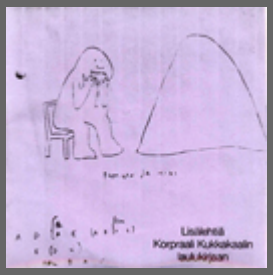
- Jamaica
- The Great Selkie Of Sule Skerry
- Winter Comes In / Vidlin Voe
- The Oggie Man
- I'll Go And Enlist For A Sailor
- The Brean Lament
- Le Petit Navire
- Across The Wide Ocean

- June Tabor - voice
- Huw Warren - piano
- Tim Harries - double bass
- Andy Cutting - accordion
- Mark Emerson - viola, violin

- TOPIC RECORDS (TSCD577) CD
- VINYL 180 (VIN180LP133) 2xLP

> Zoom



Live Adventures
2011

Soft Machine Legacy

- Has Riff II
- Grapehound
- The Nodder
- In The Back Room
- Song Of Aeolus
- The Relegation Of Pluto / Transit
- Gesolreut
- Facelift [H. Hopper]
- The Last Day

- John Etheridge - guitar
- Theo Travis - tenor sax - flute
- Roy Babbington - bass guitar
- John Marshall - drums - saxophones - voix - palimpseste

- MOONJUNE RECORDS (MJR036) CD

> Zoom

Lisälehtiä Korpraali Kukkakaalin Laulukirjaan
2011

Suonna Kononen

- Marilyn Monroe & Henry Miller (Marilyn)
- Jumala oli mies
- Parmenldes
- Voi kun teillä olis silmät
- Rallikuskin kuolema
- Taivaan kultavaunut
- Taivaanrannan maalarit
- Planet waves III
- Zyrtec blues
- Anus mundi
- Satamavarasto
- Voi Helena (O Caroline) [D. Sinclair/ R. Wyatt + suom. san. Suonna Kononen]
- Lobsang Rampa
- Riemukas Rabelals

- Suonna Kononen - laulu, akustinen kitara, huuliharppu
- Arto Laitinen -basso, mandoliini
- Aapo Ruuttunen - taustalaulu
- Pasi Rytinki -6- ja 12-kielinen sähkökitara, ukulele

Limited edition of 40 copies to celebrate SK's 40th birthday.

- NO LABEL - CD

> Zoom

I Will Never Do Cover Versions! (expanded)
2011

VVAA (Finisterre, La Maschera Di Cera, Höstsonaten, Fabio Zuffanti)

- Harlequin (Genesis) - Finisterre
- Refugees (Van Der Graaf Generator) - Finisterre
- Nimrodel (Camel) - Finisterre
- Alta Loma (Premiata Forneria Marconi) - Finisterre
- Darkness (11-11) (Van Der Graaf Generator)- La Maschera Di Cera
- In The Wake Of Poseidon (King Crimson) La Maschera Di Cera
- Vorrei Incontrarti (Alan Sorrenti) - Höstsonaten
- Sea Song [Robert Wyatt] - Höstsonaten
- Julia Dream (Pink Floyd) - Fabio Zuffati
- Astronomy Domine (Pink Floyd) - Fabio Zuffati
- Chapter 24 (Pink Floyd) - Fabio Zuffati

Taken from "To Canterbury and Beyond (A tribute to Canterbury Scene)", Mellow Records 1999.

- NO LABEL - Digital Format

- Sequenze E Frequenze (Franco Battiato) - Fabio Zuffati

> Zoom

[Peaux d'âmes]
2012

Mahieux "Family Life" Quartet

- Flip
- 45 Angle
- Mank De Monk
- Be Serious [R. Wyatt]
- Mirrors
- Station Debout Pénible
- Pee Wee
- Punt
- Jack's Blues

- Géraldine Laurent - saxophone
- Olivier Benoit - guitar
- Nicolas Mahieux - double-bass
- Jacques Mahieux - drums, vocals
- Jérémie Ternoy - Fender Rhodes

- CIRCUM DISC (CIDI1001) CD

> Zoom

Under Cover
2012

In Dark Trees

- Mathilda Mother
- Space Oditty
- Perfect Day
- Sea Song (R. Wyatt]
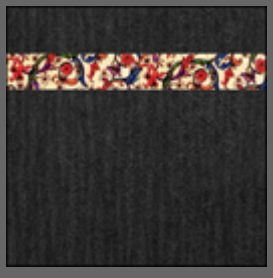
- May I ?
- Song For Europe
- Alabama Song
- I Keep a Close Watch
- Let's Go Away For a While
- Old Man
- Fruit Tree
- A Singer Must Die
- Today
- Venus In Furs
- In the Court of the Crimson King

- Nicolas DENIS - guitar/voice
- Philippe ONFRAY - accordeon/voice
- Denis SOTINEL - guitar/voice

Recorded live au Bas Chemin, Quessoy
03 july 2011

- NO LABEL - Digital format

> Zoom



Field Music Play...
2012

Field Music

- Terrapin
- Born Again Cretin [R. Wyatt]
- Heart
- If There Is Something
- Suzanne
- Don't Pass Me By
- Fear Is A Man's Best Friend
- Rent

- David Brewis - all instruments
- Peter Brewis - all instruments

- MEMPHIS INDUSTRIES (MI0248CD) CD

> Zoom

Monsieur Benjamin

- Crime Parfait
- Jolianne
- Les Rêves Tristes
- Toes
- Chromantic Song
- Comme Un Printemps
- Lisp Service [H. Hopper/R. Wyatt]
- Histoires De Noyées
- Consoler Les Cachalots
- No-No
- Le Geste à La Parole
- Undertoes
- Waiting For Your Call Part 2

- Benjamin Croizy - voice and all instruments

- NO LABEL
Digital Format

Marottes
2012

> Zoom

The Harvest Years 1969-1974
2012

- La Scop
- Fabrice De Tourcoing
- Virgule, Point.

Kevin Ayers

Disc 1
JOY OF TOY
- Joy Of A Toy Continued
- Town Feeling
- The Clarietta Rag<
- Girl On A Swing
- Song For Insane Times
- Stop The Train (Again Doing It)
- Eleanor's Cake (Which Ate Her)
- Lady Rachel
- Oleh Oleh Bandu Bandong 5:36
- All This Crazy Gift Of Time 3:50

Bonus Tracks
- Singing A Song In The Morning (Single Version)-
- Clarence In Wonderland
- Stop This Train-
- Why Are We Sleeping [M. Ratledge, K. Ayers, R. Wyatt]
- You Say You Like My Hat

Disc 2
SHOOTING AT THE MOON
- May I?
- Rheinhardt & Geraldine / Colores Para Delores
- Lunatics Lament
- Pisser Dans Un Violon
- The Oyster And The Flying Fish
- Underwater
- Clarence In Wonderland
- Red Green And You Blue
- Shooting At The Moon

Bonus Tracks
- Butterfly Dance
- Puis Je? 3:38
- Gemini Child 3:11
- The Lady Rachel
- Shooting At The Moon
- Derby Day
- The Interview
- We Did It Again [K. Ayers] / Murder In The Air

Disc 3
WHATEVERSHEBRINGSWESING
- There Is Loving / Among Us / There Is Loving
- Margaret
- Oh My
- Song From The Bottom Of A Well
- Whatevershebringswesing
- Stranger In Blue Suede Shoes
- Champagne Cowboy Blues
- Lullaby

Bonus Tracks
- Stars
- Fake Mexican Tourist Blues
- Lunatic's Lament
- Oyster And The Flying Fish
- Butterfly Dance
- Whatevershebringswesing
- Falling In Love Again
- Queen Thing

Disc 4
BANANAMOUR
- Don't Let It Get You Down
- Shouting In A Bucket Blues
- When Your Parents Go To Sleep
- Interview
- International Anthem
- Decadence
- Oh! Wot A Dream
- Hymn
- Beware Of The Dog

Bonus Tracks
- Connie On A Rubber Band
- Caribbean Moon
- Take Me To Tahiti
- The Interview
- Oh! What A Dream

Box Set compilation.

- HARVEST (956 5092) 5xCD
- EMI (956 5092) 5xCD

Cet album est également présent dans la rubrique With Friends.

- Shouting In A Bucket Blues

Disc 5
THE CONFESSIONS OF MR DREAM AND OTHER STORIES
- Day By Day
- See You Later
- Didn't Feel Lonely Till I Thought Of You
- Everybody's Sometime And Some People's All The Time Blues
- It Begins With A Blessing / Once I Awakened / But It Ends With A Curse
- Ballbearing Blues
- The Confessions Of Dr Dream
- Part One: Irreversible Neural Damage
- Part Two: Invitation
- Part Three: The One Dance Chance
- Part Four: Doctor Dream Theme
- Two Goes Into Four

Bonus Tracks
- The Up Song
- After The Show
- Thank You Very Much
- Another Whimsical Song
- The Lady Rachel
- Stop This Train
- Didn't Feel Lonely Until I Thought Of You

> Zoom

Paris Short Stories Saison 1
2012

Joce Miennel

- Box 25/4 LID I [M. Ratledge, H. Hopper]
- Mozambic 2. Mozambic
- The Band Over The Clouds
- The Pirate Of Penance
- Box 25/4 LID II [M. Ratledge, H. Hopper]
- Max mon amour
- Big Swifty
- Immature
- Continuum
- Box 25/4 LID III [M. Ratledge, H. Hopper]
- The Modern Things
- Turkish Mambo

- Joce Mienniel - flute, flute basse, flute en UT et alto, guimbarde, traitements
- Aymeric Avice - trumpet, traitements
- Sylvain Rifflet - clarinette, traitements
- Vincent Lafont - Fender Rhodes, traitements
- Antonin Rayon - orgue Hammond B3 & clavinet
- Eve Risser - piano préparé
- Philippe Gordiani - guitares folk & électrique, traitements

- DRUGSTORE MALONE (DM001)
CD

> Zoom

Love Me Oh Please Love Me
2012

Bullion

- It's All Sound
- The Age Of Self [R. Wyatt]
- Collision
- Save Your Lubb
- Family

- Juliano Fiori - percussion
- Wayne Francis - saxophone
- Nathan Jenkins - vocals, acoustic guitar, synth

- DEEK RECORDINGS (DEEK001)
EP

Sharon Gal

- Summer Candy Winter Magic
- Sea Song [R. Wyatt]
Bonus Track
- Black Lolly

- Sharon Gal - voices & electronics

Bonus added to the digital version of the album on Bandcamp.

- AMERICAN TAPES (AM930) EP

> Zoom

Melancoholic
2012

> Zoom

Covers
(?)

Witold Bolik

- It's only a paper moon - take 3 - Siel PX (Arlen-Harburg/Rose)
- Ça n'effraie personne (Nobody's scared) - Vic Godard/Subway sect
- Jje suis venu te dire que (S. Gainsbourg)
- Somebody that I used to know (Lyrics Eliott Smith)
- Shakespeare City - fragment (Moondog)
- O Caroline (update) (Matching Mole)
- Mandy make up your mind (piano/vx)
- Jazz me blues take 1
- Mandy make up your mind (laidback proposal)
- Jazz me blues take 2
- Mandy make up your mind (weird notes)
- Jazz me blues (Delaney, 1921)
- Blue moon (rodgers/hart)
- Monica (The Kinks)
- Brazil (Barroso)
- I'm gonna sit right down... (Young/ahlert)
- Goodbye July (Margo Guryan)
- Chega de saudade (Jobim) - 2015 #1
- Toccatta (Jaga jazzist)
- Qui c'est celui-là (Buarque/Vassiliu)
- One note (and less than a minute) samba (Jobim) - from "Comment j'ai conquis Broadway"
- Magnet's coil (Sebadoh)
- Loser (Beck)
- The glory of love (Billy Hill)
- Chega de saudade (Jobim/Moraes)
- Mandy make up your mind (jugbandism)
- Shakespeare city - Moondog #3
- Rapper's moderate delight (Sugar Hill)
- Ronds de cuir (F. Lalanne)
- Magnet's coil (forgotten attempt, 2011)
- We shall overcome
- Tex Avery round of people to make the world go kind (after R. Palmer)
- I don't intend to spend xmas without you (Margo Guryan)
- Shakespeare City (Moondog)
- Shakespeare City (Moondog) #4
- Thou Tun'st this world (Brady/Purcell - 1692)
- Thou tun'st this world (Brady/Purcell) #2
- Tocatta #2 (Jagga Jazzist)
- Thou tun'st this world (Purcell/Brady) #3
- Coisa Nº 5 (Nanã) - Moacir Santos 01:10
- Jim (Jean-Louis Murat)
- Chega de saudade PO version (Jobim)
- (there's danger in your) glitchy eyes waltz
- Shakespeare City - PO's version (Moondog)
- El Vito (Trad - Coltrane)
- Surfboard (Jobim)
- Pop music (R. Stevie Moore) - work in progress
- Pop music (R Stevie Moore) - take 2
- Smoke on the water theme (Deep Purple)
- Johnny and Mary (Robert Palmer)
- Round about Alifib - 2012 (Robert Wyatt)
- Round 2 about Alifib - 2012 (Robert Wyatt)
- Chega de saudade (Jobim) - 2016
- I'm gonna sit right down (unreleased swing edit, circa 2013)
- Looking for an echo (Kenny Vance) - first take
- Looking for an echo (K Vance) - take 2
- Looking for an echo (K. Vance) - Minibrute cover
- Je suis Louise (Breanna Jones - Library Siesta)
- Let's sing another song, boys (L. Cohen)
- Here I go (Syd Barrett)
- I believe in (P. Shelley - Buzzcocks)
- Parapluies de Cherbourg (Legrand/Demy) finale - take 1
- Les parapluies de Cherbourg - finale (Legrand/Demy) - take 2

Discipline de la nostalgie.

Date de parution mentionnée sur la setlist digitale : 14 avril 2035.

- NO LABEL - Digital Format

- Looking for an echo (K. Vance) - pianos
- I don't mind if you forget me (Morrissey)
- Speakin'out (Neil Young)
- It's only a paper moon (Arlen/Harburg/Rose)
- Speakin' out (Neil Young) - (take 2 - 2019)
- Chega de saudade (2019)
- Monica (The Kinks) - take 2 - 2019
- My favorite things (Rodgers/ Hammerstein)
- Metronomic underground (Stereolab)
- I'm gonna sit right down (Ahlert, Young) - 2019
- Gonna sit right down and write myself a letter (Ahlert, Young) - 2019, take 2
- Chega de saudade (Jobim/Moraes) - 2020
- Chega de saudade (Jobim/Moraes) - piano/uke/vcl
- Misty (Eroll Garner/Johnny Burke)
- Thirteen (Big Star)
- Stand by me (Ben E. King)
- An Irish Blessing (Trad - arr. J. E. Moore)
- Os Buzios (Jorge Fernando)
- Close to you (Bacharach)
- Ballad of big nothing (E. Smith) - take 1
- Ballad of big nothing (Elliott Smith) - take 2
- Between the bars (Elliott Smith)
- Some day my prince will come (Churchill/Morey)
- Some day (live Eminent take)
- Some day, toy and co
- Maniac (M. Sembello)
- E preciso perdoar (Coqueijo/Luz)
- Kimiwaina'17 (Atarashii Gakko!)
- Misty (Garner) - Standard take
- Fly me to the moon (Bart Howard) - Standard take
- Février (Dominique A)
- Chega de saudade std
- Paper moon
- Everybody's got to learn sometimes (The Korgis)
- Petite Fleur (Sydney Bechet)

> Zoom

I/II
2013

Dans Dans

- Au Hasard
- Ancient Aiethopia
- Yesterday Is Here
- Gazelle
- Mothers Of The Veil
- The Sicilian Clan
- Muskiet
- De Su Propia Raíz O De Un Dios Disperso
- Meditation (For A Pair Of Wire Cutters)
- Some Are
- East Timor [R. Wyatt]

- Bert Dockx - guitar
- Fred Lyenn - bass
- Steven Cassiers - drums

- UNDAY (UNDAY018D)
  Digital Format

> Zoom

Horfes Turn'd Jockies
2013

Graham Brice

- China Sea (Marc Laurick)
- Splendid Isolation (Casey Ruff)
- In the Heat of the Night (Rory Gannon)
- Evening of Light (Jon Rooney)
- Guess I'm Falling in Love (Phil Gammage)
- No End of Love (Skip Heller)
- Sea Song (Graham Brice) [R. Wyatt]
- Holocaust (Colin J Nelson)
- It Never Entered My Mind (David Guilbault & Jason Goessl)

- THE CHINA SEA RECORDINGS CONCERN
  Digital Format

> Zoom

The Magnetic Sound Of Hobocombo Presents Moondog Mask
2013

Hobocombo

- Theme and Variations (Moondog)
- Desert Boogaloo
- East Timor [Robert Wyatt]
- Utsu (Moondog)
- Canon #6 (vivace) (Moondog)
- Canon #18 (adagietto) (Moondog)
- Baltic Dance
- Response
- The Old Serge And the Flutes
- To A Sea Horse (Moondog)
- Five Reasons

- Andrea Belfi - drums, vocals
- Rocco Marchi - guitar, synth and vocals
- Francesca Baccolini - double bass, vocals

- TROVAROBATO PARADE (TRB P 10) CD
- LINERIA (LIN000) LP

> Zoom

Spirits Of Marine Terrace
2013

One Lick Less

- Unkind Folktale
- HK
- Perishing In The Bathtub
- Alifib [Robert Wyatt]
- Eyes Want
- Wiegendlied

- Julien Bancilhon - guitars, vocals
- Basile Ferriot - drums, backing vocals, piano
- Francesca Baccolini - double bass, vocals

LP (+ CD) 200 ex + pochette sérigraphiée par Brian Cougar

- LES DISQUES DE PLOMB (LDDPHS007) (LP + CD inclued)
- WHOSBRAIN RECORDS (WHB-48) (LP + CD inclued)
- VLA RECORDS (VLA 005) (LP + CD inclued)
- NOTHING TO THE TABLE (NTTT03) (LP + CD inclued)

> Zoom

Lover Album 2
2013

Clammbon

- 呼び声
- Goldwrap
- Nothing Brings Me Down
- U&I
- The Postman
- Desire
- Tokyo No 1 Soul Net
- Lady Madonna
- O Caroline [D. Sinclair/R. Wyatt]
- ぎやまん
- 何も言わないで
- 雲のいびき
- 幸せ願う彼方から
- I'm Getting Ready

- Ikuko Harada - vocals, keyboards
- Daisuke Ito - drums, percussions
- Mito - bass, keyboards, rhythm box, percussions, vocal

- COLUMBIA JAPAN (COCP-37939) CD
- COLUMBIA JAPAN (COCP-39406) CD

Clare Louise - Le Yéti

- Sea Song [Robert Wyatt]
- La Moisson

- Clare Louise - voix, guitare

Clare Louise est seulement présente sur la face "Sea Song".

- HUMPTY DUMPTY RECORDS (HMPTY022) EP

> Zoom

Sea Song/La Moisson
2013

> Zoom

Burden Of Proof
2013

Soft Machine Legacy

- Burden Of Proof
- Voyage Beyond Seven
- Kitto
- Pie Chart
- JSP
- Kings And Queens [Hugh Hopper]
- Fallout
- Going Somewhere Canorous?
- Black And Crimson
- The Brief
- Pump Room
- Green Cubes
- They Landed On A Hill

- John Etheridge - guitar
- Theo Travis - tenor sax, flute, Fender Rhodes piano
- Roy Babbington - bass guitar
- John Marshall - drums, percussion

- MOONJUNE RECORDS (MJR052) CD

> Zoom

Robert Wyatt's Sea Song
2013

Edmund John

- Sea Song [R. Wyatt]

- NO LABEL - Digital Format

> Zoom 1 2 3

Kiss you so many times, you can't count my love
2013

Phipps pt.

- Salty Earth
- Would And ...
- While You Work
- Wwearhythm
- Sea Song [Robert Wyatt]
- ... What With The Blunders
- A Kestral For A Knave
- The Rites Of Time

Cassette C36. Limited Edition.

- SANITY MUFFIN (SM/32) K7

Carmine

- Be There
- Gharbzadegi [R. Wyatt]

- Julien Retaillaud - voix, guitares, claviers
- Théo Jarrier - batterie
- Olivier Roueff - saxophone

Recorded in 2000 by Alex Melis originally planned to les Disques Mange-Tout.

- BEKO -S

> Zoom

Be There/Gharbzadegi
2013

> Zoom

1982-1992
(30th Anniversary Cassiber Box)
2013

Cassiber

Disc 1
MAN OR MONKEY

Disc 2
BEAUTY AND THE BEAST
- Six Rays
- Robert
- Last Call
- Ach Heile Mich
- Haruspices
- Under New Management
- Vengeance Is Dancing
- In Einer Minute
- Und Ich Werde Nicht Mehr Sehen
- Prendre La Lune Avec Les Dents
- At Last I Am Free [Edwards/Rodgers]
- Time Running Out

Disc 3
A FACE WE ALL KNOW

Disc 4
PERFECT WORLDS

Disc 5
COLLABORATIONS

Disc 6
THE WAY IT WAS

Disc 7 (DVD)
ELVIS HAS LEFT THE BUILDING
- Our Colourful Culture (18 Deutsches Jazz Festival, Frankfurt Am Main, October 1982)
- Man Or Monkey (18 Deutsches Jazz Festival, Frankfurt Am Main, October 1982)
- O Cure Me (18 Deutsches Jazz Festival, Frankfurt Am Main, October 1982)
- Not Me (18 Deutsches Jazz Festival, Frankfurt Am Main, October 1982)
- Floor In The Grand Design (Sao Paulo, July 1984)
- Prisoners Chorus (Sao Paulo, July 1984)
- Robert (Sao Paulo, July 1984)
- Survivor Kit Fragments (Sao Paulo, July 1984)
- Red Shadow (Sao Paulo, July 1984)
- Ach Heile Mich (Sao Paulo, July 1984)
- On We Go (Sao Paulo, July 1984)
- At Last I Am Free (Sao Paulo, July 1984)
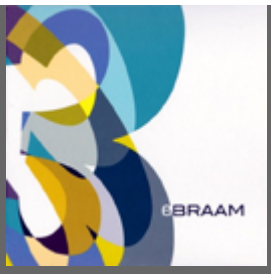
- Cassiber's Landing (Akademie Der Künste Der DDR 1989)
- This Was The Way It Was (Akademie Der Künste Der DDR 1989)
- Heiner Goebbels (Akademie Der Künste Der DDR 1989)
- Old Gods (Akademie Der Künste Der DDR 1989)
- Chris Cutler (Akademie Der Künste Der DDR 1989)
- Gut (Akademie Der Künste Der DDR 1989)
- Christoph Anders (Akademie Der Künste Der DDR 1989)
- They Have Begun To Move (Akademie Der Künste Der DDR 1989)



Box Set -Limited Edition.

- ReR MEGACORP (ReR CBOX)
  6xCD + DVD

eBraam

- 1B44, Please
- The Pindaric Ode
- Augmented Seconds

- Michiel Braam - keyboards
- Pieter Douma - bass guitar, vocals
- Dirk-Peter Kölsch - drums

> Zoom

3
2013

- Pythagorean Theorem
- Triple Jump
- Triad
- The Mind
- 3 Sheets To The Wind
- A Certain Kind [H. Hopper]

- Ulrike von Meier - harp
- Marcel Van De Beeten - vocals

- BBB - (BBBCD15) CD

> Zoom 1 2

The Plough & The Stars
2013

Speed The Plough

THE PLOUGH & THE STARS - CD
- Veszprém
- Lock And Key
- The Roof Is Off (The Stars Are There And It's Mighty Cold)
- Hemlock Tree
- Tommy's House
- Big Bus
- Trains
- Written Each Day
- Aeroplane
- The Tide Won't Tire
- Oh, The Paradise
- A Saint Restored
- In The Atmosphere
- Late Birds
- Said And Done
- The Plough & The Stars
- Cutting Branches For A Temporary Shelter

BONUS SPLIT - LP
Tag Sale, 2013
- The Ballad Of Peggy Oki
- Perfect North
- Labyrinth
- Regrets (I've Had A Few)
- Mansion
- Jane

Live On WFMU's Live Music Faucet, 1993
- Cutting Branches For A Temporary Shelter (Live)
- Love Song (Live)
- Centerville (Live)
- Book Of Reason (Live)
- Final Day (Live)

THE DOWNLOAD CARD
- Blue Bicycle (Live)
- Napoleon (Live)
- Story Of The Moon (Live)
- Lock And Key (Live)
- The British Road (Live) [R. Wyatt]
- Everyday Needs (Live)
- Deepest Brown (Live)
- Hemlock Tree (Live)
- Screen Door (Live)
- You Ain't Goin' Nowhere (Live)

- John Baumgartner - keyboards, vocals
- Ed Seifert - guitar
- Marc Francia - guitar
- Michael Baumgartner - guitar
- Richard Barnes - guitar
- Christopher O'Donovan - drums
- Ian Francia - drums
- Stanley Demeski - drums
- Daniel Francia - bass, vocals
- Brenda Sauter - bass
- J Toni Baumgartner - vocals

"...The Plough and The Stars is a retrospective of the band's 30 year history of music making and includes a 17-song "Best Of" CD, a split 12" album with six brand new songs and a download card entitling you to digital versions of all of the above, along with 10 additional live tracks from Mountain Stage, WFMU, and Maxwell's, and an interactive version of the booklet with links to more songs and videos..."

The Robert Wyatt cover (recorded at Maxwell's, Hoboken, New-Jersey, in 1989) is one of the bonus tracks available for download.

- BAR/NONE RECORDS (BRN-LP-224) CD + LP + 10 files to download

Schnauser

- Astral Traveller
- 'As Long As He Lies Perfectly Still' [M. Ratledge, R. Wyatt]

- Alan Strawbridge - guitar, vocals
- Duncan Gammon - keyboards, vocals
- Holly McIntosh - bass, vocals
- Jasper Williams - drums

Limited-pressing coloured vinyl (1000 ex.)

> Zoom

Herne Bay
2014

> Zoom 1 2

Ferdinando Faraò & Artchipel Orchestra
play Soft Machine
2014

Ferdinando Faraò & Artchipel Orchestra Play Soft Machine

- Facelift: Prelude
- Facelift [H. Hopper]
- Kings And Queens [H. Hopper]
- Noisette [H. Hopper]
- Dedicated To You But You Weren't Listening [H. Hopper]
- Mousetrap [H. Hopper]
- Moon In June [R. Wyatt]

- FRUITS DE MER RECORDS (CRUSTACEAN-46) EP

ARTCHIPEL ORCHESTRA
- Marco Fior - trombe
- Marco Mariani - trombe
- Giovanni Sansone - trombe
- Francesca Petrolo - trombone
- Alex Sabina (1,2,3) - sax soprano
- Felice Clemente - sax soprano
- Paolo Profeti (6,7) - sax contralto
- Massima Falascone - sax contralto
- Rosarita Crisafi - sax tenore
- Germano Zenga - sax tenore
- Rudi Manzoli - sax baritono
- Simone Mauri - clarinetto basso
- Carlo Nicita - flauto
- Eloisa Manera - violino
- Paolo Botti - viola
- Beppe Barbera (4,6) - piano elettrico
- Massimo Giuntoli - organo e piano elettrico
- Mariangela Tandoi (3,4) - fisarmonica
- Giampero Spina - chittara elettrica
- Flavio Minardo - chittara elettrica e sitar
- Gianluca Alberti - basso elettrico
- Stefano Lecchi - batteria
- Lorenzo Gasperoni - percussioni
- Naima Faraò - voci
- Giusy Lupis - voci
- Serena Ferrara - voci
- Filippo Pascuzzi - voci
- Ferdinando Faraò - direzione

Registrato a Milano, Officine Meccaniche studio A, 23 diecembre 2013.

CD Sold with Italian magazine Musica Jazz [settembre 2014].

- MUSICA JAZZ (MJCD 1283) CD

> Zoom

Studio Rehearsal Tapes 1977 &
Live In The UK
2014

Daevid Allen With Euterpe - & With Brainville

With Euterpe - Studio Rehearsal Tapes 1977
- Mystic Sister
- Magick Brother
- Sittin In A Teashop
- Have You Seen My Friend
- I Am The Rapist
- Brothasista Invocation
- Wee Bit More
- Prostitute Poem
- 5 & 20
- Time Of The Bananamoon
- Deya Goddess

With Brainville - Live In The UK
- Foghat Digs Holes In Space
- Who's Afraid?
- Flowers Gone
- Shadow
- Thinkin Thoughts
- Hope For Happiness [B. Hopper]
- Bullshit & Be

- Daevid Allen - guitar, voice
- Hugh Hopper - bass
- Pip Pyle - drums

Reissue of the number 1 and 2 of the limited Bananamoon Obscura series: Daevid Allen & Euterpe - Studio Rehearsal Tapes 1977 and Brainville, Daevid Allen With Hugh Hopper & Pip Pyle - Live In The UK.

Hope For Hapiness est signé par Brian Hopper (qui a effectivement composé et déposé les droits de ce morceau) alors que la version du Soft Machine vol.1 est signée par Hugh Hopper, Kevin Ayers et Mike Ratledge.

- VOICEPRINT (VPD603) CD
- FLOATING WORLD RECORDS (VPD603) 2xCD

> Zoom

Catholic Architecture/Beacon
2014

Grasscut

- Catholic Architecture [R. Wyatt/A. Benge]
- Beacon

- Andrew Phillips - vocals, glockenspiel, dulcitone, vibes, piano, moog, programming, cymbals
- Rory Simmons - trumpet

Produced and mixed by Andrew Phillips

- LO RECORDINGS (LO115DS) Digital Format

> Zoom

Frangloband - Volume 2
2014

Hugh Hopper

- Facelift [H. Hopper]
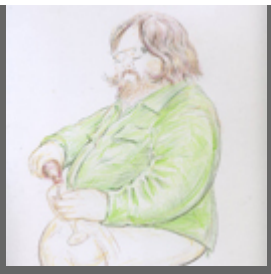
- Lonely Sea And The Sky
- Mr. Syms
- Sliding Dogs
- Shuffle Demons
- Horny Brownie
- Miniluv

- Hugh Hopper - bass guitar
- Patrice Meyer - guitar
- Pierre-Olivier Govin - baritone, alto saxophones
- Francois Verly - drums, tabla
- Didier Malherbe - bamboo flute, soprano saxophone (on track 7)

Track 2 is wrongly titled "Lonely Sky And The Sea" on back cover.
Track 6 is listed as "Wanglo Saxon" but is really a Patrice Meyer's tune called "Horny Brownie"



Le Triton, Paris, France, March 13th, 2003.

- GONZO MULTIMEDIA (HST241CD) CD

Bob Bucko Jr

- Themselves (Minutemen)
- St. Elmo's Fire (Eno)
- Danny Carlisle (Vic Chesnutt)
- Somewhere In the Night (Smog)
- Heaven (Pere Ubu)
- LR72 (Silkworm)

- NO LABEL - Digital Format

> Zoom

Covers
2014

- Paradise Is for the Blessed (Television Personalities)
- Final Day (Young Marble Giants) 02:22
- This Must Be the Place (Naive Melody) (Talking Heads)
- Venti Latir (Robert Wyatt)
- Trains Across the Sea (Silver Jews)
- Blue Line Swinger (Yo La Tengo)
- Sending (The Sea & Cake)
- Katrina and the K-Hole (Lifter Puller)
- Walking With Jesus (Spacemen 3)
- The World is Full of Fools (Kevin Coyne)
- Love Knows (No Borders) (Howe Gelb)
- C F (Jandek)
- Sooprize Package for Mr. Mineo (Supercharger)
- I Heard Her Call My Name (Velvet Underground)
- As Vast As You (Dear Nora)
- Plainsong (The Cure)
- Cure for Pain (Morphine)
- Motor Away (Guided By Voices)
- Up On the Sun (Meat Puppets)
- All the Umbrellas in London (The Magnetic Fields)
- Bury the Hammer (Beat Happening)
- Unreal Is Here (Chavez)
- Take Care (Big Star)

> Zoom 1 2

Live At Roma
2014

Dans Dans

- Meditation (For A Pair Of Wire Cutters)
- Waterpoort
- Yesterday Is Here
- East Timor [R. Wyatt]
- Gazelle
- Muskiet
- Au Hasard/Ancient Aiethopia/Mothers Of The Veil
- The Sicilian Clan
- Some Are/River Man

- Steven Cassiers - drums and percussion
- Bert Dockx - guitar and cassette player
- Frederic Lyenn Jacques - bass and synths

Recorded live at Roma Antwerp October 2013
Limited tape, 100 numbered copies.

- UNDAY RECORDS (UNDAY034CAS) K7

> Zoom

My Degeneration Electronics
1974-1983
2014

Pascal Comelade

Disc 1
FLUENCE
- A Few Reasons To Stay - A Few Reasons To Split
- Barcelona Tango
- Schizo

Disc 2
PARALELO
- Mouvement Décomposé D'un Coup De Marteau
- Good-Bye Wyatt Hat
- Via-Laietana
- Paralelo
- Vertical
- Musique Ridicule
- Politico
- Automne
- Musique Pour Les Ascenseurs
- Paralelo 7
- Erratum Musical 1
- Erratum Musical 2
- Nicaragua
- Mediterraneo

Disc 3
SENTIMIENTOS
- White Light
- Approximative But Fair
- Wyatt Ah Um
- Lettre De Mozart À Sa Petite Cousine
- Still Life With Goldfish
- The Grey Velvet Gentleman
- From DC By PC
- Taking Tiger Mountain

Compilation comprenant :

Fluence (1974-75) (VOD130.1)

Paralelo (1980) (VOD130.2)

- Habanera
- Carmen
- Avant-Midi
- Sicilia
- We Did It Again
- White Heat
- Distant Pianos
- Paralelo
- In A Lebanon Park
- Courant D'Air Sur Le Pommier Du Japon
- La Opera
- Barrett

Disc 4
SEQUENCES PAÏENNES
- Séquence 1
- Séquence 2
- Séquence 3
- Séquence 4
- Séquence 5
- Séquence 6 (33t Et/Ou 45t)

Ready Made
- Again
- Éclairage Sur L'Eau
- Chanson Pop
- Distant Pianos
- San Salvador
- El Wiski Twist

Irregular Organ
- Irregular Organ

Musique Par Correspondance
- Musique Par Correspondance 1
- Musique Par Correspondance 2
- Musique Par Correspondance 3
- Musique Par Correspondance 4
- Musique Par Correspondance 5

Disc 5
BEL CANTO ORQUESTRA EN CONCERT, MONTPELLIER, 28TH OF OCTOBER 1983
- The Curious Sofa
- Moments De Bruits Pendant Le Naufrage

Slow Musics
- John Cage Descendant Un Escalier
- Slow Music

Sentimientos (1982) (VOD130.3)

Sequences Paiennes - Ready-Made - Musique Par Correspondance (1979-80)
(VOD130.4)

Bel Canto Orquestra En Concert, Montpellier, 28th Of October 1983 / Slow Musics (1983-81)
(VOD130.5)

- VINYL-ON-DEMAND (VOD130) 5xLP

> Zoom

Bananamoon Band
2014

Bananamoon Band

- Pretty Miss Titty (1st Version)
- Rich Girl
- Un Oeuf For You
- My Mother's Gone To India / Hare Krishna / Time Of The Green Banana / Remember The Name
- Why Are We Sleeping ? [K. Ayers, M. Ratledge, R. Wyatt]
- French Garden (1st Version)
- French Garden (2nd Version)
- Pretty Miss Titty (2nd Version)
- Je Ne Fume Pas Des Bananes

- Daevid Allen - guitar, lead vocals
- Patrick Fontaine - bass
- Marc Blanc - drums, vocals
- Gilli Smyth - vocals

Limited Edition 1000 copies, numbered.

Tracks 1, 2, 3, 4 recorded in Studio CBE in March 1968.
Track 6 recorded at Antibes in July 68.
Tracks 5, 7, 8, 9 recorded at Deia in August 1968 at the Banamoon Observatory.

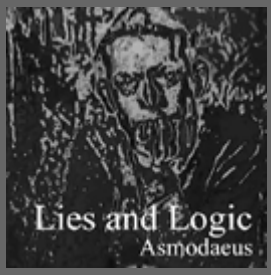
Includes a map of 6 photographs + an insert (A4), numbered by hand, with a bit of history on one side and a 'Daevid Allen Family Tree (1961-1972) on the other side + an insert (A5) with 2 reproduced letters by Daevid to Marc.

- MONSTER MELODIES RECORDS (MMLP02) LP

Grasscut - Single

- Catholic Architecture [R. Wyatt/A. Benge]
- Beacon

- Andrew Phillips - vocals, glockenspiel, dulcitone, vibes, piano, moog, programming, cymbals
- Rory Simmons - trumpet



Produced and mixed by Andrew Phillips

> Zoom

Catholic Architecture/Beacon
2014

- LO RECORDINGS (LO115DS) S

> Zoom

Lies And Logic
2014

Asmodaeus

- Radiation Dance
- Car Creature
- Second Time Is Different
- Enraged
- The Loved One
- Warsaw
- Happy Days
- The Peeping Tom
- Buchenwald
- Slut
- The Age Of Self [R. Wyatt]
- Lost
- Photographic
- Thanks A Lot
- Meet You In Poland

Limited Edition of 500 copies.
First 50 copies come with a handnumbered insert signed by the artist.
Pressed on 180 gr vinyl.

- WALHALLA RECORDS (WR009)
  LP

> Zoom

Miss Elianus
2014

Tagubu

- Robert Wyatt's dilogy: Little Red Riding Hood Hit the Road [R. Wyatt]
- Robert Wyatt's dilogy: Nostalgia
- Amanda trilogy: Furniture Music
- Amanda trilogy: L'Amant d'Amanda
- Amanda trilogy: Ses Purs Ongles...

- NO LABEL -Digital Format

In Tribute To Robert Wyatt (Live)
2014

Grey Lotus

- Sea Song [R. Wyatt]
- Shipbuilding [E. Costello]
- Memories [H. Hopper]
- Out Of The Blue [A. Benge/R. Wyatt]

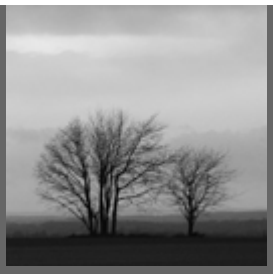
- Daan Arisz - guitar
- Joost Verhagen - vocals
- Judith Wesselius - vocals
- Otto de Boer - double bass
- Niels van der Weiden - piano & synthesizer
- Lars van der Weiden - drums
- Eoin Roberts - violin
- Roelof Ruis - accordeon



Released October 16, 2014.

- NO LABEL - Digital Format

Sine

- Sine 1
- Sine 2

- NO LABEL - Digital Format

> Zoom

Sine
2014

- Sine 3
- Sea Song [R. Wyatt]

> Zoom

Place Of My Own - The Collection
2014

Caravan

- In The Land Of Grey & Pink
- Golf Girl
- Winter Wine
- The Dog, The Dog, He's At It Again
- Hoedown
- If I Could Do It All Over Again, I'd Do It All Over You
- Place Of My Own
- Grandma's Lawn
- As I Feel I Die
- Virgin On The Ridiculous
- Feelin', Reelin', Squealin' [K. Ayers]
- Love Song With A Flute
- The World Is Yours
- Stuck In A Hole
- Waterloo Lily

Compilation.

- SPECTRUM MUSIC (SPEC2164) CD
- UNIVERSAL UMC (SPEC2164) CD

> Zoom

Je Ne Fuim' Pas Des Bananes
2014

Daevid Allen / Banana Moon Band / Gong

- Intro (Daevid Allen)
- Pretty Miss Titty (Banana Moon Band)
- Rich Girl (Banana Moon Band)
- Un Œuf For You (Banana Moon Band)
- My Mother's Gone To India / Hare Krishna / Time Of The Green Banana / Remember The Name (Banana Moon Band)
- La Belle Cérébrale (Daevid Allen/François Bayle)
- Est-Ce Que Je Suis (Garçon Ou Fille) (Gong)
- Hyp Hypnotise You (Gong)
- Goldilox (Daevid Allen)
- Why Do You Come Knocking At My Door ? (Daevid Allen)
- Rock'N'Roll Angel (Daevid Allen)
- Why Are We Sleeping? (Banana Moon Band) [K. Ayers/R. Wyatt/M. Ratledge]
- French Garden (Banana Moon Band)
- French Garden (Banana Moon Band)
- Pretty Miss Titty (Daevid Allen)
- Pretty Miss Titty (Banana Moon Band)
- Gong Song (Daevid Allen)
- Je Ne Fume Pas Des Bananes (Banana Moon Band)
- Je Ne Fume Pas Des Bananes (Daevid Allen)

- Daevid Allen - guitar, lead vocals
- Patrick Fontaine - bass
- Marc Blanc - drums
- Gilli Smyth - vocals

Réédition de l'album sorti en 1992 sur le label Legend Music sous le titre Je Ne Fum' Pas Des Bananes (noter la subtile modification du titre et de la pochette).

- GONZO MULTIMEDIA (HST188CD) CD

Pascal Comelade + Les Limiñanas

LP - FACE A: TRAITÉ DE GUITARRES TRIOLECTIQUES
- Stella Star
- Carnival Of Souls
- The Nothing-Twist

- Pascal Comelade - pianos, organs,plastic guitars, instruments
- Lionel Limiñana - guitars , bass, voices, instruments
- Marie Limiñana - drums, percussions, voices,

> Zoom

Traité de Guitarres Triolectiques
(À l'Usage des Portugaises Ensablées)
2015

- (They Call Me) Black Sabatta
- You're Never Alone With A Schizo
- Why Are We Sleeping? [K. Ayers/ R. Wyatt/M. Ratledge]
- El Vici Birra-Crucis

LP - FACE B : À L'USAGE DES PORTUGAISES ENSABLÉES
- Green Fuz
- T.B.Jerk
- Wunderbar
- A Wall Of Perrukes
- One Of Us, One Of Us, One Of Us
- Dick Dale N'était Pas De Bompas
- Lord Of Flashington

CD - TRAITÉ DE GUITARRES TRIOLECTIQUES
- Stella Star
- Carnival Of Souls
- The Nothing-Twist
- (They Call Me) Black Sabatta
- You're Never Alone With A Schizo
- Why Are We Sleeping?
- El Vici Birra-Crucis
- Green Fuz
- T.B.Jerk
- Wunderbar
- A Wall Of Perrukes
- One Of Us, One Of Us, One Of Us
- Dick Dale N'était Pas De Bompas
- Ramblin' Rose
- Yesterday Man

L'album LP contient un bonus track : Lord Of Flashington.

Le CD contient 3 bonus tracks: Ramblin' Rose, Yesterday Man et I'm Dead. Yesterday Man est une reprise de la reprise de Robert Wyatt.

- BECAUSE MUSIC (BEC5156006)
- BECAUSE MUSIC (BEC5156017) LP

> Zoom

Pagodes
2015

Jono McCleery

- This Idea Of Us
- Age Of Self [R. Wyatt]
- Since I
- Painted Blue
- Ballade
- Clarity
- Halfway
- Bet She Does
- Fire In My Hands
- Desperate Measure
- Pardon Me
- So Long

- Jono McCleery - guitar

- IF MUSIC RECORDS (IFMRCD001) CD
- IF MUSIC RECORDS (IFMRLP001) LP

> Zoom

Transgression
2015

Theo Travis' Double Talk

- Fire Muontain
- Transgression
- Smokin' At Klooks
- Song For Samuel
- Everything I Feared
- Maryan [R. Wyatt]
- A Place In The Queue
- The Call

- Theo Travis - tenor and soprano saxes, flute, Fender Rhodes piano
- Mike Outram - guitar
- Pete Whittaker - Hammond organ
- Nic France - drums

- ESOTERIC ANTENNA (EANTCD 1052) CD

The Fiction Aisle

- Craig Chapman - trumpet

> Zoom

Live At Lick
2015

- Blue (Live at Lick)
- Each & Every One (Live at Lick)
- The Colour Of Morning (Live at Lick)
- Lullaby For Hamza [A. Benge/R. Wyatt]

- Jordan Duggie - bass
- Holly Fitzgerald - clarinet
- Alan Grice - keys
- Adam Kidd - guitar
- Louis MacGuillivray - guitar
- Thomas White - vocal, guitar
- Gemma Williams - clarinet
- Iain Worral - drums

Limited Edition 50 copies, numbered.

- NO LABEL - K7

> Zoom 1 2

Primo
2015

Improgressive

- The Illusion
- Caravan Medley
- You Can't Kill Me
- Dedicated To You but You're Weren't Listening [H. Hopper]
- Dice
- Sixa 35
- Calyx [P. Miller/arrt. A. Popolla]
- Radio Gnome Invisible
- The Lady Rachel
- O Caroline [D. Sinclair/R.Wyatt/arrt. A.Popolla]
- Soft Machine Medley

- Errico De Fabritiis - alto and soprano sax
- Alberto Popolla - clarinet, alto and bass clarinet

O Caroline recorded live at Alterazioni 2013 Lainate (MI) October 20 2013.

Soft machine Medley : a popolla including fragments of Orange Skin Food, A Door Opens ans Closes, Pig).

- SLAM PRODUCTIONS (SLAMCD 564) CD

> Zoom

Piacenza
2015

John Greaves

- The Price We Pay
- Summer On Ice
- Earthly Powers
- The Thunderthief
- The Green Fuse
- La Lune Blanche
- Chanson D'Automne
- Walking On Eggshells
- The Same Thing
- Dead Poets
- The Trouble With Happiness
- Bad Alchemy
- Kew.Rhône
- How Beautiful You Are
- The Song [J.Greaves]

Rehearsals Bonus Track

- Sea Song [R.Wyatt]

- John Greaves - Steinway Grand Piano, vocals
- Annie Barbazza - vocals, piano

Limited edition 980 handmade and individually hand numbered copy.

- DARK COMPANION RECORDS (DC003) CD

Maria Due

- Alliance [R.Wyatt]
- Fire in Cairo (The Cure)
- My Room, Waiting For Wonderland (Van der Graaf Generator)
- Martine (Louis Philippe)
- In The Year 2525 (Zager & Evans)
- New World In The Morning (Roger Whittaker)
- Going Up The Country (Canned Heat)
- Groovin (Young Rascals)
- PS I Love You (The Beatles)

– Maria Due - vocals
– Eirik Øien - bass, guitar, lead vocals
– Martin V. Langlie - drums, percussion, harp, lead vocals
– Bård Ingebrigtsen - guitar, keyboards, harp, lead vocals
– Hans Petter Gundersen - guitar, lead vocals
– Marita Vårdal Igelkjøn - piano, keyboards, melodica, autoharp,

> Zoom

Lucky Fish
2015

- Waterloo Sunset (The Kinks)
- On The Road Again (Canned Heat)
- Silence Is Golden (The Tremeloes)

lead vocals

- ROCK'N'ROLL MUSIC
(RRMLP1502) LP

391

> Zoom

The Experience Machine
2015

- The Experience Machine
- Still Falls The Rain - The Raids 1940, Night And Dawn
- Stupidity (Runs Through Everything)
- Blitzkrieg Bop
- Casualties of the Welfare State
- Refugee Blues
- Clementine Reverie
- Bloodless Guns
- Long Black Veil
- The Shoes of Revenge
- ...Because The Voices Told Me To
- Thirteen Nights
- Why Are We Sleeping? [M. Ratledge, K. Ayers, R. Wyatt]

- NO LABEL - Digital Format

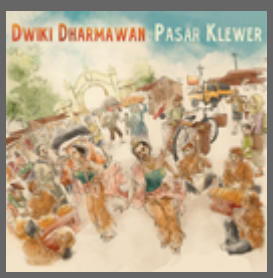
Uwe Oberg

> Zoom



Work
2015

- Hill (Uwe Oberg)
- Fable Of Faubus / W.R.U. (Charles Mingus/Ornette Coleman)
- Kelvin / Cresent (Uwe Oberg / John Coltrane)
- Pannonica (Thelonious Monk)
- Ole Olo / Muddy Mouse [Uwe Oberg / Fred Frith, R. Wyatt]
- Work (Thelonious Monk)

- Uwe Oberg - piano

Recorded at Sommermusik Saarbrücken 2008

- HAT HUT RECORDS
(hatOLOGY 740) CD

Dwiki Dharmawan

> Zoom

Pasar Klewer
2015

Disc 1
- Pasar Klewer
- Spirit Of Peace
- Campuhan
- Forest [A. Benge/R. Wyatt]
- London In June

Disc 2
- Lir Ilir
- Bubuyu Bulan
- Frog Dance
- Life Itself
- Purnama
- Forest (Instrumental) [R. Wyatt]

- Dwiki Dharmawan - acoustic piano
- Mark Wingfield - guitar
- Boris Savoldelli - vocals
- Yaron Stavi - upright bass
- Asaf Sirkis - drums

- MOONJUNE RECORDS
(MJR081) 2xCD

> Zoom

What Song I Should Sing?????? //
An Ongoing Covers Project
2015

Aaron M Olson

- Emma (Milhaud)
- Lo The Rose Cease To Bloom (Pajo)
- When It Was Done (Webb)
- Old Enough To Know (Nitzsche)
- Everybody's Alone (Young)
- A Beautiful Peace [R. Wyatt/B. Eno]
- I Walk Along Darkened Corridors (Linnell/Flansburgh)
- Think I'll Run Away (Kaylan/Volman)
- I Don't Want To Talk About It (Whitten)
- Lady O (Sill)
- A World Without Love (McCartney)
- Celeste (Marcuse/Leitch)
- Cutter's Way / Cuckoo's Nest Medley (Nitzsche)
- Jesus' Blood Never Failed Me Yet (Bryars/Tramp)

- NO LABEL - Digital Format

> Zoom

Concepte General De La
Quincalla Catalana
2015

Pascal Comelade

- O Dancing Del Gran Fumisme
- Hydropathes Marchant Sur Les Os
- The Nothing Twist
- Friki Serenata
- Flan Sin Nata Inzenight
- Spinoza Was A Soul Garagist
- Why Are We Sleeping? [K. Ayers/ M. Ratledge/R. Wyatt]
- El Pianista Del Antifaz
- Swing Slang Song
- La Bella Dorita
- Carnival Of Souls
- Sheena Was A Punk Rocker
- One Of Us, One Of Us...
- A Wall Of Perrukes
- Despintura (A)fònica
- Sardana Mecànica
- I Put A Barbara Steele On You
- Barcelona Tango
- The Halucinogenic Espontex Sinfonia
- Ha Passat Un Angel

- Pascal Comelade - piano, guitar, organ [electric], instruments
- Lionel Limiñana - bass, guitar
- Marie Limiñana - drums

Composé par Pascal Comelade, Barcelona Tango est un hommage très inspiré aux albums The End Of An Ear et Rock Bottom.

- DISCMEDI BLAU (DM5201-02) CD

> Zoom

Memory Box
Archive Treasures (2005-2015)
2015

The Unthanks

- 2000 Miles
- On A Monday Morning
- I Wish, I Wish
- Blue Bleezin Blind Drunk
- Close The Coalhouse Door
- Alifib/Alifie [R. Wyatt]
- The Gallowgate Lad
- Felton Lonnin
- Tar Barrel In Dale
- Queen Of Hearts
- Sexy Sadie
- A Dream Of A Tree In A Spanish Graveyard
- Oak, Ash And Thorn
- The Unthank Family Band

- Becky Unthank - Voice, tap dance (feet)
- Rachel Unthank - Voice, tap dance (feet)
- Anna Jenkins - violin
- Niopha Keegan - violin
- Becca Spencer - viola
- Lizzie Jones - trumpet
- Adrian McNally - piano
- Chris Price - drums
- Dean Ravera - double bass
- Jo Silverston - cello

Alifib/Alifie live from Brighton Dome 2012.

Ce disque est également présent dans le Box Set Memory Box qui comprend un 7'' Single ainsi qu'un DVD - paru en édition limitée numérotée.

- RABBLE ROUSER MUSIC (RRM015) CD

> Zoom

Live At The Fasano Jazz Festival
2015

Artchipel Orchestra

- Radio Intro (by Pino Saulo)
- Arriving Twice
- Moeris Dancing
- Big Orange
- Moon In June [R. Wyatt]
- Facelift [Hugh Hopper]
- Mouse Trap [Hugh Hopper]
- Kings And Queens [Hugh Hopper]
- Noisette [Hugh Hopper]
- Cider Dance
- Happy Birthday
- Radio Outro

- Arrangements and conduction by Ferdinando Faraò
- Marco Mariani - trumpet
- Gianni Sansone - trumpet
- Francesca Petrolo - trombone
- Massimo Cavallaro - soprano saxophone
- Paolo Profeti - alto saxophone
- Rosarita Crisafi - tenor saxophone
- Massimo Falascone - baritone saxophone
- Simone Mauri - bass clarinet
- Carlo Nicita - flutes
- Eloisa Manera - violin
- Paolo Botti - viola
- Keith Tippett - pianoforte (from track05 onward only)
- Beppe Barbera - pianoforte and electric piano
- Massimo Giuntoli - electric piano and organ
- Mariangela Tandoi - fisarmonica [accordion]
- Giampiero Spina - electric guitar
- Gianluca Alberti - bass
- Stefano Lecchi - drums
- Lorenzo Gasperoni - percussion
- Giusy Lupis, Serena Ferrara, Filippo Pascuzzi, Naima Faraò, and Julie Tippetts - vocals

Live at the Fasano Jazz Festival, Teatro Kennedy, Fasano (Brindisi), Italy; June 7, 2014.

This is an orchestra run by Fernando Faraò (brother of pianist Antonio), originally all dedicated to Mike Westbrook and Alan Gowen, then to Canterbury jazz in general. Here, with the presence of Keith Tippet, almost become some kind of Softs tribute act, or better, Soft Machine as played by Hatfield and The North. Keith and Julie Driscoll only enter from Track 05 onwards.

"As far as we can ascertain, these tracks have never been officially released on CD".

- NO LABEL - Digital Format

> Zoom

Kinfolk
2015

Kinfolk

- If Truth Be Told
- Come & Go
- Free Will & Testament [R. Wyatt]
- I Would've Liked To Know You
- Poison Arrow
- Minor Difficulty

- Peter Conner - vocals, guitar, programming
- Charlotte Hubbard - vocals, accordion, piano
- Harriet Feaver - vocals, violin

- NO LABEL - Digital Format

Zacht Automaat

- Fugue In Dmin (Cabaret Version) (J.S. Bach)
- Do You Remember Walter? (The Kinks)
- Piece For Alice Coltrane

- Carl Didur - organ, piano, drums
- Michael McLean - bass guitar

- PLANET OF THE TAPES

> Zoom

Cover Tape
2015

- Enlightenment (Sun Ra)
- Ann (The Stooges)
- Fire Poem (Arthur Brown)
- Once Upon A Time (Sonny Sharrock)
- Piece For Daphne Oram
- Here Comes The Sun (The Beatles)
- As Long As He Lies Perfectly Still (Soft Machine)
- Iron Man (Black Sabbath)
- At The House Of Elrond (The Ring Goes South) (Bo Hansson)
- Night Of The Assassin (Les Rallisez Denudes)
- After All (David Bowie)

(POTT013) K7

> Zoom

Alifib
Robert Wyatt Cover By Epitimia 2015

Epitimia

- - Alifib (Robert Wyatt cover)

- I. - Acoustic Guitar, Vocals
- A. - Solo guitar

- NO LABEL (Digital Format)

> Zoom 1 2

Sea Song
2016

Daevid Allen's University Of Errors

- Sea Song [R. Wyatt]
- Ocean In The Distance

- Daevid Allen - vocals, glissando guitars
- Josh Pollock - guitars, backing vocals
- Michael Clare - bass guitar

Limited Edition.

- GAS RECORDS
  (GAS 7ERRZ11-11) EP

> Zoom

The Nothing Twist
2016

Pascal Comelade + Les Limiñanas

- Stella Star
- Carnival Of Souls
- The Nothing-Twist
- (They Call Me) Black Sabata
- Why Are We Sleeping? [K. Ayers/R. Wyatt/M.Ratledge]
- El Vici Birra-Crucis
- Green Fuz
- T.B.Jerk +++
- Wunderbar
- A Wall Of Perukes
- One Of Us, One Of Us, One Of Us
- Dick Dale N'était Pas De Bompas
- Yesterday Man
- Lord Of Flashington

- Marie Limiñana - drums, percussion, voice
- Lionel Limiñana - guitars, bass, voice, Instruments –
- Pascal Comelade - piano, electric organ, plastic guitar, instruments

Limited edition to 500 copies
Canary yellow vinyl version.

Originally released in 2015 in Europe/UK with a slightly different track list as Traité de Guitarres Triolectiques.

- TROUBLE IN MIND (TIM090) LP

> Zoom

Psychic Temple Plays
Music For Airports
2016

Psychic Temple

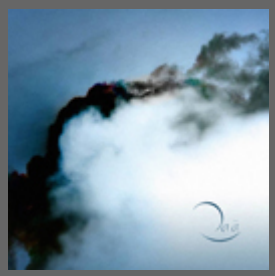
- Music For Airports 1/1 [B.Eno/R. Wyatt/ R. Davies]
- Music For Bus Stops

- David Tranchina - double bass
- Tabor Allen - drums
- Sheridan Riley - drums, percussion
- Mike Watt - electric bass
- Paul Masvidal - electric guitar
- Philip Glenn - electric organ (Hammond)
- Cathlene Pineda - electric piano (Wurlitzer)
- Danny T. Levin - trombone, euphonium, horn (marching baritone), valve trombone
- Kris Tiner - trumpet

Limited edition of 475 hand-numbered copies.

- JOYFUL NOISE RECORDINGS (JNR188) LP

> Zoom



Sarah Murcia & Noël Akchoté
2016

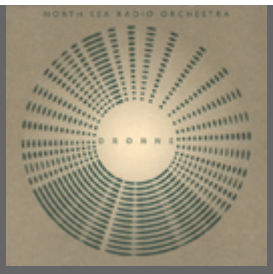
Sarah Murcia & Noël Akchoté

- Play #101
- May 20th
- Juste Un Moment
- Aberlied
- Dunja
- Partido Alto
- Goodbye
- Oh Caroline [D. Sinclair/R. Wyatt]
- The Bat
- San
- Home
- Belle-île-en-Mer
- Play #202
- Estery
- Happy House(s)
- Aline
- Play #303

- Noël Akchoté - acoustic guitar
- Sarah Murcia - double bass

- NOEL AKCHOTE DOWNLOADS
- (SMNA-002) Digital Format

> Zoom



Qaä
2016

Qaä

- Koalus
- Kuru Kuru
- Qaäris Von Gul
- Додзё
- Mayim
- Sea Song [Robert Wyatt]

- Denis Dedieu - vocals, synths, guitars,
- Sam Barbier - piano

- NO LABEL - Digital Format

> Zoom

Dronne
2016

North Sea Radio Orchestra

- Arcade
- Vishnu Schist
- The British Road [R. Wyatt]
- Guitar Miniature No.4
- Queen Of All The Day And Night
- Dronne
- Alsace Lorraine
- Dinosaurus Rex Pt 1
- Dinosaurus Rex Pt 2

- Nicola Baigent - bb/bass clarinet
- Luke Crookes - bassoon
- Harry Escott - cello
- Craig Fortnam - guitars, organ, synth, percussion, vocals
- Sharron Fortnam - vocals
- James Larcombe - piano, organ, synth
- Hugh Wilkinson-Hunt - vibes, percussion
- Brian Wright - violin, viola

- THE HOUSEHOLD MARK (THM004) CD
- THE HOUSEHOLD MARK (THM004LP) LP - Limited edition to 300 copies.

> Zoom

The British Road
(Robert Wyatt Cover)
2016

North Sea Radio Orchestra

- The British Road (Radio Edit) [R. Wyatt]
- The British Road (Full Version) [R. Wyatt]

Promo version.
Taken from the new album Dronne.

- THE HOUSEHOLD MARK (THM004) CD-S

> Zoom

7
2016

Adjabel

- Les mêmes pas
- Congo Flowers
- Chanson traditionnelle
- Dèvè Devan
- Courage
- L'Italie
- Piti Piti
- Solar Flares [R. Wyatt] / Soley Lévé
- Sur le pont Mirabeau
- Salué
- Balancé
- Kisa
- Mèsi-Merci
- Les beaux jours

- Atissou Loko - tambours, percussions, électronique, basse
- Peter Corser - Lambis
- Yann Sury - violon

- ADJABEL RECORDS - CD

John Trap

- Driving my car
- I will wash the water
- Final Clashes
- No time
- The same experience
- Touch me, I am alive
- Lady Blue
- Babble of the child
- Wait inside
- Free Will (Robert Wyatt cover) [R. Wyatt]
- Trust in my dreams

- L'ÉGLISE DE LA PETITE FOLIE FACE B - Digital Format

> Zoom

Inédits (1996/1998)
2016 (?)

- It will be summer
- The meaning of the dream
- Seduction (Acoustique)
- So why (Acoustique)
- Les beaux jours

> Zoom

So Much More
2016

Loïs Le Van

- The Circular Stone
- Redwood Meadow
- False Cocoon
- The Old Father And The Polaroid
- Alifib [R. Wyatt]
- The Messenger
- So Much More
- Two Elder Sisters
- Spinal Chords And Vertabrae
- Fighting waves

- Loïs Le Van - voice
- Sylvain Rifflet - tenor saxophone, clarinet
- Bruno Ruder - piano
- Chris Jennings - contrebasse

- HEVHETIA (HV 0121-2-331) CD

> Zoom

Kot
2016

Zapmachine

- Twang, Tweet & Weep
- Alifib [R. Wyatt]
- Kings & Queens [H. Hopper]
- Kot #1
- Entree Brussels
- Arjen's Bag
- Deadzy
- Kot #2
- Sea Song [R. Wyatt]
- Niets
- Rolfie

- Herman te Loo - soprano, alto and tenor saxophone, vocals
- Paul van der Velde - electric guitars, 11 strings fretless guitar, Raagini digital tanpura, vocals
- Jaap Prummel - fretless bass guitar, vocals
- Rob Hendriks - drums, percussion, vocals

Recorded live at Studio Groen, Zandaam, The Netherlands, on 23 and 24 January and 13 March 2016. Additional recording on 16 April 2016.

- KOT RECORDS - CD
  info@hermanteloo.nl

> Zoom

A Découvrir Absolument
Volume 40
2016

A Découvrir Absolument Volume 40

- Bird on the Wire (Yo&Liz) [Leonard Cohen/1969]
- The Man Who Sold The World (Nico&Liz) David Bowie/1970]
- Godevin le Vilain (John Trap) [Ange/1974]
- Johnny and Mary (Witold Bolik) [Robert Palmer/1979]
- Chose Molle (Arnaud Le Gouëfflec + Jorge Bernstein & the pioupioufuckers) [Sublime De Luxe/1979]
- Temporary Secretary (Nicolas Godin) [Paul McCartney/1980]
- Stop The Cavalry (Marianne Dissard) [Jona Lewie/1980]
- A Forest (Arnane) [The Cure/1980]
- When You Were Mine (Watoo Watoo) [Prince/1980]
- Cold (My Imaginary Loves) [The Cure/1982]
- Golden Brown (De Laurentis) [The Stranglers/1982]

- WEBZINE A DECOUVRIR ABSOLUMENT
  Digital Format

Cet album est également présent dans la rubrique Various Artists.

- Love Song (this is not a) (Poppy No Good) [P.I.L./1983]
- This Charming Man (Mensch) [The Smiths/1983]
- I've Been Losing You (Garden With Lips) [A-ha/1986]
- Blue Hotel (Séve Duo) [Chris Isaak/1986]
- There Is A Light That Never Goes Out (Grout/Grout) [The Smiths/1986]
- Ne me Laisse Pas Tomber vf de Never Let me Down Again (Centredumonde) [Depeche Mode/1987]
- Summertime Rolls (Kramies) [Janes Addiction/1988]
- Maman (idwan) [Dorothée/1988]
- No Words no More (Lufdbf) [love and rockets/1989]0.
- 18 And Life (Dark Wooden Cell) [Skid Row/1989]
- Merry Christmas (Helluvah) [The Ramones/1989]
- Wicked Game (Chasseur) [Chris Isaak/1989]
- Twin Peaks Theme (My Tiger Side) [Angelo Badalamenti/1990]
- Apprécie Le Silence, Tout Ce Que Je Veux vf de Enjoy The Silence (Glace_9) [Depeche Mode/1990]
- Unmasked (David Fenech) [Robert Wyatt/1992]
- Sister (Serpent) [Sebadoh/1993]
- Rouge est Mon Sommeil (Gu's Music) [Jean-Louis Murat/1993]
- Nuages (La Rive) [Jean Bart/1995]
- Bipolar (Mona Kazu) [Blonde Redhead/1997]
- À l'Ouverture des Miroirs (Thomas Aussenac) [Bertrand Betsch/1997]
- If I Think Of Love (Dyl) [Lisa Germano/1998]
- Garçon Glaçon (Arnaud Le Gouëfflec et John Trap) [April March/1999]
- Et les Filles (Gontard !) [Jean-Luc le Ténia/2000]
- Tue-le (1=0) [inspiré de "A prayer to god" Steeve Albini/2000]
- Que Sera Votre Vie (M.Lo) [Kat Onoma/2001]
- Mon Hublot (Betrand Betsch) [Rémi Poncet/2005]
- km 83 (Melicoton) [Françoise Breut/2005]
- Lift Trip To Mars (Old Mountain Station) [Angil and the Hiddentracks/2007]
- July Flame (Willskott) [Laura Veirs/2010]
- Finlande (post Humanism) (Angil and The Hiddentracks) [Francis Bourganel/2010]
- Diamond (Emboe) [Rihanna/2012]
- Myth (Uniform Motion) [Beach House/2012]
- Bouche à Lévres (Philémone) [Odezenne/2015]
- John My Beloved (Benjamin Fincher) [Sufjan Stevens/2015]

> Zoom 1 2 3

Rocanrolorama 1974-2016
2016

Pascal Comelade

Disc 1
MY DEGENERATION (1974-1986)
Fluence
- Fluence (a few reasons to stay, a few reasons to split)
- Séquences Paiennes 77/78
- Séquence 1
- Séquence 2
- Séquence 3
- Séquence 4
- Séquence 5
- Séquence 6
- Séquence 7
- Séquence 7
- Séquence 9
- Séquence 10
- Séquence 11

Ready Made

- CD 2 - We Did It Again
- Pascal Comelade - instruments
- Sissi - chanteuse

- CD 2 - Memories
- Pascal Comelade - electric piano, imitation clarinette, plastic accordéon, toy pianos, orgues, batterie, plastic guitar, violon, cyclophone, concertine thermo-mécanique, pianos
- Laurent Sinclair - vertical piano

- CD 5 - Why Are We Sleeping ?
- Pascal Comelade - electric organs, instruments
- Lionel Limiñana - electric bass, soviet fuz gtrs

- Eclairage Sur L'eau
- Distant Piano
- Ready Made 4
- Carré
- Bruits De Fond
- Bar Électric

Paralelo
- Mouvement Décomposé D'un Coup De Marteau
- Via Laietana
- Paralelo 1
- Vertical
- Politico
- Automne
- Musique Pour Les Ascenseurs (Paralelo 6)
- A Vacuum Cleaner (Paralelo 7)
- Erratum Musical 1
- Erratum Musical 2

Sentimientos
- A Noise In My Nose (Sentimientos 2)

Précis De Décomposition Bruitiste (1980/1986)
- Karl Marx Alla Romana
- Irregular Organs
- A Perfect Crime
- Scène De Musique Ralentie

15 Minutes De Sonoto-Luddisme
- 15 Minutes De Sonoto-Luddisme

Disc 2

SLOW MUSICS (1980-1997)

Slow Musics (1974-1984)
- Barcelona Tango
- We Did It Again [Kevin Ayers]
- Chanson Pop
- 13 À Table
- The No-Dancing
- Logique Du Sens
- The Curious Sofa
- Un Enemic Del Swing

Détails Monochromes
- Fragments
- Park Guell
- Chanson
- Bel Canto
- Des Yeux Au Bacon
- Dancin' On My Sofa
- Beyrouth 1966

Palimpsestes Sonors
- Blue Afternoon
- Third Eye Of Lya Lys
- Un La Minimal Nu
- Souvenir De Vernet-les-Bains

El Primitivisme
- Valse De Le Demoiselle Aux Yeux Verts
- Honky Tonk Women
- Rue Des Soeurs Noires
- Jac B. And His Dancing Dogs
- It's Hurt Me Too
- Memories [H. Hopper/R.Wyatt]
- Your Labios As Tulips

33 Bars
- Ze Wiski Twist (à Cliff Gallup, inventeur du Rocanrol)
- Vals En Diagonal (à C.R.)
- Rock Del Veneno
- Valse À L'aiguille Creuse
- A Glass Of Gaz
- Patafisiskal Polska

Disc 3

PATAFISISKAL POLSKA (1992-1996)
- 4 Rroses Pour Marie
- Egyptian Reggae
- Dansa Del Sombre Fakir D'Alcoi
- 96 Tears
- Societé Anonyme Du Frisson Rétinien
- Sunny Afternoon
- Put A Straw Under Baby
- Dali's Car
- Arthur's Caravan Was A Flor Fina
- The Skatalan Logicofobism
- Sardana Dels Desemparats
- I Put A Barbara Steele On You
- A La Recherche Du Baron Corvo
- Danse Du Valseur Callipyge
- L'Home Dibuixat
- Also Sprach Ed Marimba
- Like A Rolling Stone

El Cabaret Galàctic
- Chanson De Charme Pour Faux-Nez
- The Lolobrigida Foxtrot
- Your Eyes Like Juan Gris Cubist Guitars
- Le Fakir De La Chapelle (à François Cadarec)

- Marie Limiñana - drums

Coffret de 6 CD + livret de 72 pages et lithographie originale.
Édition de 1000 exemplaires numérotés et signés.

A noter que P. Comelade attribue Memories à [R. Wyatt/H. Hopper] alors que Hugh Hopper en est le seul auteur-compositeur.

- BECAUSE MUSIC (BEC5156515)
  6xCD + livre

Cet album est également présent dans la rubrique With Friends.

- Tokyo Bay Blues
- On Se L'Hegel En Enfer
- L'Espinosa Ética De La Santa Espina

Musiques Pour Films, Vol. 3
- Toti Al Soler
- Betty Page A-Go-Go
- Sheena Is A Punk Rocker

Les Places De Gràcia
- L'Esquella De La Torratxa
- Paganini Paga Tot A Nono

Flip-Side Of Sophism
- Back To Schizo

Disc 4

MUSIQUE DEGENXRE (1996-2000)
- L'Argot Du Bruit
- The Sad Skinhead
- Marie, Un Faux-Cul Dans La Transmission
- Love Too Soon
- Le Soir Du Grand Soir
- La Société Du Piano-Obstacle
- Sardana Dels Desemparats
- Green Eyes

Muzak De Genre
- Dóna'm Corda
- Cadillac
- Aigua De Florida
- The Great Ricardo Solfa
- To The Last Imaginary Solutions
- September Song [K. Weil/M. Anderson]
- Brown Sugar
- Smoke On The Water
- Ma Gueule
- Ramblin' Rose
- Souviens-Toi De Ces Douces Soirées
- Psycho (Ma Non) Troppo
- Despintura (A) Fònica
- L'Argot Du Bruit

Disc 5

ESPONTEX SINFONIA (2000-2008)
Psicòtic Music'Hall
- The Blank Invasion Of Schyzofonics Bikinis
- Sense El Ressó Del Dring
- Don't Touch My Blue Oyster
- Contre Le Style
- Un Train Direct Pour Charenton
- Mieux Vaut Que Ses Seins Ses Bas Se Tiennent (al pianiste de la Bodega Bohemia)
- Gégène
- A Figueres

Espontex Sinfonia
- Pim Pam Pum Al Concepte
- Mother Of Earth
- The Halucinogenic Espontex Sinfonia
- Com Un Rossinyol Amb Mal De Queixal

Mètode De Rocanrol
- Stranger In Paradigm
- The Indian In The Group (to Jimmy Carl Black)
- Il Luna Park Galactico
- L'Enterrament Des Sardines
- Sans Les Mains! (Zappambarretina)
- Vals Burlesco
- Satisfacció

I Scream Ice Cream (Krazy Kat)
- The Nothing Twist
- Why Are We Sleeping [K. Ayers/ M.Ratledge/R. Wyatt]
- A Wall Of Perukes
- One Of Us

La Catedral D'Escuradents
- Sardana Mecànica
- To Be Damnit Ornette To Be
- Ha Passat Un Àngel

Disc 6

FRIKI SERENATA (2008-2016)
Friki Serenata
- A Freak Serenade
- The Return Of Lux Interior The Magician (El Bolero Del Raval)
- Two Maniaco-Depressive Beatnicks Squabbing Over A Jane Russell Mozzarella's Stereokini
- El Misteri Del Triangle Vermut
- Europe Change Bad

El Pianista Del Antifaz
- O Dancing Del Gran Fumisme (to Albert Pla)
- Hydropathes Marchant Sur Les Os
- Friki Serenata (à Max)

- Flan Sin Nata Inzenight
- Spinoza Was A Soul Garagist
- El Pianista Del Antifaz (Born In Candolle)
- Portrait De L'Artiste Avec Des Lunettes Pour Voir Les Femmes À Poill
- La Bella Dorita

Les Mémoires Du Chanteur Masqué

- En Maison
- Russian Roulette
- Suzanne
- New York 09
- Ha Passat Un Àngel
- The Train Creep' A Looping
- Sex Machine

> Zoom

Places Names Numbers
2016

Giovanni Ferrario Alliance

- Soweija
- He Fell
- Bristol
- Goose 4
- Where To Go
- Oaxaca
- Brush
- Wish 33rd
- Cecina

Bonus CD & Digital Format

- Costa [R. Wyatt / A. Benge]

- Giovanni Ferrario - acoustic and electric guitar, bass guitar, piano, keyboards, vocals, percussion
- Beppe Mondini - drums, percussion
- Stefano Pini - drums, percussion
- Fabio Rondanini - drums, percussion
- Giacomo Papetti - bass
- Andrea Faccioli - guitar
- Simone Piccinelli - piano
- Georgeann Kalweit - speech
- Engineers: Lorenzo Caperchi, Simone Piccinelli, Alessandro Paderno, Marco Tagliola.

Seules les versions CD et digitale comportent la reprise de Robert Wyatt Costa.

- WE WERE NEVER BEING BORING (WWNBB#081) Digital Format

> Zoom

Sciences Politiques
2017

Mendelson

- Les Peuples
- Le Soulèvement
- La Nausée
- La Guerre
- La Panique
- La Carrière
- Les Héritiers
- Le Capitalisme
- Les Loisirs

- La Liberté [R. Wyatt]

- La Décence
- La Dette

- Pascal Bouaziz - guitares, voix
- Sylvain Joasson - batteries, percussions, boîtes à rythme
- Pierre-Yves Louis - basses, guitares, filtres
- Charlie O. - orgues, pianos
- Jean-Michel Pires - batteries, percussions, synthés
- Quentin Rollet - saxophones, synthés

La Liberté est une "libre adaptation" de Left On Man des albums Dondestan et Dondestan (revisited).

- ICI D'AILLEURS (IDA129) CD
- ICI D'AILLEURS (IDA129LP) LP

> Zoom

PRF Monthly Tribute Series

- 1/1 (Version) (four o'clocker 2) [B.Eno/R. Wyatt/R. Davies]

- Needle in the Camel's Eye (four o'clocker 2
- Driving Me Backwards (Not four o'clocker 2
- Third Uncle (four o'clocker 2
- 2/2's On Fire (Situations)
- I'll Come Running (The Five Mod Four)
- My Big Nurse (Situations)
- Sombre Reptiles (four o'clocker 2)
- Golden Hours (four o'clocker 2)
- Bleak Strategies (Brian Pno)
- Bleak Ambient (Brian Pno)

- PRF MONTHLY TRIBUTE SERIES! - Digital Format

Tribute 35 - Brian Eno
2017

- Music For Drone Hangars (VaticanShotglass)
- On Some Faraway Beach (Leonids)
- Needle in the Camel's Eye (Photo-Curio)
- By This River (etch)
- Deep Blue Day (Andre Wrench)
- Warm Jest (Brain Eno)
- Regiment (FNO)
- Becalmed (Dead Man's Spelling)
- 1/1 (basinski international airport) (hench)
- Come with Us (The Jumping Cat Bunnies
- Strip It Down (Dead Man's Spelling
- Spider & I (Randy & The Eternities
- Mother Whale Eyeless (Peer Review)
- King's Lead Hat (Ani Boner)
- Wo-blique Strategies (The Jumping Cat Bunnies Featuring Bri-town E-wo)
- Warm Jets Disintegration (sleepkid)
- More Warm Jets (French Goodbye)
- Lay My Love (The Bashful Vigilantes
- The Great Pretender (Mirror Walled City)
- Proud of yourself, little man? (Batty Comes Alive!
- St. Elmo's Fire (Sam Miell)
- Spinning Away (Hilarity Ensues)
- Uncle's Third (Garbage Plate) (Technical Commentaries)
- Dead Finks Don't Talk (four o'clocker 2)

> Zoom

Live In Japan
2017

Phil Manzanera and The Sound of Blue Band

Disc 1
- Lagrima
- TNK
- 6PM
- Out Of The Blue
- In Every Dreamhome A Heartache
- I Want You Back
- Magdalena
- Sozinho
- Bala De Plata
- More Than This
- High Atlas

Disc 2
- East Of Asteroid
- Amazona
- I Cant Help Falling In Love With You
- Frontera [P. Manzanera/R. Wyatt]
- Diamond Head
- Stormy Weather
- Take A Chance With Me
- Love Is The Drug
- No Church In The World
- Lets Stick Together
- Chan Chan
- Bonus Track Chan Chan (Studio Version)

- Phil Manzanera - guitar, vocals
- Yaron Stavi - bass, vocals
- Javier Weyler - drums
- Hotei - guitar, guest
- Lucas Polo - guitar, vocals
- Sónia Bernardo - guitar, vocals
- Andres Mesa - keyborads, vocals
- Joao Mello - saxophone, keyboards, vocals

Recorded Live at Billboard Live, Tokyo, 2nd July 2017.

- EXPRESSION RECORDS (EXPCD 39) 2xCD

> Zoom

Heaps Of Sheeps
2017

The Hunt Saboteurs

- Heaps of Sheeps [A. Benge/R. Wyatt]

Solo project by V. J. Clarke, featuring guest musicians and session players.

- NO LABEL
  Digital Format

> Zoom

Sea Song
2017

Stelline ft. Libby Leist

- Sea Song [R. Wyatt]

- NO LABEL
  Digital Format

> Zoom 1 2

Sea Song(e)s.
2017

Bruno Tocanne - Sophia Domancich - Antoine Läng - Rémi Gaudillat

- Aimez Le
- C(arla) Song
- Du Clair Au Sombre
- Back Where We Began
- Sea Dance
- Nuits Désarmées
- I Danced
- Ressac + Léo Colas
- Sea Song [R. Wyatt]

- Bruno Tocanne - batterie, percussions
- Sophia Domancich - piano, Fender Rhodes
- Antoine Läng - voix, effets, clavier
- Rémi Gaudillat - trompette, bugle

L'univers du" Rock Bottom" de Robert Wyatt sert de fil conducteur à cet album dont chaque morceau explore cette "source inépuisable d'émotion".
A ce titre, si Sea Song est la seule "vraie" reprise, tous les morceaux empruntent de manière plus ou moins explicite au vocabulaire et à la cosmogonie wyattienne...

- CRISTAL RECORDS (CR257) CD

Plus / More

> Zoom

Retrospective My Eye
2017

TNHCH

- Un Pour Le Russe
- Dancing Sober
- Macedonia
- Grand Tourisme
- Fourth Of June
- Gharbzadegi [R. Wyatt]

- Arthur Beuvier - synths, drum programming, vocals
- Corentin Canesson - guitars, rainstick
- Tim Defives - drums, marimbas, drum programming, vocals
- Damien Le Dévédec - lead vocals, bass guitar, additional synths

First TNHCH's LP released in a 100 limited copies with original custom painted artwork for each.

- NO LABEL - LP

Nadia Szachniuk

- A La Nanita
- Canción De Cuna Para Un Niño Ansioso
- Y Aún
- Confesión Del Viento
- Luna Atrás

- Nadia-Szachniuk - voice
- Bruno Moguilevsky - piano
- Alejandro Starosielski - guitar
- Facundo Guevara - percussion
- Nicolás Arroyo - percussion,

> Zoom

Luna Atrás
2017

- Canción Para Despertar A Un Negrito
- Greta
- Oruga
- Nani Nani
- Canción De Cuna Para El Vino
- Upa Negrito
- Canción de Cuna para Lautaro
- Lullaby For Hamza [R. Wyatt]
- Llevame Afuera

drums
- Santiago Segret - bandoneon
- Ignacio Vidal - choirs

- NADIA SZACHNIUK
Digital Format

> Zoom

Dreamland
2017

Jennifer Maidman

- Conspiracy of Dreamers
- Hinterland
- Outside
- Red Heart
- This Man is Dangerous
- The Letting Go
- O Caroline [D. Sinclair/R.Wyatt]
- Over My Head
- No Man's Land
- Bird Dreams
- Open The Door
- Land Of Dreams
- Here
- Home
- The Magic Voice
- Higher Than Life?
- Crow Dance (for Simon)

- Robert Wyatt - trumpet wails and vocal samples

- Jennifer Maidman - vocals, acoustic guitar, bass, ukulele, Wyattotron
- David Torn - electric guitar, loops
- Annie Whitehead - trombones
- Paul Brady - whistle

"This song originally appeared on the 1972 Matching Mole album. It was written by Robert Wyatt and Dave Sinclair. It's a haunting song of love and longing, which I've been singing for many years as part of Annie's Soupsongs project, a band which plays Robert's music, and which accompanied him for the live performances featured in the BBC documentary 'Free Will and Testament'. I originally heard the first line 'David's on piano' as 'Dave sits on piano' , and have sung it like that ever since. It's a reference to Dave Sinclair of course, keyboard player with Matching Mole. Although there's no piano on our version, David (Torn) was next to the piano as he played guitar on the track at Dreamland, albeit not quite actually sitting on it. The vocal, acoustic guitar and creaky stool were recorded live at Dreamland.I had a dreadful sore throat but when I listened to it back I liked the result. Matthew working his magic with the API desk and a Neumann U47. Annie, inspired by the Mellotron on the original, came up with a beautiful trombone arrangement. Paul Brady sent some wonderful whistle all the way from Dublin. I called Robert to tell him what we were up to and back home in Sawkill flew in some trumpet and vocal samples, using the 'Wyatttron'."

- NO LABEL - Digital Format

Cet album est également présent dans la rubrique Samples.

Weyes Blood

- A Certain Kind [H. Hopper]
- Everybody's Talkin'

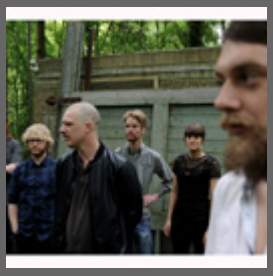
- Natalie Mering - voice
- Ben Babbitt - bass guitar
- Booker Stardrum - drums
- Walt McClements - organ

A Certain Kind was recorded live at ZDB in Lisbon.

> Zoom 1 2

A Certain Kind Of Everybody
2017

- MEXICAN SUMMER (MEX241) S



> Zoom

MoonJune Years 2002-2018
(Sampler)
2018

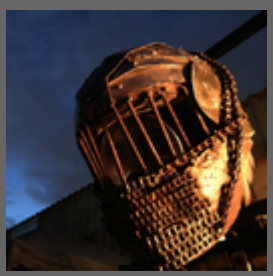
Soft Machine

-- Fourteen Hour Dream (Hidden Details)
- Black & Crimson (Burden Of Proof)
- The Nodder (The Live Adventures)
- Elsewhere (Abracadabra)
- The Steamer (Steam)
- Arianna Blue (unreleased)
- Kings & Queens (Live In Zaandam)
- Kite Runner (Soft Machine Legacy)

- MOONJUNE RECORDS - Digital Format

> Zoom

Songs By Wyatt (Live)
2018



Grey Lotus

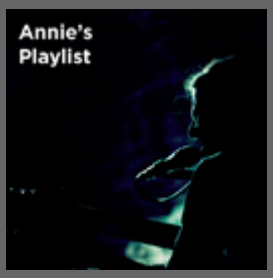
- Out Of The Blue [A. Benge/R. Wyatt]
- Alifib [R. Wyatt]
- Memories [R. Wyatt]
- Forest [A. Benge/R. Wyatt]
- Blues In Bob Minor [R. Wyatt]
- Shipbuilding [E. Costello]
- Free Will & Testament [R. Wyatt/Kramer]
- The Ghosts Within [A. Benge/G. Atzmon]
- Sea Song [R. Wyatt]

- Daan Arisz - guitar
- Joost Verhagen - vocals
- Judith Wesselius - vocals
- Otto de Boer - double bass
- Niels van der Weiden - piano & synthesizer
- Lars van der Weiden - drums
- Eoin Roberts - violin
- Roelof Ruis - accordeon

Recorded at Pletterij during a live concert featuring Otto de Boer, Michel Duijves and Robert Bakker.

- NO LABEL
Digital Format

> Zoom 1 2



Hobby Horse

- Helm
- Salsa Claiente
- The Go Round
- Cascade
- Buckle
- Born Again Cretin [R. Wyatt]
- Amundsen
- Evidently Chickentown

- Dan Kinzelman - tenor saxophone, clarinets, electronics, voice
- Joe Rehmer - basses, electronics, voice
- Stefano Tamborrino - drums, electronics, voice

- AUAND (AU9069) CD

Helm
2018

> Zoom

Annie's Playlist
2018

Annie Barbazza

- Dancing With The Moonlit Knight/Working Class Hero (Genesis/Lennon)
- Across The Universe (Lennon-McCartney)
- Bensonhurst Blues (Kaplan)
- Girls From The North Country (Dylan)
- Echoes/While My Guitar Gently Weeps/The Sage (Pink Floyd/Harrison/Lake)
- House With No Door (Hammill)
- Pink Moon (Drake)
- Casablanca Moon (Moore-Blegvad)
- Faust (Williams)
- How Beautiful You Are (Greaves-Blegvad)
- Sea Song [R. Wyatt]
- Horizon (Hackett)
- Space Oddity (Bowie)
- Moonage Daydream/Epitaph (Bowie/King Crimson)
- Prince Rupert's Awake-Moonchild (King Crimson)
- Astronomy Domine (Barrett)
- Scarborough Fair/John Barleycorn (Traditional)
- Volo Magico n°1/Locomotive Breath (Rocchi/Anderson)
- Song To The Siren (Buckley)
- Amado Mio (Fischer-Roberts)
- A Case Of You (Excerpt bonus track from rehearsals) (Mitchell)

- Annie Barbazza - vocals, piano, acoustic guitar
- Lorenzo Trecordi - flute, acoustic guitar, electric guitar, backing vocals

- UNIFAUN PRODUCTIONS EPHEMERALS (UPE001) CD

> Zoom

Centro Cultural São Paulo, 18/09/2010
2018

Band Of Pixies

- Hope for Happiness [B. Hopper]
- Clouds
- First Contact
- Interstellar Space
- Angel
- Sal Paradise

- Fabio Golfetti - guitar, vocal
- Gabriel Costa - bass
- Fred Barley - drums, vocal

Recorded Live at Centro Cultural São Paulo - 18 Sept 2010

- INVISIVEL RECORDS Digital Format

> Zoom

Concert Anniversaire 30 Ans
2018

Orchestre National de Jazz

- Jazz Lacrymogène (1986 ONJ François Jeanneau)
- Desert City (1987-1989 ONJ Antoine Hervé)
- Real Politik (1989-1991 ONJ Claude Barthélemy)
- À Plus Tard (1991-1994 ONJ Denis Badault)
- In Tempo (1994-1997 ONJ Laurent Cugny)
- Out Of (1997-2000 ONJ Didier Levallet)
- Argentiera (2000-2002 ONJ Paolo Damiani)
- Oud-Oud (2002-2005 ONJ Claude Barthélemy)
- Valse 2 (2005-2008 ONJ Franck Tortiller)

Shipbuilding featuring Yael Naim.

Concert enregistré à la Cité de la musique le 2 septembre 2016 dans le cadre du festival Jazz à la Villette.

- ONJ RECORDS (464444) CD

- Shipbuilding (2008-2013 ONJ Daniel Yvinec)[E. Costello]
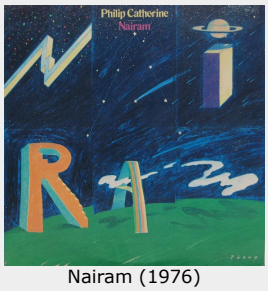
- Paris V (2014-2018 ONJ Olivier Benoit)

> Zoom



Clarinet & Piano:
Selected Works Vol. 1
2018

Group Listening

- Wenn Der Südwind Weht
- The Dog
- Snow Cannon
- Happy Whistler (Edit)
- Julie With
- Maryan [R. Wyatt/P. Catherine]
- A Little Lost
- Jay

- Stephen Black - clarinet, electronics
- Paul Jones - piano, electronics

Maryan est une composition instrumentale de Philip Catherine parue en 1976 sous le nom de Nairam (sur l'album éponyme édité par Warner Bros).

Nairam (1976)
Philip Catherine

Robert Wyatt en a écrit les paroles du morceau publié sur Shleep sorti en 1997.

- PRAH RECORDINGS (PRAH013D) LP

> Zoom

Al Silencio
2018

Carolina Katún

- Paloma Negra
- Au fil de l´eau
- El Curruchá
- La Llorona
- Sea Song [R. Wyatt]
- Automne
- Alfonsina y el mar
- Arenita Azul
- Dos Cruces
- When I am Laid
- Zamba de los humildes
- Al silencio
- Pajarillo verde

- Carolina Katún - voice
- Pierre Perchaud - guitars
- Nicolas Moreaux - double bass
- Arthur Alard - percussion

- JAZZLAND RECORDINGS (377 907 9) CD

> Zoom

Delta Saxophone Quartet

- Speed Of Life
- Heroes
- Breaking Glass
- Hunky
- Alabama Song
- Art Decade
- Dory
- The Laughing Gnome
- Warszawa
- Shades III
- Merry Christmas, Mr. Lawrence
- Swan
- Music for Airports [B. Eno/R. Wyatt/R.

- Peter Whyman - alto saxophone, clarinet
- Chris Caldwell - baritone saxophone, bass clarinet
- Graeme Blevins - sopranino saxophone, soprano saxophone, clarinet
- Tim Holmes - tenor saxophone, clarinet

- FMR RECORDS (FMRCD473-0418) CD

Bowie, Berlin & Beyond
2018

Davies]
- Subterraneans

> Zoom

Life Size
2018

John Greaves

- Air De La Lune
- The Same Thing
- In Te
- God Song [P. Miller-R. Wyatt]
- Kew Rhône Is Real
- Earthly Powers
- Still Life
- La Lune Blanche
- Sweetheart Goodbye
- Hôtels
- How Beautiful You Are
- Lie Still, Sleep Becalmed

- John Greaves - voice, bass guitar piano, sequences, string arrangements
- Vincent Courtois - cello
- Matthieu Rabaté - drums
- Jakko Jakszyk - electric guitar
- Camillo Mozzoni - oboe

- MANTICORE (MAN003) CD
- MANTICORE (MANLP003) LP

> Zoom

Nostalgia Progressiva
2018

Maurizio Brunod, Giorgio Li Calzi & Boris Savoldelli

- Formentera Lady (Fripp/Sinfield)
- Matte Kudusai (Belew/Fripp/Levin/Bruford)
- Tomorrow Never Knows (Lennon/ McCartney)
- Shipbuilding [E. Costello/C. Langer]
- Radio Activity (Hütter/Schneider/Schult)
- Medley: I Talk To The Wind (Fripp/Giles/ Lake/McDonald/Sinfield) - Roots (Carr) - Starless (Fripp/Bruford/Cross/ Wetton)
- Taranaki (Smith)
- Moonchild (Fripp/Giles/Lake/McDonald/ Sinfield)
- Gioco Di Bimba (Reverberi/Tagliapietra/ McDonald/Pagliuca)

- Maurizio Brunod - acoustic and electric guitar, live sampling
- Giorgio Li Calzi - trumpet, flugelhorn, keyboards, electronics
- Boris Savoldelli - voices, electronics, vocal synth 3D prototype

Recorded on 11th July 2017 at Il Pollaio Recording Studio, Ronco Biellese (Biella) Italy.

- CALIGOLA RECORDS (2241) CD

> Zoom

Parlami
2018

Odeia

- Tha Pethάno Glykiá Mou Agápi
- Ola Se Thimizoun
- Alifib [R. Wyatt]
- Mandole 1
- Nu Poco 'e Sentimento
- Plainte
- Parlami D'amore Mariù
- Non Parliamone Più
- I Pirati A Palermu
- Le Vent Se Tait
- Mandole 2
- O Maharagias
- Venti Latir [R. Wyatt]
- Chanson d'Hélène

- Elsa Birgé - voix
- Lucien Alfonso - violon, guitare
- Karsten Hochapfel - violoncelle, guitare, guitare portugaise, guitare bulgare
- Pierre-Yves Le Jeune - contrebasse, percussions

- WOPELA (00337961793/2) CD

CE François Couture

- Ballade (pour elle)
- August & September
- Go
- Sea Song [R. Wyatt]

- CE François Couture - voix, instruments, traitements, arrangements

> Zoom

Ballades Pour Elle
2018

- This Side of the Looking Glass
- I Scare Myself

- NO LABEL - Digital Format

↑

> Zoom

Hidden Details
2018

Soft Machine

- Hidden Details
- The Man Who Waved At Trains
- Ground Lift
- Heart Off Guard
- Broken Hill
- Flight Of The Jett
- One Glove
- Out Bloody Intro [T. Travis/M. Ratledge]
- Out Bloody Rageous, Part 1 [M. Ratledge]
- Drifting White
- Life On Bridges
- Fourteen Hour Dream
- Breathe
- Night Sky (Bonus Track)

- John Etheridge - electric and acoustic guitars
- Theo Travis -tenor and soprano saxophones / flutes / Fender Rhodes piano
- Roy Babbington - bass guitar
- John Marshall - drums and percussion

- MOONJUNE RECORDS (MJR093)
- TONEFLOAT (TF185) 2xLP

↑

> Zoom

How Can I Rise If You Don't Fall?
2018

Eric Lareine - Pascal Maupeu - Wyatt - Marchetti

- Signed Curtain
- Pigs...(in there)
- First Batch / Before We Knew / Un Roman Sportif
- The Age Of Self / The United States Of Amnesia
- Catholic Architecture
- Lullaloop
- Just As You Are

- Eric Lareine - voix
- Pascal Maupeu - guitare, bandes (claviers et samples)
- Jean-Michel Marchetti - traductions

Enregistrement live à Saint-Quentin la Tour des morceaux 3 et coda 7.

Ce disque n'est plus disponible et n'est plus référencé.

- MOPDAQUEENPROD (#2)

Cet album est également présent dans la rubrique Samples.

↑

North Sea Radio Orchestra - John Greaves - Annie Barbazza

- Sea Song [R. Wyatt]
- A Last Straw [R. Wyatt]
- Little Red Riding Hood Hit The Road [R. Wyatt]
- Alifib [R. Wyatt]
- Alifie [R. Wyatt]
- Little Red Robin Hood Hit The Road [R. Wyatt]

- Annie Barbazza - lead vocal, Farfisa organ
- John Greaves - bass guitar, vocal (track 4 and 11), spoken Word (track 3, 5 and 6)
- Nicky Baigent - Bb clarinet, bass clarinet, spoken word (track 5)
- Luke Crookes - bassoon

> Zoom 1 2 3 4 5 6

Folly Bololey
Songs From Robert Wyatt's
Rock Bottom
2019

Bonus tracks
- The British Road [R. Wyatt]
- Maryan [R. Wyatt/P. Catherine]
- Shipbuilding [P. MacManus/C. Langer]
- O Caroline [R. Wyatt/D. Sinclair]

- William D. Drake - piano, Farfisa organ, vocal (track 2, 3 and 5)
- Harry Escott - cello
- Craig Fortnam - guitar, Farfisa organ, vocal (track 7 and 9)
- Tommaso Franguelli - vibes, percussion
- Cheb Nettles - drums
- Laurent Valero - violin, viola, recorder, bass recorder

Recorded live, mixed and mastered by Alfredo Callegari at Elfo Recording Studios, Tavernago, Italy during "Musiche Nuove a Piacenza Festival", November 30th, 2018.

- DARK COMPANION RECORDS (DC012)
  (DCLP012) Limited hand numbered first edition coloured vinyl (500 ex.) with bonus golden CD.

Critiques/Reviews

> Zoom

An Evening With Manuel Agnelli
2019

Manuel Agnelli Featuring Rodrigo D'Erasmo

- Martha
-Ti Cambia Il Sapore
- Video Games
- Male Di Miele
- Shipbuilding [E. Costello/C. Langer]
- Strategie
- Ballata Per La Mia Piccola Iena
- Quello Che Non C'è
- Perfect Day

- ISLAND RECORDS (0602508493737) LP

> Zoom

Smith
2019

The Winstons

- Mokumokurwen
- Ghost Town
- Around The Boat
- Tamarind Smile / Apple Pie
- A Man Happier Than You
- No Dosh For Parking Lot
- The Blue Traffic Light
- Blind
- Impotence [H. Hopper/R. Wyatt]
- Soon Everyday
- Sintagma
- Rocket Belt

- Enrico Gabrielli - keyboards, woodwind, drums, vocals
- Roberto Dell'Era - bass, classical & 12-string guitars, piano, vocals
- Lino Gitto - drums, keyboards, vocals
- Richard Sinclair - vocals

- SONY MUSIC (19075958352) CD
- SONY MUSIC (190759586013) LP

Julie Constantine

- Sea Song [R. Wyatt]
- Jusqu'A Ce Que La Force De T'Aimer Me Manque

- Badou Ortega - voix
- Philippe Haurio - guitares, synthés

Limted 100 copies.

- UBAHN (SP07/1) SP

> Zoom

A Tribute Collection - Part One
2019

> Zoom

Max Andrzejewski's Hütte & Guests
Play The Music Of Robert Wyatt
2019

Max Andrzejewski's Hütte

- The Duchess [R. Wyatt]
- Little Red Riding Hood Hits The Road [R. Wyatt]
- You You [A. Benge/R. Wyatt]
- Little Red Robin Hood Hits The Road [R. Wyatt]
- Cuckoo Madam [A. Benge/R. Wyatt]
- Grass [R. Wyatt]
- N.I.O [R. Wyatt]
- Instant Kitten [R. Wyatt]
- Starting In The Middle Of The Day We Can Drink Our Politics Awaye [D. McRae/R. Wyatt]

- Johannes Schleiermacher - saxophone, flute, synth
- Tobias Hoffmann - guitar
- Andreas Lang - double bass
- Max Andrzejewski - drums, vocals, arrangements
- Cansu Tanrıkulu -vocals, fx
- Jörg Hochapfel -organs, guitars, vocals on The Duchess

Recorded on 13. & 14. December 2018 at LowSwing Studio Berlin.

- WHYPLAYJAZZ (WPJ052) CD

> Zoom

A Tribute Collection - Part Two 2019

Julie Constantine

- Green Is The Color
- Alifib [R. Wyatt]

- Badou Ortega - voix
- Philippe Haurio - guitares, synthés

Limited edition 100 copies.

- UBAHN (SP08/1) SP

> Zoom 1 2 3 4 5 6 7 8 9

The Henry Cow Box Redux

Henry Cow

Disc 1
LEGEND

Disc 2
UNREST

Disc 3
DESPERATE STRAIGHTS (Slapp Happy / Henry Cow)

Disc 4
IN PRAISE OF LEARNING

CONCERTS 1
- Gloria Gloom : 5 août 1975, BBC

HAMBURG
- Gloria Gloom : 26 mars 1976, NDR Jazz Workshop, Hamburg

This box set contains re-mastered versions of all the studio CDs and the rare bonus CD (Cabinet of Curiosities);

Subscribers to this boxset received an additional limited edition free bonus CD: Ex Box Collected Fragments 1971 - 1978.

The Complete Henry Cow
50th Anniversary
2019

Disc 5
WESTERN CULTURE - History & Prospects

Disc 6
CONCERTS 1
- Beautiful As The Moon|Terrible As An Army With Banners
- Nirvana For Mice
- The Ottawa Song
- Gloria Gloom [R. Wyatt/B. McCormick]
- Beautiful As The Moon (Reprise)
- Bad Alchemy
- Little Red Riding Hood Hits The Road
- Ruins
- Groningen
- Groningen Again

Disc 7
CONCERTS 2

Disc 8
BEGINNINGS

Disc 9
1974-5

Disc 10
HAMBURG
- Fair As The Moon
- Nirvana For Rabbits
- Ottawa Song
- Twilight Bridge
- Gloria Gloom [R. Wyatt/B. McCormick]
- Hamburg 1
- Hamburg 2
- Red Noise10
- Hamburg 3
- Hamburg 4
- Hamburg 5
- Terrible As An Army With Banners
- A Heart
- Little Red Riding Hood Hit the Road
- We Did It Again

Disc 11
TRONDHEIM 1

Disc 12
TRONDHEIM 2

Disc 13
STOCKHOLM & GOTEBORG

Disc 14
LATER & POST-VIRGIN

Disc 15
BREMEN

Disc 16
LATE

Disc 17
VEVEY 1976 (DVD)

Disc 18
A COW CABINET OF CURIOSITIES

Disc 19
EX BOX COLLECTED FRAGMENTS 1971-1978
(bonus reserved for subscribers of the boxset).

- ReR MEGACORP (ReRHCGK)
17xCD + DVD

Ce boxset est également présent dans la rubrique With Friends.

> Zoom

Les Mémoires D'Un Ventriloque
Chansons 1981-2018
2019

Pascal Comelade

- We Did It Again (with Sissi) [K. Ayers]
- The Sad Skinhead (with Jean-Hervé Péron & Faust)
- Cadillac(with Jac Berrocal)
- September Song (with Robert Wyatt)
- Green Eyes (with PJ Harvey)
- Satisfaccio (Satisfaction) (with Sergi Lopez)
- En Maison (with Alex Barbier)
- Ja Som la Foca (I am The Walrus) (with Enric Casasses)
- Cadillac (with Roy Paci)
- Yo Soy Bueno (with Accidents Polipoètics)
- Don't Let Go (with Les Vierges)
- Ma Gueule (with Miossec)
- Larme Secrète (with Marc Hurtado)
- Société Anonyme du Frisson Rétinien (with Enric Casasses & Mark C.)
- Cares d'Arguiles (with Pau Riba)
- Suzanne (with Albert Pla)

"Les Mémoires d'un Ventriloque" ("memories of a ventriloquist") is the long-awaited anthology of Comelade's collaborations with singers, recorded between 1981 and 2018.

Limited edition of 500 copies, hand-numbered and signed by Pascal Comelade himself.

- STAUBGOLD (STAUB153)
  2 x LP

Cet album est également présent dans la rubrique With Friends .

> Zoom

pRéCis.AiMaNt
2019

Carla Diratz & Pascal Vaucel

- Brain Waves
- Questing Dawn
- Dharma Song
- Ancora Pier Paolo
- Blue Drops
- Sea Song [Robert Wyatt]
- Septentrional
- Movoid Blues
- What It Is Not
- Head Bending

- Carla Diratz - chant
- Pascal Vaucel - guitare, batterie, traitements

Tirage limité - 300 exemplaires.

- NO LABEL (CDPV001/1) LP

> Zoom

Clarinet & Piano Selected Works
Vol. 1 - Remixed
2019

Group Listening

- A Little Lost (Robert Stillman Remix)
- Wenn Der Südwind Weht (C.A.R.'s 'Becoming Strangers' Vocal Rehash)
- The Dog (Intimately Tommy Remix)
- Snow Canon (Tony Chuckies Remix)
- Happy Whistler (Raven Remix)
- Julie With (Ed Dowie Remix)
- Maryan (Haiku Salut Remix) [R. Wyatt/P. Catherine]
- A Little Lost (Hiro Ama Remix)
- Jay (Thomas Ragsdale Remix)
- Wenn Der Südwind Weht (Bryce Hackford Nur Ihre Zehe Remix)
- Wenn Der Südwind Weht (Povoa Remix)

- Stephen Black - clarinet
- Paul Jones - piano

Remix du morceau paru l'année précédente.

- PRAH - Digital Format

Anaïd

- White Nature
- I Have a Dream
- Ikebana
- Sweet Memories [R. Wyatt/H. Hopper]
- Imbahé
- Migration
- Papaye
- Bonus

- Emmanuelle Lionet - vocal
- Jean-Max Delva - drums, vibraphone
- Damien Thebaud - keyboards
- Alexis Delva - guitars

Sweet Memories est une reprise de Was

> Zoom 1 2

I Have A Dream
2019

A Friend (avec des paroles différentes de celles composées par R. W. pour l'album Shleep).
Plus exactement, cette version d'Anaïd reprend le texte initialement écrit par Robert Wyatt pour Hugh Hopper.
En 1997, Robert Wyatt écrira un nouveau texte pour l'enregistrement de Shleep.

"A tribute... To our friend, Hugh Hopper, but also to the legendary ubiquitous figure of canterburian music, Robert Wyatt..."

- NO LABEL (JMEC2019/1/1) CD

> Zoom

Something Unreal: The Best Of Ex Norwegian
2019

Ex Norwegian

- Life
- Something Unreal
- Original Copy
- Sudeki Lover
- Jet Lag
- Making Deals
- Unstoppable
- Pure Gold
- Initiative Rock
- Triggered Weeknd
- Song of Many
- It's Too Late
- Feelin' It
- Not A Mouse
- Mind Down
- Fresh Pit
- Team No Sleep
- All The Time
- All Hips No Waists
- Upper Hand
- Be There
- Aventura
- Tell Me Your Plans
- My Name Is Paul
- Love Is
- International Feel
- So Fine (It's Frightening)
- Ebenezer Beaver
- I Like The Way
- Trap
- Signed Curtain [R. Wyatt]
- Lord Up Above
- Winter
- Smashing Time (Live)
- Turn Left (Live)
- First Time (Live)
- Much Rooms (Live)
- Life (Live)
- Something Unreal (Live)
- Ice (Live)
- I'm A Fighter, Not A Lover (Live)
- Count On Me
- Tired Of Dancing
- Funny Zipper
- Hold Please
- Riot Of Love
- Something Unreal II
- Aruba Morn II

Limited edition of 300 copies.

- THINK LIKE A KEY RECORDS (TLAK1115) 2xCD

Fabio Zuffanti

- Sinfonia della Luna (Mugen)
- Chapter 24 (Pink Floyd)
- Nimrodel (Camel)
- Sea Song [R. Wyatt]
- Refugees (VDGG)
- Vorrei incontrarti (Alan Sorrenti)
- Harlequin (Genesis)

- MELLOW LABEL PRODUCTIONS (TRIB002) Digital Format

> Zoom

Tributes
2019

- Remember you (Cinderella Search)
- Alta Loma Five Till Nine (PFM)

> Zoom

Positive Feedback
2019

Some Things

- Simultaneity
- Again Blues
- Dreams
- Bowie, Boulez And Nana Vasconcelos
- Now Is The Cool Of The Day
- Flowers of the Nation
- Dondestan [R. Wyatt]
- Hen Harrier
- You Are What This Day Is All About
- The Happenings
- Lullabite
- No Worries
- Worries

- Chris Dowding - trumpet, flugelhorn, piccolo trumpet
- Ben Higham – trumpet, flugelhorn, tuba

- NO LABEL - Digital Format

> Zoom

That's How Much I Need You
2019

The Lysergics

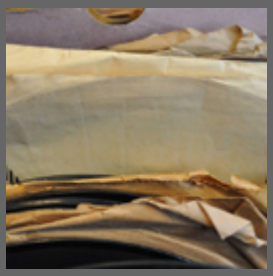
- That's How Much I Need You [R. Wyatt]

- Fabio Mongelli - guitar, vocals
- Sarah Gonputh - organ, vocals
- Danilo Villafranca – bass
- Javier Sanchez Jr. – drums

Recorded at 'Sausage Studio', London, 2016.

- MOON JELLY RECORDS - Digital Format

> Zoom



The Bonus Tracks From Monsterverse
2019

The Hellmask

- Under The Moon (Demo Version)
- Signed Curtain (Robert Wyatt)
- Curse Of The Pharaoh (Cavernous Acapella)
- Cheri Cheri Lady (Modern Talking Cover)
- Halloween (The Misfits Cover)
- Vermillion Pt 2 (Slipknot Cover)
- Possession (Live)

- Joseph Stones - vocals
- Camilo Borges - electric guitar
- Diego Évora - bass
- Rufus - Drums

- NO LABEL - Digital Format

> Zoom

Signed Curtain
2019

Mésange

- Signed Curtain (Robert Wyatt)

- Claire Mathieu - vocals, keyboard
- Maud Perez - vocals, harp
- Matthieu Demourgues - electric bass, guitar

- NO LABEL - Digital Format

> Zoom

Return To Center
2019

Kirin J Callinan

- Life Is Life
- The Homosexual
- The Whole Of The Moon
- It Takes A Muscle To Fall In Love
- Pretty Boy
- Return To Center
- Rise
- Signed Curtain [R. Wyatt]
- You Weren't In Love With Me
- Vienna

- Kirin J Callinan - lead vocals, guitar
- Benji Lysaght - guitars
- Drew Erickson - most synths & keys
- Vicky Nguyen - additional synth & keys
- Stella Mozgawa & Dave Elitch - drums & percussion
- Zach Dawes, Jasper Leek & Kelsey Gonzalez - The Electric Bass

- TERRIBLE RECORDS (7766194) LP

> Zoom 1 2 3

Le Rien Illustré - Sub-versions de salon vol. 2
2020

Pascal Comelade

- I Love Joan Jett (Medley: Allright Now / Paranoid / The Letter / Gloria)
- C'mon Everybody
- Honky Tonk Women
- Sweet Little Sixteen
- 96 Tears
- The Way I Walk
- Let Me Try
- Sunny Afternoon
- Like a Rollin' Stone
- Egyptian Reggae
- Sheena Is a Punk Rocker
- Brown Sugar
- Smoke on the Water
- Ramblin' Rose
- Paranoid
- Mood Indigo
- Lonely Woman
- Memories [R. Wyatt/H. Hopper]
- Egyptian Reggae
- Proud Mary
- Mother of Earth
- Why Are We Sleeping? [K. Ayers/ R. Wyatt/ M. Ratledge]
- Russian Roulette
- Dali's Car

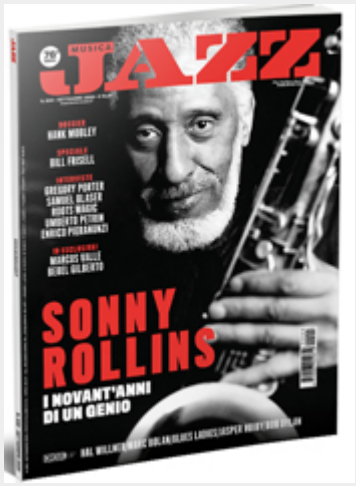
Monographie "Le Rien Illustré" consacrée à l'oeuvre graphique de Pascal Comelade comportant 150 reproductions couleurs + un CD de 25 titres de reprises.

A noter que P. Comelade attribue Memories à [R. Wyatt/H. Hopper] alors que Hugh Hopper en est le seul auteur-compositeur.

- LES FONDEURS DE BRIQUES Livre + CD

> Zoom 1 2

Truly Yours
Musiche Di Phil Miller
2020



Artchipel Orchestra

- Above & Below
- Calyx [P. Miller]
- Eastern Region
- Nan True's Hole [Ph. Miller/R. Wyatt]
- God Song [Ph. Miller/R. Wyatt]
- Second Sight
- Truly Yours
- Esprit Merveilleux

ARTCHIPEL ORCHESTRA
- Marco Fior - trumpet
- Marco Mariani - trumpet
- Michele Marrano - French horn
- Alberto Bolettieri - trombone
- Rudi Manzoli - soprano saxophone - Andrea Ciceri - alto saxophone
- Germano Zenga - tenor saxophone
- Rosarita Crisafi - baritone saxophone
- Alberto Zappalà - bass clarinet
- Carlo Nicita - flute, piccolo
- Stefano Montaldo - violin
- Luca Pedeferri - piano, accordion
- Andrea Serino - synthesizers
- Luca Gusella - vibraphone
- Giuseppe Galluci - electric guitars
- Gianluca Alberti - bass guitar
- Stefano Lecchi - drums
- Naiama Faraò- vocals
- Serena Ferrara - vocals
- Francesca Sabatino - vocals
- Francesco Forges - arrangement (5), co-conduction (5), vocals (2, 5, 7)
- Ferdinando Faraò - arrangements, conduction, game sections

Recorded at Officine Meccanische, Milano, on January 12 th 2020

CD Sold with Italian magazine Musica Jazz [settembre 2020].

- MUSICA JAZZ (MJCD 1372) CD

Article

> Zoom

Abracadabra In Osaka
2020

Soft Works

Disc 1
- Seven Formerly
- Alphrazallan
- Elsewhere
- Baker's Treat
- Calyx [Ph. Miller]
- Kings & Queens [H. Hopper]

Disc 2
- Abracadabra
- Madam Vintage Suite
- Has Riff
- First Train
- Facelift [H. Hopper]

- Elton Dean - saxello, alto sax, Fender Rhodes piano
- Allan Holdsworth - guitar
- Hugh Hopper - bass guitar
- John Marshall - drums

- MOONJUNE RECORDS (MJR 112) 2xCD

> Zoom

At Brunch With Satan
2020

Alexander De Large

- In Every Dream Home A Heartache (Roxy Music)
- Man In The Long Black Coat (Bob Dylan)
- Bite It You Scum (G.G. Allin)
- Hurt (Nine Inch Nails)
- Nerorgasmo (Nerorgasmo)
- Space Is Deep (Hawkwind)
- Tomorrow Never Knows (The Beatles)
- Corona (Minutemen)
- The Bed (Lou Reed)
- Ace Of Spades (Motörhead)
- Long Gone (Syd Barrett)
- Matando Güeros (Brujeria)
- Black Metal (Venom)
- Moon Over Montana (Jimmy Wakely)
- Sweet Thing (David Bowie)
- Bela Lugosi's Dead (Bauhaus)
- Don't Let It Bring You Down (Neil Young)
- Despair Came Knocking (Daniel Johnston)
- Kakkole (Skiantos)
- Isolation (John Lennon)
- Sea Song [R. Wyatt]
- Waitin' Around To Die (Townes Van Zandt)
- I Like To Stay Home (R. Stevie Moore)
- Funeralopolis (Electric Wizard)
- You Suffer (Napalm Death)

"Recorded during lockdown with the shitty built-in laptop mike, this collection of covers clumsily arranged for ukulele and voice features incidental yelling of my daughter, barking of my neighbour's dogs, passing cars and ambulances, you name it... 88 minutes of desperation for you to enjoy! So... enjoy!"

Limited edition, 25 copies.

- LEPER WITHOUT A CAUSE (005) Cassette

> Zoom

There Isn't A Window That I Won't Look Out Of 2020

M.T. Hadley

- Suddenly
- You Know When To Laugh
- Pardon Me
- Signed Curtain [R. Wyatt]

- M.T. Hadley - vocal
- Joe McGrail - piano:
- Gam Traynor - cello
- Will Harvey - Viola
- Alicia Berendse - violin
- Twm Dylan - double bass

- NO LABEL - Digital Format

> Zoom

Gharbzadegi
2020

Visual Orchestra

- Gharbzadegi [R. Wyatt]

- Gal Amoyal - vocal, monkey
- Yael Sady - keyboard
- Adi Shmulevitch - vocal
- Doron Gallia - vocal
- Reut Ezrony - piano
- Charlotte Oeken - keyboard
- Gabreala Hazon - bells and shakers
- Avri Manor - percussion
- Romi Ginsburg - vocal
- Lilla Weisselberg - vocal
- Gai Sherf - surdo, percussion

- NO LABEL - Digital Format

> Zoom

Max Andrzejewski´s Hütte
Plays The Music Of Robert Wyatt
Jazz & Wine Of Peace
2020

Max Andrzejewski´s Hütte

- The Duchess [R. Wyatt]
- You You [A. Benge/R. Wyatt]
- Little Red Riding Hood Hits the Road [R. Wyatt]
- Cuckoo Madam [A. Benge/R. Wyatt]
- Band Introduction & Spoken Interlude
- Little Red Robin Hood Hits the Road [R. Wyatt]
- N.I.O. (New Information Order) [R. Wyatt]
- Grass [I. Cutler]
- Spoken Interlude
- Instant Kitten [R. Wyatt]
- Starting in the Middle of the Day We Can Drink Our Politics Away [D. McRae/R. Wyatt]
- At Last I am Free [Edwards/Rodgers]

- Johannes Schleiermacher - sax tenore, flauto, sintetizzatore
- Cansu Tanrikulu - voce
- Jörg Hochapfel - organo, chitarra, voce
- Tobias Hoffmann- chitarra
- James Banner - contrabbasso
- Max Andrzejewski - batteria, voce, arrangiamenti

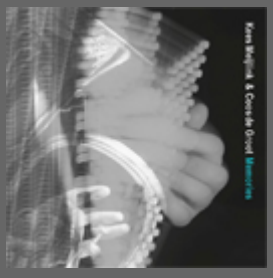
Registrato a Cormòns (Italy), Teatro Comunale, il 22.10.2020.

Cet enregistrement circule sur internet (mp3) sans avoir fait l'objet d'une publication discographique.

Cet album est également présent dans la rubrique Bootlegs.

> Zoom

Untried Ways
2020



Solaris Great Confusion

- My Bottom Line
- Untried Ways
- The Age Of Self [R. Wyatt]
- She Kissed My Forehead
- So Close To Me Marlene
- Inside A Hollow Tree
- Traffic Jam
- I Wish I Was Blind
- That Fellow's Got To Swing

- Élise Humbert - cello
- Yves Béraud - accordion
- Jérôme Spieldenner - drums
- Foes Von Ameisedorf - bass
- Aurel Troesch - electric & acoustic guitars
- Jacques Speyser - voice

Special guests:
- Zeynep Kaya - voice
- Emmanuel Boch - piano & organ

- MEDIAPOP RECORDS (MPR028) LP & CD

> Zoom

Memories
2020

Kees Meijlink & Coos de Groot

- Islands
- 't Rooie Dorp
- Zeelied [R. Wyatt]
- Was A Friend [H. Hopper/R. Wyatt]
- Memories [H. Hopper]
- Child Then
- Teken Voor Altijd
- Little Red Riding Hood Hit The Road [R. Wyatt]

- Kees Meijlink - vocals, guitar, bass guitar, trombone, tuba, Weissenborn lap steel guitar
- Coos de Groot - accordion, soprano saxophone, keyboards

Zeelied = Sea Song (in Dutch)

- NO LABEL - Digital Format

Autarkic

-- UX
- Trancelate
- Keyboard Riot
- Solid States
- Terms And Conditions
- The Exploiter
- Simplify, Reduce [R. Wyatt]

Simplify, Reduce is an electro cover of Left On Man.

- LIFE AND DEATH (LAD050) LP

> Zoom

Terms And Conditions
2020

- St. Satan
- A Curveball That Doesn't Quite Land
- Shut Down Nation

> Zoom

Anaïd In Parïs
2020

Anaïd

- La Louve
- I Have A Dream
- Ikebana
- Sweet Memories [R. Wyatt/H. Hopper]
- Libertad
- La Libanaise
- Clémentine
- Kate
- Migration
- Papaye
- Imbahé
- Heart Break
- Vêtue De Noir

- Emmanuelle Lionet - vocals
- Jean-Max Delva - drums, vibraphone
- Alexis Delva - guitar, ukulele
- Damien Thebaud - keyboards
- Théo Ferrari - saxophone

Recorded Live - February 22, 2020, at Le Triton (France)

- NOT ON LABEL (JMEC2020/2/2) 2xCD

> Zoom

Live At The Baked Potato
2020

Soft Machine

- Out Bloody Intro [T. Travis/M. Ratledge]
- Out Bloody Rageous, Part 1 [M. Ratledge]
- Sideburn
- Hazard Profile Part 1
- Kings And Queens [H. Hopper]
- The Tale Of Taliesin
- Ground Lift
- Heart Off Guard
- Broken Hill
- Fourteen Hour Dream
- The Man Who Waved At Trains
- Life On Bridges
- Hidden Details

- John Etheridge - guitar
- Theo Travis - sax, flute, Rhodes
- Roy Babbington - bass
- John Marshall - drums

Recorded at the Los Angeles jazz Club on 1 February 2019.

- MOONJUNE RECORDS (MJR102) CD
- DYAD RECORDS (DY 031) CD

> Zoom

Funny Souls Singles Series
2020

Ben Varian

- O Caroline [D. Sinclair/R. Wyatt]

- FUNNY SOULS STUDIO - Digital Format

> Zoom

Le Piano Confit
2020

Red Banjo

- While You're Waiting (Ron Sexsmith)
- Sunday Morning (The Velvet Undergroud)
- Heartbreak Hotel (Elvis Presley)
- Tango Till They're Sore (Tom Waits)
- Orpheus (David Sylvian)
- Norwegian Wood [the bird has flown] (The Beatles)
- Alifib [R. Wyatt]
- By This River (Brian Eno)
- Fantastic Voyage (David Bowie)
- Baby Come On Home (Led Zeppelin)
- Playboys And Playgirls (Bob Dylan)

- NO LABEL - Digital Format

> Zoom

Sea Song (a Robert Wyatt Cover)
2020

NkCz

- Sea Song [R.Wyatt]

- Nicolas Fantin - lead vocal & guitar

- NO LABEL - Digital Format

> Zoom

Wind Songs
2020

Dana Gavanski

- Talk To The Wind
- At Last I Am Free [Edwards/Rodgers]
- Never Too Far
- Jano Mome
- The Kiss

"Originally written and performed by Chic, I first heard it covered by Robert Wyatt not long ago. It's in part a break up song, but it goes beyond that. There's something beautiful about the ambiguity of the song. The verses are quite personal, and then there's this huge, ecstatic yet melancholy chorus. I love Robert Wyatt's version of it too. His wizardly voice and that lead synth line that give it a special edge. It's a big tune."

12" black vinyl, cut at 45rpm. Limited to 500 copies worldwide.

- NO LABEL - EP

Squid

- Pigs (in there) [R. Wyatt]
- Clapping Music

- Ollie Judge – vocals, electronics
- Louis Borlase – piano
- Arthur Leadbetter – keyboards
- Laurie Nankivell – trompet
- Anton Pearson – guitar

> Zoom

Natural Resources
2020

- NO LABEL - Digital Format

> Zoom

The End Of Words
2020

Tim Hawthorn & the Archetypes

- Sea Song [R.Wyatt] - Song to the Siren
- Certain Things
- The Snow It Melts The Soonest
- She Who Makes The World Go Round
- No Trouble
- Nothing Serious
- Lowlands
- Samsara
- Truth - Box of Rain - The End of Words

Bonus
- She Lives in a Time of Her Own - Mining for Starlight - Love Chant - Music is Love

- Will Greenwood - lead guitar
- Jim Peters - keys, D whistle, vocals
- Harmony Davies - violin, flute
- Laura Iseley - vocals
- Tim Hawthorn - guitar, vocals

- NO LABEL - Digital Format

> Zoom

Sea Song
2020

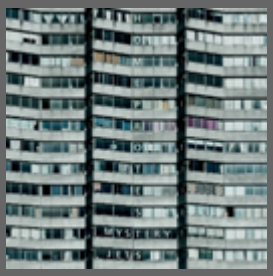
Bill Callahan & Bonnie Prince Billy

- Sea Song [R. Wyatt]

Feat. Mick Turner

- DRAG CITY (DC820) Digital Format

> Zoom



Alliance
2020

Michael Albert

- Alliance [R. Wyatt]

- Michael Albert - vocals, keyboards, bass, drum programming, percussion
- Ayanna Woods - backing vocals
- Dustin Laurenzi - saxophones

- NO LABEL - Digital Format

> Zoom

Home Protests
2021

The Mystery Jets

- You Are The Generation That Bought More Shoes And You Get What You Deserve
- Freedom
- Big Yellow Taxi
- Shipbuilding [E. Costello]
- Short People
- Oxygen
- The Age Of Self [R.Wyatt]
- Don't Give Up
- Jesus' Blood Never Failed

- Blaine Harrison - vocals, percussion, keys, guitar
- Kapil Trivedi - drums
- Jack Flanagan - bass, vocals
- Henry Harrison - guitar, keys, backing vocals

- BLOOD RECORDS - LP

> Zoom

Manifestua
2021

Ekida Arte Ekimen Sozialista

- Agurra
- Gaua heltzen da eta
- The Age of Self [R. Wyatt]
- Afalosteko eztabaidaren alegoria
- Aliantza [R. Wyatt]
- Zalditeria gorriaren kanta
- Bizitza joan, bizitza ihes (Jacques Marchais)
- Langile baten galderak liburu baten aurrean (Mikel Laboa)
- Gu nor garen
- Manifestua (Victor Jara)

«Manifestua» EKIDA kultur ekimen sozialistak sustatutako diziplinarteko ikuskizuna da, 2021eko martxotik uztailera taula gainean eskainia. «Manifestua» ikuskizunerako berariaz egindako testuak erabili ziren, eta horiek dakartzagu grabaketa honetan. Besteren testu eta kantak ere erabili eta moldatu ziren, arte iraultzailearen tradizioa errebisitatzeko saiakeran. Hor dakartzagu, hurrenez hurren, Robert Wyatt, Jacques Marchais, Mikel Laboa eta Victor Jararen kantak.
Kantak eta poemak 2021eko ekainaren 19an grabatu ziren, zuzenean, Azkoitiko Baztartxo Antzokiko emanaldian.

The lyrics of The Age Of Self are translated into basque by Ruper Ordorika.

- NO LABEL - Digital Format

> Zoom

She Gave Him Oleander
2021

She Gave Him Oleander

- Dimming Of The Day
- Lassie Lie Near Me
- Together Apart
- Sea Song [R. Wyatt]
- Valley Of Souls
- Earl Grey
- The Lads In Their Hundreds
- State Of The Union

- Chris Martin - piano
- John Aué - bass
- Lauren Henderson - voice
- Derek Pascoe - saxophone

- WIZARD TONE RECORDS (WTR20211) CD

Nick Hudson

> Zoom

K69996ROMA:EP
2021

- The Ballad of K69996 Roma
- We Darken Horses
- You Eat With Your Eyes
- If I Get Killed It's 100% The Fault Of Alain Delon And His Godfather Francois Marcantoni
- Amber And The Ambergrines [H. Hopper/R. Wyatt]
- A Congregation Of One
- Asymmetric: A Forgery
- The Florist

Amber And The Ambergrines is a cover of Amber And The Amberines.

- NO LABEL - CD

> Zoom

Wyndow
2021

Wyndow

- Never Alone
- All Cameras Gone
- Take My Picture
- Free Will and Testament [M. Kramer/ R. Wyatt]
- Third Tea of the Day
- Two Strong Legs
- Pulling on a String
- Flattened by the Wind
- Woven in Thread
- When Winter Comes Shadowing In
- Tidal Range

- Laura J Martin - flute, vocals, clarinet, synth, piano, beats, lead vocals
- Lavinia Blackwall - lead vocals, keyboards, autoharp
- Marco Rea - guitar, backing vocals, bass guitar, bouzouki, mandolin, synth, drum
- Gillian Wood - cello, strings
- Mike Lindsay - percussion

- SUMMER CRITICS (SC001) LP

> Zoom

Salmoni
2021

Salmoni

- Discesa
- Supra
- Ancora
- Tu Sei Fuori
- Homo
- Maryan [R. Wyatt]

- Filippo Gillono - acoustic guitar, prepared piano, objects, field recording, vocals, tapes
- Zevi Bordovach - harmonium, prepared piano, objects, field recording, vocals

- ESC.REC. (ESC.REC 92) K7

> Zoom

The Age Of Self
2021

Ulgebräk

- The Age Of Self [R. Wyatt]

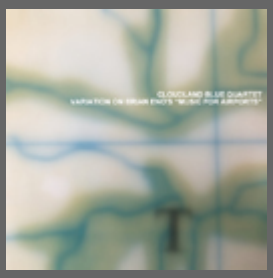
- NO LABEL - Digital Format - S

> Zoom

Cover Versions
2021



Squid

- America!
- Clapping Music
- Pigs... (In There) [R. Wyatt]
- Blue Crystal Fire

'Pigs' (In There) performed at End Of The Road Festival 2019 as part of The Line Of Best Fit's Piano Stage programme.

Limited edition of 1500 exclusive to Rough Trade shops.

- WARP RECORDS (WAP463) EP

> Zoom

Variation on Brian Eno's
'Music For Airports'
2021

Cloudland Blue Quartet

- Variation on Brian Eno's "Music For Airports" Pt 1 [B. Eno/ R.Wyatt/R. Davies]
- Variation on Brian Eno's "Music For Airports" Pt 2

'Based on "2/1" and "1/2" from "Music For Airports", composed by Brian Eno. Arrangement, chance and additional guitarscapes by David Reilly.

Source material comprises replica choir and piano loops, based on the pieces "2/1" and "1/2" by Brian Eno, with treated guitarscapes by David Reilly, "The Crucifixion (1515)" from "Disquietmusik", "Reservoir (1961) (Backwards) (16 RPM)" and "Smiling Landscape (1967) (Backwards) (16 RPM)" from "Disquietmusik III" by Cloudland Blue Quartet

Recorded at Crispycat Studio, Edinburgh, UK, 23, 24 September 2021. Guitars recorded at Crispycat Studio, Edinburgh, 8, 9 July 2017 and 10 November 2019.

- CRIPSYCAT RECORDINGS
  Digital Format

> Zoom

Remix
2021

Null Object

- DJ Ding - Deepest Regrets
- Orchestral Manouvers In The Dark - The Lights Are Going Out
- Clive Powell - Ca The Horse Me Marra
- Ankle Pants - Mammalian
- Sean & Dev - Splifflam
- Robert Wyatt - Stalingrad [P. Blackman]
- Ankle Pants - Moï'nk Wuï'n
- Sean & Dev - Splifflam
- Shiny Toy Guns - Speaking Japanese
- Neneh Cherry - Buffalo Stance
- Ankle Pants - Moï'nk Wuï'n (Not Everyone Has A Big Nose Remix)
- Simo Soo - Worse
- Lesley Wood - Electric Smoke
- Black Sorrows - Chained To The Wheel
- Prince - Controversy
- U2 - I Still Haven't Found What I'm Looking For

'- NO LABEL - Digital Format

> Zoom

Five
2022

Hofmann Family Blues Experience

- Tell Me Why
- Revolution Song
- Man Of Constant Sorrow
- Meaning Of Life
- Hope Song
- Worried Life Blues
- Get Away
- Roll On Down The Road
- How Long
- My My Hey Hey
- O' Caroline [D. Sinclair/R. Wyatt]
- Come on Into my Kitchen
- The Prophet

- Vincent Hofmann - lead acoustic 12 strings guitar, lead vocal
- David Hofmann - lead electric guitar, back vocals
- Etienne Callac - basse, back vocals
- Patrick Boileau - batterie

- NO LABEL -CD & 2xLP

> Zoom

Turn The Tide
2022

Ruben Block

- Turn The Tide
- Niets Is Voor Altijd (Live @ Gebouw T)
- There Isn't Time (Live @ De Roma)
- Sea Song (Live @ De Roma) [R. Wyatt]

- Ruben Block - vocals , guitar
- Teun Verbruggen - drums
- Geoffrey Burton - guitar
- Gilles Vandecaveye-Pinoy - keyboards

- PIAS - EP

> Zoom

Psychic Temple Plays
Music For Airports (Reedition)
2022

Psychic Temple

- Music For Airports 1/1 [B.Eno/R. Wyatt/ R. Davies]
- Music For Bus Stops

Reedition of the album released in 2016. Limited edition of 500 numbered copies.

- BIG EGO RECORDS (BIG021) LP

> Zoom

The Muffins

- Walking the Duck
- These Castle Children
- World Maps/Down From The Suntower/Impossible John/Military Road
- Under Dali's Wing
- Horsebones
- Dear Mona
- People In The Snow
- Out Of The Boot/Nan True's Hole [P. Miller]
- East Of Diamond/The Adventures Of Captain Boomerang
- Silence

- Dave Newhouse - keyboards, woodwinds, harmonica
- Tom Scott - saxes, clarinets, flutes, keyboards, programming, percussion
- Paul Sears - drums
- Billy Swann - bass, guitar

Tracks 1–9
recorded July 27, 2001 at The Knitting Factory, New York, NY by Carl Merson.

Baker's Dozen 10
2022

> Zoom

The Muffin 'Baker's Dozen
Box Set

- Writing Blind
- Combo

Track 11
recorded October 2, 2004 at Orion Studios, Baltimore, MD by Mike Potter.

Track 12 recorded in 2002 at Tom's mom's house, Madison, VA.

10th CD [2001-2004] of The Muffin 'Baker's Dozen Box Set (12xCD / 1xDVD / 1xBook).

- CUNEIFORM RECORDS (RUNE 509) CD

> Zoom

Inner Core
2022

Gaia Mattiuzzi

- Calyx [P. Miller]
- The Way of Memories
- About the End of Love
- From Dewy Dreams
- The Last Flower in my Hair
- Riding a Photon
- Winds of May (0517_05_re0417_03)

- Gaia Mattiuzzi - vocals
- Alessandro Lanzoni - piano
- Gabriele Evangelista - double bass
- Enrico Morello - drums
- Alfonso Santimone - electronics

- AUT RECORDS - CD

> Zoom

Démos
2022

Julien Retaillaud

- Tout oublié (peut-être enfin bientôt)
- Par les grèves
- Nouan
- Vers le soir
- Caroline
- Bonne époque
- Regarde-les
- Gharbzadegi [R. Wyatt]
- Ian
- Aujourd'hui
- Nick
- Rue Saint-Sébastien
- A la Tombe Issoire
- Le froid
- En suspens
- Delta du vide

- Julien Retaillaud - voix, claviers, guitare
- Théo Jarrier - batterie
- Olivier Roueff - saxophone

- NO LABEL - CD

> Zoom

Wyattando

- Alifib [R. Wyatt]
- Little Red Robin Hood Hit The Road [R. Wyatt]
- Left Of Man [R. Wyatt]
- Forest [A. Benge/R. Wyatt]
- Gloria Gloom [B. MacCormick/R. Wyatt]
- Sea Song [R. Wyatt]
- God Song [P. Miller/R. Wyatt]
- Maryan [R. Wyatt/P. Catherine]
- Beware [K. Mantler]
- Alliance [R. Wyatt]
- September The Ninth [A. Benge/

- Annie Whitehead - trombone, voce
- Heidi Heidelberg - voce, chitarra
- Mauricio Velasierra - flauto, effetti, cori
- Karen Mantler - organo, voce
- John Greaves - basso, voce
- Chris Cutler - batteria

Registrato presso l'Anfiteatro della Pace, Bari, il 26.8.2022.

Cet enregistrement circule sur internet

Wyattando
2022

R. Wyatt]
- Life Is Sheep [K. Mantler]
- The United States Of Amnesia [R. Wyatt]
- Little Red Riding Hood Hit The Road [R. Wyatt]
- Gharbzadegi [R. Wyatt]
- Team Spirit [B. MacCormick/ P. Manzanera/R. Wyatt]
- The Official Robert Wyatt Fun Song Club [K. Mantler]

(mp3) sans avoir fait l'objet d'une publication discographique.

Cet album est également présent dans la rubrique Bootlegs.

- NO LABEL - Digital Format

> Zoom

Brian Eno Performed By
Dedalus Ensemble
2023

Dedalus Ensemble

- Thursday Afternoon
- Discreet Music
- Music For Airports - Part One [B. Eno/ R.Wyatt/R. Davies]
- Music For Airports - Part Two
- Music For Airports - Part Three
- Music For Airports - Part Four

- Didier Aschour - guitare
- Amélie Berson - flûte
- Cyprien Busolini - alto
- Eric Chalan - contrebasse
- Denis Chouillet - piano
- Stéphane Garin - vibraphone
- Thierry Madiot - trombone
- Pierre-Stéphane Meugé - saxophone
- Christian Pruvost - trompette
- Silvia Tarozzi - violon
- Fabrice Villard - clarinette
- Deborah Walker - violoncelle

Recorded at The Abbaye De Sylvanes, in Aveyron, France, on November 2ns, 3rd, 4th and 5th, 2020,

- SUB ROSA (SR540) 2xLP
- SUB ROSA (SR540CD) 2xCD

> Zoom

Other Doors
2023

Soft Machine

- Careless Eyes
- Penny Hitch
- Other Doors
- Crocked Usage
- Joy Of A Toy [K. Ayers, M. Ratledge]
- A Flock Of Holes
- Whisper Back
- The Stars Apart
- Now! Is The Time
- Fell To Earth
- The Visitors At The Window
- Maybe Never
- Back In Season

Bonus Bandcamp
- Backwards [M. Ratledge]
- Out Of Interest
- Alice Clar
- Look You Know

+ Bonus Vinyl
- On This Day
- When Frost Melts
- Fell To Earth (Alternative Take)

- John Marshall - drums, percussion
- John Etheridge - guitars
- Fred T. Baker - fretless bass
- Theo Travis - tenor and soprano saxophones, flutes, Fender Rhodes, piano, electronics
- Roy Babbington - bass guitar (guest on tunes 2 and 9)

The Bandcamp digital version includes 4 additional titles and the vinyl version (2xLP) includes 3 titles in addition to the Bandcamp version.

- DYAD RECORDS (DY032) CD
- TONFLOAT (TF205) 2xLP

John Greaves, Annie Barbazza

- God Song [Ph. Miller/R. Wyatt]
- Bad Alchemy
- Proverbs
- Kew Rhone
- Swelling Valley
- The Song [J. Greaves]
- How Beautiful You Are
- Walking On Eggshells
- Dead Poets

- Annie Barbazza - vocals
- John Greaves - vocals, piano

Limited edition.

- DARK COMPANION (CD018) CD

> Zoom

Earthly Powers
2023

- The Price We Pay
- Summer on Ice
- The Green Fuse
- To Make You Feel My Love
- In Hell's Despite
- Avalanche
- Earthly Powers
- In Te
- Lotus Flower
- Time

> Zoom

Fünfzig
2023

Mezz Gacano 50th Birthday Party

- Elf Dance (Moondog cover)
- Azriel (John Zorn cover)
- Tema Principe (Tabù I)
- Fünfzig
- NONSIDORME
- Calix [P. Miller]
- Kompà Natiko
- Il Vigile Innamorato (15-18 cover)
- Sea Song [R. Wyatt]
- O' Caroline [Matching Mole cover]
- ...At Last I Am Free [Edwards/Rodgers]
- Pomoflower 50th
- Gargios 50th
- Strategia n.1 50th
- Proshanjie 50th
- Set Me Down 50th
- Buonagiornata a voialtri 50th
- Mongoloid (Devo cover)

Calyx is played by the" New MG's Combo" :

- Antonio Tralongo - viola
- Andrea Ardizzone - trumpet
- Marco Ardizzone - tenor sax
- Amedeo Mignano - piano, synths
- Mezz Gacano - guitar, voice
- Luca La Russa - bass
- Giulio Scavuzzo - drums

Sea Song, O'Caroline and ...At last I Am Free are played by "Memories" :

- Dario D'Alessandro - voice
- Davide Di Giovanni - piano
- Mezz Gacano - guitar, voice
- Rodan Di Maria - bass
- Daniele Di Giovanni - drums

Bien que crédité Chic, ...At Last I Am Free sonne plutôt comme une reprise de la reprise de Robert Wyatt.

- SASIME RECORDS - Digital Format

> Zoom

Live In Lyon
December 14th 1972
2023

Gong

Disc 1
- Gnome Intro
- Pot Head Pixies
- Zero The Hero & The Witch's Spell
- I Am Your Pussy
- Why Are We Sleeping? [M. Ratledge, K. Ayers, R. Wyatt]
- Radio Gnome Invisible
- I Feel So Lazy
- It's The Time Of Your Life
- Tropical Fish
- Dreaming It
- Flying Teapot – Improvisation

Disc 2
- More Teapot
- Lawrence The Alien
- Blues For Findlay
- Teapot Jam

- Daevid Allen -guitar, vocals
- Gilli Smyth - space whisper
- Didier Malherbe - saxophone, flute
- Francis Moze - bass
- Tim Blake - synthesizer, vocals
- Christian Tritsch - guitar
- Laurie Allen - drums
- Raschid Houari - drums

Recorded Live in Lyon, le théâtre du 8ème, December 14th, 1972.

- CULTURE FACTORY (783653) 2xCD
- CULTURE FACTORY (783564) 3xLP

Baptiste Trotignon

- Drive My Car (The Beatles)
- Message In A Bottle (The Police)
- Money (Pink Floyd)
- Here Comes The Sun – Norwegian Wood (The Beatles)

- Baptiste Trotignon - piano
- Matt Penman - bass
- Gregory Hutchinson - drums

- NAÏVE (BLV8147) CD

> Zoom

Brexit Music
2023

- Karma Police (Radiohead)
- Misty Moutain Hop – Four Sticks – Whole Lotta Love (Led Zeppelin)
- Almost Blue (Elvis Costello)
- Mother's Little Helper (The Rolling Stones)
- Interstellar Overdrive (Pink Floyd)
- Life On Mars? (David Bowie)
- Maryan [R. Wyatt]
- We Are the Champions (Queen)
- Fake Plastic Trees (Radiohead)

- NAÏVE (BLV8148) 2xLP

> Zoom

You Are Here
2023

Kevin Figes

- Thoughts to Geoff
- Dedicated To You, But You Weren't Listening [H. Hopper]
- Sweet F.A.
- Improvisation #1
- Cat food
- I wish there was a nowhere
- Improvisation #2
- Traumatic experience
- Improvisation #3
- Mra
- Dedicated to Mingus
- Improvisation #4
- Cider dance
- Echoes

- Kevin Figes - alto & soprano saxophone,
- Pete Judge - trumpet
- Raphael Clarkson - trombone
- Jim Blomfield - piano
- Riaan Vosloo - double bass
- Tony Orrell - drums, percussion

- JAZZ NOW (JN02SCD) CD

> Zoom

W-Ouvert
2023

Map Towan

- Sea Song [R. Wyatt]
- Au creux de tes bras (répétition)

- Agatha Collin - chant
- Philippe Laherse - guitare
- Mathieux Wanatabe - guitare

- NO LABEL - Digital Fotrmat

> Zoom

Eno Piano
2023

Bruce Brubaker

- Music For Airports, 1/1 [B. Eno/R. Davies/R. Wyatt]
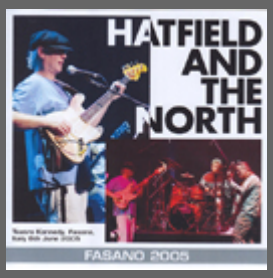
- Music For Airports, 2/1
- The Chill Air
- By This River
- Music For Airports, 2/2
- Emerald and Stone

- Bruce Brubaker - piano
- Florent Colautti - electro-magnetic bows

- INFINÉ (IF1088) CD

> Zoom



The Dew At Dawn
(Slightly) Slightly All The Time
2024

Soft Machine

- The Dew At Dawn
- (Slightly) Slightly All The Time [M. Ratledge]

- Theo Travis - soprano saxophone, flute
- John Etheridge - guitar
- Fred Thelonious Baker - bass
- Asaf Sirkis - drums

- MY ONLY DESIRE RECORDS (MOD007) EP

> Zoom

Fasano 2005
2024

Hatfield And The North

- Licks for the Ladies
- Take Your Pick (incl. The Yes-No Interlude)
- Share It
- Keep On Caring
- Seven Sisters
- Calyx [Ph. Miller] / Underdub
- Disassociation
- God Song [Ph. Miller/R. Wyatt]
- Lything and Gracing [Ph. Miller]
- What's Rattlin
- What In The World
- Psychic Warrior
- Richard Sinclair announcement
- The Book
- Halfway Between Heaven and Earth / Didn't Matter Anyway
- Encore: Nan True's Hole [P. Miller/R. Wyatt] / Felafel Shuffle

- Richard Sinclair - bass & vocals
- Phil Miller - guitar
- Alex Maguire - keyboards
- Pip Pyle - drums
  with:
- Theo Travis - tenor sax & flute
- Mark Fletcher - drums

Recorded on Wednesday June 8th, 2005 (cover is wrong) at the Fasano Jazz Festival, Atrio del Bali, Teatro Kennedy, Fasano, Italy

- SINCLAIRSONGS CLUB - Digital Format

> Zoom

Gharbzadegi
2024

Music From A Mailing List

- Gharbzadegi [R. Wyatt]

- Luciano Margorani - bass and guitars
- Stefano Zorzanello - flutes, electronics, radio
- Jacopo Costa - vibraphone
- Lello Colombo - tenor sax
- Luca Zarbano - drums

Cover photo from a painting by Alfreda Benge.

- LUCIANO MARGORANI - Digital Format - S

Delivery

> Zoom

BBC in Concert
2024

- Introduction by Pete Drummond
- The You-Know Song [Bossa Nochance / Big Jobs No.2]
- God Song [Ph. Miller/R. Wyatt]
- Drummond's Dilemma, or Betty [early version of For Robert]
- Richard talks about how Delivery became Hatfield ... and a bunch of other stuff

- Richard Sinclair - vocals
- Phil Miller - guitar
- Steve Miller - electric piano
- Roy Babbington - bass
- Lol Coxhill - soprano sax
- Pip Pyle - drums

Recorded Thursday 23 November 1972 at The Paris Theatre for BBC In Concert. Broadcast 9 December 1972.

- SINCLAIRSONGS CLUB - Digital Format

> Zoom

Free Will And Testament
2024

Kabusacki Band featuring Alessandro Bruno & Uma Kabusacki

- Free Will And Testament [R. Wyatt/Kramer]

- Alessandro Bruno - voz y guitarra eléctrica
- Uma kabusacki - voz
- Fernando Kabusacki - guitarra eléctrica
- Ahmed Isa Juan Ravioli - piano y bajo
- Matías Mango - teclados
- Lucas Herbin - batería

- LA COCINA DE BETI - Digital Format

> Zoom

Annie's Playlist 3
The Streaming Concerts
2024

Annie Barbazza

- Les Ruines Du Sommeil
- Jumbee
- By This River
- Frame By Frame
- Children Of The New World
- Phantoms
- June
- Time Has Told Me
- Heaven
- Sea Song [R. Wyatt]
- Volo Magico
- Nebulae
- Lotus Flower
- Anatomy Of Love
- Islands
- In Te
- Boîte À Tisane
- Ys

The recordings are taken from two shows in streaming held by Annie during the lockdown from the Elfo studio in Tavernago; others from a show always streamed due to lockdown that Eugenio Finardi held from the Teatro Manzoni in Monza, in which Annie participated and opened solo.

- DARK COMPANION (DCE06) CD

Richard Sinclair

- Piano Variations on What's Rattlin' / Psychic Warrior (Hatfield and the North)
- Over From Dover (RS - David Rees Williams - Theo Travis Trio)
- That Day (with Dave Sinclair)
- Good To Meet You / Raga of D Pieces (with Chizuko Ura)
- Corale di San Luca (with Alex Maguire's douBt)
- Long Lingers Autumn Time (with David Rees Williams)
- O Caroline (with Dave Sinclair & choir)

A collection of live collaborations and band performances by Richard in the 25 years since the turn of the millennium. These were chosen to shine some new colour on old standards, not including any of his already well-documented solo performances.

- SINCLAIRSONGS CLUB - Digital Format

> Zoom

Century 21
2024

[D. Sinclair/R. Wyatt]
- Latiny Tune (with Glass)
- What In The World (with PropheXy)
- Felafel Shuffle (RS Band)
- Nan True's Hole (with The Rayonhoofden)
[P. Miller]
- Keep On Caring (RS Quintet)

Michele Sperandio Quartet

- The Water Is Wide
- Island
- Formentera Lady
- Song to Siren
- Goccia
- Sea Song [R. Wyatt]
- Shipbuilding [C. Langer/D. MacManus]
- La casa in riva al mare
- Place to Be

- Michele Sperandio - batteria, percussioni, effetti
- Marta Giulioni - voce, effetti
- Simone Maggio - pianoforte, synt. Fender Rhodes
- Lorenzo Scipioni- contrabbasso, basso elettrico

- BARLY RECORDS (BD 1818) CD

> Zoom

The Sea Of Music
2024

Bruce Brubaker

- Music For Airports, 1/1 (Radio Mix)
[B. Eno/R. Davies/R. Wyatt]
- Music For Airports, 1/2 (Bows Version)
- Failing Light
- The Big Ship
- Music For Airports, 1/2

- Bruce Brubaker - piano
- Florent Colautti - electro-magnetic bows

- INFINÉ (IF3148) Digital Format

> Zoom

Eno Piano 2
2024

Marianne Dissard & Raphael Mann

- Ghost Town (overture)
- Love My Way
- Passion Of Lovers
- Smalltown Boy
- Ghost Town (melodica) - transition -
Shipbuilding (inst.)
- Souvenir Of Love
- Dread Lion
- Shipbuilding [E. Costello/C. Langer]
- Totally Wired
- Ghost Town (transition)
- Metal
- God Save The...

- Raphael Mann - vocals, organ, melodica, clavinet, kalimba, bass guitar, drums, percussion, metal

Raphael Mann's haunting take on the Clive Langer/Elvis Costello song 'Shipbuilding', originally recorded by Robert Wyatt in 1982, was a late addition to his soundtrack to Marianne Dissard's theatre production, Souvenir Of England.

- FRIZZ RECORDS - Digital Format

> Zoom

Souvenir Of England
music from the stage production
2024

Raphael Mann

> Zoom

Shipbuilding
2024

- Shipbuilding [E. Costello/C. Langer]

- Raphael Mann - vocals, organ, melodica, clavinet, kalimba, bass guitar, drums, percussion, metal

Taken from the album, 'Souvenir Of England: music from the stage production' by Marianne Dissard & Raphael Mann

- FRIZZ RECORDS - Digital Format

> Zoom

Villanova II
2024

Richard Sinclair - Taranterbury Bossa Nova

- Introduction
- Disassociation
- Keep On Caring
- O Caroline [D. Sinclair/R. Wyatt]
- Oh What A Lonely Lifetime / Nan True's Hole [P. Miller] / Felafel Shuffle
- Calyx [P. Miller] / Share It / Halfway Between Heaven and Earth
- Didn't Matter Anyway / What In The World
- Out of the Shadows
- In The Land of Grey and Pink
- Hello Hello (Caravan)

- Richard Sinclair - guitar, bass & vocals
- Angelo Losasso - congas (tracks 6-9)

Recorded Friday 18 July 2003 at Villanova Pulsano, Italy.

- SINCLAIRSONGS CLUB - Digital Format

> Zoom

New Information Order
2024

Aquaserge

- NIO (New Information Order) [R. Wyatt]
- Escalade

Lyrics in french by Audrey Ginestet.

Aquaserge got in touch with Robert Wyatt to present their cover version project, here's a loose transcript of their phone conversation
:
"— Allo Robert, what do you think of our adaptation of the lyrics for N.I.O?
— You've perfectly understood the spirit of the song which, for me, is even more relevant today than when I wrote it.
— The world is marvellous, isn't it?
— Well… there's an escalation in progress… Isn't this a mantra which is comforting as much as it's scaring?
*— indeed, le monde amer est feu … "

- CRAMNED DISCS -EP- Digital Format

Richard Sinclair Band

- Licks For The Ladies
- Share It
- Nan True's Hole [P. Miller] / Felafel Shuffle
- What In The World
- Keep On Caring
- Disassociation
- Golf Girl

- Richard Sinclair - guitar, bass, whistling & vocals
- Diber Benghi - keyboards
- Gabriele Martelli - guitar
- Alessandro Valle - flute
- Stefano Vaccari - drums

Recorded 17 March April 2012 at the SchioLife Festival of Contemporary Music, Teatro San Sebastiano, Valli del Pasubio, Italy

> Zoom

SchioLife
2024 (?)

- SINCLAIRSONGS CLUB - Digital Format

Church Chords

- Just As You Are [A. Benge/R. Wyatt]
- Free Will And Testament [R. Wyatt/ Kramer]

> Zoom

Otherly Love Presents 01:
Tribute to Robert Wyatt
2024

Just As You Are:
- Macie Stewart - voice
- Ricardo Dias Gomes - voice, piano, electronics, bass, drum programming
- Peter Evans - trumpet

Free Will And Testament:
- Macie Stewart - voice, violin
- Kenny Wollesen - vibraphone, drums
- Benjamin Lazar Davis - pump organ
- Steven Bernstein - trumpet

:
"There has been heavy rotation of Robert Wyatt's music these past couple of years. His life seems to reflect his music's commitment to justice and total exposure. To celebrate his birthday, I put together versions of both "Just As You Are" and "Free Will and Testament." The former was co-written with Alfie Benge, whose artwork is an essential presence and influence on the music."

- CHURCH CHORDS (OLR007) Digital Format

Hatfield And The North

- Sober Song (Licks For The Ladies)
- Take Your Pick / The Yes-No Interlude
- Share It
- Keep On Caring
- Seven Sisters
- Calyx [P. Miller] / Underdub
- God Song [P. Miller/R. Wyatt]
- Lything and Gracing [P. Miller]
- What's Rattlin'?
- What In The World
- Piano Variations on What's Rattlin' / Psychic Warrior
- Halfway Between Heaven and Earth / Didn't Matter Anyway
- Felafel Shuffle / band introduction
- Nan True's Hole [P. Miller/R. Wyatt]
- Disassociation

> Zoom

Le Triton
2024 (?)

- Richard Sinclair - bass & vocals
- Phil Miller - guitar
- Alex Maguire - piano & keyboards
- Pip Pyle - standing percussion
- Mark Fletcher - sitting drums

This was just the second concert after Pip's back surgery in April, so Mark Fletcher again assists Pip on drums making Hatfield - however briefly - a quintet, firing masterfully on all five cylinders.

Recorded Wednesday June 15th, 2005 at Tritonales Festival, Le Triton, Les Lilas, France

- SINCLAIRSONGS CLUB - Digital Format

Kevin Ayers

Disc 1
JOY OF A TOY
- Joy of a Toy Continued
- Town Feeling
- The Clarietta Rag
- Girl on a Swing
- Song for Insane Times
- Stop This Train (Again Doing It)
- Eleanor's Cake (Which Ate Her)
- The Lady Rachel
- Oleh Oleh Bandu Bandong
- All This Crazy Gift of Time
Bonus

> Zoom

Deluxe 9 CD - 1 Blu-Ray limited edition - Box-set of the complete recordings by Kevin Ayers from 1969-1973, with 140 tracks newly remastered from the original master tapes.

- ESOTERIC RECORDINGS (QECLEC102888)9xCD + 1 BLU-RAY

All This Crazy Gift Of Time
The Recordings 1969-1973
2024

- Religious Experience (feat. Syd Barrett)
- Soon Soon Soon
- Religious Experience (Take 103)
- Clarence in Wonderland (BBC Session 10.02.1970)
- Stop This Train (Again Doing It) (BBC Session 10.02.1970)
- Why Are We Sleeping? (feat. Soft Machine) (BBC Session 10.02.1970)
- You Say You Like My Hat (BBC Session 10.02.1970)
- Singing a Song in the Morning (single)

Disc 2
LIVE AT HYDE PARK JULY 1970
- Clarence in Wonderland (live)
- The Lady Rachel (live)
- Rheinhardt and Geraldine /Colores Para Delores (live)
- May I? (live)
- Hat Song (live)
- We Did it Again (live)
- Why Are We Sleeping? (live)

Bonus
- The Garden of Love (live Queen Elizabeth Hall 1970)

Disc 3
SHOOTING AT THE MOON
- May I?
- Rheinhardt and Geraldine /Colores Para Delores
- Lunatics Lament
- Pisser Dans un Violin
- The Oyster and the Flying Fish
- Underwater
- Clarence in Wonderland
- Red Green and You Blue
- Shooting at the Moon

Bonus
- Hat (recorded May 1970)
- Gemini Child (recorded June 1970)
- Butterfly Dance (A-side of single)
- Puis Je? (B-side of single)
- Jolie Madame (recorded November 1970)

Disc 4
BBC SESSIONS - MAY 1970-NOVEMBER 1971
- Love Is (John Peel Concert 17.05 1970) (previously unreleased)
- We Did It Again (John Peel Concert 17.05 1970) (previously unreleased)
- Gemini Child (BBC Session 20.05.1970)
- Lady Rachel (BBC Session 20.05.1970)
- Shooting at the Moon (BBC Session 20.05.1970)
- Derby Day (BBC Session 09.06.1970)
- The Interview (BBC Session 09.06.1970)
- We Did it Again / Murder in the Air (BBC Session 09.06.1970)
- Jolie Madame (with Bridget St. John) (In Concert 31.01.1971)
- The Spider and the Fly (with Bridget St.John) (In Concert 31.01.1971)
- The Oyster and the Flying Fish (with Bridget St. John) (In Concert 31.01.1971)
- Clarence in Wonderland (feat. Gong) (BBC Session 09.11.1971)

Disc 5
WHATEVERSHEBRINGSWESING
- There is Loving / Among Us / There is Loving
- Margaret
- Oh My
- Song from a Bottom of a Well
- Whatevershebringswesing
- Stranger in Blue Suede Shoes
- Champagne Cowboy Blues
- Lullaby

Bonus
- Watching the Sun Go Down (recorded May 1971)
- Whatevershebringswesing (first version) (recorded May 1971)
- Stars (B-side of single)
- All This Crazy Gift of Time (1972 remake)
- The Lady Rachel (1972 remake)
- Sad and Lonely Faces (with David Bedford)
- (Don’t Sing No More) Sad Songs
- Fake Mexican Tourist Blues (recorded September 1972)

Cet album est également présent dans la rubrique With Friends.

Disc 6
BBC SESSIONS - JANUARY-MAY 1972
- May I? (In Concert Jan 1972)
- There is Loving / Among Us / There is Loving (In Concert Jan 1972)
- Margaret (In Concert Jan 1972)
- Whatevershebringswesing (In Concert Jan 1972)
- Clarence in Wonderland (In Concert Jan 1972)
- Colores Para Delores (In Concert Jan 1972)
- Lady Rachel (In Concert Jan 1972)
- All This Crazy Gift of Time (In Concert Jan 1972)
- Why Are We Sleeping? (In Concert Jan 1972)
- The Oyster and the Flying Fish (BBC session 17.05.1972)
- Butterfly Dance (BBC session 17.05.1972)
- Whatevershebringswesing (BBC session 17.05.1972)
- Falling in Love Again (BBC session 17.05.1972)
- Queen Thing (BBC session 17.05.1972)

Disc 7
BBC SESSIONS - SEPTEMBER 1972-APRIL 1973
BANANA FOLLIES IN CONCERT - SEPTEMBER 1972
- Introduction (In Concert Sept. 1972)
- (Don't Sing No More) Sad Songs (In Concert Sept. 1972)
- Pretty Little Girl (In Concert Sept. 1972)
- Two Pigeons (In Concert Sept. 1972)
- Murder in the Air (In Concert Sept. 1972)
- 'Orrible Orange (In Concert Sept. 1972)
- Whatevershebringswesing (In Concert Sept. 1972)
- Take Me to Tahiti (In Concert Sept. 1972)
- Oh! Wot a Dream (In Concert Sept. 1972)
- Marlene (In Concert Sept. 1972)
- Ball Bearing Blues (In Concert Sept. 1972)
- Fake Mexican Tourist Blues (In Concert Sept. 1972)
- Interview (In Concert Sept. 1972)
- You Say You Like My Hat (In Concert Sept. 1972)
- Falling in Love Again (In Concert Sept. 1972)
- The End (In Concert Sept. 1972)
- Interview (BBC session 11.04.1973)
- Oh! Wot a Dream (BBC session 11.04.1973)
- Shouting in a Bucket Blues (BBC session 11.04.1973)

Disc 8
BANANAMOUR
- Don't Let it Get You Down
- Shouting in a Bucket Blues
- When Your Parents Go to Sleep
- Interview
- International Anthem
- Decadence
- Oh! Wot a Dream
- Hymn
- Beware of the Dog
Bonus
- Connie on a Rubber Band (B-side of single)
- Caribbean Moon (A-side of single)
- Take Me to Tahiti (B- side of single)
- Decadence (early mix) 14 We Did it Again (live Mile End 1972) (previously unreleased)
- Why Are We Sleeping? (live Mile End 1972) (previously unreleased)

Disc 9
AFTER THE SHOW
LIVE AT QUEEN ELISABETH HALL - MAY 1973
- Banana Introduction (live 1973)
- Stranger in Blue Suede Shoes (live 1973)
- Interview (live 1973)
- Whatevershebringswesing (live 1973)
- Oh! Wot a Dream (live 1973)
- Shouting in a Bucket Blues (live 1973)
- Caribbean Moon (live 1973)
- Don't Let it Get You Down (live 1973)
- We Did it Again (live 1973)

- Why Are We Sleeping? (live 1973)
- After the Show (live 1973)

Disc 10 - BLU-RAY
VIDEO VAULTS 1970-1973
- Clarence in Wonderland (Pop Deux ORTF France 31.03.1970)
- Why Are We Sleeping? (Pop Deux ORTF France 31.03.1970)
- Oh My (BBC Old Grey Whistle Test 04.04.1972)
- May I? (BBC Old Grey Whistle Test 04.04.1972)
- Why Are We Sleeping? (Pop Deux ORTF France 13.01.1973)
- Stranger in Blue Suede Shoes (Rockenstock ORTF France 30.01.1973)
- Why Are We Sleeping? (Rockenstock ORTF France 30.01.1973)
- Shouting in a Bucket Blues (BBC Old Grey Whistle Test 12.06.1973)
- Oh! Wot a Dream (BBC Old Grey Whistle Test 12.06.1973)
- Caribbean Moon (Promotional film 1973)
Bonus
- Oh My (take 2) (BBC Old Grey Whistle Test 04.04.1972)
- May I? (take 2) (BBC Old Grey Whistle Test 04.04.1972)
- Oh My (take 4) (BBC Old Grey Whistle Test 04.04.1972)

> Zoom

Musica Sparpagliata
2025

Orchestra SMS

- Sea Song [R. Wyatt]
- La Metro Eccetera
- Venus In Furs
- Water
- Some Guys
- Molecole
- Choci Loni
- Sysyphus Part. 1
- Sysyphus Part. 2
- Sysyphus Part. 3
- Sysyphus Part. 4
- Il Re del Mondo
- Mistero
- Nostalgia
- Memory of a Free Festival

- Stefano Giannotti - arrangements, conduction, guitar, percussion, harpsichord

- Eva Bartolucci - flutes
- Domenico Piegaia - clarinet, bass clarinet
- Tommaso Barattini - clarinet
- Riccardo Santabarbara - violin
- Giada Del Grande - voice
- Elisa Cheng - electric guitar, voice
- Jacopo Di Grazia - banjo, guitar, voice
- Gabriele Stefani, Nicolò Paganucci, Franco Cheng - guitars, voices
- Enrico Giuntini - piano, voice
- Francesca Pezzuti - keyboards, voice
- Sofia Paterni - harp
- Duccio Nieri - bass guitar, voice
- Edgar Gomez - drums, voice
- Matteo Lucchesi - percussion

The SMS Orchestra is a chamber orchestra project founded in 2012 by the artistic director Stefano Giannotti.

[...] " Despite the title and its genesis, a record was born that is homogeneous in quality and above all in the atmosphere created, played a lot on the rarefaction of the rhythms, embellished by careful and wise inserts of guitar and drums. Among all the songs that stand out are "Molecole" by Lavezzi/Mogol, sweet and introspective like the original, the beautiful and almost ambient "Nostalgia" from Sylvian's post-Japan debut album and the little-known psychedelic-flavored song "Memory of a free festival" by Bowie, introduced by a delightful keyboard that improves the original intro that was entrusted to a Rosedale electric organ for children. But the revisitations of the very famous "Venus in furs" by Lou Reed, from the famous "banana" album by The Velvet Underground, and the wavering "Sea Song" by Wyatt that maintains the hypnotic slowness of the original and the Canterbury flavor so dear to the artist, also intrigue. "

- MARACASH RECORDS (ALT065)
  CD

> Zoom

Loud & Clear
2025

Berlin Musicians in Solidarity with Palestine

- Palestine - Somewhere Over The Rainbow (Molly Nilsson)
- 2000 (Gorgette)
- Herr Prof. Dr. - Antideutsch Anthem (Glassberg)
- Shipbuilding - live Robert Wyatt cover) (Areamanners)
- A New Dawn (live from Berlin) Plattenbau
- YABA (Jamila & The Other Heroes)
- Leave It - demo) (Matching Outfits - solo)
- Ballad for an Ex-Teenage Revolutionary (Early Labyrinth)
- Abundance - live (Ruth Mac)
- Yellow Duck (Sean Nicholas Savage)
- Pieces of Peace (Sean Armstrong)
- The Woman That Fell From The Sky (Miss Noyd)
- Everything is a Chair (Ken Chic)
- El Silencio (Ultrabonus)
- Infinity Set (Discovery Zone)
- Grow Nearer Still (Alexandra Gruebler x Ham Hima)

Benefit Compilation for Palestine Music Expo (PMX).

"Proceeds will go to Palestine Music Expo, a non-profit organisation launched in Ramallah in 2016 with the aim of bringing Palestinian music to a wider international audience. Until 2022, they hosted festivals in Gaza and the West Bank, providing much-needed performance opportunities to local musicians."

- NO LABEL - Digital Format

> Zoom 1 2

Orchestra : Live
2025

Anaïd

CD
- Belladonna
- White Nature
- Farid
- Blue Moon
- Migration
- Imbahé
- Epilogue
- Vétue de Noir

DVD
- Belladonna
- White Nature
- So Long
- Blue Moon
- I Need You
- Sophia
- Migration
- Sweet Memories
- I'm Loving Grace
- Clémentine
- Vétue de Noir

- Emmanuelle Lionet - chant
- Jean-Max Delva - batterie, vibraphone, piano
- Alexis Delva - guitare
- Théo Ferrari - saxophone, batterie
- Enguerran Dufour - trompette, basse
- Sébastien Husson - basse
- Sophia Domancich - piano
- Ludovic Bougouin - cor, trompette
- Jean-Nicolas Richard - violoncelle
- Mélinda Bressan - flûte traversière
- Dominique Vincent - clarinette
- Stéphanie Cuq - alto
- Carole Frèrebeau - violon
- Gabrielle Martel - danse
- Arthur Bordage - danse

Captation audio et vidéo du concert unique donné au Gallia Théâtre de Saintes le 13 avril 2025 avec les artistes-enseignants du Conservatoire de Musique de Saintes.

- LES VOYAGES D'ANAID
  (JMEC2022/2/2/2) CD & DVD

Richard Sinclair Trio

- Introduction
- Sober Song (Licks for the Ladies)
- Barefoot
- What's Rattlin'
- Keep On Caring
- Out of the Shadows
- Disassociation
- Felafel Shuffle
- Over From Dover
- Long Lingers Autumn Time

- Richard Sinclair - bass & vocals
- David Rees-Williams - piano
- Theo Travis - sax & flute

Recorded off the soundboard Tuesday 3 June 2003 at Le Triton (France)

- SINCLAIRSONGS CLUB - Digital Format

> Zoom

Le Triton
2025

- Halfway Between Heaven and Earth / Didn't Matter Anyway
- Golf Girl
- Calyx (Dry Martini Version) [P. Miller]

> Zoom

Abracadabra In Tokyo
2025

Soft Works

- Seven Formerly
- First Trane
- Alphrazallan
- Baker's Treat
- Madam Vintage
- Has Riff
- Facelift [H. Hopper]

- Elton Dean - saxello, alto sax, Fender Rhodes
- Allan Holdworth - guitar
- Hugh Hopper - bass guitar
- John Marshall - drums

Dedicated to Elton (1945-2006), Allan (1946-2017), Hugh (1945-2009), John (1941-2023).

Recorded live at Ebisu Garden Hall, Tokyo, Japan, August 10, 2003.

- MOONJUNE RECORDS - Digital Format

> Zoom

Nan True's Hole
2026

Luciano Margorani

- Nan True's Hole [P. Miller/R. Wyatt]

- Roberto Bartolini - electric guitar
- Federico Zenoni - drums

Instrumental version.

- LUCIANO MARGORANI - Digital Format - S

Les années Before | Soft Machine | Matching Mole | Solo | With Friends | Samples | Compilations | V.A. | Bootlegs | Reprises

HOME

Une discographie de

Robert Wyatt

ARCHIVE 6
au 1er juin 2026

Interviews & articles - vol.1 (en anglais)

Interviews & articles

ABÉCÉDAIRE

- In English
- En français
- In Italiano
- Auf deutsch
- Norsk
- Cesky
- Po polsku
- In het Nederlands
- En español
- 日本語
- Em Português
- στα Ελληνικά
- Türkçe

My Wantlist

***

IN ENGLISH

On visiting a friend - thebluemoment.com - July 1, 2024

Robert Wyatt's son shares health update: 'He's being well looked after' - NME.com - 7th February 2024

An Austr-Alien In Paris - Shindig ! - May 2022

Robert Wyatt - interview with a reclusive legend - Witchdoctor - March 8, 2021

In Conversation : Robert Wyatt - Clash - October 14, 2020

Team Spirit - Mojo - September 2020

Deeply personal - Internationaltimes.it - September 19, 2020

'I'm so somewhere else now...' - Uncut - March 2020

'Always finding nice things in a tragic situation' - Robert Wyatt at 75 - Morning Star - January 28, 2020

Robert Wyatt and Alfie Benge - Luncheon - Autumn-Winter 2019-20

"He has a real life" - Mojo The collector's Series Paul Weller Modern Classics 1991-2019 - 2019

Robert Wyatt : The Matching Mole interview - Popgruppen - January 28, 2019

Soft Machine - Prog Rock Uncut The Archive Collection - 2019

"I'm not concerned with whining" - The best of NME 1970-1974 - August 2018

"It's a magical thing" - The best of NME 1970-1974 - August 2018

The World Spins - Shindig! - January 2018

All His Thoughts In Focus - Shindig! - December 2017

Shaping the '70s: Simon Draper and the Story of Virgin Records - Red Bull Music Academy - October 12, 2017

'Robert Wyatt and Nick Mason on 'I'm A Believer': "We made our own rules and did what we liked" - Uncut - 27th January 2017

A conversation with Robert Wyatt - Swench.net - August 07, 2016

Robert Wyatt Interview - Hi Fi + - March 31, 2016

The Wilde Flowers + Robert Wyatt on how The Wilde Flowers blossomed - Uncut - March 2016

Robert Wyatt - Record Collector - January 2016

"He wanted Things Done Right" - Uncut - September 2015

Ornette Coleman 1930–2015 by Robert Wyatt - Wire - June 2015 in Abécédaire

Dear Daevid - Prog - April 2015

The Sound Of The Underground Scene - Prog - April 2015

A Life Less Ordinary - Prog - April 2015

Robert Wyatt - Q - February 2015

Robert Wyatt: 'Everybody's got an equally good voice. It's just a matter of using it' - The Guardian - January 28, 2015

Robert Wyatt interviewed: "I'm not a born rebel…" - Uncut - January 28, 2015

Robert Wyatt at 70: happy birthday, Old Rottenhat! - The Guardian - January 27, 2015

Soft Touch - Q - December 2014

End of an Ear - Uncut - December 2014

Different Every Time: The Authorised Biography Of Robert Wyatt - Wire - November 2014 in Abécédaire

I'm a Believer - Jazzwise - November 2014

Robert Wyatt interviews - Pitchfork - November, 14 2014

My hero: Robert Wyatt by Jonathan Coe - The Guardian - October, 31 2014

Soundtrack of my life: Robert Wyatt - The Guardian - October, 26 2014

Playlist : Robert Wyatt - M PRS for music - September, 19 2014

Robert Wyatt : Taking a rare peek in the rear-view - Modern Drummer - June 2014

Robert Wyatt Reflects on the Making of '68 - Downbeat.com - March, 26 2014

The making-of ... I'm A Believer - Uncut - February 2014

The 67-year-old art-rock godhead on the music and stories of his life - Pitchfork - March, 26 2012

Robert Wyatt - Bomb - Spring 2011

Robert Wyatt - Artforum - February 2011

This is what happens - Shindig! - January-February 2011

The Ghosts Within Uncut 4 Stars - Uncut - November 2010

Robert Wyatt Interview - Uncut - November, 14 2010

Robert Wyatt - Spectral Voices - Jazzwise - November 2010

Haunted by ghosts - Haaretz - October, 15 2010

Robert Wyatt and "The Merry Dance of Shared Creativity" - A Necessary Angel - July 14, 2010

Captain Bob - The Word - September 2009

An Audience with Robert Wyatt - Uncut - March 2009

Robert Wyatt - Revelatory Revolutionary - Artrocker - January 2009

Robert Wyatt Interviewed: The Quietus Salutes An English Treasure - Thequietus.com - December 19th, 2008

Robert Wyatt - Art-Rock's Grumpy Comedian - Mojo - December 2008

The Inner Sleeve - Artwork selected this month by Robert Wyatt - Wire - November 2008

- Robert Wyatt - Clash Q&A - 28.11.2008
- Songs of experience - Plan B - November 2008
- 'Staying Open to Possibilities': An Interview with Hugh Hopper - Eartrip Magazine - September 2008
- Canterbury Scene Pioneers 1 : The Soft Machine - Audion - August 2008

"I'm a big fan of the Style Council" by Robert Wyatt - Mojo - June 2008

- Wyatt cities blues - Record Collector- January 2008
- Max Remembered by Robert Wyatt - Modern Drummer - December 2007
- The Rhythm interview Robert Wyatt - Rhythm - December 2007
- Robert Wyatt : Web Exclusive Interview - Modern Drummer Magazine - November, 1 2007
- Trebles all round - Mojo - November 2007
- Kevin Ayers and Robert Wyatt - The Guardian - October 24th, 2007
- Human nature - Jazzwise - October 2007
- Lost and found - Plan B - October 2007
- Saturday night and Sunday morning - Wire - October 2007
- 'Other' Music - Robert Wyatt gets subversive and operatic - The Village Voice - October 23, 2007

'I was trapped into being alive' - The Guardian - October 18, 2007

Robert Wyatt: Child-like charm of a pop survivor - The Telegraph - October 18, 2007

Where are the heirs to 'awkward buggers' like Robert Wyatt? - The Guardian - October 14, 2007

- The freewheelin' Robert Wyatt - Uncut - October 2007
- 'Sing Like You Speak' - The Word - September 2007

A Conversation With Robert Wyatt - Dave DiMartino's Blog - January 17, 2007

- Q&A: Robert Wyatt - Stop Smiling - July 12, 2006
- Wyatting (vb): when Jukeboxes go mad - The Guardian - July 10, 2006
- Robert Wyatt - Beard - Winter 2005
- Q & A : Robert Wyatt - Record Collector - Christmas 2005

Robert Wyatt : The Mojo interview - Mojo - November 2005

Repeat cycles - Wire - September 2005

Robert Wyatt presented by David Gilmour - Mojo - August 2005

Robert Wyatt & Alfreda Benge - Dream Magazine - Spring 2005

Do the Wyatt thing - Time Out Magazine - September 2004

Robert Wyatt talks to Spencer Leigh - BBC Radio Merseyside's On The Beat - November 22, 2003

Cloud Cuckooland - Straight No Chaser - Winter 2003

At last I'm old - The Village Voice - November 17, 2003

Special Brew - Mojo - October 2003

Triumph Of A Late Bloomer: Robert Wyatt - Daily Telegraph - 2 October 2003

Robert Wyatt: Cuckoo In The Nest - Independent - 12 September 2003

Robert Wyatt learns the value of cheap music from a Ray Charles ballad - Wire - September 2003

I've no idea what's next - Guardian Unlimited - September 22, 2003

Robert Wyatt: Cuckoo In The Nest - The Independant - 12 September 2003

The primer : Soft Machine - The Wire - June 2003

Rock Bottom by Robert Wyatt - Uncut - February 2003

Home entertainment - Robert Wyatt - The Guardian friday review - 17th January 2003

Robert Wyatt in his own words - Get Rhythm - August 2001

A-Shleep at the Wheel: Robert Wyatt - Ways of Hearing - 2001

The jazz singer - Mojo collections - 2001

The great Wyatt hope - The Observer - May 27, 2001

Epiphanies - Wire - April 2001

New Model Army - Soft Machine - Mojo - March 2001

Robert Wyatt and Annie Whitehead: Songs In The Key Of Louth - The Independent - 25 October 2000

Christmas (Lindsay Cooper on Robert Wyatt) - Tone Clusters - Mar/Apr 2000

Twist a St Tropez - Crohinga Well - 1999

The Mike Ratledge Interviews - Facelift - September 1999

My Favourite Ethnic Recording by Robert Wyatt - Resonance - 1999

The Artist Shop IRC Chat with Robert Wyatt on Sunday, March 21, 1999

8 out of 10 cats prefer Whiskers - Mojo - March 1999

Not just different dialects - Popwatch - Winter/Spring 1999

Going Back a Bit - An alternative History of Robert Wyatt - Discoveries - December 1998

An interview with the late Hugh Hopper - Panmodern.com - September 6, 1998

Robert Wyatt: Acting on Impulse - Modern Drummer - July 1998

Singer/instrumentalist (& ex-Soft Machine drummer) Robert Wyatt reveals the secret world of dreams with Shleep - U.S. Rocker Magazine - June'98

Who is Robert and Wyatt matters - Pulse ! - May 1998

Robert Wyatt & Soft Machine - Weird and Wonderful Stuff - Goldmine - April 10, 1998

Robert Wyatt Shleep - Facelift - March 1998

Red beard - New Times Los Angeles Online - January 22, 1998

Deep Shleep: Robert Wyatt Gets Personal - Boston Phoenix - 20 January 1998

Robert Wyatt - Uncut - December 1997

Robert Wyatt Inner Visions - Straight No Chaser - Winter 1997

Counting shleep - Jazzwise - October 1997

The Impressionist - Mojo - October 1997

Or do you wanna get serious? - The Guardian - October 10, 1997

The only way is up when you've hit rock bottom - Independent - September 30, 1997 NEW

If I were Blackpool rock, I'd have Marxist-Leninist right through the middle." - New Statesman - September 26, 1997

The Minimal Robert Wyatt : A Group by Himself - International Herald Tribune - September 11, 1997

Robert Wyatt - Local hero - The Wire - September 1997

Robert Wyatt Singer Drummer Paraplegic - Paralinks - 1997

- Soft Machine - Mojo - June 1997
- Mole on Hold, an interview with Bill MacCormick - Facelift - January 1997
- A space for - Facelift - January 1997
- Interview by Richie Unterberger on November 18, 1996

Very nearly heaven - The Observer - July 28, 1996

- Invisible jukebox - The Wire - December 1995
- An interview with Mike Ratledge - Facelift - June 1995
- The Wilde Flowers - Record Collector - February 1995
- Memories From the Purple Jumper - Why Are We Sleeping ? - February 1995
- Old Rottenhat's Journal - Autumn 1994 in Abécédaire
- Robert Wyatt speaks - Canterbury Nachrichten - August 1994
- Wrong Movements - A Robert Wyatt history - Facelift - August 1994
- "Hear this man do it, and take courage" (Bob Dylan album review by Robert Wyatt) - Mojo - December 1993
- Who, Wyatt, Where - The Amazing Pudding - June 1993

The Richard Sinclair Story 1965-1993 - Facelift - April 1993

- Old Rottenhat's Journal - Spring 1993
- Jimi & Soft Machine - Univibes - December 1992
- Tough Guys Don't Dance - Bill Nelson meets Robert Wyatt - originally appeared in the August, 1992 edition of Musician magazine (US)
- Robert Wyatt - Record Collector - June 1992
- Communist celluloïd - New Musical Express - January 18, 1992
- Robert Wyatt - Ptolemaic Terrascope - January 1992
- Hugh Hopper interview - Canterbury Nachrichten - Winter 1991
- Comrade softy - Q - October 1991
- The born-again politico - The Guardian - September 26, 1991
- Wheelie saying something - New Musical Express - September 21, 1991

- There's a Wyatt going on - The Wire - September 1991

Songs remain the same - The Independant - August 15, 1991

- Nothing can stop him - Option - July-August 1991

Robert Wyatt's Peel sessions - Facelift - June 1989

- Dedicated To You But You Weren't Listening, The Concise Soft Machine Handbook - Strange Things - June 1989

- Things you should know about Robert Wyatt - Creem - January 1987

Nothing can stop Robert - Rockbill - November 1986

- Robert Wyatt - Record Collector - April 1986

From hippy underground to the Communist Party - Morning Star - January 13, 1986

Robert Wyatt - Downbeat - April, 1986

- English as a foreign language - New Musical Express - December 14, 1985

- Wyatt & Dammers - Sounds - November 2, 1985

- Chewing on Chomsky - City Limits - November 1-7, 1985

- Rocking the Botha - New Musical Express - October 26, 1985

Sun City - Melody Maker - September 28, 1985

- Robert Wyatt: Mongrel Musics - New Musical Express - September 8, 1984

- Life's A Wyatt! - Sounds - September 8, 1984

To the Fidel few - Melody Maker - August 11, 1984

- Robert Wyatt - OP Independant Music Magazine - May-June 1984

- Nothing to kill or die for - New Musical Express - March 10, 1984

- The Wyatt life - The Face - July 1983

- Diving for pearls - Melody Maker - June 4, 1983

- When the boat comes in - New Musical Express - 4th June, 1983

- His Master's Voice - Strange Fruit - Freedom - 13th November 1982

- Portrait of the artist as a consumer - New Musical Express - June 12, 1982

- Robert Wyatt : Whistling in the Dark - New Sounds New Styles - June 1982

- East West - Collision - Feb./April 1982

Strange Fruit Stallin' - New Musical Express - March 20th, 1982

A Wyatt of his own - Hot Press - April 17th-May 1st 1981

Robert Wyatt looks Back - Comstock Lode - Winter 1981

Shape Some Action! - New Musical Express - 22nd August, 1981

Wyatt stories on the air - Melody Maker - April 4, 1981

Of dogs and underdogs - Melody Maker - January 24, 1981

Quiet Wyatt breaks his silence - New Musical Express - August 16, 1980

Up from rock bottom - Melody Maker - March 15, 1980

The wild spume of his hair broke over my bowsprit - New Musical Express - June 26, 1976

The Flowers That Grow On The Compost Heap: a cock-eyed optimist's diary - Liquorice - 1976

Mantler paints it black + Gorey stories - Melody Maker - April 17, 1976

The real Back to Africa movement starts here - Street Life - April 2, 1976

The Evolving Hymn: Illustrated by Her, Words by Robert Wyatt - Paintings by Alfreda Benge - Street Life - January 10-23, 1976

The Roman spring of Mr. Wyatt - New Musical Express - July 19, 1975

Robert Wyatt Devious tactics - Melody Maker - July 12, 1975

When in Rome... - Sounds - July 12, 1975

Robert Wyatt, Henry Cow - New Musical Express - July 7, 1975

Ruth, Richard And Robert - Melody Maker - June 14, 1975

The essence of team spirit - New Musical Express - June 7, 1975

Wyatt singles are out - Sounds - May 31, 1975

Mantler paints it black - Melody Maker - April 17, 1975

Lookin' Back - The Soft Machine Part 2 - New Musical Express - February 1, 1975

Lookin' Back - The Soft Machine Part 1 - New Musical Express - January 25, 1975

Soft Machine Man : Up from Rock Bottom - Rolling Stone - January 16, 1975

My Top Ten by Robert Wyatt - Let it rock - January 1975

I played Robert Wyatt at 78rpm and saw God - New Musical Express - October 26, 1974

- He ain't heavy... he just wants to be loved - Record & Popswop Mirror - October 19, 1974
- Wyatt: up from the Rock Bottom - Melody Maker - October 12, 1974
- The bizarre beatitudes of the B side, singles reviewed this week by Robert Wyatt - New Musical Express - October 5, 1974

British rock: are we facing disaster? - Melody Maker - September 21, 1974

- Oldfield joins Wyatt return - New Musical Express - August 24, 1974
- Join the professionals, form a rock band... - New Musical Express - July 27, 1974

Wyatt makes solo debut - Melody Maker - July 27, 1974

- Wyatt: back on top - Melody Maker - March 30, 1974
- Expressions of Robert - Sounds - March 23, 1974

Canterbury Tales - Melody Maker - December 8, 1973

- Wyatt fights back - Melody Maker - November 10, 1973
- Pink Floyd-Soft Machine: Rainbow Theatre, London - Melody Maker - November 10, 1973
- Wyatt, the innocent abroad - Sounds - November 10, 1973
- Floyd, Softs benefit gigs - Melody Maker - November 3, 1973
- Pink Floyd in Wyatt Charity at Rainbow - Record & Radio Mirror - November 3, 1973

Under the influence. This week : Robert Wyatt - New Musical Express - March 3, 1973

Matching Mole Cosmic music and a weird Fripp trip... - New Musical Express - September 30, 1972

- The mole in his hole - Cream - June 1972
- 'Matching Mole : the beginning of an other ear' - Time Out - June 16, 1972
- Mole: a spirit of togetherness - Sounds - April 29, 1972
- Mole in a hole - Melody Maker - April 29, 1972

Reluctant Robert - Sounds - December 11, 1971

Machine changes gear - Melody Maker - September 11, 1971

- Wyatt quits Softs - Melody Maker - September 4, 1971
- American experience - Melody Maker - August 14, 1971
- Dialogue on festivals (with Robert Wyatt and others) - Melody Maker

- July 3, 1971

- Player Of The Month - Beat Instrumental - May 1971

- The Sounds talk-in: Robert Wyatt - Sounds - April 17, 1971

- Soft Machine - Jazz & Pop - April 1971

Robert Wyatt-an out of work singer currently on drums with Soft Machine - New Musical Express - January 16, 1971

- A freaky spear carrier - Sounds - January 16, 1971

Wyatt-drums across the barriers - Record Mirror - January 16, 1971

- Inside the mind of a Machine - Melody Maker - January 2, 1971

- A fantasy come true, by Robert Wyatt - Sounds - November 28, 1970

- The Soft Machine blow it hot and cold in Holland - Melody Maker - October 31, 1970

- Soft Machine at The Proms - Jazz Journal - October 1970

- Why Sir Henry Moore turned in his grave... - Disc & Music Echo - September 5, 1970

- The Softs, the Proms and drummer Wyatt - Melody Maker - September 5, 1970

- Soft Machine man's switch - Melody Maker - July 18, 1970

- Soft Machine - Time Out - July 11th, 1970

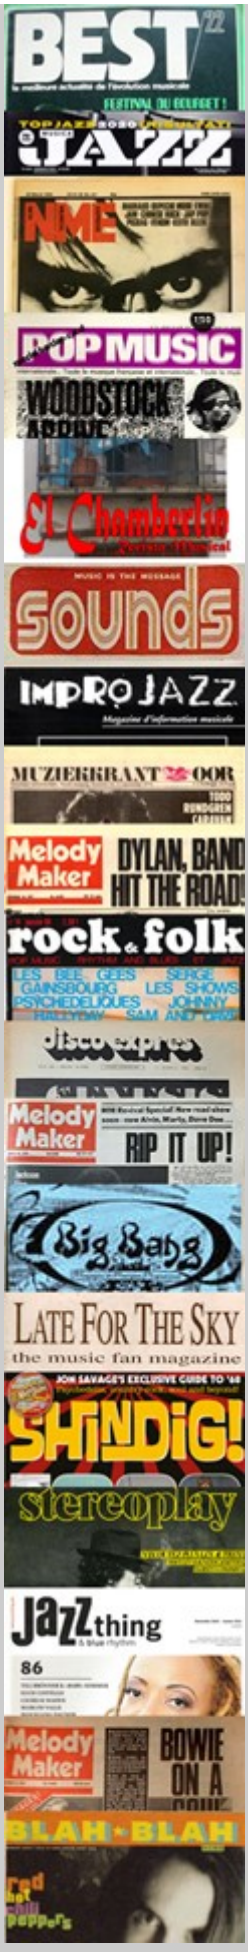
- Two pound notes must copulate - Bath Festival of Blues and Progressive Music '70 Program

- The Soft Machine : contemporary classical musicians - Friends - July 10th, 1970

- Where pop and classics meet... - Melody Maker - June 27, 1970

- Our week at Ronnie's made us improvise - Soft Machine's Mike Ratledge talks to Richard Williams - Melody Maker - June 6, 1970

- Soft Machine album an MM preview - Melody Maker - May 30, 1970



- A child of the pop scene - Melody Maker - February 14, 1970

- 'Dobson's voice' - Melody Maker - January 31, 1970

- Soft Machine - Beat Instrumental - December 1969

- When the Soft Machine broke down and cried - Disc and Music Echo - November 29, 1969

How to get that special sound - Melody Maker - November 15, 1969

- Unclassifiable Soft Machine - Melody Maker - November 8, 1969
- Soft Machine... looking for more complicated musical ideas... - Record Mirror - October 25, 1969
- Soft Machine's no ordinary trio - Melody Maker - July 5, 1969
- Soft Machine - Beat Instrumental - April 1969
- The Soft Machine - Mike Ratledge interview - Oz - February 1969
- Soft Machine - International Times - 29 November 1968
- New stars on the horizon - Hit Parader - November 1968
- The Soft Machine - Downbeat - July 11, 1968
- Soft Talk - International Times - June 14, 1968
- A Different Drummer - Downbeat - October 5, 1967

'Technicolour Dream stirs Underground' - Melody Maker - May 6, 1967

- 2500 Ball at IT-Launch - The International Times - October 31 - November 13, 1966

Music or Noise ? - Kent Observer and Canterbury Times - February 1, 1966

'Norman and Robert - know-how and blues beat' - Kentish Observer - October 26, 1965

Meet The Wilde Flowers - Kentish Observer - June 8, 1965

On visiting a friend - thebluemoment.com - July 1, 2024

thebluemoment.com

A blog about music by Richard Williams

> Zoom

On visiting a friend

The front of the home of Robert Wyatt and Alfie Benge, a pretty Georgian house on a quiet street close to the centre of the Lincolnshire market town of Louth, was bathed in sunshine as I pressed the bell one day last week. The door was opened by Dee, Robert's daughter in law, who took me inside to see him.

I've known Robert since the end of the '60s, when he was still with the Soft Machine. He and Alfie tell the story of how I officiated at their marriage one night at Ronnie Scott's in the early '70s, before his accident, using a twisted-up piece of silver paper from a cigarette packet as an improvised wedding ring. A couple of years later they were formally married at Sheen register office on the day of the release of the extraordinary Rock Bottom, his great 1974 album of songs expressing fathomless emotions.

Alfie was in London for attention to her eyes on the day I visited, to see Robert for the first time since before the pandemic. She'd warned me that, following his recovery from a near-fatal encounter with something nasty called Lewy Body Dementia, his memory was impaired, although "he's far less away with the fairies than he was." And his sight had improved after long-awaited double cataract surgery.

His eyes were bright as we started to talk, his conversation just about as animated and every bit as surreally funny as I remembered. A mention of that first informal wedding ceremony prompted him to talk about how he had been 10 years old when he first met Ronnie Scott, when they were both guests at Robert Graves's famous house in Mallorca (Robert's mother, Honor Wyatt, was a friend of the poet, and may have named her son after him). He loved Ronnie and his co-director Pete King — whose name provoked a chuckling mention of "The great smell of Brut!" — and the whole vibe of the club, where Alfie had worked behind the bar. He remembered young Henry, who looked after the cloakroom and saw the ageing Ben Webster safely home every night during the great and hard-drinking tenorist's residencies.

We talked about a little about how Robert had enjoyed contributing vocals to three tracks on Artlessly Falling, Mary Halvorson's second Code Girl album in 2020, about Duke Ellington, and about Gil Evans, another venerated figure whose "Las Vegas Tango" Robert turned into a mesmerisingly wayward two-part invention on his first solo album, End of an Ear, in 1970. And about the 1971 Berlin jazz festival, where Robert — having just left the Softs — was selected by the festival director, Jo Berendt, for the rhythm section accompanying a Violin Summit starring Don "Sugarcane" Harris, Jean-Luc Ponty, Michal Urbaniak and Nipso Brantner ("I don't think they liked my playing — I was either too rock or too jazz"). When I remarked that a mutual acquaintance perhaps "fell in love too easily", he picked up the cue, hummed the opening of "I Fall in Love Too Easily" and talked about how much he still enjoyed listening to Chet Baker singing such songs.

I stayed an hour and a half, longer than expected. On the long drive home I listened to Comicopera and …for the ghosts within, two late masterpieces. All in all it had been a joy to find that Robert is still entirely himself, one of the most original and loved figures of his generation, still living his "improvised life", not making music any more but continuing to incarnate his socialist principles and thereby justifying his friend Brian Eno's description of him (in Marcus O'Dair's excellent authorised biography) as living without "any glaring inconsistencies between what he claims to believe in and what he does as a person and as an artist."

Alfie wanted to leave me a copy of Side by Side, the book of poems, lyrics and drawings that she and Robert published in 2020. "It came out during the lockdown," she said, "so it didn't get much notice." I told her I'd already bought one. If it escaped your attention, this might be the time to rectify that omission — maybe as a way of celebrating their the fiftieth anniversary of their wedding (the official one), which falls on July 26: a milestone in a remarkable, wonderfully creative and happily enduring partnership.

* Side by Side by Robert Wyatt and Alfie Benge is published by Faber & Faber. Marcus O'Dair's Different Every Time: The Authorised Biography of Robert Wyatt was published by Serpent's Tail in 2014. The photograph of Robert and me was taken by his son, Sam Ellidge.

 Correction: the piece originally said that the anniversary is on July 24. It's the 26th. Alfie also points out that that they originally chose the date to coincide with the first day of Fidel Castro's first attempt to start the Cuban Revolution: the attack on the Moncada garrison in 1953.*

Read the post on thebluemoment.com

Ten years ago, Richard wrote this post on the same blog after reading that Robert Wyatt had decided to retire from music.

Pieces of Robert Wyatt - thebluemoment.com - October 30, 2014

Pieces of Robert Wyatt

When I read, in the new issue of Uncut magazine, that Robert Wyatt has decided to stop making music, I felt an immediate pang of dismay. So I rang him up to see if he really meant it. His reply was to tell me a little story about the novelist Jean Rhys, who, after a long period of inactivity, responded to her publisher's gentle suggestion that she might like to write another book by asking him if he'd enjoyed her last one. "Yes, of course," he answered. "Well, read it again," Rhys said.

We could all do a lot worse than work our way through Robert's albums, starting with 1970's End of an Ear, which includes his fabulous deconstruction of Gil Evans's "Las Vegas Tango", and concluding with 2010's magnificent '…for the ghosts within', on which he shares the credit with the saxophonist Gilad Atzmon and the violinist/arranger Ros Stephen. And we could cherish memories of live performances stretching, in my case, from the Soft Machine at Croydon's Fairfield Halls in 1970 to Robert's guest appearance — singing and whistling on "Rado de Nube" and playing cornet on "Song for Che" — with Charlie Haden's Liberation Music Orchestra as part of Ornette Coleman's Meltdown season at the Festival Hall in 2009.

We can also read Marcus O'Dair's Different Every Time, an "authorised biography" of Robert, published today. Diligently researched and sympathetically told, it gives us the best all-round view we're likely to get of the man who came to attention baring his torso behind a drum kit with Soft Machine everywhere from UFO to the Proms before the accident in 1973, at the age of 28, that cost him the use of his legs and propelled him into a different sort of existence, the one that produced Rock Bottom, "I'm a Believer", Ruth is Stranger than Richard, "Shipbuilding", "At Last I Am Free", Old Rottenhat, Dondestan, Shleep and Comicopera, as well as collaborations with the likes of Carla Bley, Brian Eno, the Raincoats, Scritti Politti, Hot Chip and many others, most of them listed in O'Dair's discography.

> Zoom

I say "most of them" because I've noticed an omission: a 1970 session with the Amazing Band, featuring the great cartoonist/illustrator Mal Dean on trumpet, Rab Spall on violin and accordion, Maia Spall on voice, Mick Brennan and Chris Francis on alto saxophones, Jim Mullen on bass and harmonica and Wyatt on drums and voice. Soon after they recorded it, Robert gave me an acetate of the proposed album, with a sleeve he'd made up himself, featuring the collage you see above. It wasn't until 1997 that the music — just under 40 minutes of free improvisation — finally saw the light of day, released under the title Roar on the FMR label.

I listened to the acetate again last night and it remains a lovely example of the kind of open-minded, non-idiomatic, anti-materialistic music that was in the air back then. And still is, if you look hard enough. I'm sorry, of course, that seemingly there won't be any more of it from Robert himself. But what he's given us is quite enough to be going on with.

* Different Every Time is published by Serpent's Tail (£20). Robert Wyatt will be talking to Marcus O'Dair at the Queen Elizabeth Hall on November 23, as part of the EFG London Jazz Festival.

Read the post on thebluemoment.com

Robert Wyatt's son shares health update: 'He's being well looked after' - NME.com - 7th February 2024

Robert Wyatt, 2004. CREDIT: Yui Mok/PA Images/Getty

NME

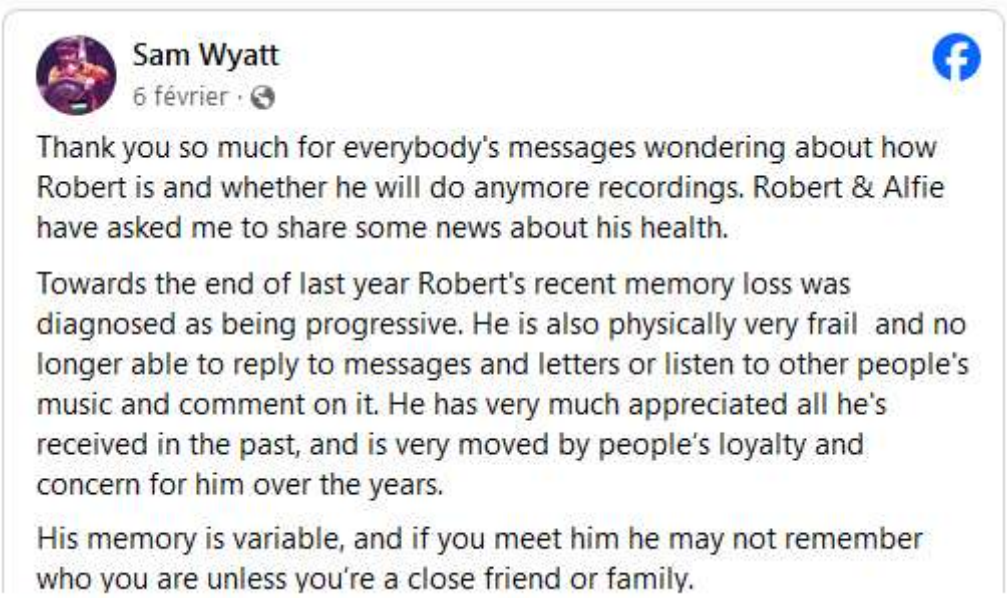
Robert Wyatt's son shares health update: "He's being well looked after"

The musician retired 10 years ago

By Tom Skinner

Robert Wyatt's son has shared an update regarding his father's health, saying he is "being well looked after".

The musician and composer, 78, was a founding member of Soft Machine and Matching Mole, serving as a drummer and vocalist in both bands. He later embarked on a 40-year solo career after becoming paraplegic following an accidental fall from a window in 1973.



Wyatt branched out to other instruments and became an important name during the formative years of British jazz fusion, psychedelia and progressive rock. His final studio album, 2007's 'Comicopera', features contributions from Brian Eno, Paul Weller and more.

He retired from music in 2014, telling Uncut: "I would say I've stopped, it's a better word than retired. Fifty years in the saddle, it's not nothing. It's completely unplanned, my life, and it's just reached this particular point.

"Other things have happened – I'm more taken up by politics, to be honest, than music at the moment. Music tags along behind it. There is a pride in [stopping], I don't want it to go off."

Posting on Facebook yesterday (February 6), Wyatt's son Sam thanked his followers for their recent "messages wondering about how Robert is and whether he will do any more recordings".

He went on to say that Robert and his wife Alfreda Benge had asked him "to share some news about his health", writing: "Towards the end of last year Robert's recent memory loss was diagnosed as being progressive.

"He is also physically very frail and no longer able to reply to messages and letters or listen to other people's music and comment on it. He has very much appreciated all he's received in the past, and is very moved by people's loyalty and concern for him over the years."

Sam explained that Robert's memory is currently "variable, and if you meet him he may not remember who you are unless you're a close friend or family".

"Thankfully, he's coping well, as he always has with physical adversity, and he's being well looked after," the message concluded. You can see the post above.

According to Setlist.FM, Robert Wyatt's final live performance took place as part of the 2014 EFG London Jazz Festival.

Next article

Back to the list

ABÉCÉDAIRE

Les années Before | Soft Machine | Matching Mole | Solo | With Friends | Samples | Compilations | V.A. | Bootlegs | Reprises

HOME

An Austr-Alien in Paris - Shindig! - Issue 127 - May 2022

AN AUSTR-ALIEN IN PARIS

DAEVID ALLEN's journey from guitarist in Soft Machine to big cheese in GONG took in art happenings, deportation, gynaecological instruments, teddy bears and a haunted castle along the way. This culminated in the Australian's triumphant return to the UK, leading his French band onstage at the second Glastonbury Festival.

IAN THOMPSON speaks to many of the cast of thousands involved in this leg of Allen's long, strange trip

Allen with Daniel Laloux
on hunting horn, early '70

Soft Machine arrived in France at the beginning of July 1967 with a booking to play all summer long at a "psychedelic discotheque" near St Tropez. When "all summer long" became "for three nights only", the band found themselves stranded in paradise with a truck full of gear and no money. However, a chance beach-side encounter with a Parisian antique dealer would quickly turn things around. Bob Benamou, who would soon become Gong's manager, tells Shindig! "They were playing on the beach at a beer festival; it was a horrible place and nobody was there. I said, 'You can't stay here,' so I installed the whole group in a villa in St Tropez. We became very close. Daevid Allen was so creative, so poetic, and so surrealistic: an amazing person."

Benamou was organising a series of happenings with underground artist Jean- Jacques Lebel. Lebel offered Soft Machine the opportunity to perform during a staging of Picasso's play Desire Caught By The Tail. The band leapt at the chance, immersing themselves in the Dadaist production for three weeks. Lebel told writer Aymeric Leroy, "Daevid said to me several times afterwards, and Kevin [Ayers] too, that this experience had really allowed them to 'bloom' as artists, to differentiate themselves from what was around them."

Soft Machine also scored an invitation to play at a party organised by the owner of Barclay Records, where they impressed a large crowd of movers-and-shakers with a 40-minute rendition of 'We Did It Again'. These performances created a buzz among the Parisian artistic elite who'd flocked to the Côte d'Azur that summer, which gave the band a real foothold in France. They would consolidate this position by returning to the country every month for the remainder of 1967.

Soft Machine in London just prior to Allen's enforced Paris sojourn.
L-R: Allen, Robert Wyatt, Mike Ratledge, Kevin Ayer

However, Soft Machine would make these trips as a three-piece. An expired visa saw Allen turned back at Dover, and even worse, banned from entering the UK for three years. Not wanting to return to Australia, he had little choice but to install himself in Paris. His time in Soft Machine was brutally cut short.

Once in Paris, Allen leapt into action, quickly gathering a collective of improvising musicians around himself. These included his long-term collaborator and partner Gilli Smyth, vocalist Ziska Baum and flautist Loren Standlee. For their first show they took the name Gong Full Moon Fantastickal, and soon landed a 10-week residency at underground hotspot La Vieille Grille. Their sets of freely improvised music caused a sensation in Paris's nascent underground scene. A long segment filmed for French TV in early ’68 (available on YouTube) is revelatory, showing the genesis of the idiosyncratic styles that Allen and Smyth would later perfect in Gong.

Allen has always given Syd Barrett credit for inspiring his “glissando” guitar technique. In Gong Dreaming 1 he writes: “I saw Syd playing a curious sort of slide guitar with the Floyd at Ally Pally in ’67 and he looked rather embarrassed by it. But out front it sounded spectacularly Wagnerian! I was impressed.” Armed with a box of antique gynaecological instruments and a delay unit, Allen learned to coax a galaxy of sound from his Telecaster guitar. While Allen was able to explain the origin of his style, he was at a loss when it came to describing Smyth’s “space whisper” vocals. “It didn’t come from any outside influence that I know of. She just immediately began to sing like that... Ziska Baum and Gilli were magical together. The two of them just created that style together out of thin air.”

Allen made many contacts at the Vieille Grille, the most important being with the young filmmaker Jérôme Laperrousaz. His support would prove incredibly important to Allen over the next few years. When Allen told him he was looking to put together a new group to play more traditionally structured songs, the filmmaker put him in touch with Marc Blanc and Patrick Fontaine. They were the rhythm section of a band whose guitarist had just been called up for national service, and as fate would have it were already ardent fans of Soft Machine.

The trio clicked immediately, playing their first gig together in January ’68. Blanc told Shindig!, “We had just enough time to rehearse two tracks [‘Why Are We Sleeping’ and ‘We Did It Again’]. We played three sets that were basically freakouts. The audience was stunned, enjoying it without realising it was Soft Machine’s guitarist playing.” Allen christened the new band Bananamoon. While it would only play a score of gigs and record a handful of demos that were unreleased until decades later, its impact on French music would be enormous. It spawned the bands Gong and Ame Son, and in bringing the first flush of real psychedelia to France, helped shape the country’s emerging musical underground.

Laperrousaz worked on the TV programme Bouton Rouge, and used his influence to organise a spot for Bananamoon. Arrangements were made to meet in the Latin Quarter to shoot a clip for their version of ‘Why Are We Sleeping?’. The chosen day turned out to be during the worst street fighting of the May ’68 protests. The band arrived in what looked like a war zone: hastily erected barricades, burned-out vehicles, and uprooted trees everywhere, and the air electric with tension. Bravely or foolishly, Laperrousaz leapt at the chance to use this as his backdrop. “We were filmed climbing the barricades with our instruments, against a background of total chaos”, recalls Fontaine. Filming continued for the entire day, with Laperrousaz truly pushing his luck at times. Allen relates in Gong Dreaming 1 that with cameras in tow, “I wandered down a block to find a menacing black battle-truck full of super tough paracommandos. From somewhere Jérôme miraculously conjured up a large paper bag full of toy teddy bears. So I danced up to the wagon, and bowed to the stonefaced paratroopers... ‘Les compliments de Winnie le Pooh...’ I cried solemnly and handed each of them a wee teddy bear. Stern jawlines cracked open with amazement and then delight. They’d all abruptly turned into little boys. I left behind a truckload of human laughter...”

The paras may have been left laughing, but once news of this filmed escapade reached the authorities, they were not amused. Laperrousaz was dismissed from his job, but worse potentially lay in store for Allen. Informed that he was on an arrest list of undesirable aliens, he and Smyth fled France. They headed for Deya on the island of Mallorca, with Blanc and Fontaine following soon after. Fontaine remembers these months spent together on their island refuge as an extraordinary time. Living in community, they grew closer both personally and musically.

In their absence Laperrousaz worked to gain the interest of several record labels, and in December ’68 Bananamoon clandestinely returned to Paris to record demo tapes, which ultimately failed to secure a signing. To evade the attention of the Paris police, the band relocated to a property owned by Bob Benamou in the tiny town of Montaulieu, near Avignon – a place that would also be significant in Gong’s story. There Allen began writing the songs that would form the core of his Magick Brother album.

Unfortunately, Marc Blanc was finding less inspiration in Allen’s new music. When Blanc’s former guitarist returned from the army in April ’69, it didn’t take long for him to float the idea of starting a new band. Two months later Blanc and Fontaine split amicably with Allen to form Ame Son.

From this point things moved very quickly. Within months both Ame Son and Daevid Allen had signed to BYG Records, recorded their debut albums, and shared the stage at the legendary Amougies Festival. Well before Bananamoon split, Allen had nurtured the vision of a different kind of band. Central to his plan was a flute and sax player he had encountered in Paris, and then, in a bizarre twist of fate, met again in Deya just weeks later. Didier Malherbe told Shindig!, "I went to spend the summer in Deya and Daevid was there! Summer of '68 was pretty amazing, one of the best times I've had in my life. We were seeing a lot of each other and playing music, and eventually we kind of decided to set up Gong… not immediately, it came little by little."

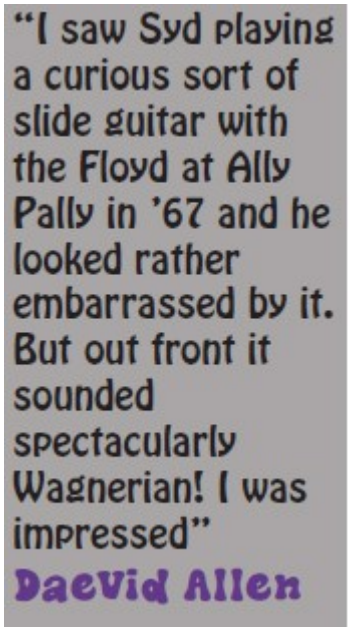
> Zoom



Bananamoon, Balearic Islands, 1968. L-R: Patrick Fontaine, Daevid Allen, Gilli Smyth, Marc Blanc.

With an album to record for BYG, Allen called on Malherbe, who would be the one constant musician at his side for the next five years. According to Bob Benamou, "After Daevid, Didier Malherbe was the most important person in Gong: a great, great musician." Malherbe makes the point that Magick Brother, recorded in September '69, isn't a Gong record, but a Daevid Allen solo album with guest musicians: himself, Gilli Smyth, and drummer Rachid Houari – who would all become members of Gong – along with a number of American jazzmen. The LP is a fine set of psychedelic pop songs leavened with flourishes of free-jazz. Most significant in foreshadowing the sound of Gong-tocome are the bookending tracks. 'Mystic Sister' points towards the glissando guitar/space whisper vocal passages of classic Gong, while 'Cos You Got Green Hair' is a more earthy taster of the floating stoned-ambient interludes of the Radio Gnome Invisible trilogy.

Immediately after completing the recording, the group was augmented with bassist Christian Tritsch, violinists Gerry Field and Dieter Gewissler, and the wildcard figure of Daniel Laloux on vocals, hunting horn, and marching drum. This was the line-up that played at The Amougies Festival in October '69.

Because of Allen's relationship with BYG, the band had a feature slot at the festival, headlining the Sunday night lineup of French bands. However, a series of delays and over-runs pushed their appearance into the wee hours of Monday morning. Gerry Field, who left the band immediately after the festival, informs Shindig! they were billed as The Daevid Allen Group, and he can't recall the name Gong being used during his tenure. Malherbe relates that it was 5am when they finally took the stage, and shock tactics were needed to energise the fading audience. "People were lying like corpses, half asleep. Daniel Laloux was playing a military drum from the Napoleonic period. So Daniel pounded on his drum, and recited a famous Victor Hugo poem about Napoleon and Waterloo,which was only a couple of kilometres from Amougies." The crowd responded enthusiastically. The remainder of the set featured songs from Magick Brother interspersed with a good deal of free improvisation. In his review for Rock & Folk Paul Alessandrini called it an "indisputable success", impressed by the band's perfect balance of "musical delirium" and "devastating humour".

Jérôme Laperrousaz had filmed the festival, but the sound recording of Allen and co's performance proved unusable. To recreate their music for the film, he invited Gong (as they were now known) to move into his family's chateau in Normandy. The band would stay there for the next five months, rehearsing and recording. The tapes from the "haunted chateau" reveal Gong's progression from a psychedelic pop sound to a much harder psych-rock featuring long passages of free improvisation. By the time Magick Brother was released in March '70, Gong's music had progressed far beyond it. In fact, Allen is surprisingly dismissive of the album in an early interview. "It doesn't represent the current group. It was a kind of masturbation, or rather the result of massive constipation. In short I relieved myself."

Only a month later Gong's new sound was revealed on the single 'Garçon Ou Fille' which exhibited a new-found aggression: an almost punk energy courtesy of Allen's fuzzed-out guitar and violently delirious vocal. This was just one side of the coin, though. The more esoteric, improvisational aspect of the band can be heard in a performance of 'Dreaming It' filmed at about the same time (and available on YouTube) which brings Malherbe's and Gewissler's contributions to the fore.

Surveying the band's evolution for Rock & Folk in '71, Paul Alessandrini was clearly biased towards this era's divergent but oddly cohesive melange of music. He described it as "sonic madness, a kind of violence, with so many original components asserted to excess, without any search for formal perfection". Alessandrini singled out Daniel Laloux, praising his contribution to Gong's "comedic and derisive theatrical side". This first era would be closed when Laloux and Gewissler both departed in May '70. Bob Benamou also highlighted Laloux's early contribution. "He didn't stay long, less than a year, but he was great, completely surrealistic, a fantastic artist." Benamou had been installed as Gong's manager a few months earlier and offered his property in Montaulieu as the band's home base for the summer. Before heading there Gong spent two months in Paris, rehearsing in the cellar below Benamou's antique shop.

> Zoom

The catalyst needed to accelerate Gong's development was discovered just before they left Paris, in the person of Francis Linon, aka Venux De Luxe. Linon admits to Shindig! that he blagged his way into the band. "Daevid told me they were on their way to the south and that he needed people to help with the equipment. Without any knowledge at all on what was required, I said, 'I'm the man you're looking for!' and my whole life suddenly changed."

A few days later, he was in Montaulieu with the rest of the band. "It was a typical small village at the top of a hill, where the road ends. Bob owned practically all of it. Behind the village, on a plateau in the wilderness, there was an ancient sheepfold. The electricity had just been connected. This is where we moved in with the equipment. It took us more than a week just to clean up the goat droppings covering the floor. After putting rugs all over, we put the gear in the middle and around the walls some mattresses separated by stretched fabric for a little privacy. A stove in a corner, the toilets outside, the bathroom in the river... The Gong community was born."

In the three months Gong spent there, Montaulieu became their spiritual home. It was there that communal living became an essential part of their lives, and it was there that Gong's music made a quantum leap; when Linon massaged their sound through his effects processors, a truly cosmic music emerged.

With winter approaching, life in the sheepfold was becoming harder and harder. After a year of nomadic wanderings, Gong needed a permanent base. They found it at Pavillon du Hay, an abandoned hunting lodge 120 km southeast of Paris and supposedly discovered by Gilli Smyth randomly placing her finger on a map. This would be their home until they quit France for the UK three years later.

The passage across '70 had been a formative year for Gong. They had honed their idiosyncratic music style and developed a strong community ethos. They entered '71 with only one seveninch to their name, but with the foundations laid for an incredible creative explosion. The first fruit was Daevid Allen's sophomore solo record. Keen to capitalise on Soft Machine's fame, BYG wanted Allen to record with some of his former bandmates. With the end of his three-year ban, Allen was finally free to travel to the UK and do just that. In February '71 he recorded the Banana Moon LP with Robert Wyatt guesting on vocals and drums. Other players on the session included violinist Gerry Field from the Amougies band and drummer Pip Pyle. During the sessions Allen met a young studio engineer who was experimenting with a new EMS synthesiser.

"I met Daevid at Marquee Studios," Tim Blake tells Shindig! "He was having trouble finishing Banana Moon, so I helped out with the mixing. Daevid invited me to go back with him to France the next day." Blake relocated to Pavillon du Hay, bringing his EMS synth with him. If all had gone according to plan, Camembert Electrique would have had a more electronic edge, but a change in drummers put a spanner in the works.

Rachid Houari's wife had never felt at ease in the Gong community, and he finally made the decision to leave the band in spring '71. Allen called in Pip Pyle from the Banana Moon sessions to take over. Unfortunately, he and Blake had history. "Pip and I knew each other, but I don't think we liked each other very much!" Pyle particularly hated Blake's synthesiser, claiming that it sounded "like a flock of deranged psychedelic chaffinches". He put his foot down, saying it was either him or Blake. Exit Tim Blake (at least for now).

Pyle's first few months in Gong were a baptism of fire. Continuing its creative streak, the band entered the Chateau d'Herouville studio – Elton John's "Honky Chateau" – in May '71 to record two albums in quick succession. First up was the soundtrack to Jerôme Laperrousaz's film Continental Circus. For Allen this was an important opportunity to pay Laperrousaz back for his immense support. In Gong Dreaming 2 he writes, "We went into the studio clean and clear. With Pip on drums and no rehearsal whatsoever, we completed the soundtrack/album in a series of perfect first takes... recorded, overdubbed and mixed in two days. Jérôme was delighted."

It was Francis Linon's first experience in a recording studio. "Everything was done almost live, I was operating the echo chambers like in a concert. Everything went very quickly and everyone was pleased with the result. What happiness!"

Gong were back in Herouville almost immediately, backing poet Dashiel Hedayat on his album Obsolete. Allen was a fan of Hedayat's poetry and was very happy to provide the music for his songs and poems. The album was completed in another whirlwind two-day session and has gone on to be recognised as a classic of the French underground scene. While these albums are overshadowed by Camembert Electrique, they are both essential parts of Gong's discography. The longer tracks gave the band the chance to stretch out, showcasing the improvisational power they had developed – most notably on 'Cielo Drive/17' from Obsolete and 'Blues For Findlay (instrumental)' from Continental Circus.

With two albums under their belt, Gong entered Herouville studios yet again in June '71. This was the main event: a 10-day session to record their debut album. According to Linon, they entered the studio primed to bring the past 12 months to a culmination. "The recording of Camembert Electrique was the concretisation of everything that happened before, the perfect way of life at Montaulieu, and Pavillon du Hay." In Gong Dreaming 2 Allen writes, "The band was right on its own cutting edge so the results were satisfying. Within 10 days we had completed the backing tracks and most instrumental overdubs."

La Planète Gong débarque en France

At their very first encounter in June 1968, Didier Malherbe recalls Daevid Allen spinning tales of the Planet Gong. "We spent quite a few hours that night with Daevid playing his guitar and telling all his funny stories about Pot Head Pixies and The Octave Doctors. He already had all that in his head."

Francis Linon has a similar fond memory of his own first meeting with Allen. "At the end of the night Daevid told me I was from Venus, and he welcomed me to The Planet Gong. He had the revelation of my name 'Venux De Luxe'."

Gong's music may have come of age at Montaulieu, but it was at Pavillon du Hay that the band's mythology was elaborated. Over the long winter nights, the tales became more and more intricate. "It was Daevid's story," Linon told Shindig!, "evolving night after night with whoever was present around the table after dinner. At the end of a big delirium, Daevid went back to his room to put it together."

In Gong Dreaming 2 Allen notes, "A great deal of discussion took place, and much outrageous story-telling. In this company wild flights of fancy were encouraged to the max... On one such night I spontaneously became Bert Camembert, Christian became The Submarine Captain and Gilli became The Good Witch Yoni. The precise design of Flying Teapots was discussed at length and in depth." Malherbe was happy to take part. "To be honest it was mainly Daevid's thing, but I played along with the game. Everyone had a nickname, so I chose my own: Bloomdido, from a tune by Charlie Parker. Then the Anglo-Saxon people translated Malherbe into Bad de Grasse, and Daevid added Count. So I became this character in the Gong mythology: Count Bloomdido Bad de Grasse."

The story of the Pot Head Pixies and The Planet Gong had only been briefly introduced on the Magick Brother and Camembert Electrique albums, most notably on the incredible graphical and lexical creations gracing their covers. The world would have to wait until Flying Teapot arrived in '73 to learn the whole tale.

There was a two-month gap before the mixing sessions took place in September '71. Allen recalled listening to the final playback. "I felt a deep sense of completion and I was very happy. For the moment, we had already won. I had the feeling that this album would be around for a long time." Between the two sessions Allen had led the band across the channel to play at the '71 Glastonbury Festival, and for him their first gig in England was also a homecoming. Francis Linon's account of the event is striking. "Glastonbury was like a vortex. No one could stop us doing it. We went through customs without any papers, just a smile on our faces and Gilli driving. We were real aliens, not speaking the same language, going home to this magic place." The band had just kicked off their afternoon set when disaster seemed to strike." As soon as we started, in a climax going up, the generator broke down." This setback actually ended up being a godsend.

Allen picks up the story in Gong Dreaming 2. "By the time we resumed it was that magic sunset time and we were now in the glow of stage lights. We had barely started when I looked up to see a pied piper line of a thousand or so dancing people snaking down the hill to gather at the front of the stage cavorting and rejoicing to the music of this odd French band called Gong... This was the kind of audience that Gong had been created for, and the gathering awareness of this was running both ways at once. This was our English spiritual family."

A certain Richard Branson was in the audience that day, and very soon he would be making overtures to the band. Gong would continue to live in France for some time, but their interplay with England would increase. The next album would be recorded at Virgin's Manor studio, and over time more English musicians would be added to the line-up. Gong would never lose its French influence, but after Glastonbury it would never be quite as strong. A new chapter had begun.

Ian would like to thank Bob Benamou, Marc Blanc, Patrick Fontaine, Didier Malherbe, Gerry Field, Francis Linon, Tim Blake, and Aymeric Leroy for their generous contributions.

Gong tour later this year and a box set is due soon.
For news visit planetgong.co.uk

Next article

Back to the list

ABÉCÉDAIRE

Les années Before | Soft Machine | Matching Mole | Solo | With Friends | Samples | Compilations | V.A. | Bootlegs | Reprises

Robert Wyatt - interview with a reclusive legend - Witchdoctor - March 8, 2021

witchdoctor
Shiny New Things

Robert Wyatt – interview with a reclusive legend

March 9, 2021 · Gary Steel · Albums·Interviews·Music·Recordings

Fresh from soaking up Robert Wyatt's newish book of lyrics and illustrations, GARY STEEL thought the time was right to disinter and publish - for the first time ever - his complete interview with the reclusive legend.

Note: This interview was conducted on August 23, 2007, around the then-imminent release of his Comicopera album. I was nervous as anything because Robert Wyatt means a lot to me. His music has been a constant in my life, from the early psychedelic explorations of Soft Machine to his idiosyncratic early '70s group Matching Mole and on to an ever-evolving solo career that touches me so personally and so deeply that it's hard to critique or explain. Recently, Wyatt - now 76 - announced his retirement from recording projects.

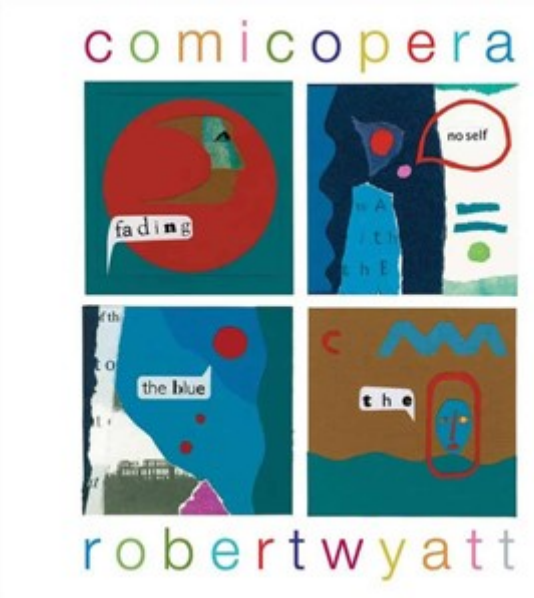
Robert Wyatt – Hello.

Gary Steel – Hi, I'm Gary from New Zealand.



Robert – Yeah, I've been trying to work out… it must be very early morning there or something.

Gary – It's not too bad, it's 9am.

Robert – Okay, I'm relieved to hear that, I couldn't work it out, because I know Japan is about eight hours different, I thought it must be something about that, maybe more I suppose, I don't know.

Gary – We're normally about a full day… you'd be about 9 o'clock at night?

Robert – We're 10 o'clock in the evening.

Gary – We're about 12 hours ahead of you.

Robert – It's quite convenient in a way but it's just upside-down. How very Antipodean.

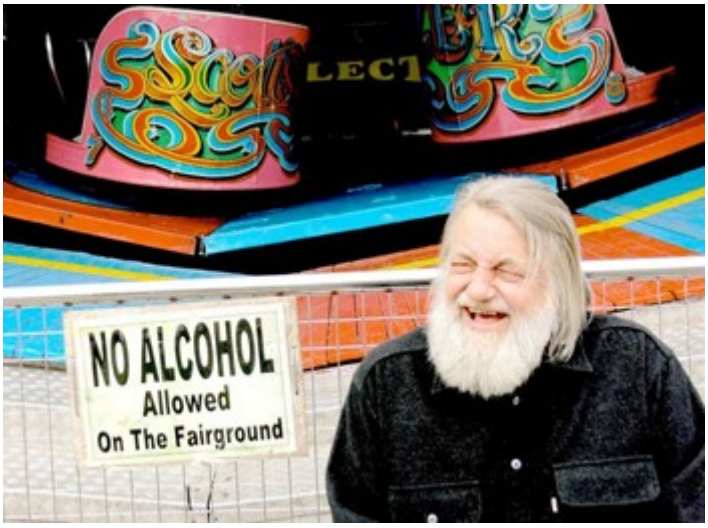
Gary – The complication is that we have daylight savings, and so it changes at certain times of the year.

Robert – Well we do that too. I thought Britain was the only place that did that. We change twice a year, we change the time as well.

Gary – Anyway I don't want to waste your time!

Robert – Yeah, it's just interesting.

Gary – The record company said they'd try to get me a copy of Comicopera to listen to, but it hasn't turned up, so you're going to have to help me a little bit.



Robert – You're going to have to write from a different dimension.

Gary – It's not, I take it, an actual opera.

Robert – No, what can I say. I made a record a few years ago called Cuckooland, and this record has got much the same core of people on it. So it's me with three or four musicians that are sort of imitation family. I say "imitation", because we don't actually go on the road and live together in a van like a real band. But in fact, they're so desperate… if we were a proper band they wouldn't have me in it anyway.

But they're mostly jazz musicians, and just for a day or two in the studio, I've found the people who really help me do my songs right. A bloke called Yaron Stavi on double bass, and Gilad Atzmon on saxophone, reeds and clarinet, and a woman called Annie Whitehead who plays trombone, and that's the basic add-ons to me, and I do a bit of percussion, a bit of singing, obviously, and a bit of trumpet, and we've got a few guests. I got a couple of rock and roll guitarists in, but they don't really play rock and roll on my record. I just like what they do and they're friends.

Gary – Phil Manzanera and Paul Weller?

Robert – Phil did a wheel-on part on one track on this one, and he did one on the last, and Paul did two songs on this one and two songs on the last one, and two songs on the one before I think. He always comes up with something nice, and I love him. It's basically a bunch of jazzers not playing jazz is what it is. It's a bit more "bandy" than the last one. On the last record, I had my songs and I do this, I take stuff in as if I was going to make a solo LP with keyboards and beef it up with guests, but in this case, I actually planned it more with these elementary musicians in mind, so it's more upfront with the trombones and stuff like that playing a bit more "in there" like a band sort of thing. And that's about it really, it's not an opera, you're dead right there (laughs).

Paul Weller with Robert Wyatt

Gary – You described them as jazz musicians as though you're not. I would have called you a jazz musician in many ways.

Robert – Well, that's my music but… it's what I'm based in. There are such a lot of squabbles that go on in the jazz community about what is jazz and who is jazz and what it isn't. I'd rather keep out of it and use jazz musicians.

A lot of how I work and what inspired me to be a musician… when I was a schoolboy, was jazz. I mean I listened to lots of other stuff, my Dad had lots of 20th Century classical music and I had pop records and I liked all these things, but the thing that completely grabbed me and took my heart was jazz, and it still does really, and the same records too. Old Duke Ellington things and Charles Mingus and Coltrane and, the usual suspects.

Annie Whitehead, who is the perfect trombonist but like a lot of us struggles to write tunes, said 'where do you get 'em from'? She's very nice about my tunes and says she likes playing my tunes. I said I've got a really, really good record collection. I don't consciously nick stuff, it's just that I get so many ideas. Like in one Sonny Rollins solo, there's about 18 really good ideas for a tune, if you slow those little bebop lines down. If you hear what they're doing, on any chord sequence, even if it's just a well-known song or a blues, they're showing you how to get so many different notes out of any given situation, and I'm just so grateful to them for that.

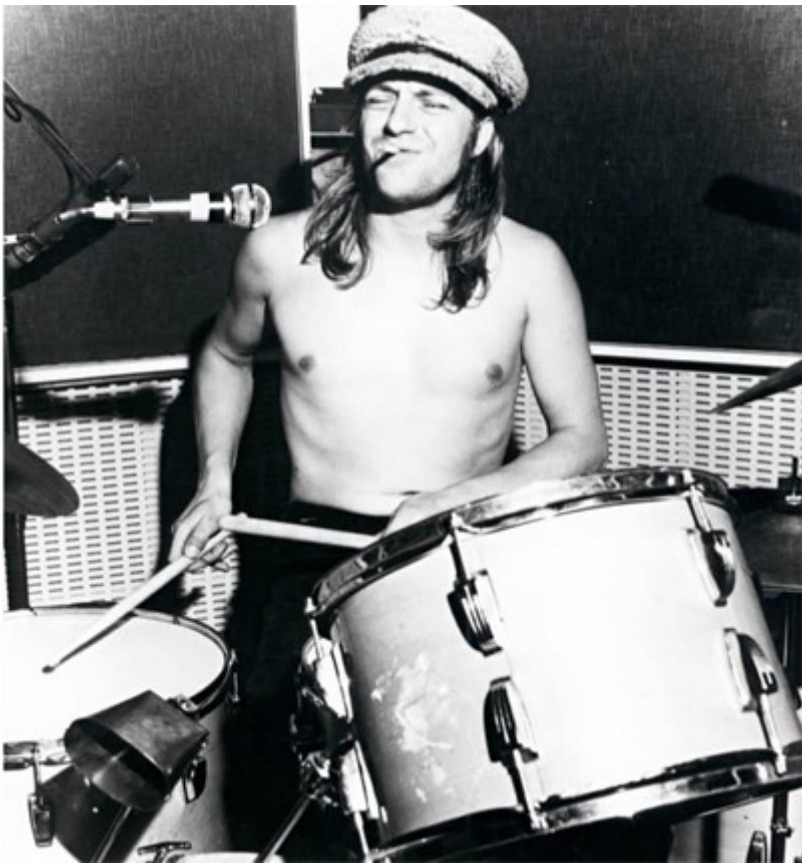
Robert Wyatt in the early '80s

So in that sense, jazz is my roots and my sustenance and everything like that. But on the other hand jazz musicians I know, they can all read music properly and have some kind of virtuosity on a musical instrument, and the only thing I ever really got to grips with was the drum kit, and of course, I stopped playing that 30 years ago.

Gary – There are many so-called jazz musicians out there who do interpretations of jazz standards and even their own tunes, but they sound just like carbon copies of what went before. In your case, every single record you do is just uniquely you to the naked ear. Do you feel that you're in your own way interpreting your influences? I guess what I'm trying to say is that when I listen to your records, they sound like a new vocabulary of music in a sense.

Robert – I'm glad you hear it like that. As far as I'm concerned, especially since I stopped drumming, I've had to invent a kind of music that I can do, that suits me, and has elements of other kinds. But I've had to invent a one-person genre in a way. It's not a deliberate attempt to be different, or anything like that, it's how I find I can work.

One of the things about being a singer is that any sort of American influence shows up very strongly in people's accents… (mimics 'I want to go' in both English and American accents). Everybody becomes a sort of ersatz American and I find that slightly embarrassing. English popular musicians were so drenched in black music that it's quite natural that singers all the way through rock and jazz history have sung in American accents. Joss Stone now is brilliant at it or English blues singers in the '60s or whatever. That was alright when I was doing other people's material, but when I write songs the words are so English really, and they just don't come out like that. The only thing that works for me is to sing more or less how I talk, it's nothing like anybody who invented jazz talks, really, it's not deliberate, I wasn't born in New Orleans.



Gary – Was there any great flash of inspiration when you came up with your vocal style? Of course nobody sounds like you do, or can turn a tune on its head the way you do. Is that just the way it came out when you started singing, or was there some thought process going on?

Robert – Just an instinctive flinching when things went wrong, and trying not to do that again, whatever it was. There's a sort of… really I don't think particularly like a singer so I don't particularly sort of listen to other singers for guidelines. Not now, when I was younger I used to listen to… well because I had a high voice, I couldn't sing like any of the blokes, so I used to try and sing like Dionne Warwick or something. That was a good place to start, because she hits good notes and had some fantastic material to sing and that nailed it; how to do good songs with a true but soulful voice.

But I just found that… some French person once said to me it's so sad, the English, you haven't got any great operas, because nobody can sing in English, and I knew what she meant. Latin languages are much more conducive to singing, somehow, the way words flow. And English, being Germanic, is more guttural. We've got strange little grunty noises that don't turn easily into long notes. There are so many things I tried to do that just don't feel right coming out of my mouth, they sound like I'm a bad actor. And getting rid of all that stuff, I just use what I've got left really, and my influences how to phrase tunes come as much from listening to Coltrane doing a ballad, or something like that, as much as any singer.

The main thing I'm trying to do is hit the right note for about the right length of time, and have the vowels and consonants in the correct order, and the rest of it is just being really careful what material I choose to sing in the first place, so that it's got a good chance of coming out the way that it's meant to be. And the rest is just professional technique… I've learnt quite a lot about breathing and all that, common sense stuff like if you're going to do a long note, take a deep breath first, get one in you know? [laughs]

Wyatt drumming for Soft Machine in the '60s

Gary – Have you ever thought of doing a whole album of covers? Like years ago you did 'At Last We Are Free' and of course, 'I'm A Believer'.

Robert – I guess you could put an album together of all my covers. I really like singing other people's songs because it makes you do things you might not think of yourself. All I'm really interested in in a record is making a kind of record that I would like to hear that doesn't already exist. Simple as that.

Preferably I'd probably always put on an old Charles Mingus record, but I'm not going to make one of those, I'm going to make a record that I want to listen to that ISN'T a Charles Mingus record. [laughs]. I sort of nailed that one.

I'm more interested in the whole record, the totality of the record. My singing, I take the responsibility for the voice and having to carry it, but I also like parcelling out the sound, because even a good singer can get monotonous.

So one of the things about the 'opera thing' was to split it up into three 20-minute chunks. It's over an hour long, and 20 minutes is a reasonable length of time to listen to a piece of music. The last one I split it up into two halves, and this one three thirds. And then I bunched the pieces together roughly in a sort of either atmosphere, or what the words might be about.

There's one song on it which is very difficult to sing because the words are written by my wife, a song called 'Out Of The Blue', just about what it might be like having your house bombed from an aeroplane. And you can't put after that a little comedy song about walking down the street… so you have to be careful where you put things. So the first third is more personal songs about love and lust and stuff, the second lot is walking around the streets seeing things that go on, and then it goes to this bombing thing, and then I go off into singing in foreign languages, speaking in tongues, and there's a bit more improvisation and kind of general alienation. The last third I get totally fed up with being English altogether actually, and pretend I'm not. You sing in a foreign language and it's a nice feeling, it's a bit like putting on ladies underwear or something… it doesn't make you foreign but it gives you that frisson of difference.

Gary – You've done a lot of collaborations over the years and going back to the '70s you seem to have friends who were in bands like Gong and Henry Cow and Hatfield & The North, and you worked with Mike Mantler and so forth. Of course, on your latest output all those musicians are long gone from your musical world. Is that just a kind of natural attrition from your musical fraternities or is it more a friendship thing.

Members of Soft Machine with Wyatt in the middle

Robert – I've forgotten what attrition means. Well, some of the early collaborations, they split into two sorts. One is where they ask me and the other is where I ask them. And so some of them I didn't seek out but they just arrived. For example I would never have dreamt of saying to Mike Mantler or Carla Bley 'can I sing some of your music?' It wouldn't have occurred to me. So it was an amazing thing that just cropped up, and I've stayed friends with that little family; and I've been working with Mike and Carla's daughter, and she's on the last record and she's the same age as Carla when I first worked with Carla. A cycle of events really. However, Mike lives in Denmark and Karen lives in New York and her mother lives in upstate New York so there's not much. Karen is on the record I've just done, I used Karen's voice which I'd recorded last time she was in England, put it onto keyboard, sampled it and used it a bit. I like doing that.

But I always look for musicians who are a combination of really good friends, people I really like, and some ways unique, and have a voice that's really distinct. Again, that's something I learnt from jazz, like Duke Ellington, where everyone in the band had a character, so you'd have a trumpet section but Harold Baker didn't play many solos but had a very distinctive lead sound, they all had character, and I thought that's what distinguished Duke Ellington from bands where you just had a sax section or a trumpet section.

And I always wanted everyone on my records to be an identifiable human being and not just a clever noise. I wanted that, and I wanted to be friends with them because I'm fed up with playing with people that were clever but we didn't get on that well. I'm not doing that anymore. But also musicians that are really good but… don't patronise me but are comfortable working with me because I can't really read music, and I know they will understand the chords without me having to say what they are. A lovely bunch. And Annie Whitehead can read anything. But also modern jazz musicians now are more broad-minded, because everyone's used to playing with people from different parts of the world, and you get all these jazz experiments with Africans and Indians and people with completely different traditions, and it's taken on board now much more than the old days.

I don't really feel very associated with a lot of the musicians I did happen to work with in the '60s and '70s. I dunno, although what I do isn't pop music, it's not deliberately extra clever or anything like that. I don't know how to put it. I try to be pretty clear and emotionally direct in what I'm doing. I don't really like being deliberately obscure or taking pride in the fact that people can't understand what I'm doing. I get embarrassed by that. It's hard enough to get across to people anyway without putting obstacles… I found the musicians I work with now more comfortable. It's changed a lot since I was a drummer as well. And I just really like these people, and I really like working at Phil Manzanera's studio, and I like his engineer Jamie. And I've also got some guests on this one. I like getting a few, because I don't do live gigs or anything.

I don't live in London or near London anymore, I live in a small country town which is very nice, but I do miss cosmopolitan things, so on the first track I think it is, I've got a young woman of I think Chinese origin, who plays clarinet and sings like a theremin, and there's a Brazilian singer called Monica Vasconcelos, who sings on the second one, and a bloke called Orphy Robinson who plays vibes and steel pans on another… he's of Jamaican ancestry. It just keeps the pot boiling for me, you know? It shifts the colours around a bit, but it still ends up just another Robert Wyatt record really.
Robert Wyatt interview
Wyatt out and about

Gary – Well it's quite a good work rate, only three years since the last one.

Robert – Yeah, I think it's because everything about the setup of the last one seemed good, so I wanted to carry on really. I thought this is really great, with Annie and Yaron on bass. He's lovely, we get on really well, and Jamie the engineer is terrific, and we've watched him grow from novice adolescence to… in a few years he's become a married man and a dad. In fact, his father's a member of parliament, he's got much grander, and he's just engineered the Razorlight record, so I have to pay him more now. But he's not flash with it, he's really nice and funny.

Phil Manzanera's studio in Kilburn is really friendly. Phil's a great friend, and Brian Eno lives just a bicycle ride around the corner, and it's like 'I'm really enjoying this, I want to do it again'. In the past when I've tried to make records I've thought 'if I have an idea, how am I going to do it, who am I going to do it with'. This time I knew, so it encouraged the process of getting all my bits and pieces together. That, and finding myself in my sixties and thinking 'blimey, I'd better get some more stuff done before I'm completely ga-ga'.

Gary – Well you've outlasted Top Of The Pops.

Robert – I've outlived Top Of The Pops, you're right! Blimey, what do you know.

Gary – So what do you make of youngsters who would debate the merits of a Soft Machine live reissue?

Robert – Well, I'm very grateful. In fact, there's a French magazine called Improjazz which, as the title suggests, starts off with the Ornette Coleman area, and Sun Ra and stuff. But they also deal with a lot of the music I was involved in when I was a kit drummer, and they do indeed go through that stuff. I don't think about it much, but I have been shown a couple of videos people have dug up of when I was beardless and drumming. And it's so long ago it's like someone else, but I find it quite poignant really, and I'm grateful that people hold onto some of that. All the acrimony that went on in the band at the time, young men too much testosterone stuff, that's all just evaporated and I can appreciate what we were trying to do. Wincing at the mistakes, but realising it wasn't a complete waste of time.

I mean I'm still listening to Duke Ellington for god sake, you don't only have to listen to the stuff of your time. I find it difficult to listen to, but some of it is much better than I realised at the time, and does in fact involve a musician of New Zealand origin, which is Dave MacRae. He ended up with us in Matching Mole. There's a Matching Mole On The Radio put out by Hux records, and Dave's such a knockout on it on electric piano. He was married to a woman called Joy, a session singer, who's also a New Zealander. I think they now both work in Australia, but I miss Dave, I'd certainly work with Dave if he were available. He was one of the first jazz musicians I knew who was a cracking technician, but so confident that he didn't mind at all playing with people like me. He actually did quite a bit of session work with people who knew less about music than I did. But he was always very nice and wasn't at all snobbish about his skill, he would just use it where it was appropriate.

People go away and move around. Some of the people I used to work with I have no idea where they are really.

Wyatt in the '70s

Gary – Are you familiar with this saying 'Wyatting'?

Robert – Yeah, it means clearing a room quickly by putting on an intolerable record, and I was chosen.

Gary – I don't know if it meant terrible, just weird I think.

Robert – I'm very sad and I feel very sorry for myself.

Gary – I thought you'd see it as a great honour.

Robert – I don't because I'm not like that. I would never put on a record if I thought somebody in the room didn't like it, and I never even send people my CDs and say 'this is my CD'… I'd be too embarrassed. I wouldn't impose what I do on anybody, because I know it's not everybody's taste, and so the idea that other people would impose my music on people who didn't like it I find a bit… I would never do 'Wyatting', put it that way.

Gary – I was thinking that the first time you hear something that's out of the envelope, your reaction tends to be in the negative. Anything that's good you tend to go 'I don't know if I like this', and then you play it again.

Robert – Yeah, well I've done that, that's true. When I first hear what used to be called modern jazz, bebop, in the '50s when I was still at school, they were playing so fast I just couldn't think why they were playing so fast, I couldn't tell the difference between one note and another, it just sounded like they were beating a bottle, I didn't see the point of what they were doing at all. It took me quite a lot of work to actually hear the underlying chord sequence that they were playing variations on, by listening out for what the piano and bass were doing, and I realised that it was in fact a chord sequence based on some popular song, and I'd sing along to it, and I'd realise the amazing skill and ingenuity of what they were doing. It baffled me at first, it was just like people shouting at you in a foreign language. But I stuck with it because it seemed to have such an authority to it. These people really know what they're doing, but I can't work out what it is. But I was just intrigued. My Dad had brought me up listening to Stravinsky and everybody, I don't need 'easy', but I just didn't know what they were doing. So I can see that maybe some of the stuff we've been involved in might have been a bit like that.

Gary – A lot of your older records seem to be out of print at the moment.

Robert – [I hope] Domino will take over the back catalogue and put them out, because there's a heap of a few thousand records there, and we certainly don't want them scrapped just because they haven't got the right record label now. So, they're a bit dubious about it, but we're hoping they will do that, but apart from that, they will be doing the back catalogue.

The Ryko thing… Ryko sort of got asset-stripped by some vast anonymous conglomerate and lost their bearings. They were surprised that we left and very pissed off, but my wife is my manager and she's very canny, and she had a clause in the contract that said we can't be used as collateral in takeover stuff in record companies. We want to choose the record company we're with and know who they are, and Domino turned up and they're great, I like them very much.

Gary – Yes well, it's interesting that in little old New Zealand Domino is being distributed by EMI, so you're back with the same company that distributes Virgin.

Robert – There's no escaping monopoly capitalist society as old lefties like me already knew. There you go. It still means I know who I'm talking to, and it's not some anonymous Texan who hasn't got a clue what I do. I'm too old for that crap.
Robert Wyatt

Gary – Robert, I could talk with you for hours but I should let you go.

Robert – I hope you think it's alright [the record]. It's not that surprising, it's what I usually do, my wife wrote half the words as usual, and then a few songs by other people… with an old Cuban folk song, and the rest is the usual stuff really with a bit more instruments in it. You don't have to hear it now, do you? [laughs].

Gary Steel

Selected Lyrics by Robert Wyatt & Alfie Benge – Side By Side is out now. Get it from Schrödinger's Books.

>> The interview on Witchdoctor

Previous article

Next article

Back to the list

ABÉCÉDAIRE

Les années Before | Soft Machine | Matching Mole | Solo | With Friends | Samples | Compilations | V.A. | Bootlegs | Reprises

HOME

"I'm so somewhere else now..." - Uncut N° 274 - March 2020

"I'm so somewhere else now..."

Many happy returns, ROBERT WYATT! As he celebrates his 75th birthday, a national treasure invites Uncut round for a chat. Over carrot cake, Tom Pinnock hears tales of the Soft Machine, Pink Floyd and Wyatt's own wide ranging musical appetites. But will he ever make new music again? "Occasionally I hit the piano and go, 'Ah, that would be good, I must remember that!'..."

Photo by JEREMY GRAYSON

THE tea is made, the carrot cake is ready to be sliced and Robert Wyatt has just slid his electric wheelchair under the edge of the dining table when he realises he's forgotten the cake knife. Uncut offers to fetch it from the kitchen.

"No, it's all right," Wyatt says, reversing his chair. "I can get it without standing up, mate."

He returns with a huge knife - "It's a bit Agatha Christie" - and proceeds to slice the cake. "It's great, I can sit anywhere in town," he adds, detailing one of the advantages of being wheelchair-bound, "while everyone else has to sit on a bench. It's a bit toytown round here, like one of those imaginary places in train sets, but that's no bad thing."

The town in question is Louth in the Lincolnshire Wolds, where Wyatt and his wife Alfreda Benge have lived for over 30 years. Their house, situated right in the hilly centre, is deceptively large, its ground floor stretching back through room after room. The space facing the street is Wyatt's music room, complete with a baby grand piano and woven Tunisian wall hangings, while other areas are decorated with prints and paintings by the likes of Oblique Strategies co-creator Peter Schmidt. While Wyatt might have retired from making his own records after 2oo7's Comicopera, music still plays a huge part in his life and Benge's: indeed, when Uncut arrives, Who Is In Love?, by Iranian singer Shahram Nazeri, is blasting through the large dining room stereo.

"A friend of mine just came back from the Iranian film festival," Wyatt explains, adjusting his yellow-and-pink glasses. "Apart from being irritated that she couldn't wear her designer clothes there, she brought back some records for me. What I really like is Iranian singing, it's just beautiful, so I've been playing this."

On January 28, Robert Wyatt turns 75. It's a milestone he didn't expect to reach. To discover how retirement is treating one of our musical national treasures, Uncut has travelled to Lincolnshire for an afternoon with the singer, songwriter and musician; during our time in Louth, Wyatt regales us with tales of Soft Machine and The Wilde Flowers, of Daevid Allen, Kevin Ayers, Nick Mason and Brian Eno, of hanging out with Robert Graves in Majorca, and of his own shape-shifting musical passions. He explains how he and his wife's health problems are inevitably changing their lives, but also why putting together a forthcoming book of their lyrics for Faber has revitalised them.

"It's a great thing that's happened in terms of tidying up who we are, me and Alfie. They gave us a couple of months to sort it out, with Alfie's stuff too - we're doing it together. Alfie keeps diaries which is lucky, but we had to remember the situations in which certain records were made, which was a good exercise for elderly, forgetful people. The timing was fantastic - just as we were finishing the book, Alfie started to get seriously ill to the point where we couldn't have carried on doing it. She's being taken care of, having operations and scans, and she will be for months. We'll see how that goes."

Wyatt's son Sam is sleeping upstairs. He's a nurse at a nearby hospital, and often stops in at their house to rest after night shifts. It's been more than helpful, considering their health issues, to have him there, and Wyatt seems to take huge pleasure in spending time with him.

"I was very lucky": At the piano soon after the release of Rock Bottom, september 1974

"By the time he was 19 and he'd delivered his first baby, I thought, 'He's already done something much more important than I will ever do in my life.' I wasn't there for him as a dad, but he doesn't seem to be resentful at all. It's great having him here because, well, he's a nurse, but he's also very kind and very clever. You can't look anywhere in the house without seeing something he fixed.

"One of the things that changes as you get older is the past," Wyatt adds, pondering life as he approaches his 75th birthday, free of alcohol or cigarettes but as lucid, frank, modest and wryly funny as ever. "It's like you're born in a village at the bottom of a valley and it's all you know. Then your life is spent climbing up this mountain and you're looking back down, and you see your village is just one of many villages. Then you see there's a whole landscape and you see the horizon - you can still see your little village, you know where it is, but you're seeing it from this strange height. It just looks so different. That was one of the weirdest things about putting these lyrics together for the book. 'Did I really write that?'"

Cutting another slice of cake, Wyatt gestures to Uncut's recording gear. "Are you sure you're getting this? John Walters came up and recorded me for the BBC once, and none of it came out. I don't mind, I can just do it again. But the alarming thing is I always seem to say something quite different to the previous time."

UNCUT: It sounds like you never imagined yourself getting to 75.

WYATT: Absolutely not, no. As far as I'm concerned, every surge of activity in my life was a sprint, which is a particular kind of energy. But then I'd get to the end of the sprint and fuck me, there's another one! If only I'd have known that, in retrospect, it was a fucking marathon! Nobody told me - if they had I'd have taken care of myself better and paced myself, instead of living in a panic all the time.

In 2014, you told Uncut that you'd retired from music. Your last few albums were so well received, I guess it was the perfect run to go out on?

One reason I stopped was that my dad had died long before my age, so I didn't know how to behave older than that. But I did find that [2007's] Comicopera was exactly how I wanted it to be, and it was partly thanks to this great engineer Jamie Johnson; I also got Alfie to do half the [lyric] writing. There were also the people I got to play in my imaginary band, like Annie Whitehead, Phil Manzanera, Paul Weller and Yaron Stavi. The trouble with proper groups is I can't follow and I can't lead, so I'm a bit stuck really.

Obviously, there's some great Soft Machine and Matching Mole stuff, but it does seem like you flourished, creatively, almost immediately after you had your accident and could no longer play drums in a group.

It's tough being in a band. All that diplomacy, and testosterone-fuelled young men. I actually really liked doing a few records entirely on my own, like [1991's] Dondestan. Somebody once said to me, "It's amazing you could do all that on your own." And I said, "You're amazed?! I'm fucking stunned! How the fuck did I do that?" I always just tried to make a good record, by any means I could; but I got to the point where I was trying to do something different, then I'd listen to it and think, 'Oh, it's another fuckin' Robert Wyatt record, isn't it? How can I break out of this cage?'

Many people would be quite happy to hear you in that particular cage.

Well, I just stopped in the end.

Do you miss it?

It's hard to say. I'm so somewhere else now, because me and the missus have our life now and it's just not built around making records any more. I'd rather sit around chatting with Alfie, really. If I'm thinking about happy memories, I wouldn't remember this gig or that gig - but what I do remember is getting into Alfie's little car, getting the wheelchair in the back, going off down the road and stopping at those little caravans where you can get a fried egg sandwich, and just sitting there for a bit in the layby. Alfie nips out and gets a sandwich and a cup of tea, we'll open the windows, have a fag. They're moments of utter happiness that I remember, and I feel quite tearful about it now, because it will never happen again.

They're the most important things in life, tough, aren't they, love and companionship?

Getting older, the saddest thing I've had to give up is going down to London - I was invited to George Galloway's book launch, and I couldn't go. I think they thought it was because I didn't want to go, but I would absolutely have loved to. He's a brilliant man. Of course, not everybody thinks so - but I do. Then Nick Mason asked me if I could do an encore with A Saucerful Of Secrets singing "I'm A Believer", and I thought, 'That is a wonderful idea!" But I had to say no. I felt quite tearful about that too, because I would have loved to be with him again on a big occasion.

Wyatt in his music room in Louth, February 16, 2014

Couldn't they at least have sent a car up to take you London, though?

They offered all that, but I just can't. Being quite so disabled as I have become really does sometimes mean "disabled". It's nice that people don't think that, though, that I don't come across first and foremost as a cripple! [laughs] When we first met Ian Dury, his band were quite misshapen, the drummer was on a crutch, so Alfie jokingly said, "You could have Robert in your group." And Ian said, "Got enough fuckin' cripples in the band already!" He had a point. It would have been a fuckin' business carting us lot about. Alfie's imminently 80, and she needs physical comfort and peace - and I just don't do things without Alfie. You might think, 'What's the point of living older?' Well, one thing having lived this long is that we have this bunch of stuff we've done - if you look downwards from one end [of my years] to the other, it seems like a lot of stuff, more than I realised. So putting this book of lyrics together has been a good feeling, and a good mental exercise. I'm glad we've lived long enough to do it, frankly.

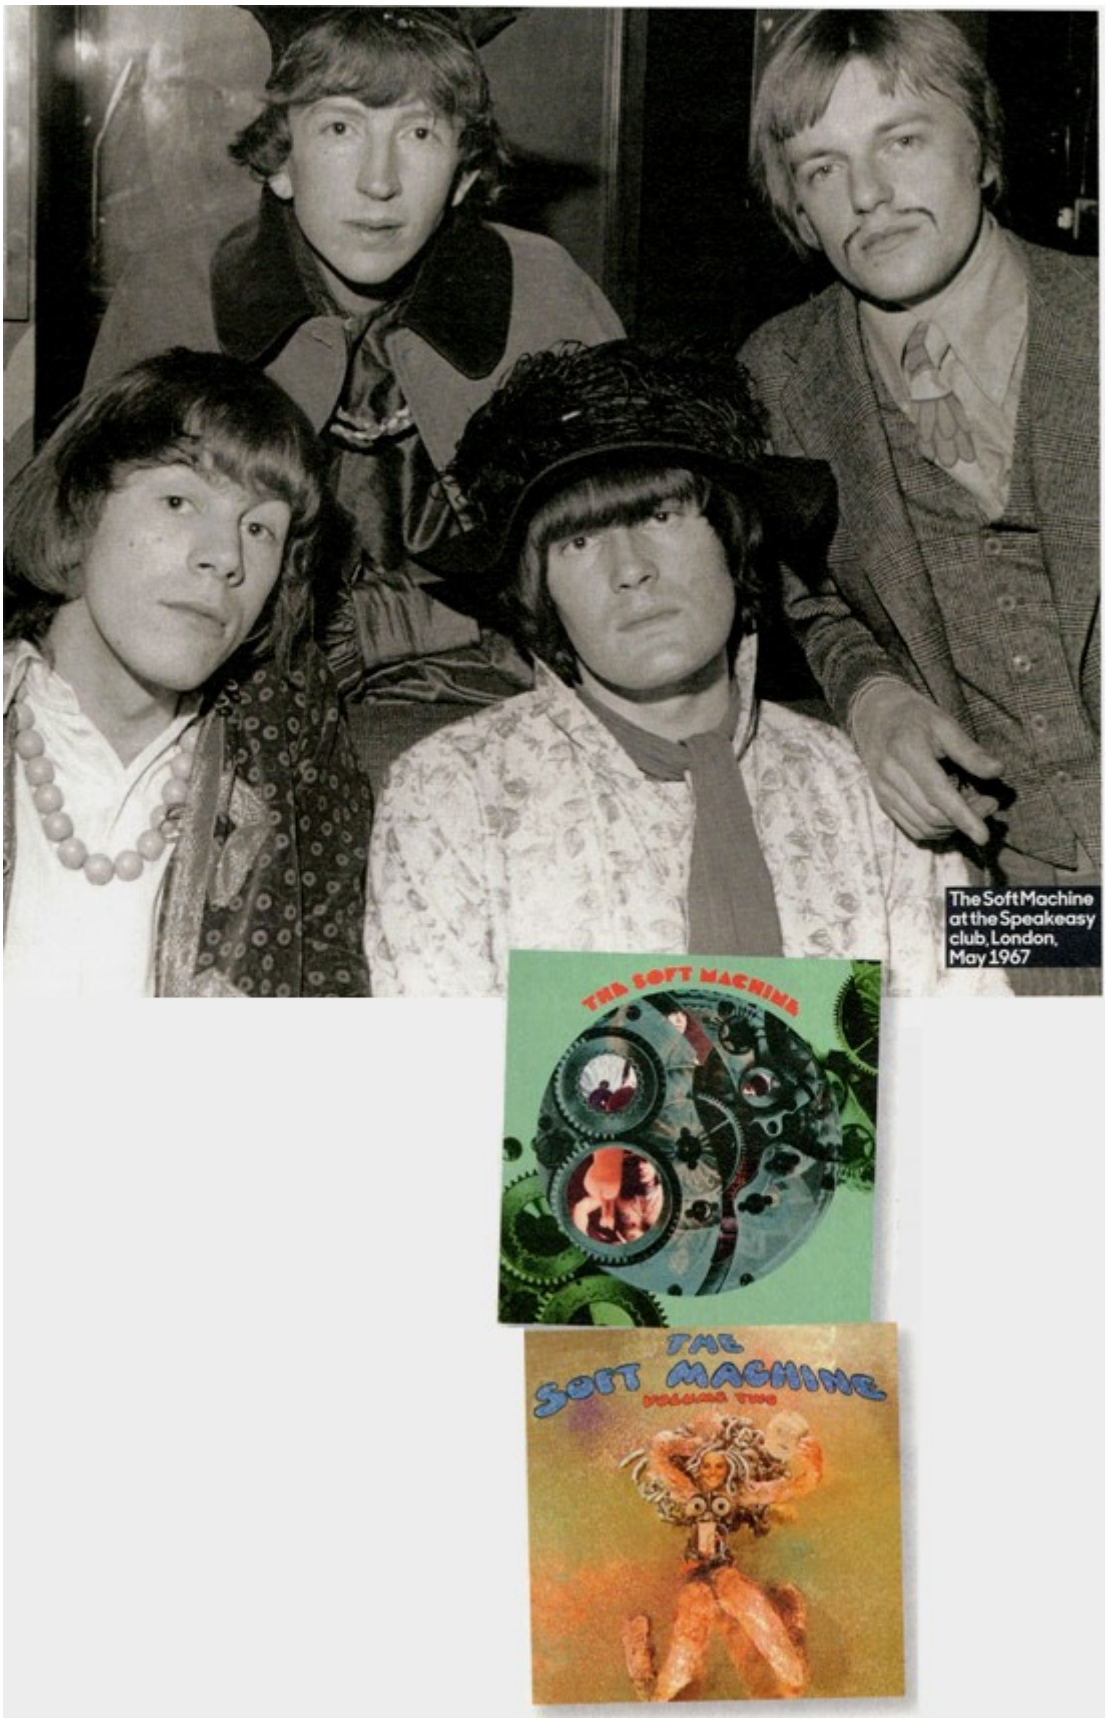
How did you find the process of looking back over your work?



It caused quite a few sleepless nights. When I first tried to get some stuff together, I thought, 'I've only got enough for about 20 pages, this isn't gonna work.' I was thinking of Van Morrison - in his book he just put in 100 long things he'd done, and I was thinking, 'Bloody hell...' I do a lot of other people's tunes, and if you pick out the ones that I wrote without Alfie, it's not much.

You found enough for more than 20 pages, then?

Alfie and I are doing it together, and we also picked some funny little wordy things we'd done. There's a bit of annotation too. All my stuff was in these messy notebooks, but I think I got everything - oh, apart from one short lyric, a take on "Freight Train": "Coltrane, Coltrane, going so fast/Wonder how your breath can last/I don't know what mode you're in/They all sound Greek to me." I forgot to put it in the book! So now you've got it [laughs]. When I made those records, everything went into each one, and that was the end of that journey. It wasn't played live.

That was quite a turnaround, considering the amount of gigging you did before your accident.

An amazing amount! That was a whole life there, even two. Before '68, we were this English grammar school band, a bit shaky, but we did our thing. That was a really friendly little band, with Daevid Allen and Kevin Ayers, just friends. We were also not like each other, which is why it couldn't have lasted. But to be young with, they were great. The early years playing in bands like The Wilde Flowers was the most fun - if I'd only ever done that, I'd be quite happy.

Once Soft Machine took off, though, you were playing all the time, from UFO and Middle Earth to touring America with Jimi Hendrix.

Playing the gigs required such concentration, listening to each other and keeping it all flowing, that I'd hardly register where we were, exactly. Talking of places like UFO, I remember that us and Pink Floyd and used to watch each other when we played the same venues, and there was just total mutual respect - you couldn't be rivals when you were trying to do completely different things. I'm just grateful to the brilliant musicians I got to play for. Supporting Hendrix was very scary - if you're in an aircraft hangar with 5,000 Texans in it, you've gotta fuckin' get on with it and not stop until your half-hour is up. But it meant we came back to the UK really able to hit the ground running.

You'd lost Kevin Ayers somewhere along the way, though...

Yeah, without Kevin, of course. He'd had enough, and quite rightly he wanted to go and write his songs. I do get upset when he'd say later that he "wasn't technical enough" for the band - he was very good! I loved drumming with his bass playing, I loved his deep sprechgesang singing, a good contrast to mine, and I loved doing his songs.

When did everything start for you? I imagine it must have been a huge moment when Daevid Allen first turned up to lodge with your family in Lydden.

I'd already got into a lot of music through my brother Mark - he brought home the first Mingus and Ornette Coleman - but Daevid showed me how to live another way. Lydden was a little village then, there was just a post office, a few houses, a pub, and Daevid used to take his dog out for a walk, up and down... his dog being a tin on a long string. I was very impressed by that. When I first played music with Daevid, it was jazz and poetry. He would read out this poetry and Hugh Hopper and I would fiddle-fiddle, toodly-boodly behind him. I was at school and doing worse as the years went by, but one of the people who said "you don't have to approach life like that" was Daevid. He was the person who was doing what we assumed Dadaists did, which was inventing their own lives, writing their own scripts. That became a way out for me.

Did you already know Robert Graves, a similar free spirit, when you met Daevid?

Oh yeah, I think so. My parents had been in Majorca before the war, and I visited him there in the early '6os, and he was wonderful, a kind man, a patrician. He had a head you might see on a Roman coin, and his family were great to me. They still are. Robert had a little cottage on his plot halfway down the mountain, and he let me stay there. I was invited up to the house occasionally to hang around, but if you dined with Robert you had to do something, a turn or a poem or a joke or a song. Robert's son-in-law Ramon and I would sit opposite each other and imitate timbales for about five minutes! Simple things about living there were so exotic to me, like fig trees with great purple figs hanging there. But you didn't bite into them, because they'd probably got wasps inside! A perfect symbol of life itself. Kevin came with me once too, and I know that Kevin and Daevid went out there together too, and wrote some great songs there, which should have been the basis of the first Soft Machine LP, but it never got made. I think it would have been very good.

Were you aware of any of Graves' famous "muses" back then?

The muse thing was a bit over my head at the time. Most of that stuff is just retrospective understanding of who he was. It sounds a bit old-fashioned, doesn't it? Alfie doesn't like this muse thing - sometimes she gets called my muse: "I'm not your fuckin' muse. I'm Alfie, fuck off!"

That sounds a little like some of Alfie's lines on Rock Bottom - "I'm not your larder/I'm Alife your guarder..."

There was a feeling of relief about that record. It was the first time I hadn't had to be a drummer, so I could just take charge of the whole record. I was very lucky, because I had nearly a year to write it in my head and not have to do anything else. People don't think of it as a luxury, but if you're in hospital and someone is making your bed, turning you over, everything, then it is possible, with the scraps you had before, to conjure up 40 minutes of music and go over and over it in your head. I'd never had the opportunity to do that before. I still wasn't taking myself that seriously, though, I was still a bit "that'll do", which has always driven Alfie crazy. "Robert, that will not do. Do it again!" Another good thing was that there was no pressure, people didn't know if I was even going to live. I could have any combination of musicians on each track - like Fred Frith, Gary Windo, Mongezi Feza, Laurie Allan, Richard Sinclair. It was a wonderful feeling.

Man and knife: with Alfie, around the release of Ruth Is Stranger Than Richard, 1975

One of your collaborations that's sometimes overlooked is your work on Brian Eno's Ambient 1: Music For Airport. How did that come about?

I was first introduced to him by [Matching Mole bassist] Bill MacCormick; he played on our song "Gloria Gloom" and then I did some stuff on a terrific record called Taking Tiger Mountain (By Strategy). I love his singing, and his songs and his words. When some elephants get rejected from their herds, they sometimes get together in a rogue elephant herd - so I think in a sense me and Brian were kind of rogue elephants. We were free, because we weren't in groups. I didn't know about the "music as wallpaper" theory then - Brian just said, "Can you play some piano?" I played and played and then he took out a section that he thought could repeat ad infinitum, and then he did everything else you hear on it. Working with Brian is great, because we don't have the same music in our heads, but his sheer presence makes me do things differently in the studio, and it's just great talking about music, politics, everything.

You still seem so fired up by music, it's hard to imagine that you're not coming up with new ideas.

I sing to myself. Occasionally I hit the piano and go, "Ah, that would be good, I must remember that!" But it's quite a cumbersome business, recording and making records. Now I'm investigating other music, a lot of it made by people who are demonised, politically.

How do you mean, demonised?

Well, if I'm sad about anything now, being 75, it's that colonialism hasn't disappeared at all; how it's done has just got more subtle. This thing of fake benevolence, like, "Oh, we want to rescue you from your tyranny, and then you can just live in a happy land of McDonald's and Coca-Cola with us..."

It reminds me of the spread of Christianity: "Don't worship your false idols, they're terrible. Witch doctors? Dreadful people. You want our Jesus, here's the Bible - now get on with the work." Our economic systems are the new Bible, to which people are meant to aspire, and relinquish their old gods. It's the same old trick. On YouTube I now look out for ways to reverse the demonisation of people we're told to hate or feel sorry for.

What have you been into recently?

I've found some lovely clips of school choirs in Syria, it's a joy to watch them. There's a saxophonist called Sophia Tyurina - they like child prodigies in Russia, but this girl's really something. Traditional Moldovan dance music is my current favourite thing - it's a knockout!

You're exploring hidden corners of the world from Louth!

That is my sense of adventure now, these people are taking me somewhere else. It's so much more fun than making records now. I still feel like the same person, but I'm looking for something else.

Robert Wyatt and Alfreda Benge's collected lyrics will be published by Faber this year

Ear defining

Robert Wyatt's finest work

SOFT MACHINE
THIRD CBS, 1970

A double album of just four side-long tracks, with the only non-instrumental being Wyatt's 19-minute "Moon In June". It's a lot less austere than the rest of Third, and in many ways opened the door to the rest of his work. 7/10

MATCHING MOLE
MATCHING MOLE'S LITTLE RED RECORD
CBS, 1972

Produced by Robert Fripp, the second album by Wyatt's revolving group (try saying "Soft Machine" in French) contains its fair share of heavy jazz rock; there are fine songs here too, though, such as the baffled, angry "God Song" and the shifting "Gloria Gloom", named after a nickname for Benge and featuring Brian Eno on synth. 8/10

ROBERT WYATT
ROCK BOTTOM
VIRGIN, 1974

Mostly conceived in Wyatt's head while he recovered from his life-changing accident, Rock Bottom still sounds like nothing else: a watery, melancholy mix of jazz, ambient, rock and the avant-garde, with star turns from Mike Oldfield and Ivor Cutler. 10/10

ROBERT WYATT
RUTH IS STRANGER THAN RICHARD
VIRGIN, 1975

The mercurial follow-up, with the more playful Ruth side balanced by the darker churnings of Richard. With its versions of Charlie Haden and Mongezi Feza tunes, it introduced Wyatt's predilection for covers, but would turn out to be his last proper album for 10 years. 8/10

ROBERT WYATT
NOTHING CAN STOP US
ROUGH TRADE, 1982

A compilation of singles that surpasses most standalone albums – highlights include versions of "Strange Fruit", "The Red Flag" and Chic's "At Last I'm Free", along with the sole original, "Born Again Cretin". 9/10

ROBERT WYATT
SHLEEP
HANNIBAL, 1997

The beginning of Wyatt's masterful final trilogy, Shleep featured guests such as Paul Weller, Phil Manzanera, Brian Eno, Annie Whitehead and Evan Parker. As with 1991's Dondestan, the lyrics were all co-written with Benge. 9/10

ROBERT WYATT
COMICOPERA
DOMINO, 2007

The final chapter in Wyatt's recording career, this three-act, hour-long opus starts off with icy jazz and slowly moves around the globe, eventually banishing the English language completely with the revolutionary "Hasta Siempre, Comandante". 9/10

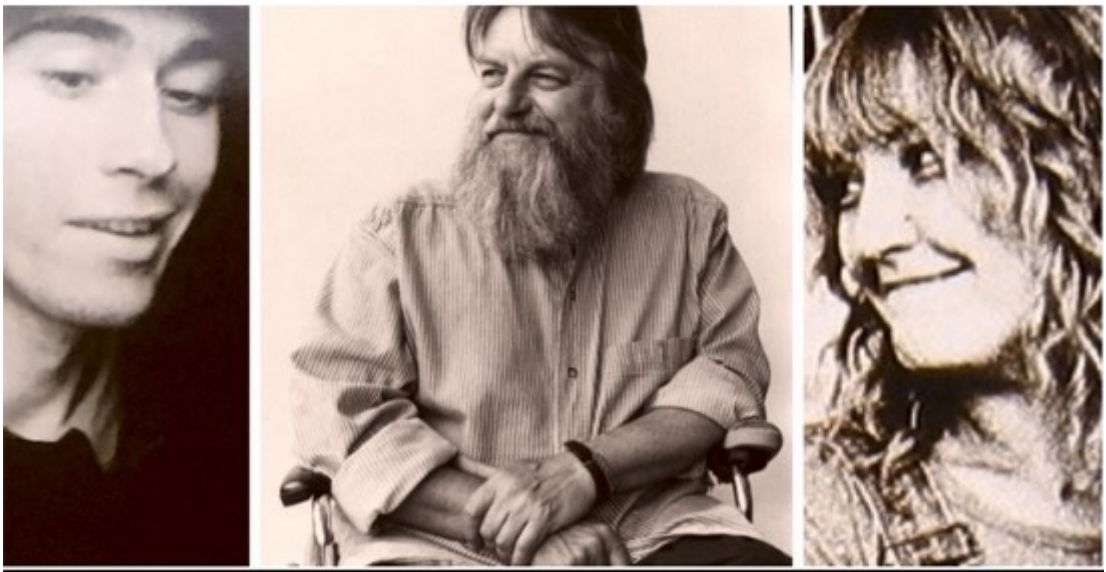
"His songs have a unique sound to them"

Jarvis Cocker explains why he loves the music of Robert Wyatt

I'VE been asked to write the introduction to the collected lyrics, and I was excited to be asked. I remember first seeing Robert on Top Of The Pops when he covered 'I'm A Believer' by The Monkees, and I always loved his version; then a few years back somebody heard 'Running The World' and gently accused me of ripping off his song 'The Age Of Self', so they played it to me and I thought it was brilliant. Absolutely there are some similarities in the lyrical content. Robert's very good at doing that, in covering dark subjects but doing it in a very direct way and accessible way. You could say we probably inhabit the same area of the political spectrum. Musically, his songs have a very unique sound to them, and you can recognise that it's a Robert Wyatt song immediately. Generally, I go more for a lower voice than a higher voice, but I make an exception in his case! His version of Chic's 'At Last I'm Free' is amazing. I was DJing in Cologne once and we'd been told we had to stop, so I put that track on, thinking, 'It's quite mellow, so that'll be the end of the party.' But it was a lovely moment – all these people in Germany at three o'clock in the morning singing a Robert Wyatt song at the top of their lungs."

> Zoom

Next article



Back to the list

'Always finding nice things in a tragic situation' - Robert Wyatt at 75 - Morning Star - January 28, 2020

for Peace and Socialism
Morning Star

'Always finding nice things in a tragic situation' - Robert Wyatt at 75

MILES ELLINGHAM meets the unique left-wing singer with his partner and muse Alfreda Benge at their Lincolnshire redoubt

MS Robert Wyatt: 50 years of uncompromisingly political music that soundtracked apartheid, the miners' strike and the Palestinian struggle.

PULLING into the market town of Louth after a two-hour bus ride through the green speckled Lincolnshire countryside, you feel thrown back in time to an earlier England, one that feels very far from the "music industry."

It seems fitting that for the past two decades this has been the home of avant-garde cult musician Robert Wyatt and his partner Alfie Benge.

Today Wyatt will be 75 — which is something to celebrate, after a six-decade musical career that began as a teenager in the so-called "Canterbury scene."

The scene (posthumously titled or, as Wyatt would have it, invented) was formed around Wyatt's group, Soft Machine, who, with Pink Floyd, were the resident bands at London's legendary hippie club UFO and went on to tour the US with Hendrix.

Wyatt was the drummer (he learnt to play in Robert Graves's garden in Mallorca) and shared vocal duties with Kevin Ayers and, for a time, Daevid Allen.

But that is distant history. Wyatt has been a solo artist since a life-changing accident in 1973 that left him in a wheelchair and led to a shift in direction to vocalist-composer.

The following year saw his extraordinary, mesmeric record, Rock Bottom, which still makes any 100 best albums lists worth their salt.

And then came nearly 50 years of uncompromisingly political music that soundtracked international concerns from apartheid and the miners' strike to Palestinian rights, through reinterpretations of such songs as Strange Fruit and Chic's At Last I Am Free and, most famously, Shipbuilding (written for him by Elvis Costello), as well as seven further albums of his own compositions.

I can remember when I first heard Wyatt's music. It was always present in the house as I grew up, as, like some kindly ghost, Wyatt's lilting cadence would haunt my musical education, always stranger than the rest, always different.

Arriving in Louth, it was Wyatt who opened the door to me and took me through into his study, where we chatted over cups of tea and a big bowl of soup.

"I really identified with the painters of the early 20th century," begins Wyatt, leaning forward in his electric wheelchair, "and I grew to envy how they worked: just make something in the studio, put it up in the exhibition and bugger off. I felt I was trying to change the musical idiom and make it more like painting."

Wyatt's a wonderful interviewee and you get the feeling that he's always approaching an answer for the first time — he'll sit in silence with a pained look until he finds his words.

However, his meandering train of thought is more difficult to render in print, and, this being an interview at 75, I nudge him back in time, asking how he had experienced the 1960s, forming Soft Machine and touring the US with Hendrix.

"I look back very fondly on that time, you know. Kevin [Ayers] wrote these lovely songs and Daevid [Allen] was a beatnik, so he brought all the literary and philosophical influences.

"We were very interested in the work of Alfred Jarry and the self-aware humour of pataphysics. We became instrumentalists but we weren't comfortable with the hippy consensus, we preferred to use jazz musicians as a guide."

Why was that?

"Well, the hippies came from this folkloric tradition, and I always thought that they tended towards a dismissal of black culture at the time. I got the feeling they sneered at stuff like Gloria Gaynor or Motown.

"Not all of them, of course — and Dylan was great … but I just saw a load of people who were so stoned that they thought the Grateful Dead was a good band."

But what was it like living that way, among what we might call "rock stars?"

"Well it's funny you should say that, actually one of the papers came to interview Soft Machine just before the America tour and when they saw us, they said: 'Oh, you're just some little hobbits…'

"So, I'm not sure we were ever really accepted. We played for people who were much more into the goal of 'far-outness' than we were in our lifestyles. We — well I, at least — spent most of the '60s oddly domesticated, in my little Dulwich back-to-back."

Did you sense any rebellion in the 1960s counterculture overall?

"Not rebellion, really. More like what the French would call 'epater la bourgeoisie' — a shock to the system, yes, but no systemic change, not where it mattered."

Did you really punch [legendary US music promoter] Bill Graham in the face?

Wyatt laughs with a childlike sheepishness. "Well, I wasn't used to that kind of ballsy American 'get your ass over here' and 'You'll never play in this town again!' I don't think we had a fight but there was certainly a disagreement.

"I told him that I didn't give a shit about playing at his silly little club [San Francisco's Fillmore] and that made him upset."

I get the feeling Wyatt doesn't enjoy confrontation but is plagued with a sense of justice.

Alfreda Benge, known to all as Alfie, is more than just a partner to Wyatt.

She has been his collaborator for 50 years, designing every album cover of his solo career and often writing lyrics for his songs. While she taps away, talking politics on Twitter, at her laptop, I ask her if she remembers how they met.

"I liked musicians," she says, squinting. "They didn't have to get up in the mornings, you see. As to how I met Robert, I got to know a young drummer who ended up with Robert's wife.

"And I ended up seeing Robert play at [London's] Rainbow Theatre.

"We didn't really notice each other," she goes on, ignoring protestation from Wyatt, "and Robert was always with these tall, glamorous women, so I never really considered him — because I thought I wasn't, you know, one of them.

"Anyway, I ended up leaving him a note that said: 'Dear Robert, how about it?' and we went off to see The Kinks together. Things just went along from there, really."

Benge's arrival on the scene marked a change in Wyatt's career. Not only would she radically galvanise his politics but much of his post-accident album Rock Bottom was addressed to her: the otherworldly Sea Song, notably, and the paired songs Alife and Alifib (so-named, said Wyatt, because one was in E and the other was in B).

Wyatt's accident, he says, changed not just how he made music — he could no longer be a drummer with a band (leaving Soft Machine he had formed Matching Mole) — but resulted in a whole shift in consciousness.

This is readily apparent in the faraway dreamscape of Rock Bottom, which he'd started writing earlier in the year in Venice — accompanying Benge, who was working on Nicholas Roeg's classic film Don't Look Now — and subsequently finished in hospital.

"I was always finding nice things in what it meant to be in a tragic situation," says Wyatt. "I found that lying in bed in hospital with somebody else making the beds and bringing the breakfast was an ideal way to write without the pressures of daily life."

And no longer having to lead a band was liberating, too.

"Just getting people to come in and play — it isn't like getting married to them, but they can do nice things for you on the spot."

How did you find that "daydream" sound? It's quite an aesthetic departure from the earlier work.

"Well, I think I do live in a sort of daydream. When I was writing it, I kept picturing these early 20th-century paintings that I always loved, landscapes and things, then I found myself mapping the sonic equivalent to these paintings. Also, Alfie introduced me to Astral Weeks, by Van Morrison, which really influenced me."

And after that you went on to cover the Monkees' I'm a Believer. How did that happen?

"Again, I didn't like the class snobbery of how the rock world looked at pop music. I have a great admiration for pop music. I see it as industrial-era folk music really — despite the perniciousness of the industry. Though I should say Rough Trade was very good to me with all those singles they wanted."

Wyatt produced an array of singles for Rough Trade throughout the 1980s and his recording of Shipbuilding, written for him by Elvis Costello and Clive Langer, is both timeless and redolent of its age: a profoundly political song about making battleships for the Falklands war.

Those years also saw him cover songs by Cuban and Latin American revolutionaries, singing in Spanish as naturally and idiosyncratically as in English, and another memorable partnership: with Jerry Dammers of The Specials, on The Wind of Change.

They were followed by his own hyperpoliticised album Old Rottenhat (1985), a reaction to hearing one of his songs on Radio Europe or Voice of America — what Wyatt calls "one of those propaganda channels" — and wanting to write songs that could not be misinterpreted.

It was this period in which Wyatt and Benge became active members of the Communist Party.

As Benge explains: "We were very pissed off with the Labour Party at the time. It was just before the Iranian revolution, when David Owen was still being nice about the Shah.

"My dad was a member of the Communist Party but I was always more of an anarchist — it was Robert who joined first."

Why did he join?

Wyatt, thinks for a second. "I think I saw it as a haven from any kind of racism. There was still a lot of racism among left-leaning middle-class dinner parties.

"It seemed to me that the Communist Party was ideologically anti-racist at its core. The Communist Party were also doing good work in South Africa."

You didn't consider joining the Socialist Workers Party, or something like that?

"No," says Benge, "I mean, we did know lots of Trots and got a lot of Trot newspapers. They would say they were internationalist but they weren't — because they think no-one has got it right, and end up hating all the same governments that Nato hates. That being said, during the miners' strike they did wonderful work."

So why did you leave the Communist Party?

"We left when we moved to Lincolnshire. It just wasn't feasible any more, we couldn't get to any of the meetings and I think we were two of the three communists in Lincolnshire. And we were disappointed with the Blair administration: how they'd pushed the left to the sidelines. All the New Labour stuff — about which there was nothing new."

When Jeremy Corbyn was elected leader of the Labour Party, however, Benge and Wyatt became enthusiastic supporters. Wyatt even overcame his long history of stage fright to perform at a Momentum benefit, accompanied by Paul Weller, another serendipitous musical collaborator, at which he was introduced on stage by Corbyn.

We were talking only a week after Labour's disastrous election defeat and Benge and Wyatt were clearly feeling the pain. Nonetheless, Wyatt's take was, as usual, left-field. "We've witnessed a real phenomenon," he says. "I am not a current affairs chap — I get too hurt by it — but I'd like to stress that I didn't vote for Corbyn because I thought he could win, but because he was right.

"Honestly, he's one of the bravest Englishmen since Captain Oates. He reflected the urgent desire to take that humanitarian spirit to the top and he held fast in the face of a really pernicious smear campaign. I'll always be immensely proud that my last-ever gig was a fundraiser for his movement. It was a great honour to bow out that way."

So Robert, having retired, is there any new music that gives you hope for the future?

"There are some great young jazz groups that I listen to. There's this one group, Nerija, that I enjoy. And I've been finding Russian bands on YouTube — like Otava Yo, who make these wonderful music videos.

"But I think the idea of newness is jaded and, as an 'avant-garde singer' I often feel that the prefix is overrated. I'm more concerned with preventing things from vanishing, to be honest. Maybe It's just my age, my Time Team attitude."

Miles Ellinghame

>> L'interview sur le site du Morning Star

Previous article

Next article

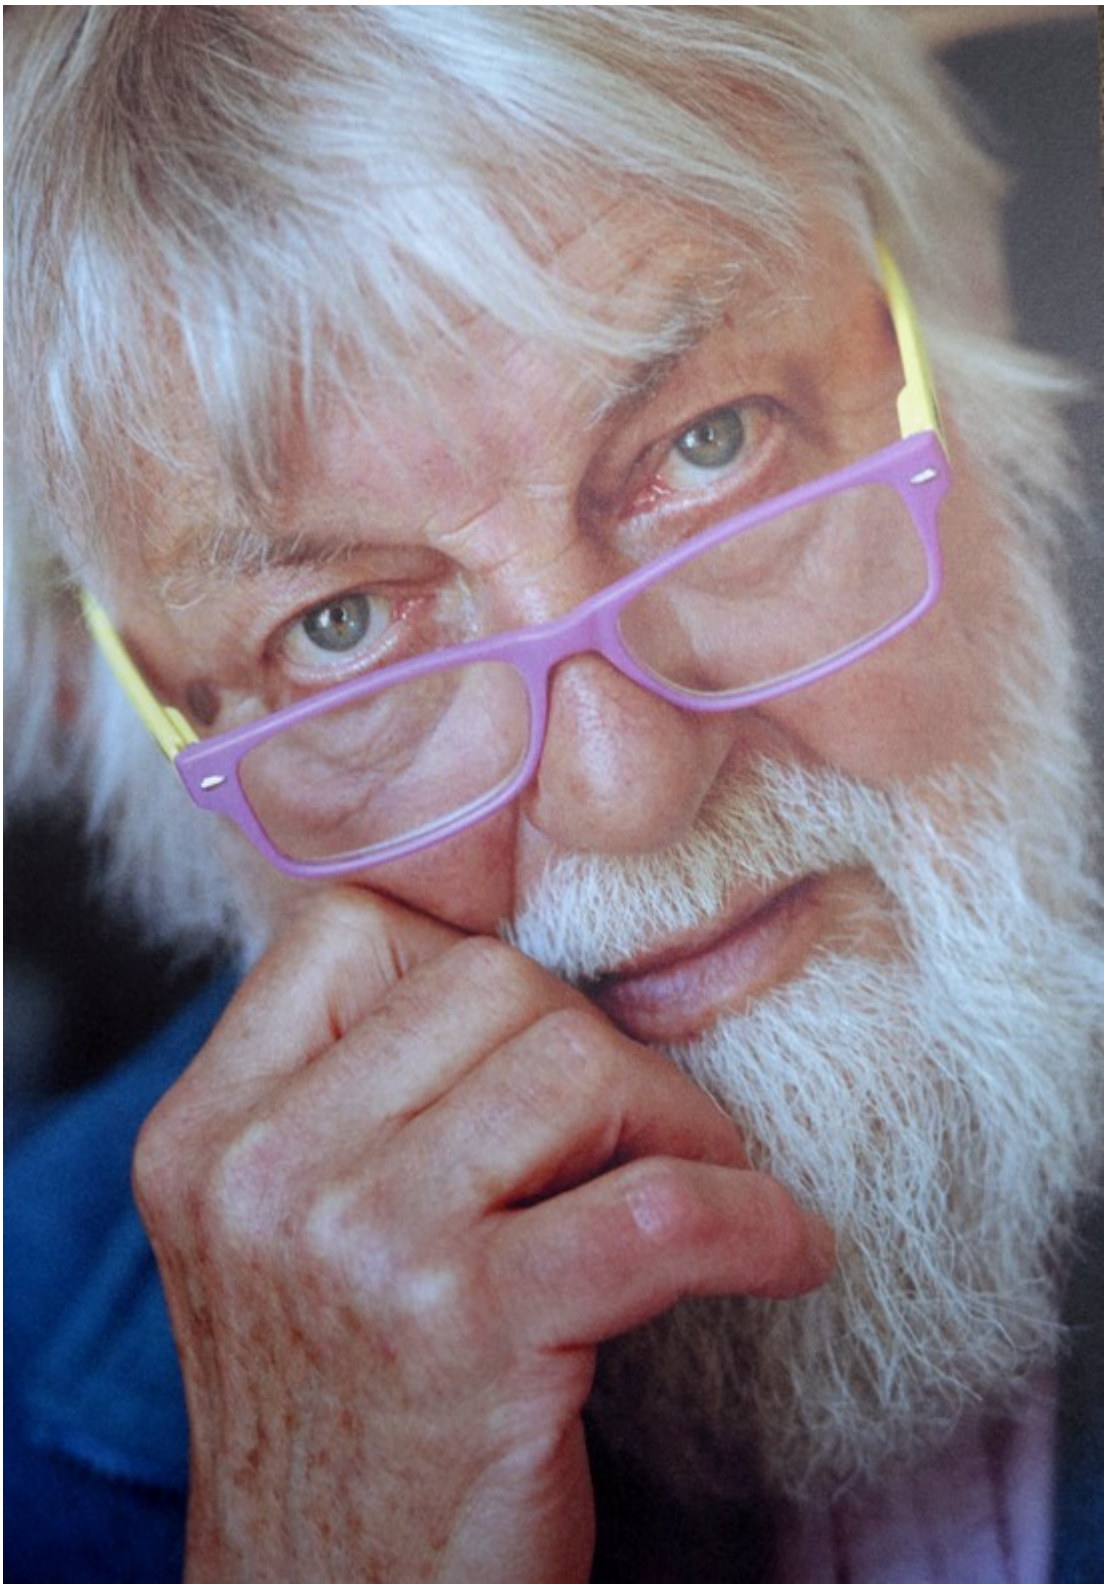
Back to the list

ABÉCÉDAIRE

Les années Before | Soft Machine | Matching Mole | Solo | With Friends | Samples | Compilations | V.A. | Bootlegs | Reprises

HOME

Robert Wyatt and Alfie Benge - Luncheon - N. 8 - Autumn - Winter 2019-20.



ROBERT WYATT AND ALFIE BENGE

By* MARTIN CLARK
Photographs by
KUBA RYNIEWICZ

Robert Wyatt is a musician and was a founding member of legendary British rock bands Soft Machine and Matching Mole. Since an accident in 1973 in which he was paralysed from the waist down, he has focused on his solo career, which has now spanned more than 40 years. He has collaborated with artists including Syd Barrett, Brian Eno, Bjork and Hot Chip and has released 13 studio albums and numerous EPs and singles. Martin Clark, Director of Camden Arts Centre, Luncheon's editor Frances von Hofmannsthal and photographer Kuba Ryniewicz took a train to Lincolnshire to have lunch in the home of Robert and his wife, Alfreda (Alfie) Benge, who has produced the artwork for all of his albums since 1974. Over a delicious fish pie cooked by Robert's friend and neighbour Jane Vincent, they discuss Robert's life, music and close working relationship with camera shy Alfie. Martin Clark is Director of Camden Arts Centre, London. Previously he was Director of Bergen Kunsthall, Norway; Artistic Director of Tate St Ives; and Curator of Exhibitions at Arnolfini, Bristol. He is an avid record collector and in a previous life worked in record shops, club promotion and as a DJ in Sheffield. He has been listening to Robert Wyatt for 25 years.

> Zoom

MARTIN CLARK: It's very nice to be here Robert, thank you for having us for lunch. I know Alfie is going to join us later, but I wanted to start by asking about your relationship with her, both personally and creatively. It's a partnership that has spanned more than 40 years now. How did you meet?

ROBERT WYATT: Well, actually, she knew some of my family before I knew her. I'd been married before and had a couple of kids, and she knew them. But when I first really took to her, we were in the Roundhouse, I think; I might have been playing, or in the audience. And I was wandering around in the back, and a lot of people were doing this kind of dance... I can't do it now - a hippy, waving arms about thing. And there was this one girl - not dancing at, or to, anybody -just doing all this little footwork stuff, tch, tch, tch, and I was enchanted by this person. I thought, 'Blimey!' So, that's how we met. I think I said, 'Hello'.

MARTIN: What year was that?

ROBERT: It would have been late... oh, 1970?

MARTIN: Was she at art school then?

ROBERT: No. She was teaching film part-time, had made a film for the BBC about the Royal Academy and worked at IBM helping produce films. She'd also recently worked on dialogue for a Robert Altman film and was doing various freelance jobs too. She'd been to three art schools - painting at Camberwell, typography and graphics at the London College of Printing, and film at the Royal College of Art. Ten years altogether. She'd loved to have stayed on at art school forever.

She switched from painting because at Camberwell in the late 1950s, pure colour, which she always like using, tended to be looked down on. It tended to be browns and greys. She was doing these beautiful paintings and a teacher suggested, 'The colours would be okay if you were Eastern European.' She said, 'Well, I am', which shut him up. But she thought perhaps graphics would suit her better.

MARTIN: Did she know your music at that time? And how interested had she been in music over the years?

ROBERT: Alfie's actually contributed so much to my music since we've been together, I think of it as our music anyway... But even before our work together we were able to talk about everything for hours and hours. I could tell early on that this could be an endless conversation. I was interested in similar things to her - things she read and knew about -politics, music art ..

MARTIN: So you were interested in art as well?

ROBERT: Very. In fact, when I was a teenager I assumed I'd become a painter. That was my thing. We had art books at my home near Dover, in Kent. You know, modern art - all the usual suspects - and I just got lost in that, and I started trying to paint. I think my hero was Paul Klee, but I also liked a lot of the Futurists and De Chirico, that sort of thing. And another book we had, which I haven't seen since: a great, thick, fat book of Van Gogh drawings, just black-and-white things.

MARTIN: His drawings are amazing.

ROBERT: What I find interesting is that, at the time, people thought, 'These paintings are so modern - I can't stand it!' But now they just seem so sweet and old-fashioned, partly because of what they're of, the subject - never mind how it's done. It's very hard to think that those Impressionists were revolutionary at the time.

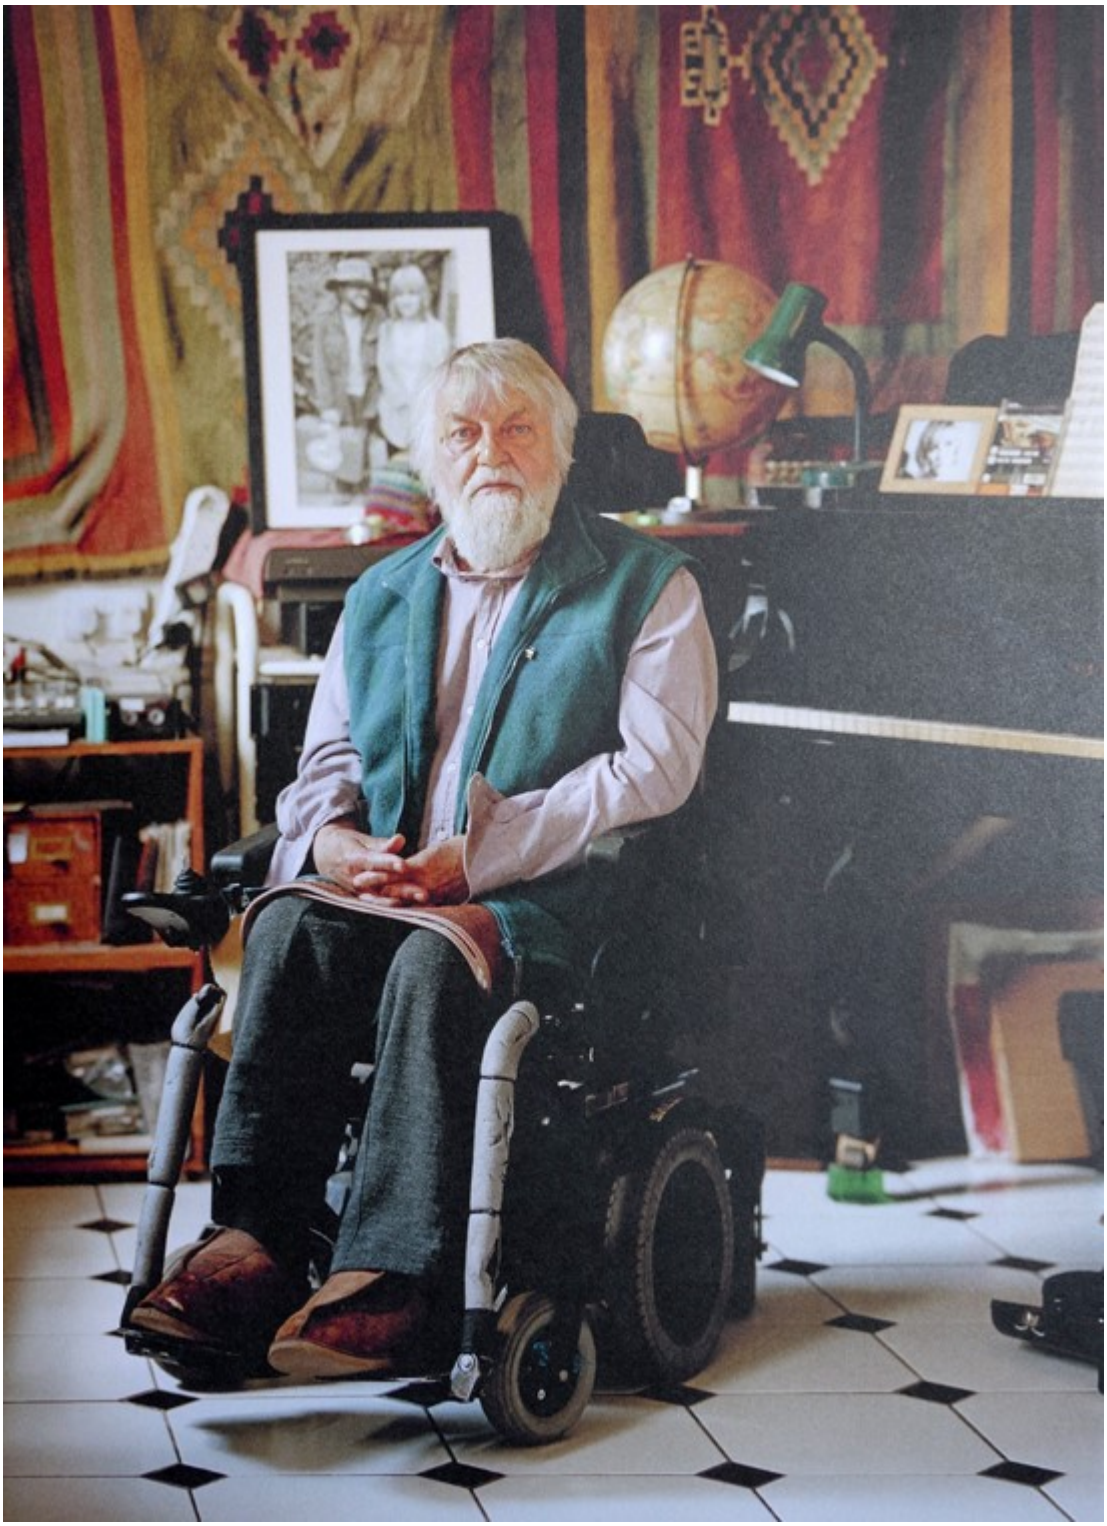
MARTIN: Its true. And it's become a cliché now of course, but there's a great quote from Wyndham Lewis that I always remember when I'm thinking about this. He said: 'The artist is always engaged in writing a detailed history of the future, because he is the only person aware of the present.'

ROBERT: I've always been interested in the idea of the avant-garde, and there are various words related to that, some of which are pejorative, like 'trendy', 'ephemeral', but also 'cutting edge'. I'd take 'avant-garde' back to the original meaning of the word - it actually means the front end of an army. But the thing I don't like about the connotation, especially in terms of the music I was involved in, rock and roll, is that it fancies itself as rebellious or dangerous.

Record covers from left to right: Shleep 1997, Ruth Is Stranger Than Richard 1975, for Dennis and Ronnie. Courtesy of Domino Recording Co. Ltd.

I'm not at all hoping to be either of those things. What avant-garde means to me is seeing the beauty in things that people might not have noticed before. That's all. I'm not trying to get at anybody.

MARTIN: It happens with art as well. People think modern and contemporary art is all about trying to shock, trying to make something outrageous or provocative for the sake of it. But that's not what most artists are trying to do. They are simply trying to say something real and true, but in a way that is free of the received ideas or languages of the past, that somehow avoids disappearing into a kind of familiarity or bourgeois idea of good taste. So it may shock people because it's unfamiliar, but eventually it all gets assimilated - it usually takes a generation.



ROBERT.- I remember, Hendrix, when he did 'The Star-Spangled Banner' and was quizzed on television about it - 'Why did you make this ugly noise out of it?' - he said, 'I thought it was beautiful.'

MARTIN: Did you stop making paintings?

ROBERT: My parents let me draw and paint things on the wall and all that stuff- but I didn't paint on canvases. It was expensive, for a start. I painted on old doors and bits of hardboard, and I thought, 'Blimey. This is it.' But then, when I was 16 or so I went to art college and heard this tutor say to some gloomy students, 'I'm afraid you've got to learn to draw.' Oh fuck, I thought. But the great thing about that time was... I thought, Okay, where don't you have to be able to do anything? Beat music! If you're a drummer or a singer, you really don't have to learn anything. You just sit down and do it, or you open your mouth.

MARTIN: So, your route into music was through beat and rock and roll?

ROBERT: Playing it.

> Zoom

MARTIN: And what about jazz?

ROBERT: I would listen to loads of jazz, simultaneously with painting - but it seemed impossible to play. I just thought they were magicians. I couldn't see how it was possible to do what they were doing - especially between the late 1940s and the late '50s - they were dazzling. So, I traipsed around; saw Charles Mingus live, twice. It was a golden era. The best concert I ever saw in my life was Coltrane playing with Eric Dolphy. It makes me cry to think of it. It was so beautiful. I always liked playing drums, and I had a couple of drumming lessons. But they don't really apply - if its proper jazz technique no one will hear you in a rock and roll band. It's all crash, bang, wallop.

MARTIN: Did you see that amazing BBC documentary on Ginger Baker?

ROBERT: I did! He's a monster, but he's absolutely right. He's the proper drummer and the others don't really know what they're doing. I have to say that, and I didn't even like rock music. I saw him when he was playing with The Graham Bond Organisation at LSE - he was stonking.

MARTIN: He was playing in these massive rock bands with Eric Clapton and Steve Winwood and Jack Bruce, but all he really cared about was being taken seriously by the jazz drummers and African musicians like Fela Kuti...

ROBERT: That's right. Art Blakey ducted with him eventually. He may have been a frightening geezer, but he was a master, he had a feel.

MARTIN: Getting back to you and Alfie - she made the artwork for all of your solo albums, from Rock Bottom (1974) onwards. And those sleeves feel so intimately connected to my experience of your music over the years. I guess it's something we're losing now, with streaming and Spotify and whatnot, that thing of holding the sleeve in your hand while you listened to the record, almost living inside it for days and days. Were those paintings Alfie used for the artwork things she had made already, were they around the house or in the studio?

ROBERT: No.

MARTIN: So she made them specifically for the record sleeves?

ROBERT: She did. I wouldn't call them collaborations, but she knows the music backwards because she's had to hear it being done. She was with me all the time during recording, so she could pick up on images in the songs that someone at a record company, someone in the art department, might not have had the time to do.

MARTIN: Was she making her own work outside of that?

> Zoom

Herbert the Elephant and Herbert the Chicken, written by Ivor Cutler, illustrated by Alfreda Benge (both Walker Books, 1984)

ROBERT: She'd studied art, but when we met her trajectory was going to be in film. But she didn't like the way the film industry worked and she didn't like being censored. She was doing a thing for IBM about the Sixties and they took [the parts about] the Black Power movement out - not suitable for showing to IMB South Africa. And then, fortunately, I came along and broke my back, so she said, 'I'm not made for the real world, I'll retire and look after you instead.' Anyway, after that she thought she could use her skills in painting and drawing - that this was something she could do here at home. She didn't really like the psychedelic record covers of the era. I know she thought she would deliberately do the opposite.

MARTIN: They have such a beautiful relationship to the music - a simplicity and depth and naivety and absurdity, and a sort of surreal, childlike charm - but there is an edge to them too. But for me your music has a very visual quality already. You can talk about a lot of music like that of course, but it's not just the images and characters that are conjured up through the lyrics or the song titles; there's also something about the way your songs are constructed. There's a sort of blocky quality to music - these drones in the background, like flat blocks of colour, and then these figures that are the melodies that sit on top of them, set against the ground. And I think Alfie's paintings work a bit like that as well.

ROBERT: I think in pictures. I listen in pictures. And so there does tend to be a landscape, which will be the chord sequence. There do tend to be things on it, which will be instrumentation; and there will be people in it, which is the voice. Composers like Duke Ellington and Charles Mingus are very pictorial, they take you places. I like that.

MARTIN: The other thing about them is the lyrics. Alfie writes as well, doesn't she?

ROBERT: The last half of everything I've done, and all of the things I've done here, she's written at least half my lyrics. Partly because I'm writing more music than I could think of words for.

MARTIN: So, for you it starts with the music?

ROBERT: Yeah, but even then - like, I had a little tune, te de de de te de de duh (sings), and I thought, I don't know what that is. And she said, it's a lullaby. And I said, 'Oh, right!' And she wrote a thing called 'Lullaby'. She was just able to do that. She'd listen to the tune until she heard the words. If the tune is organic, it's often very amenable to speech patterns. They can go together if you allow them to.

MARTIN: Were there any records that you made, perhaps with other collaborators, where you were looking at, or thinking about, other artists?

ROBERT: Visually, you mean?

MARTIN: Yeah.

ROBERT: No, except when I did 'Shipbuilding' [in 1982]. Alfie wasn't particularly connected to the making of that - it was written and produced by Clive Langer and Elvis Costello - but she had just seen Stanley Spencer's Shipbuilding paintings at an exhibition and thought they would be perfect. It turned out they were owned by the Imperial War Museum, who let us see the paintings for free. He was a war artist, and he painted a series in the 1940s called Shipbuilding on the Clyde, all these different panels showing riggers and riveters, all that stuff. So we used that on the single. The song was about the Falklands War.

MARTIN: I'd forgotten you'd used a Stanley Spencer on that sleeve. But it's interesting you mention him, because I was thinking about some of those other neo-Romantic artists in relation to your music, people like Paul Nash, Cecil Collins, John Craxton. I always think your songs have a kind of English pastoral quality. And the lazy interpretation of that is that it's a romantic, backward-looking, sentimental thing; but actually the neo-Romantics used the idea and the image of the English landscape to speak of a much more political, troubled, almost apocalyptic moment - coming out of the First World War with the threat of fascism, the atom bomb, and another war looming. They found a way to collapse the past, the present and the future into their pictures. I think your music is a bit like that - right from your early years with Soft Machine, and your association with the Canterbury Sound. And like their work it's also underpinned by a very radical, working-class socialism and critique.

ROBERT: Well, there are two separate things there: one is that things like Lewis Carroll and Hilaire Belloc and so on are very, very far out. They go a long way - particularly Alice's Adventures in Wonderland and Through the Looking-Glass. They're pretty fierce looks at how things are run, the absurdity of bureaucrats and the madness of politicians - turning into a pack of cards and all that stuff. There's a lot going on there. But the other thing is about your earlier idea of being ahead or behind. I don't think, really, in chronological time. I think that when you discover a thing, that's when it's new to you. I think it's got something to do with the age you are. In your late teens and early twenties, things hit you; you're ready for them. And that stays with you. You can enjoy and appreciate things after that, but the things that really mean something to you, they hit you at that time - and it can be anything.

It can be old English churches, it can be Bach, it can be jazz. So, when I was a schoolboy, in the late 1950s, what I was looking at in those art books was early 2oth-century stuff, but it was revelatory, it was dazzlingly new to me, it was like the paint was still wet.

MARTIN: Your music is like that for me. It somehow speaks really immediately, in the absolute present, as well as drawing on something much more timeless. Some music sounds so much of its time - it can still sound great when we listen to it now, but it's very easy to place it or date it. But your songs aren't like that; they seem to exist in this other sort of time. Frances and I were talking on the train here this morning about just that kind of moment - and the first song of yours that each of us heard.

FRANCES VON HOFMANNSTHAL: The first song that I heard was'Pigs... (In There)'(1986).

ROBERT: (Chuckling) John Peel used to like that one.

FRANCES: I love that song so much! I think I've listened to is 945,000 times.

ROBERT: Funnily enough, it was more or less totally improvised. It just came out exactly as you might think it did -just thinking about it. What the fuck was that?

MARTIN: It's like a picture again, isn't it, or a movie. It's so visual. You can see the whole scene when you're listening to it, the landscape, the farm...

ROBERT: The music just came out, and then I found this drum machine device... it's no particular rhythm, it's actually random, but the beat stays the same. I thought, that'll do - you know, just three chords, add a bit of olive oil, a squeeze of lemon... (Martin laughing)

FRANCES: I thought you couldn't cook!

ROBERT: I cannot cook to save my life! That's why my friend Jane Vincent has made us this fish pie. I just had to do the salad! Alfie said, just chop up some tomatoes and onions and some of those green leafy things, put olive oil and lemon on it - so I did that. You don't have to eat it.

FRANCES: Where were the pigs?

ROBERT: A long, low, flat farm in Wiltshire. My older brother - my half-brother and his wife - lived there, and she used to take us about. You hardly notice it, the structure, because it's so low to the ground. And I thought, what on earth could you keep in there? It's not like you can store grain in it. So I just asked him what on earth it was for.

MARTIN: Pigs! In there?!

FRANCES: My children and I, we've listened to it so many times!

ROBERT: I'm very honoured. I'm very pleased.

FRANCES: And 'Soup Song' (1975). They've made a little stop-frame animation to that one, about all the ingredients! I'll have to send it to you.

ROBERT: I'd love that! I was a vegetarian as a child - but not by principle. It sounds posher than it is. It basically means bread and butter sandwiches with sugar poured on top - not healthy, nothing noble. Cornflakes and bananas and bread; Horlicks, boiled eggs, things like that. I always think eggs is the politest way to intervene in an animal's life cycle. (Laughter)

MARTIN: Did you record those songs here in this house?

ROBERT: No - I do work here, but I'm not technically proficient; I need a good engineer. I have recorded bits and pieces here, something that's got a feel, that I can take into the studio - but no, I go to a studio.

MARTIN: There is a kind of intimacy to your records; they feel very immediate, very close. Is that a deliberate thing, to take those - almost like sketches - into the studio, and then not overproduce them, not overdo them? To keep that immediacy, that simplicity.

ROBERT: I do overproduce them, but... Dolly Parton said, 'It takes an awful lot of money to look this cheap.' (Laughter) Well, it takes a lot of hard work to make it sound as straightforward. They are actually very, very worked. Somebody said to me once: 'What I like about 'Shipbuilding' is you just sang it from the heart and that was it - in one go.' But it wasn't like that. It was a lot of work.

I've thought a lot about the craft of singing. I listen to other singers and hear what they do. I wanted the songs to be [like] how I talk, because that's going to be the easiest to sing. I wanted it to sound like you almost couldn't tell which came first, the words or the tune. That was the thing I was aiming for. In fact, over the years, working with Alfie, that really became the thing. She started out listening to my tunes and coming up with words, and then eventually she'd come up with the words, and I would add the tunes.

MARTIN: I sometimes think of your songs as a kind of folk music. Not so much the sound but the directness and clarity, and the authenticity of your voice. And there's also the strong political and social aspect of the lyrics.

ROBERT: Well, a lot of folk people have done my songs - The Unthanks... a whole bunch of them. But it's also to do with acting. I really like Robert Mitchum - but he just says the lines; he just says the words. I find that so much acting is over the top; over-emoting, in one way or another - sadness, anger. That happens in songs too. I feel that, sometimes, people acting out songs are interfering in some way between you and the song. The thing is the song. So I thought, I don't want to sing like that. I never try and put anything across - it's got to be in the music.

> Zoom

The music has got to be solid enough. And then the words have got to be solid enough. If you get the music right, and the words right, it should just work. It's really a non-thing that I'm doing.

MARTIN: I talk to painters, and for them, often, the thing is knowing when to stop. How not to do too much. I did a show with a painter recently, and she was talking about the problem of pushing a painting too far, not being able to press a button and go back a couple of stages like you can in Photoshop. In the end, she said that the paintings were finished when the truck pulled up outside the studio to pick them up for a show.

ROBERT: Well, actually, I think I do know, in the end. What I'm looking for is something that, in a parallel universe, would be a living thing. I want a tune to be alive in some way - an organic thing. When I'm writing something, that's what I pursue. You can do a really nice chord pattern or a nice sequence of notes, or a nice rhythm, but on their own they're just ingredients - it's not yet anything, actually.

MARTIN: You've said very publicly that you're retired. And I know Alfie has a problem with her eyes, so she finds it difficult to work...

ROBERT: Yeah. [Hans] Arp said he never finished a painting, he just stopped. I thought, I'm having that! So yes, I've stopped. And Alfie, she's having a rest too, she's Tweeting now. Alfie wasn't able to join us for lunch but we caught up with her later in the afternoon.

MARTIN : I asked Robert about this earlier, but I want to ask you as well: what was your relationship to the music? Would you listen to those records and then think about the artwork, or was it more coming out of your interests and your own work?

ALFIE: I was present at every note of every recording. I mean, obviously, because I was Robert's carer - so, wherever he was, I was. And music was always there. Things would occur to me when it was being recorded; I'd just get an image, I'd do some scribbles. Some were more difficult than others. Some had subjects, like Nothing Can Stop Us (1982); Rock Bottom. But Ruth Is Stranger Than Richard (1975) didn't have a subject - that was me in the studio, and I kept drawing a bird-man and a cow-woman. So they sort of emerged. Old Rottenhat (1985) was very political, it was hard to pick any image, so I just painted while listening to the music, and this abstract thing came out.

MARTIN: That's my favourite sleeve: Old Rottenhat. I think it's fantastic. And I can think of sleeves that I've seen since, and designers, who've clearly been influenced by it.

ALFIE: Cuckooland was also hard to choose an image for, there's so much variety in the subject matter and music. Robert has no normal musical notation. He does diagrams and notes for himself, which get added to during recording. I just watched what he was doing and based the cover on pages from his - ever-changing notebook and added a bit of colour here and there.

> Zoom

MARTIN: And what about Shleep (1997)?

ALFIE: He recorded that just as he came out of a really, really extreme depression and hadn't slept for months. He got over the hump - that bit where he's going to kill himself, into... when it's not plain-sailing, but he was suddenly able to sleep again. So, that's why we called it Shleep. A lot of the titles are mine as well.

MARTIN: He said you wrote a lot of the lyrics. I knew that you wrote lyrics, but I didn't know that you wrote so many of Robert's.

ALFIE: Since he started using them on Dondestan (1991), about half of the lyrics on each record are mine.

MARTIN: And when you were writing, was it because you thought they might end up as lyrics for Robert?

ALFIE: No, he had a thing about the music always coming first. The chords matter; the words don't. He was never going to write things to words - never. And so I wrote things. I wrote a diary, and out of the diary came little poemy things. We made a little book of them and just put them in a drawer - in 1983 or '84. Then, in 1990, he got them out because he couldn't think of any words. I think they really helped him to open up new musical possibilities.

MARTIN: He was able to hear the music in them?

ALFIE: Yes - so, things like 'Sight of the Wind' [from Dondestan]. I think it culminates in 'Cuckoo Madame', which, I think, is musically quite sophisticated. I think it comes from responding to the rhythm of the sentences, which is less predictable because they hadn't been written for music.

MARTIN: I asked him how you two met.

ALFIE: I was 32 or 32, and he'd left Soft Machine. I'd seen Soft Machine, but I didn't know him then. I had a boyfriend. During the rip-roaring Sixties, I spent most of my time with drummers, as an official drummers' moll. One of the drummers was a pick-up in a speakeasy when I was about 27. It was very dark. Anyway, he came for the night and then wouldn't go away. It turned out he was only 17. It was a few months before I could get rid of him - but, in the meantime he'd made friends with a friend of mine, and he eventually hooked up with Robert's wife. So I got to know Robert's wife and his son through... (Laughing)

MARTIN: ...this 17-year-old drummer!

ALFIE: So, I knew them first. [Robert and I] didn't take much notice of each other at first. He had kind of glamorous women at the time. Purple hot-pants, I seem to remember! And usually a bit taller than him. I was still wearing high heels back then. When we met we were the same height; I stopped the high heels! But I didn't assume he was anything to do with me - I mean, my drummers were jazz drummers (apart from the speakeasy guy!), jazz drummers who knew what they were doing.

MARTIN: (Laughing) Proper drummers.

ALFIE: Serious people. Proper people. I'm joking. He was a very serious drummer! But I just kind of got to know him, and I thought, 'He's quite intelligent, I quite like that.' One day, he rang up. I think it was Pam, his wife, who encouraged him, because she thought I was probably a good idea. He wasn't having very much fun... I think his women were a bit glamorous, but a bit difficult. She thought I might be better for him. So he rang up, and that night I already had a ticket to go to the Rainbow [Theatre] to see The Kinks, so I said, 'Would you like to come along?' So we went to see The Kinks, and he stayed the night, and that was it, forever and ever. His excuse, at first, was that he had to go through my record collection.

MARTIN: (Laughing) That took some time!

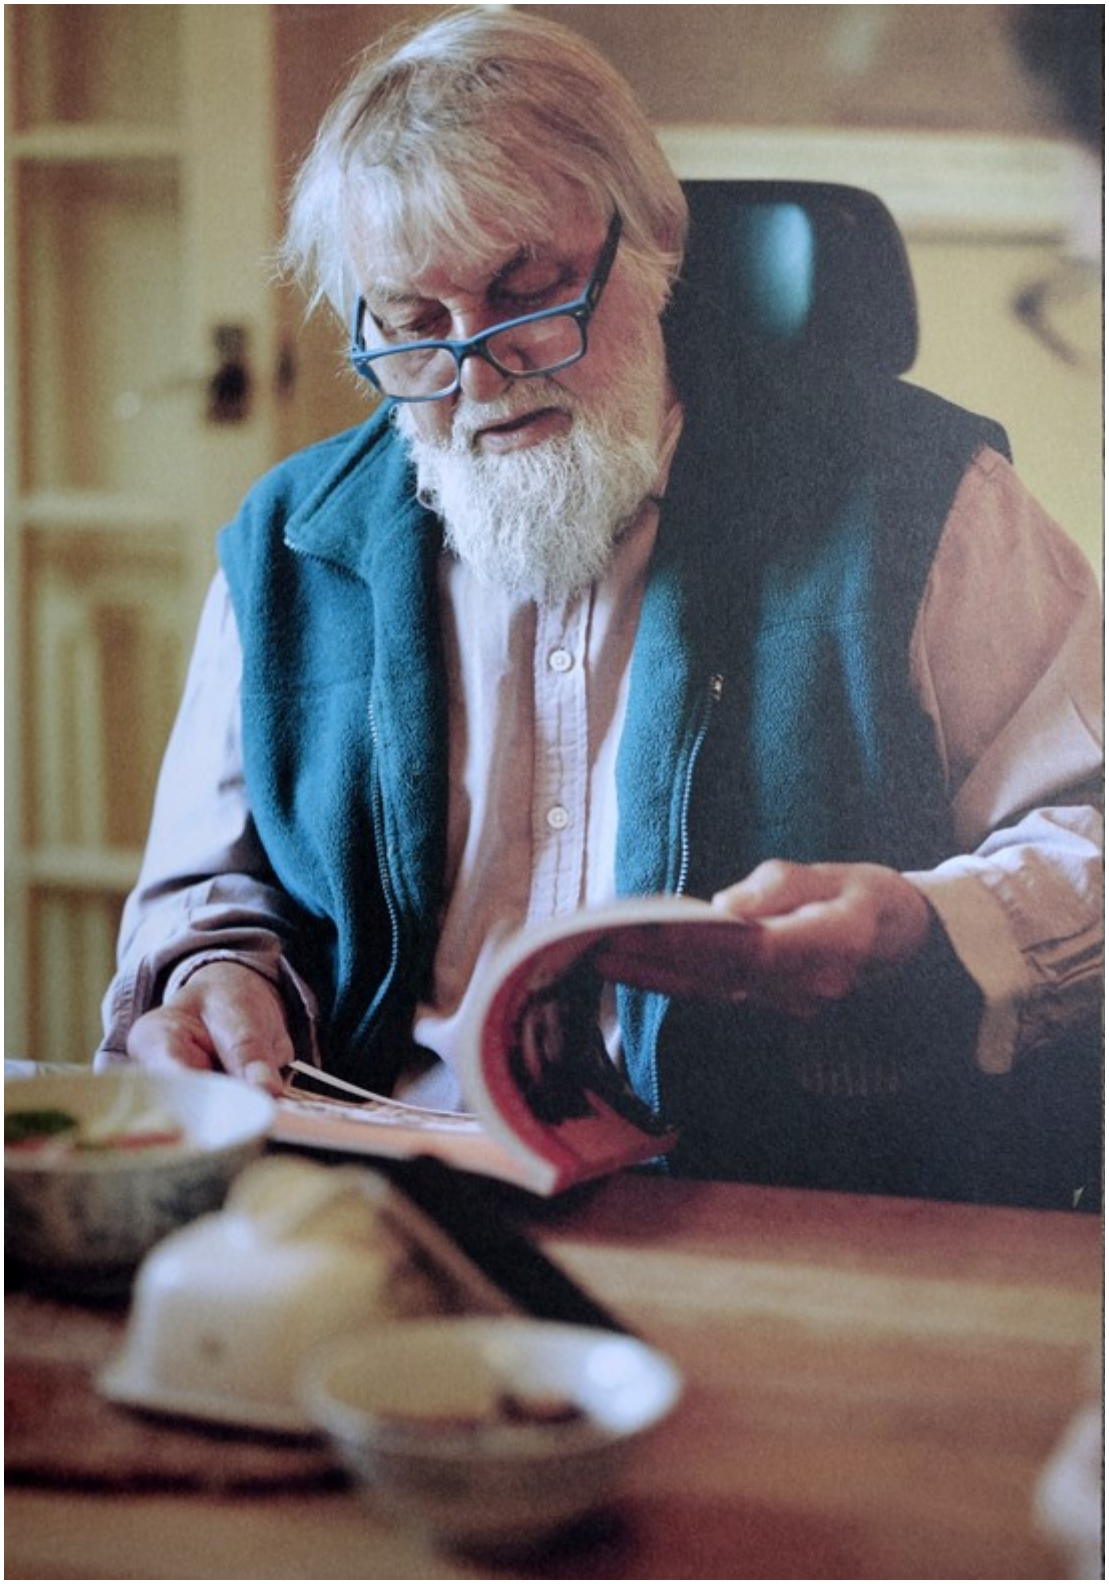
ALFIE: I had a lot of records that girls didn't have at the time - sort of boys' records.

MARTIN: So that was immediately attractive!

ALFIE: Well, he just wanted to hear them. We had our ups and downs. We were together a year and a bit before the accident. After that it was, do I take this on? For me there was no question - and if so, it would probably be an idea to get married, so then we know where we are, and he knows where he is, and all of that. I've been really lucky.

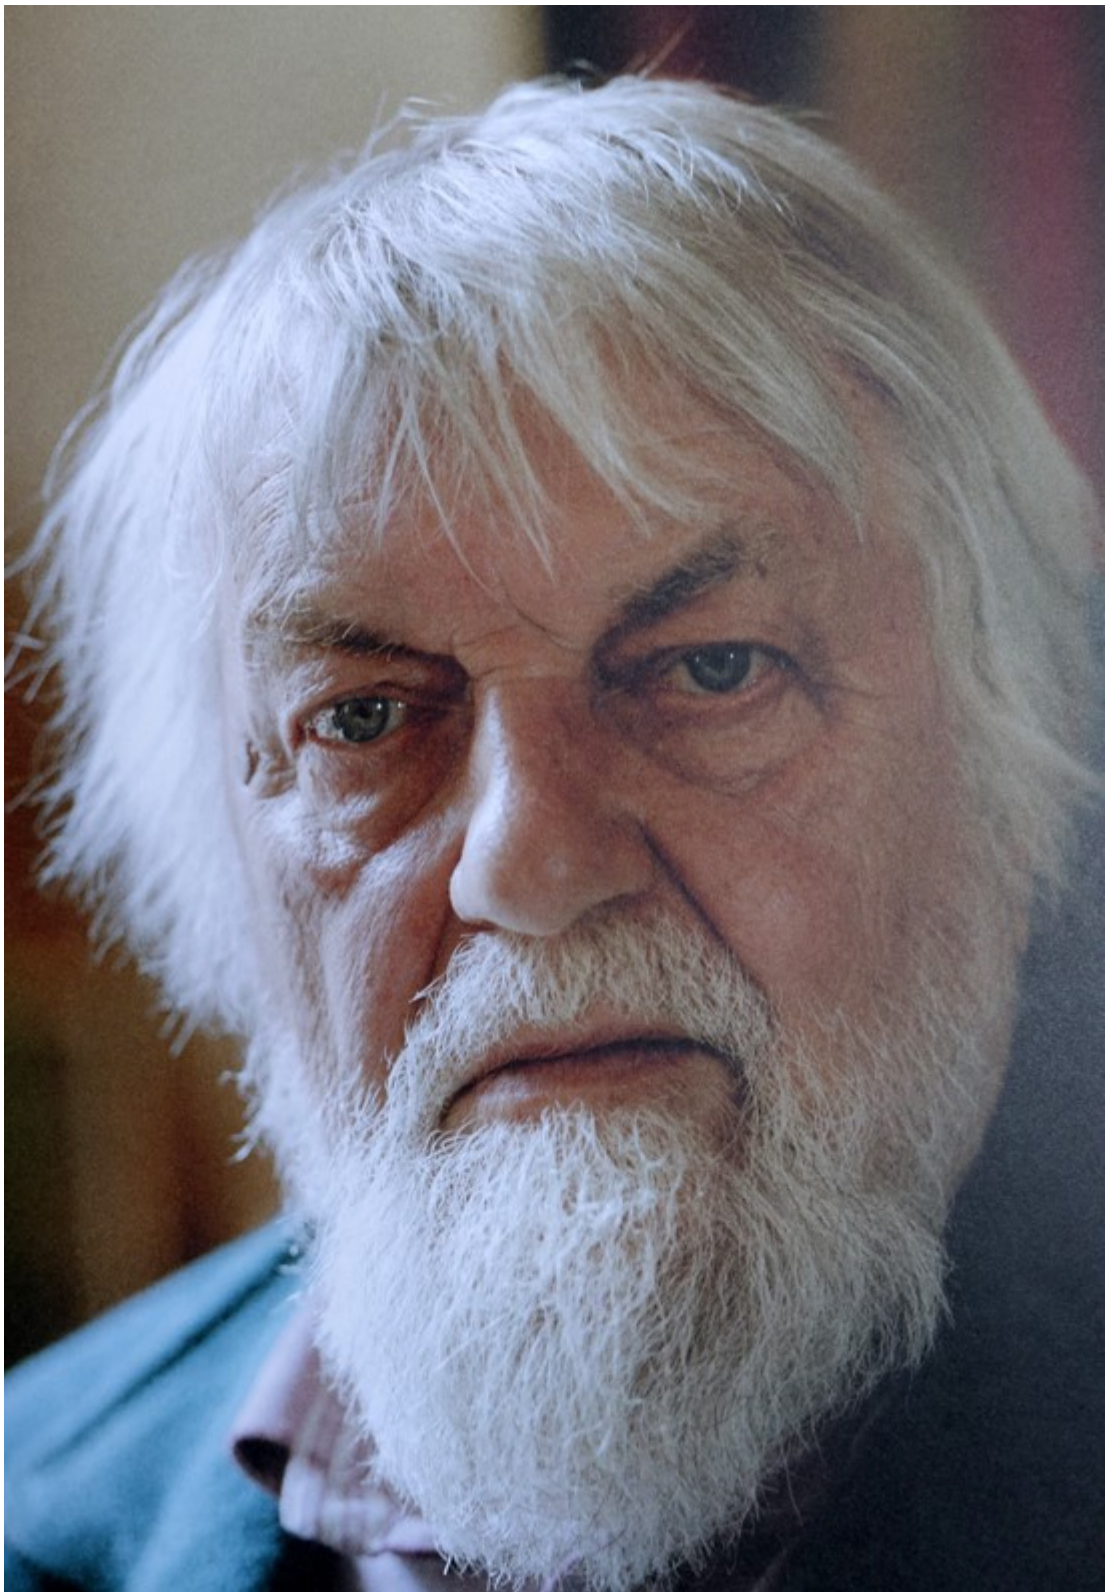
MARTIN: And your studio is upstairs here in the house, above Robert's.

ALFIE: Yes, but I don't use it anymore. It's complete and utter ...it's like one of those films on the telly about hoarders. (Laughter) It's disgraceful, I'm so ashamed of it.



MARTIN: It's a studio! It's allowed to be. But tell me, what were the things that you were driven by when you were making your work?

ALFIE: The job in hand. Nothing else. The task. It's the same with everything. It's the same with making anything: What is it, this thing? With a cover you want to represent the person, you the subject. You try to make it a precious object. And you need a certain amount of information. I'm very hot on adding information. All the sleeve notes are by me. I think people want to learn a bit.



MARTIN: Were you asked by any other musicians to do sleeves and artwork?

ALFIE: I've done a couple for Fred Frith. And Annette Peacock; Gorky's Zygotic Mynci. Not a lot; I mean, you couldn't call us 'prolific'. We just about did the job. I find it hard to call myself anything, really. I illustrated a couple of books for Ivor Cutler, like Herbert the Chicken. I think I've got a musical ear - so I loved lyric writing. I loved doing it to the music because of all the little nuances that you have to think about - like, does he want an 'oo' or an 'ee' here, in which case, do I have to change that word, because it really would sound nicer if it was 'oo'. I enjoyed that much more than painting when I started doing it. I've done some lyrics for Bertrand Burgalat as well, a French musician. But in the end, I think Robert and I go well together. His stuff is abstract, and mine generally always has pictures - so, without the pictures, this might be a bit... I mean he's very good; I really like his stuff- but I think both of us together, it works, just by accident.

> Zoom

> Zoom

Robert Wyatt: the Matching Mole interview - Popgruppen - January 28, 2019

In celebration of Robert Wyatt's birthday, we here republish an interview with Robert focusing on Matching Mole. This is a pretty long piece, but rather interesting too, I would say!

The article was written by Michael Björn and originally published in Japanese music magazine Strange Days #166, pages 14-25, September 2013.

Copyright © Michael Björn 2013

* Please note that this is the original English article manuscript submitted for publication, and eventual differences to the Japanese translation made to make the article fit in the allotted space are not accounted for.

The first time I interviewed Robert Wyatt was in my late teens. I was invited to his London suburb home and was totally overwhelmed to meet this great rock star who had carefully prepared the visit with a selection of Swedish jazz records. For me – a teenage school kid. He has remained a great hero ever since, musically as well as on a human plane.

However, when I contact him about this article, I get a categorical refusal and a ”No more to say.” Period.

Robert is very unhappy about how recent reissues have heaped bonus tracks on the originals. And just like he sings on ”Gloria Gloom”, he still has his ”doubts about how much to contribute to the already rich” – in this context represented by the record companies.

But during the course of some e-mails, Robert thaws and agrees to the interview. I get the feeling that his frustrations are overcome by a warm pride over the original albums, unique and masterly as they are. The last few e-mails are adorned with rhythmic references, a ding-ching here and an oobop sh’bam there. When we finally hook up, Robert is in a very good mood, full of friendly laughter. Again, I feel like that teenage school kid, totally charmed by his kind and thoughtful attitude.

My idea is that I would like to do an interview and send you the text before we publish.

Robert: You said that before. I don’t like the idea that I would have any kind of censorship role. I will tell you whatever I think and you write whatever you write.

OK, fair enough!

Robert: You should, however, be clear that it was your idea to talk about these things. There's a joke about a bishop who arrives in a city and a journalist asks him: "Are you going to visit the red light district in our city?" The bishop replies: "Is there a red light district in your city?" And the front page of the newspaper the next day is: "Bishop asks: Is there a red light district in your city?"

So, I would like to talk about Matching Mole and that is my idea then and not yours!

Robert: Yes, that's right, ha ha!

Matching Mole is a pun on the French translation of Soft machine, "machine molle".

Robert: Yes, that is what the French call Soft Machine. So I just thought I'd carry on with that. I didn't see why I should lose the name completely.

When you were in France with Soft Machine, they actually called the group "Machine Molle" then?

Robert: Yes, they did that anyway, so that is my little joke, that's all. Nobody owns the name, so in fact anybody can call themselves Soft Machine. I thought it would be quite funny to just call the Matching Mole records Soft Machine 5, Soft machine 6 et cetera and so on. But then I thought: "Oh, never mind, I won't do that." He he he!

How did the band come about, originally?

Robert: I can't remember… I can't remember how I knew Bill MacCormick. He knew me because he was a school friend of Phil Manzanera, and they used to come to Soft Machine concerts, apparently, when they were young. But apart from that, I don't really know. Dave Sinclair I knew from Caravan of course. And Dave MacRae, how on earth did I hear Dave MacRae? … I can't remember, that's ridiculous.

I started earning a living from music about 50 years ago. And for about ten years, I was working live, playing drums non-stop just every day. From 1973 until now obviously not on drums – but there's been so much stuff, it is hard to remember.

How did you approach making music with Matching Mole?

Robert: As a child, the music I listened to was my father's music, classical music basically. Then my big brother came home with his jazz records, and the LPs were pretty long too. I got used to that… in fact, to me, the innovative thing to do is to make short songs of three or four minutes, like pop records. I wasn't interested in if they were commercial, but just the idea of completing a piece of music in two or three minutes. It is the opposite way around, I think, from a lot of what people call progressive musicians do. They start out as rock musicians and then go on to do grand works afterwards, you know.

So the progression is in the other direction, from long to short.

Robert: It is in the other direction. It is interesting where we meet, but I wasn't going that way. And to me, the dramatic discovery in the 50s was pop music. I had never listened to it as a child. So I thought "Well, that is really interesting! You just do a song and stop after three minutes, wow!" Ha ha ha!

Ha ha!

Robert: My dad had things like Hindemith, Stravinsky stuff and Bartok. To me that was how long music was. And then my brother had stuff like Duke Ellington, Charles Mingus and Gil Evans, which were quite extended sort of things. So that was how I started thinking about music. It wasn't trying to be clever.

I didn't like the fact that people thought very carefully about the beginning to get people listening, but they would put the weakest track at the end. In fact, I think that the impact of a record ending is as strong as a record beginning. The last notes of a record – just like it did with a symphony – that's the thing that is hanging in the air when it stops.

About the first Matching Mole record

Even though you are going in the other direction, on the first record you don't end with the pop song 'O Caroline', you start with it.

Robert: No, I hadn't gotten around to that yet. But often I would play Dave Sinclair's advocate. When I was with people who looked down on pop music, I would be very defensive and say: "Well, you try and do that. It is not so easy." But when I am surrounded by people who think anything that isn't pop music is just pretentious and boring, that upsets me too. I don't see why there had to be battles. Instead one should enjoy the differences.

How did you go about putting the music together?

Robert: We lived in a place called 'All Saints Road' – a short attempt of having my own place, it was disastrous. But we had an upstairs and a downstairs – and downstairs, we had all the instruments. It was a very run down, poor area at that time. We could make a lot of noise and there weren't any neighbours who would make a fuss so that was OK. So there we were.

And really, it was about playing. Like jazz, it is about playing instruments as opposed to anything else. I wanted to reverse the process that happens in jazz, whereby you start with a plan but the improvisation is sort of the last thing.

On the first record we used themes, mostly by Phil Miller and myself: not songs or tunes really, just kind of patterns. But there can be endless variations on how to deal with these patterns. You keep the rhythmic pattern going or the harmonic pattern, and everything else changes. It was very influenced by free jazz, but I wanted to be based on a kind of rock sound. I wanted that kind of freedom in a rock context and I think that was what was unusual at that time.

The thing is then to turn it into something, and that is done in the editing of the recording. We would go through the routines for hours, but the process was to find the ones were it all kind of worked coherently, and to throw away all the bits that didn't work. That is what upset me with the CD reissue of this record. They put in all the stuff that didn't work with all the stuff that did work. And I feel… that it upsets me, frankly. Because although the original LP may sound random to a casual listener, it is not.

I really like things to sound as if people have just thought of it and it is totally easy and they don't have to think about it. What we call "artless". I like artless art. People think it's random; it is not random. There's a nice quote, I think it is Cezanne: "People think my paintings look as if they are done too quickly. That is because they are looking too quickly." Ha ha ha!

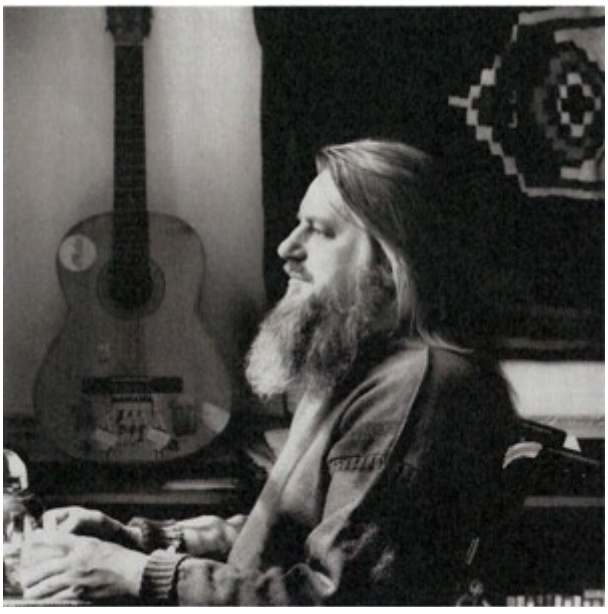
I suppose you want to put musicians in situations that they are not accustomed to, in order to make them grow?

Robert: It is more selfish. I want to hear music that I have not heard before!

I think Dave Sinclair really did feel that he was in a different context than he was used to.

Robert: He was uncomfortable; he wanted to do straightforward songs. He would be quite happy doing that and he does it beautifully. Personally, I found that he was a lovely improviser but it made him so anxious that I couldn't to it to him after a while. Nobody would let him down a groove; Bill didn't lay him down a groove, and I didn't lay down a groove. Phil chooses completely unlikely notes on guitar, there's absolutely no telling what notes Phil is going to play, or when and where – and Dave was completely unnerved by it, I think. Nevertheless, he did some terrific stuff on the album, and so I am very happy with that. We were very good friends, you know, he didn't have to do it. I don't think he regrets the experience, I hope he doesn't.

Dave Sinclair told me that you called him back from Portugal. You had really decided that you wanted to have him in the group?



Robert: Absolutely, I knew some very good organists like Zoot Money and so on, but on the whole, the keyboard players I knew were either jazz players or jazzy blues players – which is a wonderful thing, but it is an idiom that exists already. Or, there were marvellous keyboard players who worked from a classical tradition who were interested in improvising. But I found that they had not a very strong concept of what I considered as swing or groove at all.

So there was difficulty finding musicians to play with. I didn't want people whom you can identify as belonging to any particular idiom.

I didn't get these certain ideas from music first; I got them from paintings. Bonnard is nothing like Degas and Degas is nothing like van Gogh and van Gogh is nothing like Kandinsky. They don't seem to be trying to fit into a… thing. They are developing their own… language. And I just wanted people who would do that and not just think: "Oh, this is a jazz thing" or something. I was really looking for something that hadn't been done before.

About 'Little Red Record'

On 'Little Red Record', the other musicians have a bigger role in the development of the music.

Robert: That's right. They were more familiar with each other, and they were more familiar working with me, so they knew what they were writing for.

This also means that 'Little Red Record' was more ramshackle because, although the playing on the first had been democratic, I had been totally autocratic on the editing. I felt that on the next record we made, I really must let everybody else do his thing. Whatever they want to do. So Dave MacRae does tunes, Bill MacCormick does tunes, Phil Miller does stuff and so on. By its very nature, it is less coherent in that way.

The title seems less ramshackle…?

Robert: It is not seriously political, although people think it was. I wasn't particularly interested in politics at that time, it was just my joke, you know. Everyone thinks we mean the little red book, but it could easily mean 'Little Red Engine' which is the name of a children's book in England, about a train.

There was some very simplistic socialist rhetoric on the record. I have no idea if I meant it; probably I had no idea what I was talking about. But the idea of the imitation Maoist cover was entirely the record company's, not mine. Nothing to do with us. And I would be embarrassed about that cover because poor Dave MacRae who's the gentlest man in the world has been given a frightening looking gun, which is very unfair on him because he wouldn't hurt a fly.

Some of the songs are nicknames.

Robert: Yes, if anybody is interested in those things 'Gloria Gloom' is my Alfie and 'Flora Fidgit' is Julie Christie, the actress.

And together with Dave Gale, they are Der Mutter Korus.

Robert: Absolutely. I only met Dave gale again recently, he made films and so on. In fact, it was he who was a friend of the Pink Floyd. When I broke my back, it was he who said: "Why don't you do a concert for Robert?" So I have lots to thank Dave for, he is a friend of Alfie's from, I think, art college.

Alfie and Julie are both talking on the record.

Robert: That is true. Then again Dave Gale is on there. He is making very funny little things, if you can hear them, about wanting to wear his woolly. He always likes to wear his woolly; it makes him feel more secure; some strange neurotic stuff. Julie for some reason decided to become a prostitute with a first-time customer. And Alfie wonders what on earth they are talking about. Anyway, we kept all of it on there. We really had good fun with that.

It seems that Julie's first-time customer is a woman?

Robert: Yeah, that's an implication there; Dave Gale certainly is not interested is he? He is too busy with his woolly. But really, I don't think it was thought through, I think they were improvising as much as musicians do. Then again: in a way that they would never normally do. It was very interesting and fun to try and work out how to keep instrumental coherence and allow some of the voices to come through, but not always.

Given that the record is a bit chaotic, Robert Fripp seems like an unlikely producer.

Robert: Yes, I know! I think he didn't quite know why I asked him. Funnily enough my son came over yesterday, he had found a photograph of Fripp and me, at some festival I think, talking to each other. It is a very merry little photograph and I don't remember it at all. I don't remember listening to his band or him listening to mine, or anything. When we were working in England in -67, there weren't really any other bands that I knew out there.

Phil Miller found it difficult to record in the studio, since he was in awe of Fripp.

Robert: Yeah, Bill MacCormick mentions that. Phil is in fact always like that. He is almost chronically shy and never seen in person. But if that was the case, I am ashamed to say I didn't really notice. I had been on the road with Hendrix, so it was very hard for me to imagine being awestruck by the presence of a terrific guitarist after a year of that.

Brian Eno is also on the album.

Robert: Yes, that was because Bill MacCormick knew him since he was a friend of Phil Manzanera's. Bill asked him for an introduction to 'Gloria Gloom', but he did it in his own studio and just brought it in and we worked it into the thing.

He did bring his synth into the studio, I think Dave MacRae is using it on the record as well.

Robert: Yeah, that is possibly quite right. I had completely forgotten that! Yeah, that's right. Eno contributes to the record in a way that is so discreet you often don't know he is doing it. Dave MacRae himself is very inventive on keyboards, using the fuzz box and pedals in a kind of crazy way anyway. But certainly, he would be very happy for Brian to be trying stuff.

There was a CD release of 'Little Red Record' on BGO in 1993 where the A-sides and B-sides where switched. I read that this is the way you originally wanted the album to be.

Robert: That is true. I wasn't sure about that. In the end I decided that it meant starting the album with Brian's introduction to 'Gloria Gloom' basically. And I thought it took too long to come in. And I thought: "Get some food on the table" you know.

Ha ha ha!

Robert: So I abandoned that after a while. I had exactly the same idea when I did 'Ruth is stranger than Richard', I swapped the sides around on different versions.

You were thinking loud about the track composition so to speak?

Robert: I was, yeah. I took responsibility for that because… somebody had to. I didn't really know anybody, not even Fripp, who was thinking like that; every track in terms of the complete piece of music, where it was in it and so on. Which is always a thing I like to think about.

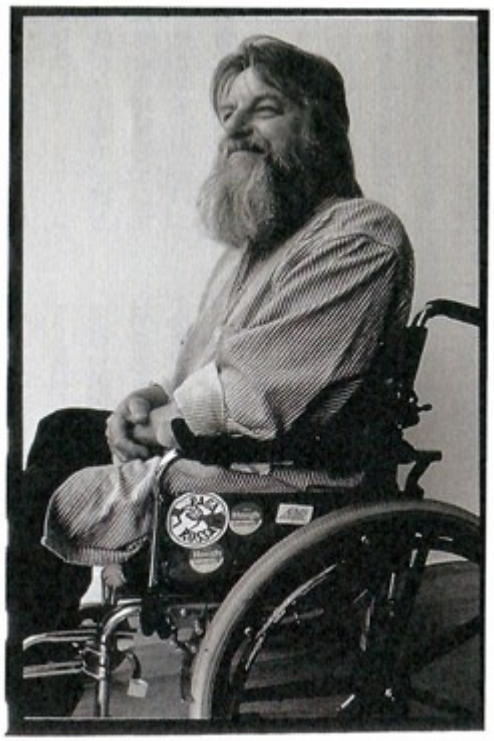
Comparing 'Matching Mole' and 'Little Red Record'

The two Matching Mole records sound fundamentally unlike each other, how did that happen?

Robert: For the 'Little Red Record', I decided for some reason in my head at that time, that I would play without a snare on the snare drum all the way through. If you take the snare off, it doesn't just affect the snare drum, it affects the bass drum and it affects the rest of the band. It makes it more kind of translucent, if you like.

The moment you have the snare on, it affects the bass and you get those thumps without notes: boom-da, boom-da. The moment you take that off, a lightness comes through. Dave MacRae's playing is full of light, and I wanted that. It is not rock & roll, it is much more fluid. I wanted to play drums more fluidly to see if I could stick with Dave when he was playing.

The other thing is, I like to try and have sustained pieces so that one piece flows into another and it is some sort of journey going through. That is consistent on both albums, but the thing which is different is that Dave MacRae came with his tunes, like that lovely 'Smoke Signal' thing, and Bill came with his rather Soft Machine influenced stuff.



For the first record, CBS was closing their studio and you were the last band in there – and then on 'Little Red Record' you are actually more or less the first band in the new studio.

Robert: Yeah! You know, I had forgotten that, you are quite right! Poor Dave Sinclair in that cold studio, I had completely forgotten that. But you know, even so, it didn't influence us much. When you are young, you can sleep in fields you know. Ha ha ha!

With it being so cold in the studio, you had developed all the musical patterns before you came to the studio then, I suppose?

Robert: Not necessarily, because it is recorded and we didn't record at home. So I think it must have been quite a lot of it trying out stuff in the studio. We did rehearse it for ours to get everyone familiar enough with the patterns to not have to think about them.

I used to prefer the first Matching Mole record because it sounds more like other Canterbury records. But the more I listen, the more I like the 'Little Red Record' because it doesn't!

Robert: I have exactly the same reaction! I have been listening to them since you got in touch. The first one is totally coherent; I understand what we are trying to do and we did it. The second one is much more reckless, but because of that I find it very interesting. And I don't mind hearing the variations, the different takes, because they show different aspects.

In the case of the CDs, definitely it is the CD of the 'Little Red Record' that has more listening stuff on it. I am more comfortable with it now. I completely agree: I reversed on that. On the first one, I am very unhappy with the extra tracks and the repeats of the single and, I don't know, I just find it's a mess.

So yes, I agree. It is exactly what happened to me, listening to them.

About reissues

You are obviously not happy with the Matching Mole CD reissues.

Robert: I really like the idea of two sides, whether is on the original 78 rpm records or eventually on vinyl LPs. And I always find it very interesting that there are two sides on an LP of about 20 minutes each. This sounds very pretentious and I am very pretentious, mind you, but I find that a lot of life is about two unequal halves. Just the fact that so much is binary: eyes, arms, men and women, everything. If you watch a sprout growing, very often the first thing you see is leaves alternating one side and another, they are not quite the same.

I like the idea of one side of a record being about the same thing as the other side but quite different. There is no literary equivalent, I can't say this in words, I just have a feeling that the A-side and B-side meant something to me. Particularly on the first Matching Mole record but then again on the later ones, on 'Rock Bottom' and 'Ruth is Stranger than Richard'. Even when it became CDs, I tend to divide things in two parts at least. To have different parts, whatever kind of shape, parts that are about 20 minutes long, that seems to be a good length for listening to a piece of music without having to go and have a piss or get another drink or something. So that was the idea here.

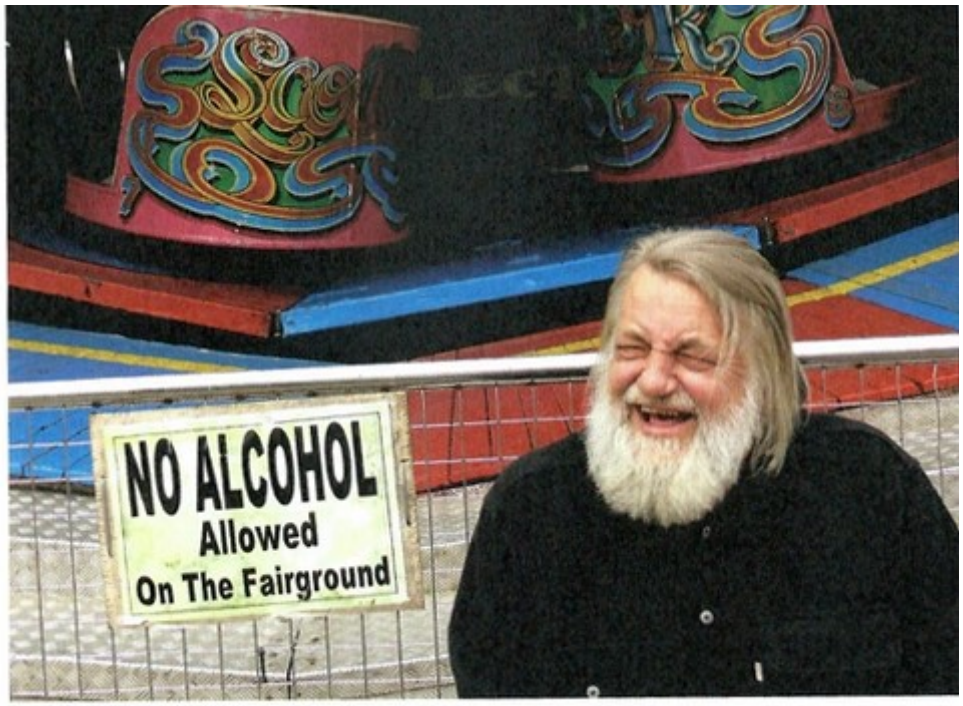
But there again, I am not happy with putting them all together in a big lump, because I want to make records that you can leave on until the end. If you make records where you have alternative takes, the same thing again and so on, it is OK for archives, for historical record, but it no longer serves the original function: A record you could put on and leave on until the end. So that was the idea of the original thing.



Live performances

You managed to play quite a lot of live shows during the short lifespan of the band.

Robert: We did, yeah! And they were very good fun to play. I used to like changing the themes, like… on the original 'Marchides', Dave wanted the improvisation completely out tempo, rubato or whatever the word would be, and I wasn't comfortable with that live. So I started to put some sort of a pulse underneath it. As much as I love free jazz, I am never really comfortable with too much out of tempo stuff. One of the things I really liked about jazz and rock music was that kind of physical movement. So, I tended to put that in, or change the time signatures slightly.

Did playing so much live influence the way the second album turned out?

Robert: Yes, I think that is possibly absolutely right.

Robert Wyatt ／写真提供：HosTess Entertainment

Splitting up

Do you have any memories from when you decided to split up the band?

Robert: I realised that in Soft Machine, I couldn't be a follower. And in Matching Mole, I found out that also I couldn't be a leader. So I was left with these two things. And then it occurred to me! My inspirational light bulb moment was: "You don't have to be in a band, Robert! It is not a law."

For all that time, because rock groups started about the time conscription in the army ended, I always saw it as an extension of going into the army. In the early 60s all young men went into the army to occupy foreign countries for a few years and sit around drinking beer, and picking up local girls and so on. And when they stopped recruiting soldiers, the Beatles went to Germany and did exactly the same thing! Ha ha ha!

I always thought that you have to be in a sort of gang, but no you don't. You don't have to do it! I was liberated in the end by – people think I am being ironic – but, I was liberated by being in a wheelchair. A band was no longer a possibility. It is a paradox, but I am totally happy that it happened now.

But there was talk of a new incarnation of Matching Mole?

Robert: Dave MacRae wanted to form a jazz-rock trio. And I didn't really want to go that jazz-rock way. I don't really like what came to be known as jazz-rock. There are some very nice people playing it, but it seems a bit opportunistic. Jazz musicians who are jealous of rock musicians doing so well and thinking: "Well I can play instruments better than them. Let's grow our hair, give ourselves a mystical name, get rid of our horn player and get a guitar player and we can play rock better than them."

So, I didn't want to be in a jazz-rock band. I was trying to think about a keyboard player, really. And the one I came up with, who was lovely, was a man called Francis Monkman who played with Curved Air. He had no jazz in him, but I worked with him on a radio broadcast that was later put out on American label Cuneiform. He was brilliant, very imaginative also, from a classical background.

But I just didn't know what to do and I thought: "Well I want a jazz player, but someone like Gary Windo who just doesn't play like a session musician. And Bill again maybe." I was working on that, and I could imagine a few tunes with that, but I couldn't imagine spending a year just with that. So… I was sort of saved from all of it by just falling out of a window. Into another planet, ha ha! Into another world.

So as a solo artist, you have been a leader of yourself for the rest of your career.

Robert: Yeah, that's right. I boss myself around. There are no bad feelings that way.

The Italians of the East

I saw on Youtube that you did a kind of a workshop at pub last year, where there was some playback of your music and you were talking in-between.

Robert: Yeah, there have been a couple of those. One for Wire magazine, and then for Cafe Oto in London, they have a music venue over there, run by a Japanese person.

Would you be at all interested in doing something like that in Japan?

Robert: I would have been, but in fact I am not travelling anymore. I don't go on airplanes anymore. The thing is, my wife is older than me. She is in her 70s and she is not very well. She has been struggling with her health. Having been fairly selfish most of my life and just doing my thing, I am trying now to be more just kind of domestic.

I would love to go to Japan in the sense that they are wonderful. I get lovely letters from Japan, and beautiful gifts, lovely things. Somebody asked me to name their new restaurant, and I did that, it is called ”Happy Mouth”. And I’ve got Japanese neighbours here. But I can’t travel anymore.

Certainly, musicians who play there love it, and I feel sad that I am missing that, but I can’t deal with it any more. I am not interested in talking about my disability, because as you gather, mostly it has been almost an advantage, making me concentrate and simplify my life. But that said, next year will be my 70th year, and I am getting health problems. I just can’t do things I used to be able to do.

I am so grateful to Japan, in some way they are kind of the Italians in the East. Because the two places I get the most alive and lively, understanding and friendly responses: in the West is Italy and in the East it is of course Japan. And those two areas of people listening have been my best encouragement over the years, absolutely no question.

Thank you for talking to me today!

Robert: I am sorry I gave you a bit of a hard time in the beginning… Temperamental musicians, what can you say!!

* * *

>> The interview on the Popgruppen website.

Previous article

Next article

Back to the list

ABÉCÉDAIRE

Les années Before | Soft Machine | Matching Mole | Solo | With Friends | Samples | Compilations | V.A. | Bootlegs | Reprises

HOME

Soft Machine - Uncut - The Archive Collection - 2019

SOFT MACHINE

Psychedelia, prog, rock and jazz fusion, all lightly brushed with absurdism – Wyatt's undulating crew proved an endlessly pliable sonic machine. By John Lewis

SOFT MACHINE have been several different groups over the course of their existence – a freakbeat combo who morphed into pioneers of psychedelic whimsy; an experimental prog band who eventually became a rigorous jazz rock act. The bulk of their output has been instrumental, but they still managed to spawn three distinctive vocalists – Robert Wyatt, Kevin Ayers and Daevid Allen – who questioned the fundamental nature of Anglo-American rock music.

Uniquely among prog-rock bands, Soft Machine tended not to use guitars, but they've still managed to feature several of Britain's top guitarists – Andy Summers from The Police, fusion guru Allan Holdsworth and jazz luminary John Etheridge. And the band has been the seedbed for dozens of other hugely successful musicians – film composer Karl Jenkins, big-name saxophonists Elton Dean, Ray Warleigh and Theo Travis, and drummers John Marshall and Gary Husband have all passed through the band's ranks over the past half century.

The band formed in 1966, from the ashes of the Daevid Allen Trio and the Wilde Flowers, featuring drummer Wyatt, bassist Ayers, Aussie guitarist Allen and organist Mike Ratledge. The only recording made by this quartet would be the February 1967single, "Love Makes Sweet Music" – a piece of charming freakbeat, not quite poppy enough for Ready Steady Go!, yet not quite freaky enough for the Summer of Love. Its flipside, "Feelin', Reelin', Squealin'", is closer to the hippie ideal, a piece of flute-drenched psychedelia featuring a growling baritone-voiced Kevin Ayers on the verses and a tenor-pitched Dadaist chorus from Wyatt. It would also be the last recording that the band would release featuring a guitar for nearly a decade.

An early live engagement saw them on the French Riviera, playing in a production of Picasso's outrageous, erotic play Desire Caught By The Tail and already displaying a fondness for jazz-inspired improvisation. Allen left the band on the way home – denied re-entry to the UK for overstaying the terms of his initial visa from Australia, he stayed on the Continent to form the Anglo- French outfit Gong – but his surrealist vision lived on for the first two Soft Machine albums. In particular was Allen's interest in the teachings of the French "pataphysicist" Alfred Jarry, an eccentric, proto-Dadaist prankster who counted Picasso, Gauguin, Duchamp and Oscar Wilde as friends.

The three-piece band's debut album, 1968's The Soft Machine, is a wonderfully endearing collection of skewed pop songs. It was played with a certain rigour that owed much to the band's contemporaries the Jimi Hendrix Experience (whom the band would support on a mammoth US tour that year), but Wyatt, Ayers and Ratledge all wore their experimentalism lightly – like Alfred Jarry, this was a band who were very consciously not taking themselves too seriously. "Why Am I So Short?" is a hymnal piece of Wyatt whimsy, "So Boot If At All" has a certain heavy rock swagger, with organist Mike Ratledge playing like a metal guitarist; "Why Are We Sleeping" prefigures early Blur; while "We Did It Again" is a hypnotic one-chord groove that anticipates the motorik krautrock that Can would be making a few years later. The album's highlight might be "Lullaby Letter", an angular proto-punk miniature with unusual chord changes that sounds oddly reminiscent of Nirvana, with Ratledge again playing a heavy metal solo on his Lowrey organ.

After the US tour with Hendrix (when Andy Summers briefly joined the band), Ayers left, to be replaced by the band's roadie Hugh Hopper, and the band regrouped to create the 1969 LP Soft Machine Volume Two, which takes the Jarry-esque absurdism of the first album into an almost symphonic dimension. The influence of the band's friends Pink Floyd is strong (Wyatt, Ratledge and Hopper had backed Syd Barrett on his 1968 solo debut, The Madcap Laughs). But the band also take a conceptual direction that owes much to Frank Zappa (apparently, on Zappa's recommendation, they split the album's two dominating suites into a shorter series of segued tracks to maximise on publishing income).

THE SOFT MACHINE
ABC PROBE/ BARCLAY, 1968
8/10

VOLUME TWO
PROBE, 1969
8/10

THIRD
CBS, 1970
9/10

FOURTH
CBS, 1971
6/10

FIFTH
CBS, 1972
7/10

SIX
CBS, 1973
7/10

SEVEN
CBS, 1973
6/10

BUNDLES
HARVEST, 1975
8/10

SOFTS
HARVEST, 1976
7/10

The first of these, "Rivmic Melodies", is a 17-minute suite filled with compelling shorter pieces. "Good evening, we now have a choice selection of rhythmic melodies from the Official Orchestra of the College of Pataphysics," announces Wyatt over a jazzy, loping groove, before launching into a Sesame Street-style recitation of the alphabet over a quirky melody (track four, "A Concise British Alphabet, Pt II", repeats the track with the alphabet recited in an entirely random order). Anchored by Ratledge playing suspended chords on the piano, often with him overdubbing buzzsaw organ riffs over the top, it's a thoroughly appealing album, and a fine vehicle for Wyatt's plaintive, mischievous choirboy tenor voice. "Dedicated To You But You Weren't Listening" is a lovely baroque ballad, while "Hibou Anemone And Bear" and "Orange Skin Food" both spin out into the kind of territory explored by Frank Zappa on Hot Rats, with Hugh's brother Brian Hopper playing harmonised solos on multiple reed instruments. Best of all might be "Hulloder", presumably written in the States, where Wyatt checks his privilege over the course of a lengthy, stream-of-consciousness ramble ("If I was black and I lived here/I'd want to be a big man in the FBI… but as I'm not/And because I'm free, white and 21/I don't need more power than I've got/Except sometimes when I'm broke").

The entire album is a cornucopia of ideas, any one of which could have seen them moving in a dozen different directions. The direction that they did end up taking, like many other jazz-loving rock musicians, was inspired by Miles Davis's album Bitches Brew. At the end of 1969, Wyatt visited a London jazz club where the pianist Keith Tippett was performing with his eight-piece, one that would later feature on his 1970 Polydor album You Are Here... I Am There. Wyatt was impressed by the horn frontline that lurched between tightly written harmonies and free improvisation. "We asked if we could borrow them to add spice to our distinctive but inflexible 'bees-in-abottle' sound and they generously agreed to help out," says Wyatt.

Elton Dean (alto saxophone), Marc Charig (cornet) and Nick Evans (trombone), along with Lyn Dobson (flute and alto) and Jimmy Hastings (flute and bass clarinet), were added to the Soft Machine lineup, forming a short-lived septet (Soft Machine weren't alone in their admiration of Tippett's band – King Crimson also hired Tippett, Charig and Evans around this time).

The resulting album, 1970's Third, turned out to be the way station between psychedelic prog and full-on jazz rock. Hugh Hopper's composition "Facelift" is a challenging and intriguing mix of ambient free improvisation and jazzy, high-pressure rock. It is a blend of two live performances recorded at Croydon's Fairfield Halls and then manipulated in the studio, Teo Macero-style, and subject to post-production tape loops. Ratledge's "Slightly All The Time" starts as a playful swing groove that moves into several stages and shifting time signatures; while the closing track, "Out-Bloody-Rageous", starts and ends with a nod to Terry Riley's A Rainbow In Curved Air, with overdubbed layers of organ creating a ghostly, hypnotic quality for the first and last five minutes of the track, sandwiching a jagged 7/4 groove that features one of Mike Ratledge's best fuzz-organ solos.

The album's penultimate track, Wyatt's "Moon In June", might be the band's masterpiece, but it was one that Ratledge and Hopper didn't particularly like. Wyatt sings a highly self-referential lyric that provides a running commentary of the recording process (the words would change when he performed the song live, at BBC Radio sessions, or at the Prom concert that Soft Machine headlined that summer). Wyatt plays drums, bass and keyboards for most of the track, his sparse approach reminiscent of his forthcoming solo albums like Rock Bottom. "Moon In June" could have augured a new era for the band as a Wyatt-esque conceptual pop group, but instead it became the band's last vocal track. 1971's Fourth sidelines Wyatt and it would be his last with the band. Hugh Hopper is the dominant songwriter, and many of the textures explored by the band start to become self-consciously jazzier. Roy Babbington joins the band on four tracks to play upright bass, complementing Hopper's bass guitar, while Ratledge puts his electric piano through a ring modulator – an FX unit popular with the likes of Herbie Hancock and Chick Corea. Elton Dean's first songwriting contribution, "Fletcher's Blemish", is a series of tightly written cued passages that are linked by free improvisation, consciously referencing Bitches Brew. Ratledge writes the bitty, fiddly "Teeth", while Hopper's "Virtually" is a four-part suite that moves between gentle harmonies and free-jazz freakouts. The waltzing "Kings And Queens" is a rare point of meditative peace on the album.

By the time of Fifth (1972), Soft Machine had fully morphed into a fusion outfit, broadly along the lines of Chick Corea's Return To Forever or John McLaughlin's Mahavishnu Orchestra. Wyatt had been replaced by two jazz drummers – Phil Howard on side one, John Marshall on side two – both playing with a weird degree of restraint. Ratledge had ditched his Hohner pianet, the clunky-sounding electric piano he'd used on previous albums, and started using a Fender Rhodes, feeding it through numerous effects units and enjoying its glossy, ethereal qualities on tracks like "M C" and the aqueous ambient jazz of "Drop". "All White" is a rigorous modal groove in 7/4, "Pigling Bland" is an episodic funk ballad, while "As If" is a fidgety and idiosyncratic piece of collective improvisation written by Ratledge.

(Above) Third-era lineup – (l–r) Ratledge, Hugh Hopper, Robert Wyatt and Elton Dean – before their concert at the Albert Hall, August 13, 1970

What becomes apparent is that, for all the meretricious playing, there is no-one in the band capable of acting as a Chick Corea or a Herbie Hancock. Ratledge is great at texture and at "comping" (providing inventive backing for others), and he could get away with playing simple fuzz-rock riffs on his wheezy, buzzy Lowrey organ in earlier incarnations of the band. But, as a classically trained pianist dabbling in jazz, his limitations as an improviser become apparent. Even the band's strong instrumentalists, like Elton Dean, seemed reluctant to really take the lead.

Dean left after Fifth to be replaced by multireedist Karl Jenkins from Ian Carr's Nucleus, who started to dominate the band on 1973's Six, a double album that mixes live and studio recordings. A voyage through enjoyably disorientating time signatures, "37 ½" features some impressive drumming from John Marshall; "EPV" and "Lefty" are both interesting ambient explorations featuring an FX-laden Fender Rhodes; while the funky groove of Ratledge's "Gesolreut" recalls Eddie Harris's "Freedom Jazz Dance", the soul-jazz standard covered by Miles Davis. The most memorable track on the studio album is "Stanley Stamp's Gibbon Album" a propulsive groove set around Ratledge's fugal piano riff. But it's the angular "Stumble" that sets out Jenkins' stall as a songwriter, and sets the tone for how the band would continue on 1973's Seven.

By now Hopper had left, to be replaced by Roy Babbington, and the writing is dominated by Jenkins, who pens seven of the tracks, specialising in simple, static and rather repetitive grooves like " Nettle Bed". "Carol Ann" is a pretty, spartan ballad, "Day's Eye" is a rigorous workout in 9/8, while Ratledge introduces a synth to the band for the first time – a modular analogue EMS model called the AKS.

It's tempting to see subsequent albums as an afterthought, but Bundles (1975) is a fascinating change in direction. Ratledge is increasingly sidelined – Jenkins is even starting to overdub keyboards – but the real USP is that the band have introduced guitar for the first time since their debut single. Where the sonic space usually occupied by guitar was filled by Ratledge's FX-laden keyboards, here Allan Holdsworth starts to dominate proceedings, playing with a John McLaughlin swagger on "Hazard Profile", showing an ECM delicacy on "Gone Sailing" and telling a compelling narrative tale on "Land Of The Bag Snake". Holdsworth would soon be lost to America (to join The Tony Williams Lifetime), to be replaced by the more introspective John Etheridge on the rather reflective and ambient 1976 album Softs.

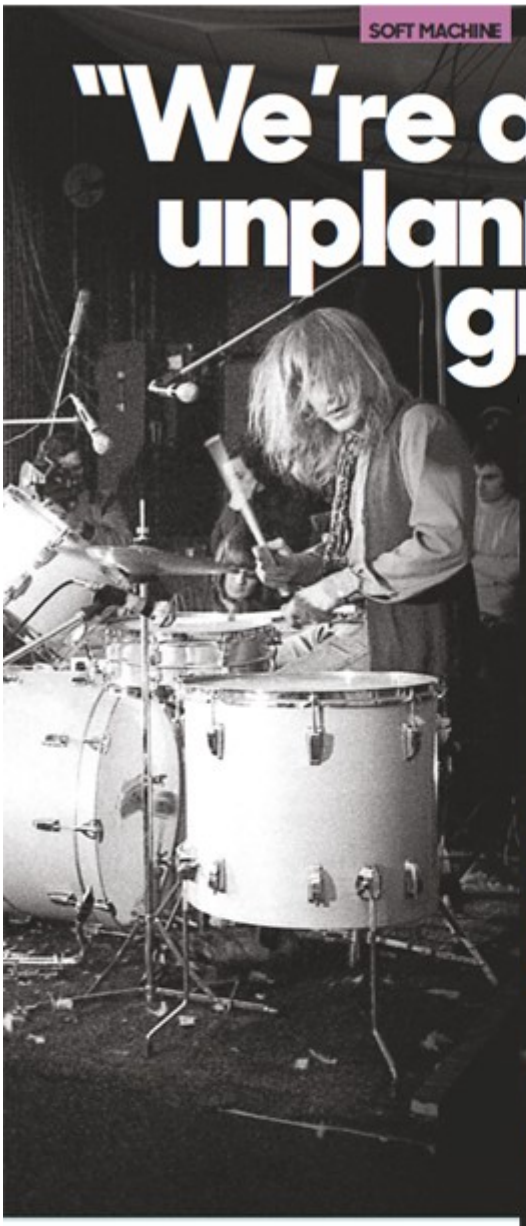
Soft Machine have continued to exist, on and off, since then, as a legacy project – also known, variously, as Soft Ware, Soft Works and Soft Machine Legacy – drawing from an alumni of around 50 people and often featuring some very big names in British jazz (including John Taylor, Dick Morrissey and Theo Travis). But their repertoire concentrates almost exclusively on the mid 1970s incarnation of the band. There are dozens of fascinating iterations of Soft Machine that could provide fruitful territory for exploration.

(Below) Bundles lineup, 1975 – (c/wise from top left) Roy Babbington, Ratledge, John Marshall, Allan Holdsworth and Karl Jenkins



HULTON-DEUTSCH/HULTON-DEUTSCH COLLECTION/CORBIS VIA GETTY IMAGES; TONY RUSSELL/REDFERNS

[Below : this interview is also published here]

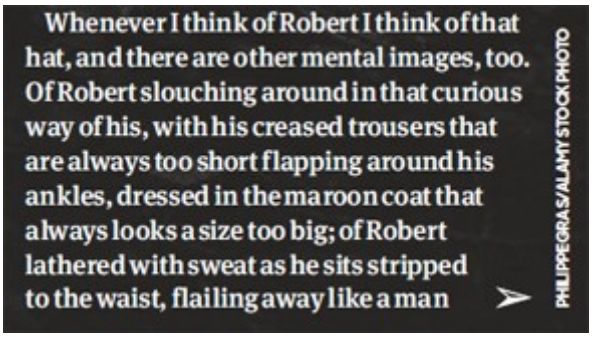
SOFT MACHINE

"We're a very unplanned group"

MELODY MAKER JANUARY 2,1971

Melody Maker
RADIO 1 TO DIE?

1970 was a very good year for Robert Wyatt. It was the year in which he established himself as a major drummer in contemporary British music; the year in which he experimented outside the confines, unrestrictive though they are, of The Soft Machine, dallying briefly with Kevin Ayers, then concentrating more strongly on his role inside the Keith Tippett Centipede project, with whom he has played so impressively on their three initial outings.



And then, as the year has drawn to an end, he has further established his own identity by becoming a prime mover in Symbiosis, that excitingly impromptu, free-blowing band, and finally topping off the proceedings by producing his own album – you believe he produced it, too?

He has called it The End Of An Ear, which is quite a funny pun, I suppose. But then, Robert it quite a funny person with his huge fur French hat crammed down over his untidy lank hair.

Whenever I think of Robert I think of that hat, and there are other mental images, too. Of Robert slouching around in that curious way of his, with his creased trousers that are always too short flapping around his ankles, dressed in the maroon coat that always looks a size too big; of Robert lathered with sweat as he sits stripped to the waist, flailing away like a man

PHILIPPE GRAS/ALAMY STOCK PHOTO

"I STILL FEEL LOST. SOMETIMES I'M BACK WHERE I STARTED SIX YEARS AGO"
ROBERT WYATT

possessed under the hot lights of the Albert Hall during the Softs' televised concert; and then there is Robert sitting with bitter tears in his eyes in a dressing room in Rotterdam because he hates the performance he has just given.

Because, you see, he's nothing if not an emotional person. He is also nothing if not a nice person, and niceness is not an excessively common quality among musicians and entertainers. Much of the secret of his success is that people respond so readily to his spontaneity and generosity of spirit. Everybody wants to work with him, and when they have made the gig they come back for more. There was nobody happier and more elated amongst those 50 people in Centipede than Wyatt, and no one more brought down when the band received reviews that were generally cautious and, in one instance, bitterly hostile.

"I'm upset, not for my own sake," he explained later, "but for Keith and Julie." And he meant it.

How do you feel about interviews, Robert? "

I regret most I've done when I see what's happened, but then I regret most performances on records, too. I think one of the big difficulties is that written words and spoken words aren't the same thing. You actually think different things in print – I do. Things I say, words I use in speech, if I was writing down the same thought, I actually wouldn't use the same word. There's nothing anybody can do about that, really. It's misleading. I find I say things just to pad some things out, or to be clever for a minute while I'm trying to think what I really think. I can see the value of them, but I still find it makes demands... It upsets me sometimes, put it like that. But that's true of anything."

But Hugh [Hopper] and Mike [Ratledge] don't like interviews, do they?

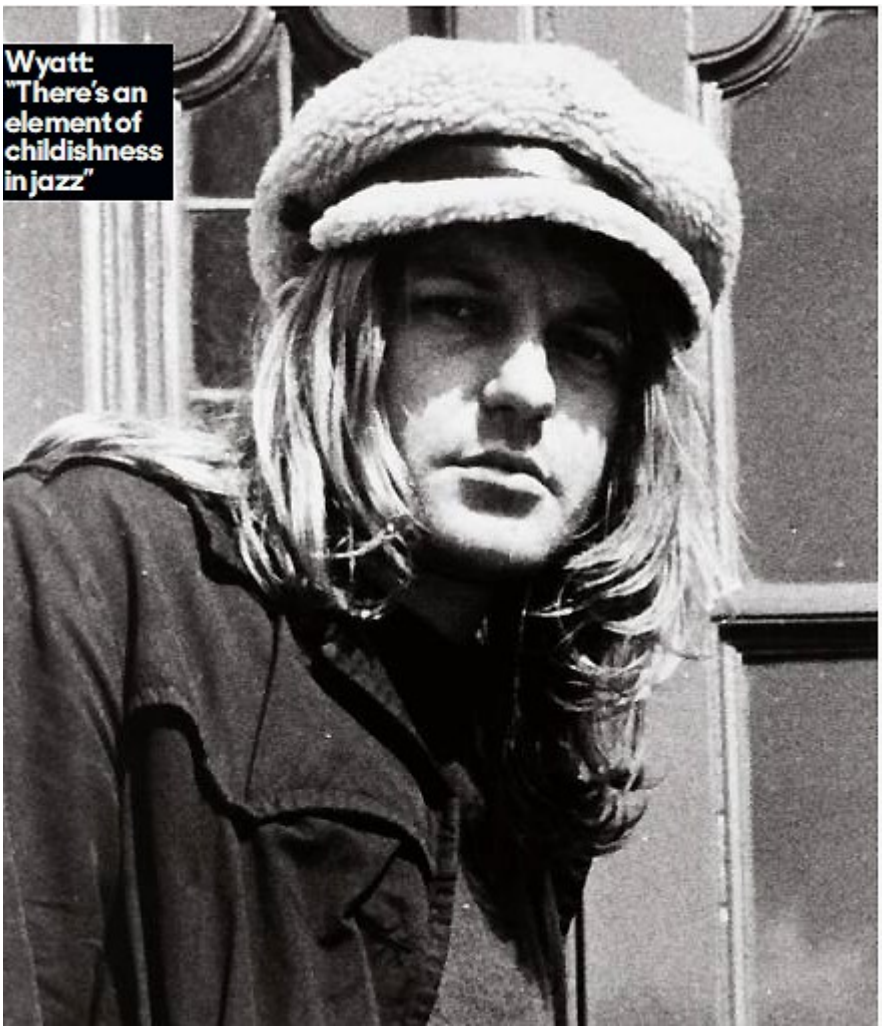
"Well, Hugh is pathologically shy. Very. The fact that he goes on stage is part of it. You don't get up on your own, you get up with equipment and amplifiers and volume. It's very private on stage; it's not an exhibitionistic thing to do at all.

"People are often surprised at musicians and performers being introverts but it doesn't surprise me. What surprises me is that people who are extroverts are musicians. What amazes me is when a brilliant musician is an extrovert, because if they're extrovert it probably means that they spent their time in their teens rushing round coffee bars meeting people, and I'm surprised that they had the time to learn to play anything at the same time.

"Whereas I find that introverts are less social people, are very often the ones who learn to play instruments properly. The one way you can hide is to be a performer, because it's really a false identity to be on stage. You can really feel untouchable and private.



"The group has become primarily instrumental, for instance, because of our characters, in a way. We're a very unplanned group in our direction. We just sort of drift from whatever area seems to excite us at the moment to whatever other area seems to excite us. Even the simple things, like the gaps, the lack of gaps, is because we are embarrassed, I think, to have a silence on stage where the audience is expected to react back to us. I just find that totally embarrassing – ending a number, bang, then straight into the next one, all that business. I can't bear it."

You don't always appear happy with the group... What do you think it's doing wrong for you personally?

[Long pause] "All the things you can talk about in music we agree on. We all share similar ideas on the possibilities of freedom and the different types of freedom, and structure, and discipline, and what use they are, and when they're useful and when they are not, and how to cooperate, and still express yourself. But music isn't, like, conscious ideas, concepts, if you had them; the real music is the way you play, the actual note that you put after the note before.

"And quite simply, sometimes we aren't playing the same piece of music – the drumming isn't the drumming for the bass line that Hugh's using, or there's another bass line that isn't being played, or the rhythm section thing that should be with Mike's organ solo isn't because Hugh and I are somewhere else. The idea, after all, is not to create four pieces of music but one piece of music, and I'm upset on nights when we create four pieces of music."

GEMS/GETTY IMAGES

So what have you gained musically from the Symbiosis?

"Since the summer, since I've started playing with Kevin, I've realised that in other contexts there are things in me which come out and never seem to come out when I play with Soft Machine. It's not a question of quality at all, it's just a question of different situations demand different skills, and I hadn't realised just how much you do adapt and just play what seems necessary. I would be very loath to put a word to it and think of a concept which fits what I mean.

"All I know is that when I get on a kit, and there's Roy Babbington on me left and whoever it might be, Neville Whitehead or someone, and Gary [Windo] and Nick [Evans], that a whole different thing happens. I just lift up me sticks and immediately something else happens and different situations arise that would never arise with Soft Machine. I just play completely different things.

"Symbiosis is different people. All music is a cooperative thing, you see. Beyond all people's individual talent is a shared talent, which the music has. How to pin down the best relationship... European music sort of solidified in a way into an almost military hierarchy of composer, conductor and orchestra.

"What happens is, there's a kind of assumption that the type of person who conceives the music is a different kind of person from a performer – that's what European music assumes, although many great European composers have been virtuoso performers of their own work, and many great composers are great conductors. But generally speaking, this is a hierarchy that's accepted, and the fact is that in my opinion the most vital influence on music has been the black music of the past 50 years.

"The most interesting thing it seems to me, that has been suggested by black music, is that, as in, say, painting, the person who conceives of it and the person who plays it can be one and the same – combine both skills in one person. And this seems to me the most interesting, challenging thing that jazz music has come up with that European music doesn't really like to get to grips with. And what Symbiosis is, is a complete imbalance; in other words, we're all blowers without any of the composers, or when we do have composers – like Keith was with us the other night – he's not in a composing or controlling role at all.

"And so it's an incredible risk, Symbiosis every night, because we just turn up and play. The responsibility is enormous; you've got to be on form then and there because you're going to be doing all the composing and all the performing at the same time, and so is everybody else."

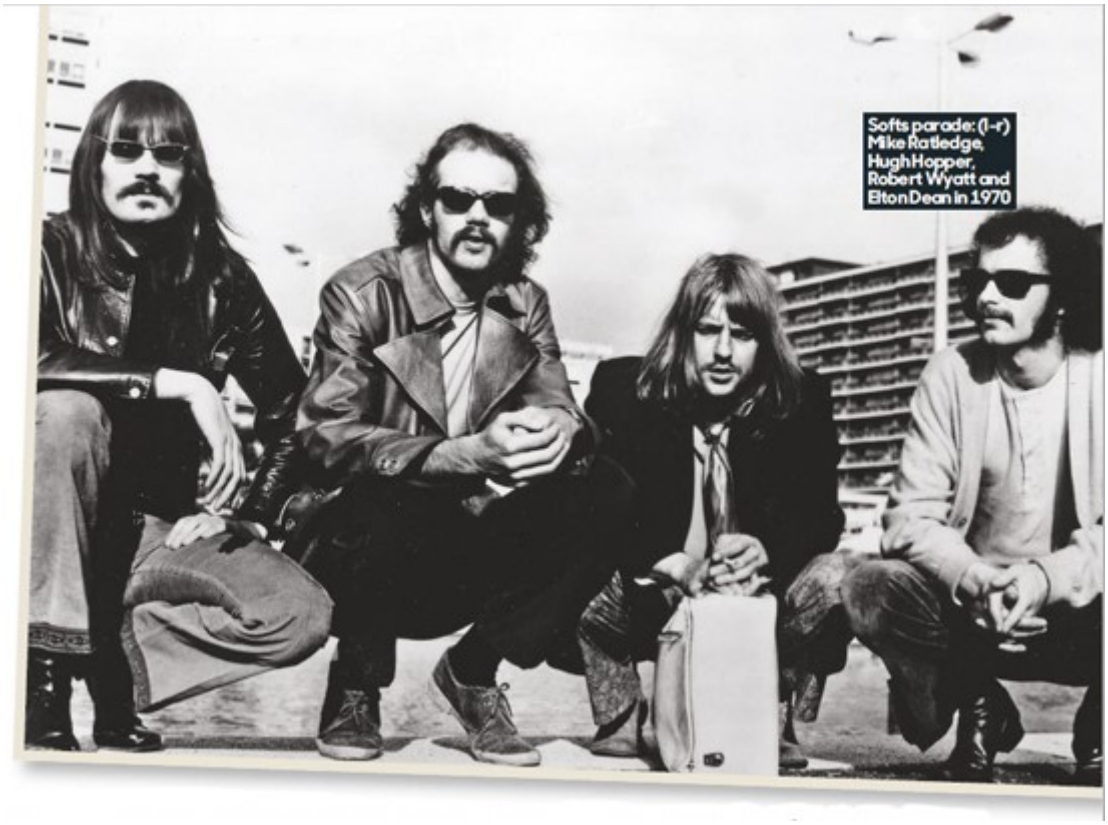
Would you agree that this seems to be a very interesting period for young jazz musicians and the thinking rock musicians? They really seem to be coming together.

"Well, Centipede is directly responsible for Symbiosis and so on. Yeah, I think so. For me, I find it staggering, and a bit scary, because it seems to me there's so much to do and so little to hide behind.

"There's a lot of knowledge and wisdom that's been spread around in the last four or five years. There's no excuse for certain types of musicians not knowing about other types. The standards are so high now! And the area of information you are expected to cope with! I think there's bound to be a lot of messy stuff of journalistic interest – interesting but disposable – but I think it's incredibly exciting. Short answer to your question – yes."

What do you think jazz people can learn from those musicians with rock references?

"That's interesting. Before I talk about it I think that if you think of it as a blanket thing you're in trouble; a band created out of generalised theories sounds like one to me, always. And a band made out of people who've met and work together well sounds like that as well. There can be as much difference in worlds between two so-called rock musicians working together, they can bring more completely different things to each other than a rock musician and a classical musician.



"If there are any general things, I think they're the obvious ones. Jazz musicians are now realising that there's nothing mature about consistently drowning out your bass player and pianist. There's nothing childish about getting your bass player and pianist heard, even if it means they have to play crude instruments such as bass guitar and electric piano. There's nothing essentially immoral or immature about it. The fact that rock musicians assume that you've got to hear the bass line – although very often they overdo it – seems to me an actual element of musical maturity in rock. There's an element of childishness in jazz. There's an assumption that jazz musicians can do all the teaching and rock musicians all the learning.

"If the soloist, for instance, is doing a development upon a harmonic sequence and you can't hear the harmonic sequence, so you don't know what the solo lines are referring to, then you lose the point of reference; you lose the lovely cosmic hum, if you'll pardon the expression; you lose the sense of well-being, you lose, actually, the music, and you just leave the ideas. It's an important thing in rock, the amplifiers and that, and instead of being rude about them, I think jazz musicians are realising more and more that they've got a very important function and that they're solving problems that can't be solved in any other way in the immediate future.

"And I think rock musicians can learn from jazz musicians. The most important thing they learn is that you can get a lot more out of music and put a lot more into it if you learn to play properly. Quite simply, jazz musicians are showing rock musicians that there's an awful lot of things you can do on a guitar and drum kits that aren't unnecessary or just technical fiddle bits – they just expand your language.

"In practice, most jazz musicians tend to me to be very involved in what they play – actually, the relationship between them and their instrument; and they've developed that to a very high extent – a man and his bass, a man and his alto, a man and his piano. And what rock has spent a lot more time doing than most of jazz is studying the actual effect and balance of what all these instruments sound like from the outside on a stage."

PICTORIAL PRESS LTD / ALAMY

What do you think your strengths are as a drummer?

"Well, I suppose it's a bit late to say this, but I don't primarily think of myself as a drummer. I think of myself as a catalyst for the real musicians. How I see myself being most useful is getting people at it slightly more than if I wasn't there, or even getting them together and at it. If I was really into drums as an end I'd be sitting here practising. But I haven't got a practice pad! So long as I can play well enough to pin down what's going on and to emphasise the pace that's necessary.

"From the technical point of view I'm just nowhere, really. I've always felt a bit uncomfortable since we started. Basically, I came up to London to sing songs with Kevin [Ayers]. Five, six years ago. I'd done a lot of things before then that were instrumental, but by instrumental I don't mean jazz or rock. In fact, the funny way these discussions come to jazz and rock is that I don't see them as the two great sources from which musicians are drawing.

"A lot of my richest sources of inspiration come from not one musical idiom or the other but from paintings, and theatre and people's characteristics that you haven't seen come through in music."

But everybody is affected to a greater or lesser extent by every experience they encounter. Didn't you once tell me you'd learnt a lot by being told by Robert Graves, the poet, to leave home at 16 and make your own way in the world?

"Well, I lived with him in Majorca for a while, and he became my Mediterranean father in a way. He's happy to have me there, and I hadn't left school when I first went there, but he didn't want me to loaf about in the sun and just have a nice time and groove, which is virtually the state he's got to now, because he has the traditional attitude that he's done his homework, built up something, and now he's out in the sun finishing it off, so to speak.

"I hadn't earned it yet, somehow, and though there was great love abounding it wasn't one which had to be constantly backed up by me being there all the time or him coming here, just that he felt I had to go out and do it, and then when I'd got something that I'd done, maybe go back and see him again. And I haven't been back yet because I don't feel I've done anything yet that would stand up to his kind of standards."

So how did the tie-up with Graves originate?

"There's a bunch of friends there in the early '30s who'd gone out there – poets and writers – and their children, their grandchildren, got invited out there by the people who stayed on there – you know, the children of the people who went back to England during the war. And I'm one of them. He's no relation, though my father's first wife was his secretary.

"There's a kind of family of thinkers that my parents belonged to, and to a certain extent Robert Graves could be called the head of that family. He's a kind of distant tribal chief, though it's several generations removed. He had various fights with me dad, who died some years ago. My father at that time, he was a sort of brilliant young Communist layabout, really [laughs].

"He'd done various things. He'd got a degree in law at Liverpool, and then he did modern languages at Oxford, and then he got on to do psychology at Cambridge. A very bright bloke.

"He lived just long enough to realise that I wasn't going into university, which really disappointed him. He died in a state of anger at me, I'm afraid. But he was also a pianist, and that's definitely where I got my ideas from. The house was full of music.

"And Graves, he's incredible. There's a colony, a set, around him there. Mind you, I'm talking about when I was there, which was before The Soft Machine. I've got lots of friends who have gone back there. Kevin spent some time there. He got into Majorca as a place to live much more than I did."

So when you came up to London you were going to sing with Kevin?

"Yes, I think that was the idea; I didn't really know. I'd been through a period in my head very much like the stuff I'm doing now, although not technically, probably. The music I was listening to – had been listening to – was Sunny Murray, Milford Graves and Cecil Taylor, essentially. And Eric Dolphy, and Elvin Jones, of course. And I arrived at the point where I decided the simplicity of Kevin's songs, and the rightness and charm of them, had a fantastic appeal to me after a couple of years of Sunny Murraying and freak-out. And I'm now, I think, at a similar stage. I'm likely now to get into the stage that Chris Spedding has been through on his album. I haven't heard it, but what he's said about it I recognise, and I think a lot of us do.

"In fact, it's becoming a long syndrome in music – people going from complexity to simplicity. But I still feel very lost, actually. Sometimes I'm back where I started six years ago. I've to go through the cycle all over again now."

Previous article

Next article

Back to the list

ABÉCÉDAIRE

Les années Before | Soft Machine | Matching Mole | Solo | With Friends | Samples | Compilations | V.A. | Bootlegs | Reprises

HOME

"I'm not concerned with whining" - The Best of NME 1970-1974 - August 2018

NME OCTOBER 26, 1974

Post accident, ROBERT WYATT unveils his album Rock Bottom, and a chart hit, "Daydream Believer". "The accident didn't in fact haunt me or in fact have half the effect on me that people might suppose." "You've got to think of something to sing..."

> Zoom

THERE'S something extra special about green suede boots. A certain devil-maycare attitude, a touch of fearless dandyism combined with a sense of the earthy and an instinct for style that just don't quit. Robert Wyatt weareth green boots. They go very nicely with the blue plastic stopwatch around his neck.

Nick Mason, Very Famous Drummer and Producer De Luxe, peers eloquently through the plate-glass barrier between the Shop Floor and Ground Control at CBS studios. On the other side, Gary Windo (fetchingly ceilinged by a little white cap) and Mongezi Feza are adding the horn lines to Mr. Wyatt's Next Teenage Smasheroonie.

"Great," opines Wyatt from his mobile command-post at the doorward end of the console.

"It does a bit, doesn't it?" replies Mason.

Wyatt groans elaborately. "You and your Pink Floyd in-jokes."

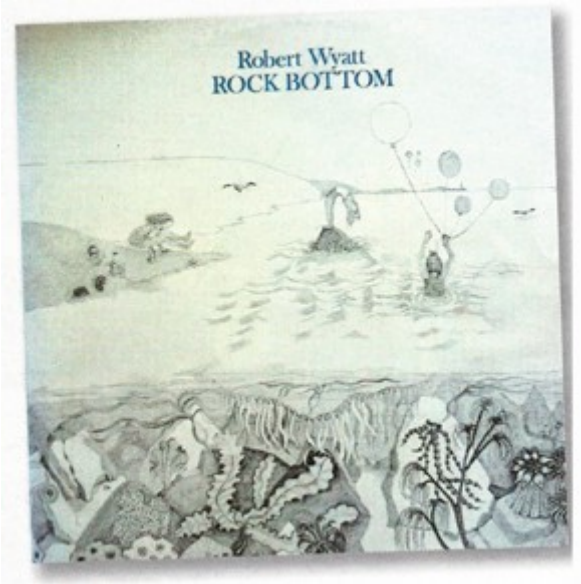
The song is another golden great from the sizzlin' Sixties, Chris Andrews' "Yesterday Man". Where Andrews' original was aggressively petulant, Wyatt's is wistfully surreal. He performs on assorted bits of percussion (including a bass-drum whomped by hand) and what sounds like a harmonium, but plays around the beat while the main rhythmic push comes from Windo and Feza. A modestly clad young man with an air of amiable vagueness that instantly pegs him as a member of Henry Cow wanders in, identifies himself by the highly improbable name of John Greaves, overdubs a positive humdinger of a bass line, inquires how long it takes to get from here to Liverpool Street, and wanders out again.

"Yeah, but could Pan's People dance to it?" inquires Windo.

It looks as if they may have to, because after a minor fracas with Top Of The Pops' resident plenipotentiary Robin Nash, Wyatt will probably not be gracing their studios for some little time to come.

It seems that Nash considered Wyatt's appearing in his wheelchair to be somewhat "distasteful", both to the audience and to the production team. Wyatt retorted, with ample justification, that if being in a wheelchair didn't hang him up, he saw no reason why it should offend anybody else. Exeunt fuming in opposite directions.

Meanwhile, there's a groovy little ditty entitled "Sonia" to go on the B-side, and for this one Wyatt whips it out on a specially prepared mellotron programmed with sound effects, tuned percussion, voices, xylophones and a whole circus of other foolishnesses. As he gets to work on the track (which already features him on piano and percussion) jaws sag and people run serious risks of falling off their chairs.



"He could do a show by himself with two or three of those," murmurs his wife Alfie.

"Can we hear the other one again?" asks Windo.

Mason spins around in his chair, face frozen in well-simulated disgust. "What do you think this is?" he asks icily. "A bleedin' discotheque or something?"

As the studio disintegrates once more into cackles of braindamaged hilarity, we fade out into a different time phase; : two weeks previously in Twickenham, playground of the Elder Deities. We'll give Wyatt one paragraph's start to make it back to his residence in time to admit the writer.

OK, Robert-go!

WHILE we're waiting, let's sling in a few thoughts on Mr Wyatt's album, Rock Bottom, which is being received in the nation's record stores with the proverbial storm of indifference. First of all, it's an easy album to listen to and a hard one to come to terms with. (Jeez, two clauses ending in prepositions. If my English teacher could see me now.)

As Ian MacDonald pointed out in his original review of the album, rock-star-as-paraplegic is a whole different ball game to the flood of spiritual hypochondriacs currently laying their bummers on paying customers, especially when Wyatt has triumphed over his particular slice of adversity, leaving others (like John Lennon, Lou Reed and pre-Beach Neil Young) staggering under comparatively featherweight burdens.

I don't want to pull any sanctimonious Oxfam there's-a-lesson-to-be-learned-by-all-of-us routines, but nevertheless, the point does have to be made. Not to dwell overlong, either, on the fact that the music and lyrics are a prime vindication of tile theory of lateral thinking as applied to rock music (ie, many of the conventional criteria of what constitutes a "good rock lyric" or a "good rock melody" are effortlessly short-circuited).

EYEWITNESS!

NICK MASON: "I first met Robert at UFO, then we probably did some gigs together – we certainly spent time together in New York when Soft Machine were touring with Hendrix. We were all holed up in the same hotel in New York in 1968. Then of course I produced Robert's Rock Bottom.

"Producing Robert didn't entail an enormous amount of hard work. He really just wanted a bit of assistance in the technical side. But I certainly didn't need to tell him anything about how the music went.

"Recording didn't take long, we probably did the backing tracks in an hour or so. We spent longer putting [guitarist] Fred Frith's stuff on than anything else, putting the violin part on and so on. That was all Fred's idea, we let him loose on it.

"It was probably faster than all the Pink Floyd tempos throughout history. We always kept to about 70bpm max. My doctor told me never to play faster than my pulse rate... But I was a lot younger and fitter, then, so it was fine.

"Pink Floyd had been on Top Of The Pops in '67. Top Of The Pops hardly changed at all from its first to last show as far as I remember. The same sort of slightly uncomfortable dancing and some DJ shouting. We appeared with Robert two weeks running, and the second week they didn't want us to show the wheelchair.

"Drury Lane was the only time the song was performed – unless you count by The Monkees. I remember it being fun.

There, now. I've gone on for five paragraphs when I only meant to write one, and poor old Robert's waiting for me two weeks ago in Twickenham - so into the conveniently located time/space reducer (cleverly disguised as an ordinary London taxi) and...

Lo and behold, here we are at the Wyatt residence, a large, airy house - reputedly donated by admirer Julie Christie - and here's Mr. Wyatt himself to open the door.

The living room window is adorned with a communist sticker (you just knew that he was a dirty Red, didn't you? Now he'll definitely never get back on Top Of The Pops). Beaming and kaftan-draped, he skids around the kitchen organising coffee ("We don't have any sugar, so is condensed milk all right? You don't look like a hippie, otherwise I'd offer you honey"), before transferring the discussion to the Principal Living Area, which, he claims, "has a totally spurious and extremely temporary air of tidiness."

He produces a reminder list for himself of things that he specifically wanted to talk about. A remark made by the author, to the effect that he never listens to the radio because he likes to programme his own listening, sparks Wyatt off on one of his ready-made topics.

"But the logical extension of that is why not get a piano so that then you can programme your own notes. It's like singing; everybody thinks that it's a case of some people have a voice and some people haven't. Everybody's got an equally good voice. Just like everybody's got two arms and two legs. It's just a matter of using it.

"People who get praised for doing it are the people who actually bother. It's incredible cheek, actually. There's nothing easier than putting on layer after layer of any instrument that you find lying around." Take that, Mike Oldfield. Still, that does presuppose that you can actually play the goddamn things in the first place.

"No, not assuming that you can play it. In fact, Dave MacRae had a much harder time putting down Mellotron than I did, because he knows much more about possibilities. I'm so delighted if I can get a note which sounds nice that I don't get too flash with it.

"Blokes don't like to admit that many of their heroes became heroes because a lot of girls fancied them"

Dave can do so much that it's almost a drawback. The people who make the best rock records are the people who can't really play that well at all."

"It must be very tantalising for someone like Keith Jarrett, because he can do so much. It's like an athlete: there's such a real joy in doing it. His fingers are so fast that his brain can't keep up half the time.

"People with a fantastic amount of facility have a hard time controlling it for a specific musical event. In fact, amazing soloists tend to play different versions of Their Solo in everything they play. Jazz guitarists have a much harder time playing solos that are relevant to a particular tune than, say, George Harrison would, who can't move that fast. This is my theory, which is my theory and which belongs to me.

"Now what else is on my list... there's a few things that I'd kick myself for if I didn't mention. One of which is the growing antipathy among NME readers - and writers - towards boring old snobs left over from flower power, such as myself being given precedence over... no, not precedence, but... taking music away from the people or something... if I'm wrong I'll apologise... actually, I think I am wrong.

"Anyway, I'd just like to say that I heard Noddy Holder this morning, and I think he's one of the best singers I've ever heard. He's one of the only singers I've ever heard who's consistently done amazing vocals on everything since the first record his group did. I think he's an absolutely... fantastic singer.

"Now, what else do I think?"

What else does he think?

Heavens to albatross, gentle reader, the foregoing represents about four minutes of a four-hour conversation. The ideas-per-minute quotient of a Wyatt conversation rivals that of Groucho Marx in his prime. You'd need a "Wyatt Remembers"-type paperback to do justice to it all.

Anyway, let me just sling in a few random excerpts from our extravarapperama:

"Oh, another thing that I think is... see, Alfie liked the Sparks single straight off an' I didn't and she suggested that a lot of blokes miss the point that rock's based on. All us blokes claim Mick Jagger, or whoever it might be, as our sort of male hero, but in fact the basic reason that a lot of these geezers get famous is because they're sex symbols for girls.

Chairing proceedings: Wyatt in the studio, October 16, 1974

"The male rock fan takes over in terms of who's supposed to be good and who isn't - and I was wondering about this tendency towards sourness on the part of all blokes when they talk about rock'n'roll and the disillusion that they feel about rock'n'roll.

"It's because they don't like to admit that a large number of the heroes actually became heroes not as earthy rock-music-for-the-people people but simply because an incredible number of girls fancied them.

"I reckon you ought to have Elkie Brooks and Lyndsey De Paul and people doing singles reviews, because as far as I can remember it's been all blokes doing 'em. A lot of singles are to do with male sex objects, so it's very odd that it's largely men writing about it."

Two more minutes and counting...

ANOTHER bit, mainly about that Drury Lane gig of a month or so back. Gonna do anymore?

"No. I knew it was gonna be quite good, because Laurie Allan, Hugh Hopper and Dave Stewart are basically my dream rhythm section. I felt that no matter how bad it was, those people and Fred Frith and so on would be able to pull something out of the hat.

"There's some misleading things put out about me, actually, about my dislike of live performances. All I'm talking about is me and what suits me.

"I get things together in live performances that I wouldn't get together normally and there's certainly a certain magic to it if it's working right, but the sheer cost and the whole organisation of getting a live group working and the solid responsibilities of getting other people paid -there's just so many things that can go wrong that the percentages are all against you.

"But people like me aren't basically quick thinkers and we work best without people... staring at us.

"I've got a sort of composer mentality - not that I actually do much composing. If I wasn't watching telly I'd be composing most of the time, and this is how my brain operates.

"Performance is something else altogether. Performance is taking on people who've come out for a lift after their day, so that they feel good for a couple of hours, and there's therefore a temptation to get into the exciting bits. Whereas most of the music I like is... pretty boring, actually! Performing live gives you a cheap thrills consciousness."

On to the album, and its graphic depiction of Wyatt's life before, during and after the accident.

"The accident didn't in fact haunt me or in fact have half the effect on me that people might suppose. It was a useful bunch of symbols of what I think life's like anyway, but even then I'm not really concerned with whining.

"You've got to think of something to sing, and something that comes off the tongue quite easily, so obviously you draw on what's around you, just like a person who's going out to sketch. The sketch is just the sketch.

"What they are interested in is their control of their fingers. The subject that they use is really quite accidental. It's just one of the tools, part of the simulating stuff that sets things off. Nothing to do with the quality of what comes out. It doesn't matter if at the end you know nothing more about houses or trees. The words are just tools for me to make pleasant sounding songs out of."

Charles Shaar Murray

LIVE

"From the sublime to the ridiculous..."

Theatre Royal Drury Lane, September 8, 1974

NME SEPTEMBER 14, 1974

EVEN though the gig was due to start at 8.30, Drury Lane had started to clog up with earnest-looking hippies nearly two hours before the event. Mind you, it all adds to the sense of occasion, but the regrettably prosaic explanation was that someone had neglected to inscribe the precise time of showing on either the tickets or the ads.

So it goes.

Things kicked off with a brief monologue by the newlywed John Peel, clad in his most glam rock outfit. Undeterred by shouts of "Boring" from certain sections of the audience – all right then, from me – he intoned for a few moments and then vacated the stage to Ivor Cutler and Phyllis April King, who provided a highly amusing interlude of deadpan poesies and brief songs, which were received with great merriment by the assembled company.

So it goes.

After a discreet intermission, Peel cartwheeled dynamically back onto the stage. Through mobile, well-shaped lips he enunciated (rather devastatingly, it must be admitted) "For Robert Wyatt of Twickenham, opportunity knocks!"

Mr Wyatt perambulated rapidly to a strategic area between a small mixer ("These knobs don't actually do anything – they just give me the first trickles of the mighty wave of superstars that was soon to swamp the stage. (The preceding sentence comes to you courtesy of 36 back numbers of Conan The Barbarian).

Most of the material from Wyatt's Rock Bottom found its way into the front half of the set (and in case you need to be re-told, it's a wondrous LP indeed). Towards the end of "A Last Straw", a diffident young man with an unmistakable "I-am-a-junior-roadie" demeanour wandered on, played a bit of synthesiser and wandered off.

It wasn't until he reappeared half an hour later with a Gibson SG strapped around him, that the audience sussed that this dynamic figure was in fact none other than Mike Oldfield, the man with Britain's two best-selling albums to his name, one of which had been blasted through the PA during the intermissions. However, it was undoubtedly Wyatt's show, despite the superstars who wandered on and off – y'know, yer Nick Masons, Gary Windos, that bunch.

Swaying in his wheelchair playing ghost drums, fiddling with the dials of his mixer with one hand, clutching a mike with the other and his eyes squeezed tight shut, he was unquestionably the focal point of the proceedings, and folks, he's singin' better than ever.

Unfortunately Julie Tippett's contribution to the festivities rather derailed things. After joining Wyatt and co for one song, she was left alone tootling merrily on a recorder and humming into it occasionally.

This was followed by two songs at de piano, performed extremely nervously, and a number with Wyatt, Windo and trumpeter Mongezi Feza, which could well have been called "Dedicated To You But You Ran Out Of The Room Screaming for Aspirin". Ms Tippett's voice is still as compelling as ever, but her stiff, uncertain piano playing and the lugubriousness of her songs provided a rather dead area in the middle of the set, which something to do with my hands") and a keyboard set-up ("At rehearsals I couldn't find a position from where I could play these, so I probably won't play them. Still, they look good.").

RSTOCK; JAK KILBY

He ran through a good-naturedly rickety version of Hugh Hopper's "Dedicated To You, But You Weren't Listening", backed up by Hopper himself on bass, Laurie Allan on drums, Fred Frith on violin and Dave Stewart on keyboards, eventually climaxed with a thoroughly berserk version of "I'm A Believer" with some singularly dirty rhythm guitar from Oldfield.

Generally, the show veered from the sublime to the ridiculous, with the sublime firmly in the lead... 80 per cent of it was very fine indeed, and the more gigs Robert Wyatt feels like undertaking the better. Wheel meet again. ●

CHARLES SHAAR MURRAY

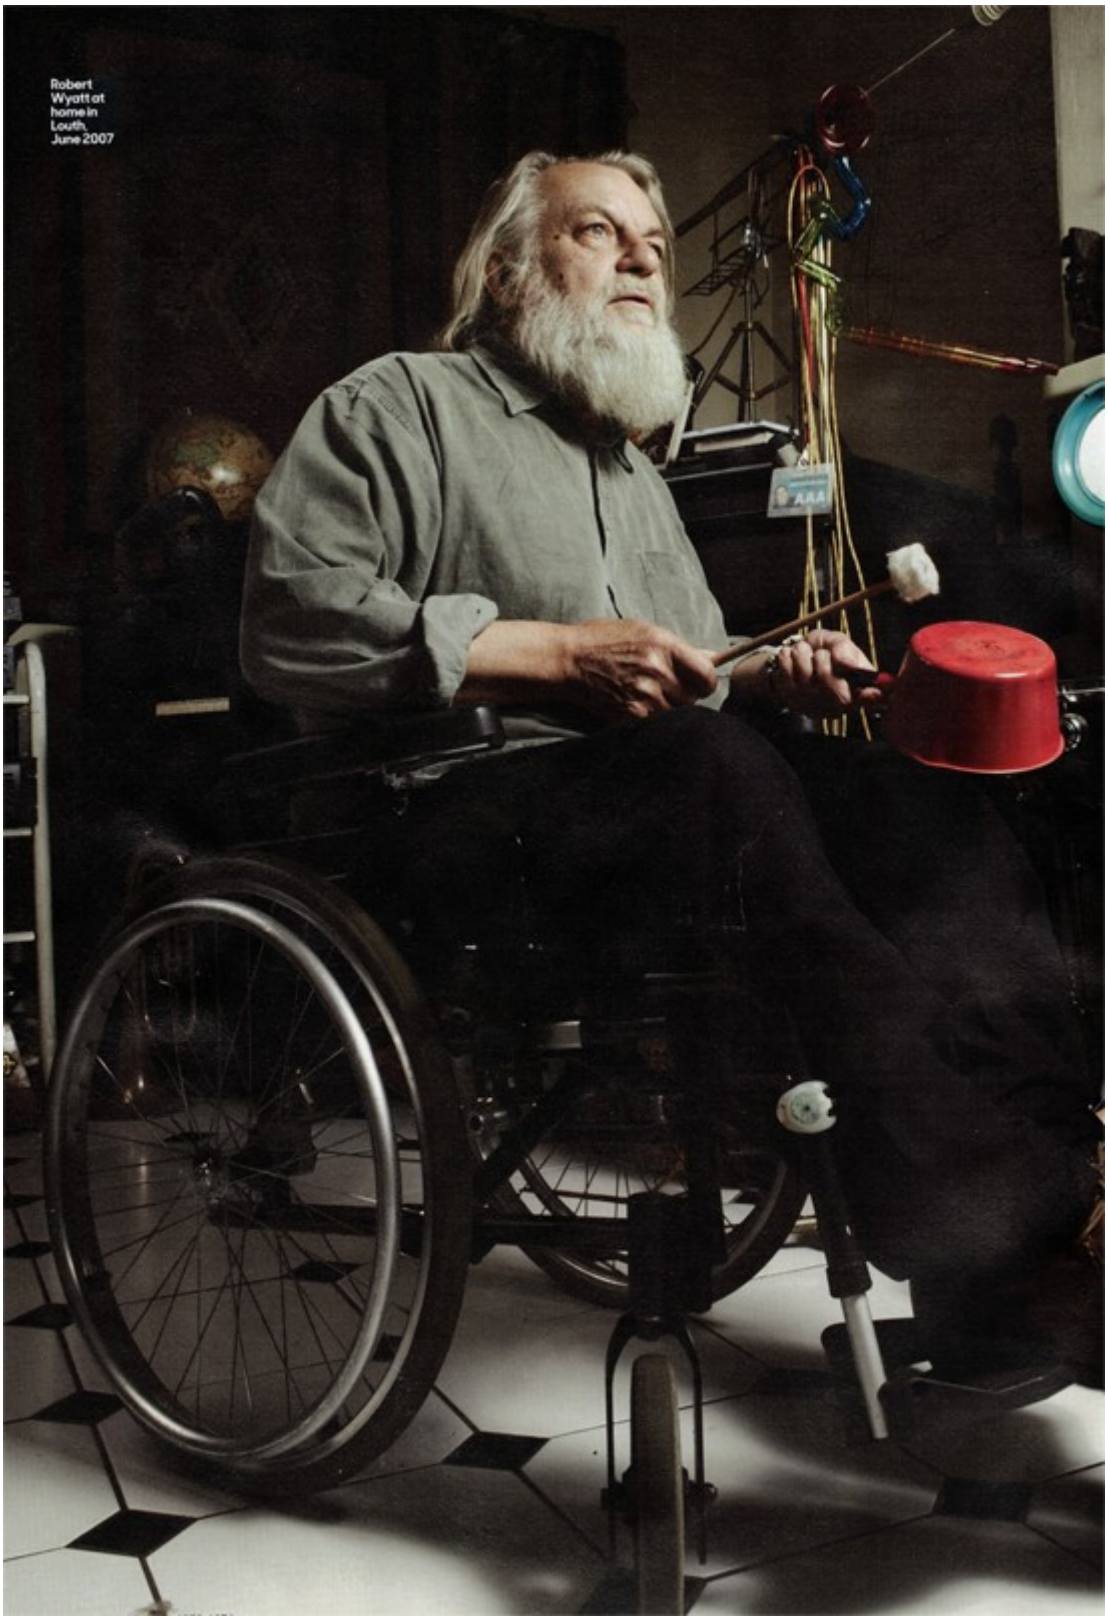
NICK ROGERS/DAILY MAIL/REX/SHUTT

"It's a Magical Thing" in the same issue

Previous article

Next article

Back to the list



ABÉCÉDAIRE

Les années Before | Soft Machine | Matching Mole | Solo | With Friends | Samples | Compilations | V.A. | Bootlegs | Reprises

HOME

"It's a Magical Thing" - The Best of NME 1970-1974 - August 2018

> Zoom

With his own magnificent work, and far-reaching connections, ROBERT WYATT is the spiritual godfather of NME GOLD 1970-74. In an exclusive interview, JOHN LEWIS hears the retiree expound on the period: Slade, Floyd, policemen's moustaches, Eno, and the art of the song. "I'm biased in favour of Floyd," he says, "because I get on so well with them..."

IT'S fair to say that Robert Wyatt had an eventful time between 1970 and 1974. "I got chucked out of a band," he says today, down the phone from his home. "I formed another. I fell out of a window. I spent seven months in hospital. I turned into a singer-songwriter. I played at the Proms, and I appeared on Top of The Pops. Oh, and more importantly, I met Alfie [Wyatt's partner, artist Alfreda Benge], and we're still together."

His orbit included key figures of the period - from Hendrix to Mike Oldfield, from Phil Manzanera to Eno, from Pink Floyd to Henry Cow. "Some of these friends ended up phenomenally successful," he says. "But none of them feel famous when you're in their company. It's all quite random, how you end up knowing these people."

Wyatt's life was changed forever on June 1, 1973 when, at a party for Gong's Gilli Smyth and "Lady" June Campbell Fraser in Maida Vale, he fell from a fourth-floor window while heavily drunk. He's still not entirely sure if it was an accident or a suicide attempt, but it's something that he remains incredibly positive about. "Alfie says I've coped with it by being in denial," he says. "It's been a successful strategy."

Friends rallied around. Pink Floyd played a benefit for him, John Peel asked listeners to send regards, the model Jean Shrimpton gave Robert and Alfie a car. The actress Julie Christie bought them a house in Twickenham, which they lived in for more than 15 years.

Today he and Alfie live in Louth, Lincolnshire. After an Indian summer to his career - including the Mercury-nominated album Cuckooland in 2007 - he announced his retirement from music in 2014. "Me and Alfie bumble around town. We watch telly together. It's all very civilised."

How the devil are you?
Well, the correct answer to that question should always be "I'm absolutely fine, thank you". The actual answer is that we tend to fall apart in our seventies, and I've made things more difficult for myself by breaking my back 40 years ago, ha ha. And I've had to consider that, for all the benefits of breaking my back, there are drawbacks that I hadn't anticipated. But I'm fine, I'm well looked after and well fed, and Alfie's just made me some fantastic fish paste, so what more can I ask for?

The period between 1970 and 1974 was a pretty eventful and turbulent one for you..
Yes. For me, it ends happily with the Drury Lane concert in September 1974. This was a fundraiser for me, after my accident, and it does sum up the story so far for me in a very happy way, so I have a great nostalgia and affection for it. Because of the occasion it very vividly conjures up all the people I worked with during that period. The introduction is by John Peel, and there's all these wonderful musicians working on it - Nick Mason from Pink Floyd and Laurie Allan on drums, Mike Oldfield and Fred Frith on guitars, Dave Stewart on keyboards, Ivor Cutler, the trumpeter Mongezi Feza and the saxophonist Gary Windo. It's a great window into a whole musical scene at that point in the 1970s, and snapshot of my life. I didn't really do live gigs after that, so there is the nostalgia of that too.

How did that gig come about?
Luckily, other people did all the work for me. A key figure on that project was Dave Stewart, from National Health and other bands. He is absolutely brilliant at scoring things for people who couldn't write music, for publishers. He went through Rock Bottom and arranged the entire thing. We played the album, in its entirety, then added some other bits and pieces to make it a full, proper-length concert. It was a frighteningly good bunch of musicians. What I liked about it was, if you form a group, it becomes a thing, an entity. Whereas, doing a one-off thing like that, it's a bit like making a film. So we'd have Laurie Allan on drums for one thing, Nick Mason on drums for another, or Mike Oldfield and Fred Frith sharing the guitars. We had that variety of noises available.

You go back a long way with Pink Floyd...
Oh yes. We didn't really tour with them, but we shared the bill with them in lots of London gigs in the early days, and then they took off, quite rightly, with two great pop singles - "See Emily Play" and "Arnold Layne" - and entered a different league. Soft Machine bashed around, we got gigs, but it was on a different scale. Occasionally on the continent we'd be put together on bills. But we were so different that we weren't at all competitive, because there was no rivalry. We got along exceptionally well. We had little in common, musically, but I know that Kevin Ayers and Daevid Allen were both very influenced by Syd Barrett, his guitar approach, that slide guitar thing. And I was very much inspired by Pink Floyd's lovely organ player, Richard Wright. He really knew how to play organ in a way that you're not trying to do Jimmy Smith, you're just playing a wash, creating an atmosphere that enhances an instrumental. I thought he was absolutely brilliant at that, and I credit him for that unobtrusive but utterly essential role he had in the band. And Nick [Mason] is a wonderful, funnyman, and a terrific producer.

I'm biased in favour of Floyd, because I get on so well with them, and they've been lovely to me. When I had my accident, I think they found out about it through a mutual friend, David Gale, a friend of Alfie's, I think it was Roger Waters who said, we must do a charity concert for Robert and Alfie. Alfie and I didn't have any money at the time. So it was a fantastically helpful thing for them to do. It took away the panic from coming out of hospital and so on. I always liked Floyd. They were great people, funny, generous, and they always make stunning records.

Prog rock was becoming massive around the first half of the 1970s. What did "prog" mean to you initially?
The first time I heard the term "prog rock", I assumed it was short for "programmatic rock", ha ha. In the way that classical music purists believe that rot started in the 19th century when composers in Russia, England, Spain, France, Brazil, and so on started weaving folk songs and narrative themes into their music, and called it "programme music". I thought that was quite wonderful, but a lot of people were very snobbish about it. So the first time I heard the phrase "prog rock" was when Soft Machine came back to England having been in the States for all of 1968. I thought, 'Oh that's nice, music that refers to other things and weaves narrative themes into music.' I was baffled to discover it was used to describe bands like us! It was like when I heard about a "Canterbury scene". I thought, 'Oh, that's nice, I'd like to hear some of these bands who come from up the road.' I later discovered that it meant us! Prog started to develop all these weird connotations - references to Arthurian legend, pig Latin names, all that business. And, as Paul Weller might say, "I'm not having that!" So, for me, it was back to writing about cups of tea and real things, however trivial and silly. I've been a bit nasty about prog rock in the past, but I should stress that every one I met in that world was absolutely lovely. It was just a different world from mine.

There was a lot of overlap between your work with Soft Machine and End Of An Ear and the jazz-rock of bands like Lifetime and Return To Forever. What did you think of that?
I can see why people would say that but, to be honest, I don't even like jazz rock, not very much. That self-conscious jazz thing of, ooh, let's grow our hair, get some electric guitars, give ourselves a name with mystical, cosmic connotations rather than being the Fred Bloggs Quintet. I found it very embarrassing, the jazz musicians were trying to get in on this scene, thinking, 'Oh, it's not fair, we can play better than these rock musicians.' They always reminded me of the police in disguise at rock festivals, looking out for druggy people to arrest. The long hair was a bit too coiffed, the moustaches a bit too neatly clipped, the shoes a giveaway, the flares just a bit out of date. They always stood out a mile.

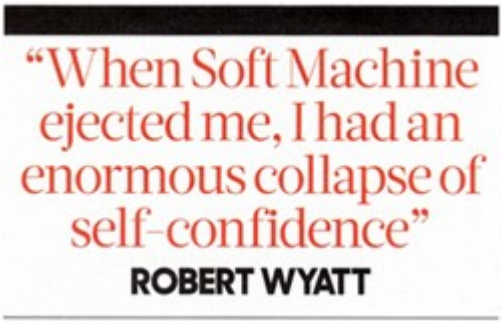
> Zoom



You've always had an interest in the song...
Much as I love free improv and all that stuff, song and dance is absolutely the basis of music. There's a quote from Charles Mingus that the further music gets from song and dance, the further it gets from really mattering in some way. Obviously, I love listening to every kind of experimental music, in the classical world, in the jazz world, in the avant garde world, rock'n'roll, pure noise, all of that, and it's all very exciting. But, to me, music is based in some kind of social function, and that's song and dance. I think it was Stravinsky who said that the song is the one thing in music for which there is no other equivalent in any other artform. So, compositional structure you can compare with architecture, for example, and you can compare timbral effects with, say, brushstrokes in painting. And so on. But the thing that makes a tune a tune - there is no equivalent, it's a magical thing. If you can hold one down and capture it long enough to put it on record, that's a wonderful thing.

Is that what inspired your version of "I'm a Believer"?
Part of the decision to record that was sociological mischief. I've always said that the only difference between pop and rock was that pop was for girls and they changed the name to rock for boys. It's like calling perfume "after shave"! I didn't like the emergence of a kind of class hierarchy of genre in music. I hated it in the old days, when classical critics would say that jazz isn't proper music, blah blah blah. I've never believed that any idiom is any intrinsically superior or inferior to any other. It's like a really good fried-egg sandwich can be much better than the worst posh French meal.

So, with "I'm A Believer", not only is it a Monkees tune - it's by Neil Diamond. Very good entertainer, catchy songs, but had no status at all outside that world. At the same time, I liked the chords I heard on jazz records, so I thought it would be fun if the pianist Dave MacRae played the kind of chords that McCoy Tyner might play. He's a very classy musician, he played with Sarah Vaughan, for fuck's sake!

At the start of the 1970s, you were living in a house in Hampstead with some interesting characters...
Yes. The singer-songwriter Linda Lewis was one of them, God bless her. She had an electric piano, and would sit there like a little bird, singing away, which was lovely. The flat actually belonged to Ian "Sammy" Samwell, who wrote "Whatcha Gonna Do About It" for the Small Faces, among many other songs. There was a lovely young American women, very unkindly called Toad - I don't know why so many lovely women get these ridiculous nicknames, like John Peel's Pig. There was Jeff Dexter, the quintessential underground DJ. And there was also the artist and writer Caroline Coon - her thing at the time was running Release, a legal organisation supporting people who were doing drugs and being harassed by the police. She, of course, inspired the Matching Mole song "0 Caroline", but it was also about other things. It was a fascinating environment, but a dark time for me.

This was around the time you got kicked out of Soft Machine?
Yes. I was very, very unhappy. I mean, it had to happen, but I had taken the Soft Machine for granted as a little family. It had formed from friendships that dated back to infancy, from 10 or 11 years old. You can fall out with your family, but you can't divorce them. So, when Soft Machine ejected me from that family, I had the most enormous collapse in self-confidence from which I've never really recovered, to be honest. And I always think they were right, looking back on it, to throw me out. I was too drunk, they were more grown up, more sophisticated, everything. But nevertheless, it felt like being exiled from a country, to somewhere where nobody spoke your language. I was very disorientated, and nervous, and anxious. I had been a rotten dad - my son had been born in 1966 and I wasn't being a proper dad to him, so in many ways it was a good thing when Pip Pyle took over my role in the family when he moved in with my ex-wife, Pamela. So it was a dark time, but I was very grateful to have a place to stay, and immensely grateful to the people in that house who put up with me and helped me get through it.

With Matching Mole, did you find it difficult to run a band?
Well, I found out that I can't be told what to do, which is what annoyed Soft Machine, but at the same time I can't tell other people what to do! I'd end up telling people to do what they like, which is ridiculous, really. The thing is that musicians always need direction. As it happened, I was lucky to be working with such great musicians - Bill MacCormick on bass, Dave Sinclair and then Dave MacRae on keyboards, Phil Miller on guitar - who wrote some wonderful bits and pieces. But part of the problem was that we were dead broke. Me and Alfie hadn't accumulated enough money for us to put down the deposit on somewhere to live - all that money immediately went into Matching Mole, and I never did get enough money to buy a place to live. I've been dossing ever since. I'm now dossing in my wife's house!

You also started working with Brian Eno at around this time...
Yes, I've been pondering what we have in common. With elephant herds, when an unruly and aggressive male gets ejected from a family or a herd, it's called a rogue elephant. Sometimes these rogue elephants get together. And I see me and Brian Eno as like that -a couple of rogue males, misfits from bands who didn't know what to do with them, who left those bands slightly unhappily. We got on really well, still do. What I loved about him is we have absolutely opposite tastes, musically. I don't think he likes what I do at all! For him, jazz is appallingly cluttered and filled with too many notes. But we get on well talking theoretical and discussing things. He was the perfect person to hang around with in the studio. I found him absolutely invaluable. I also used to like hanging around his place, sometimes I'd join in on different things. He did a record called Taking Tiger Mountain (By Strategy), on which I did bits and pieces, and then there was Another Green World. I seem to remember doing a little on that, and changing my name to that of a female Labour MP on the credits, just because I thought there should be more women involved in this music. Anyway, I'm there doing some percussion and vocal things. Brian is very underestimated as a singer. I wish he'd sing more. I've got him singing this century on a record called Cuckooland.

Rock Bottom* was actually written before your accident, wasn't it?
It was. I had just started going out with Alfie. She was working on films - she'd studied filmmaking and editing and so on - and she had a modest role, working with her friend Julie Christie, who was doing a film with Nicolas Roeg in Venice, which turned out to be Don't Look Now. It was too early in our relationship to risk being apart, so I went with her, even though I never usually take holidays. She was on set all day, and I didn't have much to do, so Alfie found a little keyboard in a little Venice shop - an organ called a Riviera. I found a stop on it that just so went wonderfully with the water around me in Venice. So there I was, on the island of Guidecca, just off one of the big canals, with this rippling water dancing around me, making sounds on this Riviera organ. Once I got the sound, the songs just wrote themselves. So most of it was written before the accident. There were bits I finished while I was in hospital - the ending of "Sea Song" I wrote on a piano in the hospital - it was based on "Red Is The Colour" by Nina Simone.

What are your memories of performing "I'm A Believer" on Top Of The Pops?
I had a run-in with the producer of Top Of The Pops, Robin Nash. Anyway, he's dead and I'm not, so I won. Ha ha! He said, do you have to sit in the wheelchair? It doesn't look nice on a family programme. He wanted to put me in some wicker armchair. I told him to fuck off, and he told me I'd never work on the programme again. I should have said that I'm too posh to care. Which I am. Ha ha.

There was a similar issue when the rest of the band, before the Drury Lane concert, were photographed in wheelchairs, in solidarity with me, on the front cover of the NME. Some people thought that was tasteless. I quite liked it.

I mean, I could make more of it and become a disabled rights activist. I get into trouble with disabled groups for not being militant about disabled rights. My answer is that I can't be an everything activist! One person kindly said, well, the fact that you've done more since your accident than you did before should be encouraging enough for disabled people! It shows you that the world doesn't come to an end.

The accident did change your career: do you think it pushed you in directions you might not have explored?

Absolutely. I cannot regret it, I honestly can't. I mean, it's possible that the next incarnation of Matching Mole could have been a really great band, had we made a third album. Particularly the brilliant Francis Monkman on keyboards - he was an incredible musician, so much better than was necessary in that context, and I'm proud of what came out of our short collaboration.

But yes, I was pushed into a new career. I'm very bad at repairing and looking after things. I always thought, as a drummer, when my drum kit falls apart, I'll just stop drumming. And that pretty much happened with my kit sometime around 1973 or '74, which was actually one that Mitch Mitchell had given me at the end of a Hendrix tour in 1968, so it had already had a bit of a battering. But, being Mitch Mitchell, it was a wonderful kit. So everything I played on after 1968 was on Mitch Mitchell's drum kit, which might interest some drum anoraks!

Did your inability to play the drums push you into singing and songwriting?

Definitely. I first got interested in songwriting while writing a long piece for Soft Machine's Third (1970), called "Moon In June", made up of lots of fragments of songs I'd written. Previous to that, on the second Soft Machine LP, Volume II (1969) I'd got lots of fragments of Hugh Hopper's pop songs, and turned them into a kind of suite on the first side of the album called "Rivmic Melodies". The one with the alphabet song and "Pataphysical Introduction" and so on. I enjoyed that so I thought I'd do that with my own songs. "Moon In June" was a revelation for me. Playing most of the songs by myself for about 10 minutes, then the others join in. Of course, being a drummer, in a band, you can't spend a lot of time playing the keyboard live. So it wasn't until I was actually physically unable to play the drums that I actually started to explore that side of things. And I always enjoyed singing. Originally, when I started singing, I tried to be like Van Morrison, but I realised this wasn't going to happen. I'd try and sing like that wonderful singer in the Small Faces, Steve Marriott - " Whatcha Gonna DO About It"! - but I just couldn't do that mid-Atlantic thing convincingly at all. So I dropped all of that pretence and I took the risk of just singing how I talked.

What were your inspirations as a songwriter?

The trombonist Annie Whitehead once asked me where I got my tunes from. I said, I have a very good record collection! Ha ha. In each of my songs you might find fragments of, say, a Curtis Fuller solo, or a Duke Ellington tune, or something. People who don't listen to jazz won't see how disgracefully plagiaristic I am! So many jazz records are just so rich in arrangements. Listen to the way that Gil Evans arranges for Miles Davis, for instance, how he finds places to go and things to do. Listen to his arrangement of "Porgy And Bess" and hear what he gets out of the tunes when he rearranges. It is remarkable. That's how I try to make music in my head, though it rarely comes out like that.

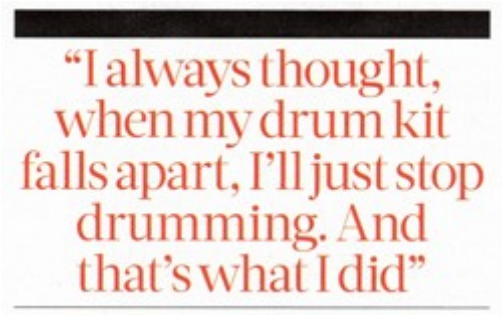
But, as I say, if you can hold one down and capture it long enough to put it on record, that's a wonderful thing, and that can be enough. There are pop musicians who can just play well enough to accompany themselves playing their own song, and that's absolutely fine. That's pretty much what I do.



> Zoom

Have you heard that John Peel apparently had two pictures up in his kitchen - one of the Liverpool manager Bill Shankly, and one of you?
Someone told me that recently and I was quite tearful. I really loved Peel. Like Brian Eno, we didn't always agree about music, but he played tons of interesting stuff and, as people, we got on great. I do remember once that we were at his place once, and Alfie started watching an Arsenal match on telly, and he walked straight out for a walk and came back in a bit of a huff! But that's the only difficult moment with him. I got on really well with him and with his producer John Walters, a very funny man. I didn't spend as much time with them as I'd have liked - I'd always back off from getting to know people on that side of the music business. It felt a bit like payola, a bit of emotional blackmailing. I'd worry that they might feel obliged to play your record even if they don't want to. It felt unethical to me. But now he's dead I think, 'Oh fuck, why were you so silly?' But Alfie and I did used to go to visit him, we went to his wedding, and we got on great with Sheila. She's great, lovely family. And I love hearing his son on BBC6Music, sounding exactly like him.

Did you ever read the music press at the time?
I appreciate what they do. Brian Eno always says, jazz is just about faith - he reckons how much you enjoy it depends entirely upon how much you believe in it, especially with free jazz. My answer to that was always that rock is just about sociology. It's a lot to do with young men bonding, being a gang that audiences can identify with. The temperamental singer, the mad drummer, the taciturn bass player, and so on. The music weeklies were great at that sociological thing. Plus, as the editor of NME once said, there's got to be a great new band every week because there's got to be a cover each week!

What do you do with your retirement now?
Scandalously little. You know what? Any highfalutin' ideas about being an artist have been shattered. Now that I've had to give up smoking and drinking, I can't be bothered. I lived entirely on artificial stimuli. So I now just hang out with Alfie doing absolutely nothing, while she keeps us alive. But I like my little town. I go around, get a coffee, and me and Alfie we watch telly together. I loved watching the World Cup, it was fantastic. I still watch the latest comedies - whereas the music I listen to is very global and often outside the Anglo-American world, my favourite comedy is all British. I'm a big fan of Stewart Lee's TV show, which you'd probably expect. I love Would I Lie To You?, I love anything with David Mitchell and Bob Mortimer. Milton Jones is a tremendous stand-up. I love his stupid one-liners. I watch old episodes of The IT Crowd and Spaced, and the comedies with that lovely woman who co-wrote Spaced, Jessica Hynes, you know, W1A and Twenty Twelve. I always look out for new sitcoms on Channel 4 and the BBC, and check out the comedy on Radio 4.

How was playing live, with Paul Weller, last year?
I was completely caught off guard by that request. And I was completely caught off guard by how long it was since I'd done it. I was pleased to be asked. Paul's been so great. He'd be like, come on Rob, you can do Glastonbury. I certainly couldn't even consider doing that. I'm a bit like, the less I do, the less I do wrong at the moment. I've had a wheel-on part when I helped produce a Brazilian record for Monica Vasconcelos, revolutionary songs from the 1960s. So, I keep my hand in with things like that.

What music are you listening to?
I used to buy old remaindered CDs from the Woolies in Louth. Since that shut down, I've lost that physical contact! But I'm always finding interesting stuff on YouTube. I'm a bit of a Russophile and I came across an enchanting Russian choir called White Gold who just make YouTube videos on the streets and in cafes around Moscow. They use these wonderful, full-throated Slavic harmonies. A bit like that amazing Bulgarian choir, Le Mystère Des Voix Bulgares, remember them? And I like reinvestigating stuff I liked in the early '70s. There's a terrific old Soviet jazz musician called Vagif Mustafa Zadeh, an Azerbaijani pianist, his daughter Aziza is also brilliant. But Vagif, he was amazing. A very florid pianist, a bit like McCoy Tyner, he plays piano like a cimbalom. I remember hearing him on Radio Moscow in the 1970s. If I'd know he sold records here at the time I would have championed him! I've also been listening to Julia Boutros, a Lebanese Christian diva, I love that Arabic singing - the power and the passion, blimey.

"I'm not concerned with whining" in the same issue

Previous article

Next article

Back to the list

ABÉCÉDAIRE

Les années Before | Soft Machine | Matching Mole | Solo | With Friends | Samples | Compilations | V.A. | Bootlegs | Reprises

HOME

The World spins - Shindig! - Issue 75 - January 2018

THE WORLD spins

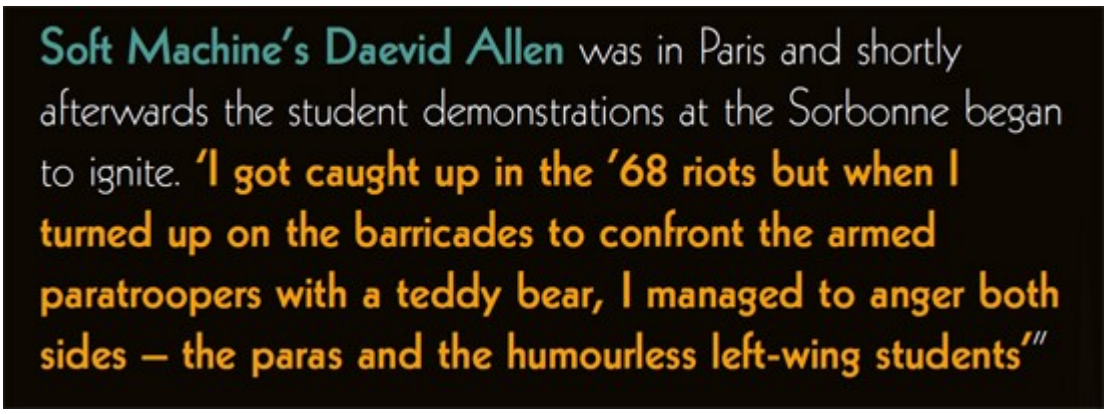
The pace of social change during the '60s was too fast for some and too slow for others. Conflict was rife as teenagers all over the world enjoyed newfound freedoms just as political events surrounding The Vietnam War, Civil Rights and the threat of nuclear holocaust began to shape the music they were listening to. After 1968, rock'n'roll would never sound the same, as JOHNNIE JOHNSTONE discovers

In political terms, 1968 was an extraordinary year. American youth had beengalvanised by the Washington demonstration of October '67, before The Tet Offensive in the first month of the new year heightened opposition towards The Vietnam War. Civil rights protests escalated into full-scale riots in the urban ghettos following the assassination of Martin Luther King in April, and the killing of RFK in June only intensified a mood of overwhelming despair. Protest in popular music had been largely confined to folk music but bands like The Fugs and Country Joe & The Fish had already made overtly political statements on record.

But it was in '68 that rock and radicalism became inextricably intertwined. In Detroit and Ann Arbor, the rise of John Sinclair's White Panther Party was soundtracked by The MC5, and African-American music would change beyond recognition, becoming infused with righteous indignation and a growing pride in black consciousness. The era of Soul Power had arrived. That radicalism wasn't simply the preserve of American youth. In Europe too the barricades were shaking, and music had a part to play in events winch saw huge anti-war demonstrations in London and wliich would bring France and Czechoslovakia to the brink of revolution.

If, during the '60s, London (via Liverpool) had become the epicentre of the music and fashion world, Britain was still by and large a fairly conservative country and the counterculture rarely provided any substantial threat to the establishment. Young people may have joined marches but the records they bought gave little encouragement to their subversive dreams. They seemed more content to take pills and dance 'til the early hours of the morning. When Lennon sang about 'Revolution' and the Stones of "fighting in the street", the sentiments were not only non-combative but unmistakably sardonic.

But on the continent things were different. In West Germany, '68 proved to be year zero for rock music, with the birth of krautrock. This was partly fuelled by German teens' rejection of the values of their forefathers. Their country had an unspeakable past, so much so that more often than riot, German bands opted to articulate their feelings without using words at all. What could one say? The touch paper was lit by the killing of West Berlin student Benno Olmesorg by a police officer, triggering the '68 protests, and after The Essen Rock Festival that year trie musical revolution would follow. Meanwhile in France, the political situation had reached boiling point. France was a unique proposition. There was — particularly amongst more radical elements — an uneasy relationship with rock 'n' roll and consumerism.



Sure, teenagers bought Beatles records like anyone else, but rock music was often considered symptomatic of the problem rather than the antidote to it. The writings of Sartre and de Beauvoir were de rigeur, and the French ideology of high culture contributed to a uniquely anti-American mindset, so that cultural protest was more likely to be found in university, cafes and street theatre than at rock concerts.

The French pop charts were a peculiar mix of traditional chansons, easy listening and pop, with the odd aberration. For instance Greek band Aphrodite's Child enjoyed a 14-week stint at the top of the charts with the mildly baroque 'Rain And Tears', 10 weeks longer than 'Hey Jude' managed, but at the moment the shit hit the fan in May, almost surreally it was Tom Jones' 'Delilah' at the summit. In many ways rock and radicalism were separate entities in France, but one British rock band would manage to penetrate the cultural barriers, to find themselves caught up in the May events: Soft Machine.

Before Aussie-born Daevid Allen arrived in the UK, he had spent time in Paris nurturing a love for the jazz lie heard there in the city's cafes. It would be to Paris he would return after forming Soft Machine with fellow jazz lover Robert Wyatt, Canterbury scenester Mike Ratledge and Kevin Ayers, whom he had first encountered in Ibiza. Ayers' more commercial sensibilities counterbalanced the more experimental avant-garde dimension to the band's sound, concocting a perfect potpourri for goatee-scratching French students. The Ayers-penned 'Love Makes Sweet Music' was one of the first British psychedelic releases (February '67) and Soft Machine toured Europe soon after, performing trance-inducing 40-minute renditions of 'We Did It Again' in St Tropez and the capital, thus making them darlings of the Parisian hipsters. Upon their return to the UK, Daevid Allen was refused entry to the country and returned to France where lie formed Gong with his partner Gilli Smyth, a poet and teacher at Sorbonne University. While Soft Machine toured the States in early '68 supporting The Jimi Hendrix Experience, Allen was in Paris and shortly afterwards the student demonstrations at the Sorbonne began to ignite. Strikes had brought the economy to a virtual standstill and as the events unfolded on television screens across the globe, Allen instinctively was drawn to the heart of the action. "I got caught up in the '68 riots but when I turned up on the barricades to confront the armed paratroopers with a teddy bear, I managed to anger both sides — the paras and the humourless left-wing students," he told Aidan Smith in 2009.

Allen was ridiculed as "a beatnik" and decanted to Majorca for a time before eventually returning to Paris where he would work on Gong's debut album Magick Brother in '69. His former band-mates had beaten him to the punch with their own landmark debut, made without their founding member, and released in October '68. Soft Machine returned to play Paris after the threat of revolution had subsided, but if the political aspirations of French youth had been quashed, the country was in the midst of huge social upheaval, which transformed attitudes towards rock music. By the end of '68, France's most celebrated cinematographer and auteur Jean-Luc Godard had filmed One Plus One, a film featuring images of The Rolling Stones recording 'Sympathy For The Devil' juxtaposed with footage of The Black Panther Party's military manoeuvres. By '69, the French musical landscape had been transformed by the events of '68 and the influence of Soft Machine and Gong was not hard to discern in the new progressive sounds of Magma and Ange. The Western influence had been be insidious but France's social revolution softened attitudes and the music would win out in the end. The revolution would not be televised, so what could a poor boy do, 'cept sing in a rock 'n' roll band?

Previous article

Next article

Back to the list

ABÉCÉDAIRE

Les années Before | Soft Machine | Matching Mole | Solo | With Friends | Samples | Compilations | V.A. | Bootlegs | Reprises

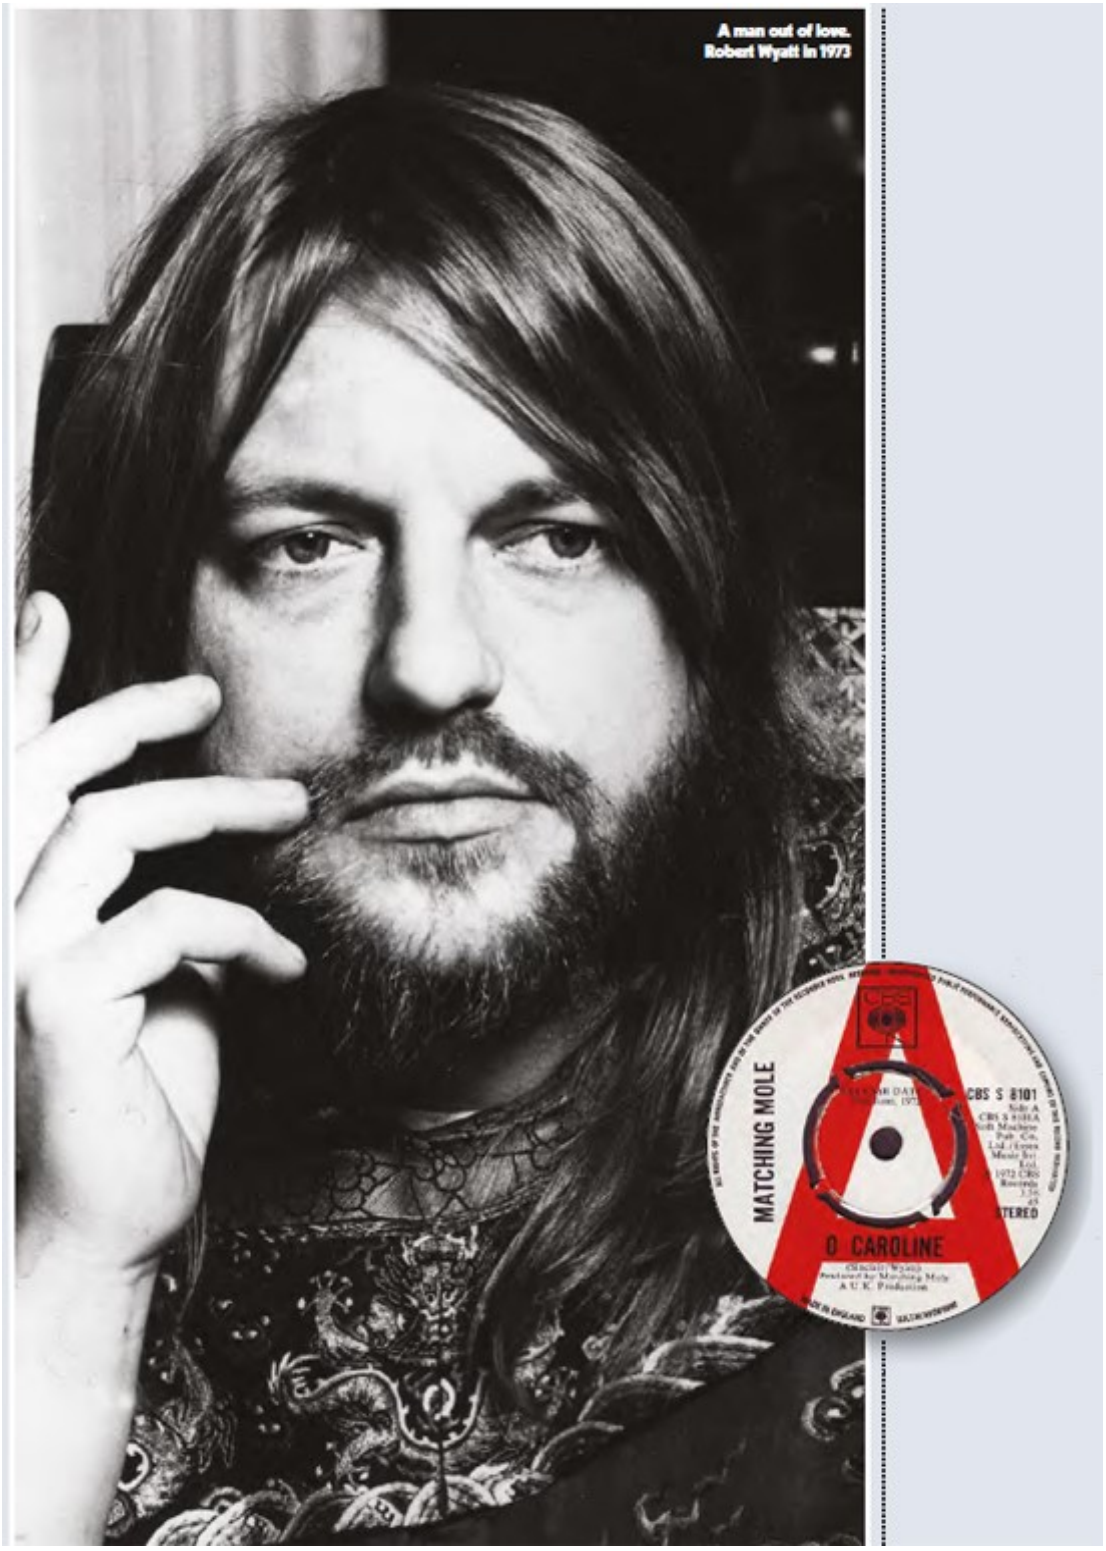
HOME

All His Thoughts In Focus - Shindig! - Issue 74 - December 2017

songbook

All His Thoughts In Focus

SPENSER TOMSON examines MATCHING MOLE'S 'O CAROLINE' and wonders why, 20 years after it was released, this oft-overlooked classic was the perfect cover for a bunch of weirdy Welsh wonder kids



Written in 1971 and released as a single the following year,'O Caroline' is the musical product of Robert Wyatt and Dave Sinclair, the latter having left Caravan (for the first time), only to be coaxed back from his travels via a telegram from the former. While playing various bits and pieces to each other in the early days of Matching Mole, Wyatt heard Sinclair's tune and asked if he could provide the lyrics. Listening now to their self-tided album, it's almost unimaginable that the words were ever separate from melody — they seem bound together, wrought from the same emotion, destined for the same fate.

On the surface, it appears to describe Wyatt's love for Caroline Coon, an artist and activist with whom he was sharing a tempestuous relationship. Marcus O'Dair's superb biography Different Every Time makes it clear that the early '70s were an incredibly difficult period for the ex-Soft incredibly difficult period for the ex-Soft Machine man. Wyatt's gradual ejection from the band resembled a love affair turning cold, each party a magnet twisting from its attracting pole towards the repellent. Kevin Avers had left, (albeit amicably, to pursue his solo projects) and this indicated the direction the rest of the band was headed. While Daevid Allen and Mike Ratledge were aiming for a more complex, jazzier sound, Wyatt was very much into developing his "pop" voice.

"When you form a band like Robert did", suggests Coon, "you are in love with your band, you are the band. It is your identity. And when the band fractures, your heart breaks and your identity is pulverised. It can feel like the most crucial, fecund years of your life are reduced to nothing". Wyatt himself describes the song as "totally metaphorical" and like "looking at an old tattoo". Indeed, if one were to remove the chorus or replace Caroline's name with that of his old outfit, it would read like a letter of unrequited love to Soft Machine, their name instead of hers etched on Wyatt's arm below anchor or skewered heart. Indeed, the very name Matching Mole grasps at two opposing emotions; as a phonetic pun on the French translation of Soft Machine, Wyatt is reforming that outfit under his own terms, a move possibly designed to needle at his former collaborators. But at the same time, it barely disguises his longing and loss — a loving nod back to the creative bond they once shared.

There have been surprisingly few covers of the song, possibly because of Soft Machine's relatively niche appeal or perhaps because the stark sentiment of its lyrics is just too personal — perhaps a cover of the song would be like going for a drink with your best friend's ex — to put it mildly, a little bit awkward. But one or two brave souls have given it a try; besides a nice version from early '90s indie kids Horse Latitudes and a niiiiiiiice take by France's Orchestra National de Jazz, a lo-fi beauty of a thing appears on the Gorky's Zygotic Mynci album, Tatay.

It is a dazzling, weird and utterly bonkers collection of songs; released on Ankst in '94, it comprises a heady mix of Welsh-language pop and wonky psych, some parts of which were unaltered from home-recorded versions of the previous two years. Alongside the Matching Mole cover there is, confusingly, another piece named 'O Caroline'which is entirely different. "Euros' 'O Caroline' might be a way of showing he could write a song as beautiful as any of Wyatt's," says Emyr Glyn Williams, co-founder of Ankst Records. She continues, "I remember them saying that Kevin Avers' Shoot At The Moon was the best record ever made — so clearly they had a strong love for the Canterbury/Soft Machine/Kevin Ayers period."

That fact that Tatay includes a cover of'O Caroline', their own tune of the same title and a song named'Robert Wyatt' could be interpreted as an attempt to construct their own version of Soft Machine. Williams continues. "Importantly, their first producer Alan Holmes was a very knowledgeable musician who loved all these bands as well, and that led to a lot of freedom in expressing ideas and experimenting with recording techniques. It gave a sense of total freedom for the band whilst recording at Gorwel Owen's studio - so maybe they fed on the 'perceived' historical notion of group freedom they imagined would have existed in the original Canterbury Scene."

> Zoom

When asked about the appeal of Gorky's version, Williams says, "The effect it physically has on me — from the first drum machine to the woozy organ, I'm helplessly in thrall to it. I also love it because it's the original cassette demo version (done at home) with minimal studio polishing — as they couldn't replicate the 'feel' and also the specific quality of the vocal sound."

Where Matching Mole lead the listener up the garden path, Mellotron flute and piano unfolding in the shade while an irregular metronome beat flutters like a heart being squeezed, Gorky's version begins with a recording of the band bickering at what might be some ungodly hour. Perhaps it's a tour bus, a recording studio or in the ethanol haze of an early, post-party morning. Either way, its beauty stems from the fact that it seems to concern the decision to boil a kettle.

Alan Holmes (the producer of Tatay mentioned previously by Williams) describes how he came to be involved. "One day in '92, Euros Childs phoned me to ask if I would produce their new album. Of course I jumped at the chance to work with them and Euros sent me a cassette of demos that included a version of Matching Mole's 'O Caroline'. I was taken aback that these young people had recorded a version of a song that was one of my very favourites when I was their age, but had thought to be long forgotten."

'O Caroline' appears on Bob Stanley & Pete Wiggs Present English Weather, out now on Ace and Shindig!'s best compilation of 2017

So, just as the original lyrics could be a coded love letter to his old band members, Gorky's cover version of'O Caroline' is itself a love letter to Wyatt, Ayers, The Soft Machine and Matching Mole, all of whom are owed a huge creative credit by GZM. By covering the song, they are not only highlighting the aesthetic connections to which they aspire, but revealing an honesty, purity and wit that would come to define their work up until their split in 2006.

Spencer Tomson

Previous article

Next article

Back to the list

ABÉCÉDAIRE

Les années Before | Soft Machine | Matching Mole | Solo | With Friends | Samples | Compilations | V.A. | Bootlegs | Reprises

HOME

Shaping the '70s: Simon Draper and the Story of Virgin Records - Red Bull Music Academy - October 12, 2017

Shaping the '70s: Simon Draper and the Story of Virgin Records

Virgin Records was the most popular and avant-garde record label of the '70s. But it wasn't Richard Branson that signed the Human League, Can and Mike Oldfield. This is the untold story of the man who did – and changed music forever

October 12, 2017
By Simon Reynolds

Mention the name "Virgin" today and most people will think of travel: by airplane, or, if you live in Britain, by train. There's also Virgin Mobile, the wireless communications company. Older music fans recall the Virgin Megastores. Those have long gone, but Virgin Records – the retail chain's sister company – lingers still, albeit in a half-life state, as a division within the conglomerate EMI, itself now swallowed by the Universal Music Group.

Whichever of the 150 or so Virgin Group companies you're talking about, the brand has always been synonymous with a man and a face: the preternaturally youthful-looking, perpetually grinning Richard Branson. Assiduously cultivated but not wholly without basis, his image is that of an anti-Establishment entrepreneur, a risk-addicted maverick. Alongside his billion-dollar business empire, Branson is famous for his trademark beard and casual sweaters, his dangerous escapades in high-altitude ballooning and for having bought one of the Virgin Islands. In recent years, much of his energy has gone into a bid to pioneer commercial spaceflight with Virgin Galactic.

Back at the beginning, though, Virgin was identified not with space tourism but with space rock. And the record company was really the brain child of someone whose un-Branson-like reserve and lack of flash has ensured he's always kept a low profile. Simon Draper – the 20-year-old virtual stranger to whom Branson handed the aesthetic helm of Virgin Records at their first meeting in 1971 – is a name known to industry insiders and serious scholars of rock biz history. But few of the music fiends who cherish landmark albums like Robert Wyatt's Rock Bottom, Faust's The Faust Tapes and Public Image Ltd's Metal Box, or who had their young minds blown by avant-pop Brit hits like Flying Lizards' "" and Japan's "," know about Draper's role in nurturing these artists.

During the first decade of its existence, Virgin could stake a strong claim to being the coolest record label in the world.

In its first phase of existence, Virgin put out some of the most uncompromisingly experimental music ever to loiter on the outskirts of the rock mainstream, including records by Can, Henry Cow, Gong, Tangerine Dream, Hatfield and the North, Ashra's Manuel Göttsching, Steve Hillage, Lol Coxhill and Slapp Happy, to name a few. From 1973-1976, the label operated as kind of "audio Arts Council," in the words of Al Clark, rock critic turned early Virgin press officer – a reference to the British institution that subsidizes minority-interest artists. In Virgin's case, the funding resources came not from the government and taxpayers, but from the general public's enthusiasm for Mike Oldfield's Tubular Bells, the label's early, unexpected blockbuster hit. Then came punk: Virgin quickly adapted to the new wave and post-punk climate, signing Sex Pistols (and their breakaway offshoot Public Image Ltd.), Magazine, Devo, XTC, OMD, the Human League, Simple Minds and more.

During the first decade of its existence, Virgin could stake a strong claim to being the coolest record label in the world. And that was all down to the taste and vision of Simon Draper.

Simon Draper © Courtesy of Simon Draper

Phoning Draper at the London office of his book publishing company Palawan, which he founded after leaving Virgin in the early ’90s, what’s immediately striking is how young he sounds. Clear and well-spoken, with a hint of shy hesitancy, Draper’s voice makes it easy to imagine him as the 20-year-old student who arrived at Branson’s fledgling record mail-order company Virgin in early 1971 to ask for a job.

Draper had just finished an English and Politics degree in his native South Africa and came to England planning to embark on another bout of undergraduate study. He and Branson were second cousins but had never met before; in fact, Branson didn’t even know of Draper’s existence until he turned up at the Virgin office in West London. All that Draper was looking for was temporary work to tide him over until the start of the next academic year. Instead, he got a job that would last 20 years and make music history.

Two of the hallmarks of a great businessman are a knack for spotting talent and an ability to delegate responsibility to those who know better. Over lunch at a Greek café in Paddington, Branson quickly realised that Draper was the music fiend his company desperately needed. “He discovered that I knew a lot about music,” says Draper. “I was an avid collector of records and I’d had my own radio program when I lived in Durban.” Impetuously, but with uncanny clairvoyance, Branson offered the task of forming Virgin Records to his cousin. This was to be just one component of a planned empire that would also encompass a recording studio, music publishing, management, a retail chain: a vertical slice across almost every layer of the record business. “Richard’s vision was to be involved in every aspect of it,” recalls Draper. “He told me at that first meeting: ‘we’ll do the lot.’”

In ’71, though, this was just big Branson talk, and Draper’s initial role was as chief buyer for Virgin Mail Order. Branson had formed the company after the UK’s Retail Price Maintenance system was abolished, clearing the way for retailers to offer discounted goods. Hawking its wares through full-page adverts in the country’s leading weekly music paper Melody Maker, Virgin established a reputation for its cheaper prices and – as Draper’s influence kicked in – for stocking cool imports from America and Europe. “In those days things would often get released in America first and there’d be a long gap – six or eight weeks, maybe even longer – before they came out in the UK. That gave us a window for selling tons of stuff – Zappa, Captain Beefheart, Little Feat. Then there was the krautrock – things like Tangerine Dream.”

Virgin Mail Order wasn’t Branson’s first enterprise venture. In 1968, aged 18, the aspiring mogul launched a national magazine targeted at college kids, Student. Selling progressive rock was a logical extension of the student connection, for the UK's university venues were the principal live circuit for the post-psychedelic scene then known as the Underground. Asked about Virgin's links to the new university-educated market for expansive long-form rock that had consolidated by 1970, Draper says, "We were the market, ourselves. Not Richard, because he wasn't really interested in music – he had the long hair but that was about it. But everyone else who worked at Virgin was passionate about it. More often than not after work we'd all go straight out to listen to live music. And smoke a lot of dope!"

Some accounts of the company's early days say that it was all set to be named Slipped Disc, but then one of the team suggested Virgin, on the grounds that the staff were all "complete virgins at business." Draper remembers it differently: "virgin" was meant to suggest "brand-new," counteracting any assumptions consumers might have that the cheaper prices indicated that the records were used. "I don't think 'virgin' was about lacking business experience. Although we all did. Richard and I were both 20."

The label logo, created by Roger Dean, who was soon to become the leading album cover designer of the prog era, latched onto another meaning of "virgin." The naked girl-child with long flowing tresses, turned into Siamese twins by a mirroring effect, evoked Garden of Eden innocence, and further identified Virgin with the long-hair underground of serious music heads. Now cheesy and distinctly suspect, but at the time thoroughly attuned to the post-hippie zeitgeist, the Virgin girl appeared at the top of the full-page mail-order ads and before long would be swirling on turntables as the label at the center of the platters.

Draper's A&R approach emerged organically out of his activity on the retail side of the company, which in addition to the mail-order company included the early Virgin record shops, one of which was located on the main drag of the boho neighborhood Notting Hill Gate. In line with the company's laid-back aura, which projected the idea that Virgin came from the same generation as their clientele, the shop encouraged customers to hang out, providing bean bags to sprawl on and spliff up. "To shop at Virgin was an experience rich with the ambience, and often the aroma, of an evening relaxing over Red Lebanese or Afghan black in one's pad," the journalist Mick Brown once recalled. "Not surprisingly some people stayed all day and never got 'round to buying a thing."

After a hard week's work running the mail-order company, Draper would work in the Notting Hill Gate shop on Saturdays. From his conversations with customers, from request letters sent in by the mail-order clientele and from his own ardent record-buying, Draper developed a sense of where the gaps in the music market were that could allow Virgin to develop a distinctive identity as a record label in an already crowded progressive music market: "Customers would write in and say, 'Can you get us this record?' All the krautrock groups that we signed, like Faust and Tangerine Dream, came about that way, because we were getting so many enquiries about weirdly named groups from Germany."

You will probably have discovered by now from Music Week or your Island and EMI rep that we are about to launch our own independent label. We thought that we would let you know clearly what will be happening with our label before you get snowed under by all the leaflets, brochures and general publicity that the reps will thrust upon you.

Naturally, we shall be doing our best to promote and publicise our records. As retailers ourselves, however, we have often been painfully reminded that even the best publicised records are not fully backed by a grass roots sales service. We are confident that Island's excellent distribution, backed up by EMI, will get you the records you want. But, if by chance, you're having difficulties, or just want more information, please get in touch with us direct, by phone or letter, and tell us your problems.

In case this is the first thing you've heard about the label, we shall be releasing four albums on May 25th: Mick Oldfield's Tubular Bells V2001; Gong's Radio Gnome Part 1.The Flying Teapot V2002; Steve York's Camelo Pardalis V2003, all at a recommended price of £2.19 (with the price structure of a normal Island ILPS album). The fourth album, Faust Tapes by Faust VC501, will be selling for 48p, but your mark-up will stay at 33 1/3%. In any event, you can get all the immediately relevant details from your rep.

Yours faithfully,

Richard Branson

VIRGIN RECORDS, 130 NOTTING HILL GATE, LONDON W11 TELEPHONES: 01 229 0131/3208

Courtesy of Simon Draper

Faust's The Faust Tapes was among the first four releases that launched Virgin in May 1973. There was also Flying Teapot by Gong, the trippy outfit formed by ex-Soft Machine member Daevid Allen, and Manor Live, a jam session involving motley prog and Brit-blues journeymen captured at Virgin's residential recording studio in the village of Shipton-on-Cherwell. But the record that really counted, putting Virgin on the map and making its adventurous signing policy financially viable, was Mike Oldfield's Tubular Bells.

"When I started to look around to see what you could sign to a record label, it was a bit frightening really," recalls Draper. "We had no track record, so we couldn't really poach any of the bigger names. All we had to offer was the image of the record shops, which was sort of charismatic. One day I was down at the Manor, and one of the engineers – Tom Newman or Simon Hayworth – played me a demo." Being a connoisseur of weirdo music, Draper recognized the name Mike Oldfield from the credits of solo albums by Kevin Ayers, formerly the frontman of the Soft Machine. He'd been obsessed with the Softs since reading an article about them in the jazz magazine Downbeat and had followed what ex-members like Ayers, Daevid Allen and Robert Wyatt had done afterwards.

Draper's knowledge of out-jazz and experimental music also enabled him to hear an affinity between the hypnotic patterns of Tubular Bells and minimalist composer Terry Riley, whose work he'd loved since being initiated in the wonders of In C by a Durban architecture professor. "That first 15-minute demo of Tubular Bells was extraordinary – and Mike had played all the instruments himself, overdubbing by putting bits of cardboard over the recording head of his Akai tape machine. So when finally the button was pushed on the record label and Richard said 'You've got to come up with some acts,' Mike was the first person I called. And at that point he was working in the pit orchestra for Hair, as reserve guitarist! He'd been trying to get a deal and been turned down by everybody, so he was astounded when we said 'Would you like to go and start recording the album? You can use the Manor.'"

A virtually all-instrumental album, divided into two parts that lasted 25 and 24 minutes each, didn't seem like an obvious commercial smash waiting to happen. But the sales team of Island, who had agreed to distribute Virgin, responded with a spontaneous ovation when Draper played them Tubular Bells. The support of John Peel, BBC Radio's resident champion of the underground, was crucial. Invited to dinner at Branson's houseboat, which was moored in the canals of Little Venice in West London, Peel was wowed by the album and four days later played the whole of side one on his late night radio show Top Gear. He introduced the record with a list of all the instruments played by Oldfield – "grand piano, glockenspiel, a couple of different kinds of organs, bass guitar, electric guitar, speed guitar, taped motor-driven amplifier organ chord, mandolin-type guitar, fuzz guitar, assorted percussion, acoustic guitars and a variety of other things" – and at its conclusion 25 minutes later described Tubular Bells as "certainly one of the most impressive LPs I've ever had the chance to play on the radio – really a remarkable record," and further hailed it as "an incredible start" for the new Virgin label.

Mike Oldfield - Tubular Bells (Live at the BBC 1973)

As the record took off in the UK, Oldfield was arm-twisted into performing its live premiere at Queen Elizabeth Hall on June 25th, 1973. Fearful that Tubular Bells couldn't be recreated onstage, even with a cast of dozens, Oldfield agreed only when Branson offered him a bribe:

his own Bentley. Then Tubular Bells was picked up for the soundtrack of The Exorcist. The album was licensed to Atlantic in America and they put out an edit from the LP's first side as a single, reaching #7 on the Billboard Hot 100. Oldfield followed up his multiplatinum global hit with adventurous but commercially successful albums like Hergest Ridge and Ommadawn. A year before punk, he was voted Britain's Best Guitarist by the readership of Melody Maker, and many serious pundits believed the Oldfield approach – long-form, quasi-classical instrumental music – was set to be the future for rock. Over the next several years, there was a major label flood of similarly large-scale albums – epic in conception, dense in texture and narratively themed – from artists like Jeff Wayne, Vangelis, Godley & Crème, Alan Parsons Project and Dave Greenslade. Virgin naturally entered the fray with long-players from David Bedford, who had played alongside Oldfield in Kevin Ayers' band, the Whole World, and would arrange a symphonic version of Tubular Bells recorded with the Royal Philharmonic Orchestra.

At the opposite end of the spectrum from the new middlebrow represented by Tubular Bells – exquisitely played, cleanly produced, intelligent but unchallenging, eminently usable as background music – was The Faust Tapes, also one of the first four Virgin releases and a legend in its own right. Picking up on the most hallucinatory studio practices developed by the Beatles and Zappa, combining them with Velvet Underground levels of abrasion and attack and infusing the whole with a spirit of absurdist tomfoolery equal parts Dada and Fluxus, Faust had already released two gloriously out-there albums via the German branch of Polydor. For their Virgin debut, the bright idea arose to release the album priced at 48 pence – the cost of a single, and less than a third the price of a regular LP. Neither Virgin nor Faust would make a penny, but a potentially huge number of listeners could be turned on.

Draper isn't sure whether it was Faust's charismatic producer/spokesman Uwe Nettelbeck who came up with this marketing ruse, or Richard Branson himself. The latter had a fixation on the discount concept that ran through his whole career, from the mail-order company to Virgin Atlantic, which took as its model the low-fare approach pioneered by Laker Airways. The marketing ploy was also used in 1974 with Virgin's Crisis Tour, a name that played on the feeling that Britain was on the verge of collapse, beset with strikes, inflation, shortages in shops, rising unemployment and dark whispers of national decline and a possible military coup to restore order. To cheer up young rock fans feeling the pinch, Virgin offered bargain-rate admission to a series of concerts around the country featuring acts like Henry Cow and Hatfield and the North – all you had to do was cut out the coupons in the NME.

Whoever came up with The Faust Tapes pricing scheme, it worked wonderfully: somewhere in the region of 50,000 copies were sold. Admittedly, many purchasers played the record just once; there are tales of spontaneous Frisbee-throwing contests using Faust's most avant-garde statement ever. Nonetheless, the record was an aesthetic triumph, both sonically and in terms of its design. "Nettelbeck was a fan of Bridget Riley," says Draper, referring to the pioneer of Op Art: swirling, geometrically intricate paintings that disoriented and played tricks on the eye. Although she disliked the association of her deeply cerebral and rather solemnly motivated work with the faddish foppery of psychedelia, Riley agreed to permit the reproduction of her canvas "Crest" on the cover of The Faust Tapes.

Then, in the autumn of 1973, Faust toured the UK in the company of Henry Cow, whose spiky and severe prog rock had a bracingly anti-capitalist edge. "Those concerts were amazing," recalls Draper. "For the gig at the Rainbow Theatre in London, Faust bought about 30 television sets and stacked them up, all showing the same thing – an opera singer, I think - and then they had this guy that they'd picked up doing roadwork near the venue and he was jackhammering away at this huge lump of concrete onstage."

Somewhere between Faust's absurdist cacophony and Oldfield's accessibility lay the serenely pulsing electronic mindscapes of Tangerine Dream. Virgin's alliance with the band was sound business logic: the mail-order company had been selling something like 15,000 copies of their early albums like Atem on the German label Ohr. Speaking just a few years before he passed away in 2011, Edgar Froese recalled Draper phoning him in Berlin "to say John Peel was playing Atem to death. Two days later I sat on the stairs of the Virgin record shop in Notting Hill and signed a contract which was in power from 1973 to 1983. Ten years of roller-coaster experiences began!

Tangerine Dream's Virgin debut Phaedra marked the group's full-blown shift into a purely electronic trance-rock sound, propelled by Moog-bass pulsations and undergirded with metronomic drum machines. As with Oldfield's music, the influence of Terry Riley and Steve Reich was audible; Philip Glass, another maven of minimalist systems-music, would actually release several albums on Virgin. But with Tangerine Dream and their spiritual kinsman and German compatriot Klaus Schulze (who also soon signed to Virgin), the mesmerizing patterns were inextricably tied up with post-psychedelic rock culture. Their albums, which generally consisted of four long tracks or sometimes just a pair of side-long epics, were meant as eyelid-movies for stoned immersion. Phaedra went Top 15 in the UK on its February 1974 release and a flurry of follow-up albums and Froese solo efforts swiftly followed, while Tangerine Dream became a fixture of the UK concert-hall circuit and successfully toured Europe and America.

Courtesy of Simon Draper

Draper reckons Virgin actually coined the term "krautrock" as the name of an imports section in the mail-order catalogues and full-page ads, further pinpointing its author as John Varnom, who wrote advertising copy for the label. If Germany was a strong contender for Virgin's spiritual homeland, its main rival was Canterbury, a university town in the South of England. That was where the Soft Machine hailed from and out of which spawned the Canterbury Sound: a rubric for an incestuous cluster of post-psychedelic jazz rock outfits who were sometimes endearingly whimsical and sometimes forbiddingly abstruse, and generally had either a direct connection to or a marked affinity with the Softs.

Matching Mole was the band Robert Wyatt formed after his bitter expulsion from the Soft Machine. Matching Mole themselves dissolved after two albums for CBS, and Wyatt started to form a new group involving prog luminary Francis Monkman of Curved Air and various Canterbury-aligned musicians. "We were trying to sign that band," recalls Draper. "We spent time with Robert and he came to the Manor and did some canoeing on the river Cherwell." But then, during a party at the mansion-block flat of socialite and Virgin recording artist Lady June, Wyatt tumbled out of the window of the bathroom when attempting to evade his enraged wife Alfie. The accident left him paralyzed below the waist, unable to play drums again or participate in a touring rock band. So instead of signing the planned Canterbury supergroup, Virgin took on Wyatt as a solo artist. Rock Bottom, his 1974 debut for the label, is a heartbreakingly poignant allegory of Wyatt's emotional regression and gradual self-rebuilding during his recovery from the accident, couched in a blurry oceanic sound that recalls Miles Davis's In A Silent Way and Jimi Hendrix's "1983... (A Merman I Should Turn To Be)."

After this avant-pop triumph, Virgin managed to turn Wyatt into a pop star – albeit a minor one, and only briefly – when they badgered him into releasing a cover version of the Monkees' "I'm A Believer" as a single. "Robert had mentioned in an interview that he'd love to record that song and I thought, 'Wow, fantastic idea,' and we kept on at him about it," recalls Draper. The single became a hit and Wyatt was invited to perform on Top of the Pops. "That's when the producer of the show said that terrible thing about, 'Couldn't they have something more attractive on the stage than a wheelchair?'" Wyatt was on the verge of storming out but was cajoled into going through with the performance, which went out to 10 million-plus viewers in September 1974.

Robert Wyatt - I'm A Believer (Top Of The Pops 1974)

By 1975, Virgin had established a distinct niche in the British progressive market as the premier home for European cosmic rock and the Canterbury style of jazz-tinged English eccentricity. For Draper, this strategy had an Oedipal undercurrent insofar as it was necessary to distinguish Virgin from the label he most admired, Island, then widely considered the best record company around. "To me they were the epitome of what a label should be," says Draper. But Island had already cornered the market in a certain kind of British folk/jazz/blues troubadour (Nick Drake, John Martyn, Richard Thompson, et. al), so Virgin had look elsewhere to create an identity.

"We didn't want to sign people who were with other companies or had been with other companies," Draper recalls. "We thought we knew better. It was extreme arrogance!" He immediately goes on to say that in the early days Virgin had no idea what they were doing.

"I look back and the people we were signing – like Robert Wyatt – were all older than us." He recalls going to see Hatfield and the North play at the Royal College of Art and being picked up by a female friend of the band who thought he was simply a cute student. "When I turned up in the dressing room backstage later, it was very embarrassing for them. People in those days had stereotyped ideas of what a record executive should look like, and it wasn't me."

One thing Virgin had in common with Island was location: Both companies were based in London's equivalent to Haight-Ashbury, the Ladbroke Grove / Notting Hill Gate area. Rife with head shops and macrobiotic restaurants, the neighborhood had been home at different points to Marc Bolan, Jimi Hendrix, Nick Drake and Hawkwind; it was where you could find the offices of underground press papers like International Times. Draper lived in Ladbroke Grove pretty much from the minute he arrived in the UK. After a period on the houseboat in Little Venice, Branson also moved to a side street off Portobello, the most bustling and bohemian road in the Grove, buying a bright red house off Peter Cook (the comedian who would later record for Virgin a series of legendarily obscene albums with Dudley Moore). Then Virgin itself moved its offices to a building in Vernon Yard, another road just off Portobello. "Pretty soon, a lot of the people in the company moved to the area because it made sense to live close to where you were working."

Portobello and its environs are nowadays almost completely the preserve of the monied: the Saturday street fair continues, and retains here and there its old flea market quality, but the streets are otherwise dense with boutiques, delicatessens, fancy restaurants, chic bars and organic Fair Trade cafes. Back in the early '70s, though, it was a scuzzy and edgy area, teeming with squatted houses and unlicensed venues. "There were lots of big houses, but they were divided up into flats," recalls Draper. "Whereas in recent times, they've been turned back into houses for rich people. Back then, though, it was a really hip area to live. And then you had the whole reggae connection with so many of the people who lived there coming from the Caribbean originally."

Virgin would follow Island's footsteps in signing up Jamaican artists. Along with enthusiasm for the music, another impetus was discovering that U-Roy's talk-over records sold hugely well in Nigeria as exports, which offered a quick fix to Virgin's cash-flow problems. "We signed some more artists and soon we were chartering planes to take stuff out to Nigeria, loaded with albums. Then we started our own reggae imprint, the Front Line."

Another area where Virgin built on Island's innovations was the creation of a label aura through record design and advertising. Whether witty and playful or trippy and mysterious, the album covers, concert posters and adverts worked through an inclusion/exclusion effect. A good example would be the series of label samplers Island released at the end of '60s and start of the '70s, such as El Pea, which featured a close-up photograph of a legume in ultra-vivid green. The stoned-to-say-the-least humor of such visual puns offered a generationally-targeted code to be decrypted by turned-on cognoscenti. Hipgnosis, the name of the company that rivaled Roger Dean as the prog era's leading designer, spells out how it worked: "hip" as in hipster, "gnosis" as in secret knowledge. "We had a lot of fun with the advertising," says Draper. "My favorite out of the ones I came up with was the campaign for Tangerine Dream with the melting vinyl records – inspired by Salvador Dali's 'soft watches,' obviously."

From the marketing to the label's logo, from the far-out sounds engraved in the vinyl platters to the enigmatic artwork wrapped around them, from the roster's lank locks to the company's Ladbroke location, Virgin could not have been more quintessentially early '70s.

And then punk happened.

© Zawodsky / The Sex Pistols / Virgin Records

Initially, punk seemed like an inexplicable affront to everything that Virgin represented. "Indescribable noise" is how Draper once described the sound of the Sex Pistols. "We all went to see them at the 100 Club," he recalls now. "That was the gig where Sid Vicious bottled someone. I found the aggression really off-putting."

Like most denizens of the progressive realm represented by labels such as Island, Harvest, Charisma and others, Draper had assumed music would continue on its ever-upward path of sophistication. Fusion was the prevailing ethos at the mid-decade mark: rock's destiny was to keep on hybridizing and hyphenating itself with classical, jazz, folk and world influences. "Music Week was doing a series of interviews with A&R people in 1976, asking what they were listening to," Draper recalls. "I said 'Keith Jarrett's Arbour Zena and Joni Mitchell's The Hissing of Summer Lawns.'"

Punk erupted in the midst of all that maturity and musicianship, a teenage rampage of crude energy stomping on the prevailing ideals of subtlety and sensitivity. Skinning up and drifting off to album-side-long dreamscapes suddenly seemed decadent and disengaged, a retreat from the political urgencies of the present. The crisis time demanded not discounted admission to a Hatfield and the North concert, but proper crisis music.

It was Branson – always more attracted to rock for its ability to cause a social commotion than to sonic voyages of discovery – who realised Virgin simply had to sign the Sex Pistols to stay relevant. Draper came around to the idea after hearing the debut single "Anarchy In The UK," which was released on EMI: "I realised I'd made a huge error." He'd also seen and liked the Buzzcocks when they played at the Screen on the Green, and by the end of 1977 had signed lead singer Howard Devoto's new band, Magazine.

Having the Sex Pistols on the label proved to be a trial for someone used to dealing with genial, easy-going longhairs. Because of the company's hippie image, Virgin was anathema to manager Malcolm McLaren, for whom "liberal" was a pejorative and who feared that Branson's tolerance would effectively defuse the threat posed by the Pistols. So he kept coming up with ever-more outrageous stunts – like recording the single "Nobody Is Innocent" with convict-on-the-run Ronnie Biggs, an exile in Brazil, and further pretending escaped Nazi Martin Bormann also appeared on the record – all in the hope of getting dropped by Virgin, just like EMI and A&M had previously done. "Malcolm was testing us all the time," Branson recalled years later. "He would come in with an advert that was pushing it to the extreme to see if we'd run it. And we would!" That only infuriated McLaren further. Draper in particular found McLaren's aggressiveness hard to deal with.

Having the most controversial and talked-about band in the world – the public face of punk – on the label did serve to totally and almost instantly change Virgin's image. The old Roger Dean logo was swiftly replaced by a new wave-compatible one based around a signature, which would become the enduring icon for the company, appearing on the tail fins of its airplanes to this day. The Virgin roster was ruthlessly purged of its least commercial pre-punk oddballs and restocked with short-haired, angular-sounding signings like Devo, XTC and the Skids. Mike Oldfield naturally retained an honorary prominence, but grew increasingly resentful of the upstart newcomers. The final straw, according to Draper, came when Virgin only managed to get one of Oldfield's later albums licensed in America because the label in question really wanted XTC. "It was a bargaining tool. Mike went really berserk – I think he decided then and there that he was leaving us whenever he could."

XTC - Go 2 Hipgnosis / XTC / Virgin Records

XTC were easily Draper's favorites of the new breed. "I had to fight tooth and nail against other record companies to get them. But the whole of Virgin loved XTC as people because they were so entertaining and creative – everyone became friends with them." Public Image Ltd, the band John Lydon formed after leaving Sex Pistols and shedding the "Rotten," were more problematic. "They felt obliged to be antagonistic. Keith Levene, the guitarist, was really difficult to deal with." Yet before punk, Lydon had been an avid listener to Virgin-aligned music, loving artists like Captain Beefheart and the Magic Band (who Draper had signed for a run of return-to-form albums in the late '70s), and even outright proggers like Pete Hammill and his band Van Der Graaf Generator, who were on Charisma. These kind of avant-rock influences were audible in Lydon's piercing vocals for PiL, in the tripnotic grooves churned up by Can-worshipping bassist Jah Wobble and the fractured abstraction of the guitar work from Levene, a secret admirer of Steve Howe from Yes.

Lydon and Draper would eventually bond over that least punk of things: hi-fi. "In my office I had this massive pair of towering Buckingham speakers, about four feet tall. They belonged to me, not the company, and John loved listening to them. Eventually I sold them to him." Another reason Lydon might have warmed to Draper was that he bankrolled the recording, in top-of-the-line studios, of three of the most uncompromisingly avant-garde albums ever released by a mainstream rock label: First Issue, Metal Box and Flowers Of Romance.

"I can remember when PiL presented us with the debut single, 'Public Image' – it was just dynamite, and you thought: 'This is going to be a #1 hit. Here we go, this is the Sex Pistols, reincarnated, better. Onward!' But then they brought us Metal Box and you thought, 'We're getting something else.'" As it happens, buoyed by awestruck reviews and Lydon's stature as a post-punk prophet, Metal Box sold surprisingly and reassuringly well, despite the hefty price charged on account of the striking tin canister in which it was encased. "Death Disco," the single that preceded the album and appeared on it renamed "Swan Lake," was actually a Top 20 hit, and even the unhinged "Flowers Of Romance" – a tribal stampede of drums overlaid with scraping violin and shrieking Lydon – secured PiL a Top of the Pops appearance.

Public Image Ltd.- The Flowers Of Romance (Top Of The Pops) 1981

By the end of the ’70s, Branson’s focus – never very tethered to music – had drifted away to other ventures, including an ultimately doomed attempt to establish a rival London listings magazine to Time Out called Event. He left Virgin Music entirely in the charge of Draper, who swapped his earlier title A&R Director for Managing Director. The label then entered its most prosperous period yet, with the worldwide breakthrough of the Human League and Culture Club, the rise of Simple Minds from an art-rock curio to stadium conquerors and Virgin’s acquisition of its prog-era friendly rival Charisma, which gave them three of the most successful acts of the ’80s: Phil Collins, Peter Gabriel and the band they both came from, Genesis.

In their very early days, when they went by the name the Future, the Human League sounded like Virgin wannabes: a shoestring Tangerine Dream, recording a 97-minute track titled “Last Man On Earth” and experimenting with computerized systems for random lyric generation. Even after shifting towards short songs and tunefulness, their first two albums for Virgin – Reproduction and Travelogue – had a geeky science-fiction-fan air that promised “cult group” status at best. But when the group fissured owing to irresolvable personal friction, with one faction keeping the original Human League name and the other half forming Heaven 17, Draper suddenly found he had two pop groups on his hands. Martin Rushent, the producer who’d honed the Stranglers and Buzzcocks into pop-punk hit machines, showed Human League how to tighten their dance grooves and sharpen their hooks, and suddenly they were topping international charts with “Don’t You Want Me” and “(Keep Feeling) Fascination.”

“That’s one of those miracle moments when it all takes off,” remembers Draper. “Dare started taking shape and you suddenly realise, ‘There’s not one hit on this record, there’s five or six.’ You’ve just struck gold. That was very exciting – but a completely different thing from what we’d had before at Virgin.”

The company kept expanding all through the ’80s, opening branches in European countries and then launching Virgin America. It was solid business sense, but it meant a loss of aesthetic control for Draper. “Suddenly you’ve got all these companies saying, ‘We can’t get bigger just on the product that you supply us with. We need to have French acts, German acts.’ So they’re signing Eurovision Song Contest-type acts. Or the Canadian label wants to sign a heavy metal group. Suddenly the criteria became not musical excellence or excitement anymore. We became more of a mainstream record company. Virgin America had a brilliant A&R guy, Jordan Harris, and they did some wonderful things, like reviving Roy Orbison’s career. But in the States it’s very much all about the bottom line. So the days were really long gone of us being the cutting-edge record company.”

In a sign that Virgin had become a major label, capable of sparring with the most heavyweight music corporations around, Branson pulled off his long-running dream of signing the Rolling Stones (something he'd tried before in the early '70s). Janet Jackson was another high-profile, huge-advance signing. Then, in 1992, Branson sold Virgin Music Group to EMI for a figure just shy of $1 billion. Draper stayed on for half a year or so to smooth the transition, but he had lost interest in the music business long before that.

Shrewdly, at a much earlier stage of the company's existence, Draper had pressed for and secured a 20% share in Virgin Music, using the truthful expedient of informing Branson that he was seriously considering moving with his Chilean girlfriend to her homeland. That fateful stake made him a very wealthy man following the EMI deal. Draper was free to pursue his other passions – modern art and motor racing – to the hilt. He built up valuable collections of paintings and cars. He launched Palawan Press, a publisher dedicated to deluxe, expensive photo books about cars. Like Virgin in its earliest days, the company sells by mail-order only. "We do the books in a way that's never been done before. People like them."

The Human League - (Keep Feeling) Fascination

The bygone informality of the '70s record biz is encapsulated in the odd couple partnership between Richard Branson and Simon Draper. During Virgin's golden age, they managed to maintain a marriage between the usually opposed imperatives of enterprise and aesthetics, meshing Branson's dynamism and ambition with Draper's taste and sensitivity to the needs of the artists.

In our conversations, Draper repeatedly stresses that Branson didn't have a clue about music and in fact didn't particularly like music, or even listen to it. When he did intervene in the decision-making process at Virgin, Branson's impulses were sometimes spectacularly misguided.

"With Tubular Bells, we took it to Cannes for the music business trade fair Midem and played it to various people. Most people in the industry didn't get it, because it had no vocals. And one record executive actually said 'It's great – but you've got to put vocals on it.' And when we got back Richard tried to get Mike to put some vocals on it – missing the point entirely!"

Other legendary tales of Branson's misconceived gambits include an alleged attempt to get Lydon to abandon PiL and reunite with Steve Jones and Paul Cook by playing him the sub-Pistols tunes that his erstwhile bandmates were recording for Virgin as the Professionals. Branson is also said to have tried to persuade Devo that they should take Johnny Rotten as their new frontman, even going so far as to engineer a meeting between both parties in Jamaica, where the ex-Pistol had flown out with the Virgin boss to help him pick reggae artists for the Front Line imprint.

Draper doesn't recall either of those stories, but he does say that Branson "had certain things, bees in his bonnet, that would tend to recur. For instance, after 'I'm A Believer' was this sort of interesting hit single for Robert Wyatt, Richard would often suggest to other people that they should record 'I'm A Believer.' You have to understand, Richard knew zilch about music. When he did Desert Island Discs" – the long-running BBC radio show in which a famous guest discusses their all-time favorite pieces of music – "we had to tell him what records he liked!

"The music thing with Virgin was just accidental – it wasn't because Richard liked music particularly. He could have been doing anything – and he can do anything. He's an entrepreneur." Branson, for his part, has admitted as much, telling The Face magazine in 1984 that "I'm more cynical than 99 percent of the people who work for Virgin. Simon loves records and his whole involvement is through that. With me it's different. It's not a love of music."

"Our relationship worked well," Draper continues, "because it was his drive and ambition – his lack of fear – propelling it, but he needed someone else to make the label credible. There was this tension between doing things that were exciting and interesting, and being successful. I had a lot of freedom to do what I wanted, but equally Richard would keep me on my toes, because he wanted the success. I was constantly having to fight against him wanting to sign things I considered rubbish."

The Branson/Draper symbiosis was a prime example of an archetype that flourished from the late '60s onwards, made the '70s a rich and teeming-with-possibility decade for music and only really faded in the hard-headed '80s: the aesthete-entrepreneur. Draper and Branson split those functions and faculties across two chalk-and-cheese individuals, but in other record-biz figures of that era the two impulses coexist in the same body. Just like the kind of upper middle class, well-educated bands that started coming through with Pink Floyd and Soft Machine and their ilk, most of these art-minded businessmen came from posh backgrounds. They loved the music and loved elements of the counter-culture (the sex, the drugs, the hair), but they weren't looking for a revolutionary transformation of society. They enjoyed the buzz of making deals and breaking bands, the hustle and hype. Some pretty much learned the biz on the job; others had picked up a sense of how worldly things worked from their monied backgrounds. For a surprisingly long period, these operators were able to sustain the fiction that the record business was not really a business at all. That somehow Art and Money, boundary-busting masterpieces and the bottom line, could coexist fruitfully.

"I had no business experience when we started," recalls Draper. "My mother and father are teachers and really I should have ended up in academia or in the media. But the music business in those days... I remember an article in the Financial Times during the '70s that said music publishing was the easiest way to make money known to man. We saw that with Virgin Publishing, when we signed Sting. This was before the Police, when he was in a band called Last Exit, who weren't that great – but we could see that he was great. You can't fail to make a lot of money out of something like that."

"The atmosphere was great back then – the fact that you didn't need to be a professional, it was all intuitive," Draper continues. "And the record business attracted people of that sort really, driven mainly by love of music."

Draper says that since he left Virgin a quarter-century ago he's never once been tempted to go back into the music industry. When he talks to his friends who are still involved, he finds that they are struggling. "They don't like the record business as it is," Draper says in his mild, understated way. "So many aspects of it aren't... great."

(Header image © Courtesy of Simon Draper)

>> The article on the Red Bull Music Academy website

Previous article

Next article

Back to the list

ABÉCÉDAIRE

Les années Before | Soft Machine | Matching Mole | Solo | With Friends | Samples | Compilations | V.A. | Bootlegs | Reprises

A conversation with Robert Wyatt - Swench.net / Tales from the East Pier - August 7, 2016

A conversation with Robert Wyatt

Tales from the East Pier

This is an unpublished interview with Robert Wyatt, perhaps best known for his cover of 'Shipbuilding' by Elvis Costello and being a member of Soft Machine. I spoke to Robert in 2007 about his album Comicopera. We had a fascinating and lovely chat.

Robert Wyatt-Ellidge is one of the last true enigmas left in British music. In an age when generic conservatism is frighteningly rife and the onslaught of tacky celebrity culture has tarnished creativity, Wyatt is like a beacon of hope from a lost era, defiantly soldiering on and still releasing remarkable and unclassifiable solo records since 1970.

The latest inimitable slice of Wyatt is Comicopera – an ambitious and diverse album divided into three acts. Recorded at home in Louth, Lincolnshire, it's also his first with Domino Records, which means Wyatt is now an unlikely label mate of the likes of Franz Ferdinand and Arctic Monkeys.

Born during the final few months of the Second World War in Bristol, Wyatt grew up near Dover and was taught the drums by a visiting American jazz drummer called George Neidorf. After stints in the Daevid Allen Trio and the Wilde Flowers, Wyatt formed Soft Machine with Kevin Ayers and Allen. Soft Machine blended psychedelia with jazz fusion, becoming one of the most revered acts in prog-rock while Pink Floyd were bringing it to a wider audience. They were briefly managed by Damon Albarn's father Keith. After four years of touring and three albums, Robert recorded his first solo album entitled The End of an Ear.

Fusion groups such as Centipede and Matching Mole followed, but in 1973 at a party in Maida Vale, London, Robert fell from a third floor window. Paralysed from the waist down, Wyatt was confined to a wheelchair. Pink Floyd staged two benefit concerts compered by John Peel and raised in the region of £10,000. Meanwhile, Wyatt decided that his days as a band member were over.

His first solo album since his accident, Rock Bottom, is a far more accomplished work than The End of an Ear. Indeed, he has often said since that he doesn't even consider his debut as part of his "canon." Ivor Cutler contributed to a track called "Little Red Robin Hood Hit the Road" and a lot more people listened up and paid attention. He married the poet, lyricist and illustrator Alfreda Benge in 1973, whom he still lives with in Lincolnshire and affectionately refers to as Alfie.

Wyatt scored chart success with covers of "Shipbuilding" by Elvis Costello and "I'm a Believer" by the Monkees. When he appeared on Top of the Pops, a BBC producer maintained that a man singing in a wheelchair was not suitable for family viewing. Famously, Wyatt "lost his rag but not the wheelchair" and the appearance continued without pandering to any ludicrous demands.

In 2001, Wyattt curated a Meltdown extravaganza that included Ivor Cutler, Baaba Maal, David Gilmour, Elvis Costello, Tricky and the Raincoats. In 2003, he received a Mercury Music Prize nomination for the whimsical Cuckooland, an album that ranks with Rock Bottom, Shleep and Ruth is Stranger than Richard as one of his best works.

His oeuvre is one of the most dazzling and uncategorisable in modern music and free of any token nods to eclecticism or fusion for its own sake. His work is also consistently brilliant. The release of Comicopera is thrilling news, further accentuating the magical and mercurial brilliance of the one and only Robert Wyatt.

One of the most interesting things about Comicopera is how well it functions as a complete piece. The art of album listening has been somewhat adversely effected by downloading culture, so I'd be curious to know if this in any informed your ambitions and intentions for this album?

I've got used to wearing comfortable set of clothes even if they're not very fashionable clothes. I was brought up with the old two-sided LPs and I like that format. On my last record (Cuckooland) I split it in two. I still think in 20 minute chunks. I'm glad that you noticed that it is meant to be listened to as a whole, because it's a kind of a journey or some sort of idiot's pilgrimage.

In Act III – Away with the Fairies, you stop singing in English.

Well, that's one of the ways that I'm away with the fairies! I'm very English. I'm very happy with so many things here and I like a cup of tea. What irritates me are boring council meetings and boring streets to walk down, but that's nothing to go to war about. I do enjoy the cosmopolitan music scene which is why there is an instrumental track on there celebrating that called "The Town Square". However, I can't really wallow in happiness when we're fighting our wars against defenceless people to the East. As a taxpayer, it irritates me and that's putting it very mildly indeed. It's a very odd idea to spread democracy by going around and bombing people.

As a British citizen, does Gordon Brown's appointment as Prime Minister make you feel in any way more hopeful or optimistic?

It's bit too late for me to shift my opinions on governments. It seems to me that the purpose of a Labour government is to look after the shop while the Conservatives go off on grouse-shooting holiday for five years. The basic problem remains that we're still relying on the control of other countries for the supply of basic resources in one way or another. In Iraq, they'll have a terrible dilemma of withdrawing without it looking like they've been defeated. We're being beaten in Afghanistan and Iraq. That's the unbearable truth and we should have learnt that a hundred years ago. You can't just eradicate other people and replace them with replicas of yourself with impunity. However, it's reassuring to have an adult speaking on behalf of the country rather an adolescent retard from pre-school, but that's just a personal opinion. I don't analyse things politically. I suppose I do view them artistically. It's like looking at the sea. The journalist looks at the ships on the sea and what happens to them. What the artist has to do is look at the undercurrents and shifting waters. While I'm sifting around in the gloom, somebody else is looking at all the chopping and changing on the top.

Even though there is a lot of love, loss and war on Comicopera, I don't find it a depressing album.

There are a few comic moments on this record although they probably escape most people's attention. People think I'm depressing because of the beard and the wheelchair. If they could see me as I really am in my head, which is some kind of reckless little monkey scampering around in the trees, they'd be much closer to the mark quite frankly. I get pissed off like we all do. I get puzzled and frightened. Tragedy isn't funny, but I do think the best way to see life is as some kind of vast cosmic joke. People who perpetuate evil don't tend to be monsters, they're just hideous people who shouldn't be allowed at the controls. We haven't worked that one out yet, as wonderful as human civilisation is. We haven't learnt how to get the right fucker at the controls. Countries like England have always had empires and are always prone during a weak moment to suddenly think they have to do all that again. I have to distance myself from that aspect of England and that's what the third act is all about. Both my son and my daughter have married into families of Irish descent and I'm delighted. My son has married a Birmingham-Irish woman and my daughter has married a Canadian Irishman called Patrick Burke. I've got got four grand-daughters, sorry, I mean three and a grandson! I think. Well, four of those little pinky things that squeak. Now, they're all being brought up as Catholics, which is a bit of laugh considering their Granddad doesn't believe in anything! But I don't have too much of a problem with religion. I suppose it brings a sense of security, community and continuity in the face of a difficult world. I'm glad that my son and daughter have extended the gene pool. I'm not worried about immigration. This is an island, so I'm more worried about in-breeding. So that's my connection with Ireland, apart from being a big fan of Samuel Beckett and Oscar Wilde, but I'm sure everyone says that.

This is your first album on Domino which is an extremely well-respected and label. Does this new relationship excite you?

I can't believe my luck. We had to leave the last record company because it was taken over by a vast anonymous gang from across the Atlantic so we scuttled off. I'm glad they've got a great reputation. I don't follow music as closely as you do, but I can tell you that as people they're just terrific. They're bright, funny, intelligent and they work really hard. They have a similar spirit to Geoff Travis and Rough Trade. They've struck gold a couple of times lately, which has given them a profile that good people don't always get. I'm so lucky to be able to benefit from that.

I came across an interesting quote on a blog that claims you are the one performer in England that everyone respects and loves; the punks, the art-rockers – everyone…

I don't quite understand that to be honest. I don't mean to be falsely modest, but I have great difficulty doing what I do. Heath Robinson used to draw all these mad machines that wouldn't work and sometimes I feel my records are a bit like that. I do the best I can. Whenever I hear one of my records on the radio, I wince with embarrassment. I think, "Take that off and put on a proper record!" I'm baffled really, but it's nice when people say nice things about me. Some of my contemporaries got terribly paranoid about punk, but I thought Johnny Rotten was great. He made me laugh out loud and I thought he was a wonderful singer. I just couldn't see the problem people had with him. When people get older, they sometimes forget that every generation will find its own subculture and these tribal divisions make life interesting. I've always welcomed it and they never had me waving their finger at them in some kind of school-masterly way. So, maybe there isn't this feeling that I'm some disapproving elder looking down upon them. I know exactly how they feel. I felt that way too.

That's funny when you say you feel uncomfortable hearing your music. Of course, your name has become a verb, as "Wyatting" refers to the practice of putting weird music on a jukebox with the aim of clearing a pub.

If someone put on one of my records in a pub it would certainly alienate me. I'd be straight out of there. Put on Girls Aloud or James Brown. Anything else. For fuck's sake, who wants to hear an old man with a beard when they're trying to have a drink? However, I do try and make tunes and I don't go out of my way to be obscure. Most of tunes tend to be light pop songs, they just tend to go on a bit. I like jazz solos and I like moments of complete anarchy and freedom, but it's always anchored in songs for me.

I don't know exactly what the Cuban track "Hasta Siempre Comadante" at the end of the album, is all about as I don't know any Spanish, but I believe it is concerned with Che Guevara?

That's right. The instrumental part was recorded by some Italian musicians. It's a remix of a piece I did some years ago for a fundraising CD for the Italian equivalent of The Morning Star (English socialist newspaper) called Il Manifesto. I resurrected it and remixed it with new vocals. They play it so beautifully.

The last track on Ruth is Stranger than Richard is called "Song for Che".

Yes. This is my second song for Che and the second one I've done by the songwriter Carlos Puebla. He only died recently. He was a Cuban folk legend of the post-revolutionary years.

One of the most beautiful tracks is "Just As You Are". Monica Vasconcelos' voice is amazing. Who is she?

Isn't she lovely? She is an amazing Brazilian lady and she has a record of her own called Hih. We did a swop. Instead of payment, we appeared on each other's records, which is something I do from time to time. I used to do that with David Gilmour and Brian (Eno). She got Alfie to write her some music and I wrote some lyrics. She normally sings in Portuguese so when she sings on "Just As You Are" there is a touch of innocence in the way she sings and a real sensual knowingness. She was the yin to my yang! (chuckles)

Brian Eno pops up too. You've been working with him for a long time and you played on Music for Airports.

Yeah, he plays keyboard on the first track and sorted out the cymbal sounds. I used his voice as an 'Enotron' on "Out of the Blue". Incidentally, on the very first copies of the CD, I left out Beverly Chadwick's name who played baritone sax, which was my mistake entirely. There was so much going on that I just slipped up and forgot. I'm not so good at all the practical stuff afterwards.

I love "Out of the Blue". I think it's my favourite track on the album.

It's a nice example of how me and Alfie can work together in a way that is almost spooky. She just came in with the words and they just matched. You'd think we had it prepared. I suppose we've been preparing for it in living together for 35 years.

I believe you did a live show recently in Lincoln.

Oh look, I don't know how that one got out. There is a young bee-bop drummer called Dylan Howe who is brilliant. The nearest he came to us was Lincoln which is an hour and a bit up the road. He persuaded me to play for a little bit, but it wasn't my show. All I did was mutter a chorus. It's no big deal. I didn't even get onstage. I haven't sung onstage since 1982. The only other time I did something like that was with David Gilmour a couple of years ago, but again I just skulked in the corner and did a bit of grunting and muttering.

Is making albums more important to you than playing live? It certainly seems to be that way for Kate Bush and Scott Walker.

I suppose it is. When David Gilmour plays, people appreciate what it is but some people come up to him and they can get quite abusive about the fact that it's not Pink Floyd. Ray Davies goes crazy because anytime he appears audiences just want him to do 'Waterloo

Sunset'. I don't have that problem. I do my songs and people expect and respect that. Then I move on to something else. I enjoyed playing live and I loved live drumming in particular. Sure, there is a buzz involved but I don't envy people who have to go on tour. I work more like a painter. I like working with small groups within this domestic intimacy.

I believe you're very inspired by painters.

I'm married to someone who has an M.A. and went to art college for ten years. I like doing little cartoons and stuff. I look at paintings all the time. Right in front of me now is a Basquiat print that Alfie bought me for my birthday. It's beautiful. I'm also looking at the cover of Comicopera and that's beautiful too. I still love art. As a teenager, the only thing that I found interesting that grown ups did was painting. The painters of the first half of the 20th century were my bread and butter really. I love sculpture too. More recently, I could spend a whole other life only looking at older painters – from Caravaggio right back to Giotto. They're gob-smacking. There is just so much. I'm quite happy with my little art books because I find art galleries a bit difficult. Plus, you're not allowed to smoke in them, which I know is sensible so I'm not complaining. I find the luminosity of wet paint comes back when you see paintings reproduced on television. I went to see a contemporary Japanese art exhibition in the Hayward Gallery in London recently. It was wonderful and full of witty and bright ideas. I was entranced by it. I also saw some David Hockney portraits of his mother lately which were fantastic. They were the best series of portraits of someone getting older that I've seen since Rembrandt. I get a lot of brain food from painting, but it's not what I do.

What was it like to work with Bjork on her Medulla album?

I just think she's magical. What can I say? It was like being visited by an angel from the top of a Christmas tree who comes down for while, sits on your shoulder and has a chat. I was completely in a daze. She is a beautiful bit of magic that floats about the earth like Stevie Wonder or Nina Simone. Me and the missus were thrilled to have her in the house. I don't listen to much rock music, but someone like that cuts right through. I still think I'll wake up one day and realise it was all just a dream.

You've worked with a lot of amazing people throughout your career, such as Mike Oldfield and Ivor Cutler.

It's amazing. It's been my life really. It's like she came out of nowhere and went back to nowhere. Well, not nowhere because she went back to Iceland obviously! I knew Ivor so well. He used to come round every week. We'd have some food and have a laugh and he'd potter off. Occasionally, we worked together, but to me he was just Ivor. It's the same with anyone else. I've been lucky to have these great friends independent of their stature in the outside world. Personally, I'm more concerned to work with people who aren't well known enough such as Monica. Some people are lucky enough to have struck some kind of common chord that resonates around the world, but other people haven't. How people have resonated around the world means very little to me. What I'm concerned with is whether they have some kind of gift that they can share with me even just for one song. To me, Paul (Weller) is just Paul. He is such a smart dresser, even when there is no one around to see! I love him. They're just people. Like Brian Eno with his bicycle. He just makes me laugh. You should hear his jokes. Actually, you shouldn't because they're disgraceful. Most of the time I hang around in our little town which is miles away from any media-attended event. I spent most of my time talking to Alfie, my Mother in Law Loreanna and Stan, who sells sausages in a bun with a cup of tea from his van for £1.20 in the market square up the road. We go to supper with our friends Alan and Patricia and Jane and Martin. None of them are musicians. Real life is anonymous. It just happens that a few of my friends are dead famous. It puts me off asking sometimes. I asked Paul's missus Sharon if he could play and she told me he was off on tour. I felt a bit shy about asking him after hearing that, but she just said, "Come on Robert, don't be a moron! Paul would love to do it!"

Your hometown sounds amazing. It must be a very conducive environment for creativity.

It is because there is no pressure to do anything. It's a homely market town. It's easy to live in and I can get around with great ease in my wheelchair within a ten minute spin around the block. In a place that might seem to have everything like London, I can't really do that. It's like toy town. It's like a toy train set with the butcher, the baker and candle-stick maker. It's got a few thousand people in it and a few industries that make cardboard packaging and plastic spoons. The people are friendly and very nice. There is a plumber next door and a shopkeeper on the other side. It's more than good enough for me.

Do your neighbours know who you are?

There is a woman down the pub called Maureen who said to me, "Robert, I know you're a celebrity, but I don't think anyone knows what you do." I just said, "Let's leave it at that Maureen. Don't worry about it. I'm celebrity for sure. Give us another drink." They've got a vague feeling that I must be something or other, but nobody really knows what it is because I'm not on Emmerdale or anything like that so they're a bit puzzled. There is a little record shop up the road called Off the Beaten Track and they know what I do. It's really nice little shop. I wheel up there and get my old jazz records. They feed the local youth their rock records and I just sit there having a cup of tea.

Thanks so much for the chat Robert. Sorry, I've just realised that I've ran way over time.

Oh, that's alright. I've still got my cup of tea going.

>> L'interview sur le site de Swench

Previous article

Next article

Back to the list

ABÉCÉDAIRE

Les années Before | Soft Machine | Matching Mole | Solo | With Friends | Samples | Compilations | V.A. | Bootlegs | Reprises

HOME

Robert Wyatt - Record Collector N° 449 - January 2016

ROBERT WYATT

The Wilde Flowers 2CD is on Retroworld, 8 January, and RC asked the prog supergroup's mainstay, Robert Wyatt, if there are any other projects that he did that fans may not be aware of? "I tried writing a song for Paul Weller, which never surfaced, and I recorded a 10-minute instrumental for Jean-Pierre Muller's art installation, 7 By 7, which he asked us not to release separately."

With whom would you like to make a split 7"?
Archie Shepp.

What was your favourite record shop when you started out?
Collet's, on London's Shaftesbury Avenue. It had Ray Charles records on the jukebox, and a box marked "Rare as hen's teeth" in which I found a Japanese Blue Note LP of Kenny Dorham's Whistle Stop.

What was your first record?
Louis Armstrong's Skokiaan, maybe.

Did you ever write songs under the influence?
Goodness me, yes. When didn't I would be a much shorter list! Wine's a nice way to kickstart work. Brandy, one long solitary weekend, led to Blues In Bob Minor.

Are your family musical?
My pa, George Ellidge, played piano, and I started singing Christmas carols and funny songs like Little Brown Jug with him. My grandma, Annie Morgan, sang songs such as Come Into The Garden, Maud.

What would you ask your music hero?
Archie Shepp. I've met him several times and asked him about jazz saxophonists from the 40s and 50s that he listened to, such as Ben Webster and Al Sears, I'd ask more about that.

What record are you looking for?
Anything by Syrian vocalist George Wassouf, and the renegade concert pianist, Valentina Lisitsa. Culture from the front-line.

Which band would you most like to see in reality TV?
The Unthank Sisters, if it was on the BBC. The only channel that I tune into regularly with adverts now is Russia Today.

Which* of your songs *is the most personally meaningful?
Old Europe. Just me and Gilad Atzmon playing a nostalgic song about Paris. More poignant than ever.

What backstage incident makes you laugh or cringe most?
In New York, my friend Caroline Coon tried to take a quick photo of Miles Davis backstage, and he hissed, "tell that bitch to get that thing outta my face".

What fact about you may surprise fans?
-1 can't see anything wrong with Justin Bieber.

If you held a record-listening party, what record would you play, and who would you invite to discuss it?
Gil Evans Band's Out Of The Cool, and I'd invite Richard Williams and photographer Laurie Lewis to discuss it.

Which question do you wish people would stop asking?
What was Syd Barrett like?

What unfulfilled ambitions do you have?
To get NATO to fuck off, like the Warsaw Pact did.

What should your epitaph say?
Don't worry about the worms. They don't get this far down.

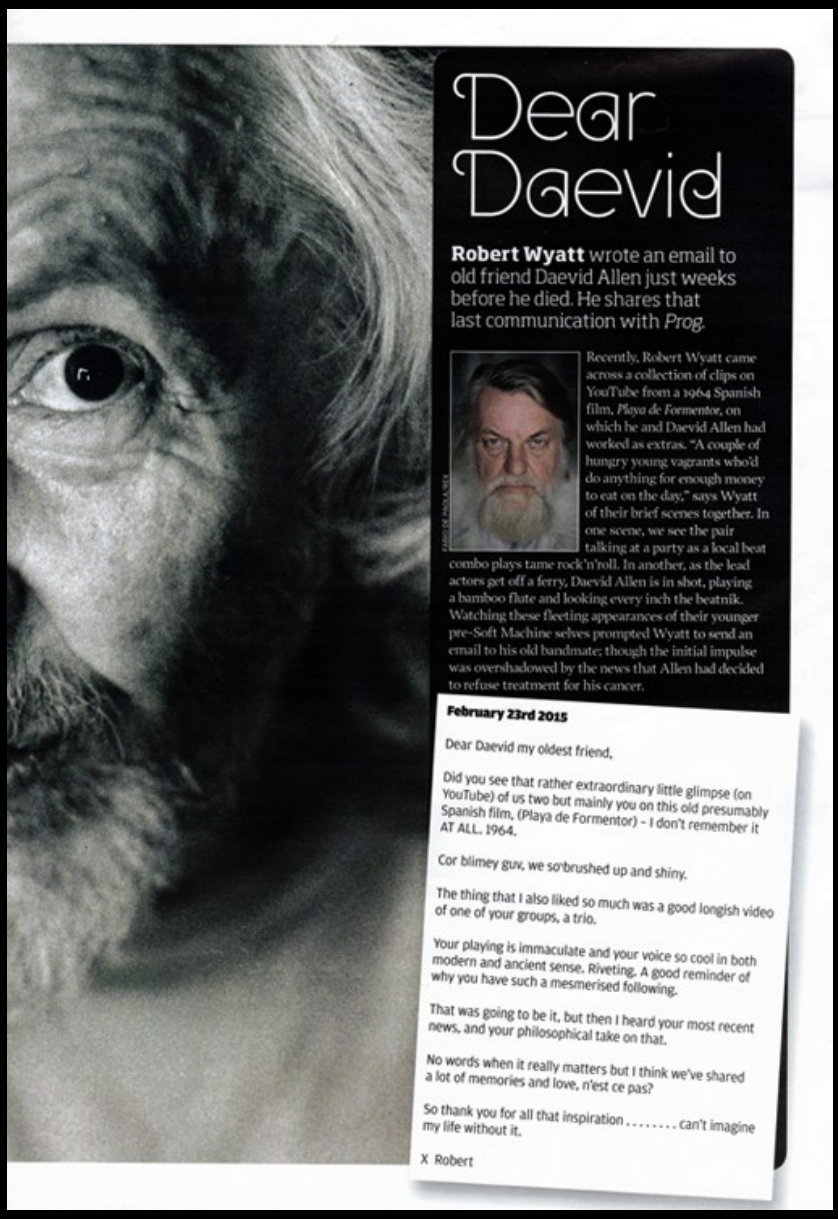
Robert Wyatt

The Wilde Flowers 2CD is on Retroworld, 8 January, and RC asked the prog supergroup's mainstay, Robert Wyatt, if there are any other projects that he did that fans may not be aware of? "I tried writing a song for Paul Weller, which never surfaced, and I recorded a 10-minute instrumental for Jean-Pierre Muller's art installation, 7 By 7, which he asked us not to release separately."
With whom would you like to make a split 7"?
Archie Shepp.
What was your favourite record shop when you started out?
Collet's, on London's Shaftesbury Avenue. It had Ray Charles records on the jukebox, and a box marked "Rare as hen's teeth" in which I found a Japanese Blue Note LP of Kenny Dorham's Whistle Stop.
What was your first record?
Louis Armstrong's Skokiaan, maybe.
Did you ever write songs under the influence?
Goodness me, yes. When didn't I would be a much shorter list! Wine's a nice way to kickstart work. Brandy, one long solitary weekend, led to Blues In Bob Minor.
Are your family musical?
My pa, George Ellidge, played piano, and I started singing Christmas carols and funny songs like Little Brown Jug with him. My grandma, Annie Morgan, sang songs such as Come Into The Garden, Maud.
What would you ask your music hero?
Archie Shepp. I've met him several times and asked him about jazz saxophonists from the 40s and 50s that he listened to, such as Ben Webster and Al Sears. I'd ask more about that.
What record are you looking for?
Anything by Syrian vocalist George Wassouf, and the renegade concert pianist, Valentina Lisitsa. Culture from the front-line.
Which band would you most like to see in reality TV?
The Unthank Sisters, if it was on the BBC. The only channel that I tune into regularly with adverts now is Russia Today.
Which of your songs is the most personally meaningful?
Old Europe. Just me and Gilad Atzmon playing a nostalgic song about Paris. More poignant than ever.
What backstage incident makes you laugh or cringe most?
In New York, my friend Caroline Coon tried to take a quick photo of Miles Davis backstage, and he hissed, "tell that bitch to get that thing outta my face".
What fact about you may surprise fans?
I can't see anything wrong with Justin Bieber.
If you held a record-listening party, what record would you play, and who would you invite to discuss it?
Gil Evans Band's Out Of The Cool, and I'd invite Richard Williams and photographer Laurie Lewis to discuss it.
Which question do you wish people would stop asking?
What was Syd Barrett like?
What unfulfilled ambitions do you have?
To get NATO to fuck off, like the Warsaw Pact did.
What should your epitaph say?
Don't worry about the worms. They don't get this far down.

Previous article

Next article

Back to the list



ABÉCÉDAIRE

Les années Before | Soft Machine | Matching Mole | Solo | With Friends | Samples | Compilations | V.A. | Bootlegs | Reprises

HOME

Dear Daevid - Prog - April 2015

DEAR DAEVID

Dear Daevid

Robert Wyatt wrote an email to old friend Daevid Allen just weeks before he died. He shares that last communication with Prog.

Recently, Robert Wyatt came across a collection of clips on YouTube from a 1964 Spanish film, Playa de Formentor, on which he and Daevid Allen had worked as extras. "A couple of hungry young vagrants who'd do anything for enough money to eat on the day," says Wyatt of their brief scenes together. In one scene, we see the pair talking at a party as a local beat combo plays tame rock'n'roll. In another, as the lead actors get off a ferry, Daevid Allen is in shot, playing a bamboo flute and looking every inch the beatnik. Watching these fleeting appearances of their younger pre-Soft Machine selves prompted Wyatt to send an email to his old bandmate; though the initial impulse was overshadowed by the news that Allen had decided to refuse treatment for his cancer.

February 23rd 2015

Dear Daevid my oldest friend,

Did you see that rather extraordinary little glimpse (on YouTube) of us two but mainly you on this old presumably Spanish film, (Playa de Formentor) - I don't remember it AT ALL. 1964.

Cor blimey guv, we so brushed up and shiny.

The thing that I also liked so much was a good longish video of one of your groups, a trio.

Your playing is immaculate and your voice so cool in both modern and ancient sense. Riveting. A good reminder of why you have such a mesmerised following.

That was going to be it, but then I heard your most recent news, and your philosophical take on that.

No words when it really matters but I think we've shared a lot of memories and love, n'est ce pas?

So thank you for all that inspiration ..... can't imagine my life without it.

X Robert

> Zoom

A Life Less Ordinary - Prog - April 2015

A LIFE LESS ORDINARY

Whether with prog-jazz pioneers Soft Machine or on his own dreamlike solo albums, Robert Wyatt has always followed his instincts. Recently retired, he looks back on an "improvised life" in music.

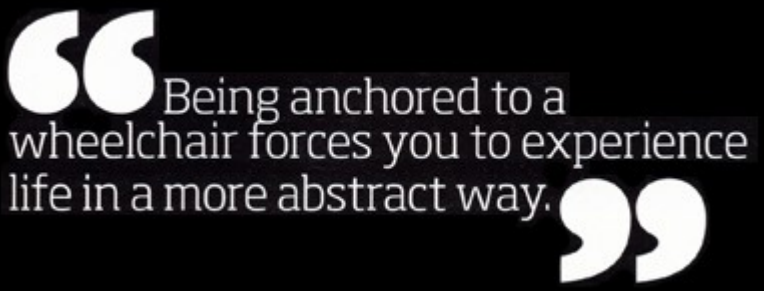
A Life Less Ordinary

Whether with prog-jazz pioneers Soft Machine or on his own dreamlike solo albums, Robert Wyatt has always followed his instincts. Recently, as he looks back on his "improvised life" in music

Words: Rob Hughes

"The music I heard in my head didn't really exist in the real world," says Robert Wyatt, trying to explain the unique otherness of his recorded work. "Elements of my ideas were already out there — an attraction to hummable tunes, for example — so I was neither trying to be different, nor trying to sound familiar. I'm not interested in following a tradition, but nor am I interested in being esoteric. I just follow my undirected instinct wherever it leads me."

> Zoom



Wyatt's instinct has rarely let him down. In a career that he brought to an unexpected close in 2014 with the announcement that he was retiring from music, Wyatt has produced some of the most strikingly original work of the past half century. His, he says, is "an improvised life". One fuelled by jazz, socialism and an absurdist slant on the world around him.

It's an approach that first found expression with prog-jazz pioneers Soft Machine in the mid-60s. Though he's keen to dismiss the notion that they were part of a broader Canterbury Scene. "There were a few musicians I played with from around there, but I don't remember a 'scene'," posits Wyatt, who turned 70 in January. Instead, he feels, Canterbury was more emblematic of a very English variant on freeform jazz and psychedelia. Referring to their countercultural days at London's Roundhouse and UFO Club, Pink Floyd drummer Nick Mason described the Softs and Pink Floyd as "the twin house bands of the London underground". "I always found the underground a more realistic place to be," says Wyatt, recalling. UFO. "There'd be bodies all over the floor, film projections on various surfaces, and a right old racket coming from the stage. There was a timeless feel, altogether rather dreamlike."

Wyatt's memories as singer/ drummer of Soft Machine, for whom he contributed such stellar moments as Moon In June, are bittersweet. By his own admission, he'd become a liability by the time of 1971's Fourth. An obstinate boozer and wild stage presence (flailing, shirtless, from behind his kit), he was utterly at odds with the restrained disposition of fellow Softs, bassist Hugh Hopper and keyboard player Mike Ratledge. In autumn '71, Wyatt quit to form Matching Mole. Though, as Hopper admitted later, Wyatt was effectively "pushed out of what he felt was his own group".

The episode forms one of the most moving passages in Marcus O'Dair's recent book, Different Every Time: The Authorised Biography Of Robert Wyatt. In it, Wyatt confesses that he still has nightmares about being squeezed out of Soft Machine. "It is strange, even to me," he says, trying to make sense of the residual trauma. "Something to do with the humiliation of rejection, when it's rejection from the people you got together with in the first place, I guess."

Post-Soft Machine, two events changed him forever. In early 1972 he met artist Alfreda Benge, who was to become his wife, muse and lyricist. It also coincided with the beginning of Wyatt's devotion to Communism, with politics serving as "the missing protein" in his music. Then, in 1973, came the drunken fall from a window that left Wyatt paralysed from the waist down. The effect, he says, was truly liberating, in that it narrowed his career choices and made him concentrate on being a singer. He calls the accident a neat dividing line between adolescence and the rest of his life: "Your youth is a period of maximum physical potential. Suddenly being anchored to a wheelchair forces you to experience life in a more abstract way. You become more reflective."

Aside from his expressionistic blend of free jazz, folk, classical and world music, what truly sets Wyatt apart is his exquisite voice. Reedy and tremulous, there's a haunted vulnerability and disarming candour to his singing, which his friend Brian Eno compares to "a poor innocent cast into a complicated world".

There are very few precedents for Wyatt's singing voice. "I try to make the most of what's doable with it," he offers plainly. But one chief inspiration was the late English tenor and Benjamin Britten collaborator Sir Peter Pears. "I didn't warm to opera singing, but Peter Pears had a gentler vibrato, which suited Britten's adaptations of folk songs in particular. They were probably the first records that got to me as a toddler."

The sheer breadth of Wyatt's solo work is dizzying. As an extension of his modus operandi — "I do like to rummage around what's been done in the past and find a different take on it" — he has reworked pieces by such disparate artists as John Cage and The Monkees, and recorded with Henry Cow, Eno, Phil Manzanera, Syd Barrett, Björk and Ryuichi Sakamoto, to name but a few. "I think of it as alternating dictatorships," he says of his myriad collaborations. "On my records, I hope the musicians I invite will trust me to put it all together in my own way. Conversely, when employed by others, I try to do what they would like me to do."

Stick a pin anywhere you like, from 1974's Rock Bottom to 2OO7's Comicopera, from Soft Machine's 1968 debut to 2010's three-way alliance with Gilad Atzmon and Ros Stephen, For The Ghosts Within, and all of these albums are freighted with Wyatt's rare brilliance. For all the genre-hopping, Wyatt's work occupies a distinct corner entirely of its own. "My identity doesn't feel threatened by cultural variety," he says. "Such differences as there are seem to me to highlight the specialness of each. Underneath, what we have in common with others warms the heart even more. My heart, anyway."

Previous article

Next article

Back to the list

Robert Wyatt - Q N°343 - February 2015

No sooner has Robert Wyatt welcomed Q into his home than he's apologising for the long journey. Since he and his wife Alfie moved to the Lincolnshire market town of Louth more than 20 years ago, he's felt like he's a world away from the heart of the music industry so he greets visitors with a mixture of gratitude and surprise.

"I can't believe Björk was sat where you are," he says, marvelling across his dining table, cup of tea in hand. "We sat and played Sun Ra records. I was truly starstruck. She has magic to me."

The house is as welcoming and characterful as its inhabitants. The walls are decorated with Alfie's designs for Wyatt's album covers and a picture of Che Guevara with a sticker reading "Smoking cures stress". On the mantelpiece near the table there's a ruby wedding anniversary card and a Russian doll of sour-faced former Soviet premier Leonid Brezhnev.

Wyatt's song with Björk, Submarine, is one of several collaborations that he's collated on the second disc of a new compilation called Different Every Time. "I like the sense of being employable," he says cheerfully. "It's reassuring."

A companion to Marcus O'Dair's new authorised biography of Wyatt ("big and thick, like me," says the singer). Different Every Time winds a typically unorthodox path through Wyatt's unique career but still can't do it justice. In the 40 years since an accident confined him to a wheelchair, the former drummer has created a soundworld where surrealist whimsy coexists with fierce political conviction, English eccentricity with globetrotting curiosity, good humour with fathomless sadness, audacious experimentation with pop clarity, a big brain with a warm heart. His friend Brian Eno has compared Wyatt's unmistakable voice to "a poor innocent cast into a complicated world".

In person, the 69-year-old is as intriguingly paradoxical as his music. Despite his accomplishments, he's modest to the point of masochism. He's effortlessly erudite about anything from Picasso to Palestine, but merrily describes himself as "thick as shit". He projects wisdom and optimism, with a jovial chuckle that convinces you all's right with the world, yet he's suffered from depression and anxiety. You can tell some subjects are still painful from the way he chain-smokes Chesterfields and tugs at a fleecy white beard, which suggests both Karl Marx and Santa Claus. His life has been fascinating but not easy.

"When people say they like my records," he says, "I think, 'If you knew how hard it was to make those records you'd be even more impressed than you are!'"

> Zoom

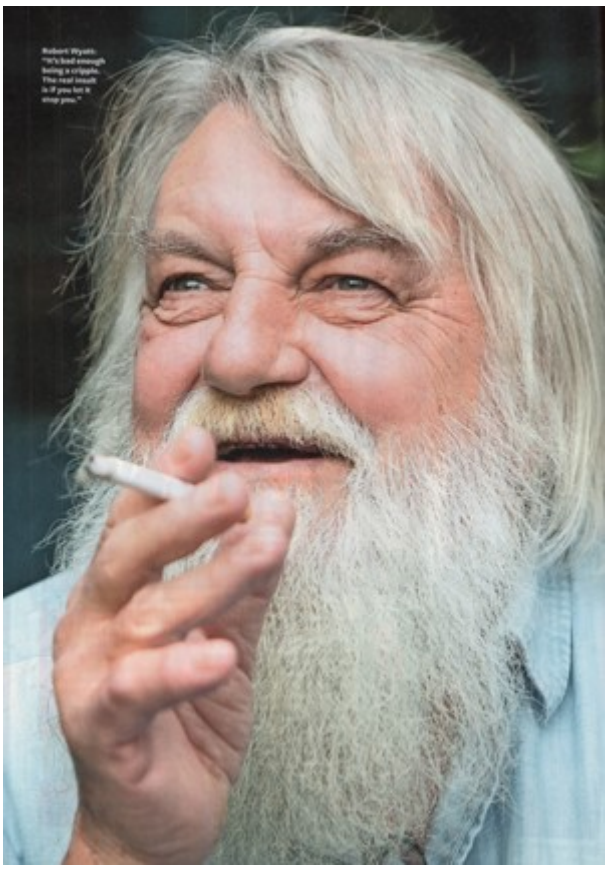
Robert Wyatt-Ellidge's childhood was both blessed and cursed. His parents, a music-loving industrial psychologist and a freelance journalist, were unusually cosmopolitan for post-war Britain. They took young Robert to continental Europe, schooled him in modernism and jazz, and ran a nurturing, bohemian household: one of Robert's four half-siblings, Julian Glover, is an actor who currently plays Grand Maester Pycelle in Game Of Thrones. "I was never a rebel against my parents," says Wyatt. "I liked them very much."

When Wyatt was 10, however, his father developed multiple sclerosis (he died eight years later), and his enforced retirement meant they needed lodgers to keep their ramshackle Kent house going. Life at a rural grammar school didn't suit him at all. "I know people where education was their introduction to the outside world," he says, thoughtfully puffing away. "Perhaps for me it was a narrowing down. I got cultural claustrophobia."

He dropped out at 16, the same year his parents emigrated, leaving him to fend for himself with various menial jobs, a failed attempt at painting and "dossing" around Europe, where he got "a real sense of what it's like being a nobody, an alien, and how you're treated." He found his calling playing drums in what he quaintly calls "beat groups".

"There was no great weight of historical precedent saying what it should be like," he says. "To that extent I think all British rock music is punk music: fools rushing in where angels fear to tread."

In 1966, after a short spell fronting The Wilde Flowers, Wyatt formed Soft Machine, who became popular with the "heads" thanks to their endless jazz-rock odysseys. Alfie once described them as "too much happening all at once for too long."



"Yeah," Wyatt laughs. "Well, it's a phase to go through. I did get carried away on drums. Every time I had an idea I would play it. I've regretted that since. The drummers I listen to now are the ones that leave space."

Soft Machine toured America with The Jimi Hendrix Experience in 1968. Wyatt was drinking with Hendrix when the news broke that Martin Luther King had been assassinated. "We were playing in Newark and Hendrix dedicated a song to 'a friend of mine who just died,'" he says, his voice trembling. "I'm getting tearful now. It was just... fucking hell. They were such a kind bunch. What I liked about Hendrix was he was almost embarrassed by his apparently effortless superiority."

Wyatt, for his part, was embarrassed by the term "progressive rock". His journey as a music fan, from the avant-garde to pop, was the reverse of most prog-rockers'. "My discovery wasn't the obscure or the esoteric. It was the joy of playing for dancers and the idea of music as a service, like a restaurant or a caff. So I always found the [progressive] idea presumptuous. And also there was something vaguely racist in the idea that what Little Richard and Chuck Berry did was rock'n'roll but then it progresses. Well, actually, fuck you! "

Soft Machine burned through members fast and in 1971 it was Wyatt's turn to get ousted by bandmates who hated both his singing and his drinking. He admits he was "getting right out of order" but at the time he was traumatised. "It's amazing how it recurs in nightmares," he says heavily. "It was that sense of having given my youth to developing this thing and then being rejected by it. It was emotionally shattering."

Wyatt formed a new band, Matching Mole, whose name was a barbed pun on the French translation of Soft Machine, and his love life was looking up. After breaking up with Caroline Coon, the artist and activist who inspired Matching Mole's beautiful O Caroline, he met Alfie. Born Alfreda Benge in Nazi-occupied Poland in 1940, she was an artist and aspiring film-maker. Wyatt soon realised she was "the one".

> Zoom

In 1972, the film director Nic Roeg invited Alfie to Venice to work on the thriller Don't Look Now, which co-starred her old friend Julie Christie. Alfie bought Wyatt a toyshop keyboard so that he could compose while she was on set. He thought the Venice songs, inspired by his new love, would comprise the third Matching Mole album but Robert Wyatt has led a life of two halves and the first half was about to come to a violent end.

On 1 June, 1973, Robert and Alfie went to a party at a West London flat. Wyatt proceeded to get drunk and fall four storeys while trying to climb down a drainpipe. He can remember hearing a distant scream after he hit the ground. Later, a friend told him, "That was you." Submerged by painkillers for six weeks, Wyatt awoke to learn that he'd broken his 12th vertebra, paralysing him from the waist down, at the age of 28. After three months, he was finally allowed out of bed and began playing the piano in the visitors' room, fleshing out the Venice songs to match the visions in his head. "It's a landscape," he says. "There are rivers spreading out into deltas, there's mountainous bits, there's rough terrain. It's embarrassingly literal."

Wyatt agrees that it's strange that this injury set him back less than being fired from Soft Machine. "Alfie says, 'Robert lives in denial and who'd be so cruel as to knock him out of it?'" he laughs. "There was a pride element. It's bad enough being a cripple. The real insult is if you let it stop you." (Later, Alfie tells me, "I think the one thing missing from the book is the incredible aggravation of being paraplegic. Because he doesn't make a fuss about it, nobody notices.")

On a pragmatic level, Wyatt needed to earn a living and he couldn't drum any more so he became a reluctant singer-songwriter. His Rock Bottom album was released in 1974, on Robert and Alfie's wedding day. Produced by Pink Floyd's Nick Mason, it's an extraordinary piece of work: dreamlike, playful and deeply moving. Mason also produced Wyatt's first detour into the Top 40, a strangely intense version of the Monkees hit I'm A Believer.

Wyatt is a passionate pop fan who watches The Voice and tried to book Hear'Say for his 2001 Meltdown festival. He wanted to make a point with I'm A Believer.

"I was very uncomfortable with having fans who said, Tour music is so much better than all that banal pop music.' It sounds like a socialist thing to say but pop music is the music of the people. It's the folk music of the industrial age. If you don't respect popular culture you don't respect people, in which case your political opinion is of no great value."

Wyatt has always been well-loved.

Friends such as Pink Floyd, Christie and her boyfriend Warren Beatty all offered financial support after the accident, and many more have collaborated with him over the years, including Brian Eno. "Old male elephants who get rejected after a tussle can sometimes form little gangs of their own," says Wyatt. "That's what rogue elephant means. I think me and Brian became rogue elephants. I love him, I really do. He's all heart."

Never a prog-rocker in spirit, Wyatt immediately loved punk ("funny and terrific") and 2-Tone ("much more interestingly politically than anything in the "60s"), and found a new generation of people to work with, including The Raincoats and Scritti Politti. In 1982, Madness producer Clive Langer asked Elvis Costello to help him out on a song with Wyatt in mind and Costello came up with Shipbuilding, a heartbreaking vignette of a working-class community affected by the Falklands War.

When the demo tape landed on Wyatt's doormat, he responded with his usual humility. "I thought, 'What is it they think I do that makes them think I could do this?'" His low-key vocal, which made Langer burst into tears, made Shipbuilding one of the most tender protest songs ever recorded.

Politics consumed Wyatt during the '80s. He guested on benefit singles such as Working Week's Venceremos (We Will Win) and the SWAPO Singers' The Wind Of Change, composed the soundtrack for an animal rights documentary, joined Labour-supporting musicians collective Red Wedge, and recorded an LP of protest songs, Nothing Can Stop Us. On Matching Mole's Gloria Gloom he had asked, "How long can I pretend that music's more relevant than fighting for a socialist world?" Now he had his answer.

"I had been a leftist musician but I became a singing leftie," he says. Having once believed that art was "the point of life", he now fretted that it was a decadent luxury. "I think I'm going to be worrying about this for the rest of my life," he says. "At worst, I think it's decorative and the more of a sewer society is, the more gloriously distracting the art has to be. That's part of what human inventiveness is - trying to make something lovely out of shit. The world as compost."

He also joined the Communist Party of Great Britain when it was at its lowest ebb. He takes time to explain his complicated reasons for signing up to a lost cause. "It's partly nostalgic affection for the loser," he says. "I couldn't have joined it when they thought they were winning. I wanted to give these ideas a decent burial at least." When the young modernisers drifted towards what became New Labour, Wyatt stuck with the old guard. "I thought, I'd rather sink in your ship than stay afloat in theirs."'

5 ROBERT WYATT
AT LAST I AM FREE
Single (1980)
Wyatt greeted the '80s with a slew of politicised cover versions, including this haunting reading of Chic's veiled protest song.

6 ROBERT WYATT
SHIPBUILDING
Single (1982)
Elvis Costello and Clive Langer created an anti-war song like no other. Wyatt's empathy and intimacy made it a heart-shaking masterpiece.

7 ROBERT WYATT
THE AGE OF SELF
Old Rottenhat (1985)
"They say the working class is dead, we're all consumers now." Wyatt's communist principles ring out clear and strong on this tense riposte to Thatcherism.

8 ROBERT WYATT
HEAPS OF SHEEP
Shleep (1997)
Insomnia drove Wyatt to despair but he explored it with typical good humour on this warm and playful collaboration with Brian Eno.

9 BJÖRK
SUBMARINE
Medúlla (2004)
Björk travelled to Louth to fully immerse herself in Wyattworld and join forces on this disorientating collage of multi-tracked voices.

10 ROBERT WYATT
JUST AS YOU ARE
Comicopera (2007)
Co-written with Alfie, a touching, country-inspired duet with Monica Vasconcelos about a long, imperfect marriage.

This period ended with 1991's Dondestan, whose title track called for a Palestinian state. It's a subject about which he is still fiercely passionate, at the cost of some "desolately sad" rifts with Jewish friends. "Nobody's called me anti-Jewish that I know of but there is a sense that you cannot support these people." Years later, a music snob ruined a night in his local pub by playing Dondestan on the digital jukebox and christened this sonic trolling "Wyatting". The staunchly anti-elitist Wyatt was dismayed. "I would never do that. It would be so rude! How could you enjoy it? It would cut you off from the communal thing."

After Dondestan and his move from London to Louth, Wyatt was floored by the most devastating depression of his life. "I had something of a nervous breakdown," he says quietly. "And for once Alfie said, 'Look, I can't deal with this. I've done everything I can for you.' It was really bad. I went quite mad from sleep deprivation."

With help from an NHS counsellor, he threw himself into a new album, 1997's Shleep, like it was a life raft. It was the first of a remarkable trilogy, followed by 2003's Mercury-nominated Cuckooland and 2007's Comicopera. With the help of Alfie and friends such as Eno, David Gilmour, Paul Weller, Roxy Music's Phil Manzanera and saxophonist Gilad Atzmon, he created the most wondrous music of his life. Then he gave up the alcohol that had given him the courage to make it.

"I think the recklessness that had fired me in the past began to dwindle," he explains. "Alcohol took me back to my reckless youth and the further away I was from real reckless youth, the more alcohol I needed just to get that level of chutzpah." So he quit. He hasn't made a record since.

While Wyatt poses for Q's photographer, I talk with Alfie. She discusses his new compilation ("If I did a Robert collection, it would be all the things that irritated everybody"), his politics ("He's a good communist; he doesn't underestimate people's intelligence") and his creative lull since Comicopera. "It's strange because I've never known him not to be fussing over a tune in his head. It's as if he's got it all out."

Does Wyatt think he'll ever make another album?

"No," he says. "I'm just amazed that at last I got records made that I can really live with, that don't make me wince."

Having played just one solo concert, 40 years ago, he thinks stage fright and logistics would make a Kate Bush-like concert resurrection even more unlikely. "It would be undoable," he shudders. "It's appalling, just the thought of it."

So Wyatt's career, apart from his occasional guest appearances, seems to be over. This is very sad for his fans, but less so for the man who never expected to achieve as much as he has.

"I can't believe my luck that with my attitude problem I nevertheless got all that done," he says, tugging his beard. "The extraordinary thing is that at the age where rock musicians are meant to die of a drug overdose I almost died." That was a trajectory he could've imagined. What he could not imagine was the life that he ended up living, wheelchair-bound. It was a "marathon" he couldn't think of enduring. "I'm a sprinter."

Dorian Lynskey
Portraits : Michael Clement

Previous article

Next article

Back to the list

ABÉCÉDAIRE

Les années Before | Soft Machine | Matching Mole | Solo | With Friends | Samples | Compilations | V.A. | Bootlegs | Reprises

HOME

Robert Wyatt at 70: happy birthday, Old Rottenhat! - The Guardian - 27 January 2015

Marcus O'Dair

The Guardian

"It'll probably knock 10 years off your life, 20 if you smoke." This is how Robert Wyatt recalls his consultant's brusque verdict after he fell from a fourth-storey window in 1973 and, at the age of 28, found himself paralysed from the waist down.

Wyatt does smoke – or rather, he is forever giving up: he must have quit five times or more in the time it took me to write his biography. And yet, on Wednesday, he turns 70 – and, apart from the fact that he still has to keep one leg extended parallel to the floor, after breaking an ankle in the summer, he seems to be in rude health.

No one else occupies Wyatt's cultural co-ordinates. There's the sheer diversity of musicians he's worked with: Brian Eno and Paul Weller, David Gilmour and Jerry Dammers, but also contemporary artists including Björk and Hot Chip and such avant-garde jazz luminaries as Evan Parker and the late Charlie Haden.

In non-musical terms, too, he sits in the centre of a singular Venn diagram: Marxism, paraplegia, alcoholism (or, as he prefers, dipsomania – though he's been sober for the best part of a decade) and the surrealist pseudoscience of 'pataphysics make up just some of the interlocking circles. Not least for his 1974 solo effort Rock Bottom, which still regularly features in lists of the greatest albums ever made, it has been an extraordinary career, and an extraordinary life. I interviewed a lot of musicians for the book, but there were also cameo roles for Julie Christie, Jean Shrimpton, William Burroughs, Richard Branson, Robert Graves and Georges Braque. I don't think the last two, in particular, appear in many popular music biographies.

Eno puts Wyatt in his top two musicians, while Weller names him his favourite ever collaborator. Alexis Taylor from Hot Chip is such a fan that he wrote the press release for Wyatt's most recent solo album, 2007's Comicopera. What's particularly remarkable is that Wyatt has achieved all this while scoring only two top-40 hits, neither of which he wrote himself. There was I'm A Believer, written by Neil Diamond and made famous by the Monkees, in 1974, and then Shipbuilding, written for Wyatt by Elvis Costello and the producer Clive Langer, and released in the wake of the Falklands war. He hasn't played a headline gig since 1974. And to state that his singing is a long way from the traditional

"good voice" is putting it mildly: reedy, forlorn and high-pitched, even if years of smoking have shifted his range downwards, Wyatt himself says he sounds like "Jimmy Sommerville on Valium".

Prolific and prodigiously talented ... Robert Wyatt. Photograph: Richard Saker

Unlike so many of his contemporaries, Wyatt hasn't drifted to the right politically as he has got older. Also unusually, he has found himself perhaps more recognised than ever in the past decade and a half. Like David Bowie, Patti Smith and Ornette Coleman, he has curated a Meltdown festival in that period. He has also been nominated for a Mercury prize and guest-edited the Today programme on Radio 4. Although he dropped out of school before completing his A levels, Wyatt boasts two honorary doctorates.

Although he describes his own creative gestation period as elephantine – 18 months rather than nine – Wyatt has in fact amassed a sizable body of work over his 50-year career. There are four studio albums with Soft Machine, two with his subsequent band, Matching Mole, and, depending on how you count them, about 10 albums as a solo artist, not to mention any number of live albums and radio sessions.

He has also been a prolific collaborator, which is why we decided to accompany the book with a compilation album, also entitled Different Every Time. Wyatt says now that he has retired, although he has made a guest appearance on at least one record that has still to be released. But even if there are no more albums under his own name, we can be grateful for the catalogue already amassed – and for the fact that, back in 1973, the consultant got it wrong. Many happy returns, Old Rottenhat.

Marcus O'Dair is the author of Different Every Time: the Authorised Biography of Robert Wyatt, published by Serpent's Tail

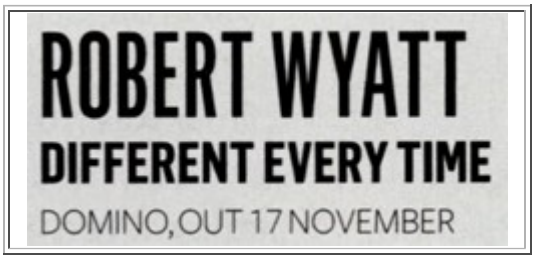
>> L'interview sur le site de The Guardian

Previous article

Next article

Back to the list

ABÉCÉDAIRE



Les années Before | Soft Machine | Matching Mole | Solo | With Friends | Samples | Compilations | V.A. | Bootlegs | Reprises

HOME

Soft Touch - Q N°341 - December 2014

Anyone embarking on a survey of post-war bohemia wouldn't have to look too hard among the hand-thrown pots and off-grid esoterica before they came across the distinctive figure of Robert Wyatt. The Mallorca commune of poet Robert Graves; the pastoral prog hideouts of the Canterbury Scene; London's psychedelic hotspots; the greatcoated milieu of '80s political radicalism: the 69-year-old former drummer of Soft Machine has been present at them all. A fall from a window in 1973 left him in a wheelchair, diverting his career further into here-be-dragons territory. He emerged as a powerfully idiosyncratic and influential solo artist, becoming a totemic figure to avant-gardists and art-rockers, sought out by Brian Eno or Elvis Costello, Björk or Hot Chip.

This compilation is divided into two parts: the first is an overview of his work from Soft Machine through to his last solo album, 2007's Comicopera, while the second documents his extensive collaborations. It might not be the very best place for the uninitiated to start - first track, Moon In June, from Soft Machine's 1970 album Third, is a tremendous burst of lusty experimentation but 19 minutes of labyrinthine jazz-prog doesn't exactly roll out the welcome mat. It's also a shame there's not more from Wyatt's 1974 masterpiece Rock Bottom, represented here only by a mercurial live version of A Last Straw - but everything included adds another piece to Wyatt's singular puzzle.

Q Review REISSUES

SOFT TOUCH

Singular art-rock outlier's career compiled.

ROBERT WYATT

HIS WONDERFUL VOICE HAS AN ANCIENT, FOLKLORIC QUALITY TO IT.

His wonderful voice has an ancient, folkloric quality to it, something of the hedgerow and the milk-pail. It can also be intimately conversational, or eerily abstract. On 1972's Signed Curtain - recorded with Matching Mole, the band he formed after leaving Soft Machine - he sings "this is the chorus or perhaps it's a bridge/Or just another part of the song I'm singing". It's not just arch whimsy: it underlines his voice's status as an instrument in its own right. His appeal to Björk, who worked with him on Medulla's Submarine, or Hot Chip, who join him on We're Looking For A Lot Of Love, is clear: that flickering, ethereal timbre could, at times, be lifted from Aphex Twin or Boards Of Canada's unsettling sonic arsenal.

Despite the unmistakably English vowels, though, Wyatt often takes a global perspective - Brazilian jazz singer Monica Vasconcelos appears on Comicopera's love song Just As You Are, for example - while a jazz-born ability as an interpreter of other people's work is also shown brilliantly on his stately spiritual treatment of Chic's At Last I Am Free. Once a member of the Communist Party, his political convictions chime out too. "They say the working class is dead/We're all consumers now," he sings on the mournful pattering of 1985's The Age Of Self, and he appears alongside Tracey Thorn on Working Week's Venceremos (We Will Win), a none-more-'8Os track drawing attention to the political situation in Chile. Most famously, there's Shipbuilding, written by Elvis Costello and Clive Langer. It's a protest song of rare humanity, largely due to the ominous stormy thump of the bass bearing down heavily on Wyatt's frail vocal.

> Zoom

In the middle of Moon In June, Wyatt smacks down the fourth wall and addresses the listener across the years. Music-making, he sings, is "Background noise for people scheming, seducing, revolting and teaching." That's the pragmatic view, but as this compilation once more confirms, Wyatt demands, deserves and ultimately abundantly repays, the fullest attention.

Victoria Segal

Previous article

Next article

Back to the list

ABÉCÉDAIRE

Les années Before | Soft Machine | Matching Mole | Solo | With Friends | Samples | Compilations | V.A. | Bootlegs | Reprises

HOME

End Of An Ear + Robert Wyatt - Album By Album - Uncut N° 211 - December 2014

ROBERT WYATT calls a halt to his musical career. " We're just getting through the day now..."

SOME SAD NEWS this month - Robert Wyatt has revealed to Uncut that "after 50 years in the saddle" he won't be making any more music. Wyatt puts the decision down to declining health and a desire not to tarnish his legacy, but he admits he feels "a bit weird" about stopping.

"I thought, train drivers retire when they're 65, so I will, as well," Wyatt, now 69, tells Uncut. "I've stopped, I don't really know why actually. And I do feel a bit... weird about it, but life is physically much harder for me and for [Wyatt 's wife] Alfie. It's getting a bit scary, and I can't sit around, messing around, thinking up new tunes in that, really. We're just getting through the day now, and trying to have bits of fun when we can. "At the moment, I've broken my foot and I'm sitting on a bed with my foot up. It happens, these things."

Though he hasn't released a solo album since 2007's acclaimed Comicopera, Wyatt has remained active with collaborations, most notably on For The Ghosts Within, a 2010 album he made with Ros Stephen and Gilad Atzmon.

"I've had 50 years in the saddle, I've enjoyed them, and I've enjoyed the stuff I did towards the end, in this century, at least as much as anything I've done before. So I don't feel like I've done nothing... I always felt, in quite an old-fashioned way, you've got to do stuff. Not just have a nice time out, but actually get stuff down, accumulate material. I was only 28 when I broke my back, [so] I didn't know if I would still be able to work in a decade's time. So I did want to work and get stuff done. I've always had that, 'til very recently."

The news makes the release of compilation Different Every Time later this month more poignant - it seems the two-disc set now truly spans his entire career, from drumming in Soft Machine and Matching Mole, to his solo work after being paralysed from the waist down in 1973. The second disc features Wyatt's collaborations with the likes of Björk, Nick Mason, Hot Chip and Phil Manzanera.

"I'm very surprised I'm in this state, it isn't a state I imagined being in, but I nevertheless here I am," Wyatt says. "I never really got the hang of [music] as a job, to be honest. I just sort of kept trying to do stuff. But faculties are failing, and I don't want to churn out stuff that isn't quite right."

Wyatt is keen to stress that he has "stopped" rather than retired, and now plans to focus even more on his interest and involvement in left-wing politics. "I would say I've stopped, it's a better word than retired. Fifty years in the saddle, it's not nothing. It's completely unplanned, my life, and it's just reached this particular point. Other things have happened - I'm more taken up by politics, to be honest, than music at the moment. Music tags along behind it. There is a pride in [stopping], I don't want it to go off. Performers say leave the stage five minutes before they want you to leave, rather than five minutes after!"

TOM PINNOCK

SINCE SHOOTING FROM sleepy Canterbury to the clubs of London's '6os psychedelic underground as drummer and occasional vocalist with Soft Machine, Robert Wyatt has remained one of England's most idiosyncratic, thoughtful and fascinating artists. "When you're working I as a musician, you're in a dream world that's beyond rational explanation," he tells us, outlining a unique approach that has over the years seen him feted and assisted by rock royalty, including various members of Pink Floyd and Roxy Music. "So what comes out comes out." Though it sadly looks unlikely that we'll see any new music from him (see page 8), Wyatt is delighted to talk us through his varied catalogue -from Soft Machine and Matching Mole to his acclaimed solo records - with his customary wry humility still very much intact.
"I'm an old man now... But it's very, very nice for me that you take an interest and you think other people want to read about this!"

TOM PINNOCK

Wyatt in furs: Soft Machine in 1968, with Kevin Ayers, left, and Mike Ratledge, right

SOFT MACHINE
THE SOFT MACHINE

PROBE/BARCLAY, 1968

The toast of London's underground scene, Wyatt, bassist and vocalist Kevin Ayers and organist Mike Ratledge bashed out their debut while on tour with Hendrix in the US.

Robert Wyatt: Although we were a rock band, all the music we'd listened to live had been jazz, so the idea of extending songs with improvisations seemed totally natural to us. The original intention was to get together and do Kevin's songs. He was the only one in the group who wrote proper songs – I think he could easily have been up there, in terms of success, with people like Donovan and maybe Ray Davies. But he got landed with us and waylaid a bit, though I think he enjoyed the ride for a year or so. We weren't really a recording band until we made an obligatory first record in the middle of a tour of the United States. It was just done in quite a rush. How long did it take to record? About as long as it sounds. We had a few weeks off in New York, around when we toured with Hendrix, before getting back on the road again, so we went into the studio and did a live gig, really. It's pretty ramshackle for a debut record by an aspiring band. Our management had offered us a record producer who had guaranteed hits, he'd done The Yardbirds and Donovan. But they said, he will decide what tunes you'll do and how you'll do them. We thought, well, what's the fun in that? So we turned that down. After that the management were really pissed off with us, so they just let us carry on in our own way.

SOFT MACHINE
THIRD

CBS, 1970

Wyatt's last album with the increasingly complex Soft Machine featured his first foray into solo work, the 20-minute, multi-part "Moon In June".

Kevin had left at the end of '68 to do what he should have been doing, and Mike surfaced as the voice of the group as he developed his organ playing skills. Mike or [bassist] Hugh Hopper had started writing pieces more directly influenced by the jazz of the day. The difference was that we were incredibly loud, and there's no way I know how to play drums like a jazz musician and be heard at that volume, so what came to my rescue was watching Keith Moon and thinking, 'That's the way, yeah.' Just fucking get on with it! We experimented with tape on Third, there were people we knew who'd been doing tape stuff – Terry Riley, the BBC Radiophonic Workshop and Delia Derbyshire. We took it in and used it in our context. Artists and musicians are just trying to stave off boredom really, so we tried to do stuff that interested us, whatever it was. I'd been working on my own when I could. 'Cause I can't write music, it's easier to just play it yourself rather than showing it to someone else. On "Moon In June", I used all the keyboards that happened to be in the studio, to try to keep it varied. It was my attempt to do an extended piece that wasn't just about improvisation, but was composed all the way through. So it was a bit of a mountain climb for me, but it turned out to be useful for later on in my life. It was the start of what I would later do.

MATCHING MOLE
MATCHING MOLE

CBS, 1972

The first of two LPs that year from Wyatt's new "democratic" group, originally featuring his Wilde Flowers bandmate Dave Sinclair on keys, guitarist Phil Miller and bassist Bill MacCormick.

I thought I could carry on as the drummer in Soft Machine and as a vocalist and songwriter doing stuff in recording studios, but I think I'd become too drunk and irresponsible to work with, frankly. What was humiliating was that I sort of agreed with them. But I look back on it and think it sort of worked out. I didn't go straight to solo stuff after Soft Machine as I didn't think you could have a full life's work just writing songs. I thought, working life as a musician is being in a group. I thought it was the law, you know, all young men must go into a beat group. Just like 10 years before that, young men had to go into the army, then they cancelled national service and invented beat groups, so they could carry on the tradition of sending young men over to conquer Hamburg. With Matching Mole, there was an attempt to be a democratic unit, though I did take it over with my bloody Mellotron at the end of things. Phil Miller wrote lovely pieces, but they weren't completed, so they were perfect vehicles as launch pads for improvisation. Dave Sinclair was uncomfortable, he just wanted to do songs, but I really liked what he did on organ, I thought he was lovely on it. So he only lasted for that record. I thought it was a good band, but we had no money, and the business was ramshackle. It was very hard to develop, we really were poor.

Wyatt's desk job: recording his solo work in 1974

THE UNCUT CLASSIC

ROBERT WYATT
ROCK BOTTOM

VIRGIN, 1974

After 1970's jammy, uneven The End Of An Ear came Wyatt's solo debut proper, and the first he made after being paralysed when drunkenly falling from a third-storey window. Features a host of guests, including Mike Oldfield, Hugh Hopper, Ivor Cutler and Mongezi Feza.

People say, it must have been awful when you broke your back, and I say, not really. It just set me on another more fruitful path. Alfie [Benge, now Wyatt's wife] and I hadn't been together long when she got this job of going to Venice and making Don't Look Now. I was still a biped and tagged along. They hired a flat on Giudecca, one of the non-touristy islands, and plonked me there. Alfie got me a little keyboard to keep me busy whilst they were. Then I had my accident, and for the first time ever I had to spend a lot of time just sitting back and going over ideas in my head as opposed to desperately trying to make something happen immediately. So I was primed by the time I came out of hospital. It's partly therapy in a way, because when people become disabled they can become very internalised and feel cut off from the world. I'm not brave, I just pretend it's not happening and think about something else. So that's what Rock Bottom enabled me to do. [Richard] Branson came up to the hospital, bless him, and said if you want to make a record when you come out you can record one for us, so that gave me a specific thing to come out and do. I thought because I don't have to work in a group I can ask different musicians to be on each track. It was a kind of freedom I hadn't thought of before. Nick Mason was great as producer, he was very funny. I've always got on with other drummers, we can speak to each other really. We were quite used to our lowly place in the hierarchy. Alfie thought the music I'd made before was too congested, so she got me to listen to things like Astral Weeks by Van Morrison and said look how he leaves the space. So Astral Weeks was an influence on the sheer spaciness of Rock Bottom. I wanted to make the most enjoyable, rich records I could make, and if that means me doing something then I'll do it, but if I think someone else could do it instead, I'll get them to do it. My voice is one of many, it's got some things it can do and other things it can't do. So just find somebody else who can, no problem. I say no problem, but when you have to find people who have their own character, their own way of doing things, but also don't mind having a go at your own stuff, that does narrow it down.

ROBERT WYATT
RUTH IS STRANGER THAN RICHARD

VIRGIN, 1975

Rock Bottom*'s jazzier, more playful follow-up, with Wyatt co-writing with numerous collaborators including Phil Manzanera, Bill MacCormick and Fred Frith.

Rather like with the second Matching Mole one, with the second solo one I felt I should hand it over to the other musicians, I thought it'd be fairer. So there's a long piece on it, "Muddy Mouth", which is basically Fred Frith's piano piece which I really loved, so I put words to that. It's lighter than Rock Bottom because I was hanging about with people in a studio and having a laugh. It just sort of lightens you up a bit, takes the weight off things. And unexpected accidents of a delightful nature can happen. On "Team Spirit", George Khan, a wonderful tenor player, does the solo, and I got Brian Eno in, who hates jazz, to try and fuck it up as it went on. George plays so beautifully, and Eno's definitely trying to drown it out with computer noise and echo, but it's a battle that neither of them wins, so you get the best of both worlds. I think it's amazing, that bit. Laurie Allen [on drums] is pure jazz on that, and Bill MacCormick is very nimble, so aside from me just playing the piano chords, my favourite bit is the bit I'm not really on at all. It makes me laugh every time I hear it.

ROBERT WYATT
NOTHING CAN STOP US

ROUGH TRADE, 1982

A compilation of Wyatt's politically aware Rough Trade singles, including the Elvis Costello-written "Shipbuilding" and a cover of Chic's "At Last I Am Free".

Virgin put me on a retainer so I could write, but I thought, 'This is dishonorable as I'm not sure I'm ever going to come up with anything, I'm just accumulating a debt.' So I said, "Look, I'm knocking it on the head." Branson was really cross and upset. It took us over a decade to pay off the debts, which is why Virgin wouldn't let me make an LP for anybody else during that time. It wasn't 'til Rough Trade said let's just do some singles that we found a way out of that. During that time, I found that there's more authentic and real things happening in politics than in music. While rock musicians were posing as victims of the establishment, there were people out there who really were victims, in Africa or South America, so I thought I would celebrate those people. Things like that overwhelm me, in terms of what goes on in my head, more than, you know, thinking up a nice little tune or something. I didn't plan to put these on an LP, they're quite topical and throwaway. Around that time, Swell Maps, Ben Watt and Scritti Politti came along and asked me to do a couple of things for them. Very nice people. So that surprised me – apparently, I had been heard! I certainly didn't feel guilty when I was charged as being a rock dinosaur, because I hadn't been successful enough to be a rock dinosaur. My records are all quite scruffy, so I already had a lot in common with punk when it came along.

ROBERT WYATT
SHLEEP

HANNIBAL, 1997

After releasing two more albums sparsely recorded on his own, and battling depression in the early '90s, Wyatt returns with a host of guests, and a new lyrical collaborator...

People said to me, why don't you get other musicians on your records? And I said, well, I can't afford to hire them. And they said, just ask people, there'd be people who wouldn't mind playing. I didn't really know who, but people turned up, old friends like Brian Eno and some wonderful new ones like Paul Weller. And then the trombonist Annie Whitehead and saxophonist Evan Parker came along. It was a treat. It became a sort of imaginary group in the end. I was recording at Phil Manzanera's studio. That was a breakthrough. I'd always been clockwatching, as it's very expensive, recording. But Phil said, "Look, we'll set a price for it, I still did have ideas, you know, and I wanted to try stuff out. But the key thing that came up in the last of my solo things was that Alfie – who had already been doing my covers – started writing these poems and verses. She'd always done that, but I started using them because I found I came up with much more music than I had words. And her words were a revelation for me, they completely expanded what I could do. Singing words from outside that weren't standards by other people, but nor were they devices I had come to rely on, they had a completely different approach. That became my group, me and Alfie, and without that I don't really know what I'd have done.

ROBERT WYATT
CUCKOOLAND

HANNIBAL, 2003

Wyatt's surprising rejuvenation continued with this synth-led LP, inspired by jazz drumming and the finest painters.

Billy Higgins came up with the avant-garde in the '50s, but he always liked to swing. His beat got lighter and lighter – there were some gossamer-light cymbal things he was doing, just a gentle swing. So that gave me ideas. Plus you could do a lot only using the top of the kit, without the use of legs. So I started using cymbals again. I know a lot of rock people thought, 'Well, there's the problem right there, Robert, if you cut out all those jazzy cymbals, and just had a rock steady beat there, you'd have sold loads more.' And I thought, yeah, but of what? It was lovely that Dave Gilmour was on this. I always think of Floyd as real aristocrats of music, not just a group who are up for a blowing session here and there. Paul Weller put the idea in my head, and David was up for it. But I was a bit embarrassed, 'cause at one point he said, "Robert, what's that chord?" And I had to say, "I then just do it as long as it takes", which was a fantastically generous thing to do. I found that don't know, David!" He was lovely, a gentleman. I was interested in becoming a painter long before I was interested in becoming a musician. If you think of painters like Turner, his work is awash with smoky effects which you can only just see things through, and I was impressed by that. I do a bit of that myself on Cuckooland.

ROBERT WYATT
COMICOPERA

DOMINO, 2007

Perhaps his final solo album, this three-part epic moves from hazy introspection to political disenchantment, ending in a celebratory, foreign-language finale.

I didn't start with a concept, I start doing stuff I want to do and look at the shape of it afterwards. And having got these bits and pieces, I thought I'd put them into three sections. So it did end up as a concept but it wasn't devised as one. This is the album of mine that I least wince to when I'm playing it back. I managed to remember what made me wince about my previous records, and studiously avoid doing those particular things, including not burying the voice – thank you, David [Gilmour], for that advice! I think it helped that the musicians I worked with, although there were some new ones, had really got the hang of what I'm on about. Jamie Johnson, who was starting out when I first worked with him on Shleep, had become a very experienced and skilled engineer and was very quick and very funny too. Dave Sinclair was on this too – it was lovely, a link with the past. I still think it's terribly difficult to focus political ideas into songs. What's on my mind will come through in the lyrics, but that doesn't suddenly make me a frontline activist. I salute people like Billy Bragg, who has put himself out there to talk to people, but I haven't done that. There's nothing in my music that reaches out to people who wouldn't normally listen to it. It's like dreaming about politics, in a way.

Wyatt's Different Every Time compilation is out on Nov 17; the biography of the same name is out now

Previous article

Next article

Back to the list

ABÉCÉDAIRE

Les années Before | Soft Machine | Matching Mole | Solo | With Friends | Samples | Compilations | V.A. | Bootlegs | Reprises

HOME

I'm A Believer - Jazzwise - Issue 191 - November 2014

I'm A Believer

Throughout Robert Wyatt's prolific, often profound, musical life, a deep love of jazz has been the conduit between his own celebrated jazz-rock legacy with Soft Machine and Matching Mole, his individualistic, highly imaginative solo career and the deep world of jazz music and musicians he has become involved with along the way. Inspired by its inherently rebellious, left-leaning nature, jazz has also fuelled his political beliefs as well as his music's magpie-like eclecticism, while his distinctly melancholic, engagingly forlorn vocal style has won him a legion of die-hard fans outside the mainstream. Marcus O'Dair's newly published book - Different Every Time: the Authorised Biography of Robert Wyatt - explores his jazz inspirations and continues here as Wyatt reveals how jazz has been with him from childhood onwards

I first interviewed Robert Wyatt for a national newspaper podcast in 2008. When I later contacted him to ask whether he would let me write his biography, he left a voicemail in response. He agreed to the proposal, he said, for two reasons. I hadn't asked whether Syd Barrett was mad. And I had asked about jazz. Wyatt is not a jazz musician in any strict sense of the term, and his influences stretch from pop (sometimes mischievously mainstream) to South American folk. Yet jazz, in particular, has been fundamental to his half-century of making music.

Born in Bristol in 1945, Wyatt was introduced to the music of Fats Waller and Duke Ellington by his dad, George; an interest in more contemporary, avant-garde artists, meanwhile, came via his older half-brother, Mark. He was soon bashing away on pots and pans, before moving onto a full trap kit. Through the poet Robert Graves, a family friend,

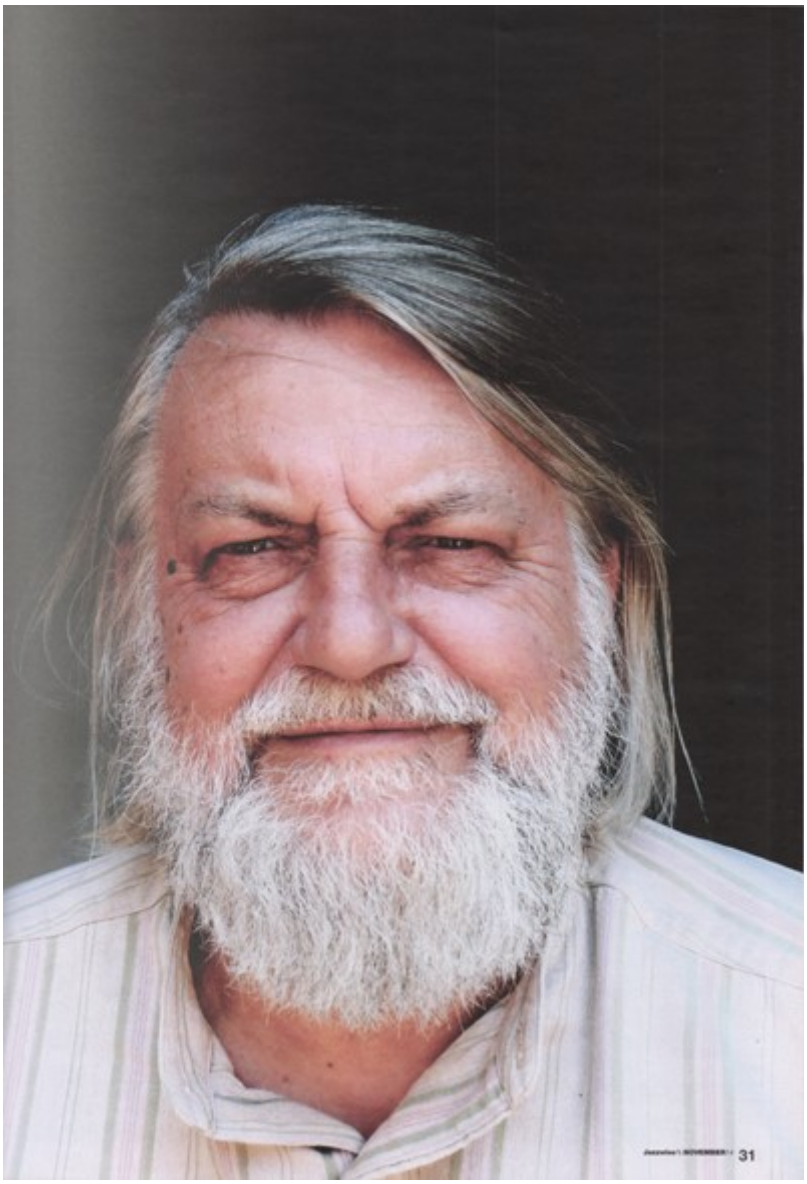
Wyatt met Ronnie Scott in the early 1960s, and was soon visiting the saxophonist's eponymous club in Soho to watch the likes of Charles Mingus and Sonny Rollins. "As an atheist," he declares, of Mingus, Rollins and their ilk, "they're the nearest to Gods I've ever had."

This secular reverence has informed almost Wyatt's entire output, even as far back as 1963. That was the year he emerged, playing Beatnik-style jazz with the Daevid Allen Trio (fronted by Allen, who had previously lodged with Wyatt's family in Kent, and featuring former schoolmate Hugh Hopper on bass). The Wilde Flowers, with whom Wyatt played during the mid-1960s alongside the likes of singer-songwriter Kevin Ayers, were a very different act, aimed more squarely at the dancefloor. But even then, Nat Adderley and Herbie Hancock numbers began to creep in alongside the Small Faces and Kinks covers.

It was from 1966 that Wyatt began to achieve prominence, as drummer and sometimes vocalist with Soft Machine -alongside Allen, Ayers, and keyboard virtuoso Mike Ratledge (another former schoolmate). The band originally played soul-infused psychedelia but, during gigs, their 'freak-out' sections drew on jazz. As Soft Machine's line-up evolved, as it did at an unusually fast pace, the jazz element increased: there was a power trio era, featuring Hugh Hopper and reminiscent of Tony Williams, John McLaughlin and Larry Young in Lifetime. Then the band borrowed Keith Tippett's horn section, including alto saxophone and saxello player Elton Dean, and moved further towards jazz-rock fusion. Soon Soft Machine became entirely instrumental. Wyatt - odd one out due to his continuing interest in song, as well as in alcohol - departed in 1971, but not before the group had supported the likes of Roland Kirk, Thelonious Monk and Miles Davis.

Wyatt's next band, Matching Mole, began with a definite move towards song, but jazz arrived with the recruitment of New Zealander Dave MacRae, whose rippling electric piano was reminiscent of Joe Zawinul. In his various extracurricular projects, meanwhile, Wyatt was already playing with a number of other jazz musicians, including Lol Coxhill, Keith Tippett and South African exiles including Mongezi Feza.

Paraplegic from 1973, when he fell from a fourth-floor window, Wyatt was obliged to musically reinvent himself. No longer able operate hi-hat or bass drum, he morphed from singing drummer into a singer who also played keyboards, percussion and, more recently, trumpet and cornet too. Rock Bottom, released in 1974 and regularly cited as one of the finest albums of all time, showcased this new mix of jazz - Gary Windo on tenor sax and bass clarinet, Mongezi Feza on trumpet - with the dour surrealism of Scottish poet Ivor Cutler.



A similar mix has been evident on Wyatt's subsequent releases: 1975's Ruth Is Stranger Than Richard featured Mongezi Feza and saxophonist George Khan, and a Charlie Haden number appeared in the track list. Nothing Can Stop Us, released in 1982, featured bassists Peter Ind and Ernest Mothle and trumpeter Harry Beckett - and featured a version of 'Strange Fruit'. Cukooland, which was shortlisted for the Mercury prize in 2004, found Robert namechecking Parisian jazz haunts Le Chat qui Peche and Rue St Benoit (home of Club St Germain) and covering Antônio Carlos Jobim. Comicopera, released in 2007, featured bossa nova vocalist Monica Vasconcelos and steelpan/vibraphone player Orphy Robinson. And so on.

"Just being there, being on stage with Charlie Haden, with Carla (Bley) there to hold my hand and surrounded by these brilliant youngsters – Shabaka Hutchings and Jason Yarde and so on – being allowed there. It was a transcendental moment."

'Shipbuilding', a top 40 hit in the wake of the Falklands War, drew on jazz too. Clive Langer, who co-wrote the tune with Elvis Costello, had been inspired by Wyatt's version of 'Strange Fruit'. "'Shipbuilding' is an odd song in that sense," explains the producer. "Pop people think it's jazz, and jazz people think it's pop."

A number of jazz musicians have been particularly important to Wyatt over the years: players of the calibre of Evan Parker, Annie Whitehead and Gilad Atzmon appear more than once in his discography. As a guest musician, meanwhile, Wyatt has worked on several occasions with composer/pianist Carla Bley and composer/trumpeter Mike Mantler. Along the way, he has worked with everyone from Steve Beresford to Larry Stabbins. As recently as 2012, to the enduring delight of drummer Clive Deamer, Wyatt popped up on the Get The Blessing track 'American Meccano'.

> Zoom

Much of Wyatt's favourite jazz is as old as he is. "In 1945, the year I was born, Miles Davis made his first record with Charlie Parker," he reflects. "As much as I love everything beforehand in jazz, from Duke Ellington back to Louis Armstrong, I feel that these are my people; this is where I come in. And it is, actually, where I come in. Almost to the month, from the moment I'm born, stuff happens. I can trace my life through it, and I still do."

As a fan, however, Wyatt's tastes extend both forwards and backwards from that point. He is currently going through "a period of almost weepy nostalgia" for British trad: Acker Bilk, Ken Colyer, even Temperance Seven. Yet he also keeps up with newer artists. When he curated the Southbank Centre's prestigious Meltdown festival, back in 2001, Wyatt's line-up included Orphy Robinson and Matthew Shipp as well as John Surman, Jack DeJohnette,

Keith Tippett and the veteran Max Roach. "That was virtually one of the last gigs he did," recalls Wyatt of the bebop pioneer, "and he was obviously really struggling. Once he sat at the drumkit he was all right - but even then, he was struggling. The poignancy of that, for me, cannot be overestimated."

Jazz has been important in Wyatt's relationship with his wife and creative partner Alfreda Benge, better known as Alfie, who worked behind the bar at Ronnie Scott's while an art student in the 1960s. Jazz was also important in Wyatt's politicisation: records such as Roach's We Insist!, as well as Freedom Suite by Sonny Rollins, 'Fables of Faubus' by Charles Mingus and 'Alabama' by John Coltrane, paved the way for his membership of the Communist Party of Great Britain. The "quite unnecessary" death of Mongezi Feza in 1975 was also a key turning point in this regard.

Musicians who shared his love of jazz and his politics - those who represent "the voice of the oppressed, to put it crudely" - have always had a particular appeal. One such was the late Charlie Haden, who told me in 2010 that Wyatt was "a musical genius". The feeling was mutual: the previous year, Wyatt overcame his severe stage fright to join Haden (and other musicians including Carla Bley) for an extremely rare guest appearance at the Royal Festival Hall.

projects, meanwhile, Wyatt was already playing with a number of other jazz musicians, including Lol Coxhill, Keith Tippett and South African exiles including Mongezi Feza.

Paraplegic from 1973, when he fell from a fourth-floor window, Wyatt was obliged to musically reinvent himself. No longer able operate hi-hat or bass drum, he morphed from singing drummer into a singer who also played keyboards, percussion and, more recently, trumpet and cornet too. Rock Bottom, released in 1974 and regularly cited as one of the finest albums of all time, showcased this new mix of jazz – Gary Windo on tenor sax and bass clarinet, Mongezi Feza on trumpet – with the dour surrealism of Scottish poet Ivor Cutler.

A similar mix has been evident on Wyatt's subsequent releases: 1975's Ruth Is Stranger Than Richard featured Mongezi Feza and saxophonist George Khan, and a Charlie Haden number appeared in the track list. Nothing Can Stop Us, released in 1982, featured bassists Peter Ind and Ernest Mothle and trumpeter Harry Beckett – and featured a version of 'Strange Fruit'. Cukooland, which was shortlisted for the Mercury prize in 2004, found Robert namechecking Parisian jazz haunts Le Chat qui Peche and Rue St Benoit (home of Club St Germain) and covering Antônio Carlos Jobim. Comicopera, released in 2007, featured bossa nova vocalist Monica Vasconcelos and steelpan/vibraphone player Orphy Robinson. And so on.

'Shipbuilding', a top 40 hit in the wake of the Falklands War, drew on jazz too. Clive Langer, who co-wrote the tune with Elvis Costello, had been inspired by Wyatt's version of 'Strange Fruit'. "'Shipbuilding' is an odd song in that sense," explains the producer. "Pop people think it's jazz, and jazz people think it's pop."

A number of jazz musicians have been particularly important to Wyatt over the years: players of the calibre of Evan Parker, Annie Whitehead and Gilad Atzmon appear more than once in his discography. As a guest musician, meanwhile, Wyatt has worked on several occasions with composer/pianist Carla Bley and composer/trumpeter Mike Mantler. Along the way, he has worked with everyone from Steve Beresford to Larry Stabbins. As recently as 2012, to the enduring delight of drummer Clive Deamer, Wyatt popped up on the Get The Blessing track 'American Meccano'.

Much of Wyatt's favourite jazz is as old as he is. "In 1945, the year I was born, Miles Davis made his first record with Charlie Parker," he reflects. "As much as I love everything beforehand in jazz, from Duke Ellington back to Louis Armstrong, I feel that these are my people; this is where I come in. And it is, actually, where I come in. Almost to the month, from the moment I'm born, stuff happens. I can trace my life through it, and I still do."

As a fan, however, Wyatt's tastes extend both forwards and backwards from that point. He is currently going through "a period of almost weepy nostalgia" for British trad: Acker Bilk, Ken Colyer, even Temperance Seven. Yet he also keeps up with newer artists. When he curated the Southbank Centre's prestigious Meltdown festival, back in 2001, Wyatt's line-up included Orphy Robinson and Matthew Shipp as well as John Surman, Jack DeJohnette, Keith Tippett and the veteran Max Roach. "That was virtually one of the last gigs

From top:
Robert Wyatt mid-1960s; Topless drumming with Soft Machine 1967; Soft Machine with Hugh Hopper, Mike Ratledge and Robert Wyatt 1969; Soft Machine with L-to-R Elton Dean, Wyatt, Hugh Hopper and Mike Ratledge in 1970. Photos courtesy Robert Wyatt and Cuneiform Records

From top:
Robert Wyatt mid-1960s; Topless drumming with Soft Machine 1967; Soft Machine with Hugh Hopper, Mike Ratledge and Robert Wyatt 1969; Soft Machine with L-to-R Elton Dean, Wyatt, Hugh Hopper and Mike Ratledge in 1970. Photos courtesy Robert Wyatt and Cuneiform Records

"Just being there, being on stage with Charlie Haden, with Carla there to hold my hand and surrounded by these brilliant youngsters - Shabaka Hutchings and Jason Yarde and so on - that was a moment in heaven for me," recalls Wyatt. "I have no idea what it sounded like, whether it was any good. But I don't care. Just being there, being allowed there. It was a transcendental moment." Haden, says Wyatt, is one of his "undying allegiances", a phrase he also applies to Roland Kirk and Archie Shepp. So it was a particular delight to join the latter (alongside Anthony Braxton, Arvo Part and Tim Berners-Lee) to receive an honorary doctorate from the University of Liege in 2009.

Jazz has also been an important influence on Wyatt's own musical voice, not least in his use of percussion following the accident, when he has tended to use either the flick of brushes on snare or a vocal 'tch' to replace the sound he can no longer make by stepping on the hi-hat pedal. "If you ever watch Billy Higgins on film," says Wyatt of the man who played on the original recordings of both Herbie Hancock's 'Watermelon Man' and Lee Morgan's The Sidewinder', "the older he got, the less he compressed the hi-hat to make it snap - to the point where, in fact, the two hi-hat cymbals don't seem to be hitting each other at all. He just seems to press his foot down and they squash air. When people think of drum technique," Wyatt goes on, "they think of people playing very, very fast, or clever little tricks. But these touches of pure class, craftsmanship, these are the elements of drumming I've got interested in as a paraplegic, because they're not about the full kit. They're closing in on a much more close, intimate side of drumming."

As a singer, meanwhile, Wyatt talks of the influence of horn players - and of the vocalese of Mimi Perrin and Les Double Six, who set lyrics to horn melodies previously played by artists such as John Coltrane. "I've often said I'm more influenced by the way Coltrane plays ballads than by the way anybody sings, and people might think it's a bit unlikely," says Wyatt. "But if you hear Mimi Perrin sing 'Naima' you'll think, 'Oh yeah, I can see why'. It's not how I think anyone else should sing, but how / should sing."

he did," recalls Wyatt of the bebop pioneer, "and he was obviously really struggling. Once he sat at the drumkit he was all right – but even then, he was struggling. The poignancy of that, for me, cannot be overestimated."

Jazz has been important in Wyatt's relationship with his wife and creative partner Alfreda Benge, better known as Alfie, who worked behind the bar at Ronnie Scott's while an art student in the 1960s. Jazz was also important in Wyatt's politicisation: records such as Roach's We Insist!, as well as Freedom Suite by Sonny Rollins, 'Fables of Faubus' by Charles Mingus and 'Alabama' by John Coltrane, paved the way for his membership of the Communist Party of Great Britain. The "quite unnecessary" death of Mongezi Feza in 1975 was also a key turning point in this regard.

Musicians who shared his love of jazz and his politics – those who represent "the voice of the oppressed, to put it crudely" – have always had a particular appeal. One such was the late Charlie Haden, who told me in 2010 that Wyatt was "a musical genius". The feeling was mutual: the previous year, Wyatt overcame his severe stage fright to join Haden (and other musicians including Carla Bley) for an extremely rare guest appearance at the Royal Festival Hall.

"Just being there, being on stage with Charlie Haden, with Carla there to hold my hand and surrounded by these brilliant youngsters – Shabaka Hutchings and Jason Yarde and so on – that was a moment in heaven for me," recalls Wyatt. "I have no idea what it sounded like, whether it was any good. But I don't care. Just being there, being allowed there. It was a transcendental moment." Haden, says Wyatt, is one of his "undying allegiances", a phrase he also applies to Roland Kirk and Archie Shepp. So it was a particular delight to join the latter (alongside Anthony Braxton, Arvo Pärt and Tim Berners-Lee) to receive an honorary doctorate from the University of Liège in 2009.

Jazz has also been an important influence on Wyatt's own musical voice, not least in his use of percussion following the accident, when he has tended to use either the flick of brushes on snare or a vocal 'tch' to replace the sound he can no longer make by stepping on the hi-hat pedal. "If you ever watch Billy Higgins on film," says Wyatt of the man who played on the original recordings of both Herbie Hancock's 'Watermelon Man' and Lee Morgan's 'The Sidewinder', "the older he got, the less he compressed the hi-hat to make it snap – to the point where, in fact, the two hi-hat cymbals don't seem to be hitting each other at all. He just seems to press his foot down and they squash air. When people think of drum technique," Wyatt goes on, "they think of people playing very, very fast, or clever little tricks. But these touches of pure class, craftsmanship, these are the elements of drumming I've got interested in as a paraplegic, because they're not about the full kit. They're closing in on a much more close, intimate side of drumming."

As a singer, meanwhile, Wyatt talks of the influence of horn players – and of the vocalese of Mimi Perrin and Les Double Six, who set lyrics to horn melodies previously played by artists such as John Coltrane. "I've often said I'm more influenced by the way Coltrane plays ballads than by the way anybody sings, and people might think it's a bit unlikely," says Wyatt. "But if you hear Mimi Perrin sing 'Naima' you'll think, 'Oh yeah, I can see why'. It's not how I think anyone else should sing, but how I should sing."

This jazz influence, which has bubbled away for 50 years, came most fully to the surface on Wyatt's most recent album, For The Ghosts Within – credited to a trio of Wyatt, Gilad Atzmon and violinist Ros Stephen from Tango Siempre and Sigamos String Quartet. Here Wyatt tackled several standards head-on, his approach sometimes unorthodox – he whistled '"Round Midnight' and hummed 'In a Sentimental Mood' – but utterly sincere.

Having loved the modernism of bebop and the potency and politics of free jazz, and been delighted to join younger musicians such as Shabaka Hutchings and Jason Yarde for the Liberation Music Orchestra gig, Wyatt has more recently warmed to the vocal jazz of an earlier era. "Somebody said to me a few years ago," he recalls, "'How would you like to end up?' I said, 'Sitting in a piano bar playing old standards'. I can't, but I seem to be drifting that way on my cornet. I just sit in my front room, just finding the notes, accompanying a really slow singer, to accommodate my technique – like Nat 'King' Cole and Julie London. When all the other brain cells have died off, I hope to be left with enough to do that. And I'll die happy."

Different Every Time: the Authorised Biography of Robert Wyatt by Marcus O'Dair will be published by Serpent's Tail on 30 October. An accompanying compilation album, also entitled Different Every Time, will be released by Domino Records on 17 November. Robert is also appearing in conversation with Marcus at the Queen Elizabeth Hall in London on 23 November, as part of the EFG London Jazz Festival. ■

From top:
Robert And Alfreda Benge; Robert with Gilad Atzmon and Ros Stephen 2010; At the fair 2010; Receiving an honorary doctorate from the University of Liege with L-to-R Tim Berners-Lee, Dutch musician Dick Annegarn, Anthony Braxton and Archie Shepp 2009. Photos courtesy Robert Wyatt

This jazz influence, which has bubbled away for 50 years, came most fully to the surface on Wyatt's - most recent album, For The Ghosts Within - credited to a trio of Wyatt, Gilad Atzmon and violinist Ros Stephen from Tango Siempre and Sigamos String Quartet. Here Wyatt tackled several standards head-on, his approach sometimes unorthodox - he whistled "Round Midnight' and hummed 'In a Sentimental Mood' - but utterly sincere.

Having loved the modernism of bebop and the potency and politics of free jazz, and been delighted to join younger musicians such as Shabaka Hutchings and Jason Yarde for the Liberation Music Orchestra gig, Wyatt has more recently warmed to the vocal jazz of an earlier era. "Somebody said to me a few years ago," he recalls, '"How would you like to end up?' I said, 'Sitting in a piano bar playing old standards'. I can't, but I seem to be drifting that way on my cornet. I just sit in my front room, just finding the notes, accompanying a really slow singer, to accommodate my technique - like Nat 'King' Cole and Julie London. When all the other brain cells have died off, I hope to be left with enough to do that. And I'Il die happy."

Different Every Time: the Authorised Biography of Robert Wyatt by Marcus O'Dair will be published by Serpent's Tail on 30 October. An accompanying compilation album, also entitled Different Every Time, will be released by Domino Records on 17 November. Robert is also appearing in conversation with Marcus at the Queen Elizabeth Hall in London on 23 November, as part of the EFG London Jazz Festival.

Previous article Next article

Back to the list

ABÉCÉDAIRE

Les années Before | Soft Machine | Matching Mole | Solo | With Friends | Samples | Compilations | V.A. | Bootlegs | Reprises

HOME

Soundtrack of my life: Robert Wyatt - The Guardian - 26 October 2014

The Guardian

Interview

Soundtrack of my life: Robert Wyatt

Interview by Jude Rogers

The prog-rock pioneer on his love of jazz, falsetto singing, the thrill of meeting Bulgarian folk singers and why Pharrell Williams is as good as any of the 60s soul greats

Robert Wyatt was born in Bristol in 1945 to a psychologist father and BBC producer mother. At 21, he joined prog pioneers Soft Machine; at 25 formed his own group, Matching Mole; at 29, he fell out of a fourth-floor window while drunk, at a party, permanently paralysing himself from the waist down. His solo career proper began a year later, with 1974's dreamlike Rock Bottom. He has had two top 40 hits: a cover of the Monkees' I'm a Believer, which he fought to sing in his wheelchair on Top of the Pops, and the song Elvis Costello wrote for him, Shipbuilding, which became Rough Trade's first top 40 hit. In recent years, he has collaborated with Björk, Paul Weller, Hot Chip and Brian Eno, continuing a relationship that began when he co-wrote 1/1, the piano track on Eno's Ambient 1: Music for Airports. Wyatt's authorised biography, Different Every Time, is published next week by Serpent's Tail, and a compilation of the same name follows in November on Domino. He celebrates his 70th birthday in January.

Singer/musician Robert Wyatt at his home in Louth. Photograph: Fabio De Paola

THE SONG THAT PROVES I'M NO REBEL

Every Day I Have the Blues by Ella Fitzgerald and Joe Williams with Count Basie (1956)

In the 50s, young people were rebelling against their mothers and fathers. Not me. I inherited a love of mainstream jazz from my father, whose youth was rudely interrupted by having to serve in the second world war. He loved Fats Waller, Duke Ellington and Count Basie's band, who I thought were wonderful. His arrangements weren't complicated or sophisticated, because most of his band couldn't read music, but their simplicity was fantastic. This is from the first EP I bought, four tracks on a piece of plastic. I still think this is a knockout duet.

THE TRACK THAT MADE ME REALISE IT WAS FINE TO SING HIGH

Ooo Baby Baby by the Miracles (1965)

I used to have a very high range, but not any more. That's the cigs and so on. But in the 1960s, even someone as quintessentially English as me loved Motown. I'd play this in breaks between rehearsals with Soft Machine, probably on my Dansette. I found it nice to hear songs and how they were done. Also, there were so many testosterone-fuelled voices back then, mainly because of the influence of the blues, but Smokey's light falsetto was different. It came from a line of African-American music that's gentler, but just as crucial – from the tenderness of doo-wop, and from gospel, to which so many things return. I have so little testosterone that I'm verging on being a different sex altogether. Ooo Baby Baby's got no guitars in it either and I love that. English rock is all about beer and guitars. That's why I don't really fit in. I'm much more wine and keyboards.

THE ONE THAT REMINDS ME OF MY WIFE

You Are the Sunshine of My Life by Stevie Wonder (1974)

The reason that I stayed with Alfie [his wife, English artist Alfreda Benge] more than one night was that there wasn't enough time to play her record collection! We celebrated our 40th wedding anniversary this year, so I suppose we'll have to divorce when it finally runs out. When we were first together, we both loved Sly and the Family Stone's Stand! – it had a bit of Hendrix about it, but mixed more with jazz. It was so fantastically inventive. Then came our love of Stevie Wonder, who was such a wonderful musician from day one. So many blind musicians are, because education at specialist schools in America is often more advanced and sophisticated. Also, those musicians are just concentrating on sound. This song reminds me of mine and Alfie's honeymoon and the feeling you get when you finally find a friend. It makes you realise how lonely you were before.

THE RECORD THAT TURNED ME INTO A FANBOY

Ostana Kera, Kleto Sirache by Kalinka Vulcheva (1974)

In the 70s, being a communist basically meant going to charity fundraisers all the time, for striking Turkish miners, striking British miners, anti-apartheid. I remember going to one for [socialist newspaper] the Morning Star, and you'd get records at these things from eastern Europe and Cuba. My favourites were by a Bulgarian folk singer called Kalinka Vulcheva, who had an extraordinary voice and style of singing, very beautiful and unusual. I met her after the cold war, at a folk concert in Whitby, quite by chance. Alfie spotted her – Robert! It's Kalinka Vulcheva! – and I shivered at the thrill of meeting her. She panicked when I asked for her autograph because she could only write it in Cyrillic. To hear things from across the world, and then meet the person with that voice, was quite something.

THE RECORD THAT MADE ME THINK ABOUT POSSIBILITIES IN MUSIC

Folk song arrangements by Benjamin Britten and Peter Pears (1948)

This was something in my dad's collection again, on a 78. A 78! His was of Scottish songs, from recordings Britten did with the tenor Peter Pears. The tunes in them are wonderful, but the chords sound so strange to us now – and that strangeness is what interested Britten. The thing about avant-garde musicians is they're not just about looking forward. They also look back, far beyond that which other people do. It's like looking at primitive paintings and trying to speak their language.

THE RECENT SONG THAT IS AS GOOD AS THE 60S CLASSICS

Happy by Pharrell Williams (2013)

When I'm not watching Russia Today, obviously, I'm watching pop TV. Even my son's embarrassed by the infantilism of my tastes, but there's some good stuff out there now. Pharrell Williams's Happy– that's absolutely fucking knockout. Williams is as good as any 60s soul singer and the song is brilliantly put together. It's a great drum track, and there are only four chords or so, but they're just enough. It's really subtly done, absolutely spot-on. My granddaughter tells me I should totally disapprove of that other song he did, though. With someone else... something lines?

Blurred Lines! That’s the one. Take it from me that I don’t like that one at all.

Previous article

Next article

Back to the list

ABÉCÉDAIRE

Les années Before | Soft Machine | Matching Mole | Solo | With Friends | Samples | Compilations | V.A. | Bootlegs | Reprises

HOME

Robert Wyatt Reflects on the Making of ’68 - Downbeat.com - April, 26 2014

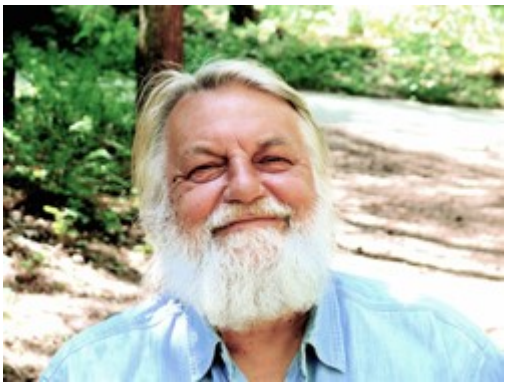
ROBERT WYATT REFLECTS ON THE MAKING OF '68

In his almost 50-year career, British multi-instrumentalist Robert Wyatt has been involved in a stunning variety of projects. His recently unearthed album ’68 (Cuneiform Records) is a four-song psychedelic journey, recorded in 1968 in Hollywood and New York. Wyatt used studio space provided by guitarist Jimi Hendrix and multi-tracked his parts on piano, organ, bass, drums, percussion and vocals. One song, “Slow Walkin’ Talk,” even features Hendrix on bass.

Wyatt first came to prominence in the late ’60s on both sides of the pond as a founding member of the band Soft Machine. In 1968, the group opened for The Jimi Hendrix Experience for two extensive tours in the U.S., and later that year Wyatt began recording the demos and musical sketches that would eventually become ’68.

In the years that followed, half of the album surfaced; the other half, thought lost until recently, has been brought together with the other material for the first time and is now available on CD and limited-edition blue vinyl (a white vinyl version of the LP has sold out).

In recent years, Wyatt has worked with contemporaries like saxophonist Evan Parker, the Sigamos String Quartet, trombonist Annie Whitehead and the always mercurial Brian Eno. His 2010 collaboration with saxophonist Gilad Atzmon and violinist Ros Stephen, ... for the ghosts within’ (Domino), mixes standards and original songs, illustrating Wyatt’s idiosyncratic way of bringing different musical worlds together.



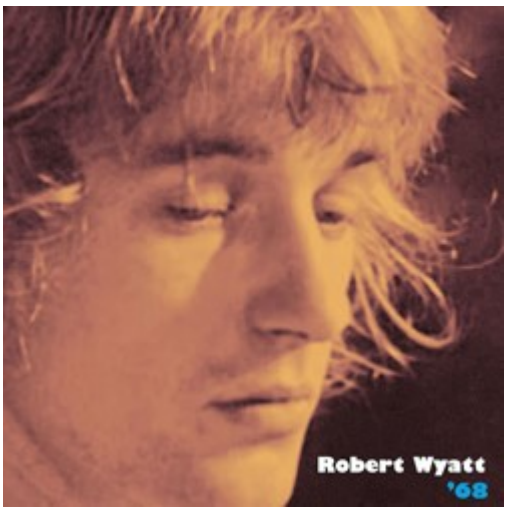
Wyatt recently spoke with DownBeat about his lifelong interest in jazz, as well as the creative period that produced his 1968 sessions.

DownBeat: In 1968, you went into studios in both Hollywood and New York City to record some demos, creating sketches that would eventually include two long suites. And now we have ’68.

Robert Wyatt: I don’t know about the importance exactly, but it certainly took me by surprise to hear it all. I hadn’t remembered how much I’d obviously worked over the material before it emerged in public in the following years. I’m relieved to find that, if anything, I erred on the side of spontaneity during these forgotten—by me, at least—workouts.

DB: What about working with Hendrix and his playing at these sessions?

RW: I do, unsurprisingly, remember that I was awestruck by Jimi Hendrix. We'd heard him play night after night on those long tours around North America. He was much more considerate of his audiences than his public image suggests, a real professional who wanted to make sure that even the listeners far at the back of the venue got their money's worth. In some ways, he was even too modest. For example, he didn't rate his own wonderful singing … "Somebody's got to do it" seemed to be his attitude! So shy, behind the pyrotechnics. But every single time he dropped the tempo to sing, "There's a red house over yonder," it brought tears to my eyes. I was thunderstruck when he dropped in on my demo sessions to lay down a bass line on a little blues track I was recording, Brian Hopper's "Slow Walkin' Talk." I was so grateful that my modest attempt was so magically enhanced by his presence. I should add: This has only become apparent thanks to the conscientious cleanup work on the original dusty acetates by Canadian Mike King.



Multi-instrumentalist Robert Wyatt has an idiosyncratic way of bringing different musical worlds together. (Photo: Alfreda Benge)

DB: This was your first real solo outing.

RW: After the tour, I stayed with the Experience in Los Angeles, in a rented spread in Benedict Canyon. Hendrix had hired a studio complex nearby, with more capacity than he needed, so he invited me to use a spare studio to try things out. I had no group around by then, and used the opportunity to work alone on new material, multi-tracking on drums, voice and the instruments available—piano, organ and the occasional bass guitar. Hendrix, perhaps taking a break from his own work, dropped by one day to see how I was getting on, offering to play some bass on the thing I was working on. When I returned via New York back to England, those recordings got lost in the shuffle—only to have been unearthed recently. Steve Feigenbaum, who had already released some of my retrieved experiments on his adventurous Cuneiform label, took on the task of having those recordings cleaned up and released. So, '68: The title refers both to the recording date and to the funny coincidence that it was released last year, when I was, in fact, 68.

DB: How did Soft Machine approach the studio?

Robert Wyatt's '68 (Cuneiform) was recorded in Hollywood and New York and features Jimi Hendrix on one track

RW: The combined sound was not predetermined. It really did become a journey into uncharted territory. To this day, when I invite musicians to help me make a record, it's their uniqueness that I want. I still like to celebrate the special character of each participant. That may be why, even when I'm starting off with a simple pop-song framework, the result rarely fits into some preordained marketing category.

DB: In the July 11, 1968, issue of DownBeat, contributor and musician Mike Zwerin covered the emergence of Soft Machine with a band interview and story. What do you remember about Zwerin the writer?

RW: Michael Zwerin, who became a great friend, was an expat working for the International Herald Tribune in France, and had seen [Soft Machine] play in St. Tropez. He also took me to lunch with the wonderful saxophonist Paul Desmond, which was, for me, a mind-blowing occasion. I think Mike was maybe just relieved to meet a British rock musician who loved jazz.

DB: John Coltrane was a big influence then, and still is.

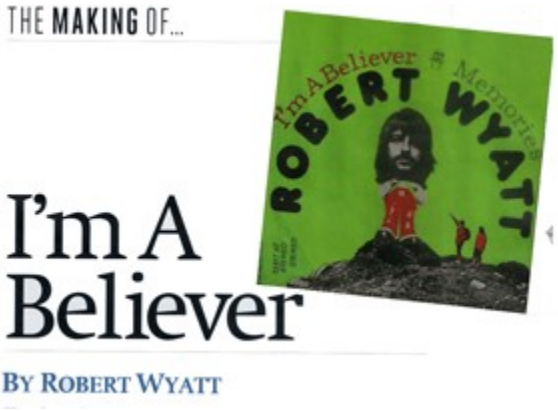
RW: The year Soft Machine was launched was the year John Coltrane died [1967]. Saint John, as far as I'm concerned. And I'm reminded of what happens in the forest when a really giant tree falls. Suddenly, there's a clear patch in the undergrowth, where lots of little saplings busily take over the space, hurrying towards the sunlight: life reaffirming itself. But such giant trees don't spring up overnight. So our emergence into the sunlight was always haunted, in my mind, even in the irreverent gush of youth, by the incomparable beauty of what we had lost.

John Ephland

Previous article

Next article

Back to the list



ABÉCÉDAIRE

Les années Before | Soft Machine | Matching Mole | Solo | With Friends | Samples | Compilations | V.A. | Bootlegs | Reprises

HOME

The Making of... I'm A Believer - by Robert Wyatt - Uncut N° 201 - February 2014

How Canterbury's jazz adventurer turned out a hit Monkees cover, tiring out Pink Floyd's drummer and battling Top Of The Pops in the process... "The show side of pop? I can't be bothered!"

FROM THE PSYCH pop of early Soft Machine to the cerebral jazz-fusion of Matching Mole, by 1974 Robert Wyatt was intent on following his own singular muse. You would imagine, though, that even Wyatt's closest collaborators were shocked when he decided to release a cover of The Monkees' Neil-Diamond-penned "I'm A Believer" as his debut solo single. "No, Robert has always been most peculiar," laughs Pink Floyd's Nick Mason, who produced and played drums on the recording, "so nothing very much surprises me with him." Wyatt has been in a wheelchair since June 1, 1973, when he fell out of a window at a Maida Vale party. But rather than hindering him creatively, his paralysis allowed the drummer to put down his sticks and concentrate on singing, keyboards and songwriting, crafting the experimental, pastoral Rock Bottom, produced by Mason and featuring Fred Frith and Richard Sinclair. Far from starting a more commercial era in his career, though, things didn't run smoothly after the release of "I'm A Believer". An appearance on Top Of The Pops led to arguments with the show's producer and threats of a ban, then Virgin refused to release his follow-up single. The irrepressible Wyatt wouldn't have had it any other way, though - the only reservation he has about the track is his own "jigging about" when miming on TV. "If you're going to do it, do it properly, like Wilko Johnson... I just thought, note to self, don't do that anymore. "But we all learn from our mistakes," he says, mock-philosophically. "That well-known saying - well, not that well-known, because I made it up - 'we live and learn, but in that order, unfortunately.'"

TOM PINNOCK

ROBERT WYATT: I'd said in NME or Melody Maker that I really liked pop music - to me, it's the folk music of the industrial age, it's what people sing and dance to on a Saturday night. Simon Draper at Virgin, he saw this and he called my bluff, saying "Would you do a pop song?" I'd intended to do "Last Train To Clarksville", 'cause I like that, but I got muddled up.

NICK MASON: I met Robert at UFO, then we did some gigs together - we certainly spent time together in New York when Soft Machine were touring with Hendrix. We were all holed up in the same hotel there in 1968. Then I produced Rock Bottom.

DAVE MACRAE: Was I surprised Robert was doing a Monkees song? Working with Robert, surprises were the norm! He has great mental energy always looking for new ways to express his ideas.

RICHARD SINCLAIR: In The Wilde Flowers with Robert, I remember doing things like Chuck Berry numbers, so "I'm A Believer" wasn't anything unusual from Robert. He always wanted to be a popular singing artist. Blond-haired quite good-looking, bouncing about - he liked that idea of entertainment, still does!

WYATT: One of my friends said, "But Robert, is it a great song?" In one exhibition, Peter Blake had a lot of paintings by monkeys, and somebody said to him, "Oh, they're not very good paintings." He said, "Well, they're pretty good for monkeys! " So for a Monkees song, it's a pretty good song. I don't feel the need for any hierarchies [in music] and there was a slight statement I was making about that. Not being in a group you can do one-off things, have a particular band for a particular thing. And for "I'm A Believer" it was the right group.

FRED FRITH: Robert used to show up at Henry Cow gigs and never failed to say nice things about us. Bill McCormick and Francis Monkman approached me about joining the reforming Matching Mole, but then Robert had his accident and that was the end of that. I visited him in hospital and we became close. Henry Cow had opened for Pink Floyd on numerous occasions between 1969 and 1972, so Nick and I had brushed shoulders. I'd had the unnerving experience of David Gilmour sitting at my feet checking me out while performing... I think Robert and I felt an affinity on many levels, musical, political and especially a shared enjoyment of life's absurdities.

WYATT: I did take the liberty of buggering around with the chords to "I'm A Believer". I played the piano part to Dave, and he played what I played him really. Dave's great like that, he can just sort of do anything. Amazing man.

MACRAE: Robert would certainly have indicated what he wanted played and I may have thrown in an idea. I think the arrangement was largely osmotic and a natural process.

Robert has great mental energy, and this energy acted as a catalyst in generating ideas from others involved.

WYATT: I wouldn't have thought the recording took any longer than a day, maybe another day for mixing? I would have thought I'd have done the vocals after, especially as there is some double-tracking there. I remember there was a bloke from Neil Diamond's publisher who hung around all the time, not doing anything at all, and I thought, "That's an easy job.' He just traipsed around after us. "I'm from the publishing company." Just helping himself to the freebies knocking about...

MASON: Producing Robert didn't entail an enormous amount of hard work. He really just wanted a bit of assistance in the technical side. But I certainly didn't need to tell him anything about how the music went.

WYATT: Nick made some crucial decisions. He's also funny. He used to come out of a take and you'd say, "That's great." And he'd say, "Yes, it does a bit, doesn't it." A very funny man!

MASON: We probably did the backing tracks in an hour or two. We spent longer putting Fred's stuff on than anything else, the violins and so on. That was all Fred's idea, we let him loose on it.

FRITH: There was the instrumental break which they didn't have a plan for, so I wrote the string arrangement on the spot and recorded it. Then I finished up with the lead guitar stuff, which was a first take, just doing whatever came to me in one pass of the song, using my 1958 Gibson 345, volume pedal and Electro Harmonix Big Muff distortion - that was pretty much all I had. I remember Nick being super-complimentary about it and me feeling like a million bucks!

WYATT: Nick used to make this joke about a "Pink Floyd tempo". We said, " We're going to do it a bit faster," and it was the first time he broke into a bit of a sweat!

Moving away from Rock Bottom: Robert Wyatt in 1974

MASON: It was probably faster than all the Pink Floyd tempos throughout history. We always kept to about 70bpm max. My doctor told me never to play faster than my pulse rate... But I was a lot younger and fitter, then, so it was fine.

WYATT: It hit No 29, did it? I'm too posh to think about charts... It's not the chart side of pop music that interests me, it's the music itself and what it means to people. There's a competitive edge to charts which I find very tiresome. Most of the records I liked, jazz records, probably sold about 5,000 tops, ever. I remember somebody advising me, "DJs would rather have the chorus first, if they're going to play it on the radio." I thought, "Hang on, wait a minute, music should be about expanding your freedoms and possibilities, not about contracting them."

FRITH: My brother [sociomusicologist and journalist] Simon was impressed when we appeared on Top Of The Pops! But my memory of it is mostly around the sadness and futility. Seeing The Tremeloes buttoned into awkward-looking satin suits and looking sulky and resentful as their manager told them what to do, just observing the pop game from close up. We had to be in the studio at 11am on call for rehearsal. We were hustled onstage at about 5.40pm and when we were supposed to run it through, everyone disappeared - union-mandated break - so we never actually rehearsed or had any idea what was going on.

SINCLAIR:I'd been on with Caravan in 1970, playing"If ICould Do It All Over Again...". It was funny doing it for Robert and his pop tune!

MASON: Pink Floyd had been on TOTP in '67. It hardly changed from its first to last show as far as I remember. The same slightly uncomfortable dancing and some DJ shouting. We appeared with Robert two weeks running, and the second week they didn't want us to show the wheelchair.

WYATT: The producer said, "I'm embarrassed by that wheelchair, it's not entertaining, can you go and sit in this wicker-work thing?" I told him to fuck off, and he said, "You will never work on this programme again" - but as I just told you, I am too posh to care, frankly. I mean, I can't wheel a wicker chair, and I need to be able to get out quick in case the cops are coming, for fuck's sake!

FRITH: Richard Branson went out and bought an antique wheelchair, and insisted that if the BBC was going to object to Robert's wheelchair, they surely couldn't object to this beautiful antique version. The whole thing was irrational to the point of absurdity, but Richard insisted and won the day, making the BBC look extremely foolish in the process. And, of course, Ian MacDonald made sure there was a picture in the NME afterwards.

WYATT: We were on the cover of the NME, all in wheelchairs, it looked great - most of us who played at my Drury Lane concert are on there, Mongezi Feza's just behind Julie Tippetts, and Mike Oldfield is there. Nick Mason's face is stuck on. It was a real laugh doing it, although there were, I believe, people who wrote to the NME saying it was a bit tasteless... I can't think why. I thought it was a very good idea.

Robert Wyatt with producer
Nick Mason in CBS, London 1974

Especially on steps - wheelchairs on steps are dangerous, they're rubbish! There are people in wheelchairs and with other disabilities, who I know from letters and so on, who were very encouraged that far from my career as a musician being over, it actually got much stronger in terms of my contribution to it. But there were others who thought that I should have been more militant and proactive in terms of disability rights and so on. And I accept that, but the fact is I'm not a professional cripple, I'm still just a musician.

FRITH: I remember almost nothing about Drury Lane [Sept 8,1974], except being told which movie stars were in the audience. But listening to it now, I almost prefer the live version of "I'm A Believer"!

WYATT: It made a good encore, it was a good laugh. We had Julie Tippetts singing, Mike Oldfield and Fred fiddling away at guitars, two drummers, Laurie Allan and Nick Mason, and Hugh Hopper on bass. And Gary Windo and Mongezi Feza doing little horn parts. Dave Stewart was on the organ, and he came up with that live fairground coda, and it's funny, because it was Drury Lane which, of course, 150 years beforehand, had music exactly like that.

MASON: That was the only time the song was performed - unless you count The Monkees. I remember it being fun, there were a lot of people who were fond of Robert there. It was very much a one-off show, and they're difficult as they're always under-rehearsed, but it was fun.

WYATT: My follow-up single was "Yesterday Man", a song by Chris Andrews. We never pretended to be reggae but it was obviously influenced by that feel, which was very much the heartbeat of London around that time.

MASON: Did I produce that? Right. I can't remember what happened to that.

WYATT: The boss of Virgin said it was a bit "lugubrious". I thought, 'Oh, that sounds good,' and I looked in the dictionary, and it isn't. He wouldn't put it out. I wouldn't have minded, but I had to pay for the recording. If you sold millions like dear Mike Oldfield did, then you still got a lot of money, but if you only sold, what did I sell in the end? 50,000? I'd never get any of that back because of the cost of the second LP and so on... So I just said I can't do this stuff with Virgin anymore. So they said, "Well, you're not doing anything with anyone else." So I didn't for a while, I just went into politics. But there's no money in that, of course - it's mostly charity donations at the Morning Star bazaar, so that's not making a living, is it?

I like pop music, but that show side of it, I can't be bothered. When you get to a certain profile in pop, you're told what to do and you have to fit into a format, and that was completely alien to me. So I couldn't have been a pop musician, really. I started out playing pop songs, but we made our own rules and did what we liked. No-one was gonna be pushed around by any of these people.

FACT FILE

- Recorded at: CBS Studios, London
- Released: September 1974
- Personnel: Robert Wyatt (vocals), Fred Frith (guitar, violin), Richard Sinclair (bass), Dave MacRae (keyboards), Nick Mason (drums)
- Label: Virgin
- UK chart position: 29
- US chart position: N/A

June 1, 1973: Wyatt falls out of a window at a party and is paralysed July 26, 1974: His second album Rock Bottom, produced by Nick Mason, is released – sessions for the "I'm A Believer" single begin after September 8, 1974: Wyatt plays an all-star concert at London's Drury Lane Theatre September 20, 1974: Wyatt and those featured on the song, with Andy Summers on guitar, appear on Top Of The Pops September 28, 1974: "I'm A Believer" hits No 29 – Wyatt's highest ever chart position

Previous article

Next article

Back to the list

ABÉCÉDAIRE

Les années Before | Soft Machine | Matching Mole | Solo | With Friends | Samples | Compilations | V.A. | Bootlegs | Reprises

HOME

Robert Wyatt - Bomb N° 115 - Spring 2011

ROBERT WYATT by Shadia Mansour

Robert Wyatt's story is as compelling as the endlessly imaginative music that it yielded. Like that of the best songwriters, his work is a world unto itself, instantly recognizable, not least of all due to his high, quavering vocals and almost cubist approach to lyrics. Involved in every avant-garde of British music since the '60s—from prog rock to punk and postrock—Wyatt began his career as the drummer and vocalist for the Canterbury band Soft Machine, a seminal prog-rock outfit heavily into jazz time-signatures and modal drift. In 1973, Wyatt fell from the fourth-floor window of a friend's home, becoming paralyzed from the waist down. While recuperating, he began work on what would become Rock Bottom, a haunting album that relied heavily on keyboards and multitracked vocals as opposed to the full-band workouts of his earlier music. This is a sound that Wyatt has cultivated to this day, one composed of complex blends of pop, jazz, and world music in miniature, a la Brian Wilson's "pocket symphonies" even, though more immediate and British in their foregrounding of Wyatt's sophisticated and eccentric sensibility.

A better comparison might be to the concise, wildly surreal work of arty punk bands like the Swell Maps or The Homosexuals, groups with an obvious debt to Wyatt. By the early '80s, Wyatt had begun recording for the underground label Rough Trade, releasing a series of beautiful singles that reflected a newly found, fervent political awareness. In the '90s, he became something of a hero of underground musicians with the albums Shleep (1997) and Dondestan (Revisited) (1998) receiving rave reviews in publications like The Wire magazine and the sadly now-defunct Popwatch. His work since that time has been clever, restless, and typically brilliant. His latest record, For the Ghosts Within, a collaboration with Ros Stephen and Gilad Atzmon, is his first since 2007's politically charged Comicopera. Wyatt is an international treasure whose work, though highly political, never ceases to function as musical art of the highest order. His wit, both sonic and lyrical, is boundless.

Recently, Domino Records reissued Wyatt's entire catalog, introducing his work, which sounds as current as it did the day it was recorded, to a new generation of ears. Wyatt and British-Palestinian rapper Shadia Mansour, who guests on For the Ghosts Within, communicated over email about the development of political consciousness, the song-writing process, and how an understanding of history informs one's creative practice.

————Clinton Krute

Robert Wyatt Good morning, Shadia. First, thank you for taking time out from what is probably a pretty active time in New York. I hope talking by email isn't going to make it too difficult.

Shadia Mansour Salam, Robert! Thank you for making this happen. Congratulations on your latest masterpiece For the Ghosts Within. It's an honor for me to be a part of it—it's inspirational to listen to. I want to apologize for my delayed response; I just got back from Detroit and did not want to answer your email in between shows.

You have been a loyal supporter of the Palestinian people and have expressed (metaphorically) your solid and principled stance against anything apartheid through your music for years. What has been more effective: music or activism?

RW I came to politics via my love of an earlier Black American idiom, jazz, which led me to the antiapartheid movement. I was born in 1945, when the relieved assumption was, I think, that Fascism, experienced as institutionalized racism, and the colonialist assumptions that depended on such hubristic delusions were totally discredited. But by the 1970s it became apparent to me—thanks, in part, to meeting Alfie, now my wife, who was much more politically inquisitive than I had been—that the victors of World War II, having neutered the competition, were at it again, inventing more devious rhetoric to cover their (our) traces. But I was always steeped in my parents' quasireligion: art. The rising tide of racism in England was simply ugly: racial pride in itself is natural enough, but the racist mindset promotes racially exclusive elites, and that's what gives me cultural claustrophobia. The art I loved most—jazz—was the fruit of the feverishly fertile cross-pollination of extremely diverse communities interacting in the United States. Racism was clearly a serious threat to the regenerating nourishment that the art I loved fed on. Not just jazz, of course. By then, there was no "either/or" about it: music and politics merged into one stream running through my life.

To me, a musician can be a witness, a more subjective one than a political activist. It's not for us to say what use we are to anybody, really. We can hope to encourage the wind behind the sails, but we are not the sailing ship. There are musicians and artists who generally feel disengaged from the human conflicts around them—some great ones, too. And there are those of us who feel impelled to participate in some way. Among painters, for example, Matisse worked his way through the rise of Fascism like a distant monk, his focus on living entirely through painting as an end in itself. By contrast, his friend Picasso got engaged publicly in the resistance, most famously with his painting commemorating the victims of the Fascist bombing of Guernica. I do think that Picasso's aesthetic activism was a valuable contribution to the war effort. But he had to live in exile from his beloved Spain to do it.

As for us musicians, it varies so much too, doesn't it? What we're trying to do in the first place… In my case, my exasperation about the cowardly evasiveness of our mainstream press drives me to think that if people in general knew more about history they'd be more likely to demand more honorable governments. I don't have any illusions about the effect of my making simple references to under-reported events and the people involved in them in my songs. For example, the sabotage of the democratically elected, secular government of Iran by the US and British governments in the early '50s, or the collusion by France, Britain, and the US in helping establish Israel's nuclear-weapons industry. If mainstream political writers aren't bothering to mention these things, who will? But I'm more convinced about your value in this respect than I am of my own.

I was raised in an "art is the fruit; the rest is the tree" sort of home. My father had been a pianist—he played Mozart, Debussy, adaptations of folk music, and 20th-century music, including Thomas Waller and Duke Ellington. But, professionally, he was what was called an industrial psychologist. My mother was a journalist and BBC producer/broadcaster. Most appealing to me as a boy were their art books: from Cézanne and Manet to Braque, Picasso, Chagall, and Paul Klee. And, crucially, I was stunned by what I saw at museums and art galleries bringing us non-European artifacts from Mexico, the Pacific, Near-and-Far-Eastern Asia—the world beyond.

Photo by Alfie Wyatt.

There's a nice quote from Auden, something like "We are all recruits of our time," and although in a decent world, I think I could happily live my life like a pleasure-seeking child, I find that the ugliness of so much reality puts my personal search for pure beauty in a rather inadequate light. So I reach out to others not because I think I can change reality but simply to find comfort out there, the warmth of fellowship in adversity. It sounds a bit pretentious, perhaps, but it's very simple, really: I do what I do because that's all I can do.

I'm interested in the bridges you cross, not only by being bilingual, but also, for example, between rap culture, Black Roots, and your Arabic-British life, the inspiration of Lauryn Hill [a former member of the Fugees] and Palestinian survivors. Was it the sound or the political implications that hit you first?

SM If I'm totally honest, I'd have to say I was primarily driven by politics, especially with what had gone on and was going on in Palestine and the rest of the Arab world. I got into music at an early age, singing at the peaceful rallies I attended, protesting against the daily abuse of the Palestinian population. And I got into Arabic hip-hop around the same time that 9/11 happened. That event changed the face of what "Arab identity" represented and gave birth to what I describe as a newly dignified Arab. A new form of resistance and determination was blossoming in the West, and I was part of the early days of that change. I found discipline in Public Enemy's music, their form of resistance was intellectual, and they managed to speak in a universal language. Hip-hop was a shelter that became a community and which has now become almost a religion in its own right.

RW BBC Four did an open-university documentary series about schools in Syria, a country with communities of Palestinian refugees. In one of two episodes focusing on Palestinian schoolchildren, a couple of girls were fighting for the right to rap to cautious older Palestinians. How easy is it for you to reassure more traditional Arabs of your relevance?

SM I would want them to be reassured of the importance of equality and respect between males and females, first and foremost. How can we ask for a free Palestine if we are not free from each other? Having said that, Arabic hip-hop is still young and is a lot to digest for the more conservative figures in our community. With reason and patience we can get to that point in which we can give each other a chance to use our voices in a productive and effective way without holding ourselves back.

RW Rap liberated the language used in songs—there's been Black American song for years, but rap allowed street vernacular, as well as the real concerns of "the street," a big new space. Do you find that by extending song into "speaksong" your Arab vocabulary is somehow liberated?

SM Two of the most crucial elements in hip-hop, in my opinion, are what you are saying and how are you saying it. Arabic hip-hop has played a huge role in bringing the Arab vocabulary down from its high horse and more level with ordinary people who want certain things to be "told how it is." I think we have also liberated ourselves in the process.

RW Is there any tradition within Arab poetry or song/music that connects with rap? Rap in Arabic sounds so natural.

SM Absolutely, I learned about the beauty of our culture mostly through song and poetry. If you take a look back at sixth-century pre-Islamic poetry, you will notice many familiar elements which hip-hop shares today: resistance, pride, passion, knowledge. Our roots are a part of who we are, even though we are not always aware of it.

What is your approach to writing lyrics, Robert?

RW Two ways: if the tune comes first, I try to imagine words that seem to belong to it. Occasionally, I have some words that seem to need music. I have no reliable approaches or methods for this. It just has to come to me; I work on the assumption that if I do what feels right instinctively, there'll be an organic coherence to it. I don't work from plans, theories, manifestos. They're retrospective. There is no explanatory equivalent to making what I do.

You have achieved something rather rare, a joined-up working life; your vocal talent matches your message organically. Many artists struggle with this: the (apparently contradictory?) pursuits of trying to be a true witness of real life "out there" and the impulse to make magic through the freedom of the imagination to invent. Do you consciously struggle to reconcile the truth (which can be ugly) and beauty?

SM Anyone who is not actually living under the circumstances they preach about will be taken less seriously than if they were. I have borne witness to the truth and have tasted the realities of the Palestinian struggle for self-determination. You only need to cross an Israeli checkpoint to know what sheer humiliation feels like, or wake up to house demolitions in Arab neighborhoods in Jerusalem, or visit children in youth centers in camps without electricity or clean water. But more importantly, truth is truth, no matter who spreads it. The bottom line is, it's not about us artists, it's not about where we are from, it's bigger than all of us…It's the message and the impact.

RW Tell me about your performance with Lowkey for the Norman Finkelstein events. How did the writer and activist find you?

SM Norman Finkelstein's support of my and Lowkey's work has only motivated us more. We were invited to perform alongside him for the launch of his book This Time We Went Too Far in New York last May. It was a very diverse crowd, but nonetheless, very welcoming. I have to be honest: I never thought for one minute that I'd ever see Mr. Finkelstein waving his hands side to side and rocking out to Arabic hip-hop.

How did you discover Arabic hip-hop and what inspired you to add it to the song "Where Are They Now"?

RW It was Gilad Atzmon [an Israeli-born reed-playing musician; antiracist and anti-Zionist, now a Londoner], who for a while had been working on the little ditty "Dondestan" (an imaginary state whose name comes from the Spanish for "where are they/you") that I'd done on an eponymous solo record.

His inspired idea to ask you to bring it to life gives For the Ghosts Within an extra dimension, especially following Tali Atzmon's [Gilad's wife] title track. We talk about rap, but what terrific singing you both come up with. Not for the first time, I have a lot to thank Gilad for, including his work on my previous couple of records.

SM How was it to work with Gilad?

RW Lovely. For the Ghosts Within is an extension of a project that Ros Stephen and Gilad had worked on before, based on an old Charlie Parker with strings record. They wanted to extend the format with voices. It's their project and I'm simply a guest. I'm very happy to have been asked! Gilad keeps me on my toes—he's a fast worker and doesn't sit around wondering what's next. It's great for me because, not doing live work, I miss that sense of urgency. He seems to live every second to the hilt, but unlike some action men, he's constantly updating his philosophical take on things.

SM How do you feel about the current state of the music industry today (dating back to when you began)? Do you think artists and musicians are starting to speak out more? Which direction do you see it going?

RW I don't know enough about the state of the music industry to speak much about it. There'll always be music, and people listening to it, so I don't fret too much about it! I've only remained connected to the "industry" via a few specific individuals who work in the independant part of it, who for some reason empathize with what I'm up to and try and make it possible for me to operate. (Without them I'd be sunk.) My lack of academic refinement means I'm not really eligible for most arts funding, so I've had to make a living via the music marketplace; but my dealings have been with these few sympathetic people—the "industry" itself has always seemed some distant, foreign thing.

Inevitably I get to hear recent music, but I don't search for it. My record collection hasn't changed a lot in 50 years. It's more a museum than a fashion display. I'm basically fueled by the ghosts within… I really admire a young Palestinian couple known as Tashweesh: Ruanne Abou-Rahme (film) and Basel Abbas (soundscapes). I witnessed them not long ago; Ruanne's shifting, semiabstract images work perfectly with Basel's multilayered sound effects. And I like the American guitarist Mary Halvorson. There's a wittiness in her approach that reminds me of my jazz hero, Thelonious Monk.

SM The birth of hip-hop was hugely inspired by jazz. Do you think there is still that bond between the two?

RW My missus, Alfie, suggested to me that the blues and such folk idioms are closer ancestors of rap than jazz, although you could say jazz liberated notes like rap liberates words—the way they can tumble free of their formal structures. My favorite art usually has that tension between geometry and chaos.

>> L'interview sur le site de Bomb

Previous article

Next article

Back to the list

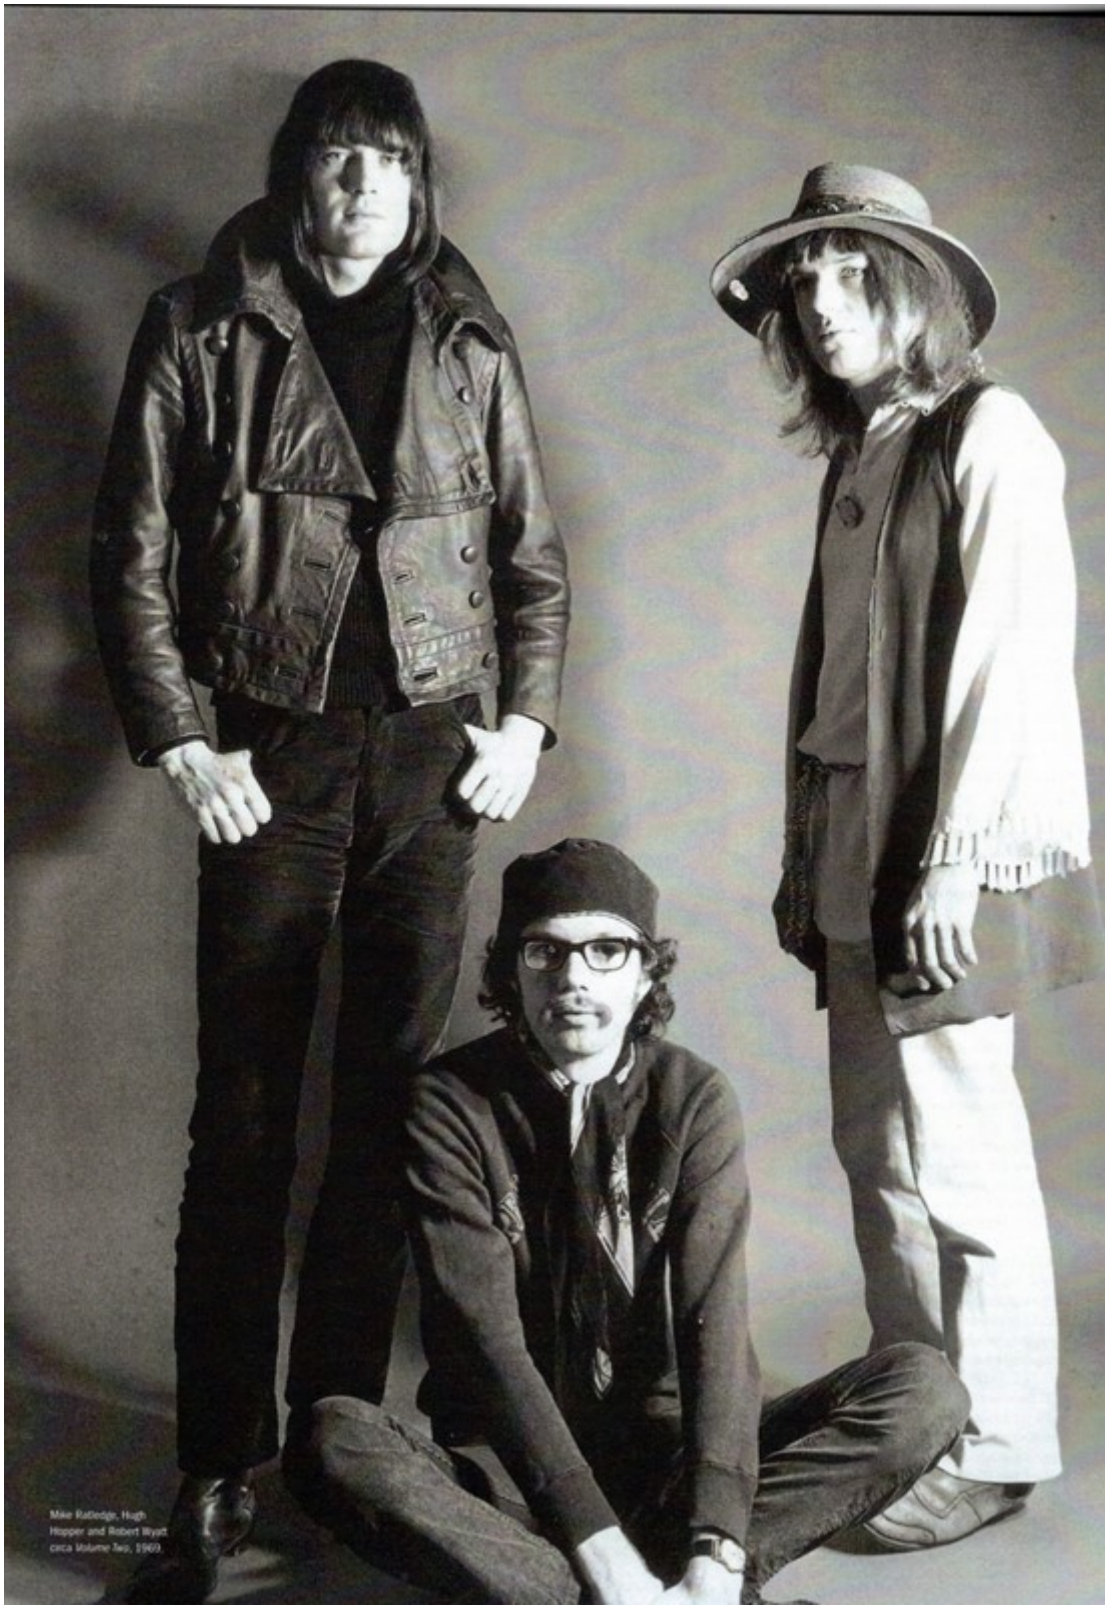
ABÉCÉDAIRE

Les années Before | Soft Machine | Matching Mole | Solo | With Friends | Samples | Compilations | V.A. | Bootlegs | Reprises

HOME

This Is What Happens - Shindig ! - January-February 2011

The Soft Machine



Is it jazz ?

Is it psych ?

Is it pop ?

Article complet (PDF)

Mike Ratledge, Hugh Hopper and Robert Wyatt circa Volume Two, 1969.

THIS IS WHAT HAPPENS

They outgrew their humble beginnings as Canterbury beatniks to become one of Britain's two most important and iconic underground bands of the late '60s before embarking on a singular jazz-rock odyssey that imploded in the mid-70s with not one of their original members intact.

"We could have made a really good LP," said Robert Wyatt. "Been in the charts and been in those films about the '60s – and we blew it."

LINDSAY BENSLEY delicately traces the evolution of THE SOFT MACHINE

It's sometime in 1967 (nowadays it's always sometime in '67 in my head) and I'm in our living room listening to our Pye transistor radio, tuned into one pirate station or another, when I should be doing my homework. Luckily, my sister is in the front room spinning her Dionne Warwick platters, while mother is away with the fairies in the garden tending her rose bushes, so I'm able to listen to whatever illegal station I choose. Suddenly, I hear 'Love Makes Sweet Music' crackling through the ether, a godsend to flaming youth if ever I heard one. While the name of the group makes little impression at this stage, the song receives frequent airplay and eventually lodges itself firmly in the junk room of my mind.

Nowadays it sounds like a lost anthem for that unforgettable summer, though at the time I thought it an energising atomic particle of pop that made me want to jump and shout and tell the world. But I was soon to learn that such danceable ditties were rarely encountered in The Soft Machine songbook. This was a band intent on reinventing the world in their own image, who would become the wunderkinds of the underground; whose "out there" musical musings prompted Phil Manzanera to claim: "Soft Machine were the grooviest, coolest psychedelic band of the era".

And behind their artistic ambitions there lurked an intelligence to match even impressed music critic and ribald raconteur, George Melly: "Soft Machine for a start are not only verbally precise but exceptionally literate, with a keen and specialised interest in pataphysics, Dada and surrealism." Soft Machine lived life while others like myself looked on in dumbstruck awe.

Formed in '66, the group were briefly called The Bishops Of Canterbury, before guitarist Daevid Allen suggested they should change their name to Soft Machine after the drug culture novel by William S Burroughs. Besides Australian-born Allen, already an intergalactic guru, the line-up also comprised Kevin Ayers and Robert Wyatt, who were soon joined by Mike Ratledge upon his return from Oxford University after gaining an honours degree in psychology – a qualification that would come in useful during his tenure, if only for self-analysis.

In September of that year they played the notorious Star Club in Hamburg, and though they had secured a three-night booking, a hostile audience ensured the contract was never fulfilled. Back in London they began to make regular appearances at The Marquee Club before a more receptive crowd, often supporting The Pink Floyd Sound, while also securing regular gigs at The UFO Club in Tottenham Court Road. In December they went into CBS Studios in London to record with Kim Fowley. Little came from this session except 'Feelin' Reelin' Squeelin'', a lugubrious ditty penned by Kevin Ayers, whose deadpan delivery became his trademark.

A month later they entered Advision Studios to record 'Love Makes Sweet Music' with producer Chas Chandler, who thought the band had some degree of commercial potential. Released at the end of February '67 on Polydor, 'Love Makes Sweet Music' was coupled with 'Feelin' Reelin' Squeelin'' to become a favourite among pirate DJs including John Peel, who featured the single frequently on his Perfumed Garden slot for Radio Caroline. Although it missed the hit parade by miles, it did make #26 in the Radio London chart.

In April, they again returned to the studio, this time to De Lane Lea under the guidance of Russian-born impresario Giorgio Gomelsky. These sessions, though funded by Gomelsky, were never released until Charly Records did so in the '70s. And while Allen has always expressed his displeasure with his contributions, these are nevertheless the most comprehensive recordings of the original line-up that survive.

The band at this stage of their development were still a wayward creation, and while Gomelsky – a multi-media visionary – had failed to coax the best from them, he fared far better with The Brian Auger Trinity and the heavenly-blessed Blossom Toes, both of whom he signed to his own Marmalade label.

Undeterred, Soft Machine accepted an invitation to appear in The 14 Hour Technicolor Dream at Alexandra Palace at the end of April. This sight and sound extravaganza, which also featured The Pink Floyd, The Move, The Pretty Things and The Crazy World Of Arthur Brown among others, brought the group to the attention of the media.

Mike Ratledge and Kevin Ayers at an early Softs gig.

The band spent the summer of '67 performing in France, mostly around St. Tropez, though usually without any noticeable financial gain. Half-starved and sleeping rough on the beaches, they were on the verge of quitting when a local theatre promoter secured them a series of gigs including two weeks at Eddie Barclay's Psychedelic Night where they even managed to perform Ayers' one-line mantra, 'We Did It Again', for over an hour, and also played in the nude at Jean-Jacques Lebel's Sunlove Happening on the Cote d' Azur.

Towards the end of August the band returned to England minus Daevid Allen, who was refused entry on the grounds that his visa had expired. Allen, unfazed, formed the intergalactic Gong who still record and tour the solar system and beyond to this day, attracting universal praise.

The Softs continued to perform as a three-piece and the following February an enthusiastic Chandler encouraged the group to embark upon a two-month American tour supporting The Jimi Hendrix Experience. While the band had already established a rapport with Hendrix – Wyatt and Ayers having previously guested on 'Stone Free' back in November '66 – American audiences did not always feel the same empathy, and were not averse to booing and heckling to express their impatience to see The Man With The Guitar!

It was an ill-conceived tour, set up by Jimi's manager, Mike Jeffery, who paid little attention to anyone's interests but his own. A dubious character who claimed affiliations with The Secret Service, Jeffery is alleged to have defrauded both The Animals and Hendrix of substantial earnings, and to have frequently used threatening behaviour with the aid of a handgun to make his point. Though it is almost impossible to say anything positive about Jeffery, he nevertheless secured Soft Machine a recording contract with ABC/Probe Records.

So in April, at the end of their 50-date tour, they entered Record Plant Studios in New York to record their first album. With Tom Wilson as producer, the band spent four days recording a selection of their songs interspersed with a smattering of improvisations. Wilson, known for his work with The Mothers Of Invention and The Velvet Underground, appears to have been somewhat diffident and allowed the band a free hand, and they were not afraid to experiment with the studio technology to hand.

The resulting album was however an uneven affair. There are perusable moments; 'Hope For Happiness', 'Why Am I So Short?', 'Save Yourself' and 'We Did It Again', but the instrumental duets between Wyatt and Ayers on 'Joy Of A Toy' and 'Why Are We Sleeping?' provide the highlights. If nothing else, the album displays how sharp the interplay between these musicians had developed, and is often cited as an example of proto-jazz-rock come prog, even if some of the outings here do not reach a satisfactory conclusion.

In May the band returned to England and immediately enlisted guitarist Andy Summers, fresh from his stint with the short-lived Dantalian's Chariot (known by band members as Charabanc), Zoot Money's earnest riposte to psychedelia. Though they were briefly the darlings of the London underground scene, Summers was keen to engage with more non-traditional music makers on their own terms.

Taking up residence with Wyatt in his mother's house in West Dulwich, a sort of commune of extended family and friends, Summers recounts in his forthright autobiography, One Train Later: "The atmosphere in the house is a mix of cultured bohemianism and tribal village. Eating, shagging, smoking and drinking, and making music are all laced with scathing remarks to one another about diminished intellect."

Summers, however, soon adapted to the lifestyle and the group spent several weeks in rehearsals. "In its best moments the music of The Soft Machine at this time is a swirling rush of dense, washy keyboards, repeated vocal lines, and drum patterns that fall outside any traditional song formats. In the vernacular of the moment, it would be called 'trippy'." These rehearsals often went on long into the night, usually ending with Wyatt and Summers smoking too much hash and falling on the floor in a fit of giggles. They made indeterminate progress.

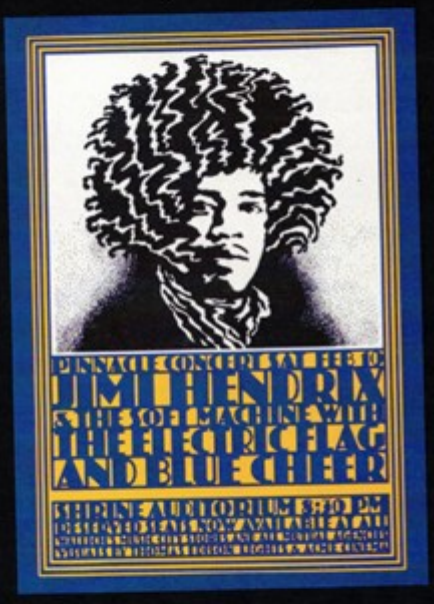
In July they returned to America to headline a few shows before joining Hendrix for a second US tour together. As before, because of the avant-garde stance, their set would sometimes attract hostility from both audience and promoters alike, especially when Ayers insisted upon performing 'We Did It Again' ad nauseam.

After this fractious short tour they ended up at The Chelsea Hotel in New York, where it fell to Wyatt to inform Summers that Ayers insisted he quit the band. Ayers claimed that he wanted to return to the three-piece format, though Summers has always believed – and with good reason – that Ayers resented his superior musical ability.

Supporting Hendrix, with whom they struck up a close friendship, they embarked upon an intense two-month tour, finishing up at Los Angeles. The unrelenting touring took its toll upon Ayers, who also expressed his dislike of the jazz-based workouts they now favoured. Without a hint of animosity, the rather louche Ayers decamped to Ibiza whereupon he set about forging a solo career and nurturing his predilection for the fruit of the vine.

In December the first Soft Machine album was finally released in the US and soon after in France and Holland where it gained good reviews and healthy sales, though its release in the UK was indefensibly delayed until the early '70s. After a brief hiatus, the band reconvened at the beginning of '69, drafting in their long-suffering roadie, Hugh Hopper, to replace Ayers on bass.

"The atmosphere in the house is a mix of cultured bohemianism and tribal village. Eating, shagging, smoking and drinking, and making music are all laced with scathing remarks to one another about diminished intellect."



Hopper, a more than capable replacement, already had a long association with Wyatt. Both had been part of the Canterbury scene since the early '60s. In '63 they formed The Wilde Flowers with Hugh's elder brother, Brian Hopper on guitar and sax, Richard Sinclair on rhythm guitar and Ayers as vocalist. Later additions included Richard Coughlan and Pye Hastings, who would later team up with Sinclair to form Caravan.

Like Wyatt and Ratledge, Hopper had a yearning for jazz, and in particular that of the post-war era of Mingus, Monk, Davis, Coleman and Coltrane et al, and with the departure of Ayers these influences began to permeate their playing more frequently.

Under contractual obligation to ABC/Probe, they entered Olympic Studios throughout February and March '69 to record their second album. More cohesive than the debut, it is underpinned by Wyatt's off-the-wall witticisms, though you can't help wondering if he's making them up as he goes along.

Divided into two segments, 'Rivmic Melodies' and 'Esther's Nose Job', there are moments that capture their budding musical maturity and give some indication of the direction they intended to pursue, with 'Hibou, Anemone And Bear', 'Dada Was Here', 'Pig' and '10:30 Returns To The Bedroom' noticeably signposting their intentions.

Volume Two was released in April '69 to favourable reviews, and the band began to attract more attention from the media and public alike. Jazz-rock music was the fad at this point in time and Soft Machine were fast gaining distinction as one of its most competent exponents. Back on the road, gigging with renewed enthusiasm, they were seen at London's 100 Club by an equally enthusiastic Syd Barrett, who invited them to partake in recording sessions for his first solo album, The Madcap Laughs. In May '69, they joined Barrett at Abbey Road to record 'No Good Trying', 'Love You' and 'Clowns And Jugglers' (later retitled 'Octopus').

In June, The Softs recorded their first Top Gear session for Radio One at Maida Vale, and in between regular gigs – including dates at Ronnie Scott's – they also assisted Ayers on sessions for his début album (which many justifiably regard as his best), Joy Of A Toy for the nascent Harvest label, before forming Kevin Ayers & The Whole World with fellow earthlings Mike Oldfield, Lol Coxhill and David Bedford.

Gradually The Softs' poppy proclivities gave way to more malleable jazz-rock fusions – much lengthier workouts with titles such as 'Mousetrap', 'Backwards', 'Eamonn Andrews', 'The Moon In June'. In October they expanded the line-up to a seven-piece with the addition of Marc Charig (cornet), Nick Evans (trombone), Lyn Dobson (soprano, tenor sax and flute) and Elton Dean (alto sax and saxello). Their gigs were well received as they toured across England, France and Belgium, building up a strong following, while major record labels began to take an interest and they were eventually signed to CBS.

But the logistics of touring as a seven-piece outfit soon proved financially unrewarding. Electrical amplification also proved a bugbear for the horn section, who found if difficult to balance their sound with a powerhouse drummer and dominant keyboard player. Increasingly disenchanted, Charig and Evans left at the end of the year to join Chris McGregor's Brotherhood Of Breath.

In early January '70, the band were recorded at Fairfield Halls, Croydon and at Mothers Club, Birmingham by CBS, and this material would be used on their next album. By March, Dobson – his nerves now frazzled thanks to the lunatic lifestyle – also quit,

Robert Wyatt, Hugh Hopper and Mike Ratledge standing by the dock of the bay.

"I resented it for a while... I got cross... I used to feel about Soft Machine the way Palestine feels about Jerusalem – this once was mine."

finding brief solace in The Keef Hartley Band.

Reduced to a quartet, it would not have been unreasonable to presume this would have limited The Softs' possibilities, but nothing could have been further from the truth. This unexpected turn of events gave the band a renewed impetus, and created the legendary line-up that would produce some of the most enthralling and innovative music of the band's long and convoluted history. "I think we all soon realised the chemistry was right," recalled Dean.

Hopper, with an ear for a metallic riff, was now composing some of his best material, though Ratledge was the most prolific, and relished writing in complex time signatures that challenged both band and audience alike. The interplay between each member now gave the group a definable sound, which fortuitously coincided with the British jazz scene reaching its peak at the beginning of the '70s.

A trad jazz enthusiast in his teens, Dean later secured work as a member of Bluesology with Marc Charig, alongside numerous alumni including singers Marsha Hunt and Long John Baldry, guitarist Neil Hubbard and a struggling pianist named Reg Dwight, who would later pinch Dean's Christian name and Baldry's middle name (and his vocal mannerisms) to invent an entirely new persona. Unhappy with the pop music scene and backing talentless acts like The Paper Dolls, Dean and Marc enrolled at The Barry Jazz Summer School in South Wales at the height of the psychedelic movement of '67. Here they met Keith Tippett and Nick Evans, and the four discovered much common ground – and thus formed The Keith Tippett Group.

Tippett, already a formidable jazz pianist, had gained a grant from The Arts Council to compose a new work that ultimately resulted in the group's début album, You Are Here... I Am There for Polydor, under the watchful eye of the far-sighted Gomelsky. Something of a hidden horde of bright baubles, it is a brash and determined musical statement by four of the best jazz players the UK has ever produced, and while quoting from Stan Tracey to The Beatles and all points in between, it possesses much original input. Dean, it must be said, would probably have been content to continue along this path had not Ratledge intervened and offered him the chance of playing in a more commercial jazz-rock outfit. In April '70 Soft Machine entered IBC Studios, London to commence work on their next album. Recording continued into May and the album was eventually released in June as a double album entitled Third. At a time when only established names such as The Beatles, Jimi Hendrix or Pink Floyd released double albums, Third was indeed an ambitious project, made more so by daringly featuring one grand opus per side. Hopper contributed 'Facelift', an energetic workout cut and spliced from the two live concerts recorded earlier that year – it's The Modern Jazz Quartet, Spontaneous Music Ensemble and Liberation Orchestra rolled into one nation under a gleeful groove: mesmerising stuff!

'Facelift' was also remarkable for being the first time that most people, like myself, encountered Dean playing the saxello. A variant of the soprano sax, to which it is physically similar – but for an upturned bell – its tone is not dissimilar to that of the Indian shehnai – which is in itself derived from the pungi, that stock-in-trade instrument of the snake charmer.

Wyatt's sole contribution, 'The Moon In June', is an effervescent eulogy from the illegitimate son of Mr G Chaucer (droll-teller), wherein by turn he confesses to being homesick and lovesick from his "hair to his heels". It was an almost entirely solo effort by Wyatt, who began work on the suite back in '67 and recorded some parts in New York at the end of their second American tour. Hopper and Ratledge make but minimal contributions to the piece (Wyatt mans the keyboards and bass for the most part), although jazz violinist Rab Spall provides a solo – doctored by Wyatt the Fizzy Wizard to resemble an out-take from Clanger Land – which makes a fitting coda.

Both the remaining compositions were furnished by Ratledge. 'Slightly All The Time' is one of his most compelling pieces – Zappaesque in parts with occasional quotes from Kirk and Coltrane, it interweaves tortuous time signatures to stunning effect. Ratledge and Dean produce some truly hair-raising solos throughout – and is that Wyatt playing the hi-hat with his hands? – while Jimmy Hastings (brother of Pye) offers support on flute and bass clarinet.

'Out-Bloody-Rageous' is no less arresting. Influenced by Terry Riley's hypnotic Rainbow In Curved Air, Ratledge employs tape loops to introduce another series of discursive solos by both himself and Dean before fading out in another tape collage.

Impressively tall, impossibly lean, his eyes invariably hidden behind a pair of modish sunshades, Ratledge looked every inch The King Of Cool – yet Warhol he wasn't. Reserved, reticent to the point of being monosyllabic, he never looked at ease in the spotlight and disliked touring intensely. Irrespective of his long-term involvement with Soft Machine and his undeniable musical contributions to the band, Ratledge remains something of an enigma entangled in a conundrum and wrapped up in a Gordian Knot of emotions. Nothing about him was ever predictable. Unlike his contemporaries Keith Emerson, Brian Auger and Dave Greenslade, who all preferred Hammond, Ratledge opted for a Lowrey Deluxe organ. When this was fed through a fuzzbox, he was forced to play legato to avoid intervals that would otherwise produce feedback. And so, more by accident than design, he invented his own distinctive sound, even if it frequently resembled a Stylophone on steroids.

Lauded on all sides upon its release, Third was the nearest the group ever came to anything approaching commercial success, yet cracks were beginning to appear in the band's facade. Wyatt's sing-along songs were being increasingly sidelined in favour of hard-nosed instrumentals. Dadaism was dead and the Goon age was gone: they would never play vox pop again. However, unvoiced musical differences within the band did not disrupt the touring schedule. They continued to play regular dates at Ronnie Scott's and also found time to appear at The Holland Pop Festival ("the Dutch Woodstock") with the likes of Dr John, Canned Heat, Santana, Tyrannosaurus Rex et al – the resulting movie was later released as Stamping Ground.

In August they became the first "pop" band ever invited to play The Proms at The Royal Albert Hall. The rock press saw this as a prestigious gig and fawned at their feet, though the classical establishment were by and large appalled by the decision to allow a pop group to defecate upon their sacred turf. The straight-laced and stuffed shirt brigade of Radio 3 didn't like them, but ignoring their detractors, The Softs commenced recording their next album, Fourth, in October '70 at Olympic Sound Studios, with sessions continuing into November. Released the following March to favourable reviews, the album includes guest appearances by the ever-dependable Nick Evans, Marc Charig and Jimmy Hastings, with the addition of Roy Babbington on double bass and Alan Skidmore on tenor saxophone.

The bulk of the material was contributed by Hopper via the stately 'Kings And Queens' and 'Virtually', a four-part suite that took up all of side two. 'Teeth', the sole offering from Ratledge, is perhaps the best-conceived piece here. With fine structured and improvised contributions from both band and guest musicians, it sounds like a blueprint for what British jazz-rock fusion could and should have become.

A few weeks prior to the release of Fourth, I was finally able to catch the band in concert. A chance to see the classic line-up of Wyatt, Ratledge, Hopper and Dean was an unparalleled pleasure, and remains one of my most memorable gigs. In the absence of a stage, the band set up on the dance floor, with the audience seated all around. Granted an opportunity to watch the band at such close quarters proved a rare treat, and this level of intimacy contrarily enhanced their mystique.

Stripped to the waist, his long blonde hair flying as he pummelled the drum kit, Wyatt was the only animated figure, reminiscent of The Wild Man of Borneo (minus the necklace of fingers), while you could easily have mistaken the other band members for serious Zapata lookalikes or the Plymouth Brethren. Yet these four just men were the component elements who could make music to soothe or stir the senses in equal measure. One lanky youth in the crowd stood up and began idiot dancing; a relatively new pastime then, and I had never witnessed such a spectacle before. I even bought a pint of Adnams Best Bitter (a Suffolk ale for a Norfolk swain?) – it was that sort of evening.

Hopper, Wyatt, Elton Dean and Ratledge not long before the drummer's departure.

Oddly enough, the band's vigorous live performances did not in any way reflect their internal strife at the time. Even Dean admitted he was once removed from the unspoken discord. "I was too busy concentrating on the music to fully comprehend the personality issues going on around me. It was never discussed – there were no blazing rows. I got on well with Robert most of the time, we were good mates for a while, although we did have a bit of a disagreement during a tour of the States shortly before he quit. It's funny, but some of the best improvisation we did was during the period leading up to Robert's departure. If he wanted to carry on with the songs he never really said so. We didn't rehearse much or discuss direction, we would go on tour and things would happen, pieces would be written by Mike and Hugh and we would play them."

Depending on which version of events you care to believe, Wyatt was either sacked or quit the band in August '71. "Towards the end there was no collective identity," adds Dean. "The others didn't see the same things as I in the band. I was more interested in absurdity as a liberating element than them." Wyatt expressed bitterness over his departure for several years afterwards, but on the BBC's recent Prog Britannia he appeared more philosophical. "I resented it for a while... I got cross... I used to feel about Soft Machine the way Palestine feels about Jerusalem – this once was mine." For whatever reasons, it is certain that the band's more studious approach to music did not suit a loose-limbed drummer like Wyatt who longed to sing the body electric. "We could have made a really good LP. Been in the charts and been in those films about the '60s – and we blew it."

Wyatt wasn't wrong. Soft Machine made jazz-rock fusion that was both accessible and listener-friendly, a rare feat in itself that others of their ilk were unable to accomplish. Wyatt's exit signalled the end of an earful of amazing music and sounds. Soft Machine had the potential to become a household name – like Fray Bentos or Threadgold's Throughgrip Garterettes. Ah, the sawdust and horses, the roar of the greasepaint, the smell of the crowd, it should all have been theirs, in that brief shining moment, there and then. If only the engine of time had a stop button... SI

Previous article

Next article

Back to the list

ABÉCÉDAIRE

Les années Before | Soft Machine | Matching Mole | Solo | With Friends | Samples | Compilations | V.A. | Bootlegs | Reprises

HOME

Haunted by Ghosts - Haaretz - October 15, 2010

HAARETZ

Haunted by ghosts

Self-proclaimed anti-Israeli saxophonist Gilad Atzmon and prog rock legend Robert Wyatt have joined forces to make musical magic and "political noise."

By Yaron Frid Oct. 15, 2010

Robert Wyatt and Gilad Atzmon, Ros Stephen

In 1963 a baby was born in Israel. In 1972 a man fell from the third floor (or the fourth - views are divided) in England in the middle of the night. Both of them took off on the wings of music, and life would one day organize a surprising encounter between them.

This is a sad story with a jolting soundtrack made of the howl of a saxophone and the wail of a clarinet. It's a story of displaced persons who have no other country, featuring war criminals, Nazi-hunters and God in a cameo role, tempered by large daubs of irony and a few crumbs of hope.

Morning. Rain. Rail strike. Soho, London. Who is the huge chuckling fellow in the Italian cafe who is polishing off a schnitzel sandwich (washed down with tea) and welcomes me with comments like "There is no light at the end of the Israeli tunnel"? Or, "I think there is something untenable, simply untenable in the fact that the Jews, who suffered so much racial discrimination, should establish a state that is founded on race laws." And, topping the charts, "I am dead against the existence of the Jewish state." It's still early in the morning, let me remind you. I-am-dead-against-the-existence-of-the-Jewish-state-and-pass-the-sweetener-please. Good morning to you, too, Gilad Atzmon.

The fact that the cafe is across from Ronnie Scott's famous jazz club offers a subtle hint about Atzmon's identity. He is one of the most acclaimed and in-demand jazz musicians in the world and he only enhances his glory - or totally destroys it, it depends whom you ask - when his mouth isn't otherwise occupied with a saxophone (or a schnitzel).

Atzmon says he is dealing not with politics, but with ethics. Maybe in his case it really isn't just a matter of semantics. Or cosmetics. But we're here to talk about music. And about beauty. "This beauty which simply spills out of you," he says, "effortlessly, unconsciously, in the most wonderful moments of creativity, and when that happens you understand that you are only the carrier of the spirit, of something bigger than you, over which you have absolutely no control. I have no connection with that beauty, I just eat schnitzels. I am only the messenger. I don't look for the beauty, the beauty finds me and through me finds its way into the world."

And plenty of beauty finds its way into the world in "For the Ghosts Within," the new album by Atzmon and his musical partners, which has already earned rave reviews in the British music press, with praise such as "the surprise of the year" and ecstatic descriptions of angels entering the listener's heart. On the album Atzmon joins forces, as performer, composer, arranger and musical producer, with Ros Stephen and Robert Wyatt.

This is the great Robert Wyatt himself. Cult figure, one of the fathers and pioneers of progressive rock. The one calls the other a genius ("We have a mutual genius pact," Atzmon chuckles), while Wyatt says, "It's a huge honor for me and not at all self-evident that Gilad agreed to work with me. He is an amazing musician, amazing." But judging by the people Wyatt has worked with - Jimi Hendrix, Mike Oldfield, David Gilmour, Paul Weller, Syd Barrett, Brian Eno, Bjork (a "heavenly creature," Wyatt sighed) among others - it's clear that the honor is also definitely Atzmon's. He has performed with Paul McCartney, but the collaboration with Wyatt, 65, a unique object of admiration who cuts across tastes, generations and categories (just ask Radiohead's Thom Yorke), is something of a step up and a certificate of honor that further cements Atzmon's status in the British music industry.

Wyatt is the hippie enfant terrible who became a white-bearded guru, a kind of secret national treasure, a genuine survivor who is almost unclassifiable. A drummer in Soft Machine (from which he was thrown out - to this day he maintains "there is nothing worse in life than humiliation") and in Matching Mole, he was reborn as a singer-songwriter after falling out of that London window during a drinking binge that lurched out of control. (Pink Floyd immediately rallied to the cause and organized a benefit concert for him.) The fall left him in a wheelchair for life.

Few musicians have done all he has done - psychedelic, punk, post-punk, avant-garde, fusion and now "clean" jazz with his own twists.

Wyatt is married to Alfreda (Alfie) Benge, who came to England from Poland as a childhood war refugee. She does the artwork for his album covers, once wrote a searing song about his alcoholism (he has since kicked the habit, or maybe not) and calls him an "overgrown baby," while he calls her "the dark side of my moon." He records his albums, which are like nothing else and are always received as an "event," in a studio in his home. He has a distinctive tremulous voice (a kind of trademark), which the composer and musician Ryuichi Sakamoto called "the saddest sound in the world." Wyatt has survived periods of bottomless, suicidal depression, and for entire decades avoided performing live. ("I think it's stage fright," Atzmon says.)

In an interview with the Guardian in June 2009, Wyatt selected Atzmon as the "greatest living artist" and noted that he was "born in Israel, which I prefer to call occupied Palestine." Atzmon, for his part, says Wyatt is "a genius of the kind that Kant described so well - a genius who seemingly has no part in his own genius, who creates beauty as though ex nihilo. Everything he touches sounds new and completely different and utterly his own. He is totally transparent and through him you see the light."

Tranquillity of the storm

Their love story began "about 10 years ago," Atzmon says. "At some festival, a woman named Alfie came over and said her husband is a musician but is very shy and loves my music and would like to talk to me. 'Sure, no problem,' I said. Robert approached, said he was an amateur musician or a crappy musician, something like that, he's very modest, and gave me his card. I had no idea it was him and I put the card in my pocket without looking. Afterward someone asked me what I'd talked about with Robert Wyatt and I said, 'Fuck! That was Robert Wyatt? I grew up on his music!'"

They invited each other to guest on their respective albums, including Wyatt's acclaimed "Cuckooland" (2003) and "For the Ghosts Within." (The song "The Ghosts Within" contains more than a hint to Palestinians sitting under olive trees, awaiting redemption, on the banks of the River of Shame.) The album is on the trendy Domino label - its bands include Arctic Monkeys. Wyatt takes the role of the house singer, performing thrilling covers of jazz standards such as "In a Sentimental Mood" together with new material written and arranged by Atzmon and the violinist Ros Stephen. The result is almost a family affair (Gilad's wife, Tali, sings a marvelous solo, Bob's wife, Alfie, wrote powerful lyrics and Ros's partner is one of the musicians). Tender and melancholy, the album is only part of the panoply of illusive and elusive contradictions of Atzmon, who is haunted by ghosts and demons, filled with gentleness and rage, naivete and depth, stubbornness and openness, storminess and tranquillity.

"The first time I invited him to play on an album of mine," Wyatt recalls, "Gilad warned me that it could be trouble. I don't think he deliberately looks for trouble, it finds him. That didn't scare me. I have been called a 'Stalinist' and a 'traitor' and worse, simply because I didn't agree with the British government's foreign policy. But that's nothing compared to the systematic character assassination being done on Gilad. He takes so many risks with his remarks, most of which are then taken out of context or presented in a twisted way so that his true intention isn't understood correctly.

"I sometimes feel a need to protect him," Wyatt continues, "an almost paternal instinct - after all, he's my son's age. The friendship with him is one of the most important and meaningful things that have happened to me in life. I truly love him. And I admire his courage. Some will call it reckless or uninhibited, but he dares to say things that no one else would. I would die of fright. He gets threats to his life, but I hope they are not serious. He doesn't enjoy the manifestations of hatred toward him but he doesn't care if he causes grief or anguish, because that's his truth, and contrary to politicians or diplomats he is committed to his truth. He's so sweet, really, he wouldn't hurt a fly, and I like his chutzpah, I think it's fantastic. There's something about him from the tradition of the great Jewish comics, like Lenny Bruce, who were never afraid to make people angry."

It would be a big mistake to assume that Atzmon's music is marginal and negligible compared with all the other noise he manages to make nonstop as a popular and prominent pro-Palestinian, anti-Zionist activist. The music is important, superb, surpassingly sublime and acknowledged as such by international awards.

"My shows are always sold out, wherever I appear in the world," says the busiest jazz artist in Britain, almost drily. But in the same breath, who are we kidding? Even when Robert Wyatt sings "At Last I Am Free" on the new album, not to mention the Arabic rap ("People dying of thirst / People are dying of hunger / We haven't forgotten / And we won't forget until the day we return") which leaves no room for doubt, or the "Palestinian shepherd's flute," one of the instruments Atzmon plays on the album according to the liner notes, the noise always penetrates, if not through the door then through the window - not that Atzmon goes out of his way to expel it.

Pathetic and absurd

Gilad Atzmon was born in Tel Aviv in 1963 and grew up in Jerusalem. "It was a regular secular childhood," he says, "with a right-wing Jabotinskyite grandfather. I wasn't ashamed of him, no way. I understood where he was coming from. I understood where I was coming from." Most of his military service was spent in the Air Force orchestra, after a stint as a combat medic. "In the first week of the Lebanon war in 1982 I saw a lot of wounded soldiers, but contrary to the rumors, that was not the turning point in my life. I think the big change actually started in the orchestra, when we went to Ansar, that concentration camp" - a prison built by the Israeli army in Lebanon - "and then I realized that I was in the wrong army."

In Israel he played and was a musical producer with the singers Yardena Arazi - talk about diversity: chapter one Arazi, chapter two Wyatt - Si Himan and Yehuda Poliker, among others.

"Poliker opened my ears to Greek music and influenced me musically. My music is popular in Greece - more than his, I'd say - but Greece, like the whole world, is falling apart, so it doesn't help me very much."

In 1994 Atzmon planned to study abroad, in New York or Chicago, but in the end found a university in England with an interesting program combining psychoanalysis, philosophy and art history. "I didn't have some five-year plan to leave the country or anything like that," he recalls. "The truth is that I was worn out from everything: from the country, from music, from life. Everything wore me out. I didn't want to play or produce anymore. I thought of starting a new career as a commercial pilot. I wanted to be like the El Al pilots, who bow to the applauding passengers after landing [he chuckles]. I liked flying planes but I wasn't good enough at it.

"I was 30, and thought I would focus on an academic career. But then I fell in love with London, which was like a small village - it has changed completely since, and not for the better - and the local music scene gave me so much love. So I said to myself: We'll play jazz for the jazz, we'll live for art. We don't need a lot of money, we have everything we need. So we'll stay. And we stayed."

"We" is Atzmon and his wife, Tali, a fine singer and a stage actress with a burgeoning career. They met - we promised you irony, we deliver - at the Hasidic Song Festival in Israel. "I didn't like Israel and what was happening there but I wasn't politically involved in any way. I also didn't understand the Palestinian idea, the true story. Somehow things happened and I started to speak and write in all kinds of forums, and suddenly I was all over the place. I was a private person with all kinds of private opinions who suddenly became public because people wanted to hear what I had to say. I think people feel that I am telling the truth, that I am not rewriting facts for anyone, that I don't have to lie because I am not part of any political body. I am Gilad Atzmon who represents Gilad Atzmon and that's all. At first I was seen as a nice Jew who was badmouthing Israel, which the goyim liked. But it didn't take me long to understand that I am not a nice Jew, because I don't want to be a Jew, because Jewish values don't really turn me on and all this 'Pour out Thy wrath on the nations' stuff doesn't impress me."

So you are pouring out your wrath on the Jews.

"I saw 'Metzitzim' a few days ago. You know where Uri Zohar is today [Zohar, the director, actor and screenwriter, is now an ultra-Orthodox rabbi and teacher], and he was the ultimate secular person, the absolute ultimate. Why are secular Israelis afraid of Uri Zohar? Because he left them alone in the dark to cope with questions like Why am I here? Why do I live on lands that are not mine, the plundered lands of another people whose owners want to return to them but cannot? Why do I send my children to kill and be killed, after I myself was a soldier, too? Why do I believe all this bullshit about 'because it's the land of our forefathers' and 'our patrimony' if I am not even religious? What the fuck? That is something the secular Jews simply cannot cope with. They are deathly afraid of those questions. I see more truth among the settlers than among the biggest secular Jews in the country.

"The Israelis can put an end to the conflict in two fucking minutes. Netanyahu gets up tomorrow morning, returns to the Palestinians the lands that belong to them, their fields and houses, and that's it. The refugees will come home and the Jews will also finally be liberated: They will be free in their country and will be able to be like all the nations, get on with their lives and even salvage the bad reputation they have brought on themselves in the past 2,000 years. But for Netanyahu and the Israelis to do that, they have to undergo de-Judaization and accept the fact that they are like all peoples and are not the chosen people. So, in my analysis this is not a political, sociopolitical or socioeconomic issue but something basic that has to do with Jewish identity.

"Think for a minute about the dialectics of Jewish identity, about 'Love your neighbor as yourself.' Who is your neighbor? Another Jew, of course. In other words, from the moment you were chosen to be the 'chosen people' you lost all respect for other peoples and for the other as such.

"Take, for example, the way gays are treated in Israel. It smacks so much of 'Look how liberal we are, we have homosexuals in Israel.' Max Nordau [Zionist leader, 1849-1923] wrote about the emancipation of the Jews, about how the Europeans don't really like Jews but like themselves for supposedly liking Jews. I find a lot of similarity between Jews and gays as separatist, marginal philosophies. It's very interesting.

"There are interesting values in Judaism, and the proof is that the Palestinians' greatest supporters are the Jews of the Torah, Neturei Karta [an ultra-Orthodox sect]. Our problem - and it took me time to understand this - lies with the secular Jews, and even more with the left-wing Jews. The idea of left-wing Jews is fundamentally sickening. Totally. It contains an absolute internal contradiction. If you are leftists it doesn't matter whether you're Jewish or not, so on principle when you present yourselves as leftist Jews you are accepting the idea of national socialism. Nazism. That is pathetic. That is why the Israeli left has never succeeded in doing anything for the Palestinians. The absolute absurdity is that it's actually the right wing that is leading toward a one-state solution and a final-status agreement."

Illogic and wonder

Atzmon played into the hands of politicians such as Turkish Prime Minister Recep Tayyip Erdogan, who in a debate with President Shimon Peres quoted Atzmon by name, to the effect that "Israeli barbarism is greater than [regular] cruelty." Atzmon has been accused from every possible platform of disseminating vitriol against Jews. He, though, maintains that he "hates everyone in equal measure." He's also been accused of self-hatred, but he is the first to admit this, and in comparison with Otto Weininger - the Austrian Jewish philosopher who converted to Christianity and of whom Hitler said, "There was one good Jew in Germany, and he killed himself" - he is even proud. "Otto and I are good friends."

Seriously, though?

"What seriously? I am married to a Jew, I work and play in a band with Jews. I have adopted a Palestinian identity, true, but to accuse me of anti-Semitism is ridiculous. Part of my success derives from the recognition that I am 'from there.' I do not try to hide that or blur it or deny it. I look, speak and behave like someone from there."

I address him in Hebrew and he replies in English with a distinctly Israeli accent, interspersed with Hebrew. He is sometimes amazed at some of the excellent Hebrew words he comes out with.

The hybrid language is intermittently amusing. Asked, for example, if he misses Israel, he replies, "I don't miss the medina [the state], I miss the eretz [the land/country], and elaborates: "When I started missing the soil, the landscapes, the scents, I understood that what I actually miss is Palestine. Palestine is the land and Israel is the state. It took me time to realize that Israel was never my home, but only a fantasy saturated in blood and sweat."

He speaks of "sweat" but really means "tears." It's a sad story, as we noted.

His children, Mai, 14, and Yan, 10, have no Jewish friends. Yan was not circumcised and bar or bat mitzvahs are out of the question. Atzmon's computer does not have Hebrew. He says he writes, thinks and dreams in English. He will not set foot in Israel until it is again Palestine.

Doesn't it hurt to cut yourself off like that? To burn all the bridges?

"No, but maybe it's true what all my girlfriends before Tal said when they dumped me."

What did they say?

"That I'm an emotional cripple."

Is that true?

"Maybe, but I didn't dump myself. I live at peace with myself." He apparently reserves his emotional intelligence for his art. There are no cripples of any sort in "For the Ghosts Within." In the music, they all fly to the highest places possible, perhaps touching the divine. Genuine talent, like passion, can't be faked. The problem is, then, only the grating noises - that's how they sound to many people - that the man haunted by ghosts and demons produces outside the recording studio.

Wyatt, playing the Dalai Lama, expresses amazement at "Gilad's struggle against racism and oppression of all kinds, and in his life's work, the search for the meaning of Jewish identity. Gilad is a traumatic but optimistic example of a widespread phenomenon of migrants who try to push aside their tribal circumstances and try to reconnect to the world and to humanity. That is what the Jews in the Diaspora have always done. Look at their contribution to world culture. Ronnie Scott was from a Jewish immigrant family from Russia, and there are also the Gershwin brothers and Bob Dylan and Leonard Cohen and Noam Chomsky and Naomi Klein, not to mention Jesus and Karl Marx, two nice Jews who made a bit of a mess in the world.

"Gilad's point of departure is humanitarian, not real estate. Thanks to him I learned to be more tolerant of religion, every religion, and show it respect. Thanks to him, for example, I have no problem with the fact that Evyatar Banai, a terrific musician whom I met a few years ago, became religiously observant, just as I hope he has no problem with my political opinions. Gilad believes that religion is a spiritual affair and not a license to plunder olive groves from someone else, and that is something I can connect to.

"The problem," Wyatt continues, "arises when religion's illogic becomes the basis for politics. Religion is based on illogical legends: Jesus' mother was a virgin and Father Christmas comes down the chimney bringing toys. That's all very nice but it cannot be a serious foundation for politics that is supposed to make the real world run. It is unthinkable to take lands that are not yours only because it's written in the Bible - meaning the Old Testament, which is based on tribal mercilessness - that God said they are yours. And what about the other peoples? What were they told? Which God distributed what land to them? And what if they read a different book? There's no way out of it.

"People use every excuse to screw the Middle East, visit colonialist guilt feelings on the Palestinians and compare them to Nazis, which is outrageous. The Israeli-Palestinian conflict is the toughest knot to undo that there is, but people like Gilad are truly dreaming of a solution and fighting to realize it in their lifetime."

You once called him "Don Quixote." Do you think he is fighting a lost battle?

"I called him Don Quixote in humor, and he has a great sense of humor. I knew he wouldn't take offense. Possibly his battle is lost, but the war on crime, for example, is also lost, yet I still want the police to go on fighting it. Gilad is an artist who is trying to find meaning in a chaotic and insane world. For him, as for me, politics is the most personal thing there is. He and I cannot remain silent in the face of wrongs, injustice and inequality. Not all artists feel a need to express themselves or act politically, and you can't force anyone to do that. During the Second World War, Picasso chose to sound his voice and Matisse chose to remain silent and disappear, and both were and remain great artists who enriched the world. Gilad likes to shock and surprise in everything he does, and his very existence enriches the world."

And that world, however broken and ruined and complicated, is the same world that stars in the song that ends "For the Ghosts Within" as well as Atzmon's concerts: "What a Wonderful World."

"The newscasts report only disasters and wars, and that's natural," Wyatt notes. "I was born at the end of the Second World War, and since then the world has not stopped fighting and falling apart before our eyes. But if we forget the existence of beauty and joy and love and all the rest, what's the point of staying alive at all? To say that the world is only screwed up is an insult to those who go to work every day and build homes for their children and cook meals for their friends. It's important to sing this song with full intentionality and seriousness. I can't sing it any other way. To sing it is to remember what we're actually doing here."

In praise of the spark

Atzmon, who has appeared and recorded with artists such as Sinead O'Connor, Ian Dury and Robbie Williams, this month is also launching "The Tide Has Changed," the latest album by his jazz group, the Orient House Ensemble, now celebrating its 10th anniversary. (The other members are Frank Harrison, Eddie Hick and Yaron Stavi, the son of Zissi Stavi, the legendary former editor of Yedioth Ahronoth's literary supplement). Among the instrumental tracks are "London Gaza" and "We Lament." Surprised?

Atzmon has even been accused of Holocaust denial.

"That is very imprecise," he says. "But I am fighting against all the disgusting laws and persecutions of those so-called Holocaust deniers - a categorization I don't accept. I think the Holocaust, like any historical episode, must be open to research, to examination, to discussion and debate. I am sorry that Hitler did not live to write a summary of the events in his own words. And I am not sorry that people throw eggs at the war criminal Tony Blair, who in the Nuremberg trials of the Iraq war will be brought to trial, inshallah, along with all those who fostered and financed that benighted and unnecessary war. And at the same opportunity, it might be a good thing if the Nazi hunters hunt down [Shaul] Mofaz and [Ehud] Barak, for example, and not all kinds of 96-year-olds who are barely alive. It's pathetic."

Atzmon can be sharp, focused and trenchant, and at the same time nonsensical and diffuse, so much "pro" but also so much "con" - coarse and refined, raucous and subdued, pedantic and professional to an extreme, making declarations like "I never did homework. I wrote my two books in two weeks each, vomited them onto the page, and the first one began as a joke."

The novels - "A Guide to the Perplexed" (2001; set in 2052, in the Palestinian state that has succeeded Israel) and "My One and Only Love" (2005; about a trumpeter who chooses to play one note only and also about Nazi-hunters; spot the obsession ?) - have been translated into 27 languages. There is something childlike, if not childish, in the guide for the perplexed being someone who is himself occasionally perplexed, who radiates personal charm, frequently chuckles and acts the smart aleck and the provocateur, with a proven ability to electrify and to hypnotize an audience.

"There is a spark in Gilad, a passion and a natural joy of the kind found in children," Robert Wyatt sums up. "His joy of creation is utterly pure. Picasso said that he tried his whole life to paint the way he painted as a child. Gilad hasn't lost that, I think. He remains filled with curiosity and filled with life in the most positive and delightful way."

"Let me make it perfectly clear," says Atzmon. "There is a war of liberation of the Palestinian people and I support it unreservedly. I also have guilt feelings. I tried to communicate with Israelis and I failed, and it's important for that to be said. I no longer know how to communicate with Israelis."

For someone who is so cut-off, Atzmon ("I'm a voluntary exile, but also a DP and a refugee from my homeland") sounds quite connected. Never mind "Metzitzim"; he also heard, for example, that Poliker came out of the closet and that Miri Aloni is busking on the street (though he'd like to know whether for ideological reasons or "only for the money").

Why don't you make a distinction between individuals and governments? For example, what happened with the Gaza flotilla was not "us."

"It was you."

It's not me.

"It is you. Unequivocally. When you live in a democracy, every crime committed by your government is a crime committed by you."

Even if I didn't vote for that government?

"Absolutely. In a dictatorship the dictator takes responsibility, in a democracy all citizens bear equal responsibility."

So what do we do? How do we fix it?

"That's the big question."

What do you want me to do, shoot Netanyahu?

"You said it, not me. And by the way, Netanyahu is a lot better for the Palestinians than Barak or Peres. I, too, as a British citizen, share in the crime of the Iraq war. But the British public at least expressed opposition to the war all along, whereas in Israel 94 percent of the nation supported Operation Cast Lead. On the one hand, you want to behave like a post-enlightenment state and talk to me about individualism, but on the other hand you surround yourselves with a wall and remain attached to a tribal identity. That's a cake you can't eat and have, too. There is a price to be paid and everyone is paying it, including me."

But Atzmon, who has been crowned successor to Charlie Parker, doesn't dwell on the price.

"Sometimes I ask myself what I need all these headaches for. And Tali says she married a musician and now she has a prime minister in her home."

You might not be sad that you lost us, but I'm sad that we lost you.

"That's all right, there's a place in the world for sentimental people. I know I have many readers in Israel and they know how to contact me."

I think about Gilad Atzmon the way that Arik Einstein thought about the girl he saw on her way to school in the iconic song: that to us, he is lost. Israeli public diplomacy lost someone who could have been one of its finest voices: articulate, charismatic, brilliant. The score, for now: 1-0, Palestine leading.

Previous article Next article

Back to the list

Robert Wyatt and "The Merry Dance of Shared Creativity" - A Necessary Angel - July 14, 2010

ROBERT WYYATT AND "THE MERRY DANCE OF SHARED CREATIVITY"

Robert Wyatt is that rare musician who has been making individualistic, quirky soulful music for years that has managed to resonate across a broad spectrum of listener, and engage some population of more youthful listeners with each successive generation. This is a good formula for making art live. Wyatt's songs have been covered by artists such as Elvis Costello (Shipbuilding), and he can count Brian Eno, Bjork, and Fred Frith amongst his collaborators over the years. For me, Wyatt's music has always hovered in the same beautiful universe inhabited by Scott Walker's muse. Always singular, by times poignant, wistful, infused with wonder, and delivered with the direct nature and good humor of a man who probably sleeps quite well at night.

Wyatt has long collaborated with his wife Afreda (Alfie) Benge, a noted artist, lyricist and poet, who has penned the words to many of Wyatt's tunes over the years. Our mutual friend Rob Ayling, noted photographer and Voiceprint records owner (the wonderful patron of a label that releases my work…. buy all thier stuff!) put us in touch for the interview. I was glad to have this discussion, if even only over e-mail, with one of the great singular talents of this or any age.

PH Robert, you have become known as an artist's artist, in that there are many prominent artists in mainstream pop culture that like to state you as an influence, and who view your work as seminal and essential to their own development. What do you think about that?

RW Percy, my record collection is more like a dusty museum than a 21st century update. I'm embarrassed to say, I know little about what younger musicians are up to. But of course it's reassuring to hear that some of them have heard what I've been trying to do…..and I'm especially grateful to those who've used my material. Most recently the Orchestre National De France, Mop Meu Machiine (also French) and the heavenly Unthank

Sisters, not to mention Annie Whitehead's band featuring Julie Tippetts and Jennifer Maidman, Karen Mantler with John Greaves (that last project not yet available on record), and several other kind hearted people.

PH I've been listening to your recording Comicopera, and with each listen, come away with another layer of emotional connection. The story telling is rich, filmic, poignant, lyrical, and comical at times. Can you tell me a little bit about the creative process concerning the writing and recording of this album?

RW
Comicopera has several geneses. From scraps of paper with momentary thoughts onto recorded equivalents, scattered around my room-sometimes for years! The coherence comes in the editing. More than with previous records, I assumed that the pieces would take on a life of their own, without my interfering with a plan. The eventual sequence to become apparent in the studio (mostly in the last few years with the engineer I met at Phil Manzanera's studio, Jamie Johnson). And, perhaps from enjoying so many very old records, this time I really asked a lot of the musicians, I wanted to make a record of total music, not just "vocal with instrumental accompaniment", although the final order was guided by the lyrics, by what is being said. For a long time I've felt right making records with two 'sides' like records used to be. But for Comicopera, I found myself turning to the idea of music in three parts, like posh symphonies. But not very, eh?

PH It seems to me that it is often a perfect storm of circumstances that creates an audience for "difficult" artists. Pop culture is a fickle mistress, who is difficult to serve. How do you see the "canon" of your work fitting into the overall universe of all things "pop"?

RW Pop(ular) music is to me a great resource, and even One Hit Wonders can make at least one terrific record-But I'm not in the market competing for mass attention; I just have to shift enough records to earn a living. So a more apt comparison would be with a little local cafe, or baker's shop. (i.e. not the kind of retail outlet that depends on media saturation.) So when I was told that the most powerful disc-jockeys might not like Fred Frith's solo on I'm a believer my automatic reaction was, "who gives a fuck?")

PH Your particular musical gift always brings to mind our friend Fred Frith. Fred has a unique way of bending the strange around to the poignant when you least expect it. He does it through a sort of frenetic worrying torrent of sounds that break out at once into lyrical atmospherics and whimsy. You come to the poignant through seemingly indirect, observant, lyrical revelations. How do you conceive of a lyric like: "Cuckoo Madame with your teddy bear eye, yellow fingers clinging to the chain link fence. Bombers above you. Bombers behind you." ("Cuckoo Madame, from the album Cuckooland). I'm not sure what it means, but it makes me want to cry….

AB (This question was answered by Robert's Wife and Collaborator, Alfreda (Alfie) Benge)

All I can do is explain how this poem happened. The line you quote from Cuckoo Madame was a totally accurate description of what my eyes saw. While watching from the window of a seaside chalet with no-one else around. She was, as described, grasping the wire on a fence with her yellow finger-like claws. Her eyes just like a teddy bear's glass eyes. Exactly the same colours. The first time Isaw her there was a bomber exercise going on in the air. The lovely peace shattered by horrible noisy low-flying jets. She sat there with bombers swooping overhead. She came regularly twice a day for over a week. I was on my own, and she was my only visitor. My first instinct was antagonistic. I knew there was a meadow pipit nesting nearby, and I knew cuckoos often used meadow pipits nests to plant their eggs. She was the villain.

Then, I started to think about her and her life. She never saw her chick, had never seen her parents. A really solitary madam. Soon she'd be off to Africa , and later her chick would make the same journey all alone. No-one to guide it. What a lonely life. And what had happened in cuckoo history to condemn her to such a life? So I imagined being her. And remembering my first reaction, was reminded of the way people are judged without any attempt to understand them. It had recently happened to me, (it was quite traumatic) and no doubt happened to all the outsiders, strangers, foreigners that become hate figures. People who often have tragedies in their lives that we're oblivious to. Most of the stuff I do when words come first happen in a similar way. I try and look hard. That's how it starts. I try to pay real attention to something in the physical world, and often that will spark off thoughts about other things. It's like nature study with added daydreaming. But basically my eyes are OPEN. When the music comes first, I write with my eyes very SHUT, and my ears very OPEN. I Just dive into the music and try and drag out the words that are hiding in there. What film am I watching? 'Old Europe' for instance was definitely a black and white French film. The music absolutely dictates the subject matter. In Lullaby for Hamza, three notes just said 'lullaby' to me. So I wrote one for someone who needed one.

PH What has been the effect upon you of the almost total collapse of the music industry? Has your way of working, your audience, and the way your work reaches your audience helped you escape the carnage somewhat?

RW The record industry, like the leisure industry and the food industry, may boom, bust, do the hoochie-coochie, whatever, people still listen, play and eat. Been doing it for tens of thousands of years. Widespread 'free' downloading is a bit scary for us though, like all theft, naturally)

PH I am curious to know what young artists (if you listen to any) you think are creating significant work.

RW I'm well aware that there are lots of terrific musicians out there, young (and not so…) In all genres. Here and around the planet. And mass-market pop music seems as entertaining as ever- I've listened to Timbaland and Cheryl Cole, and think they're really good at what they do.(I'm not interested in the various snobberies around show-business.) It's all just people trying to do their best. There's room for all of us, I'd like to think..

PH Much like Scott Walker, you are an artist that the pop culture is always in the process of "catching up to"…it's a brilliant historical comment, but may mean that some potential benefits of the catching up will not be available until you are gone! What is your take on this phenomenon?

RW See 1 again! Plus, I know that I myself am still catching up on music from before MY time, from Plainchant (a liturgical chant form) to Paul Robeson. Even the 'originators' of British popular music as a global phenomenon based most of their original material on that of (mainly Black American) predecessors. Made it 'New', as every generation does. Or they simply spread the word, just with a different accent; it's all part of the merry dance of shared creativity.

PH Your music is quite filmic and imagistic to me. Are you a film lover? How does the imagery of life as found in film, affect your work if at all? Have you had much music placed in film?

RW Yes indeed, I admire lots of film makers, and have been particularly affected by John Cassavetes (Shadows), Eisenstein, Ozu, Eric Rohmer– and many of the more widely known film makers from early Hitchcock to Mike Leigh. And Alfie (a qualified film editor and Robert's Wife) introduced me to the wonders of many films from around the world. Um…….where were we? Oh yes. Your actual question! I see my transition from live performance to making records as like the transition from live theatre to making films, Necessity being the mother of invention in my case.

PH I've always wanted to hear a duet between you and Marianne Faithful, this may seem wacky to some, but I think it would be fantastic! What artists would you like to collaborate with that you have not thus far?

RW I choose collaborators that the piece I'm working on seems to want. There are still people I'd like to do music with though, but I don't wish to embarrass them by naming them in, as it were, public! Oh, alright then, Sinead O'Connor.

>> L'interview sur le site de A Necessary Angel

Previous article

Next article

Back to the list

ABÉCÉDAIRE

Les années Before | Soft Machine | Matching Mole | Solo | With Friends | Samples | Compilations | V.A. | Bootlegs | Reprises

HOME

Captain Bob - The Word Issue 79 - September 2009

ROBERT WYATT'S HOUSE IS RIGHT IN the middle of the Lincolnshire town of Louth, yet it's protected enough by its thick walls and beautifully tended garden to feel like it's in the middle of nowhere. It's only when I spot the tiny ceramic head - complete with a pair of glasses and a badge (Robin - The Boy Wonder!) - that sits almost unnoticed by the front door that I know for sure I have the right place. I can't imagine many other residents displaying a similar sense of the absurd. Inside the front door, just to the left, is Wyatt's studio. There's a crisply melodic jazz record playing, keyboards dotted around and a grand piano in the corner. A soft breeze rolls in from the road, rustling the curtains. Wyatt rolls down the corridor dressed all in black, his hair long and swept back, his beard trimmed and white as snow. Around him, every wall is covered with paintings - his wife Alfie is an artist and lyricist - and drawings and artworks. A cushion embroidered with the cover of his 1984 EP collection sits by the telephone. In the breakfast room there's a stack of vinyl under the CD player that I'm powerfully drawn to but never get to flick through as we move swiftly on to the garden where we sit around a big table under a cherry tree. Alfie's mother, Irena, who lived here too, died suddenly a few days ago and a huge bunch of white lilies has been placed on her favourite chair.

"There's some of me that absolutely wishes I'd either had a lobotomy or not gone to bloody grammar school," Wyatt says, a cup of tea at his elbow. "Those schools are meant to be such great institutions, but I hated the whole experience. Provincial grammar-school boys are absurdly pretentious creatures. I've always tried to match up to the art that I loved, to get that into my music. Had it not been for that desire I would have very, very happily picked up from Eddie Cochran and Neil Sedaka and just done the very best, simplest pop songs I could. I love Ray Davies and Pete Townshend and I think if I could have not thought about it all so much I would have had a very happy life."

Wyatt loves a well-crafted popular song, so I ask if he can't write them or simply doesn't want to.

"Oh, I do try to make normal records," he says. "I get very crestfallen when people say, 'That's a lovely song, Robert, it's just not pop as we know it...'"

> Zoom

NOW 64, WYATT IS A TRUE CULT FIGURE, SOMEONE who stands for more than just the music he makes. His parents were interested in art and politics and music - "They had garlic and pasta and olive oil years before it was popular!" - and he grew up with the idea that art was something that would repay the time you invested in understanding it.

"I didn't understand modern jazz or modern art," he says, "but I was open to it all." The first music he loved was on his parents'78s of Benjamin Britten and Peter Pears ("He had a lovely light vibrato"); later he bunked off school to listen to Indian classical music and bebop. Music was always pointing the way forward.

"Ornette Coleman said there was no such thing as a wrong note," he laughs. "That really excited me! What was a wrong note? What would it sound like?"

Wyatt has been making his own music for the past 46 years, ever since he joined the Daevid Allen Trio in 1963. A year later he formed The Wilde Flowers with Kevin Ayers. In 1966 the two went on to form that most delicately prog of all prog legends, Soft Machine. Eighteen months later they were touring America with Jimi Hendrix.

"Oh God, that ridiculous late-'60s idea that there was 'progressive' music," he says now, half grinning, half frowning. "How stupid to think you could be better, more progressive than Haydn or Charlie Parker or John Lee Hooker. What twats these people were. There is no progression in music or art. There's change and different people being happy in different ways, but that's it."

In June 1973, aged 28, Wyatt fell from a third-floor window during a party for Gong's Gilli Smyth. He broke his back, meaning his career as a drummer was over (when he finds out the WORD photographer Sham is the same age, Wyatt immediately counsels him on staying on the ground floor at drunken parties), but a year later he recorded a performance of his hit version of The Monkees' I'm A Believer in his wheelchair and wearing what appears to be a denim dashiki for Top Of The Pops. Before it could be broadcast the footage was "lost" by the BBC and only found 30 years later.

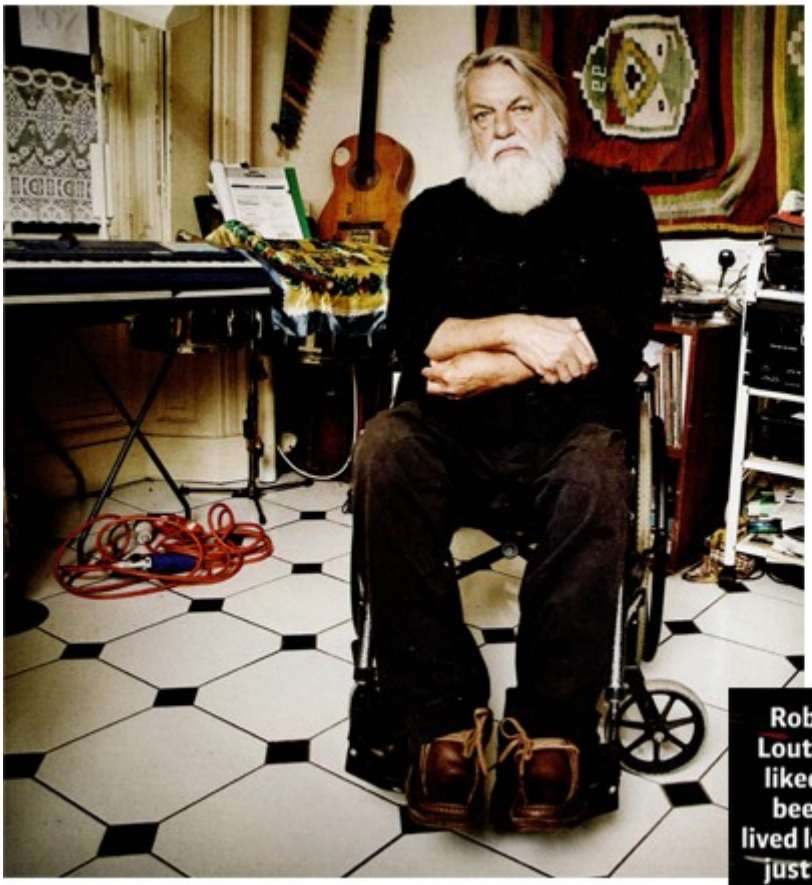
"I wanted that record to make it plain that I wasn't part of any movement that thought it had grown out of pop music," he says.

Touring was over - his last major live appearance in London was recorded and finally released as Theatre Royal Drury Lane 8 September 1974 a full 31 years after it happened. The years in between have seen seven albums - and as many compilations - of Wyatt's songs, each one endlessly inventive and full of incredible, individual ideas about how rock and pop and jazz might have sounded if history had only worked out differently, been kinder or crueller. Though the records feature friends like Brian Eno, Phil Manzanera and Paul Weller, he works primarily at home, on his own.

"I find being in any specialist group a bit claustrophobic," he says. "But sitting around with musicians is better than sitting around with other people in wheelchairs talking about urinary problems. What's really happened is as I've physically retreated I've mentally gone out into the world, but I'm not broadminded musically, I plough a furrow the same as anybody does. Making the music is a lonely place, but even more so in a group than on your own. In a group you have to negotiate the traffic otherwise you'll crash, but if it's an empty road then you don't need to worry."

> Zoom

Do you know where this music comes from, I ask.



"Not really," he says, turning the now empty cup over in his hands. "It's doesn't feel like self-expression or invention. It's more like turning on a rusty tap and seeing what happens. But then you have to monitor it, editing what comes out until you don't wince when you hear it. You are on your own just as you are when you dream - you might meet people in your dreams but you can't get to them when you wake up. There is a landscape, a place I go, it's an aural landscape. There are harmonic skies of different hues, violet and green and blue. I hear harmonies like that and I see melodic lines as little sort of Giacometti, wiry things, drawings, but it's a living place, the whole place is alive and specific to me."

IT HAS BEEN 26 YEARS SINCE WYATT LAST TROUBLED the pop charts. Shipbuilding - later described by Elvis Costello as "the best lyrics I've ever written" - was a brilliant choice of song, a political folk piece given a jazz treatment, with this beautiful waver of a voice, this tremulous tenor, floating over the top. An Old Grey Whistle Test clip from 1983 shows Wyatt looking like Fidel Castro, his eyes pulled tight shut as he sings this "piece of completely escapist light entertainment". He has never rubbed up as close to the mainstream again. "

"No!" he laughs. "But as a democrat I accept that people like stuff I don't like. I always used to think you can like what you like, but if you like Cliff Richard you're wrong - but not any more. I was completely wrong about that; I think he's a very nice man, a good guy and he's managed his career immaculately. I saw him at the Royal Command show with The Shadows [in December 2008] doing Move It and they were just terrific. I'm glad I've lived long enough to realise how good that stuff is. Same with Chuck Berry - I never liked him at all, but he's wonderful. Wherever I've not liked mainstream culture I've been wrong. I've learned that, on the whole, people are right - if they like something it's because it's good".

In 2001 Wyatt curated the Meltdown season at the Royal Festival Hall. Brett Anderson, Elvis Costello, The Residents and Gorky's Zygotic Mynci all appeared. This summer he was back on stage at his hero Ornette Coleman's own event. "Jazz is a magical idiom," he says. "It has the visceral physicality of dance music, but it features people from other cultures let loose on European instruments - pianos, trumpets, trombones, saxophones - doing things with them they weren't designed to do. Fats Waller reinvented the piano. Louis Armstrong reinvented the trumpet. Jazz has this incredible richness..."

Robert Wyatt at home in Louth: "Wherever I've not liked the mainstream I've been wrong. I'm glad I've lived long enough to realise just how good people like Chuck Berry actually are."

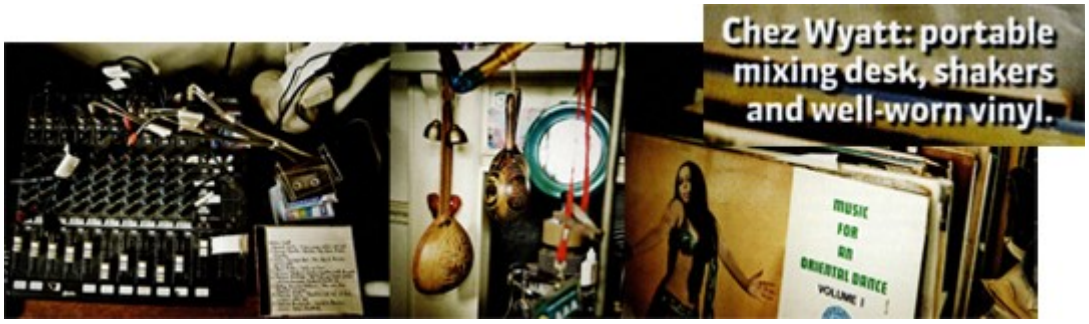
> Zoom

Meltdown is the perfect platform for someone like Wyatt, somewhere that every interest can be pursued. In the garden I mention how much I enjoyed the clip of him on stage with David Gilmour, reading Roger Waters' part from Comfortably Numb from a sheet of paper, like he'd never heard the song before. Gilmour looked delighted. "Ha! Well, David's free" Wyatt says. "He can do all the old hits, just not as we know them, but he does them. That works for him, he sees his history as a good thing, it gives him a secure base to go wherever he wants."

Would you have liked to have been in a huge band like his?

"I don't know," he says. "I'm glad the way things have worked out. I'm not on the road, so I can concentrate on new songs. I have time to work and I enjoy the freedom I have now, unencumbered by entourage and career structure."

"That ridiculous '60s notion of 'progressive' music. How can you be more progressive than Hayden or John Lee Hooker?"



"Whatever it is they want," he says, "I'm very careful to try to thwart them at every step of the way. I don't want to be cornered. People say they can always tell my voice, so one day I'll release a record called something like The Lost Tapes Of East Van Solihull and I'll do a series of songs in other people's voices. I'll start with PJ Proby and move out from there. But nobody sets out to be a 'cult' artist - I certainly didn't. I know people who go on the road and if they don't do the big hits they get booed, and that must be terrible. I don't have that problem as I don't have any big hits, but that's OK. That's freed me up."

THE SUN HAS DROPPED AND THE TAXI TAKING US back to Market Rasen station sits idling outside. What is it that keeps you going, I ask as I pack up my bag.

"I suppose I always want another try at getting it right," he says, pulling on his white beard. "There are all these ideas left in the head - that's what keeps me going. I was brought up to think artists should behave badly because they were artists, but that's crap. Coltrane and Eric Dolphy behaved impeccably. I thought that behaving badly, getting drunk and being appalling and embarrassing was part of the licence that went with the musician's gig. Well, I was wrong and in my life I have had to learn first, then live. Even now there is lots of stuff I regret about how I am as a person, but, y'know, I'm not dead yet. There's still time to get it right."

A box-set of all nine Robert Wyatt albums plus his EPs is available now on Domino.

Story by Rob Fitzpatrick - Portrait by Shamil Tanna.

Previous article

Next article

Back to the list

ABÉCÉDAIRE

Les années Before | Soft Machine | Matching Mole | Solo | With Friends | Samples | Compilations | V.A. | Bootlegs | Reprises

HOME

An Audience with... Robert Wyatt - Uncut N° 242 - March 2009

AN AUDIENCE WITH...

ROBERT WYATT

The multi-talented former Soft Machinist answers back about war, whisky, Red Wedge and 'Wyatting'. Interview by John Lewis

Robert Wyatt is sitting in the front room of his townhouse in Louth, Lincolnshire. He's slightly exhausted after having some of his grandchildren over for Christmas. 'What kind of granddad am I?' he ponders. 'Well, I can be jumped on and forced to do anything. I just sort of sit there and I hope to accumulate gravitas by not showing resistance.'

But the 64-year-old is certainly not entering his dotage; instead he's enjoying what he describes as 'an Indian summer of work'. In the past 18 months he's collaborated with Billy Bragg, Hot Chip, Mike Skinner, David Gilmour, French pop god Bertrand Burgalat, Brazilian singer Monica Vasconcelos, German electronica maverick Barbara Morgenstern, David Byrne/Brian Eno and his old Soft Machine sidekick Kevin Ayers (the last two virtual collaborations in cyberspace). Oh, he's also released the acclaimed Comicopera, and found time to oversee the re-release of almost his entire back-catalogue on Domino.

"Still, it all feels so silly being an artist when the Israeli army are sending tanks into Gaza," he says, in a rare moment of glumness. "It seems such a whimsical occupation. What did you do in the war, daddy? Oh, I expressed my deep melancholy. Yeah, right. Fuck off!"

You always seem to have a cigarette on the go. How has it affected your voice?
Garry, Manchester
Oh yeah, they've probably knocked out about half an octave from my top range. But I'm quite happy now singing at the lower end. It's nice down there. The weird thing is that, although people say I've got a high voice, it's never actually been that high-pitched. Technically, I'm a baritone [starts playing a middle C on the piano and sings along]. I can get to about a fifth above middle C. But it's a light voice. It's a bit like Gerry Mulligan, he plays the baritone sax so lightly that you don't notice how deep the notes are. Same with Lester Young on the tenor- people think he's playing alto. It's very deceptive.

You were at the launch of Red Wedge in 1985, which surprised a lot of people. Why?
Sam, Swansea
I thought the people involved were really nice. Billy Bragg, Paul Weller, Jerry Dammers, Jimmy Sommerville - I like them all very much and I wanted to express solidarity with them. Billy is a practical person. He deals with what can be done in the real world with the real House of Lords, and so on.

Politically, I'm somewhere else, in some strange dreamland. But, occasionally, I live in the real world, too, and I also want to make things better. My involvement was counterproductive, of course. I think it was The Sun who discredited Red Wedge, saying, "It pretends to be a reasonable: democratic organisation, but it's supported by that communist Robert Wyatt..." So, sorry lads! I'll get back to Twickenham and twiddle my knobs...

When was the last time music made you cry?
Bertrand Burgalat
The tenor sax solo on "Stolen Moments" by Oliver Nelson had me hot behind the eyes when I heard it the other day. It's such an angelic and singing thing. Actually, Bertrand's music gets me a bit

STAR QUESTION

You covered the Chic song, "At Last I Am Free". How did you come across that?
Paul Weller
In the late '70s, the only radio station I listened to, apart from Radio Moscow, was Radio London, because they used to play a lot of black dance music, and I was just staggered by how good it was. Most people who listen to dance music do so communally, on a dancefloor, but I was listening on my own, in isolation, on headphones. There was much beauty in that stuff, even the ballads like "At Last I Am Free", which some people regarded as album fillers. Sometimes the production on those disco tracks was so polished that you can miss that it was actually a very human music with a lot of frailty. So my version of Chic is a bit like, say, Cilla Black doing Bacharach – it's done in a much more gauche way, but it brings out something else in the tune.

teary sometimes. He contacted Alfie to write some lyrics for him, which was great. Then I ended up singing on one of his tracks. Bertrand is a real one-off. It's not an English phenomenon, the Serge Gainsbourg-style writer, producer, auteur, but he's brilliant at it.

What's your favourite Dionne Warwick song?
Evan Parker
People will be surprised that Evan, a great, avant-garde saxophonist, is also a big Dionne Warwick fan, someone who filled in some of the gaps in my Bacharach collection. But the thing about musicians is that they're not corralled into ideological ghettos the way their fans are. "You'll Never Get To Heaven (If You Break My Heart)" comes to mind [starts singing the entire chorus}. It's an absolute knockout, a real bossa nova thing, but with wonderful harmonies. There aren't many song writers who match up to the great days of Cole Porter and Gershwin and so on, but Bacharach does.

There was a rumour that you were working with Mike Skinner - is that happening?
Jamaal, New York
We did record some stuff, but I don't think it was finished in time to go on his album. He came up to Lincolnshire, just him and his box of tricks. We went into the studio where I recorded Dondestan and other things, and sang on a track he'd written, which was really good I met him when we were both shortlisted for the Mercurys - along with Franz Ferdinand, Amy Winehouse, that nice English blues singer Joss Stone and The Croutons, or whatever they're called. They're all very good, but I thought he should win, as he'd already reached a mature, innovative musical identity. Even the way he speaks on record betrays a wonderful sense of musicality.

STAR QUESTION

I often recall something we would from time to time discuss over cups of tea in our happy little Dulwich home that, in our dreams of when pop success might come our way, we would all buy houses in warm and sunny spots abroad. I was the only one to do this. I wonder why? Kevin Ayers
Kevin was born in Malaya and spent his childhood swimming in idyllic rock pools, so I can understand that he wanted to move somewhere hot and Mediterranean. I never did. Alfie [Benge, Wyatt's wife] would quite like to move to Spain, but I'm never really aware of my surroundings. I'm quite happy here. It's not that I'm particularly proud of being English, although I'd happily counteract any idiotic BNP notion of Englishness with a list of things that I love that just happen to be English, be it our love of nature or Winnie The Pooh or The Beatles or The Unthank Sisters or TV comedies like The IT Crowd. But geography really isn't that important to me.

What was your tipple of choice when you were a drinker?

Simon, Nottingham
Towards the end of my drinking career, I'd moved on from vodka and whisky. I think, stuck on my own, with nothing to live for, my desert island barrel would be very, very good whisky. But, about a year-and-a-half ago, I was advised to go to AA meetings, which I did. In terms of ticking the boxes, I'd definitely become an alcoholic, which means that when you start drinking you can't stop. I went for months and months of meetings, and I've completely stopped now. I do miss it, but I also apologise profusely if I have behaved appallingly to anyone over the last 50 years when I was drunk.

What do you love about Winnie The Pooh?
Pierre, Bournemouth
I maintain that the greatest crime committed by America - with the possible exception of the carpet-bombing of Laos - was the Disneyfication of Winnie The Pooh. But the characters in those original books are wonderful. I relate to Pooh, the way you can almost hear his brain struggling, the pleasure he gets from articulating such simple thoughts. Then there's Eeyore, who is such a splendidly depressive figure, the kind of person Hollywood would never create. Most of all, I like the sly dig at people who profess to be wise in the form of Owl, or "Wol", as he spells it. I think that anybody, whenever they look at a silly judge or priest or mullah or rabbi or politician, or any stupid bearded git who gives himself gravitas - including myself! - should remember that there's a bit of Wol there.

With Billy Bragg at the Red Wedge launch, 1985

With Loudon Wainwright III circa '74, and (inset above) with Brian Eno and Jools Holland at the Mercury Music Prize awards, September 2004

British rock'n'roll drummers - Charlie Watts, Keith Moon, Mitch Mitchell, Ginger Baker, yourself - were always frustrated jazz drummers. Discuss.
Charley, Dundee
Well, I'm not sure. I don't think they need or should go together. I think that rock musicians tend to make clunky and old-fashioned jazz drummers, and jazz drummers tend to make rather effete and precious rock drummers. I don't think they're that good at each other's jobs, on the whole. Ringo Starr was happy doing whatever he was happy doing, and was all the better for it. However, Ginger Baker was a jazz drummer who crossed over: I saw him play with the Graham Bond Organisation, featuring Dick Heckstall-Smith, and it was an absolutely phenomenal band. Same with Mitch Mitchell: I'm a bit biased because we were quite close friends, but he sailed perfectly from playing in Georgie Fame-style jazz bands to heavy rock with Hendrix. But with, say, John Bonham and Alan White - I don't hear much jazz in either of them but, gosh, you don't get too many better rock drummers than either of them.

STAR QUESTION

Which jazz musician influenced you the most?

Phil Manzanera, Roxy Music

Melodically, it's Miles Davis. Whenever I'm writing a tune or improvising, I think, 'Would Miles think that's a stupid note?' And if he would, I won't use it. That's the Miles in my head, of course, a tiny figure compared to the giant in real life. I also love Charlie Mingus' drummer, Dannie Richmond. But Jimmy Cobb is my biggest influence as a drummer. He plays on Kind Of Blue, and his style is essential to why that LP achieves lift-off. He formed a way of playing ride cymbals with the Count Basie band that was very even, no fucking around, just 1, 2, 3, 4. He'll put in the odd Roy Haynes-style crack or wallop, but his skill was, as Philly Joe Jones said, about "appreciating the length of the note you're playing". That sounds odd for a drummer to say, but it's very profound.

What was Ivor Cutler like?

Karen, Tooting, London

I'd known him for some time - we'd often get solo artists to support us at Soft Machine gigs, so it would be Loudon Wainwright or John Williams or Ivor. We became great friends. He used to visit us, almost weekly, when we lived in Twickenham, as he used to visit Kew Gardens with his mate, Phyllis, and they used to stop off at our place for sandwiches and cups of tea and listen to Bulgarian folk music, then off they'd go. He was wonderful company, funny, clever, very entertaining. He did me a big favour by singing on Rock Bottom, as he never usually sings other people's words. The song he sang required a kind of Scots Jamaican accent, which only he could do. He was very polite about it. He only left out one syllable.

How do you feel about inspiring the concept of "Wyatting" - where pranksters hijack pub jukeboxes and play "difficult" records to baffled patrons?

Richard, Crosby, Merseyside

I wouldn't do it. I've never tried to get myself heard where I'm not wanted. I just make records for the kind of people who like the kind of records I make. It's as simple as that. I've never had any need to reach beyond that or to make people listen to me or to expand my audience. There's plenty of music for everybody. If I was in a pub I'd put on a Girls Aloud record, or whatever anyone else wanted to hear. The last time I put stuff on a jukebox. I put on some Ray Charles. I wouldn't have thought that was offensive to anybody!

STAR QUESTION

What approach were you taking to music-making while making Old Rottenhat and the "Work In Progress" EP?

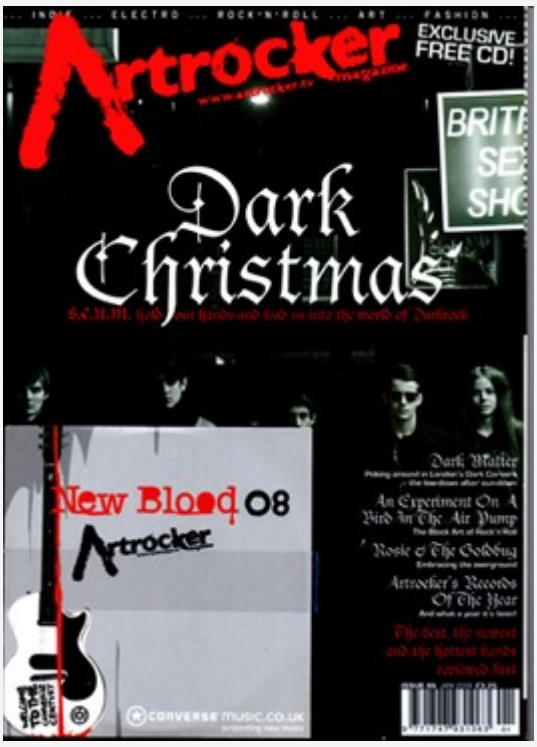
Alexis Taylor, Hot Chip

By that time, towards the mid-'80s, I was listening to Radio Moscow and going to Kurdish and Palestinian Liberation meetings. I was unsure if other musicians would go along with where I'd got to, politically and didn't want to embarrass them into playing tunes where they disapproved of the lyrics. We were short of funds and I was trying to do things almost entirely on my own. There may have been a bit of paraplegic politics in it, in honesty, to see what I could do unaided. So the music was simple, reduced to bare bones, and ideas and lyrics were distilled to their essence.

Previous article

Next article

Back to the list



ABÉCÉDAIRE

Les années Before | Soft Machine | Matching Mole | Solo | With Friends | Samples | Compilations | V.A. | Bootlegs | Reprises

HOME

Robert Wyatt Revelatory Revolutionary - Artrocker - issue 85 - January 2009

ROBERT WYATT REVELATORY REVOLUTIONARY

Robert Wyatt was born in the south of England at the end of the Second World War and therefore probably qualifies to be your grandad. He may be the oldest living and currently recording credible artist to be featured in this column. The bulk of his albums have just been reissued by the cool folks at Domino Records, home of Franz Ferdinand and a ton of other Artrocker faves. Presented with nine albums (plus more not on Domino but equally as vital), how do you decide which ones to buy / blag / download / steal / ignore?? Ain't no search engine can help you better than the living breathing Hauser O'Brien who analyses Robert Wyatt's glittering career below.

The Soft Machine (1968-1970) The End Of An Ear (1970)

In the late 1960s (mainly) English psych jazz rock avant gardeners Robert Wyatt (drums, vox), Kevin Ayers (bs, vox), Mike Ratledge (kybds), Hugh Hopper (bs) phoned up obscure cult deadpan cut-up author William S. Burroughs and asked him if they could nick the title of his abstract sci-fi novel follow up to Naked Lunch for the name of their band (which is more than I ever did). 'Yes' said Uncle Bill.

The first two Soft Machine albums featured a rapidly changing dreamscape mixture of out-of-step yet prescient pop songs from another world. Their curious melanges of music hall Beatles chansons, sad beatific balladeering, psychedelic rock, squeaky free improvised noise and far out jazz stylings, recorded mainly at the bottom of a muddy pond, fit right in there with the early Brits Floyd and kosmiches Faust. But with no guitar.

By the time of the cunningly titled 'Third' and, ahem, 'Fourth', they had lost pop monster Kevin Ayers and moved on to (vinyl) side-long improvisations, things of strangeness, beauty (and charm). Still with no guitar. Wyatt's incredibly rhythmic timekeeping backlined a driving pileup of revolution and beauty. The band inevitably became a self-indulgent wankfest - or an essential cog in the wheel of British progressive jazz fusion, depending on how you look at it, after Wyatt left in 1970 to follow up work on his 'side project' solo album, 'The End Of An Ear'.

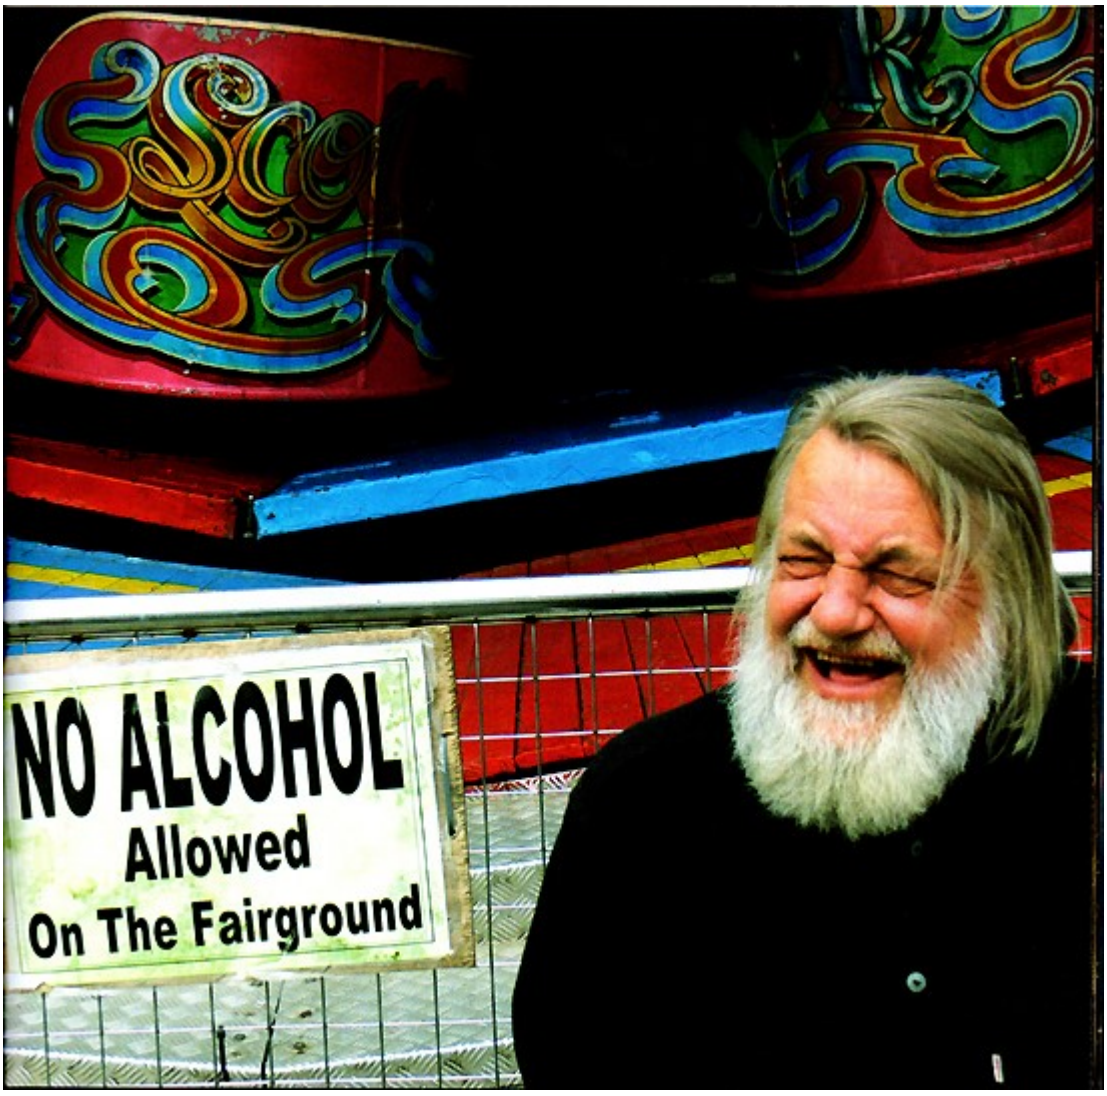
There's a reason he billed himself as an 'out of work pop singer' you know. Removed from the apparently stifling band scenario Wyatt produced a stunning recording of great beauty, a collision of strange furry creatures, children's piano, wordless vocal cornets, spiralling ecstatic ritual, tension, release and full on tribute poems to his roots. Thudding stomping jazz-rock instrumentals, soundtracks to journeys into the back of his mind, 'The End Of An Ear' is a bridge between an age rooted in itself, the 1960s, and a body of work that is timeless and fruitful. While The Soft Machine created noise art, this bridge takes Wyatt's music into a world of weird pop. Join us. Still no guitars by the way.

Rock Bottom (1974)



As any schoolboy knows, Robert Wyatt fell out of a window at a party in 1973 and has ever since been in a wheelchair. This would normally be a problem as using one's feet is usually considered to be integral to the process of drumming. However Mr Wyatt knows that drumming is not always about drums. As The Slits squawked, 'silence is a rhythm too'. And a piano is a set of 88 tuned drums. And a voice don't need no legs. And what a voice. We have to go on about his voice. Wyatt's voice. His unique timbre (you can always tell it's him). His southern accent. The way it swirls and dips and dives and wanders. The journeys around the world of music it takes, nabbing ideas from freeform doowop, sliding up a helter skelter to the stars, snatching a hook from a choirboy and swerving thru a muttering homeless hostel, ending up in a blues bar in the deep South with a chanting audience of African jazzers. Flying free, escaping the rules of normal vocalising. There before Bjork, a jazz voice made Artrock. This conceptual piece of communal personal exploration and grounds all Robert Wyatt's future work in a one-off template that probably is one of the closest examples of'art' representing 'life'. Or something. And one guitar, courtesy of hairy Tubular Bell Mike Oldfield, on one track, the stunning six minute closer, 'Little Red Robin Hood Hit The Road', segueing away into the curious poetic Highland meanderings of Ivor Cutler. Rock Bottom also heralds the appearance of his muse, sleeve artist and co-worker Alfreda Benge, an unbroken thread throughout his work. If you want to know about how to make a personal statement, get this album. In the great seventies rock tradition, most of this album can be found in extended wild live versions on Domino release, Theatre Royal Drury Lane'.

Ruth Is Stranger Than Richard (1975)

A game of two halves, 'Ruth Is Stranger Than Richard' comprises mostly a collection of covers. One of Wyatt's skills throughout his career is in reinterpreting other people's work (gotta be different - or better - or both). It doesn't matter a jot if you don't know the original version of Mongezi Feza's 'Sonia'. Just dig Wyatt's beatific shining vocal and the song's loping twisting rhythms. Kind of world art jazz rock. Not such an exciting personal experiment as it's predecessor, but still worthy nonetheless. And you can read into the word 'worthy' whatever you please.

Nothing Can Stop Us (1981)

And then it went on hold for a while. Wyatt wasn't to release another solo elpee until the middle 1980s. The only thing to keep the rabid fans at bay was a series of singles on Rough Trade cunningly created and curated to give credibility to this wonderful secret of English crumbling culture commentary. Wyatt cast off his vision and seer hat of the seventies and truly donned his political ideologue hat. The offkilter a capella (plus harmonium)barbershop quartet in a freaky hall of mirrors of 'Born Again Cretin' was a swerveball recognised by the artier postpunks. Chic's 'At Last I Am Free' is a weepy fragile eggshell. 'Stalin Wasn't Stallin", hails how the Bear beat former ally, the Beast of Berlin and heralds a multitude of left wing songs to come throughout Wyatt's future work including 'Red Flag' in case you didn't quite get the drift. 'Nothing Can Stop Us' is a primer in student revolution. In the eighties every student home had to have one. Now it's almost a missive from ancient history. During this period he had a hit with Elvis Costello's anti-Falklands War protest song, 'Shipbuilding', which can be found amongst a collection of EPs in this reissue frenzy.

Old Rottenhat (1985) Dondestan (1991) Dondestan [Revisited] (1993)

'Old Rottenhat' is a serious collection of perfect iron fist/velvet glove works. His gentle falsetto rides over undulating keyboards, singing of a message of revolution, anti-Western sentiment, left wing hooks all tied up with a bow of comradely whisting. Casio keyboards and drum machines wind down the road of excess, pointing out its failings and our duties. Every note, every harmony, every melody vital and pure. If you want church music but don't want religion, this is your bag.

'Dondestan (Revisited)' is a revised version of a previous album, released when the money ran out and then revisioned and reversioned by the revelatory revolutionary. Some melancholia, some plangent loneliness, some agitation, a lot of ... space. Every note a winner, if you want to sit and weep to a ballad to the fallen, a paean to freedom, or a dark journey through your very soul. Still no guitars, by the way. Sorry about that.

Shleep (1997) Cuckooland (2003) Comicopera (2007)

And so, to the part where Captain Bob cheers up a bit, drops some of the revolutionary styling, and makes some darn pop music. With guitars. Really. Naturally not everything on his most recent three albums is upful and jumpin'. 'Shleep' passes like a dream, not surprisingly given old ambient pal and Artrocker hero Eno's involvement amongst a tribe of famous friends. Quite possibly the funniest Dylan tribute ever appears, in 'Blues In Bob Minor'. 'Cuckooland' is an excursion around the bars and musical styles of the world, smoky jazz, synth'd chorale, dramatic compositions that would happily sit amongst the characters of a David Lynch movie, while 'Comicopera' is perhaps one of the most, ahem, accessible albums of his lengthy career. Much more could, and should, be said about this incredible body of work. All you can do is go and explore. Pick up a smash hit collection ('His Greatest Misses' is a pretty good catch-all) or raid your local library. Smash and grab your cool friend's collection. Give Wyatt a listen. You'll be converted, convinced, or feel conned. Whichever way, every path is worth following.

Previous article

Next article

Back to the list

ABÉCÉDAIRE

Les années Before | Soft Machine | Matching Mole | Solo | With Friends | Samples | Compilations | V.A. | Bootlegs | Reprises

HOME

Robert Wyatt Interviewed: The Quietus Salutes An English Treasure - Thequietus.com - December 19th, 2008

The QUIETUS
WWW.THEQUIETUS.COM

Quietus Artists Of 2008

Robert Wyatt Interviewed: The Quietus Salutes An English Treasure

In an in-depth interview, Robert Wyatt talks to Jonny Mugwump about his life and political beliefs, getting nervous when recording with Bjork, and the importance of imperfection in music

One of the highlights of the Quietus' year was Domino's reissuing of the entire Robert Wyatt solo back catalogue, an almighty treasure trove of delights from one of Britain's truly outstanding and unique artists. He is, of course, gifted with one of the most sublime and idiosyncratic voices that was a real pleasure to hear wafting from my telephone receiver bright and early one morning...

Are you an early riser Robert?

"As a matter of fact yes. I was up at 5 this morning."

What do you do - do you go straight to work?

"Oh, I'm just panicking. Dawn panic is my speciality. Then I get up and watch strange late night drifting into morning TV programs and then maybe I try and go to sleep again for another couple of hours, but I'll still be up at 7 or 8."

So what are your working hours then?

"Early to rise, early to bed - I work peasant hours. The first job I ever had was working in a forest where you have to be in the forest at 4.30 or 5 in the morning and you have to get up in the dark. Obviously you have to finish when the light goes which in the winter can be as early as 3.30, and then lunchtime used to be about 9.30 in the morning. That's my time still. In them olden days [laughs] before artificial light, then people had to live by the daylight - I feel that I'm a throwback to more primitive times anyway."

Wyatt could be nothing other than English. He is a product of ancient traditions and the industrial revolution. His voice feels part of the landscape; of sweetly melancholy open fields and moorland. I offer that the English landscape is at its finest in the morning.

"Yes, it's quite a secretive place. The world is so very different in the morning. In cities, if you're coming home from somewhere you can hear echoing streets and when you see the first commuters going to work and you're totally distant from that - you feel part of a different world and that can be very magical."

And the voice, your singing style seems plugged into those older cultures that sometimes can become apparent in these moments...

"I try and strip away various habits and mannerisms which popular singing has acquired. Accidents and habits occur and so styles change, which is of course necessary. But the first songs I ever sang were Victorian adaptations of folk songs which isn't the same thing as folk songs themselves but this is what I grew up with. We had a friend called James Reeves who collected these kinds of songs and there was a political element to it in the first part of the 20th century, you know reclaiming people's culture and that kind of thing. It wasn't so overtly political, though, more implied in the mere fact of taking this culture seriously.

"When I try and sing it's like a process of elimination and I try and avoid doing anything that I don't think is necessary. I feel like I work in a very primitive way. I like to know what the notes are, what the words are and what the most effective way of getting them across is. It's important that I try not to perform in an actorly kind of way and obviously some people must find that easy to work with. I try and recede as a character and almost disappear behind the note and the word rather than stand in the front trying to wave myself at everybody."

I suggest that this might partly be down to rock being the more minor influence in Robert's history. Even when touring with Hendrix, Soft Machine at their loudest were at the very least one half jazz outfit and that's certainly the closest that he's ever sailed to those shores.

"Well, In the mid 60s I was in a dance band, singing and drumming and I was actually trying to sound like Van Morrison. When I hear these tapes if it wasn't for the fact that my name was on it I really wouldn't know it was me. I did try and do that stuff and never very convincingly and I didn't start finding me own voice until I started singing my own songs and it's not even a decision, it's just what happens after that."

And, going back to your voice, you've collaborated with many artists from quite a range of genres.

"I never seek collaborations other with than the musicians who play on my own records. I get asked often but I don't always say yes but I am surprised by some of the people who ask me to work with them. And I don't see any barriers between genres as such. You know, if you compare John Lennon to Mendelssohn it's quite simple that Lennon is a better composer and I just like him more. It doesn't matter that one is classical and the other is pop. But I'm always surprised at who wants to work with me, always flattered. And it's strange as I don't feel like a particularly flexible musician but it obviously suits some people and it's always nice for me as it stretches me and puts me into musical situations that I wouldn't have been able to think of myself."

One of my favourite vocals of yours was with mid the mid 90s pastoral techno outfit Ultramarine - the 'Kingdom' single and then further vocals on the sadly forgotten but truly excellent United Kingdoms album.

"Oh yes. Geoff Travis from Rough Trade introduced them to me and they gave me some lyrics that they had found which is in fact one of the earliest songs I'd ever sung. They were from the middle of the nineteenth century, early industrial revolutionary songs which was funny as what Ultramarine were doing was so new. I came up with a tune that would work with them and sang it and just thought I would give it a go and they put it out on their record."

And you had a recent notable collaboration with Bjork on the Medulla album. She's somebody who I feel you have many similarities with. You both tap into older traditions and skim across genres and manage to make highly idiosyncratic pop music that no matter what more experimental influences are at work still remains pop.

"Well thank you, yes. I was very touched and amazed that Bjork got in touch with us and that she came down here to record for a weekend. I just sang everything I could and put it all down on tape and in some ways wish I had sung less but I was very nervous so I just sang my little socks off. And it was lovely to have her in the house, it was very magical and she was everything you could have wished for. Her approach to things is just so entirely unlimited and open."

I think something that marks out your career is a sense of intimacy and the feel of them having a home-recorded quality Does this go back to Rock Bottom and the situation you were forced into because of the accident [when Robert fell out of a window and broke his back leaving him permanently wheelchair-bound] or was this a more conscious decision and change in style anyway form your previous work with both Soft Machine and Matching Mole?

"Well, Alfie was working in Venice on a film set [Don't Look Now] and I went with her and she had a keyboard which is what I wrote the majority of Rock Bottom on and then we got home and I was living in her little flat and I just had a notebook, a tape recorder and a keyboard, music was much simpler those days [laughs]. People assume it was written after the accident but that's not the case at all. But essentially, I can't remember which parts were written when but it's a lot more detached in my mind from the real life circumstances. People tend to think its a lot more anecdotal than it actually is and that it was about my physical circumstances but its not as straightforward as that. I was only affected in the obvious sense of not being able to play drums or have a band anymore and in the end it was liberating as I had the freedom of not being in a group. And this is all good for the record, as you have to pay attention to the keyboard, the singing and the songs.

"Paul Klee has this analogy of a tree taking root in the soil and taking up water and chemicals and it comes out with whatever plants and leaves its going to come out with, depending on the chemicals. But also if the tree is an apple tree then it's going to come out with apples. The hospital experience and coming out of there was a mind over matter thing, though, and in the end I felt like it was just another silly practical thing I had to deal with. Obviously I had to get used to being in a wheelchair and everything, but otherwise I didn't let it get to me."

In the 70s your music began to become more explicitly political (although not entirely so). Why did this come about?

"Well I had always been politically motivated anyway but in the 70s I found a vicious drift to the right in the press and in politics. I'd been brought up in Post War Britain and this felt like a very positive time as it seemed that fascism had been beaten and we had a free health service and free education systems. I was born into this, so to see this return of nastiness and racism shocked me quite a bit. As things drifted more to the right I drifted more to the left.

"On the whole, I feel that the right wing forces have won and the left wing failed or fell into self-contradiction or whatever but I still feel a lot of victories were won for what we were fighting for. There's much less colour prejudice now, more tolerance and things like fair trade are a lot more prominent - animal welfare and things like that are no longer the preserve of fringe academia and are part of a daily debate. A person like Nelson Mandela being released was very important. But the fact is that the world is still run by rich investors and the old colonial countries in their guise of super-powers are still screwing the Third World and hiding behind this façade of bringing democracy to the heathen masses, which is obviously really depressing."

Did you hear about the recent BNP thing when all their identities were revealed online?

"Yeah I found that quite entertaining in a way. I mean they're not a serious political force but they were very scary in the 80s. I love the way that the bloke who runs it suddenly says: 'Well now you can see that we're in all in respectable jobs like teaching and the police', and everybody else is 'Well yeah, that's actually the problem mate' and they're bizarrely trying to show that they're not just working class or something. What a funny bunch. I mean they like to be exclusive in the old-fashioned sense and you know if they want to set up some peculiar incestuous whites-only enclave [laughing] then let them y'know, just don't let them anywhere near any kind of governmental system."

Your music is always in motion. It is always you but you restlessly play around, using familiar and unfamiliar musicians.

"I don't play live once I've done a song and 'cos I don't perform it over and over again for another six months, it's one way to keep myself interested. Even though I record in Phil's [Manzera] studio, the albums are homemade; they're not machine-tooled to the point of mechanical abstracts. I like paintings and I like seeing sticky marks on the painting so you can see the physical reality within the canvas. That can be a huge problem within classical music where the perfection becomes clinical. It's almost counter-productive to clean off every little speck of dust. Music doesn't come from a conscious narrative thing – it's not an analytical thing or at least it isn't for me - it comes from somewhere different like the world of dreams. You see, I like the fact that you're a person in sound trying to reach somebody else through sound and if you lose the imperfections you lose that human touch I think."

Jonny Mugwump

Previous article

Next article

Back to the list

ABÉCÉDAIRE

Les années Before | Soft Machine | Matching Mole | Solo | With Friends | Samples | Compilations | V.A. | Bootlegs | Reprises

HOME

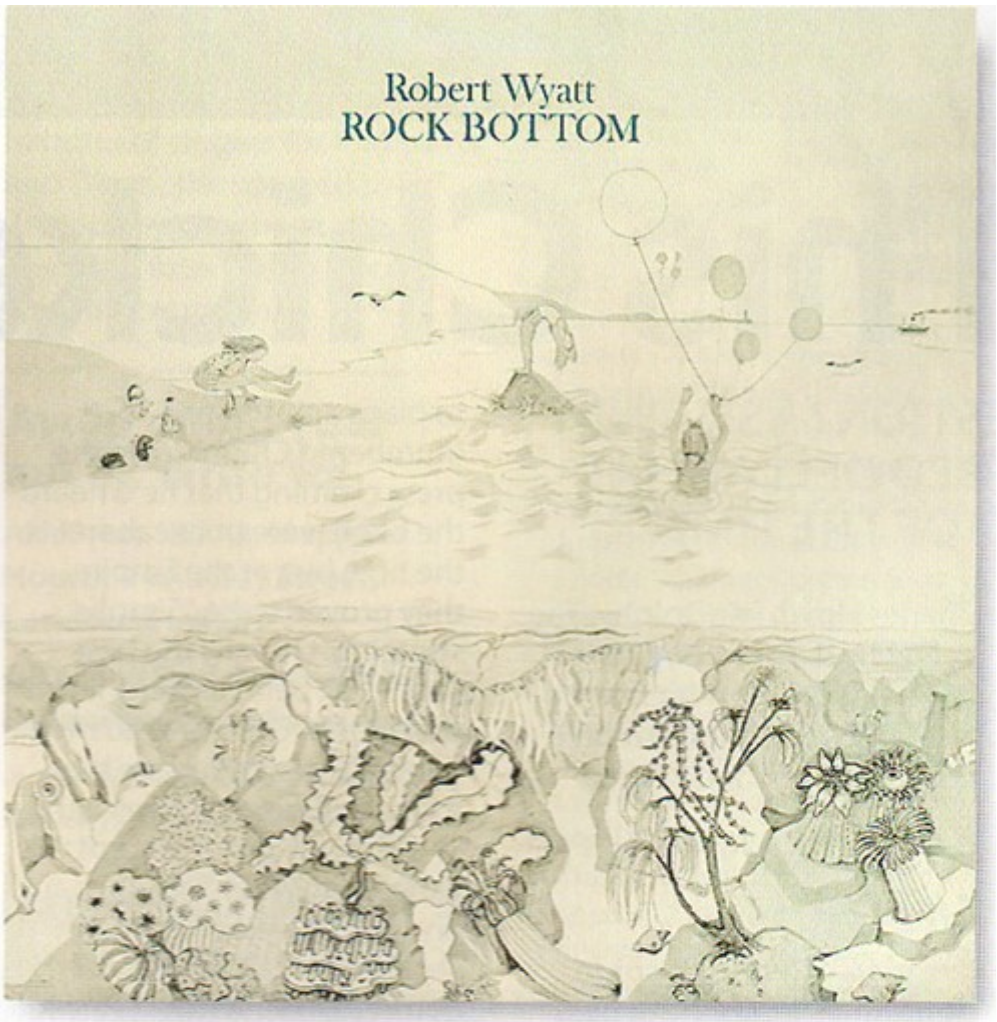
Art-Rock's Grumpy Comedian - Mojo - december 2008

ART-ROCK'S GRUMPY COMEDIAN

By his own admission, Robert Wyatt's career has been a summation of his influences, from the outer reaches of jazz, to Ray Charles, Buddy Holly, and music from across the globe. "The underlying ideology of the kind of rock I was involved in was that we started out simple and we got dead clever" he says. "But I was brought up with dead clever. Since then I've been trying to get really simple."

As a child, Wyatt was encouraged to explore literature and music by his left-leaning, culturally enlightened parents. As a young drummer and singer he played in Canterbury band The Wilde Flowers and established himself in Soft Machine from 1966 until 1971. When he fell while climbing out of a window at a party in 1973 and became paralysed from the waist down, it spelt the end for the new line-up of his band Matching Mole, and his career as a kit drummer.

But luckily he was also a talented vocalist, keyboard player and songwriter, which he demonstrated on his first post-accident solo album, Rock Bottom, in 1974. Since then, his output has been a source of delight and fascination; his left-wing politics have never been far from the surface, but his consternation at human behaviour has been balanced by a peculiar Joie de vivre, and since the'90s an increasing number of his lyrics have been written by his partner - and album sleeve designer - Alfreda Benge. His choice of musical collaborators has included Ivor Cutler, Paul Weller, Annie Whitehead and Hugh Hopper, and he has additionally guested with such artists as Ben Watt, Ultramarine and, most recently, French popster Bertrand Burgalat.



With his back catalogue reissued this month by the Domino label, it's time again to listen to Wyatt's lisping, pure-toned vocal style, memorably described by Ryuichi Sakamoto as the "saddest voice in the world".

Broadcasting from the gnome service: Robert Wyatt, one of the good guys.

Robert Wyatt

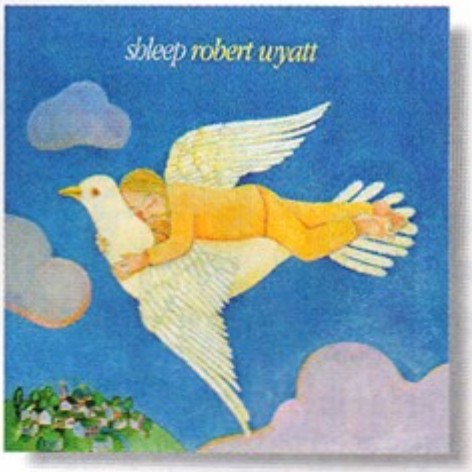
ART-ROCK'S GRUMPY COMEDIAN.
BY MIKE BARNES

1 Robert Wyatt
Rock Bottom

VIRGIN 1974, REISSUE DOMINO REWIGCD40 2008, £12

You say: "It's a musical trip into neverland and beyond." Mystic, mojo4music

An album of great originality, freewheeling musical invention and broad emotional range – albeit fed through Wyatt's allusive lyrical lexicon – and with some lovely tunes, Rock Bottom is a desert island disc for the Wyatt aficionado and deserves to be heard by everyone. Although inextricably linked to, and recorded after, Wyatt's accident, all the songs were composed beforehand. Produced by Pink Floyd's Nick Mason, it's a luxuriant world of childlike innocence – going back even further on the pre-speech syllables of Alifib – evoking a peculiar mix of joy and unease. Mike Oldfield, bass guitarist Richard Sinclair and drummer Laurie Allen all make telling contributions.



3 Robert Wyatt

Ruth Is Stranger Than Richard

VIRGIN 1975, REISSUE DOMINO REWIGCD41 2008, £12

You say: "A blissful record, a favourite since its release." David Squires, mojo4music

Darker than Rock Bottom, Ruth is hallmarked by brooding, melancholy songs and instrumentals. On Soup Song, the hapless protagonist hopes a "tummy ache will bring you to your knees" as Gary Windo spits out an acidic tenor solo. The violent, symbiotic relationship between the characters in Team Spirit reads like Samuel Beckett, while Brian Eno's treatments and George Khan's wig-lifting sax solo create an energised, blasted soundscape. Respite comes with trumpeter Mongezi Feza's joyous instrumental, Sonia, and the hypnotic, incantatory Solar Flares.

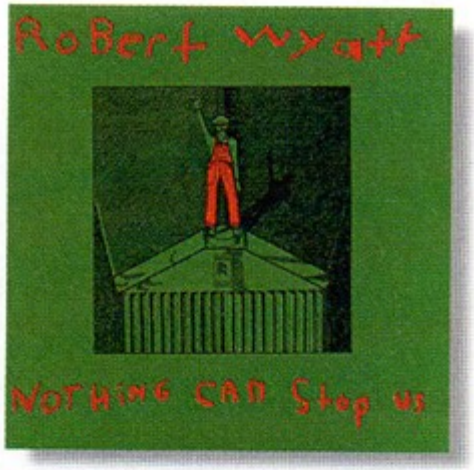
2 Robert Wyatt

Shleep

HANNIBAL 1997, REISSUE DOMINO REWIGCD45, £12

You say: "Beautiful, powerful collection, cohesively satisfying." WyattHarp, mojo4music

Wyatt's first for six years, Shleep was a revelation, a warm-blooded collection of songs, and lighter in mood than much of his '80s work. There was more of a pop sensibility on show, especially on Heeps Of Sheeps, written with Alfreda Benge and Brian Eno, and an unusually upbeat song about insomnia. The Duchess is a deliciously droll portrait of Benge featuring improvising saxophonist Evan Parker, and Blues In Bob Minor is a nod of sorts to Dylan's Subterranean Home-sick Blues. Wyatt had rediscovered the cornet, which he plays in animated fashion on September The Ninth.



4 The Soft Machine

Vols. 1&2

PROBE 1968/9, REISSUE CHISWICK CDWIKD920 1989 £12.48

You say: "The Softs at their best, I love his drumming." Matt Harvey, via e-mail

Given his later solo career, it's fairly easy to overlook Wyatt's standing as one of the most exciting British drummers of his generation. But on the psychedelic jazz-pop of The Soft Machine's first two LPs his swinging, hyperactive style placed him somewhere between Elvin Jones and Keith Moon. On Vol. 1 his vocals carry some naïve but charming inflections dating back to the soul covers he sang with Wilde Flowers. The more experimental Vol. 2 finds him adopting his matey, vernacular style on Pataphysical Introduction and Dedicated To You But You Weren't Listening.

5 Robert Wyatt

Nothing Can Stop Us

ROUGH TRADE 1982, REISSUE DOMINO REWIGCD42 2008, £12

You say: "Best communist pop album ever. Still relevant." Stakhanov, via e-mail

Recently, Wyatt has opined that musicians shouldn't be expected to be political – instead, politicians should stop acting like rock stars. But as a communist activist in Thatcher's '80s, he was galvanised into recording a series of singles for Rough Trade, including Elvis Costello's Shipbuilding, Chilean socialist folk singer Violet Parra's Arauco, Billie Holiday's Strange Fruit and Stalin Wasn't Stallin', the wartime gospel paean to America's short-lived ally. The album, with its poignant reading of The Red Flag, proved political music need not be clichéd.

7 Robert Wyatt
Cuckooland

HANNIBAL 2003, REISSUE DOMINO REWIGCD47 2008, £12

You say: "One song will convince, a sad and beautiful record." Svenn, mojo4music

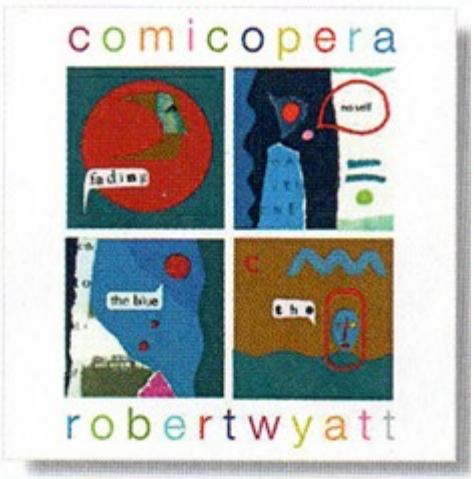
Cuckooland was created amid the rumblings of the Iraq war, which informs Alfreda Benge's lyrics to the poignant Lullaby For Hamza, about an Iraqi child traumatised by bombing during the 1990/91 Gulf War. A lengthy, varied collection – with a break of 30 seconds in the middle to give the listener breathing space – Cuckooland finds Wyatt in fine voice, despite self-deprecating claims that it was reduced to a "wino's mutter". His first duets on his own albums, with Karen Mantler, yield the brooding Beware and a bittersweet take on Antonio Carlos Jobim's Insensatez.

6 Matching Mole
Matching Mole

CBS 1972, REISSUE COLUMBIA 505478 IMPORT 2002, £10.49

You say: "Tight music-making, songs about songwriting!" Garth, mojo4music

After being ousted from Soft Machine in 1971, Wyatt formed Matching Mole with guitarist Phil Miller, bassist Bill McCormick and former Caravanner David Sinclair on keyboards, although the group's debut was ostensibly a Wyatt solo album. Instant Pussy sees the first outing of his trademark wordless scat singing, and the bittersweet O Caroline finds him wondering aloud about the efficacy of addressing her in song. Signed Curtain goes even further with its famous meta-lyric ("This is the first verse/ This is the chorus"). The full group numbers are an idiosyncratic mix of jazz and rock.

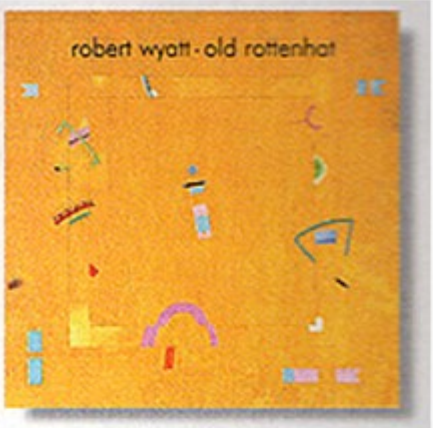


9 Robert Wyatt
His Greatest Misses

HANNIBAL VACK1282 2005, £9.05

You say: "Superb overview for the lucky newby. Excellent!" Carl Linge, via e-mail

With 17 tracks covering nearly 30 years from Rock Bottom to Cuckooland, His Greatest Misses is currently the newcomer's best point of entry. It's endorsed, though not compiled, by the man himself, but like a number of previous Wyatt compilations, it's heading for deletion – Going Back A Bit and Flotsam And Jetsam are now pricey and near unobtainable, a great shame as they contain a number of Wyatt's singles and collaborations, which often slip under the radar. Also available, the EPs box set is a curious mixture of singles, LP tracks and remixes.



8 Robert Wyatt
Comicopera

DOMINO WIGCD202 2007, £12

You say: "Uneasy subject matter and lovely sounds – typical Wyatt." N Robinson, via e-mail

Wyatt's most conceptually bizarre album, Comicopera moves through a set of love songs into a series of slice-of-life tableaux that start out jocular and end up with the hatred felt by a victim of bombing in the Iraq war. It ends with a batch of brooding songs sung in Italian and Spanish as Wyatt was avoiding his native language in protest against Anglo-US warfare. So, no amusing denouement, then, but nevertheless it's one of his most accessible albums, for the most part full of melody and space. Just As You Are, a duet with Monica Vasconcelos, is disarmingly tender.

10 Robert Wyatt
Old Rottenhat

ROUGH TRADE 1985, REISSUE DOMINO REWIGCD43 2008, £12

You say: "His most melodic, well sung collection of tunes." Charlie Tokyo, via mojo4music

Horrified to hear that his music had been played on Radio Free Europe, Wyatt recorded songs that would be banned by all such right-wing media. His lyrical entrenchment was also reflected in his most musically and politically concentrated venture, a set of solo songs comprising voice, keyboards and percussion. Wyatt's assertion that his music is essentially funny might raise eyebrows when faced with songs critiquing liberal hypocrites and the US and Australian roles in supporting Indonesia's military presence in East Timor. But the luminosity of his melodies remains.

AvoidTHESE!

Robert Wyatt's debut 1970 solo album, the rambling, sketchy instrumental collection, The End Of An Ear, is definitely the odd one out in his back catalogue. There are also a huge number of Wyatt-era Soft Machine live sets, radio sessions and demo albums available on CD, but as the quality of these varies from the brilliant to the decidedly very ropey, all but the most devoted fans are advised to seek guidance here. The series titled Canterburied Sounds showcases rehearsal material of a widely varying sonic and musical quality dating back to the era of The Wilde Flowers and is consequently for religiously devoted fans only.

Previous article

Next article

Back to the list

ABÉCÉDAIRE

Les années Before | Soft Machine | Matching Mole | Solo | With Friends | Samples | Compilations | V.A. | Bootlegs | Reprises

HOME

The Inner Sleeve - Wire N° 297 - November 2008

THE INNER SLEEVE

ARTWORK SELECTED THIS MONTH BY ROBERT WYATT

Max Roach, Abbey Lincoln and others Angolan Refugee Rescue Committee benefit concert poster 1963

Design by St Clair Clement

I've had this poster for a benefit concert at the Town Hall, West 53rd St, New York City, 7 September 1963, for over 40 years. It's precious, and hangs on my wall.

I didn't get to New York until nearly five years after this concert, when my jazz heroes and heroines became sidelined. When the rock invasion took centre stage. So this poster creates an aching nostalgia for the jazz years that I grew to love from a great distance. Time and space having had no effect on the connection I experienced.

It's for a concert on behalf of the Angolan Refugee Rescue Committee, featuring the most authoritative modern jazz drummer and mentor, Max Roach, with his jazz ensemble (plus a 16 voice choir conducted by Coleridge-Taylor Perkinson - how I'd love to have witnessed that!) and the gritty but utterly sophisticated vocalist Abbey Lincoln.

The journey these two had already made in music is so interesting to me. Abbey Lincoln stepped into the limelight as a statuesque torch singer (appearing in The Girl Can't Help It I seem to remember), and even Max Roach had a glamorous movie moment (as the drummer duetting with Pearl Bailey in Carmen Jones). Then, just a few years later, with We Insist! - Freedom Now Suite, they emerged as perhaps the Malcolm X and Angela Davis of jazz culture.

I love this poster for the content, and for what it evokes, the tantalising prospect of a concert that I can only imagine, the culmination of an extraordinary era in the history of music, and the heyday of the civil rights movement.

Also, the form and style of the poster really appeal to me. The already archaic hand-set printing process, the use of wood letters, half tone blocks, and so on. The printer would very soon afterwards have been put out of business by new technology. And the vividness of the addresses for buying tickets, in the Bronx, Queens, Lexington Avenue - evocative stuff. Unlikely there's even a trace of those shops now.

This 1963 poster epitomises everything that came to matter to me as a fledgling musician, a poignant souvenir of what I still consider to be the Real Thing.

Robert Wyatt's back catalogue is reissued this month by Domino

> Zoom

Previous article

Next article

Back to the list

Robert Wyatt - Clash Q&A - 28.11.2008

Robert Wyatt - Clash Q&A

The celebrated musician talks to Clash

A staunch humanitarian with a high, keening voice that explores the outer reaches of both rock and jazz – it's safe to say that Robert Wyatt is an almost unique figure in modern music.

After a tragic accident left him wheelchair bound in 1973, Wyatt picked himself up and embarked upon a singular solo career. Sometimes flirting with the charts, but more often than not a lone voice crying in the wilderness, Wyatt seems to embody the curious eccentricity that makes English pop music so endearing.

The recent Domino re-issuing of his back catalogue has provided a new generation with an entry point into the work of this wonderful songwriter. From 'Rock Bottom', recorded in the aftermath of his accident, to 2007's double album 'Comicopera', the 63-year-old Wyatt remains a confusing, probing and above all engaging talent.

ClashMusic.com spent some time with this personable maverick. Here's what we discovered…

What is it about jazz that you find so enticing?

Well my parents used to listen to a lot of classical music and stuff, so what I liked about jazz was the motion, the urgency to it. Classical music I always think is like a lake or a sea or something, whereas jazz is more like a fast moving river.

What came first, the drumming or the singing?

Well it was drumming really. I was basically a drummer, and I only sang because somebody had to, really! Sometimes we had a singer and sometimes we didn't. There were some things that you could sing and play drums at the same time on. Like James Brown's 'I Feel Good', you know (sings) "I Feel Good!". One bar of singing and one bar of drumming! The harder the music got, the more jazzy it got. I mean when we started out we played club music and I sang, but then later on I concentrated more on drumming. Then in the '70s I mainly concentrated on singing, basically because I couldn't really drum anymore anyway.

And a visiting American soldier taught you how to play the drums?

He wasn't a soldier but he was a jazz drummer. He stayed at our house for a bit, and he taught us a bit of stuff. He was a bit of a drifter really. He taught me things like how to hold the sticks and that sort of thing. I didn't take him up on a lot of it but I was glad to know what I should be doing, if I wanted to do it.

The Soft Machine moved to progressive music, how did that come about?

Well, it happened because we were a live band really. I would have liked to have recorded more stuff in the studio, singles and stuff, but we didn't have the opportunity to do that, so we developed a live set where the improvisation aspect was extended. Eventually it just got longer and longer, until the songs were just points for starting off, and finishing. The type of audience we were playing to in the late '60s, I mean there was a really wide gap between the sort of people who listened to radio and the people who went to rock festivals and stuff. Almost like two different tribes, and we were playing to the type of people who went to festivals, outdoor stuff and things that went on for hour and hours. And the bands played accordingly. In retrospect there was a lot of space to be allowed to do new stuff, and in the venues we played there was no need to play songs that people recognised or anything like that. The idea was to just keep working out new ideas, and that just seemed to be allowed. We just played in places where that was welcomed, and when we played in places where it wasn't welcome we didn't get any work again.

'Rock Bottom' is regard as your first solo record. Could you describe the circumstances of this album?

What it was, simply, is that I spent about a year in hospital, and it gave me time to think about what I wanted to think about. In a way, oddly enough, the pressure was off. Having a band, and do we have enough money to keep going? Of course in hospital you don't have any of that stuff to think about, you think more abstractly. When I came out I was full of music, but I didn't really need a band as most of it I could just do on my own. So that's what I did. Then I got a few friends in to play the other bits, just adding bits and pieces. It was kind of liberating in a way not to have to put everything into a group format.

You have had hit singles, such as 'I'm A Believer' and 'Shipbuilding' – what emphasis do you put on this?

Neither of those really made money, so they weren't commercial successes in that sense; I just found myself in that situation. I mean, I've always liked pop music – I've got friends who don't but I always did. When you're a teenager and discover girls, pop songs are inexplicably linked to girls and wistful songs about them. I've always had nice sentimental, romantic things in my head when I think about pop records, and I've always wanted to have a go at them. I'm not a serious contender in the pop world though, as I don't look right and I don't sound right.

You mention your voice, is it true you can sing across multiple octaves?

It depends! Certainly when I was young I could get amazingly high and I can now get very low, but no longer get very high. So at no particular time have I been able to reach all those octaves, but I've been lucky in that as I get older I can reach the lower ones. So I can't do all those girl songs any more, but I can now do Johnny Cash songs that I couldn't do when I was younger.

You frequently work in a collaborative way – how does this work in the studio?

Well, I always try and do as much as I can by myself. I try to create the atmosphere of the songs and then invite musicians in. I sort of have an idea of the theme of the songs, how they're going to be, because if you get a band in and they have no idea of how it's going to work in their head then they won't really know how to play. I can't really write music well enough to tell people 'well just play that B flat and everything will be alright'. They have to be able to hear what it is. I do as much as I can, basic keyboards, bit of percussion put a vocal on and then I invite musicians in. Actually, mostly one by one, and then I put it together afterwards to make it sound like a group. I prefer working with musicians one to one, in a more intimate way. I mean, every musician works in a different way – jazz musicians are different than rock musicians. For example, if I'm working with a double bass player he might want it a bit quiet, but if you've got Paul Weller coming into the studio he likes everything incredibly loud. You'd have everything really loud for Paul, just for a day or so.

You seem to record sporadically, on your own terms – what prompts this?

Well, what I like about this bunch of records is that when you add it up there's quite a lot of stuff there. But I've still kept doing stuff on and off for 40 years, even if not all of it is very high profile. I've done lots of stuff that's not under my own name, working for other people. Even last year a record came out – I did a bit of harmony singing with Billy Bragg, which was nice, just to work with other people rather than preparing stuff for my own record. I don't earn a lot of money for my records so I can't just sit around making my own records unless I'm really ready. I have to really know that I've got enough material.

I'm not like Elvis Costello or something, one of these people who can just sit down and write songs, like Pete Townshend. These people can just come out with torrents of wonderful stuff. I don't find that I do – I have lots of ideas but I find that they're not always in recordable forms. You can compare it with something like the gestation period of elephants. You know, elephants are pregnant for 18 months – they have the same process, it just takes twice as long as humans.

You recorded an album of political covers called 'Nothing Can Stop Us' – what prompted this?

Well I'm quite interested in looking outside yourself. Not just yourself and your own concerns, but look at the world around you. One of the ways you can do this if by doing songs that might not get heard in a rock context – South American songs, or songs in a political context that don't get heard in one way or another. Billy Bragg does this brilliantly, he finds songs you'll never have heard of and does them in a way that makes you listen to them.

It's a way of showing off: I like singing songs in another language and quite a lot of political songs are Spanish. I'm not very good at it apparently, but I still like doing it. There are times in my life when it seems to me that the battle for justice is very intense, and music doesn't seem sometimes to be helping very much in this battle against injustice at all. So that comes out in my songs a lot. It used to always worry me, and still does now, that after Iraq and Afghanistan we are battering Pakistan. I know we're going after Al Qaeda but I bet we're still killing thousands of Afghan and Pakistani peasants at the same time. It just makes me feel a bit ill, you know. It just seems like there should be a better way of doing things sometimes.

Is it true you joined the Communist Party in the '80s?

It's true that I was a member of the Communist Party throughout the '80s, yeah. It sort of disintegrated towards the end. As a mass movement it was a failure but it was based on some great insights and I'm still very grateful for what I got from that. There were a lot of brave and good people who fought under the Communist banner, though you wouldn't know that from watching Hollywood films. But there were. In the Second World War it was the Communists who bore the brunt of the fascist onslaught, and they helped in other areas, in other countries. In Italy and France and so on they were the hardcore basis of the underground resistance movement. But anyway, I'm grateful to Communist Party for what I learnt from it – and the mistakes are so obvious they are hardly worth pointing out. But I think that it has to be said that the Communist Party came about for a reason – that the capitalist system around the world just wouldn't do, and still won't as far as I am concerned. There are still trade unionists being killed all around the world, from Columbia to the Philippines, and people are still being forced to work for the big companies. I still think its wrong, and it may be slightly old fashioned of me but I still think it's completely out of order - so I still stay on the left, while that problem remains. I think the fact is there's an immense amount of wealth in the world, but the people who seem to do the hard work to make all that money always seem to be the last in the queue to get any of the benefits. And I think that's wrong.

'Comicopera' uses many different languages, why is this?

Well I always worry about sounding samey, so I like my records to kick against this one way or the other so its not just the same old thing with every release. And one of the ways I can do that is by using other languages. Some of the material is just unique to that language, the Cuban song and so on, just have a resonance as a language. The music itself is Spanish anyway.

That album also uses one of Lorca's lyrics – why did you choose this?

It's an excerpt from a play, but it is certainly a poem as all his writing was really poetry anyway. I was asked to do it, originally, the Lorca centenary people got in touch. Lorca comes from Grenada in Spain, a very Arabic town in its day, a thousand years ago, and he was working against Fascism in the early part of the last century. He wasn't involved with political groups but he did side with the Republic against the Fascist onslaught. The tribute record was full of people singing in Spanish, and so they asked me, but all the poems had already been snaffled by other musicians so I took this text from a play and just seemed to put the imagery – which is about underwater sea-scapes, nightmares – into the kind of thing I do anyway. There's a Columbian exile bass player on it, and he did some wonderful playing that sounds like whales underwater. I was very happy with that.

Do you view your own lyrics as poetry?

No, I wouldn't make those claims as there are people who write poetry who are experts in their language and I'm not. I never went to university. I mean, I was good at it at school but I never went on to study it at university. I wouldn't consider myself to be well read, even. I wouldn't claim to be a writer, as such, but I do work on it and try to make them singable. Going back a bit, but writers in ancient times used to chant their poems, which is just the same as singing really. There was a crossover between poetry and song, this ambiguous crossover – the Psalms for example. When you sing things you can change how they sound. You can sing things that work as songs but wouldn't necessarily work on the written page. Like 'Tutti Frutti' by Little Richard – it doesn't sound great, but it's a wonderful song! It works as something to sing. Quite a lot of Stevie Wonder, as well – if you write them down they are very sentimental and wouldn't work as poems but they just sing beautifully. (Wyatt's wife) Alfie is brilliant at writing stuff that, particularly for me as a singer, is just easy to turn into music. I find it very natural, and that's what I look for. And hopefully it means something as well.

Your wife creates the artwork, and you sometimes take an elaborate approach to packaging. How are these aspects linked?

One of the things I like about these re-releases is just seeing the amount of ideas she has come up with, when you see them all together. I'm very lucky. Ideally, Alfie in her mind knows that people can get free downloads and stuff from the net, so she wants to make people know that if they buy one of my records they will get added value in it in a way. A record won't just be a bit of plastic in a cardboard box with sound on it, but something that's actually a pleasure to have, just as a physical object. The extent that happens is a credit to Alfie, as an artist.

What is it that keeps you writing?

There still seems to be a frustration sometimes that I haven't said something right. Or Alfie sometimes says, "Why don't you do songs that people can dance do?" And I'm thinking, "Yeah, I ought to!" There's always stuff that I haven't done, or sometimes I'm sitting tootling on the cornet and a bunch of notes will pop into my head and I'll think, "Oh nice!" And that's it, really. I mean, I can't really do that much around the house apart from the washing up for Alfie, or washing potatoes. I don't pull my weight at home really, so if I don't make records I'm going to get in big trouble!

Is there anything new in the pipeline?

I've got bits and pieces, but to be honest we've been having a rough year to be honest. Alfie has had a lot of eye trouble, which has required regular visits to the hospital, and that's really frightening. Nothing you have to concern yourself with, but her mother's been unwell and has been staying with us. So domestic stuff has taken up quite a lot of thought and time, we can't just sort of wing it and live for the music. We've got real life stuff to get through. I always find that to make music you have to be in this sort of zone, a particular place, I need to clear the ground, the air, the horizons. But our domestic situation is a bit muddy. There's always ideas in the air, you know, but nothing definite.

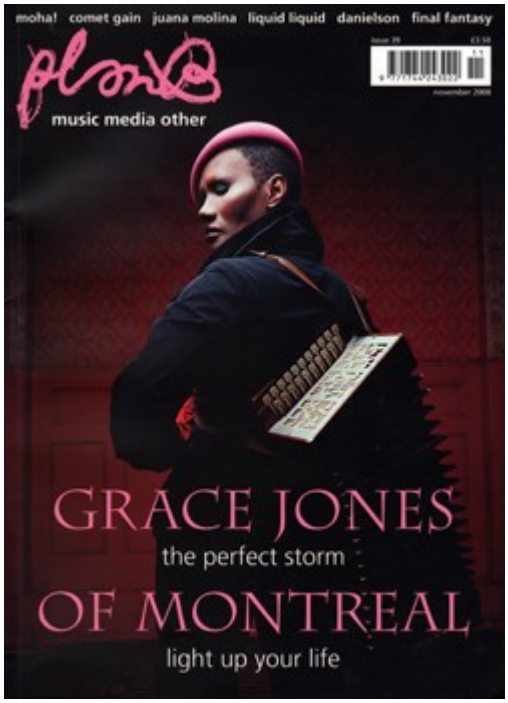
Robert Wyatt's back catalogue is reissued via Domino – get 'Rock Bottom', 'Old Rottenhat', 'Drury Lane' and more at all good retailers.

>> L'interview sur le site de Clash

Previous article

Next article

Back to the list



ABÉCÉDAIRE

Les années Before | Soft Machine | Matching Mole | Solo | With Friends | Samples | Compilations | V.A. | Bootlegs | Reprises

HOME

Songs of experience - Plan B - issue 39 - november 2008

SONGS OF EXPERIENCE

Words: Jon Dale
Illustration: Hanna Wieslander

Robert Wyatt

Rock Bottom/Ruth Is StrangerThan Richard/Nothing Can Stop Us/Old Rottenhat/Dondestan Revisited/Shleep/EPs/ Cuckooland/Live At Drury Lane (Domino)

OK. Robert Wyatt. The first thing you should know is, every note on these records is a note you should hear. The second thing you should know is, Wyatt's masterpiece, Rock Bottom, heads up this canon: a gorgeously unsettling underwater song suite, it's limber, loving, sweet, turbulent, adrift on seesawing drones and deeply affecting. Got that? Good.

The legend of Wyatt rests on his first group, Soft Machine, and on ', but ultimately, this new reissue series highlights Wyatt's few truly solo records Old Rottenhat and Dondestan. Recorded entirely alone, they document his struggle with the global politics of the time and his discomfort with the grim reality of 'being English' under Thatcher's rule. They're knitted together with knotty piano, cheap keyboards and Wyatt's pattering percussion, which lends them the air of homespun arts and crafts; they frame Wyatt's sharpest invective against the global reach and repercussions of capital and Empire.

The Age Of Self, for example, is eerily prescient of neo-liberalism's rule ("There's people doing 'frightfully well", there's others on the shelf/But never mind the second kind, this is The Age Of Self"). But Wyatt's not partisan - he's aware of the hard left's internal struggles. The Age of Self mentions media magnate Robert Maxwell and Marxism Today, editor Martin Jacques in the same breath; Dondestan's 'CP Jeebies' comments on factional behaviour in the Communist Party.

Borrowing from Coltrane's 'A Love Supreme', Old Rottenhat's Gharbzadegi 'tackles cultural imperialism: listening to Wyatt's Eighties records, it struck me that here Wyatt performs 'solo' but assembles a cast of absent collaborators whose songs he interprets in response to cultural imperialism. I can think of few other performers with Wyatt's reach: who else has taken in songs from Peter Gabriel (on activist Steve Biko), or Elvis Costello and Clive Langer (on the everyday impact of the Falklands War), alongside songs written by La Nueva Canción singers Violeta Parra and Victor Jara, and Cuban folk singer Pablo Milanes? Who else would write a beautifully mournful song named 'Amber And The Amberines' after the US's dress rehearsal for full-scale invasion of Grenada and the Grenadines, in part hymning Grenadian Marxist political party, the New Jewel Movement?

If this is heady stuff, it's because these were heady times. But what times aren't? Listening back to this music can feel eerie, not just because Wyatt's voice is so close in your ear, but because the songs are reminders, rejoinders, diary entries - journalism, but not pejoratively so. If you need a crash course (or a hard lesson) in how to do politics in pop properly, here you have it - and if anyone tells you the writing is simplistic, the messages dated, then remind them that clarity communicates, and that in the Eighties, Wyatt was rare in his address of the 'wounds of Empire' via a clutch of songs and a wheezy old keyboard.

After these moments of loneliness, Shleep and Cuckooland return Wyatt to communal creation: with figures like Brian Eno, Annie Whitehead, Paul Weller and Phil Manzanera on board, it's a good crew. The politics are still there, but there's more address of the personal, the domestic. They're essential, of course.

But for now, I keep returning to Wyatt's Eighties period, for its sharpness, its sadness, and its political fury. Because these records contain songs that, in their baldness and honesty about the conditions of humanity, about the things people do to one another, about the abuse metered out in the name of Empire, tell you more about the world - your world - than most any other music I've heard. And Wyatt's found a way to navigate this world with a grace and an intelligence that's directly reflected in his songs: in their generosity and character and wit, but also in their unflinching, unsparing commentary.

So hear them all, and live a better life.

Previous article

Next article

Back to the list

ABÉCÉDAIRE

Les années Before | Soft Machine | Matching Mole | Solo | With Friends | Samples | Compilations | V.A. | Bootlegs | Reprises

HOME

'Staying Open to Possibilities': An Interview with Hugh Hopper - Eartrip Magagzine - Issue 2 - September 2008

"Staying Open to Possibilities": An Interview with Hugh Hopper

Bass-player and composer Hugh Hopper was one of the key members of the so-called 'Canterbury Scene': a loose, and disparate set of musicians who made up some of the leading prog-rock bands in the 1960s and 70s, such as Caravan, Gong, and the group in which Hopper was the bassist, Soft Machine. As well as appearing on some of the Softs' best known recordings, and in subsequent off-shoots such as Soft Machine Legacy, he played with the likes of Syd Barrett and Elton Dean, and has also been active in improvised and experimental music, often incorporating electronic textures into his work. In February 2008, he played a concert with the Delta Saxophone Quartet and drummer Simon at Kettle's Yard in Cambridge, and we took the opportunity to interview him about his career and his current musical activities.

DG: Perhaps we could begin at the beginning: how you started out, your early influences and musical experiences.

HH: My parents were the usual middle-of-the-road classical: they both played piano, but just at home, as people did in those days. I was really influenced a lot by my brother, who was two years older than me. He started playing clarinet and then got into playing guitar, so I took up the bass, and a lot of my influence is from my brother, because, being two years ahead, he heard things earlier than I did, and then I picked up on those.

So early days was rhythm and blues – Chuck Berry and stuff like that. And then I got involved in jazz, through Robert Wyatt and Daevid Allen. Really those have been the two threads of my life – rhythmic stuff and freer stuff as well, and also some modern classical and contemporary stuff.

DG: What kind of modern classical?

HH: Well, my brother exposed me to anything from Hindemith and Bartok to some of the more freaky stuff – Stockhausen and some of the more early electronic music.

NCT: Which was really just emerging at that time…

HH: Yeah, and of course it was really laborious in those days – you couldn't do it on a laptop. Nowadays Stockhausen could do in half an hour what it took him six months to construct from tapes.

DG: That's get us onto compute technology I read that you and so on at the age of 13

HH: No, that's a bit early, I would say a bit later than that. I got into loops and stuff when I was about 18, through Daevid Allen. I was living with him in Paris and he'd been working with Terry Riley and people who were working with the French Radiophonic workshop. So I learned a lot of that kind of stuff – soundscapes, loops, that kind of hypnotic stuff – from him. That was another important thread in my musical influences.

Hugh Hopper playing at Kettle's Yard. Cambridge in 2008

NCT: Daevid Allen was also involved with some of the work of William S Burroughs. What was that relationship?

HH: Well, Daevid met Burroughs and we were involved in playing some shows, like the ICA in London, where he was doing a reading and I was playing with David and Robert Wyatt. I think Daevid knew Burroughs really from Paris and we were just interested in that whole flow of things – the cut-up idea of Burroughs. I was 18 years old and that was a very important time for me, being surrounded by Beat poetry and the cut-up idea – completely different ideas of writing. I haven't read a Burroughs book now for thirty years, but at the time it was really a strong thing, and Daevid had actually worked with Burroughs – he used his voice, and that of Lawrence Ferlenghetti and some of the other Beat Poets, on some of his soundscapes.

NCT: And he was influential enough for you to name the band The Soft Machine [after Burroughs' novel].

HH: In fact, before I was in the band, they went through several names, and then somebody thought of Soft Machine. Daevid spoke to Burroughs and asked if that was OK and he said 'ah, I guess it's OK' – he didn't really care either way.

DG: Well that bring us up to the beginnings of Soft Machine – maybe you could talk a bit about the Wilde Flowers?

HH: Yeah, Wilde Flowers was our first semi-pro band in Canterbury. Like all semi-pro bands, we played about two gigs in our first year, and there was more hope involved than actual gigs, but we rehearsed a lot, as you do when you start a band. That was really the foundation of Soft Machine, Caravan, and Gong – those three bands started from the people who were in the Wilde Flowers. We started off trying to be creative, playing all sorts of new stuff – we all listened to Indian music and jazz – and it was a mixture of that with some things like the Stones and the Kinks. Eventually what happened was that it became smoother and smoother, and became a soul band and lost it creativity, but by then people had left and it carried on without the originals.

NCT: There seems to have been a really interesting trajectory, if you look at all the Soft Machine albums, partly because of these creative tensions.

HH: Yeah, every album was different, depending on who was in the band. I think for just about every album there was a personnel change – at least one person had left. The first one was psychedelic songs. Really, there's an album missing, because there should be an album with Daevid Allen, Kevin Ayers, Robert [Wyatt] and Mike Ratledge, but Daevid had already left the band before the first main album was made in the States, so it was just a trio. Kevin Ayers wanted to be a poet and songwriter more than a musician; he got lumbered with playing the bass because nobody else would do it. After Kevin left, I joined, and Mike Ratledge, the keyboard player, became much more influential in the music – it was a lot jazzier and less psychedelic and folky. That was the way it flowed really – it became more and more jazzy with each album, and finally became a jazz-rock thing.

NCT: By 'Third' and 'Fourth'?

HH: Well, there was still a bit of the earlier spirit [on those two albums]. 'Fifth' was a weird one because it was very black – it had a black cover and it was a very dark record – and by 'Sixth' Elton Dean had left and Karl Jenkins was introducing more jazz-rock things. That was the last one I was on, and after that it became more of a Karl Jenkins thing.

NCT: Whether you intended it or not, 'Third' is the most popular Soft Machine album.

HH: Yeah, it's the one everybody always mentions. When we recorded it, it was right at the height of when we were really playing a lot of concerts, doing a lot of gigs, touring everywhere. For the actual sound of it, it's not that well produced – the stuff I've been doing since then has been much better produced. But, what it can say, it's just one of those things, it's a classic thing. When I'm in Germany, guys still come up to me and say 'this record changed my life' – it happens every time, which is great.

Part of the inside cover at for "Third": Elton Dean on the left and Hopper on the right.

DG: What would you say is your favourite of all the Soft Machine albums?

HH: I like bits of some of them. I like 'Third', obviously, and 'Fourth' – there's some good stuff on 'Fourth' – different things, I don't often listen to them. What I prefer really is listening to some of the live things which come out much later, because the studio records…They're OK, they're interesting, but they don't have the real spirit of the band as it was live, because it was real hooligan band, it wasn't a quiet, polite band on stage. Sometimes I listen back to some of the tapes – terrible sound, but the energy is fantastic. There's this idea that it was a cerebral band, but it wasn't that all – we used to play through Marshall stacks on eleven, basically. We had earplugs, and everyone was deaf by the end – I still have tinnitus now. So yeah, I was glad when, in about the 80s, some of these archive records, the live ones, started to come out, even as bootlegs, which didn't have good enough sound; it was nice to hear what the actual energy of the band was like.

EARTRIP MAGAZINE
"A Journey For Your Ears."

DG: There's this whole generic crossover thing we've touched on a bit earlier; I was interested in the fact that you played the Royal Albert Hall, at the Proms. It's hard to imagine something like that happening now – musicians associated with rock performing in a setting associated with the mainstream classical sphere.

HH: It was one of the late night concerts after the main prom, and it was actually a concert of Tim Souster, who was a classical composer and knew Mike Ratledge, so he invited us to play as well. Before we played there was a whole piece with, I think, five pianos playing Steve Reich. So it wasn't the real mainstream prom, it was a late night one, but it is still quite rare.

DG: Do you think people were more open to that sort of thing at the time?

HH: Yeah, well people were more open to having a band like Soft Machine playing anywhere – we played in all the big halls several times. We played…I mean, you name it – Manchester, Leeds Town Hall – you couldn't do that now, people just aren't interested. So, yeah, it was a different atmosphere in those days.

L-R: Robert Wyatt, Hugh Hopper, Mike Ratledge

DG: Also, as well as the relationship that Soft Machine had with classical music, there was quite a strong relationship with jazz.

HH: Yeah, well it was because were interested in all those things, Mike Ratledge in particular. He didn't come up through rock groups, he learned to play classical piano and then became interested in jazz later. He wasn't a guy who'd learned through being in a pop or rock or blues band – he didn't know anything about that, it wasn't part of his life at all. So we had all those influences and that's the stuff we wanted to listen to – things like John Coltrane and Ornette Coleman.

DG: And this was part of a wider trend.

HH: There was a great crossover then: before that you were either a jazzer or you were a rocker and that was it, but in about 1969/70, there really was a possibility, people were putting on gigs that mixed things – it could be ethnic music or classical music or whatever, mixed – there were all kinds of experiments.

DG: So the 60s was the time when it opened up.

HH: Yeah, from 66/67 onwards – that was the time when things seemed possible.

DG: Do you think there was any specific reason for that?

HH: It was the time – politically things were changing , there was a lot more freedom, and suddenly you're allowed to do things which before people hadn't thought of doing. There was a feeling of liberty.

DG: Moving on to prog-rock itself – do you think there was anything specifically English about it? I'm thinking of that very whimsical strain…

HH: Yeah, you can't imagine many American bands sounding like that. Americans tend to be much harder, and probably play better, but not so whimsical and not so creative, in a sense. I think that's right, it is a very English thing.

NCT: As you were saying, you started off in R & B and stuff like that. I was curious – who really influenced you as a bass player; who did you listen to?

HH: Strangely enough, I've been more influenced by acoustic jazz players than electric players. Because I listened to all of those earlier things – rhythm and blues things, Fats Domino, Little Richard, James Brown and his bass players – it's all in there. But when I think about it, the people I would actually name are all jazz bass players – Charles Mingus, Ron Carter, people like that.

NCT: How has being a bassist influenced your compositional approach?

HH: It's hard to say, because they're both part of the same thing. The bass is important to me – when I hear music, I couldn't really imagine writing much music without writing something for the bass at the bottom of it. And also I see my role as a bass player not as a flashy soloist, and for me that's important, to actually be 'the bass player'.

NCT: How in terms of how your compositions might have differed from those of someone like Mike Ratledge, or Elton Dean?

HH: Well, they're simpler, for a start: I haven't got that kind of technical facility on the instrument. Of course, now, on a computer, you can write anything you like, at any speed you care to name. But yeah, it has been important.

DG: I wanted to ask about Syd Barrett particularly, because you played on a couple of tracks on his album 'The Madcap Laughs', and because, despite only being there at the beginning, he was such a pivotal, influential figure. What was your experience of him?

HH: I didn't know him very well. Because Soft Machine and Pink Floyd started when they did – '66, '67 – they were playing a lot of the same gigs, at the Roundhouse in London, and the U.F.O, so they were quite friendly: they were kind of rivals but it was a friendly rivalry. I came in later, so I didn't know him that well, but he came along to a gig we were doing in London in '69, and saw us afterwards and said, 'I'm doing a record at Abbey Road, do you want to come and play on the record?' So we went along, and he'd got the guitar and voice tracks down already. Of course he was very erratic, so it's not 4 bars, 4 bars, it's one and half, two –whoops – start off in another key! We're sitting there trying to learn this in the studio in Abbey Road, and we're still working on it when Syd pokes his head round the door and says, 'thanks, fine, that's it', and we were still learning it, but he was happy…He was very chaotic, and even then he was drifting a bit. It was a nice record, it couldn't be anyone else – he had his own total planet.

DG: What do you think of this whole idea of the 'Canterbury Scene'?

HH: Well, it's a journalistic thing. In fact, there was nothing much going on; we couldn't wait to leave Canterbury and move to London and have a real career. But it's a useful label – I use it myself. But ask different people what it means and it means completely different things. For me it means people like Caravan, Soft Machine and Gong, but then they're very different anyway: Caravan is songs and Soft Machine became much more jazzy, so what does it mean? It's a useful label, it's a journalistic label, which was applied after the event – Ian McDonald, of NME, actually thought of the label in about 1971, well after it had all happened.

DG: Someone else I wanted to ask about was Elton Dean: obviously a very important figure but not that well known outside of particular circles.

HH: He was a great jazz player, he really was. His real love was free jazz – he would have been perfectly happy freely improvising all his life, but he wrote some great tunes as well and was a great player in Soft Machine, In Cahoots, lots of bands – he did a lot of stuff with Keith Tippett. He lived the real jazz life, he drank and he smoke and he died as you do if you drink too much, but he lived it to the full, he was totally committed. And he was a good mate of mine – I was in lots of projects and did lots of tours with him. It wasn't a surprise when he died, because for the last ten years of his life he was on that path, but I'm happy to have played with him.

DG: Thinking about free improv – we were talking with Mike Westbrook about free improv and how it relates to other genres. So, players you'd think of as, say, a straight-ahead jazz player or something, could play free improv as well, but a divide had opened up that wasn't there before – people had gone off into camps and so you had the free improve players…

HH: I think that was always there, to be honest. There's always been a lot of snobbery within the jazz world, as there is in every other musical genre. Elton could do both things, he was a natural player, a very natural musician.

DG: Perhaps you could tell us a little bit about 'Numero D' Vol' [Hopper's recent recording, from 2007, with saxophonist Simon Picard and others].

HH: I was down in London with a guitarist called Mark Hewins. I was immediately knocked out by his sound, his melodicism, and I thought it would be nice to invite Simon [Picard] down to Canterbury to record, and the same with the other players. I've played with Charles Hayward in a couple of things, and Steve Franklin with In Cahoots. I just had the idea to get together with a group of players. It was completely improvised and cleaned up a bit later – we chose the best bits.

DG: The project with the Delta Saxophone Quartet, how did that come about?

HH: They weren't particularly into Soft Machine, but I had a book of sheet music, of some of my tunes from Soft Machine, which was published in 1970, and somebody gave it to Pete Whyman, the alto player, and he just started playing with it. Then they farmed it out to arrangers to arrange these pieces, not necessarily from the music, but just that they had the idea of Soft Machine, so some of the music was very close to the originals and some of the pieces are completely re-interpreted. When they were near to recording they asked me if I'd like to play on one track, and since then we've done a couple of gigs and the album's come out [['Dedicated To You…But You Weren't Listening' (Moonjune, 2007)]. What's amazing is that they're not blasé jazz musicians – they love music, they love playing it, it's a real pleasure being with them. They're keen for me to play with them – it's nice. It's just one track on the record', but now we've worked on three or four new pieces – well, old Soft Machine pieces, but reworked.

DG: Are there any other plans for the future? Any projects?

HH: Lots, yeah. Yumi Hara, the Japanese piano player – I've done one gig with her, completely improvised, and there's a tour of Japan in June. There's also Clearframe, another improvised thing with Charles Hayward, Orphy Robinson and Lol Coxhill. I do this thing called Brainville with Daevid Allen and Chris Cutler; we played a few gigs last year, and we're playing in Italy this year. And there's also Soft Machine Legacy, which is ex-members of Soft Machine. So there's four or five different things going on. It's always up and down – I never know what I'm going to do in a years' time, but I like to stay open to possibilities.

Hugh Hopper at the Downtown Music Gallery in 2008

>> L'interview sur le site de Eartrip Magazine

Previous article

Next article

Back to the list

ABÉCÉDAIRE

Les années Before | Soft Machine | Matching Mole | Solo | With Friends | Samples | Compilations | V.A. | Bootlegs | Reprises

HOME

Canterbury Scene Pioneers 1 : The Soft Machine - Audion - Issue #54 - August 2008 (new edition in PDF format in October 2020)

Whoever it was that coined the term "The Canterbury Scene" was a lazy journalist, but it's a term that's been banded around so much that it's gained a meaning all of its own. At least to fans of progressive rock and jazz-fusion that is. In Canterbury, there is no definitive scene as such. Most people that live there would never have heard of it. Yet Canterbury was the hub where much of this scene came together. The"scene" largely stemmed from a band called The Wilde Flowers, and involved the bands Soft Machine, Caravan and Egg, and all the various offshoots and related projects that came out of these, amounting an enormous fertile world of music bridging many different genres.

THE SOFT MACHINE

Canterbury Scene pioneers 1: written by Alan Freeman

My introduction to The Canterbury Scene all happened by accident, and it's hard to recall exactly what came first. I know that I saw the Danish band Secret Oyster on The Old Grey Whistle Test on TV, and was immediately hooked by them. Scarcely a week or so later (so I recall) I chanced upon a concert at the Montreux Jazz Festival that sounded like Secret Oyster to me but obviously wasn't. It turned out to be Soft Machine, circa album number 8: BUNDLES. So, looking for a live album by them I bought Soft Machine SIX first, which surprised me I can tell you! That was the start of a rocky trail of discovery, covering an extremely wide range of musical styles, dozens of classics, some perplexingly bizarre challenges, and alas some pitiful disappointments.
But that's all part of musical exploration!

Wilde Flowers: Hugh Hopper, Richard Coughlan, Robert Wyatt, Brian Hopper

Wilde Flower years

So, way back in 1959 it all started in Canterbury with an unnamed quartet initiated by the brothers: Brian and Hugh Hopper. By late 1962 these had become The Wilde Flowers comprising: Brian Hopper (guitar, vocals, alto saxophone), Hugh Hopper (bass), Robert Wyatt (drums, guitar, vocals) and Mike Ratledge (piano) originally, with Richard Sinclair and Richard Coughlan (both later of Caravan) also featuring, as well as Kevin Ayers and one Graham Flight. In parallel to that, Australian Daevid Allen had a Canterbury based trio/quartet featuring the likes of Hugh Hopper, Mike Ratledge and Robert Wyatt. Recordings from some of these line-ups much later gained release on a few archive CD releases, and reveal their jazz roots.

Birth of the Soft Machine

I guess it was a surprise to all that knew of their early musical exploits, as when Soft Machine was formed in 1966 they'd moved away from jazz altogether to a "prog" psych-beat sound. Incidentally, they got their name from a William Burroughs novel, the "soft machine" being a euphemism for the human body. The original band was fronted by two songwriters: Kevin Ayers (bass, vocals) and Daevid Allen (guitar, vocals), with Robert Wyatt (drums) and Mike Ratledge (keyboards), and they soon relocated to London, becoming one of the hottest live bands around.

The original Soft Machine sound was borderline pop really, and they debuted with their one and only non-album single: Loves Make Sweet Music / Feelin', Reelin', Squeelin' (recorded in January 1967) a really dated record nowadays, if you ask me. It did however capture the spirit of the time. Gaining the attention of producer Giorgio Gomelsky they next recorded a number of demos at DeLane Lea Studios in London. The hoped for record deal never happened though, and the tapes remained in the Gomelsky vault for some time. These recordings later surfaced on two compilations on the French Byg records (later compiled as the album AT THE BEGINNING, which has since been issued with various other titles), but it's best to talk about them here. These recordings saw the distinctive Soft Machine sound taking form, but in small morsels, largely song-based, but with some early versions of what were later to become classics. Still a touch borderline pop to my ears, but also with some excellent moments, I deem it of curiosity interest only.

The Soft Machine were now getting quite a reputation on the London "underground scene" with regular gigs the UFO Club and The Roundhouse, and they also played at the celebrated "14 Hour Technicolor Dream" featuring their friends The Pink Floyd.

Now things take a weird turn. With a commission to provide the music for an avant-garde theatre project in St. Tropez (on the French Riviera) during the summer of '67, they stay a while in France. In September, on the way back to London, disaster - due to some irregularities with Daevid Allen's Visa, he was refused re-entry to England. So Soft Machine had no option but to return to England without him. Daevid thus remained in France, forming Bananamoon in Paris, and later the band that was to become his most famous project: Gong. But that's another story!

Back in London, Ayers, Ratledge and Wyatt decide to carry on as a trio. A wise move really, as there were really too many songwriters in the band with Daevid around, and with Robert Wyatt also flexing his vocal chords more, it could have become a bit much. Even without an album, their reputation was such that in February 1968, they went on a three month USA tour, as a regular support to the Jimi Hendrix Experience. Obviously a huge success, they soon secured a US record deal, recording their debut LP in New York in just four days in April.

The psychedelic years

The Soft Machine 1968: Robert Wyatt, Hugh Hopper & Mike Ratledge

Already Robert Wyatt was starting to steal the lead role from Kevin Ayers, with Robert's distinctly slightly off-key vocals greeting us on Hope For Happiness, a song which started the trend in Soft Machine for tracks to lead one into another, to meld, flow and juxtapose, breaking the rules of standalone track or song, sometimes with no pause, or merely a breather. Although, that said Save Yourself is an unashamed pop number that sticks out like a sore thumb! But it all fits together, especially so with the segued run of tracks that bring the album to a close. Yes, even with their album debut Soft Machine had it honed to a fine art. Remarkably one doesn't miss the lack of lead guitar. This is down to another key facet of the "Canterbury Sound" the distortion/overdrive organ and electric piano, giving such instruments the power usually associated with the lead guitar. When I first encountered it (Steve had bought a cheap second-hand copy doubleback, with the second album) I didn't quite know what to make of it. I know Robert's vocals threw me at first, and even then it seemed to be rather dated. But, how perspectives change, 30 years on it sounds no more dated, but more a fresh vital step to a now loved sound/style/genre of music. The only real Kevin Ayers song is the last but one track Why Are We Sleeping? the quirkiest psych-pop number on the album. Almost everything about THE SOFT MACHINE is engaging, amazingly crafted, with all sorts of neat tricks and surprises, the musicianship is also quite dazzling. Nowadays it is rightly regarded as a landmark classic.

Although the guitarless formula had worked well on the debut, they drafted in one Andy Summers (yes, the guy later in The Police) for the July-September US tour, although he never stayed around long, and also a rift set in, apparently with Kevin Ayers wanting to take the band in one direction, and Wyatt-Ratledge wanting to go elsewhere. In his place came their old friend Hugh Hopper, a much more explorative experimental musician, who would blossom during his tenure with Soft Machine. Kevin Ayers, on the other hand, would later embark on a solo career, debuting in 1970 with JOY OF A TOY (named after the second track on Soft Machine 1) which musically steps back to 1967 Ayers fronted Soft Machine sound, ranging from whimsical pop through to pure avant-garde. His band: Kevin Ayers And The Whole World was the starting place for two major solo talents, namely David Bedford and Mike Oldfield, whose instrumental work was the highlight of many a Kevin Ayers album. But, I digress, back to Soft Machine...

After only a month of rehearsals and a prestigious gig at the Royal Albert Hall, Soft Machine had already got an album's worth of material together. Aptly called VOLUME TWO it was much more experimental than the debut, an amalgam of half sung songs, joke diversions and many rip-roaring instrumentals, it all felt like a big album-long opus. Expanding the instrumentation, and further the Wilde Flowers roots was the Hugh's brother Brian Hopper guesting on saxophones, bringing a bit of jazz back into the mix. Although I said the album feels like one big opus, there is an odd track out midway through side two Dedicated To You But You Weren't Listening penned by Hugh Hopper (on acoustic guitar here) with Mike Ratledge on poignantly dainty harpsichord, with Robert singing in that fashion he was later to become famous for. After that, the final few segued tracks, starting with Fire Engine Passing With Bells Clanging, pretty much hints at the Soft Machine sound to come, heading to more experimental jazzy realms..

Shortly before the release of VOLUME TWO Soft Machine did a promotional concert at The Paradiso in Amsterdam, Holland. It was broadcast on the radio, and consequently a high quality bootleg LP appeared on the market. By high quality, I mean good radio mono, with some slight radio drift and noise, rather good for the time, but pressed on lousy cheap vinyl, and the bootleg CD that later appeared was transferred from an LP. Eventually it gained a proper master tape release on CD via Voiceprint. This gig just goes to show how intensely creative and finely honed they were as performers. It's basically a prequel to the album, with lots of little diversions, extra quirks and kinks in the arrangements, and a bit more instrumental too. In all, a vital piece of early Soft Machine history.

SOFT MACHINE VOLUME TWO SPACED THIRD

It's all going weird

But now, with time on their hands, and in between record label contracts, the trio, aided by Hugh's brother guest/semi-member Brian Hopper (soprano/tenor saxes), spent a good few months experimenting with new ideas. The use of reverse tapes, echo and delay effects, etc., had all played a big role in the complexity of their recordings to date, but they wanted to take that aspect further. Mike Ratledge had been hooked by the experimental organ and tape delay works of Terry Riley and began to develop his own twist on that. This all led to SPACED a specially commissioned work created for a London multi-media event at the Roundhouse, involving ballet dancers, gymnasts and such-like, all purely avant-garde and abstract, it needed music to match. Unreleased until 1996 the CD booklet describes the use of lengthy tape loops spooled around their rehearsal rooms, days of work spent tape splicing and editing, all to make 1½ hours of music. It perplexed audiences, especially those that were expecting a Soft Machine concert, but it is weird even by today's standards! A music of dissonant organ/piano, bass and percussion, Robert Wyatt's larynx has a rest here, and instead he often seems to be destroying his drum-set, and the only real soloing is courtesy of Brian Hopper's sax, or the noises from Mike Ratledge's electric piano and organ, which he similarly seems to be abusing. Add to all that Hugh Hopper's bass on demented fuzzed and frazzled overload, it's enough to make the speakers groan and writhe! There are more melodic moments and rhythmic/looping bits too. SPACED certainly lives up to its name, it is really out there!

From Autumn 1969, a brass section was drafted in to supplement the band on stage. Many of these musicians came from Keith Tippett's band: Elton Dean (saxophones), Nick Evans (trombone) and Marc Charig (trumpet). There was also Lyn Dobson (flute, saxophone) from Keef Hartley's band. Of these Elton Dean became a permanent member for several years, changing the band's sound considerably.

January 1970 heralded what many class as the ultimate Soft Machine album, and in fact one of the all-time greats of the Canterbury Scene, namely THIRD, a landmark double LP, with just one track per side...

Hugh Hopper's Facelift is a collage of live recordings, and strongly features the winds section. Although who exactly is featured where, I don't know. Caravan's Jimmy Hastings (flute, bass clarinet) also guests on the album, and he's heard here. Facelift has the new patent of "the Softs" sound, namely Hugh's fuzz bass strongly featured, and also starts the album on a very weird footing. First we hear a subdued drone, joined by strangely mangled electric piano and dissonantly garbled organ, and whilst other instruments amble in the background a variety of winds (mostly processed electronically) writhe and splutter, leading into a vaguely drunken phase that then lurches into a patent Soft Machine riff, gaining focus, moving to a relaxed phase for a moment before going on to an almost Miles Davis like fusion drive, before returning to an organ/winds refrain heard earlier, added to and complicated by lots of clever backwards/wrong-speed tape work. In all, a patchwork flow of ideas that sew up into a complex suite.

Mike Ratledge's Slightly All The Time starts with another new aspect to the Soft Machine sound, a cool breezy ambling jazzy groove (based around various interlocked rhythmic patterns) topped by a variety of winds, changing, growing in momentum, gaining focus, changing again and so on. It includes the inset of Hopper's Noisette (not easy to identify where it is exactly until one hears later live versions) a work of similarly counterpointed themes, all put together like a complex jig-saw puzzle. This is all a hint of what they would take further on albums SIX and SEVEN.

According to a recent Robert Wyatt interview on BBC Radio 6's "Freak Zone" the first half of side 3's The Moon In June is Robert Wyatt solo. This would mean that Robert must also be playing organ and guitar uncredited, as well as singing and playing drums. The song is indeed one of his strongest, and with very clever lyrics to boot, which he would famously rewrite from concert to concert to fit the venue, country, weather, time of year etc., the most famous being the BBC John Peel "Top Gear" session version. After the song, 9 minutes in, it's allchange, in fact several all-changes that bounce to and from the song theme until it's time to let-rip, quintessential Canterbury this, close to Egg or Caravan, with that patent keyboard sound, with Robert adding wordless vocal expressions. At 15 minutes, it's time to go weird again, and some, with strange pitch-shifting effects on the organ, scuttling violin. "Edgard Varese meets Sun Ra" is one description I've read!

The boldly named Out-Bloody-Rageous has never actually struck me as such, although it was pretty much ahead of its time, with even greater use of backwards tapes, tape delay, loops, deft editing, etc. It opens very slowly, with Mike Ratledge doing his own twist on the Terry Riley organ dervish style, which kind of cleverly steps into another slice of Soft Machine riffing (the type of thing the Dutch based Supersister also did) topped by a myriad of solos, which without warning drops into a decaying pattern of organ tones, before again gaining focus as a tripped-out space-jazz, that eventually storms along before returning to a Riley-esque phase as the finalé.

Innovative through and through. But, as you may have sussed, instead of titling loads of pieces and sewing them together, they had instead cut apart various pieces and then sewn them together in a cleverly jumbled fashion to make four suites. Because of this, the many live versions of THIRD material heard since are all quite different, as they went on to develop the compositions, with new musicians adding new ideas, and even some totally unexpected surprises. Material from THIRD can be heard on a good few excellent quality Cuneiform releases.

After this, Robert's role of lead singer became less and less part of the Soft Machine sound. Instead he started to experiment with the voice as an instrument, using electronic gadgetry, echo machines, ring modulator, etc., all taking a Soft Machine concert even further "out there!". One such gig was their unlikely inclusion at the BBC Proms, a classic concert indeed of quintessential Soft Machine.

Robert took all these experimental techniques to the next level with his "solo" debut THE END OF AN EAR on which Robert played drums, vocals, piano, and organ, aided by Soft Machine / Canterbury friends: Mark Charig, Elton Dean, David Sinclair (from Caravan) and others. Although the cover bears the words "out-of-work pop singer" it is certainly no pop album. THE END OF AN EAR is a weird outing from start to finish! I guess a lot of people, like myself, at first thought they'd put the record on at 45 rpm by mistake, as that's what it sounds like, and it still throws many that I've played it to in the UT shop. Elsewhere the record lurches into big band fusion, prog and totally twisted angular rock with clanking drums and avant-garde scat vocals to the fore. Amazing stuff, and still unique.

The jazz phase

album that I've personally never rated as one of their better ones. This is largely due to musical allergy of mine, I can't stand squawky free-jazz type sax playing, and it's an album on which Elton Dean was given far too much freedom for my liking. There's one track I don't like at all. But I won't harp on about it. The strange thing though is that much of the material is documented live as excellent versions elsewhere. Maybe that's down to Elton also playing electric piano giving him less time to idly burble rude screeches on the sax (witness the excellent "Beat Club" DVD included as a bonus with the GRIDES CD for proof of this). For me, FOURTH is the only low point in an otherwise almost flawless run of 9 albums. For some jazz fans, I know that this is their favourite!

The gradual "all change"

With a music more and more based around solos, and an increase in jazziness, it seems that Robert Wyatt had had enough, and he left in 1971 forming his own new outfit Matching Mole (the name comes from a play on "Machine Molle" the French for Soft Machine), featuring Bill McCormick from Quiet Sun, Dave Sinclair of Caravan, and Phil Miller from Delivery, amounting to a veritable supergroup where Robert could again flex his vocal chords. They released two fine albums, essential for fans of early Soft Machine, and later Robert became a successful soloist, releasing at least one classic along the way, the wonderful ROCK BOTTOM.

1971 also saw Elton Dean release his first solo album, which no doubt meant he got the jazz anguish out of his system, and hereon his playing in Soft Machine is quite different. Making use of effects and reverb, there's an air of Charlie Mariano and Klaus Doldinger to his playing on the next Soft Machine album FIVE. With former Nucleus drummer John Marshall joining, Soft Machine became much more tight and vibrant, inventing a whole new jazz-rock vocabulary of cross-genre rock and jazz innovation that was uniquely Soft Machine. The music on FIVE just rattles along, solo after solo, on top of infectious rhythmic drives that avoid the sterility of most jazz of the era. There are pauses and diversions, and lots more that keeps the music fresh even today. Unique black print on black cover too!

Yet, after lots of touring, radio concerts and sessions, Elton decided to leave and form his own band. In fact, he went on to work in all sorts of genres, from free-jazz and avant-garde through to prog. He also featured for a short while with the Dutch band Supersister, who no doubt thought of him when they were left in the lurch without a winds player. Most of his bands and projects have involved other members of the larger "Canterbury Scene" family.

Apparently invited by John Marshall was fellow ex-Nucleus multiinstrumentalist Karl Jenkins. Playing oboe, baritone and soprano saxophones, electric piano, grand piano, and celeste, he was much more than a replacement for Dean, and he had a completely different style that started to draw his aspect of early Nucleus into the Soft Machine sound. Hopper and Marshall were now becoming almost symbiotic, and a wealth of new ideas were brewing, so much so that it became time for another double. SIX ALBUM could be seen as their equivalent to Pink Floyd's UMMAGUMMA, coupling a live LP with an experimental studio LP. Live, Soft Machine had become so technically precise and flawless that they could perform a whole album length suite of segued compositions so that it felt like one big symphonic opus. Lots more keyboards, lots more electronic gadgetry, innovation was the key. The studio LP had 4 very different works: The Soft Weed Factor penned by Jenkins, prophesying where Soft Machine were to go next, Stanley Stamps Gibbon Album (for B.O.) and Chloe And The Pirates by Ratledge revisiting the atmospheric and Riley-esque elements of THIRD, and finally Hopper's weird and fuzz bass dominated 1983.

But, let's step back a moment, Hugh Hopper had just released his debut "solo" album 1984 before this. It was as though the Soft Machine number 1983 was a kind of advert for this. George Orwell's poignant novel couldn't really have inspired a weirder album, with Hugh's fuzz bass to the fore and clanking percussives dominating much of the album, punctuated by a few Soft Machine like diversions. It still challenges many. Seemingly Hugh wanted to do more music like this, and explore other avenues, and he left the band in May 1973. Roy Babbington, who had worked with Soft Machine before (known as a double-bass player with the likes of Michael Gibbs and Keith Tippett) also from Nucleus, was a good choice as replacement.

Roy, in keeping with the increasingly electric focus of Soft Machine, took up 6-string bass guitar, adding a smoother bass underpinning. This meant that although SEVEN was like a development on the live LP from SIX it was a much smoother flowing excursion, again with even more keyboards to the fore, and the inevitable introduction of synthesizer! It was another step away from the jazzy sound of a few years earlier.

Return of the guitar hero!

We may never know quite why, but after all those years without a guitarist (since Daevid Allen's exile) it was now decided that Soft Machine needed a guitar lead. Well, nearly all other fusion bands at the time had a guitar whiz in the band, and SEVEN had been criticised for lacking any real lead focus. So, enter Allan Holdsworth (originally from the eclectic Igginbottom's Wrench) who'd also played with Nucleus and featured on Ian Carr's BELLADONNA album. He joined in December 1973 at a time when the band were also between labels, which meant a whole new repertoire had time to gel and develop before they got to record an album. BUNDLES recorded summer 1974 was even more so Karl Jenkins' show, taking those patent early Nucleus style riffs of his, pitting them against Ratledge's fuzzed keyboards and Holdsworth's guitar. It's a sizzler, and still a favourite, all a complex segue of tracks sewn together as a huge complex suite. It took some time to appear on the market though, not until spring 1975. But, Allan Holdsworth was never one to stay anywhere long, and he absconded to Tony Williams Lifetime just as the band were about to go on tour to promote BUNDLES! Allan suggested John Etheridge as a replacement. John was the first Soft Machine member to not have a Nucleus connection for some time. He was from Darryl Way's Wolf, where he'd proven his talent as one of the hottest guitarists around. Based on live material from this time he fitted into Holdsworth's role almost seamlessly.

In March 1976 the "all-change" was completed as the sole original member Mike Ratledge departed. Karl Jenkins pretty much took over Ratledge's role, with Alan Wakeman stepping-in on saxophones. The final classic Soft Machine SOFTS was recorded in Spring 1976 (it still had Ratledge featured, playing synthesizer on two track) and was amongst the most powerful sizzlers of Soft Machine. Some dismiss as not real Soft Machine. They could have called themselves ex-Nucleus really. It would have been one hell of a way to end the story!

Alive and well? Not really!

After embarking on an extensive European tour there were yet more changes to the line-up: first Alan Wakeman departed with violinist Ric Sanders filling his role, then Babbington also left replaced briefly by Percy Jones (from Brand X) and then Steve Cook (of Gilgamesh and Mirage). The live album documenting this line-up ALIVE AND WELL, RECORDED IN PARIS recorded in July 1977 is an odd one in that it starts as classic SOFTS styled fusion, with some welcome new twists, but somehow gets lost in the middle, ending up as a type of synthispace-disco music at the end.

Quite where this "electro" element came from wasn't apparent at the time, as a version of Soft Machine under the guises of Rubber Riff and Rubba had been making music for the DeWolfe library label incognito for a couple of years. The album RUBBER RIFF had the line-up of: Karl Jenkins (keyboards, flute, saxophone), John Etheridge (guitars), Roy Babbington (bass), John Marshall (drums) and Karl's wife: Carol Barratt (keyboards). It amounted to what sounded like safe sanitised Soft Machine, in small chunks, with the accent on tunes and dramatic themes instead of solos. The two albums by Rubba PUSH BUTTON and MOVEMENT are occasionally nice, but are chiefly quirky/cheesy commercial music with dodgy synths to the fore! The compositions are credited to Jenkins and Ratledge, but there's no documentation as to who the band actually were.

Anyway, I digress, as Soft Machine eventually ran out of steam after this. Whether they split up or just became an occasional "back burner" project I'm not sure. Their last gig of the 1970s is said to be December 1978, in Bremen, Germany. The 1981 album LAND OF COCKAYNE saw Jenkins, Marshall and Holdsworth together again, with former Cream bassist Jack Bruce. It's not an album I can honestly comment on though, as I've never been able to play it all! Over-produced, schmaltzy and just plain bad, it's a shame that it was ever released if you ask me. A much more interesting album is Second Vision's FIRST STEPS, with Etheridge and Sanders from 1980, which sounds much more like a logical sequel to SOFTS, albeit a more mellow affair.

Apparently a version of Soft Machine got together for a series of gigs at the Soho Ronnie Scotts club in the summer of 1984, with a line-up of Jenkins, Marshall, Etheridge, with Dave MacRae (keyboards) and Paul Carmichael (bass). The Karl Jenkins' Soft Machine saga ends there, sadly as a rather wet whimper.

The legacy

As told above, there have been a number of attempts at Soft Machine "reformations" with various line-ups. There are also related projects of note that I should mention here.

1n the 1970s there were the "illegitimate" Soft Machine modelled outfits: Soft Head and Soft Heap involving Hugh Hopper and Elton Dean, which were semi-successful, except that Elton was given too much room to squawk on the sax at will, which ruined them for me. Many other such incarnations existed, although they were largely in the avant-garde jazz field.

The most Soft Machine like albums of the 1970s that are not Soft Machine all have Hugh Hopper as a key player. There are two Hopper solo albums: HOPPER TUNITY BOX which features a luminary cast of Canterbury talent, patent Soft Machine riffs, diversions, and some new inventions, and the even more explorative MONSTER BAND which had one side with his band live in France (very much in the Soft Machine FIVE vein) and a side of Hugh in multi-tracking mode developing a unique twist on his "1983"/"1984" works. They both feature Dean, but in a more controlled mode, in fact on these he's excellent! There's also the second Isotope album ILLUSION. Gary Boyle's fusion outfit Isotope were often a mite too fiddly for my taste, but on ILLUSION Hugh seemed to weld it all together, his fuzz bass playing a key role. It's a classic! Hugh has tried out many other styles since, and still occasionally surprises. His discography is vast!

As I said earlier in this article, Kevin Ayers went on to be quite prolific as a soloist. Generally his albums become more diverse and patchy, and more lyrical, which is a big minus if too much of Ayers singing grates on the senses, especially with pop pastiche playing an all the more important role in his work. Okay in small doses, but... Anyway, because of this I cut-off his work in the "Related of interest" listing (below) after CONFESSIONS OF DR. DREAM, arguably his last good one, which in some ways is his most experimental. Kevin's career proves to me that his leaving Soft Machine was indeed a good thing, else they'd never have been able to explore and go where they did! I'd have to say that my favourite album involving Kevin Ayers is the wonderfully eccentric album by poetess Lady June. Not at all like Soft Machine in any way, but a real fun one!

Robert Wyatt, as you may know, had a big career change after an accident which left him wheelchair bound. That hiatus gave him plenty of time to come up with the exceptionally creative and unique ROCK BOTTOM, an album with a superb cast and a very clever twisting and reinventing of his early Soft Machine work. After that Robert tried his hand as a pop singer, before he found a new vocation as a left-field experimental protest singer (?), having success on the fringe of the newwave, and has sporadically remained active through to today.

Mike Ratledge also did some session work with other bands in the 1970s, but since leaving Soft Machine he's largely worked in the studio together with Karl Jenkins. Besides the Rubba albums he and Karl Jenkins had been doing TV and soundtrack work. They also both featured with the band Planet Earth (who later turned into Sky), did much in the way of session work and other such things that led to the commercially successful Adiemus.

Eventually though a serious attempt at Soft Machine reformation bore fruit in 2002 under the guise of "Soft Works" with the line-up of: Elton Dean (alto saxophone, saxello, electric piano), Allan Holdsworth (guitar, synthaxe), Hugh Hopper (bass), John Marshall (drums), releasing the album ABRACADABRA (Universal, Japan 2003) a lineup that I don't ever recall playing together before, and it didn't really work for me either. Too polished, I guess Allan had been working in the USA too long! Apparently the project soon folded after Allan Holdsworth pulled-out, and again in his place came John Etheridge (sometimes history uncannily repeats itself) for the much more successful "Soft Machine Legacy" project. They've issued at least four albums to date: LIVE IN ZAANDAM (2005), SOFT MACHINE LEGACY (2006), NEW MORNING (2006), and STEAM (2007) with the latter featuring Gong's Theo Travis as replacement for the late Elton Dean. Soft Machine Legacy tend to do a mixture of old and new material, including a good few old classics as well as many new ideas. At least now the Soft Machine story doesn't end with a whimper but with a rebirth that's well-worth experiencing live so I'm told. The story goes on!

Discography...

This discography lists only the original LPs, other British and notable European pressings and European CD reissues

Soft Machine

Love Makes Sweet Music / Feelin' Reelin' Squeelin'
7" Polydor BM56151 (1967)

THE SOFT MACHINE
LP Probe CPLPS 4500 (USA, 1968), Probe PLP 4500 (1968),
ABC 602 (1973), Big Beat WIKA57 (198?)

Joy Of A Toy / Why Are We Sleeping?
7" Probe 452 (USA, 1968)

VOLUME TWO
LP Probe CPLPS4505 (USA, 1969), Probe SPB 1002 (1969), Big Beat WIKA58 (198?)

THIRD
2LP CBS 66246 (1970), CBS Embassy 30339 (197?)
CD Beat Goes On BGOCD180 (1993) slightly edited
CD Columbia Rewind 471407 2 (199?)

FOURTH
LP CBS 64280 (1971), CBS Embassy 30754 (197?)
CD Columbia Rewind 473003 2 (1993)

FIFTH
LP CBS 64806 (1972), CBS Embassy 31748 (1979)
CD Columbia Rewind 473002 2 (1993)

SIX ALBUM
2LP CBS 68214 (1973),
CD Columbia Rewind 473001 2 (1993)

SEVEN
LP CBS 65799 (1974)
CD Columbia Rewind 473004 2 (1993)

BUNDLES
LP Harvest SHSP 4044 (1975), Harvest 064 96356 (Germany, 1975)
CD See For Miles SEE CD 283 (1990)

SOFTS
LP Harvest SHSP 4056 (1976)
CD See For Miles SEE CD 285 (1990)

ALIVE AND WELL - RECORDED IN PARIS
LP Harvest SHSP 4083 (1978)
CD See For Miles SEE CD 290 (1990)

Soft Space
7" Harvest SPSR 419 (1978), Harvest HAR5155 (?)

LAND OF COCKAYNE
LP EMI EMC3348 (1981)
CD One Way Records S21-18936 (USA, 199?)

Compilations

SOFT MACHINE / GONG: COMPLETE FAMILY
2LP Byg Records 529.201 (1971) inc. 1 side of 1967 Soft Machine

VOLUMES ONE & TWO
2LP ABC ABCL5004 (1974)

CD Big Beat CDWIKD 920 (1989) 2LPs on 1CD

TRIPLE ECHO
3LP Harvest SHTW 800 (1977) inc. debut single & Peel sessions 1969/70

UNTOUCHABLE
CD Castle CCSCD 281 (1990) Harvest selection

AS IF
CD Elite 006CD (1991) CBS selection from 3/4/5/6

FOURTH / FIFTH
CD Columbia Rewind 493341 2 (1999) 2LPs on 1CD

MAN IN A DEAF CORNER
2CD Sanctuary CMDDD897 (2004)

KINGS OF CANTERBURY
2CD Snapper/Recall SMCD 740 (2003)

SIX / SEVEN
CD Edsel MEDCD740 (2004) 3LPs on 2CD

OUT-BLOODY RAGEOUS (ANTHOLOGY 1967-1973)
CD Sony/Columbia 520039 2 (2005)

Archives...

CANTERBURIED SOUNDS (1962-64)
series featuring: The Wilde Flowers, Robert Wyatt,proto-Soft Machine, etc...
VOLUME 1 - CD Voiceprint VP201CD (1998)
VOLUME 2 - CD Voiceprint VP202CD (1998)
VOLUME 3 - CD Voiceprint VP203CD (1998)
VOLUME 4 - CD Voiceprint VP204CD (1998)

THE DAEVID ALLEN TRIO - LIVE 1963 (1963)
CD Voiceprint VP122CD (1993)

THE WILDE FLOWERS - TALES OF (1964/65)
CD Voiceprint VP123CD (1993)

AT THE BEGINNING (1967)
the Ayers, Allen, Ratledge & Wyatt, DeLane Lea Studios sessions
on ROCK GENERATION 7 - LP Byg Records 529 707 (France, 1971) 1 side
on ROCK GENERATION 8 - LP Byg Records 529 708 (France, 1971) 1 side
FACE AND PLACE VOL. 7 - LP Byg Records 529 507 (France, 1972)
SOFT MACHINE - LP 2001 Metronome 200.137 (Germany, 1973)
AT THE BEGINNING - LP Charly CR300014 (1977)
JET PROPELLED PHOTOGRAPHS - LP Decal LIK36 (1988), CD Spalax 14816 (France, 1995), CD Charly SNAP133CD (1997)

MIDDLE EARTH MASTERS (16/9/1967)
CD Cuneiform RUNE235 (2006)

SOFT MACHINE TURNS ON VOLUME 1 (1967/1968)
from Middle Earth & Speakeasy clubs, & early demos
CD Voiceprint VP231CD (2001)

SOFT MACHINE TURNS ON VOLUME 2 (1967/1968)
Amsterdam 10/12/67, Middle Earth 10/11/67, Iowa USA 11/8/68
CD Voiceprint VP234CD (2001)

LIVE AT THE PARADISO 1969 (29/3/1969)

CD bootleg (198?), Voiceprint VP193CD (1994)

SPACED (5/1969)
CD Cuneiform Records RUNE 90 (1996)

BACKWARDS (11/1969+5/1970)
CD Cuneiform Records RUNE 170 (1998)

NOISETTE (4/1/1970)
CD Cuneiform Records RUNE 130 (2000)

BREDA REACTOR 1971 (31/1/1970)
CD Voiceprint VP345CD (2005)

SOMEWHERE IN SOHO (20-25/4/1970)
2CD Voiceprint VP262CD (2004)

FACELIFT (26/4/1970)
CD Voiceprint VP233CD (2003)

LIVE AT THE PROMS 1970 (13/8/1970)
LP Reckless Records RECK 5 (1988)

aka LIVE 1970 - inferior version, but also includes 2 extra tracks (2/1970)
CD Blueprint BP290CD (1998)

GRIDES (25/10/1970+23/3/1971)
CD+DVD Cuneiform Records RUNE 230/231 (2006)

BBC RADIO 1 LIVE IN CONCERT (11/3/1971)

aka SOFT MACHINE AND HEAVY FRIENDS
CD Hux Records HUX067 (2005)

VIRTUALLY (23/3/1971)
CD Cuneiform Records RUNE 100 (1998)

LIVE IN FRANCE (2/5/72)

aka LIVE IN PARIS
2CD Cuneiform Records RUNE 195/196 (2004)

BBC RADIO 1 LIVE IN CONCERT (20/7/1972)

aka SOFTSTAGE
CD Hux Records HUX 070 (200?)

FLOATING WORLD (29/1/1975)
CD Moonjune Records MJR 007 (2006)

BRITISH TOUR 75 (10/1975)
CD MLP10CD (2005)

The original note here about Voiceprint and Blueprint reissues is no longer relevant as all such titles are now deleted

Radio sessions...

THE PEEL SESSIONS [SOFT MACHINE TURNS ON]
2LP Strange Fruit SFRLP 201 (1990)
2CD Strange Fruit SFRCD 201 (1990)

BBC RADIO 1967-1971
2CD Hux Records HUX 037 (2003)

BBC RADIO 1971-1974
2CD Hux Records HUX 047 (2003)

Incognito...

RUBBER RIFF

LP DeWolfe 3331 (197?)
CD Blueprint BP190CD (1994)

RUBBA - PUSH BUTTON
LP DeWolfe (19??)

RUBBA - MOVEMENT
LP Rouge (19??)

DE WOLFE SESSIONS
2LP Turning Point Music (Italy, 2002) compilation

Related of interest...

Musician key...

Kevin Ayers KA, Roy Babbington RB, Elton Dean ED, Hugh Hopper HH, Karl Jenkins KJ, John Marshall JM, Mike Ratledge MR, Robert Wyatt RW

Kevin Ayers - JOY OF A TOY - LP Harvest SHVL 763 (1969), CD BGO BGOCD78 (1990) KA HH MR RW

Julie Driscoll - 1969 - LP Polydor 2480 074 (1969) ED KJ

Kevin Ayers - Singing A Song In The Morning / Eleanors Cake - 7" Harvest HAR 5011 (1970) KA

Kevin Ayers - Butterfly Dance / Puis Je? - 7" Harvest HAR 5027 (1970) KA

Kevin Ayers - SHOOTING AT THE MOON- LP Harvest SHSP 4005 (1970), CD BGOCD13 (1990) KA MR RW

Syd Barrett - THE MADCAP LAUGHS - LP Harvest SHVL 765 (1970) HH MR RW

Carol Grimes with Delivery - FOOLS MEETING - LP B&C CAS 1023 (1970) RB

Nucleus - ELASTIC ROCK - LP Vertigo 6360 008 (1970) KJ JM

Nucleus - WE'LL TALK ABOUT IT LATER - LP Vertigo 6360 027 (1970) KJ JM

Keith Tippett - BLUE PRINT - LP RCA SF 8290 (1970) RB

Keith Tippett - YOU ARE HERE... I AM THERE - LP Polydor 2384 004 (1970) ED

Daevid Allen - BANANA MOON - LP Byg Records 529.345 (France, 1971) RW

Kevin Ayers - Stranger In Blue Suede Shoes / Stars - 7" Harvest HAR 5042 (1971) KA

Centipede - SEPTOBER ENERGY - 2LP Neon NE9 (1971), RCA DPS5042 (1974), CD BGO CD485 (2000) RB ED KJ JM RW

Lol Coxhill - EAR OF THE BEHOLDER - LP Dandelion 69 001 (1971) KA RW

Elton Dean - ELTON DEAN - LP CBS 64539 (1971) ED RB MR

Don 'Sugar Cane' Harris - SUGAR CANE GOT THE BLUES - LP MPS/BASF 21 21283-1 (Germany, 1971) RW

Heads Hands & Feet - SAME - Island ILPS 9149 (1971) ED

New Violin Summit - LIVE AT BERLIN JAZZFESTIVAL - LP MPS 33 21285-8 (Germany, 1971) RW

Nucleus - SOLAR PLEXUS - LP Vertigo 6360 039 (1971) KJ JM

Keith Tippett Group - DEDICATED TO YOU, BUT YOU WEREN'T LISTENING - LP Vertigo 6360 024 (1971) RB ED RW

Robert Wyatt - THE END OF AN EAR - LP CBS 64189 (1971), CBS Embassy 31846 (1978), CD Columbia Rewind 473005 2 (1993) ED RW

Neil Ardley - SYMPHONY OF AMARANTHS - LP Regal Zonophone SLRZ 1028 (1972) KJ

Kevin Ayers - Oh! What A Wet Dream / Connie On A Rubber Band - 7" Harvest HAR 5064 (1972) KA

Kevin Ayers - WHATEVERSHEBRINGSWESING - LP Harvest SHVL 800 (1972), CD BGO BGOCD11 (1989) KA RW

David Bedford - NURSES SONG WITH ELEPHANTS - LP Dandelion 2310 165 (1972) KA

Volker Kriegel - INSIDE: MISSING LINK - 2LP MPS 33 21431-1 (Germany, 1972) JM

Matching Mole - MATCHING MOLE - LP CBS 64850 (1972), CBS Embassy 32105 (1982), CD BGOCD175 (1993), Columbia Rewind 471489 2 (199?) RW

Kevin Ayers - BANANAMOUR - LP Harvest SHVL 807 (1973), CD BGO BGOCD142 (1992) KA MR RW

Michael Gibbs - JUST AHEAD - LP Polydor 2683 011 (1973) RB JM

Hugh Hopper - 1984 - LP CBS 65466 (1973), Atmosphere IRI 5010 (France, 1980), CD Mantra 051 (France, 1996), Cuneiform RUNE 104 (1998) HH JM

Volker Kriegel - LIFT! - LP MPS 21 21753-1 (Germany, 1973) JM

Matching Mole - LITTLE RED RECORD - LP CBS 65260 (1973), CBS Embassy 32148 (1982), CD BGOCD174 (1993), Columbia Rewind 471488 2 (199?) RW

Nucleus - LABYRINTH - LP Vertigo 6360 091 (1973) RB

Ovary Lodge - OVARY LODGE - LP CBS SF 8372 (1973) RB

John Surman - MORNING GLORY - LP Island ILPS 9237 (1973) JM

Stomu Yamash'ta & East Wind - FREEDOM IS FRIGHTENING - LP Island ILPS 9242 (1973) HH

Kevin Ayers - CONFESSIONS OF DR. DREAM - LP Island ILPS 9263 (1974), CD BGO BGOCD86 (1991) KA MR

Ayers/Cale/Eno/Nico - JUNE 1, 1974 - LP Island ILPS 9291 (1974) KA RW

Coxhill/Miller - THE STORY SO FAR / OH... REALLY - LP Caroline C1507 (1974) KA RW

Hatfield & The North - HATFIELD & THE NORTH - LP Virgin V2008 (1974) RW

Lady June - LINGUISTIC LEPROSY - LP Caroline C1509 (1974) KA RW

Robert Wyatt - ROCK BOTTOM - LP Virgin V2017 (1974), CD Virgin CDV 2017 (1989) HH RW

Stomu Yamash'ta & East Wind - ONE BY ONE - LP Island ILPS 9269 (1974) HH

Robert Wyatt - I'm A Believer / Memories - 7" Virgin VS114 (1974) RW

Brian Eno - TAKING TIGER MOUNTAIN (BY STRATEGY) - LP Island ILPS 9309 (1975) RW

Isotope - ILLUSION - LP Gull GULP 1006 (1975) HH

Phil Manzanera - DIAMOND HEAD - LP Island ILPS 9315 (1975) RW

Julie Tippetts - SUNSET GLOW - LP Utopia UTS601 (1975) ED

Robert Wyatt - RUTH IS STRANGER THAN RICHARD - LP Virgin V2034 (1975), CD Virgin CDV 2034 (1989) RW

Henry Cow - CONCERTS - 2LP Caroline CAD3002 (1976) RW

Hopper/Dean/Tippett/Gallivan - OH FOR THE EDGE - LP Ogun OG 900 (1976) ED HH

Isotope - DEEP END - LP Gull GULP 1017 (1976) HH

Michael Mantler - THE HAPLESS CHILD - LP Watt WATT4 (1976) RW

Jan Steele/John Cage - VOICES AND INSTRUMENTS - LP Obscure 5 (1976) RW

Elton Dean Quartet - THEY ALL BE ON THIS OLD ROAD - LP Ogun OG410 (1977) ED

Elton Dean & Alan Skidmore - EL SKID - LP Vinyl VS103 (1977) ED

Dean/Wheeler/Gallivan - THE CHEQUE IS IN THE MAIL - LP Ogun OG610 (1977) ED

Hugh Hopper - HOPPER TUNITY BOX - LP Compendium FIDARDO7 (Norway, 1977), CD Cuneiform RUNE 240 (2007) ED HH

Hopper/Dean/Tippett/Gallivan - CRUEL BUT FAIR - LP Compendium FIDARDO4 (Norway, 1977) ED HH

Intercontinental Express - LONDON - LP Compendium FIDARDO 8 (Norway, 1977) ED

Michael Mantler - SILENCE - LP Watt WATT5 (1977) RW

Dudu Pukwana - DIAMOND EXPRESS - LP Freedom FLP 41044 (1977) ED

Robert Wyatt - Yesterday Man / Sonia - 7" Virgin VS115 (1977) RW

Carla Bley - EUROPEAN TOUR 1977 - LP Watt WATT8 (1978) ED HH

Elton Dean's Ninesense - HAPPY DAZE - LP Ogun OG910 (1978) ED

Brian Eno - AMBIENT #1 MUSIC FOR AIRPORTS - LP Ambient AMBC001 (1978) RW

Planet Earth - PLANET EARTH - LP Pye NSPL 18556 (1978) KJ RW

Soft Head - ROGUE ELEMENT - LP Ogun OG527 (1978) ED HH

Soft Heap - SOFT HEAP - LP Charly WATT8 (1978) ED HH

Keith Tippett's Ark - FRAMES - 2LP Ogun OGD0034 (1978) ED

Gilgamesh - ANOTHER FINE TUNE YOU'VE GOT ME INTO - LP Charly CRL 5009 (1979) HH

Hugh Hopper - MONSTER BAND - LP Atmosphere IRI 5003 (France, 1979), CD Culture Press 3012782 (1996) ED HH

Elton Dean Quintet - BOUNDARIES - LP Japo 60033 (1980) ED

Hopper/Gowen - TWO RAINBOWS DAILY - LP Europa/Red ROUGE1 (1980), CD Cuneiform RUNE 77 (USA, 1995) HH

Matching Mole - BBC RADIO 1 LIVE IN CONCERT (27/7/72) - CD Windsong WINCD 063 (1994) RW

Matching Mole - SMOKE SIGNALS (1972) - CD Cuneiform RUNE 150 (USA, 2001) RW

Matching Mole - MARCH (3/1972) - CD Cuneiform RUNE 172 (USA, 2001) RW

The above listing is not a complete discography!

AD Music Ltd., 5 Albion Road, Bungay, Suffolk, NR35 1LQ, England. [www.admusiconline.com] [email: admin@admusiconline.com]
Altres [www.altres.co.uk] [info@altres.co.uk]
Auricle Music -> Ultima Thule (UK)
Gregorio Bardini, Via Delle Querce 15, 39011 Lana (BZ), Italy
Barking Green / Buzzle, Tim Story, P.O. Box 415, Maumee, Oh 43537, USA [storypod@aol.com]
Enrico Bassi, c/o Via Ungheria 109, 36025 Movent Vil, VI - Italy
Neil Campbell [www.neilcampbellcollective.com]
Celeno / N.R. Hills [http://homepage.ntlworld.com/nrhills]
Cuneiform Records, P.O. Box 8427, Silver Spring, MD 20907-8427, USA. [www.cuneiformrecords.com]
Cyclops Records, P.O. Box 834a, K-O-T & Surbiton, Surrey, KT1 9BZ. [Fax. 020 8397 2998] [www.gft-cyclops.co.uk] ☐ Pinnacle Records (UK)
DiN, 38 Church Lane, Ormesby, Middlesbrough. TS7 9AP, England. [01642 327 482] [www.din.org.uk] [email: info@din.org.uk]
ECM [www.ecmrecords.com] -> New Note (UK)
Eternity's Jest / Quarkspace, PMB 212, 1487 West Fifth Avenue, Columbus, OH 43212, USA. [www.quarkspace.com] [pwdood@quarkspace.com]
4Zero [www.4zerorecords.co.uk] -> Shellshock/Pinnacle
Garden of Delights [email: garden-of-delights@t-online.de]
Geometrik Records [www.geometrikrecords.com]
ICR [www.icrdistribution.com] -> Cargo (UK)
Important Records [www.ImportantRecords.com] -> F Minor/Cargo (UK)
Lunar Dunes -> Cadiz/Pinnacle (UK)
Moon City Music / Black Carrot [www.blackcarrot.net]
Musea Productions & Distribution, 138, rue de Vallières, 57070 Metz, France. [Fax: +33 387 366473] [www.musearecords.com] [data@musearecords.com]
Points Of Friction, c/o Spagyric, 19241 Kenya St., Northridge, CA 91326, USA [www.pointsoffriction.com]
Brendan Pollard [brendon.pollard@ntlworld.com]
Poseidon/Vital etc. -> Musea Distribution
Prudence, BSC Music, P.O. Box 46, 82055 Icking, Germany. [+49 8178 1533, Fax. +49 8178 1212] [www.bscmusic.com]
Ricochet Dream, PO Box 153, Red Bank, NJ 07701, USA [www.ricochetdream.com]
Nachtricht/Rixongs [rick@rcrane7.fsnet.co.uk]
September Gurls, Sigmundstrasse 92, 90431 Nürnberg, Germany.

[Fax. +49 911 318233] [www.septembergurlsrecords.com]
Spotted Peccary [www.spottedpeccary.com]
Synkronos P.O. Box 22, Upper Darby, PA 19082-0022, USA.
[www.synkronosmusic.com] [info@synkronosmusic.com]
Synthetic Symphony -> SPV (Germany -> Cadiz/Pinnacle (UK)
Transubstans, c/o Record Heaven, Box 24, 274 02 Skivarp, Sweden
[+40 466644] [www.recordheaven.net] [record.heaven@telia.com]
Trigon, Rainer Lange, Gebhardstr. 29, 76135 Karlsruhe, Germany
[www.heavyzenjazz.de] [www.trigon.in] [rainer@trigon.in]
Virta [Andekdoten] -> Shellshock/Pinnacle [UK]

Note: many of the addresses above may no longer be valid, and are of historical reference only. Use a web search engine like Google or a resource like Discogs to find current addresses.

Ultima Thule [the retail arm and publisher of Audion] can supply many titles reviewed in Audion, or at least may be able to help you locate them. Phone and ask for Alan if you have an enquiry, and I'll see what I can do. Ultima Thule offer a specialist mail-order service dealing with the types of music you'll find in Audion, but are not able to stock everything.

Ultima Thule, 21 Heather Road, Leicester, LE2 6DF, England.

Phone 0116 2702354
www.ultimathulerecords.com
PayPal: utle2uk@btconnect.com
https://www.facebook.com/groups/ultimathulemusic/

Distributors (i.e. Pinnacle, EMI, Universal, BMG) generally only work through retailers, and will not deal directly with the public, you will need to order their products through a record retailer! These days, most businesses have easy to find web-sites, and can be contacted by e-mail.

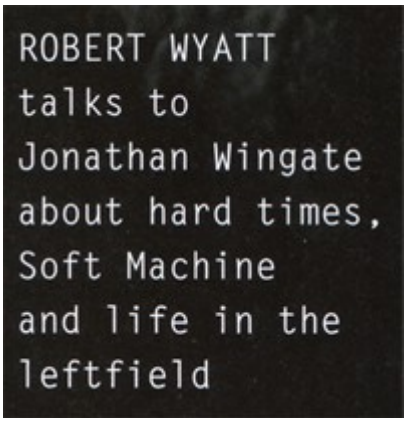
-> denotes who distributes the label (enquire with a retailer, i.e. Ultima Thule, Wayside Music, Musea, HMV, Fnac).

When no contact address is given it usually means one of two things...
1) there is no address given on the album.
2) the reviewer didn't supply any such information to Audion.

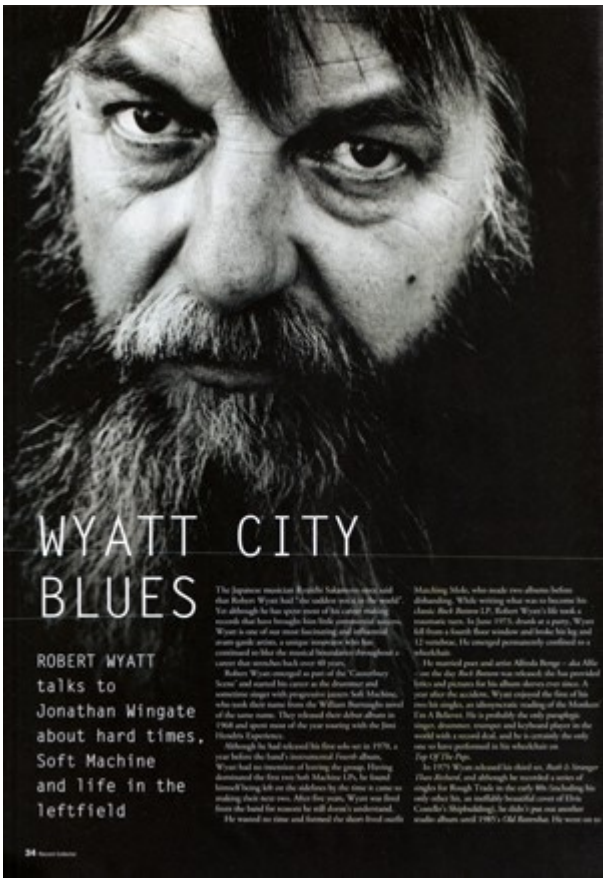
Previous article Next article

Back to the list

ABÉCÉDAIRE



Les années Before | Soft Machine | Matching Mole | Solo | With Friends | Samples | Compilations | V.A. | Bootlegs | Reprises



HOME

Wyatt City Blues - Record Collector N° 345 - January 2008

WYATT CITY BLUES

The Japanese musician Ryuichi Sakamoto once said that Robert Wyatt had "the saddest voice in the world". Yet although he has spent most of his career making records that have brought him little commercial success, Wyatt is one of our most fascinating and influential avant-garde artists, a unique innovator who has continued to blur the musical boundaries throughout a

Robert Wyatt emerged as part of the 'Canterbury Scene' and started his career as the drummer and sometime singer with progressive jazzers Soft Machine, who took their name from the William Burroughs novel of the same name. They released their debut album in 1968 and spent most of the year touring with the Jimi Hendrix Experience.
Although he had released his first solo set in 1970, a year before the band's instrumental Fourth album, Wyatt had no intention of leaving the group. Having dominated the first two Soft Machine LPs, he found himself being left on the sidelines by the time it came to making their next two. After five years, Wyatt was fired from the band for reasons he still doesn't understand.
He wasted no time and formed the short-lived outfit Matching Mole, who made two albums before career that stretches back over 40 years.

disbanding. While writing what was to become classic Rock Bottom LP, Robert Wyatt's life took a traumatic turn. In June 1973, drunk at a party, Wyatt fell from a fourth floor window and broke his leg and 12 vertebrae. He emerged permanently confined to a wheelchair.

He married poet and artist Alfreda Benge - aka Alfie - on the day Rock Bottom was released; she has provided lyrics and pictures for his album sleeves ever since. A year after the accident, Wyatt enjoyed the first of his two hit singles, an idiosyncratic reading of the Monkees' I'm A Believer. He is probably the only paraplegic singer, drummer, trumpet and keyboard player in the world with a record deal, and he is certainly the only one to have performed in his wheelchair on Top Of The Pops.

In 1975 Wyatt released his third set, Ruth Is Stranger Than Richard, and although he recorded a series of singles for Rough Trade in the early 80s (including his only other hit, an ineffably beautiful cover of Elvis Costello's Shipbuilding), he didn't put out another studio album until 1985's Old Rottenhat. He went on to records a series of groundbreaking records including Dondestan, Shleep and his last L.P, Cukooland, which earned Wyatt more mainstream attention than any of his previous albums and featured illustrious guests such as Paul Weller, Phil Manzanera, David Gilmour and Brian Eno.

Wyatt's new set, Comicopera, is an astonishing 16-song concept album in three acts. Much like most of his work, it is not what you would call a jazz alb that could only have been created by a jazz man. Recorded at Wyatt's house in Louth and at Manzanera's Gallery Studio, Comicopera again features Weller, Manzanera and Eno alongside a crack horn session that includes Annie Whitehead and Gilad Atzmon.

Although Wyatt has suffered from periodic bouts of depression throughout his life, he is in fine form when we meet in the member's bar on the top floor of the recently refurbished Festival Hall on a muggy autumn morning. Having declined his publicist's offer of a pre-interview breakfast ("Alfie nicked a couple of croissants from the hotel for me to have on the journey here"), Wyatt is fizzing with so much enthusiasm that he doesn't stop talking for over two hours.

C*omicopera* sounds very different to your last few albums.

Well, I try not to repeat myself, but although the voice is the same old thing, it gets lower and lower, and as I sink into the abyss, I grab out for other musicians and singers to help me do the high notes. Over the last 30 years, I've probably lost about an octave at the top and added one at the bottom. It's old age...that and the fags.

Can you take us through Comicopera's three sections?

The first third seems to fall into relationship stuff, man and woman losing each other, foggy things that happen between people and attempts at love between people where it's quite hard for one reason or another. The second bit leaves that kind of enclosed space, and it's just me pottering about England, which I see as a kind of rather scrappy, unkempt Methodist chapel. It's not that I sit there deliberating, choosing metaphors; it just seems to come out like that. But there's merriment in there in the second bit. I like comedy myself.

When I was in the studio with Monica Vasconcelos - who sings on Just As You Are — she said "You're so playful in the studio." And that's the nicest thing anybody has ever said about me. I just really like having fun. I hate to say this joke, but deep down, I'm shallow. It sort of sums it up, really. It's a bit like Ivor [Cutler]; deep down he was utterly trivial, just a sort of childish joke thing, but the legacy of being Jewish and the tragedy of his people sat with him very uneasily, and it was almost like carrying a great weight. My great weight is English-speaking people, the Empire.

Does that weigh heavily on you? It really does, and as an artist, I feel un-entertained by it. There are people who are poor and old fashioned, but they always seem to wear fantastic clothes and cook fantastic food. The further Western civilisation has gone, they get Anglicised and they go around wearing horrible sports clothes, eating hamburgers and getting fat watching fucking Britney Spears on telly.

For hundreds of years, I think we have absolutely lowered the tone of every neighbourhood we've gone into, and we think we're elevating. I just feel ashamed and offended at what my tax money is being spent on. For example, we're being told to watch our carbon footprint. How much carbon footprint does the average bombing raid on Basra use up compared with me and my refuse? Fuck off.

There are two particularly moving songs that address the situation, told from the perspective of the person doing the bombing and the person being bombed.
The narrator actually shifts. At the end of the second section I'm both the euphoric bomber (A Beautiful War), and the apoplectic bombed person (Out Of The Blue). It shifts about in a way that I haven't consciously done in the past.

The third section sees a shift from songs in English to Italian and Spanish. Did you decide not to sing in English as a protest against the war in Iraq?
Sort of. After the bombing it's to do with feeling completely alienated from Anglo-American culture, just sort of being silent as an English-speaking person because of this fucking war. Now I'm in my 60s, I know I'm never gonna see a world in which the English-speaking people are not thumping round the world telling Johnny Foreigner what to do, and that did hit me with a sort of thud. The last thing I sing in English is: "You've planted all your everlasting hatred in my heart."

Do you find it difficult articulating these quite complex political issues in your music without feeling a little clumsy?
I do find it difficult, because clumsy and diatribal aren't things I want to be. In fact, I really don't think what I sing makes any difference anyway, because I know enough about politics to know that politics is just about power, guns and money. I just don't think politics is about artists. I wouldn't trust most of us as far as you could throw us anyway. Artists are like cheerleaders at a football match; you can scream "Arsenal" until your head falls off, but it won't get them another goal. I'm mostly concerned with making a really nice sounding record and how to have a little fun in the studio. I'd be happy not to write about this stuff, it's just these are the things that come to the surface. I'd much rather live in a kinder world or one where I was ignorant to it. Matisse never addressed the issues in the world around him, but Picasso did. They're both great painters, it's just how it worked for them.

Are you still a card-carrying communist?
No, because there is no such thing as a communist. It's like saying are you still Yugoslavian? The thing I probably feel most affectionate about is the old left-wing revolutionary romantic sort of moments which caught my imagination in the 70s and 80s. As anachronistic as that is, it's probably even more deeply imbedded in me than all the art and music stuff. It's stayed with me, and it means a lot to me.

Were you conscious of trying to capture the sound of a band playing together in a room for this album?
Yes, it's like a fantasy band, and even though that band could not exist, it does exist for a couple of weeks when we're making the record. Everything the musicians play is fairly spontaneous. We're not playing together in the studio, because I actually work with musicians individually and then put it all together layer by layer afterwards.

Did you miss being in a band after Soft Machine?
Well, I never missed being in a group after them, I missed being in a group after Matching Mole. That was a very merry little band, although we only made a couple of LPs and then I fell out of a window before the third. It never settled, really, but then to be fair to the others, I don't think any band I was with ever could have settled.
I just can't imagine a group which could do all the different things that there are to do,

which is why I prefer the way I work now, which is to get appropriate people for each particular project. On the second track on this record, it's me with Yaron Stavi doing most of it along with Paul Weller on guitar and Monica and me doing the vocals. Well, that particular group isn't appropriate to do any other song on the record.

Would you say you are still learning at this stage in your career?
I think age is nothing but a good thing, because I just keep on learning stuff and working out how to do things. It's just a continuous, bigger, better, brighter world for me in terms of working musically. I can't believe I get to do this stuff, and I've now got the courage to ask these musicians to do things and then they do other stuff beyond it. What I like from the best jazz is the fact that the colours aren't just an instrument, they're the person who plays it. So it's not just a tenor sax or trombone, it's Gilad Atzmon and Annie Whitehead.

Can you take us through your writing process?
It varies. On the whole, I just fiddle around with chords on the keyboard and then if I've got a chord shift that can be quite arresting, I'll just record it and then keep working on it or put it away. I don't even sit down and try to do it, I just have to get things out and write things down. My room is a mess of bits of paper and notebooks with comments and drawings and observations, some of which turn into words for songs. The reason I don't write many songs is because the words don't often match the music, unless you sort of lever it in; I don't like doing that. I like to find a phrase that just sits on to the tune like it was made for it.

In the past, you have compared the way you write to an animal hunting.
That's right, just snuffling about, and if it smells good, I'll go towards it. I do that with chords and with words. I honestly have no idea what it means, I'm just drawn along by my nose. The only trouble with interviews is that it sounds like everything is the result of some kind of intellectual deliberation, whereas the deliberation and analysis comes afterwards and before, but not while I'm doing it. I work entirely by instinct.

Do you spend most of your time thinking about music?
I don't know about that. I don't think about music in terms of me making it, but I am very interested in it, and I listen to acres of music every day. My record collection goes from around the time I was born right through to about Coltrane dying, which is also, funnily enough, about the time I started making money when playing in London in '67, when all us boy-next-door types started to get into pop groups and rock groups. It's all very merry, but it ain't Coltrane.

How do you look back on those times now?
I think of those times as just murky and uncomfortable and lonely, always being the wrong person in the wrong place with the wrong people. It's just a very uncomfortable period for me, the late 60s. I tend not to think about that period very much. I go into the tunnel sort of around then, and I come out around '73 with Alfie, working towards Rock Bottom. Then I can sort of pick up the pieces from there.

Coming out of that live-fast-die-young era of the 60s, did you expect to die before you reached middle age? Oh yeah, absolutely. I actually attempted suicide when I was 16, not out of sadness, but because I'd sort of had enough already. I just watched what grown-ups did and I thought - I'm not sure I could ever be bothered to do any of that. Indeed, I haven't bothered to do much of it. At that very moment, the eternal infantilism of rock music suddenly presented itself to me, and I could be a kid for the rest of my bloody life, and here I still am. It does surprise me that I've lived this long, because I'm very careless really. I'm not interested in health or anything.

"How much carbon

footprint does the average bombing raid use up compared with me and my refuse? F * * * o f f . "

Would you say you have suffered from long bouts of depression throughout your life? Yes, I have done and still do. I don't know what the word means, but if "I really wish I was dead and had never been born" is depressed, then yes. I like life, but I cannot imagine thinking - Oh, it's great to be alive. I just think life is something you've got to get through. I envy the dead, quite honestly. It's not that I'm tragic, I just find it very hard.
Meanwhile, the best substitute for death is sleep, which I love greatly. Nod off and you don't have to respond to anything. I never want to do anything apart from dream, and Alfie makes it pretty easy for me to live like that, so I'm quite happy. In fact, I've never been better than I am now.

Do you see your music as a sort of collage?
Yes, that's exactly how it works. I just keep doing it, add bits and tear bits off. That's one thing that's easier than painting, 'cos if you've painted all the layers of paint on, it's hard to peel them off again; in the studio you can put down layers and layers of instruments and just start stripping them off in different orders to see what's left.

Do you generally prefer the music you're making now to your earlier work?
On the whole, yes, but on the other hand, sometimes I'm taken by surprise if somebody plays me something I did years ago that I'd forgotten. Sometimes I've just been a guest on some little project I've forgotten, and I've had to come up with something that I wouldn't have come up with on my own, and that's really nice.

Would you say Comicopera harks back to your political albums of the 70s and 80s?
It seems to, but that's simply a response to the times we live in. I don't decide to be political or non-political; if there's a lot of nasty politics, I will try and filter it out by exorcising it on a record. I would rather live in a happier world and be more lightweight in response, but there's still a war on right now, we are part of it, and the tug of that affects everything I do. I live in this world, so that's how it comes out on the record. But it's the old cliché - us blondes just wanna have fun. I'm no different you know. I've always aspired that way, but I've just got to face reality, 'cause it's never gonna happen, is it?

Do you find it harder to write as you get older? It's the same really. It's sporadic. I do write all the time anyway, so it's just a question of whether anything I come up with is appropriate for what I do. There's a lot of stuff that goes on in my life outside music. I've got a son and a daughter, they've got children, I've got Alfie, and we've got her mother living at our house. We're having a life, if shopping and washing potatoes is having a life. I don't just sit there being an artist. I love peeling potatoes and going to the shops. I don't often have long periods where I'm not working on any music at all, but I don't want to give the impression that I'm a particularly useful domestic animal... I'm not that either.

How do you look back on the time you spent with Jimi Hendrix?
I think of him with nothing but love, affection and admiration. I was just very lucky to have been there. Rock musicians can be a terribly arrogant, bolshy lot, but Hendrix was always a grown-up and a real gent who never threw his weight around. He was always riveting on stage, but he wasn't always on top of it and he'd sometimes get a bit lost. We saw him nearly every night for a year throughout 1968, but I was there as another musician playing a concert that evening, so I can't say I was concentrating on Hendrix every night. I don't particularly like rock music, and I always felt most rock bands were a bit bombastic for me, but there was a fluidity about what Hendrix did which I really liked.

What do you think makes Rock Bottom and Ruth is Stranger Than Richard so timeless?
I don't know, maybe it was the fact that I had to invent a whole new way of doing music. Necessity is the mother of invention... I'd worked in a group before, and I had to work out a new way of making music, the way I made it on those records. I couldn't really use much of what I'd learned before, so I had to come up with something new, so maybe those albums have got some of that fresh angle and that feel. Most of the music that I like certainly doesn't come and go with the traffic of the day. I mean, the whole point about art really is that it's something that lives beyond the moment that it was created. A caveman makes a mark on a cave wall, something that will be there the next morning. Art is about making a mark.

Would you say that music is a less important force than it was?
I really couldn't care less. I've got a job doing it, but in terms of how the business suffers or doesn't suffer in the current climate, it just doesn't matter to me.

But the music business is so fast moving; don't you think you have to ask yourself where the next Charlie Parker is going to come from?
Well, I'm still quite happy with the fîrst one, thank you. I'm more concerned not to lose his memory in an age of novelty, so I don't want the Charlie Parkers of this world to get buried under great heaps and racks full of the latest thing.

Which artists have had the biggest influence on you?
Duke Ellington, Charles Mingus, Ray Charles and Dionne Warwick. Individually, there's nothing I can do that gets anywhere near Charlie Parker in terms of a sequence of notes, but I mention Ellington and Mingus because they're about the organisation of more than one person into a sound picture — how to make a bunch of notes and different colours like an organic whole swirling along together. It's such a valuable thing to me, and I don't think any other form of music has ever quite been able to do that.

How do you look back on the music you made with Soft Machine?
It's difficult to say because when I was thrown out of the band, I threw every single Soft Machine record into the dustbin, and I never listened to them again. If I am forced to think about it, I try and tell myself it wasn't a complete waste of time, and that interesting things happened and that young men can survive anything. There is some good music there, and I suppose it's all part of an apprenticeship, my equivalent of doing National Service or something like that... it builds your muscles up and teaches you stuff about how to live in the grown-up world if you eventually get there.

Do you still feel bitter about the whole thing?
Well, I do think it's a bit cheeky that I didn't get any money, so we had to struggle with nothing to try and make ends meet. It still makes me very angry how I got treated by the record company, the manager and the group. People say that all musicians get exploited by managers, but musicians can be just as bad. It was interesting music, but I also learned that for a human life, interesting isn't enough in art. When art works best, it's about a moment of human contact on a lonely planet, and it's not just a question of being impressed by cleverness and brilliant ideas.

Everybody feels this stuff. I don't feel any more than anyone else and I'm no deeper than anyone else, so my job is simply to get a craft which channels it and lets it out in a sort of clear way that other people can latch on to. So in that sense, my job is only technical, because people do the emotional stuff themselves when they listen. Everybody's got heart, otherwise it wouldn't work.

Is the idea of your musical legacy important to you?
It's a nice idea, but it's a bit grand. I see it more as constant attempts to get it right from a different angle, just to get an hour of music that I can put on without getting bored and without wincing. It's not a question of trying to make a masterpiece, it's much less than that; it's just a question of damage limitation, endlessly trying to make a record without the mistakes on it.

Having barely paused for breath during our time together, Wyatt is shattered and in desperate need of a cigarette. As he weaves his wheelchair past the hordes of people in the foyer at breakneck speed, nearly knocking over a table or two along the way, he suddenly comes to a halt and points up excitedly at the sign above the Festival Hall doors. "Way Out," exclaims Robert Wyatt with a boyish grin. "Two of my favourite words."

Comicopera is out now on Domino

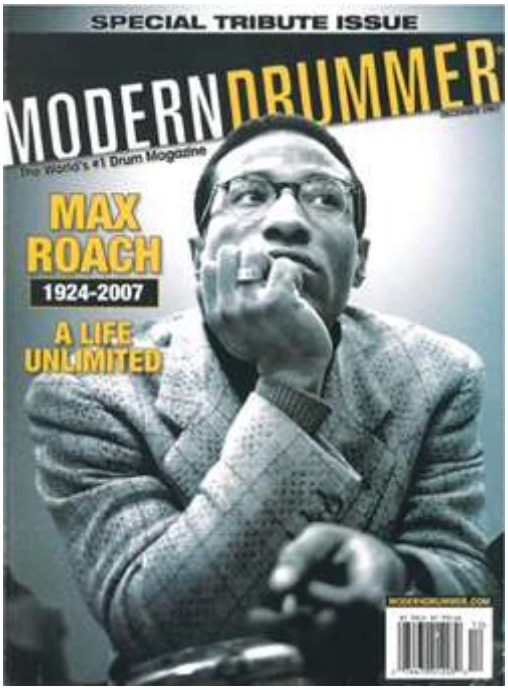
Previous article

Next article



Back to the list

ABÉCÉDAIRE

Les années Before | Soft Machine | Matching Mole | Solo | With Friends | Samples | Compilations | V.A. | Bootlegs | Reprises

HOME

Max Remembered - Modern Drummer Magazine - December, 2007

MAX REMEMBERED

by Robert Wyatt

MAX REMEMBERED

Robert Wyatt
Soft Machine, Syd Barrett, Brian Eno

Max really was important. And not just the records, but the whole dimension of his political fire. My god. The " Freedom Now Suite" —wonderful stuff.

Long before I had a drumkit, and I was just sitting at a table with rolled up pieces of paper, trying to simulate the sound of brushes, I sort of bit off more than I could chew, because the first record I played to was Jazz At Massey Hall, with Max, Mingus, Bud Powell, and Charlie Parker. That' s the one that got me, one of the greatest records I' ve heard in my lifetime. It' s kind of the summation of bebop—gob-smacking creativity, from beginning to end.

I met Max in 2001, when he came to England to play a concert with a trio with a Chinese pianist. I had the opportunity to say hello in the dressing room. You could tell he was ill, but once he started playing, he was still Max Roach. But I had to say to him, " You got me into a lot of trouble." Because when I was at school and I was trying to do my schoolwork, after a half hour of trying to do math, I would just think, " I can' t do this," and I' d just go and play Jazz At Massey Hall or my favorite, Thelonious Monk' s Brilliant Corners. And I told him, " The reason it was better to listen to you was because when Sonny Rollins or someone would leave off, you' d carry on and I could still follow the tune all the way through the solo, until the others came back in." That was such a clear and helpful and conscientious way to play a drum solo. So I was very glad to get that in.

We have a fairly left-wing mayor in London, and during his early days, they did all sorts of scandalous things. One of those things was, there was this tiny little patch of green in a part of London—just big enough to call a park. And somebody on the council said, " Let' s call it Max Roach Park," and they did. So they invited Max over for the dedication, and he came. And the only time they ever used the local council offices for an expensive banquet—because the socialists are all, " We don' t do that sort of thing" —was for a reception for Max Roach. And it' s still there: Max Roach Park.

> Zoom

Previous article

Next article

Back to the list

ABÉCÉDAIRE

Les années Before | Soft Machine | Matching Mole | Solo | With Friends | Samples | Compilations | V.A. | Bootlegs | Reprises

HOME

The Rhythm Interview Robert Wyatt - Rhythm - December 2007

THE RHYTHM INTERVIEW

Robert Wyatt

Hailed as a pioneer for his solos with '60s legends The Soft Machine, written off when he broke his back and reborn as a solo percussion visionary, Robert Wyatt knows all about highs and lows. He tells Henry Yates his story

There's a clear line in the sand when it comes to the career of Robert Wyatt. Specifically, it was drawn in the small hours of June 1,1973, as a West London party thrown by the luminaries of the psychedelic scene brought the first phase of the drummer's life to a disastrous close. A heavy drinker since the '60s due to his pathological fear of crowds, the 28-year-old Wyatt had spent the night consuming punch and whisky in sufficient quantifies that when he fell out of a third-floor window onto the pavement below, he didn't immediately feel any sensation other than "a slight awkwardness at being unable to stand up".

Six weeks later, Wyatt regained consciousness in hospital to learn that he had broken his back, would be confined to a wheelchair for the rest of his life and, by implication, would never drum again. This last bombshell hit hardest. As sticksman and singer in '60s psychedelic trailblazers The Soft Machine, Wyatt's inspired fills and improvised free-form solos had marked him out as a unique talent amongst the beat generation. After an acrimonious sacking in 1971, he had rebounded with new band Matching Mole, and at the time of his accident was writing material for their third album. Now, after one moment of madness, it seemed he was doomed to dine out on past glories.

The medical report rang true: now 62, Wyatt remains in a wheelchair and has not performed behind a full drum kit for three decades. And yet, rather than bow to his physical limitations, the veteran musician has spent his prolific solo career adapting to them, developing percussion techniques that are arguably as adventurous as his early beats, and draping his compositions with his haunting multi-octave vocal delivery. And now, he is basking in the recent release of his new album Comicopera.

Starting at the beginning, the story goes you were taught by an American jazz drummer...

"His name was George Neidorf and he was staying at my parents' house near Dover in the '50s. He had a real drum kit, which was a novelty. Before that, my kit consisted of an ammunition box, which was my snare, my mother's typewriter as my hi-hat - you'd stamp on it and the keys would clatter back - and an old metal clothes hanger that functioned as a rhythm cymbal. I seem to remember hitting it with cutlery.

"Anyway, George had been taught by Joe Morello, but what he tried to impress upon me was how wonderful Philly Joe Jones was. Then I had another teacher called Ramon Farran when I moved to Majorca in the '60s. He was an old-school jazzer; strict about holding the sticks correctly and elbows being the right distance from the ribcage. It's good to know the rules, even if you ignore them later on."

Who did you take inspiration from?

"People think the white drummers of the '60s were listening to each other, but we were actually listening to black music. The other beat drummers were just boys nextdoor to us; the thing was to get the sound you heard on Stax records. The New Orleans drummers were the bedrock for all of us. Even drummers in bands that don't sound like they play black music learnt how to handle the kit from those bands."

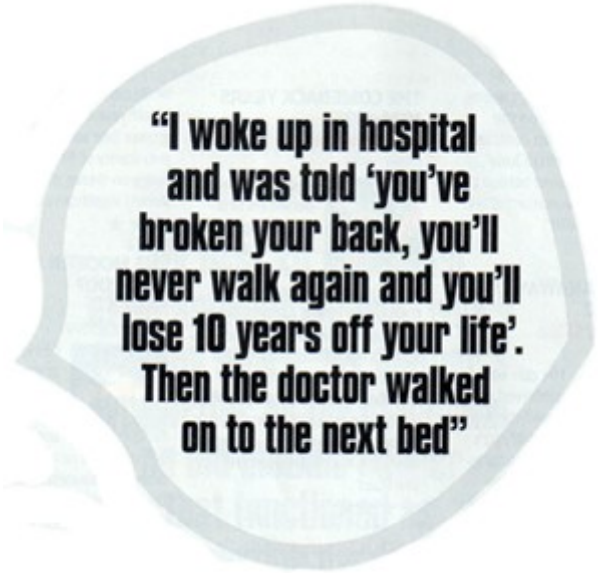
> Zoom

You formed The Soft Machine in 1966 - what were you trying to do with the drums?

"I wasn't trying to be revolutionary - I was trying to get people to dance. Before then, I'd been in a band called The Wilde Flowers, and when we played the local dances in Canterbury, you'd drum in a way that made people dance. When the floor started heaving, you knew you were doing your job.

"I can't think of anyone who was doing what I was, but that's partly because of the nature of the band. The Soft Machine wasn't a proper rock band, apart from the fact we played very loud and had long hair. You needed to be able to deal with any time signature, and you also needed endurance, because once we started pushing the solos, each piece could last over 20 minutes."

Were those improvised solos ever performed sober?



"I can't remember ever being sober once we got going, but that was because I've always had incredible stage fright. I developed my love of music in a solitary state and, to tough it out live, I'd drink recklessly."

What was your approach in the studio?

"Each piece we played in The Soft Machine had its own distinct character - I mean, Kevin Ayers wrote songs that were like Donovan or Ray Davies - so I tried to do appropriate drumming for each. The only thing I couldn't bear was to do the same beat over and over again, so I was a rubbish metronome. I was always having fun on the kit. I'd trick people; go silent when you expected it to go bang and vice-versa."

Is it fair to say you invented the notion of the singing drummer?

"I honestly don't know. As to how it interacted with the drums, it depended on the music. In The Wilde Flowers, we'd work out songs where I could do them together, or you'd just lay down very regular chops and go onto automatic on the kit and concentrate mainly on the vocals - and sometimes completely fuck it up."

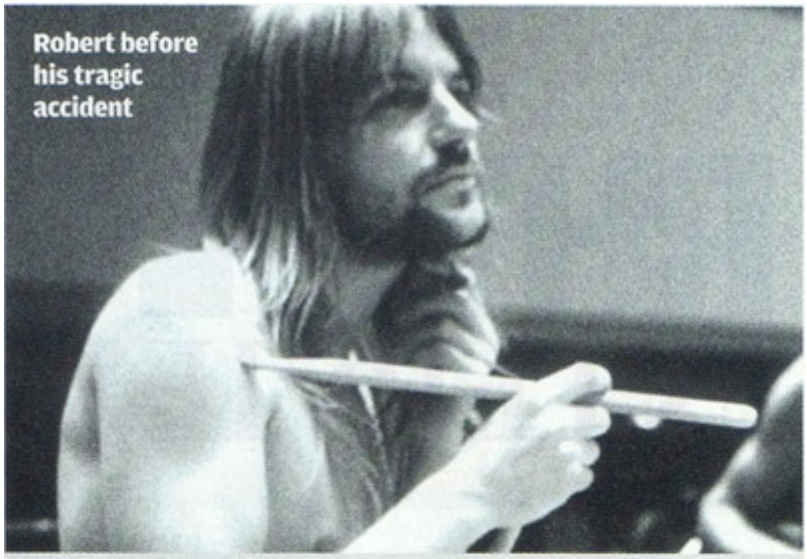
You've said you didn't consider yourself part of the 'Canterbury scene' of the '60s...

"That term was invented by someone who liked drawing up imaginary family trees. I make the analogy with astronomers who look at a random set of stars and say it's a horse or a plough. It's inevitable that you start playing with people around you, but I didn't feel any particular musical connection with them. I felt much closer to the people I ended up working with later on."

Such as?

"A wonderful drummer, who I watched every night on tour in 1968 and still think is woefully under-praised, is Mitch Mitchell. Bloody wonderful. Because Jimi Hendrix was so riveting, people didn't realise just how important Mitch was. He knew his jazz and, like me, he was trying to apply it to the new circumstances.

"At the end of our tour together, I still had a little Premier kit and Mitch knew I couldn't afford a better one, so he gave me his own custom-built maple kit. So from the second Soft Machine album onwards, I was using the same kit as on Hendrix's late recordings. I've still got the cardboard boxes with 'JH Experience' printed on them, which I could probably sell on eBay, but I need them to keep the drums in."



When you were fired from The Soft Machine in 1971, at the time you said it was "humiliating"...

"An experimental band like that is bound to have a lifespan, but yeah, the end was humiliating, because I'd got them together and they democratically got rid of me. But I was asking for it. There's live footage of those last nights, and there's a real tension, I'm just playing faster and faster, and people are looking at me out of the corner of their eyes. It was untenable."

How did your drumming evolve in Matching Mole?

"That was nice, because it took me back to the happier days of The Soft Machine, so when one of us went dancing off in the opposite direction the others would just laugh and join in. It was more of a fun band, not so solemn. We'd trip each other up, but because we were friends we didn't get the stern glances."

Robert before his tragic accident

MY PROUDEST MOMENT

"It was definitely in 1970, when The Soft Machine was playing as an expanded band including Ronnie Scott on tenor saxophone. For a couple of minutes at one show, I'm actually playing drums under Ronnie Scott's solo. That's a dream for me. If you can find the tape, you can tell by my drumming – I'm in a state of euphoria, a trance-like state of pleasure. I can't judge if I did okay, but I was thrilled to be doing it. It was a tough piece with a difficult time signature, and the bit I'm playing under Ronnie is a fast 6/8. I think it's steaming, myself, but then I'm not a critic – what would I know?"

Can you talk us through your accident in 1973?

"That night I'd been drinking punch, then someone got out a bottle of whisky and I was just gone. I was flying - quite literally, in the end, out of the window. I didn't lose consciousness when I hit the ground, but I don't remember anything about the six weeks after that, because they pump you so full of drugs. Then you wake up in hospital and they tell you what's happening, which in my case was 'you've broken your back, you'll never walk again and you'll lose 10 years off your life'. Then the doctor walked on to the next bed."

Was losing your ability to drum the least of your worries?

"Actually, I did think about that pretty early on. I'd been working on a third Matching Mole album, and I thought 'fucking hell - I won't be able to play drums'. Later, I realised I could still sing, then I decided I could still work the top of the kit, and if I needed a bass drum I could prop it up and play it by hand, and I could just replicate the hi-hat by singing it into the microphone. So that made me realise I could record, even if I couldn't play live."

What's your approach to percussion on Comicopera?

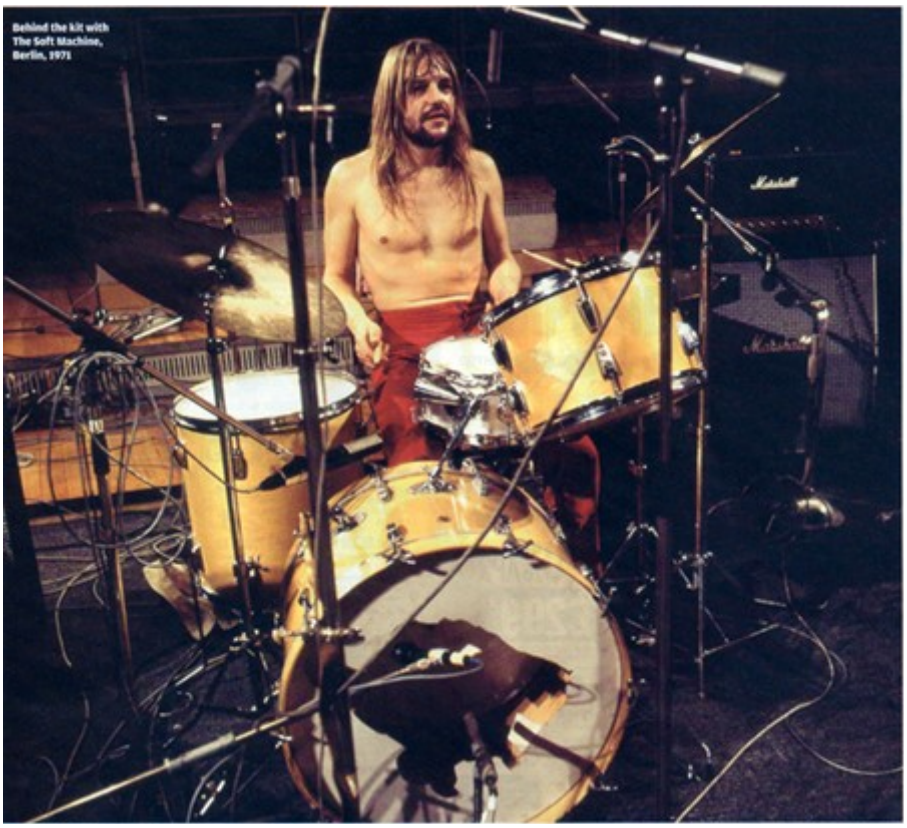
"I can still play each bit of the kit separately, so I'll do the cymbal part, the ride part and so on, and then percussion separately. I often revert to how I played when I didn't have a proper kit, and I often don't use a kit at all. On 'A Beautiful War', the off-beat is provided by a Lebanese biscuit tin. Then there's an instrumental called 'On The Town Square', where I used a bodhran [an Irish drum], but with brushes, because I hadn't heard that before. Again, on 'A Beautiful War' the bass drum is me whacking the side of the mattress I was sleeping on in the studio. So I played mattress and biscuit tin on that track - just with a couple of cymbals over the top."



Don't you ever miss flailing at the kit, as you were renowned for doing with The Soft Machine?

"Having seen clips of my old drumming days, going back 40 years in some cases, I do remember the buzz. But I'm now in my 60s, and I think anyone of that age has twinges remembering their youth. I expect old cricketers remember their bowling when they were in their 20s and think 'fuck, I wish I could still do that'. But you have different stages in your life, and I really enjoy working the way I do now with percussion, instead of being an upfront drummer. Where there's a will there's a way."

www.strongcomet.com/wyatt www.myspace.com/robertwyatt

Comicopera is out now on Domino Records

Behind the kit with The Soft Machine, Berlin, 1971

Wyatt on Record

THE EARLY YEARS 1968-1970

The Soft Machine

(ABC/Probe) 1968

Recorded in a few snatched days on their virgin tour of America, The Soft Machine's eponymous debut bottled the musical anarchy of the band's concerts and patented the concept of psychedelic rock at a stroke. Wyatt would grow more eloquent as a songwriter, but his fills and solos since have rarely fizzed with such a fresh-out-of-the-traps enthusiasm as here.

★★★★

Third

(Columbia) 1970

Unimaginative of title but grandiose of musical scope, The Soft Machine's Third double-album probed the themes of the emerging jazz-fusion movement over four sprawling tracks (one per side on the original vinyl). Wyatt contributes the haunting 'Moon in June', but his best moment behind the kit arrives in the masterful 7/4 section of 'Facelift'.

★★★★

THE BREAKAWAY YEARS 1971-1972

Matching Mole

(CBS) 1972

The title was conceived as a round-the-houses dig at Wyatt's ex-bandmates (Matching Mole sounds like 'machine molle' – the French for 'soft machine') and the content of the drummer's breakaway record was similarly whimsical. 'O Caroline' aside, you'll find more solid collections of tunes with Wyatt's hand on the tiller, but as a snapshot of the charm and wit of the Canterbury scene, this takes some beating.

★★★

THE COMEBACK YEARS 1974-1975

Rock Bottom

(Virgin) 1974

Wyatt has always denied his first post-plunge album was directly inspired by the accident, but it's hard to ignore the musical calling cards of a man clinging to sanity by his fingernails. Still, it's not all doom and gloom as, assisted by a cast of friends including Nick Mason of Pink Floyd, the drummer starts to find his flair for percussive invention on tracks like 'Little Red Riding Hood Hit The Road'.

★★★★

Ruth is Stranger than Richard

(Virgin) 1975

The lukewarm response to Ruth... was doubtless a factor in Wyatt's decade-long withdrawal from his solo career. While patchy in parts, revisiting the album reveals a quirky and eclectic grower that swings from the pub shanty of 'Soup Song' to the heart-on-sleeve 'Solar Flares'. Only Robert Wyatt can do this.

★★★

THE MODERN AGE 1997-2007

Shleep

(Thirsty Ear) 1997

Gloriously out of step with the prevailing music scene, Shleep's soporific title was a perfect reflection of the dreamlike soundscapes within. Certainly, Wyatt sounded sharper, while the assistance of luminaries including Brian Eno and Paul Weller underlined his continued relevance on the rock scene.

★★★★

Comicopera

(Domino) 2007

With recording split between Phil Manzanera's Gallery Studio and his own bedroom in Louth, Wyatt's new collection finds his melodic and percussive instincts firing on all cylinders, from the shadowy 'Stay Tuned' to the biscuit tin-led ballad 'A Beautiful War'. The most adventurous record you'll hear all year.

★★★★

> Zoom

Previous article

Next article

Back to the list

ABÉCÉDAIRE

Les années Before | Soft Machine | Matching Mole | Solo | With Friends | Samples | Compilations | V.A. | Bootlegs | Reprises

HOME

Robert Wyatt : Web Exclusive Interview - Modern Drummer Magazine - November, 1 2007

ROBERT WYATT : Web Exclusive Interview

Since leaving the groundbreaking British psychedelic band Soft Machine in 1971, Robert Wyatt has released a succession of remarkable solo albums filled with artfulness and surprise. His latest, Comicopera, is a worldly, three-part meditation on modern profundities. MD chatted with the always-gracious musician to learn what's fueling his art these days.

MD: Congratulations on your new album, Robert. I'm always happy to recommend your latest album to newcomers, though that isn't always the case with other artists.

Robert: People think growing older is a bad thing, but what I like about it is, you get time to learn more about what works and what doesn't, and fine-tune it.

MD: I suppose we get used to people having their "formulas."

Robert: Yeah, I wish I had one of those. [laughs] God, life would be so much easier. Every time I go into the studio, I think, How on earth do you do this? I start to write a tune and think, What do I know about writing a tune?

MD: Do you eventually find something that you latch onto?

Robert: Well, I've got triggering devices, that's another thing you learn as you get older. My current device is sort of "karaoke cornet playing" with old jazz records. Of course I can't really play it like a craftsman, but I can pick up notes that I might sing. I can't play bebop speeds, but I find classics like Gershwin tunes, Nat King Cole, Sarah Vaughan—things that I didn't even listen to when I was younger—and just find other appropriate notes. This works well for lubricating the inside of my head, gives me lift-off. It's a way of finding lots of different melodic threads off of one chord sequence. I still get astonished at how much Sonny Rollins can get out of one chord sequence. Now, I'm not a jazz soloist, but it seems to me a good way to start out finding tunes. I know some people start by setting up a beat on a drum machine or something, but I find that gets me absolutely nowhere—partly because I don't hear things in beats. I still hear things in an anachronistic ride cymbal swing thing.

MD: As you're improvising melodies, I imagine some kind of rhythmic element is already there from the beginning.

Robert: I suppose that's right. That element of jazz 4/4, which is in fact a 12/8 with a triplet feel, is a basic rhythm for me. Even if I'm working on something with more of a New Orleans, Bo Diddley thing, I won't do it like Eddie Cochran or whoever—though I love the way he'd do it—but I like it when it's more overlaid with a swing thing, that sort of feel.

MD: That's the beauty of music from New Orleans, there are so many possible directions….

Robert: Yeah, you can take it anywhere. It's such a wonderful way to start out. When I'm looking for melodic lines, though, I need some sense of a harmonic landscape.

MD: There was an interesting thing that happened when I first saw your new album's title. Maybe I had in the back of my mind your past references to Latin music, but I read it as "Comicopera," like some Spanish word I was unfamiliar with, rather than Comic-opera. Has anyone else made that mistake?

Robert: No, it's not a mistake. One of the things I like about putting that word together is you can sort of make various other words out of it. I'm very happy when that happens. The album isn't an academic exercise in modern comic opera, though it has allusions to the genre. And the word "pera" means "pear," the fruit, so to be "a funny pear" sets up a whole other, rather nice kind of meaning.

MD: You were talking about musical trigger points. How about lyrically?

Robert: I tend to have more musical ideas than lyrical ones in terms of what I'd put on a record. So sometimes I'll have pieces lying around dormant because I'll only have one element or the other, and there's no way I can artificially put some words to music or some piece of music to words. Sometimes I'll even use other people's tunes. I begin this record with a tune by Anja Garbarek and end it with a song by Carlos Puebla, and bits and pieces in between are based on a tune by Brian Eno, beautiful stuff that he had knocking around but didn't know what to do with. For the words, I just have to strike lucky, and I don't often, which is why having my wife, Alfie, around is good. There's a lot of imagery in what she does, sometimes quite direct, sometimes indirect. But she sort of comes to my rescue with the words. We've known each other long enough where she knows what would be convincing for me to sing.

MD: In my mind your songs often seam to have been prompted by some conversation you've had with her.

Robert: That's exactly right, indeed they are, to the extent that with some songs, I don't know which one of us came up with which line. But on the whole it sort of pans out…with this record, for instance, in the first third of it, apart from the opening Anja Garbarek song, the lyrics are Alfie's, then they're mostly mine, and then it ends with this song "Out Of The Blue," which is Alfie's again. Then I go abroad and do songs from all over the place—by a group of Italian musicians, by Garcia Lorca, by Carlos Puebla…. But that was just because it's great fun singing in other languages, and I like pretending I'm not from England. It makes me feel less, um, embarrassed. [laughs] English-speaking people have these hubristic moments of ruling the world, and I get so embarrassed by that stuff.

MD: Do you see yourself as the "leader" of your projects?

Robert: I don't know if leader is the right word. It's more like, "The buck stops here." I have to take responsibility in the end for how it's all put together. And the other musicians are there, God bless them, to help me get my songs out right. It's only for a few days in a year. It doesn't necessarily mean we'll be in a group on the road together—in fact, it's very unlikely. I can't imagine Brian Eno in a jazz band, or Paul Weller playing guitar with Brian Eno. So it's kind of an imaginary get-together, people with different elements that are important to me.

But I have thought a lot about the issue of musical leadership, because I've been both a band member and a sort of conductor of the band. I had this group called Matching Mole [Robert's short-lived post–Soft Machine band, which put out two albums in 1972]. A little record company called Hux has recently found some BBC stuff we'd done that I forgot about. The CD is called Matching Mole On The Radio. Anyway, I remember that business of having that role as a drummer and a leader, and there's one obvious problem, and that's too many drum solos. [laughs] It's one way to be, but I was always concerned as a drummer with the fact that we're in the engine room, and that whatever I was playing was relying on the melodic gifts and inventiveness of the other musicians. It was simply my job to keep it on the boil. I found this an interesting thing to do. I think of the role as that of an audible conductor—organizing the pace and the dynamics in such a way as to keep it alive and flowing.

The drummer/leader I've been listening to recently that's most effective is Kenny Clarke. I got a box set of his—it's sort of classic '50s hard bop—and he's such a discreet sounding drummer that most people would think he was kind of a nightclub drummer: keeps time, uses brushes…. He might be better known in Europe, because he left the States in the mid-'50s and came to work in France where he became a central figure in the French jazz scene, of course along with Bud Powell. With Kenny, you have to go through hours of stuff to guess that the drummer is the leader. But there is something in common, which is that everything just moves with such a sweet groove. You can hear that everyone can relax, that he'll take care of them. And it's a lovely feeling. I get that, funny enough, with Blakey. There's a lovely Hank Mobley record I've got from I suppose the late '50s, and he's such a wonderful accompanist. He's not very complex for a modern jazz drummer, he just sort of swings. But the way he changes the pace throughout the solo, and gathers it together, and helps the next soloist get off the ground—it's just so beautiful, such a high level of generous craftsmanship.

MD: There are Elvin records where he's not "being Elvin" so much, too.

Robert: Yes. We're talking about helping the other musicians get off the ground. That was the job: Get off the ground, and stay off the ground. Of course, it's not the only role. Tony Williams played alongside people, and that's pretty good too.

A very underestimated drummer of my era who I shared a lot with and learned a lot from, was Mitch Mitchell with Jimi Hendrix. I watched them night after night for most of 1968. [Soft Machine opened for The Jimi Hendrix Experience on their American tours.] I knew Mitch before he was with The Experience. He was the drummer with a really good R&B band in England called Georgie Fame & The Blue Flames. That was basically jazz musicians playing a kind of big band blues, closer to the Jimmy Smith era of danceable jazz. And Mitch negotiated going through that to working with Hendrix with great aplomb and great inventiveness. A lot of people thought Jimi should have had a heavier drummer, and eventually he did with Buddy Miles. But I thought Mitch was the most appropriate because he was so fluid. From jazz he got this fluidity and speed of thought.

MD: The changes in popular music at that time—and you were right in the middle of that—seem so extreme from a vantage point in 2007. I wonder, if Hendrix had stayed alive, where he would have been musically even four or five years after Band Of Gypsys. What would the drummer in that band…

Robert: …What would he have to be able to do, yeah. But there was the sense that people made mistakes and knew it. I know Noel Redding, the bass player in The Experience, said that sometimes when Mitch and Jimi were really flying, he actually didn't know where the beat was and had to stop playing. This reminds me of Coltrane. He'd go off with Elvin where the piano and bass couldn't follow, and nobody is more secure with the beat than McCoy Tyner and Jimmy Garrison. But in the end they'd just leave Coltrane and Elvin to go to it. So there's a perfectly respectable antecedent to what Jimi and Mitch were doing.

MD: You can almost hear John Cage saying, "That's fine; it's good that you were confused and had to stop."

Robert: [laughs] Yes, right! I mean, these are the moments where you have to think fast and where a lot of creativity can come through. "You didn't expect this to happen…so what are you gonna do now? Come up with something quick."

MD: Or if not, just chill out.

Robert: That's right, sit this one out. I used to do that a lot. I'd be playing and think, You know, this would sound really good without the drums, and I'd stop playing. Eventually the musicians around me would get used to the fact that I might well do this [laughs], but in a sense it was a compliment to them.

MD: I've got twenty CDs by drummer/leaders here at my desk, and I would bet there aren't four songs total without drums on them.

Robert: Yeah, I won't use them unless I think they're an integral part of the song. I mean, when I'm recording I get a whole pile of stuff on, but then I strip it away to what I need to keep the thing going. Like on the second track, "Just As You Are," I have a really upfront ride cymbal thing going. But then there's other songs, like "You You." I tried to add an appropriate drum thing to that, and to me it just made it a bit more pedestrian, a bit more obvious…a bit more normal. I thought, No, I'll just leave it with the bass guitar strumming along, that'll do it.

MD: One of the nice things about coming to a new album of yours is not having a preconception of what the arrangements are going to be like on each song. I love that you might be thinking, "Well, we don't need red in this picture."

Robert: Absolutely. I took this to an extreme at one point. There's a song on there called "Be Serious," which is about being envious of people who have a religion. Paul Weller did several tracks of guitar, and I liked what he did so much that I took nearly everything else away except the voice, Paul's guitar patterns, and a cymbal. That's all the song needed, all of the information was there. Some of my favorite moments in recording are in the editing. For instance, the vibes duet toward the end—Orphy Robinson double tracked himself, and we treated one of the tracks and left the other alone—but this originally had a rhythm section accompaniment to it, a 7/4 figure. We took everything away to hear what Orphy was doing, and I really liked the fact that the time seems uncertain, and it gathers momentum and then sort of spreads and comes back again…. It seemed much more interesting rhythmically than when it had the rhythm section in the mix. It was a difficult moment because I'd really liked what I'd played on drums. But I thought, Robert, that's not the point. [laughs] The point is, What works here? I'd done my job as a drummer, which was to set the pace for him to play to. He'd done that, and now he didn't need me anymore.

MD: The process of elimination doesn't seem to be thought of enough. We're always thinking, What can I add here, what kind of harmonies can go here…?

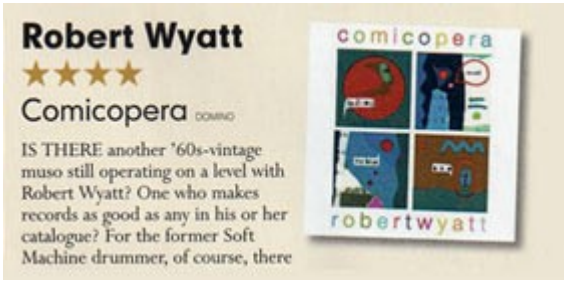
Robert: I do have dense moments sometimes, when I really layer it on. But I really mean to do that then. It just depends on the song. The only difficulty I used to have with jazz musicians is that they would wait for their moment where they could do their thing, and what I really want is musicians who can play as well as jazz musicians, but think in terms of, What does this song really need? And that's why I'm so grateful to the musicians; that's why I used the same ones as I did on the last record—Gilad Atzmon on reeds, Yaron Stavi on bass, Any Whitehead on trombone, for instance. Technically they're really shit-hot, but they only play what's appropriate. I'm so grateful for that. It's taken years to find these people.

Photo by Alfreda Benge.

>> L'interview sur le site de Modern Drummer Magazine

Previous article Next article

Back to the list

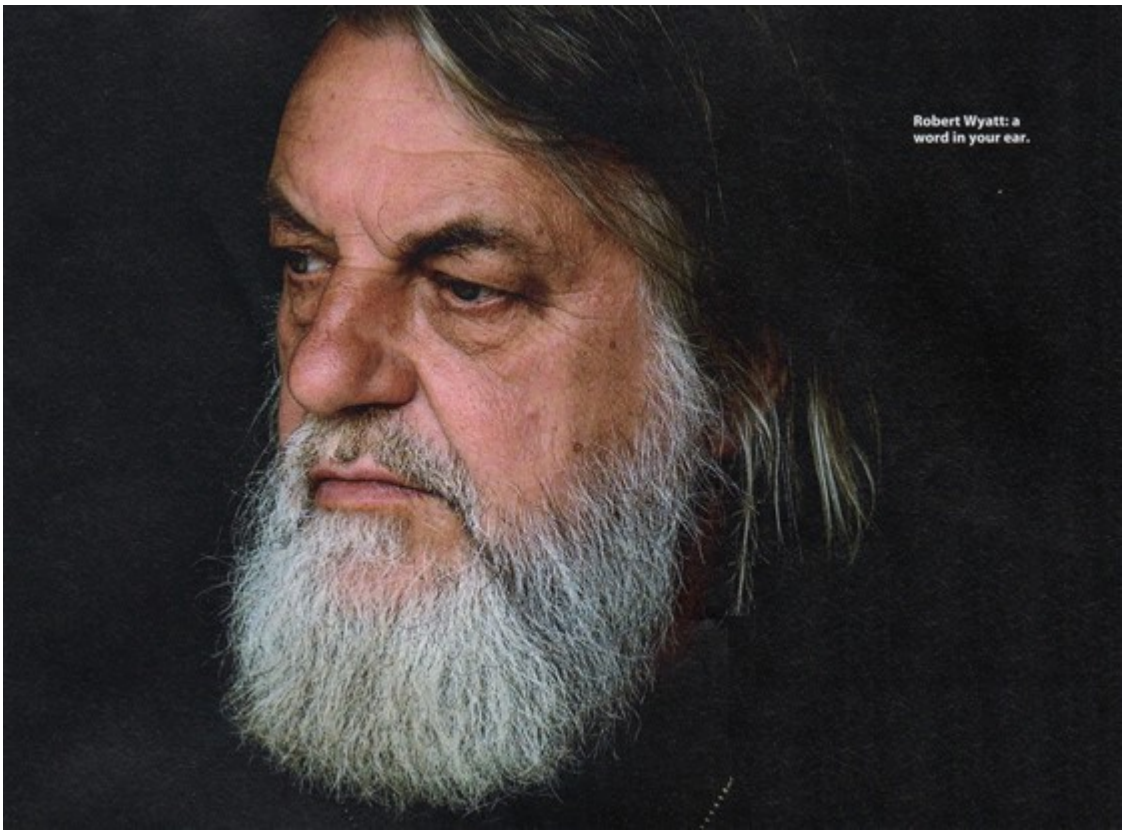


ABÉCÉDAIRE

Les années Before | Soft Machine | Matching Mole | Solo | With Friends | Samples | Compilations | V.A. | Bootlegs | Reprises

HOME

Trebles All Round - Mojo - November 2007



TREBLES ALL ROUND

Moving, sparkling triptych from the 62-year-old who just keeps getting better. By Danny Eccleston.

IS THERE another '60s-vintage muso still operating on a level with Robert Wyatt? One who makes records as good as any in his or her catalogue? For the former Soft Machine drummer, of course, there was no moment of transfiguring pop stardom, no place in some illusory pantheon to preserve — and you sense it is, in part, his humility that keeps his music on the straight and narrow.

Comicopera is typical Wyatt in the way it sits next to you and whispers in your ear, sharing often uncomfortable ideas in that friendly, melancholy voice. In other ways, it's all-new Wyatt, sharing personnel with 2003's Cuckooland (notably, Gilad Atzmon on tenor sax and Paul Weller on guitar) but lacking its predecessor's nuages of keyboards and sounding more immediate, live and quirkily melodic.

And while Cuckooland split into two parts (with 30 seconds of silent intermission) Comicopera divides into three.

Act 1 — subtitled Lost In Noise — is domestically inclined, incorporating a ravishing, mordant account of a long-term love affair (Just As You Are), with vocals shared by Wyatt and Brazilian chanteuse Mônica Vasconcelos, and lyrics ("It's that look in vour eyes/I know your despise/Me for not being stronger") that bear poet wife Alfreda Benge's trademark lack of sentimentality.

It may yet prove Wyatt and Benge's best claim to have written a "standard".

Part 2 - The Here And Now -gruffly engages with the world. There are deadpan jokes ("It's a beautiful day... but not here") amid simply serendipitous moments of music, especially where Atzmon's tenor, Orphy Robinson's steel pans and Wyatt's plashy percussion interact. In a brilliant gambit, the segment ends with a song from the perspective of a bomber pilot, happily blitzing the crap out of an unspecified Arab homeland, and another from the p.o.v. of the victim, whose hellish disorientation is uncannily summoned in the desperate, repeated refrain: "Something unbelievable is happening to the floor!"

Wyatt says this apocalyptic punctuation mark made an immediate return to Anglophone pop seem a betrayal.

So Act 3 — Away With The Fairies — goes Latin. It's pretty enough, with a moving Hasta Siempre Commandante saluting Che Guevara with help via a swinging Italian combo, and a dense Orphy Robinson vibe instrumental providing variety. But after the in-your-face engagement and subversive pop of Acts 1 and 2, it feels superfluous and defocusing.

Concluding circumlocution aside, Comicopera gets to you quicker and stays with you longer than any previous Wyatt album. Moreover, it's hard to imagine a record more original or full of life, from any artist of any age, emerging this year. It's that damn good.

"I can be a girl, a boy, anything."

Robert Wyatt talks to Danny Eccleston.

Trebles all round

Moving, sparkling triptych from the 62-year-old who just keeps getting better. By Danny Eccleston.

Robert Wyatt

★★★★

Comicopera

"I can be a girl, a boy, anything."

Robert Wyatt talks to Danny Eccleston.

I love the gloomy English high street scene of A Beautiful Peace.

"Yes, well you have those moments, don't you, when the grimness of England seems overwhelming. At the same time, England to me is the feeling of Gilad and Orphy merrily duetting in the middle of an imaginary street somewhere. That's my happy England, what draws me back to London, that burst of sunshine."

What does Paul Weller bring to your records?

"He always comes up with something appropriate. I like his texture and percussion, the grunts and growls. We're both rooted in black music – it's just that he starts at Marvin Gaye and I start with Roland Kirk – and both of us are just so… English. Everything gets filtered through that."

The three-act structure gives you a lot of options…

"This is a record. I can be what I like. I can be a girl, a boy, anything. So I decided I wouldn't be English at all for the last third and go away with the fairies. So that's why it's called that."

You do Carlos Puebla's Hasta Siempre Commandante. It's a subject that's obviously still close to your heart…

"I did one of his songs in the early '80s, with Harry Beckett on trumpet. I like his style, it's earthy – almost like one of those Cape Verdean singers, and the song, like Che Guevara T-shirts, has gone through kitsch and come through the other side unscathed. It still makes my skin prickle a bit, just the hope against hope."

Subject matter aside, I think the melodies on this record are your strongest ever…

"Jazz is my daily gruel and it's a great place to find melodies – you'll get eight in a good Sonny Rollins solo for a start! Recently I've started listening to the jazz singers – I was never into them so much before I turned 60, they weren't rough enough for me. But now I'm really listening to Nat 'King' Cole and Sarah Vaughan, amazed at how they hold a tune. I just think I want to be in that place where they go, but I'm afraid I've smoked too many fags!"

Previous article

Next article

Back to the list

ABÉCÉDAIRE

Les années Before | Soft Machine | Matching Mole | Solo | With Friends | Samples | Compilations | V.A. | Bootlegs | Reprises

HOME

Kevin Ayers and Robert Wyatt - The Guardian - 24 October 2007

KEVIN AYERS AND ROBERT WYATT

Simon Reynolds

The Guardian

"I COULD HARDLY recognise him at first," says Kevin Ayers. "But there, under that great beard, was Robert and he hadn't changed a bit." The singer is recalling his reunion after over thirty years' separation, with Robert Wyatt, his former band mate in The Soft Machine. "As wonderful as it was odd", the meeting took place in the summer of 2006 while Ayers was recording his comeback album, The Unfairground, his first record since 1992. In odd, wonderful synchrony. it came out last month only weeks before Wyatt's own Comicopera.

Intense friendships always seem like they'll last forever, but time and the way of the world wears them away. Suddenly, decades have passed since you last saw that inseparable soul-mate. Wyatt and Ayers were co-founders of The Soft Machine, in their heyday second only to Pink Floyd as a psychedelic trip band at the swirling kaleidoscopic heart of Swinging' London. But after their debut album and a gruelling tour of America supporting the Jimi Hendrix Experience, Ayers went off to start a solo career. Many thought he was set to be a big star, his tousled blonde mane and debonair charm making him the missing link between Syd Barrett and Bryan Ferry. "I think Kevin got waylaid by us nutters," says Wyatt, meaning The Soft Machine and its anarcho-surrealist mish-mash of jazz and acid rock. "There was a window there, a moment when Kevin, with his songs, could have been up there in the charts, as a Donovan type figure." Ayers is bemused by this notion that he was diverted from his true destiny. "Donovan? Good heavens. I am glad that I ended up as Kevin Ayers! And the people from Soft Machine were a big part of that."

Wyatt and Ayers originally met in 1961. "Someone had told Kevin, `oh there's one other bloke in East Kent with long hair," says Wyatt. "You'd get on." They did. "Robert is an incredibly important figure in my life," says Ayers. "He got me started. I liked him and he was doing music so I wanted to do music too. Robert was extraordinary, full of ideas and able to talk about art and books. I had never been in that sort of atmosphere." Daevid Allen, a wandering Australian beatnik, was lodging with Robert's mother – the infinitely tolerant and artistically supportive Honor Wyatt, a journalist. He befriended the teenagers, precociously turning them on the hippie values of drugs, sex and free spirited nomadism. He whisked Ayers off to Balearic bohemian paradise of Ibiza, where "one could get by with absolutely no money." Recalls Ayers, "we hitchhiked down there and lived off fruit from the trees and fish we would catch."

Allen, Ayers, and Wyatt formed the Soft Machine with Mike Ratledge, a keyboard-playing prefect Wyatt had known at school in Canterbury. One of the great myths of The Soft Machine is that they were the product of a progressive school favored by Canterbury's artists and intellectuals. "Actually, the Simon Langton School is a totally respectable, conservative grammar school," says Wyatt, who remembers struggling academically and getting regular canings. He left at sixteen with no qualifications, having swallowed a whole bottle of his father's multiple sclerosis pills because he was "terrified of having to go back to school". Still it is true that the Soft Machine came from highbrow, arty backgrounds.

"Robert was very lucky to have had parents who were interested in ideas and very open, you could talk with them about anything and they would listen," recalls Ayers, describing the Wyatt household in Lydden as "an absolute refuge." Later, after Wyatt's father died, his mother bought a small semi-detached house in West Dulwich and the entire band – plus girlfriends – lived there. "It was when the group were starting out," recalls Wyatt. "I don't how we all fitted in there. But we did and we made our racket and my mum was fine about it." Says Ayers, "There were plenty of dishes piling up in the sinks and unmade beds. But everyone was being creative in one way or another, or being intellectual or questioning and this came out in various forms such as poetry or art, but most of all music. Soft Machine was the only family I felt I ever had. We were a group of middle class boys from literate backgrounds, into jazz and beat writers, and we went off together on this incredible ride."

The Soft Machine weren't the first scions of the haute bourgeoisie to enter the rock world. But crucially, they were the first not to conceal their education or their accents. Indeed, alongside the equally well brought up Syd Barrett, Ayers was the first English rock vocalist not to sing in an American accent. Wyatt, who sang as well as drummed, followed suit on the group's second album. "At first I was all, "waaugh, bab-eee," he says, mimicking a standard American rock voice. But then Wyatt developed his own idiosyncratic style of falsetto singing, a wondrous blend of frailty and agility, melancholy and whimsy. "It sounded like me talking, only with notes."

The Soft Machine immediately became central figures on the London psychedelic scene. Yet in many ways their orientation was always jazz rather than rock. Wyatt even describes himself as a Fifties person who felt "bemused because the `rich flowering of culture' in the '60s was really just the mainstreaming of all these things that had been underground in the Fifties, like drugs." Beyond specific ideas to do with harmony, rhythm and improvisation, what they derived from jazz was "a kind of recklessness", a spirit of discovery captured in Miles Davis's instruction to his musicians: "play beyond what you know". This freeform approach, combined with rock-derived but unheard-of-in-proper-jazz techniques like distortion and effects, made The Soft Machine ideal for the sensory overload aesthetic of clubs like UFO, where they played seemingly every other week in 1966-67.

But Ayers's pop sensibility was increasingly at odds with where the Soft Machine's music was going, which was long, abstract pieces. ""Kevin had bravely soldiered on as bass guitarist in what had become really an instrumental band," says Wyatt. "He'd accumulated this stash of songs, but there really wasn't room for them in the band anymore." The tour of America with Hendrix divided the band further: Wyatt enjoyed going on the piss and the pull with Mitch and Noel of the Experience, Ayers found the whole rampage of buses, booze and birds a gruelling affront to his sensibilities. The group split up on its return. When they reformed, they invited Hugh Hopper, another alumnus of Simon Langton, to be the bass player. Wyatt enjoyed drumming in a wild, freeform style unsuitable for backing pop songs and happily went along with the jazz-rock direction. But after three more albums, he too was squeezed out as the Soft Machine became an increasingly uptight fusion outfit with little room for playfulness.

As important as the Soft Machine was to their development, few would disagree that Wyatt and Ayers came into their own as solo artists. Initially, Wyatt formed his own Softs in the form of Matching Mole, but after a drunken tumble from a high window left him paralysed below the waist, he had to give up drumming and the gang mindset of the performing band, and reinvent himself as a studio-bound artist. Started before the accident but finished and informed by that shattering trauma, 1973's Rock Bottom is Wyatt's masterpiece. From "Sea Song" (an oblique portrait of his new love and lifelong partner-to-be Alfreda Benge, a.k.a Alfie) to 'Little Red Riding Hood Hit the Road' (which exorcised his post-paralysis anguish via bathos-laden turns of phrase like "oh dearie me"), the album combines experimentation, emotion and melody with an exquisite delicacy.

Meanwhile, starting with 1969's Joy of A Toy, Ayers launched an equally enthralling career, his output ranging from light-hearted ditties like 'Clarence In Wonderland' to nihilistic noise-scapes like 'Song from the Bottom of A Well'. Another highpoint was 'Decadence', a rippling, rhapsodic paean to his friend and fellow-traveler in hedonism, Nico, an ice queen "suffering from wear and tear" who perpetually slips back into "liquid night" despite the out-stretched arms of her lovers. "I never kiss and tell," he says tartly when asked if he and Nico were ever involved.

Ayers and Wyatt belonged to a milieu of English mavericks who recorded for "progressive" labels like Harvest, Island, Charisma, and Virgin. Sharing a similar sensibility of gentle humour and genteel experimentalism, this was an incestuous scene, the musicians frequently collaborating or guesting on each other's albums. The labels, similarly, exuded a longhaired, we're-only-playing-at-being-a-record-company vibe. Virgin seemed more like an arts council for weirdos than the Industry. "It wasn't really that idealistic," says Wyatt. It's just that "the Railway Enthusiast" – his nickname for Branson – "had noticed there was a market for bands who could sell albums without hit singles, based around the college gig circuit." Ironically, Virgin would later maneuver Wyatt into recording a single – a cover of the Monkees' 'I'm A Believer' – which actually did become a hit and got the wheelchair-bound singer onto Top of the Pops.

Ayers, who'd left the laidback Harvest, was facing similar pressures. His new label Island were convinced they could turn him into a big star. "It really messed me up and I lost complete confidence in what I was doing." It was the start of an unhappy period of desultory recordings and feeling disconnected from the music scene, with Ayers alternating between his houseboat in Maida Vale and long sojourns abroad.

When punk arrived, the progressive scene was deemed the domain of "boring old farts". The new dogma declared that rock had been enfeebled by its attempts at maturity and sophistication. It was time for a rejuvenating jolt of teenage proletarian energy. The Fall's Mark E. Smith singled out the Canterbury Scene – the Soft Machine and all the welter of bands and solo artists it spawned – when he declared "rock was ruined when the students took it over". Wyatt sympathizes with this attitude, which with typical kindliness he interprets as "a sincere attempt to reassert that rock music was a music whose vitality came from the bottom up in terms of social power structures". Still, there was a moment there in 1976-77 when the mellow meandering of a whole generation of artists – everyone from Brian Eno to John Martyn – was deemed irrelevant.

A few years later, the middle class cadres within punk stopped worrying so much about maintaining their fake-prole accents and hiding their Hatfield and the North albums. Punk turned into postpunk and the students took over again (had they ever really been dislodged?). Many of the new bands looked back to the music they'd been listening to before The Ramones and "Anarchy in the UK". These groups, such as Scritti Politti (whose vocalist Green was hugely indebted to Wyatt's "English soul"), wanted to move beyond straightahead punk, beyond rock itself, and the Canterbury Sound was a suggestive example of a concerted attempt to un-rock rock. Wyatt was coaxed back into recording by Geoff Travis, the boss of Rough Trade (home to Scritti). "Virgin were cross and said I couldn't do albums for another label, so we decided to do a series of singles, cover versions."

During his period of disengagement from music, Wyatt had become politically engaged: he started tuning into foreign radio stations, including Radio Moscow, and reading the Morning Star. Eventually he joined the Communist Party because its internationalism fit his own "xenophilia". He explains, "if anybody starts to build up a heat against Johnny Foreigner, sort that chap out, my instincts are to take sides with Johnny Foreigner. They used to call it being a traitor but actually I'm just a xenophile." The Rough Trade singles included versions of Latin American revolutionary songs, a pro-Stalin ditty from 1940s America, a tune called "Trade Union" by a Bengali group based in Brick Lane, and most famously, Elvis Costello and Clive Langer's anti-Falklands War ballad "Shipbuilding".

Ayers is a xenophile if anybody is. He spent his early childhood in Malaysia, "running around a beach and completely lost in my own world ". When his family returned to Herne Bay, the twin culture shock of England's grey-skied, grey-faced repression and being plunged into boarding school aged 12 was a massive trauma. Ironically, for an artist who is regarded as quintessentially English, Ayers has spent most of his life since that "homecoming" trying to escape England, traveling all over the world and eventually settling in France. "Sunnier climes have always been more compatible to me – people there are so much more relaxed and have time for the good things in life like good food and wine."

IN 1992 AYERS declared, "Between the ages of 17 and 40 I had a great time, no grounds for complaint whatsoever. My problem is just that I don't know what to do with the rest of my life." For both of the ex-Softs, the Eighties and Nineties were…. variable. Wyatt alternated between sporadic recording and periods of depression, partly induced by "the political weather… you can get a very cold draught sometimes." Both artists have had struggles with alcohol, culminating this year with Wyatt going sober and quitting the potions he'd always seen as essential to loosening his creativity. Comicopera's first "act" partly concerns the deleterious effects of his drinking on his relationship with Alfie (who wrote a lot of lyrics on the album), a syndrome she has described as "bereavement within a marriage."

Both Comicopera and The Unfairground deal with aging, that sense of twilight memorably captured by Dylan a few years ago with the lines "it's not dark yet/but it's getting there." Serenity and wisdom have eluded both artists. In one song, Wyatt sings, at once wry and deadly earnest, of envying Christians and Moslems for their certainty, their confidence that God has got their back. After the first act dealing with personal relationships, and a second moving out into the real world of politics and war, the final section sees Wyatt casting around for "solutions" via a series of cover versions that touch on spirituality, revolution, surrealism, and free improvisation. The Unfairground, meanwhile, exudes a worldweary confusion distilled in the line "I don't understand anything as I grow older/Nothing seems to be any clearer".

"When you get to a certain age the inevitable crumbling becomes very real," Ayers admits. "It's how you deal with that is the challenge. Robert said to me a very long time ago that I was the sort of person who would end up an old man on a park bench feeding ducks and wondering why people weren't nicer to each other!" Yet for all its bleakness, The Unfairground sounds sprightly and spring-heeled: falling in love was a major catalyst for Ayers even making a record again. And Comicopera's sheer delight in strange and marvellous combinations of sounds is a tonic. In the end, there aren't answers but there are consolations, the highest (and healthiest) being music and friendship. Both The Unfairground and Comicopera involved a company of musician pals: Ayers called on 26talents, among them folk singer Bridget St. John and Hugh Hopper, while Wyatt's "imaginary gang" contained such seeming incompatibles as Brian Eno and Paul Weller. "I say imaginary cos they were never in the same room at the same time," he chuckles. "I do believe in doing that, but I've found that often grumpiness ensues."

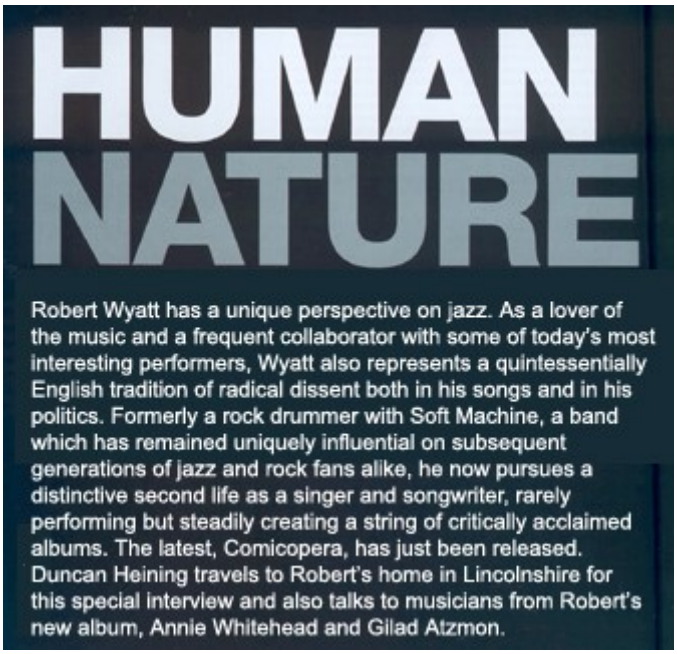
Parts of The Unfairground were recorded at the same studio, owned by Roxy Music guitarist Phil Manzanera, where Wyatt recorded Comicopera. Hence the reunion last summer. "It was really great to see him again," says Wyatt. "He's gone through a lot of problems, battling the demons. And he's looking battered, but he's survived. And it was nice because I had the opportunity to say `Look, Kevin thanks very much for your tunes at the beginning'. Without his natural ability to write proper songs, The Soft Machine would have been hard pressed to cobble together much convincing original material of our own."

Wyatt actually appears briefly on his old friend's record, albeit as a disembodied vocal texture, sampled and listed in the credits as The Wyattron. "It's not Robert, but it is a memory of Robert," says Ayers. "And that makes a lot of sense to me, as that is what I have."

Previous article

Next article

Back to the list

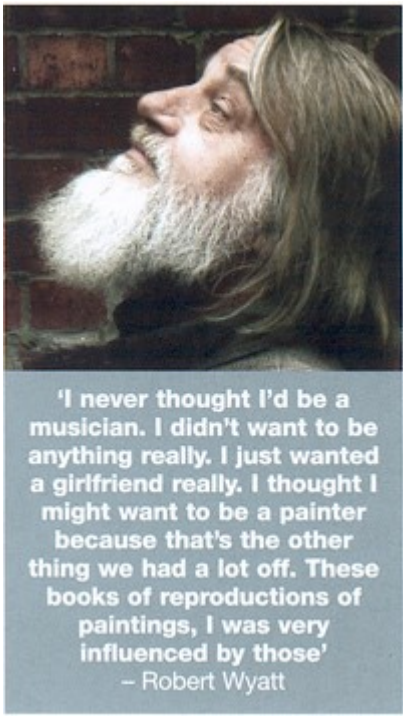


ABÉCÉDAIRE

Les années Before | Soft Machine | Matching Mole | Solo | With Friends | Samples | Compilations | V.A. | Bootlegs | Reprises

HOME

Human Nature - Jazzwise - Issue 113 - October 2007



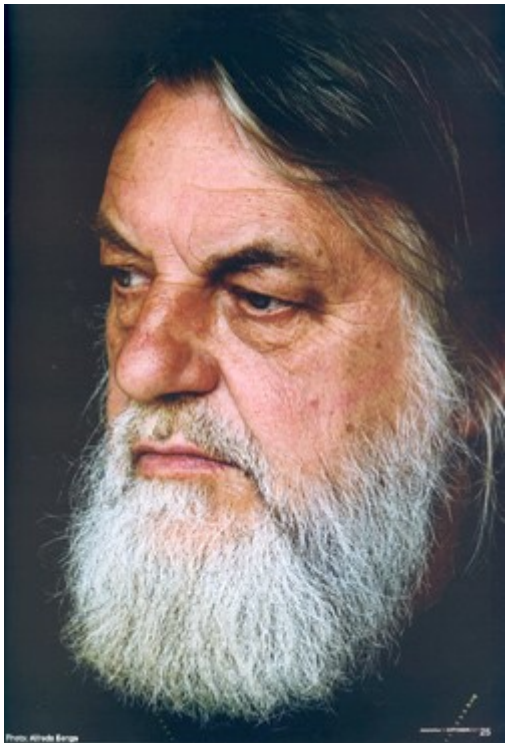
How do you describe Robert Wyatt? Musician? Clearly. Song-writer?

That goes without saying. Activist? Fair enough. But beyond stating the obvious, it gets increasingly difficult to define what he does. As if bemused by their own appeal, his songs defy easy categorisation and yet their charms communicate across generations and genres. Robert has just signed with Domino, the hippest of young independent labels and home of the Arctic Monkeys, Franz Ferdinand and more oddball talents like Stephen Malkmus and Jim O'Rourke. Oh, and he's about to release his latest album, Comicopera.

Louth in Lincolnshire, where Robert and partner Alfie Benge live, is about 200 miles and three decades from London. Piles of books, records and musical instruments clutter their rambling Georgian house close to the town's centre. Photos, political posters and Alfie's art on the walls. In the hall two carrier bags full of paperbacks, unclear whether they are coming in or going out. Two lives lived to the full. Outside in Louth itself, Robert and Alfie seem well-known to the town's other residents.

In the local hippy shop, all patchouli oil, josticks and Indian prints, Robert chats with the owner, pointing me out to her, "This is Duncan, he's up from London to do an interview. I just thought I'd show him your lovely shop." And in the record shop, Off The Beaten Tracks, they quickly work out what I'm doing here, "Yeah, Robert comes in quite a lot, mostly to order CD's he's seen reviewed in Jazzwise."

The sun is warm over Louth today and we chat over a sausage bun outside Stan's on the market. Robert had been at Ryko for years but a recent take-over led to sackings of trusted friends, people like Andy Childs whom they'd known since Robert had been on Rough Trade records.



If they really cared about the music they'd be pleased they'd got somebody like Andy. It just didn't feel right. So, we left and they were a bit surprised and a bit cross. But Alfie cleverly got it built into our contract that we weren't collateral for deals like that." Alfie took on the task of sorting out Robert's business affairs some years ago. "This wasn't by choice," she tells me. "This is by seeing how chaotic some things are and how Robert signs things that are not in his best interests. Like signing songs to a publisher, who's totally hopeless, for eternity instead of checking him out first."

I turn to Robert, who has a Stan Laurel-like look on his face: "You should have been a jazz musician, Robert". He laughs, "I've got the makings, haven't I? 'Jazzwise' being a contradiction in terms." "Yeah, technically and brain-wise," Alfie chips in. "I come from a long line of jazz musicians. Also, there's been quite a lot of crooks involved in Robert's life. It seemed sensible to keep it in the family but it's not my chosen metier. I find it really irritating."

Back at the house, I ask Robert if he minds if I take a couple of photos. "No, not at all," he says, "though I am having a bit of a bad hair life." I explain that I'm using two tape machines for the interview, as in the past machines have stopped working without my realising. It turns out such things have happened with Wyatt interviews before.

"The thing that's confusing for people, if they've had to do it again, is that for every question I have a completely different answer. So, it's very hard for them to sync up an interview. Like, 'How are the 60s?' 'Great!' 'How are the 60s?' 'Crap!' 'Are you happy?' 'Yeah!' 'Are you happy?' 'Am I fuck!' So, that was just a warning."

Robert's politics, however, remain more consistent. Like his albums they're intensely personal and derive from a strong moral sense. Anti-racist, due to his love of jazz and black music. Anti-imperialist and socialist, due both to his parents' example and to his own anti-racism. These values are steadfast and infuse Robert's songs, not in any crude agit-prop way, but because they arise naturally from the processes of contemplation and reflection. Is he glad to see the back of Blair? Obviously. But does he have any sense that Brown may be any better?

> Zoom

"Actually, I'm grateful that, by association, two of the most unpleasant Western prime ministers had to go. Tony Blair dragged them down with him. The whole of Europe breathed a sigh of relief at getting rid of fucking Berlusconi and the equally odious Aznar. So, thank you Tony for that. I don't like doing reverse personality cults. I agree with Tony Benn about that. But on an emotional level I feel slightly less ashamed having a grown-up going around talking on behalf of the British people as opposed to a prep school tosser.

But that's a personal opinion rather than a deeply political analysis."

Sometimes, it's only the laughing that keeps you from crying, isn't it? But somehow Robert, and Alfie, stay optimistic. Of course, the joy, energy and camaraderie that goes into the creation of a work like Comicopera must surely help. And the making of a Robert Wyatt album is a painstaking process. Much of it takes place at home. Though he's used other people to produce his records in the past, notably Nick Mason on Rock Bottom and Clive Langer on Shipbuilding, Robert is essentially his own producer these days. Advice, however, from Alfie, engineer Jamie Johnson and friends like Brian Eno and Phil Manzanera also feed in.

"Jamie Johnson is such an intelligent engineer that we can work as a team when I'm putting stuff together. Then I get a lot of vocal advice, and 'vocal' advice, from Alfie. Basically, consisting of, 'You could do that again, only better.' [chuckles] Actually, Alfie has ideas, like, 'why don't you try this?' or 'why don't you come in on that set of notes?' Nick Mason was great because he wasn't a professional producer. I asked him, partly in gratitude to the Floyd because they were so nice to us and because I thought that if anyone knows about sitting in a studio and getting a good sound out, it's got to be one of this lot and that turned out to be the case."

Actually, when Robert injured his back in 1973, the Floyd jumped in and did a couple of benefits at the Rainbow for him raising over ten grand to help out. They're still friends and it was in part a suggestion from David Gilmour, that encouraged greater emphasis on Robert's voice in the mix on Comicopera.

"Alfie used to get worried that my voice was getting lost in my own production of it. Also Gilmour said that. He said, 'People want to hear the voice.' Meaning he wanted to hear the voice. I thought, 'OK. You can hear it now'. But I also like it as just something else in there."

I suspect that the attraction of Robert's music, for artists as different as David Gilmour, Brian Eno, Elvis Costello, Paul Weller and Björk, comes from the fact that there is no separation between the art and the man. It is that which gives it integrity, in both senses. As ever, songs off the new album, like the beautiful 'Out Of The Blue', don't grab the attention even where their Iyrics are at their most pointed. They sail into view and touch you even before you're fully aware and they still have that emergent, improvised quality of his best work. That, I'm sure, derives from his love of jazz and is why he chooses such strong players to interact with on his records. Trombonist, Annie Whitehead is there again, as are Gilad Atzmon and bassist Yaron Stavi as well as Orphy Robinson. All three have become crucial to Robert in his music.

He's known Annie since the 70s, having met through shared friendships with musicians like Mongezi Feza, Dudu Pukwana and Keith Tippett. "We actually recorded together the first time on a record Jerry Dammers put together - Wind of Change, on behalf of the Namibia liberation movement, SWAPO. I particularly liked the way she was listening to what everybody else was doing. She's just utterly lovable, very, very quick and got an awful Lot of soul."
Annie has also put together a group to play Robert's music, Soupsongs, which has played gigs in the UK and continues to perform in Europe. As for Gilad, Robert describes himself as a "sort of Gilad groupie" and he asked the saxophonist very hesitantly if he'd play on Cuckooland, his last album for Ryko. "He had no idea who I was or what I had done or anything like that. I realised he just loves to play. Whatever I'd asked him to do, if it involved playing, he'd have said, 'yes'. He was such a joy to work with. He was just such an enthusiastic collaborator and so fast at hearing what was required. Yaron Stavi and Gilad, I regard as like Sancho Panza and Don Quixote and I love them both. It's very hard to talk about people when it goes beyond professional admiration to that sort of kind of love and I have it for various people, Phil Manzanera and Paul Weller being another two but that's really that."

Singer, Mônica Vasconcelos, is another artist who appears on Comicopera and is heard to stunning effect on 'Out Of The Blue'. Robert has recently been working on the singer's new album.

"She got Alfie involved because she wanted to do more stuff in English and Alfie had a go at some words for tunes Steve Lodder and Dudley Phillips had written for her. I did a bit of singing on it and chipped in a few ideas. I think I was invited. [Long pause) Oh, god, I hope so. I think Dudley or Steve would...

‘A musician, inside and out’

Saxophonist Gilad Atzmon appears on Robert Wyatt’s new album. He tells Duncan Heining how they first met

“You probably wouldn’t believe this but I’m a pretty shy person. It won’t come up when I’m on stage but sometime I would even start to play and it would take me four tunes to warm up and it was really when I come up with a joke and people laugh and then I can move on. Robert is apparently at times more shy than myself. I was playing one time in Grimsby and his wife Alfie came to me and told me there is a singer here that really wants to talk to you and I said, ‘For sure. Of course.’ Then this person came in a wheelchair and approach me. He said to me, very shy, very nervous, ‘I’m kind of a musician and really like your playing.’ But did not introduce himself or anything. Then he said, ‘And I really love your clarinet playing and I’m dying to have you play on one of my albums. Will you record with me?’ I said, ‘What a question. Sure give me a call.’ Then Annie Whitehead rang me, she said, ‘I hear you met Robert Wyatt yesterday, Wow. Great. Blah, Blah. Blah.’ I said, ‘Oh shit! Yeah?’ This is the way I was introduced to Robert Wyatt. I didn’t even know it was him. So, then I called him and said, ‘Oh, my god man, I heard your music when I was a kid.’

Anyway that's the forthcoming Mônica Vasconcelos album and I really like her voice. It's so true. And I use her on a monicatron towards the end."

That's where Robert records somebody - Brian Eno, Karen Mantler or, here, Monica - singing all the notes of the scale. Then Jamie Johnson transfers it to computer and from there to keyboard, "So I have a keyboard of that person's voice and I can play chords of it. I love doing that. I tried it on my own voice but it was rubbish. It was all out of tune."

As far as singers go, Robert's own tastes are diverse. "I've been listening to stuff that was very dependant on the idiosyncrasies of the voice like Johnny Cash and Bob Dylan together. Like this ultrasmart, ultra-educated Jewish intellectual from the North and this pure moral, country boy musician and I find their friendship really moving for some reason. It's all in there with their record. I thought this is serious here."

Joni Mitchell is also important to Robert, as is Peter Pears (Benjamin Britten's partner), mainly because of specific qualities in their voices. "There's also people in jazz I like but I can't say they've influenced me. I find Betty Carter gob-smacking and I like musicians who sing sometimes in jazz. I like Dizzy Gillespie's 'Oo Bop Sh' Bam' stuff or Jimmie Smith doing 'Got My Mojo Workin", which is really kind of rough stuff."

I ask about Chet Baker. There's something in that wispy, waif-like sound that has parallels with Robert's voice.

As a saxophonist, as a woodwind player, I played with so many people on many, many albums of so many famous people. And I would turn up and play for 20 minutes or an hour, three hours at most, but with Robert it was very special because working with him he is one of the last organic musicians, sitting there with headphones listening to you closing his eyes and he fills you with his own spirit just being with you in the room.
For me, you know I worked with the late Ian Dury, Ian was very different but somehow these wordsmiths, the English ones, are very special. Their output is turned into a very effective input when you are playing with them.
I love the man like crazy him, and his wife. He played on my album as well, Musik. It was so great. I sent him the music and he prepared so much stuff, you know. He is just consummately a musician inside and out."

"Well, I suppose that's so built in. I mean Chet Baker's biggest influence on me is the fact that I really like this thing of a bit of vocal, a bit of trumpet and I think one of the reasons I took up the trumpet again was because I was so haunted by that thing of moving backwards and forwards between those two.
Although I can't play trumpet like a musician, I'm able to play it like a singer or at least like I sing."

And what about Billie Holiday?

"What I like most about her, it's a bit of a cliché, but what not to sing. What actually goes naturally with a voice and in her case if you've got good enough music around you just let it come through and just ride it like a yacht. And I really like her later stuff too. Jazz people say her voice had gone to pieces by then but as far as I'm concerned that's rock 'n' roll. What did they know? It's like late period Johnny Cash, it's got 50 much soul."

Robert never set out to be a singer, a fact that still guides his approach, as he tells me chuckling to himself. "I've got this completely negative approach to singing - try not to make too many mistakes, try to hit the right note, be grateful for that and move discreetly on to the next one." Early Soft Machine bootlegs, in fact, suggest that Robert had a pretty fine white soul voice.

"I really got into that classic English beat group thing which was taking black American records from Sue and Motown and replacing the backing they had with a more skiffle-based thing. That's what the English Beat Group scene really was, Black Music played by skiffle groups. And I was absolutely part of that and with the Wilde Flowers live gigs, that's what it was."

At the same time, however, Robert's father and mother were both great music lovers. The majorily of records they had were classical, though quite a few of those featured 20th century composers like Stravinsky, Ravel and Debussy who were inspired by jazz. It was a remark made by his father, that prompted Robert to start listening to jazz.

"My dad mentioned he really liked Duke Ellington and Fats Waller because he'd seen this seminally important film Stormy Weather, that celebrated black culture albeit in that sort of ersatz way. So, I got Duke's Such Sweet Thunder when I was 11 or 12, which he sort of approved of because it was a Shakespearean Suite, and I was off. I was just completely, as they say, blown away."

The other thing that Robert mentions as being important was his parents collections of art books. "I never thought I'd be a musician. I didn't want to be anything really. I just wanted a girlfriend really. I thought I might want to be a painter because that's the other thing we had a lot off. These books of reproductions of paintings, I was very influenced by those." It's there perhaps in the painterly attention Robert brings to his work but also in the collage-like impression his songs leave. It's entirely fitting that Alfie, herself an ex-student of art and film, brings those same skills to the covers and typography of a Wyatt record. "We are absolutely a team, me and Alfie. She has all these skills she acquired from art school and because she gets involved sometimes with the music and the lyrics and we do so much together, she's naturally part of everything I do. She's the one who really took control of how things are done, like cover art and presentation and typography.
Ever since Rock Bottom, she's been in charge of that. She's particularly conscious that now people can download, the whole thing should be worth having as an object.

The drums were obviously an early

Interpreting Wyatt

Annie Whitehead explains to Duncan Heining the genesis of her Robert Wyatt-based song project

"Soupsongs began when Robert was approached by this promoter in Lincolnshire called Dave Broom who wanted to do a project of his songs. Robert doesn't do gigs and he suggested me. Robert's very shy when it comes to asking musicians to do what he wants. He has so much respect for them, he finds it hard to say what he wants them to do. I thought Robert was going to be involved in the project as well and I was just going to be a kind of translator or bossy person (laughs) to save him having to do it. But then it became clear we were going to get singers and instrumentalists to do his music. So, we decided what we were going to do and how we were going to do it and Robert was very much a part of it, as I was. It's been wonderful doing his music, first of all because everybody loves it, the musicians love it. You can really ask anybody to be a part of this project and they'll say, 'Yes, please!'
Robert was like, 'This is your project really.' He thought my band should be the core. So, I decided I'd ask people who either had a connection with Robert or had worked with me. Originally, Julie Tippetts did it but she had to drop out. Robert had sung on one of Italian singer Cristina Donà's records, so she's come in. And Sarah Jane Morris was with my band for a while but was also with Happy End, which is politically around Robert's area as well. The other thing was I thought Sarah Jane has such a low voice for a woman and Robert has such a high voice for a man, that it kind of appealed to me. It's great to enthusiasm and Robert's first drum kit consisted of the usual mix of household objects, which he'd use to play along with Max Roach "Bit ambitious that'. His first proper kit, the cheapest Premier set he could buy, lasted him through his early professional career. He had lessons with a visiting American drummer and summers were spent on Mallorca living near Robert Graves, a friend of both Robert's parents. Graves' son-in-law owned the Indigo Jazz Club and Robert got to practise and even jam at the club. His first group with Kevin Ayers, Hugh and Brian Hopper and Richard Sinclair was The Wilde Flowers and when that disintegrated, Robert formed Soft Machine with Ayers and Mike Ratledge. Sharing the same management as the Jimi Hendrix Experience, the group toured the States with Hendrix. The downside of that was that Robert began to develop a big liking for alcohol and it was whilst under the influence that Robert fell from a window in June 1973 and ended up paralysed from the waist down. The upside, however, was that he learned a great deal personally and musically from playing America, not least from Hendrix's drummer, the sadly underrated Mitch Mitchell.

"Going from Beat group gigs to bigger gigs, Mitch really taught me a lot about how to handle that musically. In fact, he gave me his kit when the tour ended because he said, 'Robert, I can't bear the thought of you playing on that crap kit you've been playing'." Robert laughs his body quivering at the memory. He still has the kit. Both he and Mitchell shared an enthusiasm for jazz drummers, Elvin Jones and Tony Williams. "Me and Mitch used to listen to a particular track by Miles Davis with Tony on it, 'Stuff', but I've liked Tony Williams ever since he was with Jackie McLean. Elvin, we loved because the momentum and the weight of what he did was very useful information because of the volume at which rock groups played. He actually matched that sort of depth and volume of rock."

Inevitably, the shock of hearing Hendrix for the first time has stayed with Robert. "I still remember first hearing Hendrix get into gear in rehearsal. You just thought, 'What the fuck is that?' This sensaround thing of controlled feedback. There were people like Jeff Beck and to a certain extent Pete Townshend who were controlling feedback but this sustained landscape at a certain volume and absolutely controlling. It was blinding. It was like a great living, breathing river of sound."

There was opposition in some quarters

hear Robert's things that were done so high and delicately being growled out by Sarah Jane. And Jennifer of course. Jennifer [Maidman] was always in the band because she has that kind of deadpan kind of delivery almost kind of speaking the words at times.

We have a great promoter in Italy and they really love the music over there. There doesn't seem to be anybody here who wants to do it, unfortunately. We did do a tour for Serious a few years ago and Robert came to quite a few of the gigs. As a musician when you play live you experience the audience enjoying what you do and it plays a really big part in you continuing doing what you do. Robert never gets that because he doesn't play live. So, it was really nice for me when he was in the audience knowing that he was experiencing all these people enjoying his music and seeing it have an emotional effect on them. It's very special when Robert's there."

Photos: above, Duncan Heining

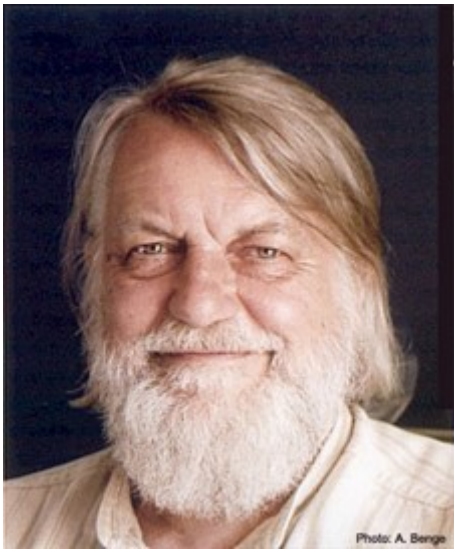

Photo: A. Benge

LISTEN UP!//

Essential Wyatt

Soft Machine
Third Sony BMG
The easy one. A brilliant album. Great drumming and 'Moon In June' (though I prefer the John Peel Top Gear version). Recently reissued with Live At The Proms 1970 tracks. A must-have.

Matching Mole
On The Radio Hux

Just preferred over the two CBS records for its breadth of material. Essential to hear what happened next.

to the Softs doing the tour but Hendrix supported them. "Some people thought, 'Soft Machine? They're not very poppy. He's playing stadiums. He's got hit records.' But I'm very grateful to Hendrix because he stuck up for us, and the band did, and Hendrix didn't like pop groups that much. He wanted people who were trying something different and didn't want people copying him. And, of course, we weren't. We were trying to do something else. He was very respectful about what we were trying to do and (laughing) very polite about our ability to do it. Real gent."

Though he's put in the occasional guest stage appearance with friends from Annie Whitehead to David Gilmour, Robert stopped doing gigs not long alter his accident. People would love to see him live, as he knows. "I feel a bit sheepish about it because normally the gigs are the promotion for the LP. The difficulty with gigs is that I don't really think like that. So much of what I do now depends on a kind of Beach Boys-isation of the voice, of double octaves and so on. It's all in the editing. I tried to do a sort of imitation of a live gig with Annie's band. A couple of songs came out all right. But I wasn't really comfortable and some of them were so not right and there was nothing I could do about it. I just don't have that kind of confidence to do it live in front of a band. I did drumming and drunk but voice and sober, it's just not going to happen. I don't have that chutzpah."

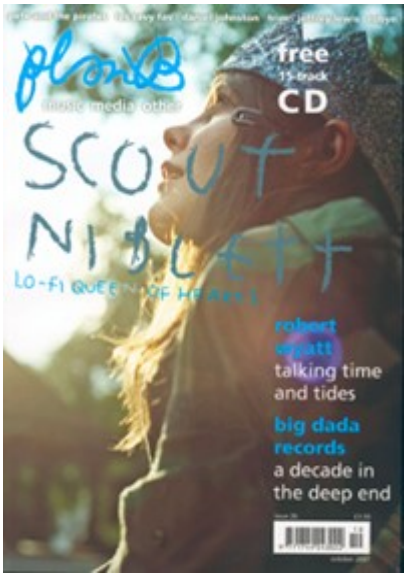
Maybe Domino and Robert's many friends might someday persuade him. It would be wonderful to see him do a short residency at somewhere like Ronnie's. Somewhere he'd be appreciated but also somewhere intimate, where the warmth of the man could come across. Till then, there's Comicopera and Robert's back catalogue to keep us happy.

An Evening Chat with Robert Wyatt takes place at the Purcell Room. London on 15 October.

Previous article

Next article

Back to the list



ABÉCÉDAIRE

Les années Before | Soft Machine | Matching Mole | Solo | With Friends | Samples | Compilations | V.A. | Bootlegs | Reprises

HOME

Lost and Found - Plan B N°26 - October 2007

LOST AND FOUND

Words Frances Morgan
Photography Simon Fernandez

" For better or for worse, when you put on one of my records, you're getting me, " says Robert Wyatt. Plan B was only too happy to spend an afternoon in the company of the reluctantly iconic songwriter - and his bewilderingly beautiful new album, Comicopera

"About 10 minutes ago I said, you've probably got some questions," says Robert Wyatt. "And then I kept talking. Look, go through your questions.
Eat. Eat and drink and smoke, "he urges, proffering a light and some cake. "Otherwise, life, you know, just dries up..."

I'm fine with the latter three. Cup of tea, Drum Mild, a Danish pastry with custard in it. I'm fine sitting in a light front room full of stuff - instruments, records, pictures - and talking about Cecil Taylor and William Parker. Maybe we could just do that. I could do that all day, probably. It's what I do a lot anyway. Talk, smoke, listen, talk some more; the outside world driving around doing whatever it is it does on the other side of the curtains.

But the room I'm in belongs to Robert Wyatt, and I'm here to talk to him about his new album, Comicopera. I've travelled to Louth, in Lincolnshire, by train and replacement bus and a drive through big-skied cloud-blown countryside with Wyatt's wife, artist and writer Alfreda Benge, who says right away she's glad that photographer Simon

Fernandez and I are smokers. This is a relief to me too because, throughout the journey, > Zoom
I've veered between making conscientious, illegible notes, gazing camera-eyed at an unfamiliar part of England, and getting nervous to the point of missing I'd wished the train this morning, and I could do with a fag. I don't think the weight of expectation has ever sat upon my head with quite such ominous heft as it has today.

Of course, the expectation budges as soon as I'm welcomed into Wyatt's room, greeted with an enormous smile and the offer of a cuppa from an instantly recognisable voice - a voice that, when singing, seems full of quiet concern for or knowledge of its listeners.

To be honest, that weight of expectation dissipates whenever I actually hear Wyatt's music, which is why I'm here in the first place. From the playful art rock of his early bands Soft Machine and Matching Mole, through 1974's revelatory, harrowing solo album Rock Bottom and the early Eighties singles that further defined his sweet, weird, drifting, impressionistic, committed and heartfelt free-pop, to the meditative and eclectic Shleep of 1997, and beyond, Robert's Wyatt's music asks a lot of the listener, but does not demand. Rather, it suggests, via dreamlike timbres, open chords, gentle percussion and an almost unbearable emotional honesty, nothing less than the map of a human spirit, sketched out in sound. But what that means is, it's music that means so much to so many people, in a quiet private way that they hold close to themselves. I'm one of those people, too, so I don't want to let us down.

So I gesture at my notes.

Yeah, I wrote some questions. I find asking them quite difficult.

"Just give it a go. I'm on your side, do you know what I mean ? It's your gig now. I've done my gig, I've made my fucking record."

All right, we'll talk about the record to start with. Tell me some stuff.
"Playing it back I realised that I do play very loud cymbals all the time..." Wyatt reflects, referring to the ripply, brittle scatters of cymbal that have punctuated his percussion since his early days as a jazz drummer "I won't abandon what I do just to be fashionable, so I keep going 'Tssh! Tssh ! Tssh !'. I feel a bit embarrassed sometimes that I'm drowning out all these wonderful musicians with my splashy cymbal noises."

That wasn't the first thing I would have noticed about the album.
"Thank you. But I just listen to it and get so embarrassed. It's like old people who get hairs growing out of their faces in weird places and you're having a conversation with them and thinking, 'Fucking hell, he's got a black hair growing out of his nose'... But no, it's just weird stuff," he laughs, describing the record's mood, or possibly his own on listening to it: "'I'm lost, I'm somewhere. But wherever that is, that's here'. The first track does it on this record. Thank you, Anja Garbarek, for writing it."

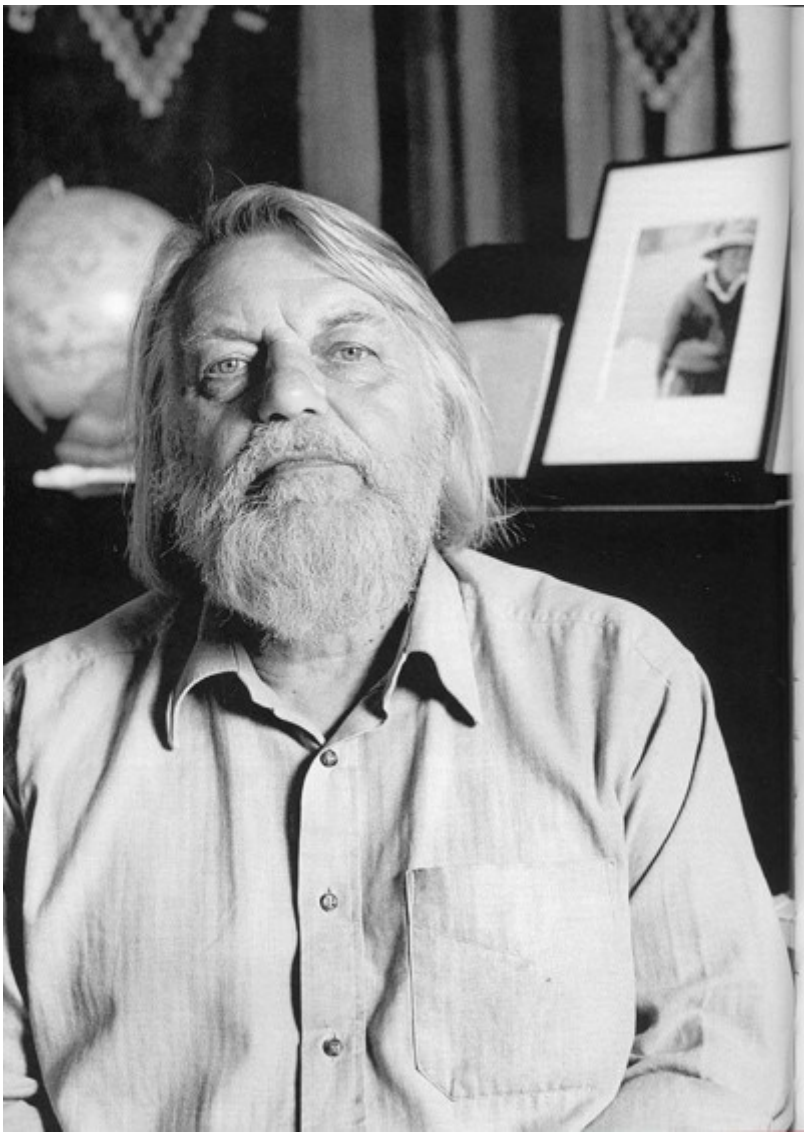
'I always work backwards from chaos into order'

Comicopera's opener, 'Stay Tuned', is a slowburning, beautifully simple tilt between uncertainty and surety. The questioning verses - "In between, lost in noise, somewhere, somewhere, somewhere" - settle into encouragement and resolution, steady bass bolstered by trombone and trumpet: "Don't start searching, I'll get back to you."

You mean that state of not really being sure where you are, but being OK with that?
"Yeah, thank you for saying that. You've pinned it down exactly."

That sense of drift in your music is one of the things I like most about it.
"My physical response to what I'm doing is... Once I start making noise it's a bit like jumping into water and sometimes I'm in a pond, which I would call a pop song, and sometimes I think, 'Oh fucking hell, this isn't a pond, this is the ocean'. I'm somewhere bigger than a pond, and it gets a bit more scary."

Is that something that you can't really plan?
"You cannot plan it. If you do, you're being a cynical media bastard and it will always show up."



SIGNPOSTS TO SOMEWHERE

In a roundabout way, this is how we talk about Comicopera, an album that's both immediate and a bit unfathomable, like all Wyatt's records. It is an album in three discrete parts, 'acts', but I'd argue you could listen to it without knowing that. You would, however, notice how it deepens and changes: locationally, from domestic/internal to a confusing but familiar outside, to - suddenly and devastatingly - a world beset by conflict and chaos and thence back inside again into a rich, almost desperate imagination. Sonically, you'll hear the familiar washes of plangent chord and lilting, patchworked songwriting pick up speed into quirky, rhythmic energy, into an electronically charged, almost apocalyptic peak with the devastating, Enoenhanced 'Out Of The Blue'. The album's final section knits together songs in Italian and Spanish with loose, multicoloured arrangements of free jazz vibraphone, minimalist synth, distant trumpet, and all around a spaciousness that recalls, if anything, bands of the Brazilian Tropicalia movement, whose psychedelic bossa nova whimsy masked deeper metaphysical concerns and a wry, committed criticism of the status quo.

But at every signpost, there's a derailment or a surprise: with Wyatt, consistent as his vocal presence remains, the unexpected is, you feel, central to every song'Just As You Are', at first listen a soft love song, taps into the compromises, co-dependency and insecurity present in every relationship. The loping, lush 'Beautiful War', turns around and strangles you when the subject matter comes clear: its airiness is the methodical efficiency of a bomber destroying an anonymous settlement far below, safe in his cloudless sky. The stately, waltz-like 'Cancon de Julieta' fragments into the call-and-answer swoops of Chucho Merchan's bass violin and a weird noise undertow that befits its setting of Garcia Lorca's words.

Wyatts previous album, 2003's Cuckooland, navigated a similar journey between familiar and alien; internal and political-like Comicopera, songs gently whisked you from wry ontological questioning to cinematic evocations of 'Old Europe', from drifting, legato laments to jazzy scuttle. Comicopera is wider in frame, somehow; delirious with ideas, but with a settled assuredness of vision. How did it all come together? Did the structure come before or after the songs?

"It came out of the process. Things separate into chunks of preoccupation. I'm sort of floating about all the time, and it's quite disparate and quite chaotic. And then when I've got an hour and a half's worth I gather it together, then I sort it out in terms of what state of mind I was in when I wrote this song or that song, or nicked somebody else's song, or stopped singing altogether and let someone else play their instrument. Because I get bored, you know, of my voice sometimes. Anyway, then you sort it all out, and in this case it fell into three sort of categories, really.

> Zoom

"I'm on an animal level, using instinct most of the time, which is what I like most. But let's sort it out, help the listener here a bit. Cut it up a bit. This is one train of thought, that's another. It turned out it took three trains of thought".

It's a weird listen. You start off feeling quite safe but then as it goes on it starts to become a much darker record. It's quite disorientating.
"It's just that, having got past 60, I've done all the business of trying to tailor things to what people can digest. You get quite selfish at this age. You just think, 'I've got one last go, possibly, so I'm just going to throw it out the way it happens'.

"What I do remember is that youth always anticipates death as quite a dramatic, black and white thing. They romanticise it, and simplify it and cut it down. But it's a weirder and stranger journey. You start off, and you know roughly what's going on. Even if it's strange for you it's marked out. You become a teenager and think, 'OK, there's sex'. Then you get a job, and you think, that's adulthood and you've got there, to a sort of plateau. But then you could have another 20, 30, 40, 50 years of 'what then ?' Then you're in danger and in the wilderness, much more than teenagers ever understand about wilderness - they fantasise about 'weird', but they have no idea what weird really is. Weird is really fucking weird.

"When you're 50, life is just as unknown to you and unliveable, difficult and strange, as it is for a 12 year old. But then, I say all that stuff which sounds really pretentious, but all I've tried to do is make a really nice record. I've tried to string nice notes together. And if somebody's got any patience they will hear them. I don't put the beats in to help, I just say 'Look, the notes are there, believe me. Trust me, I've got a beard. How can you not trust me?'"

I don't know if I trust beards...

"No, well, I would never play a record with a person with a beard on the front, other than myself. This is why Alfie never, ever does album covers with me on the front, because it would put everybody right off."

Ever since I first heard it, I've found your music very comforting, even when it sounds unsure or sad or critical. But with this new album I feel more than ever this sense of you looking at the awfulness of things.

"If it's a bit distressing where I go, hang on in there because it's quite friendly in the end. I've just tried not to avoid the nastiness, but say that although the nastiness is unbelievable, it's not unbearable. That's what I hope. I would hope that in the end it would be some kind of comfort because god, there's just so much pain. But you've got to dig a bit deeper, not to come on all serious, but just to provide any comfort at all. Beyond the immediate comforts of orgasm and getting pissed and loud music and stuff. Life lasts longer than all those three events, which are crucial, but there's got to be a deep fun going on as well that survives all the tragedy."

In some ways I'm looking forward to getting older, getting past a lot of that stuff.
"I'll tell you, it's a lot to look forward to. It's really nice. It's kind of like climbing up the slippery bits out of an ocean and getting up to dry bits, and looking down into the valley you just crawled from of teeming activity and agony and sleepless nights and all the awful, well, wonderful things. Both. It's really nice. You think, wow, I've been allowed to live long enough to have a look at what's been going on in my lifetime. It's a great privilege."

I didn't mean to bring up the comfort thing so soon in the interview. It felt a little creepy somehow;
a little too familial. But what the hell: many of my generation are at odds with the idea of family, at odds with the media and government's current idealised view of love and domestic life, but also unsure about the countercultural values our own parents might or might not have tried to live up to, all at sea as to how and when and where we'll find our real homes and real connections. It is easier to look for the idea of 'family', of closeness, outside our own, and some of us find it in music, of course.

If we feel rootless, songs like Robert Wyatts (all at once steadfast and sharp, yet fragile and ambiguous) give us some tentative roots. While I am sure he'd laugh, embarrassed, at such a notion, there are people my age to whom his tremulous, conversational croon has an oddly mentor-like quality, a cipher for their own feelings about vulnerability, independence, where to put themselves in this world.

But let's not get too sentimental here.

This is music we're talking about, and much of the reassuring quality of Wyatts music derives, paradoxically, from his removal of himself from the songwriting process and his ability to set the listener afloat in sound. Even when his lyrics are heavy on the polemic, there's something sonically selfless about the way he approaches the idea of the song, which often emerges from shifting sands of resolved and unresolved melody as if you've unearthed it yourself. And this fluidity, this oceanic quality that's reflected in the timbres he works with, reassures by its assurance that some things are bigger than you and all you can do is cast yourself adrift in them.

> Zoom

DOTS AND LOOPS

Really, there's only one thing I came here to ask, and that's how Robert Wyatt makes such music.

So I do. And he scoots around the room, energised, demonstrating, sounding out notes on piano, trumpet and voice. "It's very, very simple how I work. I've got a room here; four walls like anybody else's and a door going through to where I make tea. Facing me is a CD player and a cassette recorder. On the left of the mixer is an eight-track recording machine. Right in front of me I can look out onto the car park and watch people driving into town and people driving out. On my right, I've got a baby grand piano. On the right of that there's a disused fireplace, and then I'll take you back to where we started; about a thousand vinyl LPs and some photos of my wife, including one of her smacking her previous husband in the face, just as a kind of warning to me. Look at that! That's actually from a film, two stills. Tha'ts Alfie when she was a little girl. And that's her now.

"This is where I work I just had to cut music down to very simple things. There are beats in my stuff, it's just that they're buried. There's a grid, in other words. I'm very old-fashioned. I want a beat and a tune. There are two kinds of music really, there's music to dance to and music to sing. You can have singing music, which has no beat. You can have dance music which has no tune. The intriguing exercise which I've embarked on for the last 50 years is to try and combine the two. I think, if I've made mistakes, I've erred on the side of tune, and let the beat be buried a bit; like the skeleton of a fish. It's there, but it doesn't look like a great bony animal.

"Then I work out the piano. About there I can hit it with my voice" He strikes a key. "Now, 20 years ago I could get up to there, but I can't anymore, so I have to do all that stuff on something else; trumpet, or something like that. So, that's notes. Then, I've got this metronome, which is fantastic;
it's Victorian, I think. Now then, that metronome is a wonderful thing. It doesn't even rock steady, and there's a track on the new album where this is the only rhythm section, the one about 'Hattie in the at tic' [AWOL]. That's all I used. That's the drumkit.
So, I've got a beat, and the notes, and the trumpet, and then I've got heaps and heaps of bits of paper with words on... and I just try and stick them all together, my dear; that's all I do."

Do you do it every day?
"I play trumpet every day."

Do you write words every day?
"There I hit the buffers, because words and music don't always fit. The bit where you think about words is a whole different bit of your brain. It's that lovely transition zone between words and music that's got some sort of biological roots in humans. I don't know enough about human biology to know what the link is".

Is it about finding a balance between what you want to say and the musical words that will say it?
"Well, I actually think that way round, and I write more than I sing, because mostly what I write, I write. That's the form it takes. With music, I don't start with words; I start with noise, with sound. If it turns into words then I've struck lucky. You can't force it, though.

"I only make one LP about every five years because of that. It's not that I only have that many ideas. You've got to be so lucky. It's like panning for gold: every day you stick your thing in the water and drag up a bit of mud and leaf through it. Occasionally you pick something out and you think, 'Oh, that's really nice. There's a bit of mineral there'. You put it in your bag to take home, and music's like that. Fishing about among all the notes and occasionally one will turn into a word or a phrase, and then you'll take it home.

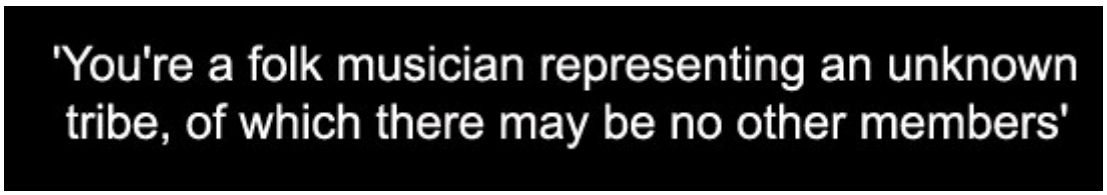
"Singing and talking aren't the same thing. They absolutely are not. I remember a dreadful moment at a friend's house about five years ago. A bloke pulled out his guitar and Alfie rushed into the kitchen saying, 'Oh no, he's going to sing a song, it's going to kill the conversation dead! We're going to have to sit and listen to him now.'
He started singing some ballad and you could see everyone's metabolism slowing down. It's an awfully cruel thing to say, but people when they're singing gentle ballads think they're being gentle, but they're being quite interventionist, actually."



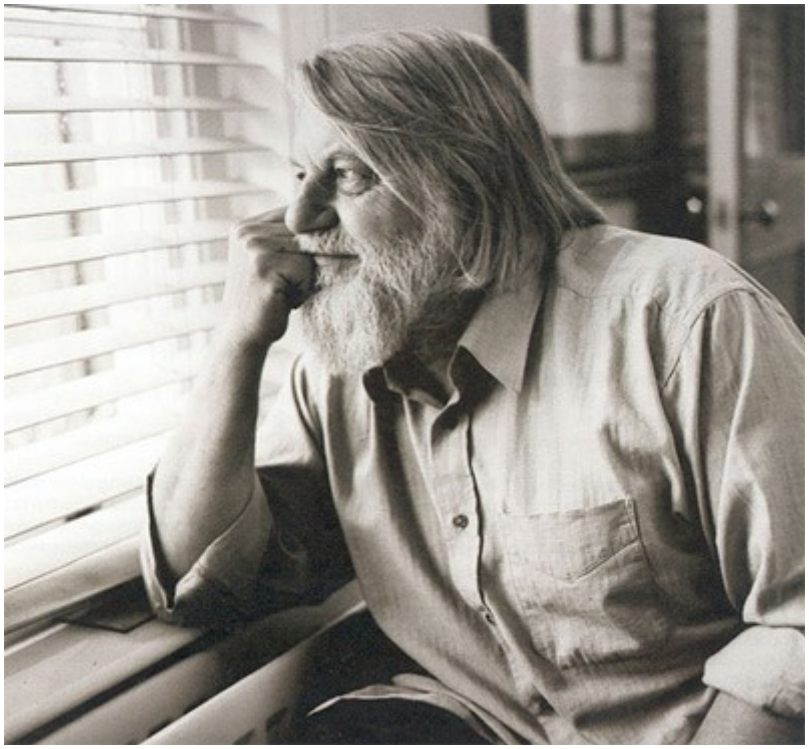
They're forcing you to enter their world.
"It's that kind of ersatz church mode. I much prefer making records to live gigs now, for that reason, because I don't want anyone to listen to me when they don't have to, or don't want to."

So you don't like the idea of reverence...
"I think it's appalling."

Do you still improvise with people?
"Yeah, I do a lot. In fact, even on my records I do. Most people start with the notes, and the beats, and fix which ones are going to work and expand on it. I tend to work backwards in a way. My brain is sort of a cross between Oxford Circus and a Cecil Taylor concert. Then I just keep cutting stuff out until I'm left with a followable thread - reduce it right down to a few words or a few notes. To me, songwriting is incidental to making music. What I'm trying to do is make records and I want them to be complete meals; vitamins, proteins, trace elements, the lot. "But I always work backwards from chaos into order. That's really the only thing I do that's totally not jazz and it's totally... well, I haven't learnt that from anybody. That's just the way I work."

It's probably an accumulation of all the music you've listened to.
"Yes, there's just an overwhelming amount of stuff that you can't deny or chuck in the bin, and it's irreconcilable so you just have to let it ferment in your brain, and then your brain will inevitably because you're only one little pathetic person - will reduce it down to the things that work for you and keep pushing everything else away and you're left with the utter simplicity of a Buddy Holly song - or you're left back with actually being a kind of folk musician representing an unknown tribe, of which there may be no other members! Just your own little one-person tribe."

You know, you've probably summed up there one of the best reasons I can think of to make music.



SIGNIFICANT OTHERS

The most obvious, and pleasurable, evidence of Wyatt's eschewal of singer-songwriter egotism is the long-standing relationship he has with collaborating musicians - from rock notables like Paul Weller and Brian Eno, to jazz musicians such as trombonist Annie Whitehead, vocalist Karen Mantler, percussionist Orphy Robinson and loads more. It's not unusual that an admired musician should be able to cherry-pick others to work with them, but Wyatt's collaborative recordings stand out through giving the impression, always, of real musical dialogues, necessary and organic. Comicopera marshals a large cast that feels particularly able to draw Wyatt's compositions in odd, exuberant and atmospheric directions.

"I've given up working with people I don't like," he says. "I used to, because I thought they were really brilliant or clever, but I can't be bothered with that anymore. Because in the end, musically it's better - people open out. There's this illusion that confrontation brings out stuff that's exciting, like on Big Brother-no it doesn't. It's sort of all right, but you get further and deeper with empathy."

When Wyatt asked singer Seaming To, who provides the soprano vocal on Comicopera's 'Stay Tuned', to add clarinet, "She said, 'I haven't played the clarinet for a while', and I said, 'Look, it's not fucking Mozart, it's just a few notes'. I thought she did lovely on it. I know I could look through the Musicians' Union phonebook and get brilliant clarinetists, but I wanted someone I could connect with as a human being."

I get the impression you're open to people having their own take on your songs.
" Absolutely. I don't tell them what to play. The buck stops with me when I'm editing. They know that. So it's not in that sense a free-for-all. I will take responsibility for the end result, which is arrogant but also I don't want them to get the blame for the wrong notes. It's got to stop somewhere, because when you listen to a record it's partly for sound, but also for company. You want some kind of coherent sense of another person in the room when you play a record. So for better or for worse when you put on one of my records you're getting me. I get all the help I can to make it sound good."

> Zoom

Do you feel like you learn a lot from your collaborators?
"I couldn't do without them. I left school at 16 and I can't really read music. I rely on people like [saxophonist] Gilad Atzom and [bassist] Yaron Stavi and Annie Whitehead, who are fantastically well-schooled musicians, to hear what I'm doing and make coherent sense of it. I'm not really an individualist."

Wyatt's most significant collaborator, though, must be his wife, Alfie. As well as writing a great many of the lyrics to his songs, her paintings and collages have been the visual representation of Wyatt's music over the past few decades, and are almost inseparable from its sound.

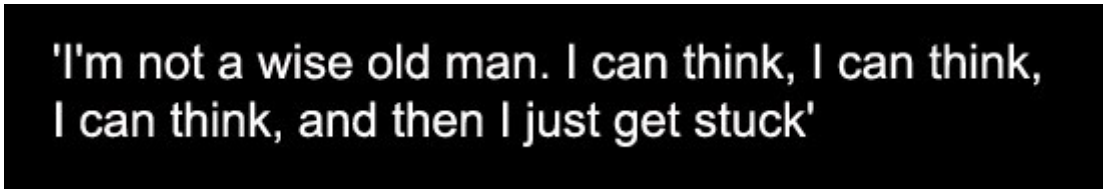
Like Wyatt's songs, her designs are deceptively simple, their bright colours and irregular shapes belying a complex fluidity. What I regret most about this day spent with both of them is that I didn't record the conversation Alfie and I had on our drive back, an exchange about writing, feminism, war and families - and probably most of all, how lyrics and music work together. I remember it, though. It was great.



Do you tell her what you want her to do with the artwork?
"I wouldn't say a word. I let her get on with it. She knows what the songs are about because she wrote half of them. I know from doing stuff myself I don't need someone looking over my shoulder. I can get there myself, otherwise it's not a journey. I don't always know what's going in Alfie's head."

Do you ever disagree?
"I never disagree with Alfie."

Some of Benge's most moving lyrics on Comicopera are those of 'Out Of The Blue', which was provoked by the Israeli bombing of Lebanon last year. Focusing in on the domestic, it tries to express the sheer sudden horror of a house - a simple, safe place - destroyed by an anonymous enemy. Wyatt's turning to other languages for the remainder of the album after this is no coincidence.

"It's after the line, 'You have planted everlasting hatred in my heart'. It follows a woman whose house has been bombed to bits by some clever dick in an aeroplane - 'You've come to my door but you've blown it apart, so you might as well come in through the roof or the ceiling. You've fucked up my house - fuck you. There's nothing I can do, I haven't got a bombing aeroplane myself.' What do you do? What Palestinian women do is they do encourage their sons to and fight back, but of course that leads to more tragedy. But at the same time you can't just wipe people out by bombing them.

"Alfie was reflecting on the cycle of violence, where you may not intrinsically feel violent, but if great violence is done to you then one of the responses is to be violent back, and it's the point at which all these philosophies about trying to be nice just collapse in the face of that excessive rape of a soul. And I'm just not clever enough to know what to do next, so I just sang in foreign languages and did a bit of free jazz..."

Did you feel like there was nothing you could say?
"I just felt completely ill-equipped to come up with an appropriate response. So then I do what artists do, which is drift off into some kind of fairyland. The whole last section of the record is about trying on different alien guises: foreign language or a revolutionary rhetoric or a bit of free jazz, Orphy Robinson on vibes going bonkers, or surrealist dream-world stuff. I just turn back to my original craft, which is to try and make a nice sequence of notes that don't ignore reality. It sounds so pathetic. I'm not a wise old man. I can think, I can think, I can think, and then I just get stuck.

"I can't compete intellectually in words with where I've got to musically. I do feel like I've got much further... when I try and catch up with words it's sort of a bit clumsy...

He picks up a weathered-looking brass instrument.

"Annie Whitehead, who plays trombone on the record, on the fourth track of the album ['AWOL] she plays this. Alfie got it in a car boot sale. It's got the wrong mouthpiece on it. It's called a baritone horn. I tried to play it, but I can't fix the notes! The reason I mention that is because I said to Annie, 'I'm having trouble with Concert B - how do you hit that?' And she said, 'Robert, there's no short cut." Annie's been practising hours a day for 40 years, and she was politely telling me there were some things you just can't get to straight away. " He laughs. There's no short cut to a low Concert B."

FREE WILL AND TESTAMENT

Do people still ask you a lot about your politics?
"It still comes up a lot. The moment I joined the Communist Party I knew it was something I'd have to deal with for the rest of my life and it would be a real obstacle for some people, a point of interest for others or a point of contempt for others."

How do you feel about it now?
"I'm always nervous about sounding like Cliff Richard talking about his Christianity, but it's just that I personally have found a way of understanding the world that makes sense to me and I get more sheer intelligence - applicable ways of looking at the world -than I do from Marxists than I do from religion as the world is commonly used. I do see the power shifts and politics in the world in terms of military and economic power. Not in terms of an answer, but just an understanding of the process as we're living through it. That's all I'd say about it."

Would you say all your music is political?
"I would go further than that. I would say I'm more consistently a political animal than I am a musical one. In other words, who I am and the privileges I have come from political reality. And the fact that I've chosen to be a musician out of the various occupations I could do is sort of secondary, actually, to me. I love music. But I did anyway, long before I was a musician. As a teenager, music saved my life. But as a teenager I thought I'd be a painter.

" Thank god for rock music for one thing: that it went back to basics. Rock music is about a return to folk music. You don't have to know anything. You just have to get an instrument in your hand that plays a note, and sing, and anyone can do it.

"I started out from there. I was really grateful, because in the Fifties when I was listening to jazz or Stravinsky or something, it didn't occur to me that I'd ever be able to play it. There's no short cut to that stuff. But with rock'n'roll there is a short cut - you just sort of... do it. So that's what I latched onto. First of all, it wasn't very philosophical, it was more like, how do you get to dances, and one way was being the drummer. So that sort of thing - very simple."

Is it still very simple?
"It has to be. Any information I get, I try to take it all on, but in terms of processing it, I have to reduce everything back to all those teenage things - is there a beat somewhere, is there a tune somewhere? That sort of thing."

He pauses.

"Are you hungry? You must be hungry."

songs in the key of life: ten wyatt classics

Little Red Riding Hood Hit The Road
(from Rock Bottom, 1974)
Spirited free jazz with reversed trumpet, giving way to spellbinding song with fabulously shifting chords.

Maryan (from Shleep, 1997)
More water imagery in a song whose dreamlike melody meanders along icy tributaries. Mesmerised, we drown therein.

Signed Curtain (from Matching Mole's Matching Mole, 1972)
A resigned sigh of a song that feels like it's being made up ad hoc, yet whose very lethargy and inherent humour belie a lively human heart.

Moon In June
(from Soft Machine's Third, 1970)
Hotwire into young Wyatt's brain and sample the psychotropic delights of his playful Canterbury art-rock band; become a medieval child without the pestilence for a hazy 19 minutes.

Left On Man
(from Dondestan, 1991)
Ten years before Bush threw down the gauntlet, to question the cost of "What we call freedom in the north" still met with disapproval from one's compatriots, so this song still stands.

Sea Song (from Rock Bottom, 1974)
All top tens of Robert Wyatt ever listed will include this song for the simple reason that it is one of the best songs in the world.

Alifib/Alife
(from Rock Bottom, 1974)
Nonsense love-songs are rare but this one is a treat and homage to Wyatt's creative partner and 'other half'.

Lullaby For Hamza
(from Cuckooland, 2003)
Hamza was born during the onset of the Gulf War in 1991 – the bombing campaigns and climate of fear have left indelible scars on many children.

Beautiful Peace
(from Comicopera, 2007)
Wittily illustrates the acceptance of the banal and the turning of a blind eye towards ugliness in English towns and attitudes.

Pigs... (In There) (from EPs 1999)
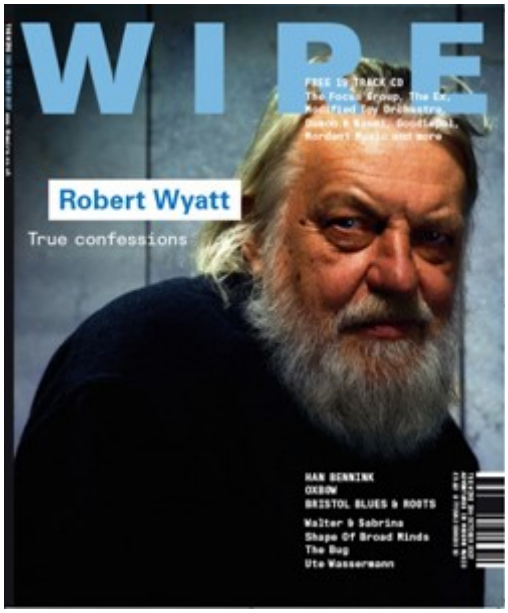
Without resorting to a preachy approach to animal rights, Wyatt's naïve yet incredulous repetition of "Pigs...? In THERE?" says it all.
Crayola Lectern



Previous article

Next article

Back to the list

Saturday night and Sunday morning - Wire N° 284 - October 2007

SATURDAY NIGHT AND SUNDAY MORNING

> Zoom

Saturday night and Sunday morning

Whether drunk on the dance or in sober reflection, Robert Wyatt finds optimism even in his darkest hours via his ragged examinations of human foibles. In a frank interview, Wyatt and his longtime partner and co-creator Alfie discuss the troubled backdrop to his latest album Comicopera.

Words: David Toop. Photography: Jack Walters.

An abandoned caravan, black inside and empty as a dead tooth, lies wedged into trees on the edge of green Lincolnshire flat lands - main event; figure and ground - and I am on my way to see Old Rottenhat, ranger in the night.

Alfreda Benge, better known as Alfie, has been Robert Wyatt's partner in life, lyrics and artistic production since 1971. She collects me from the nearest railway station to their house in Louth, and during the car ride we talk about mothers haunted by waltzes and away with the fairies in their old age, so touching accidentally on subject matter relevant to songs composed by Alfie and Robert for the new album Comicopera, it's called, which is not indicative of operatic knockabout so much as the stumbling efforts of humanity to be more human. Maybe this jumps too quickly into the work; perhaps better to ask, who is this anomalous person with the convoluted history, with the unique voice, aching, plain and worldly, that can penetrate the emotions not just of greying hippies and Prog rockers but one-time punks, post-punk entryists, soul boys, folkies, improvisors, jazzers, technocrats and many other tribes of music's post-war fallout?

Thanks to bassist Hugh Hopper's Website, with its Soft Machine gig list, I can identify exactly my own first encounters with Wyatt as drummer and vocalist with one of the most enduring, still influential British groups of the late 1960s. There was Christmas On Earth at Olympia in December 1967, where I took photographs of Jimi Hendrix, Pink Floyd, The Graham Bond Organisation and Soft Machine (films long since lost with only one print surviving, a blurred shot of Kevin Ayers in black vest silhouetted against a whiteout of light show); their taped music for Peter Dockley's Spaced event at the Roundhouse; York University and London's King's Theatre, both in 1969, and then the Queen Elizabeth Hall as a quartet with Elton Dean in May 1970.

> Zoom

> Zoom

Once Robert was ousted from the group I lost interest, both in the records and the concerts, and like a lot of people, transferred my allegiance to his solo career.

The interest, after all, came from an uneasy but productive balance of contradictory elements: a sweet yearning pop sensibility informed by jazz balladry; the new electronic minimalism of Terry Riley; influences from Miles Davis, Herbie Hancock and other pioneers of extended black music; a very earthy application of the inexplicable doctrine of equivalence known as 'pataphysics. That is to say, a reading of the alphabet or a geographical placement of the BBC tea machine as meaningful as uncountable time signatures and fractured compositional structures.

But enough of that, for the moment; I'm in the front door, turning left into Robert's place of work with the piano, the keyboard, the record collection, the antique globe, the photos of Alfie and the LP of music from Syria propped up on the record player, and Robert is looking fitter and younger than he has for many years. In public his persona is customarily gentle and self-deprecating, but at the moment he's twitching with energy, buzzing about the room, beard trimmed, impatient to get on with this ritual we've agreed to enact, and presenting a strong reminder of what an inexhaustible drummer he was before the accident that put him in a wheelchair.

I tell him a story about an academic conference on 20th century music at Sussex University. In 2005 I was invited to give the second of two keynote lectures. The first was given by musicology professor Gianmario Borio of Cremona, who spoke on "Avant-garde As A Plural Concept: Music Around 1968". This is a tricky area, a Saxondale trap for professors of a certain age, radical left politics and progressive music from their youth suddenly assuming a significance that in other circumstances would be taken for twilight nostalgia. After speaking at length about Nono, Kagel and Evangelisti, soixante-huitards and all that, Borio concluded by playing the first few tracks from Soft Machine's Volume Two: "Pataphysical Introduction - Pt 1 " "A Concise British Alphabet - Pt 1 " and a snatch of "Hibou, Anemone And Bear". They begin with this trashy music, he opined, and then abruptly toss it aside in favour of something more challenging. Neat as the metaphor appeared - a suffocating complacency in repressive European society rejected for a more progressive future - I was dubious. Had he been in the audience, would Robert have challenged this dismissal of the pop sensibility in Soft Machine?

"Well, David, to be honest I'm more of a slapper than that," he says, now that I'm asking him. "If somebody likes anything we've done enough to play it in public..."

"You're pathetically grateful?"

"... I'm pathetically grateful. The struggle people had with Gershwin - is he just a posh folk composer or is he a new...? This struggle has been going on for a long time.

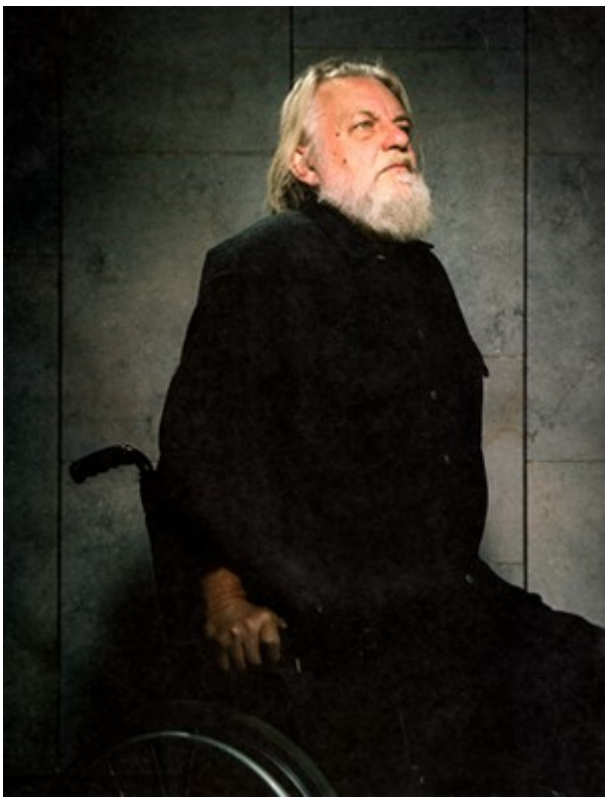
"Say a fantastic meal you have, it's not rejecting fried egg sandwiches. Without the basic thing, the apple off the tree or the glass of water, there's nothing to develop. I think Charles Mingus said that if music loses its roots in song and dance it loses all importance or value. I certainly feel that. If music hasn't got song and dance in it, even with a search, it's decorative, but it's deeply trivial. I'm a Darwinist. Song and dance, they're so biologically wired in to what humans do. People have been dancing on a Saturday night for a long time. But there is a Sunday morning, when you have to listen to church music. That's why they invented Saturday and Sunday."

There's a lot of laughing to go with these words, so don't necessarily take them at face value. Robert hasn't become a Christian. He's an unashamed admirer of Richard Dawkins, despite a growing feeling abroad that Dawkins would be Witchfinder General if only the job could be reinstated. "I really envy Christians, and I envy Muslims too, it must be great to be so sure..." he sings on Comicopera's "Be Serious", a strangely cheering gospel shuffle for atheists featuring Paul Weller on guitar. "I've got no one to turn to when I'm sinking in the shit, feel so sad and lonely no one to tell me what to do."

"At the tail end of a digressive response to the Italian professor, Robert turns the argument on its head. "I love pop music to death," he says. "Most great composers rely on folk music. I rely on pop music. I'm not saying I'm a great composer or that pop music is folk music. There's a whole endless thing going on out there. You make your little pond but if your pond isn't connected to the river, which isn't connected to an ocean, it's just going to dry up. It's just a little piss pool, I've lived too long to be happy in a pond."

"This was, more or less, Barbara Ehrenreich's argument in her recent book, Dancing In The Streets: A History Of Collective Joy. "So if we are looking for a common source of depression, on the one hand and the suppression of festivities, on the other," she wrote, "it is not hard to find. Urbanisation and the rise of a competitive, market-based economy favoured a more anxious and isolated sort of person - potentially both prone to depression and distrustful of communal pleasures."

"Wyatt music, by inclination on the slow raggedy side, vulnerability voiced, leaning towards doleful in the reeds and brass, and in its frank examination a questioning of what he calls "human foibles" has more than a touch of chapel and colliery band about it, yet the effect is uplifting, as if we were hearing the more anxious and isolated sort of person transmit a gift of great generosity, optimism and fortitude.



If this makes him Sound too saintly, let's talk about Mingus. When I listen to Robert's music I'm reminded of the sombre beauty of Jazz Composers Workshop records made by Charles Mingus and John LaPorta in 1954-55, or the hushed sadness of Duke Ellington "Mood Indigo". Comicopera shares common ground with the ambitious projects of Carla Bley, Paul Haines, Mike Mantler and Charlie Haden, themselves building on the innovations of Mingus and Ellington. Orchestral suites, song suites, jazz operas, chronotransductions and sort-of-an-operas; all of these terms have been used to describe their method of bringing together distinctive voices, contemporary composition and jazz improvisation as a vehicle for powerful ideas and political commitment.

Robert sang on Mantler's Many Have No Speech, The School Of Understanding, The Hapless Child, Silence and Hide And Seek, so is steeped in this oeuvre. We begin to talk about what the idea of opera might mean and he tells me a story of being taken to the opera for one of Mozart's earliest attempts at the form. "I was just completely astonished," he says.

"It was such a beautiful shock to go into a place where an attempt at archaic things are happening. So that may have interested me. My mother in law, Irena, she had a dog and she used to take this dog for walks. She used to meet other people who had dogs, the way you do. She met somebody's dog and said, 'What's his name?'

"'Amadeus'.

"She said, 'I would call a dog Sebastian; Mozart was so frivolous, Bach was serious', and she went on her way. My mother in law was a Polish refugee - like refugees must all be burning with a sense of... 'You think I'm an ignorant person to be patronised. I know stuff you haven't even thought about.' "I'm not just going round the houses. I just want to establish that when I sing of tragic things, the way it comes out, which is fairly deathly, sometimes I'm not tragedy, I don't do tragedy, I'm not ready for tragedy, I don't understand tragedy. I'm still just a long-winded pop musician. This isn't false modesty. It's just how I see it. But, my songs aren't pop songs. I go on and on for longer than pop songs do. I get bored with hearing the voice so I put in noise stuff, sound stuff. So it's like the voice keeps re-occurring and has to be the main event because I'm a singer, but the songs are not the be-all and end-all of what I'm doing. I'm just trying to string bits of music together."

> Zoom

"I don't know how to mature. I'm constantly being bombarded by images of proper grown-ups and reprimanded by the various headmasters of the world."

Later he talks about the songs as sketches or caricatures, none of which represents a whole person or any sort of completion. Getting older adds up to an accumulation of loose ends.

Salves, illusions and utopias aside, is there such an entity as a whole person, or any such state as completion or closure? This question makes him quite agitated and defensive. "I don't know how to mature," he says. "I don't know. I'm constantly being bombarded by images of proper grown-ups and constantly being reprimanded by the various headmasters of the world. I don't know enough yet to even have an opinion about anything. I don't now how to argue with that."

Opera is a word meaning work, or labour, as in "do not operate heavy machinery", and this business of musical work is one way in which an isolated and anxious sort of person with no safety net of religion can stay out of the doldrums. Unfortunately, it can also land the same person in the doldrums, decent music being an elusive bastard to pin down.

Alfie enters the room at my request. Since she as so often been at the heart of Robert's work - the subject of one of his finest tracks, "Sea Song" on Rock Bottom, co-author of many compositions, painter of album artworks, a constant presence in photographs, companion, support and shield - I'm surprised she is so rarely asked for her opinion. She laughs, people asking Robert what a song means, what does he know, he didn't even write it.

"You're half of it," he says.

"Well, not half."

So this is the moment to confess that my understanding of words in songs is poor. In general, unless the subject is ostensibly transparent, I have a tenuous grasp, verging on stupidity, of what many singers are on about. Give me the lyrics of an average white guitar band and I'm better off with the sheer surface of a Jeremy Prynne poem. There are songs on Comicopera that seem angry, or disillusioned, perhaps deeply personal, about love or bombs, lost, loss, lossy. Is it me who's lost?

"Words are usually about a few things," Alfie says. "I don't feel satisfied if they're about what they seem to be about. There has to be another possibility. And also people find things in them, which is great. I find things which are there later, and I suddenly realise what I meant, and strange connections. For years I didn't know that "Sea Song" was for me, and Robert thought it was really obvious. I've just written some lyrics for Monica Vasconcelos and they were all about Robert. He didn't know that at all. Then this morning he said, 'You're right, it's all about me.' How music saves you from the doldrums. How it's his lifeline, basically. I thought it was so obvious."

Alfie wrote lyrics for four songs: "Just As You Are", "You You", "AWOL" and "Out Of The Blue". Three of them are grouped together early in the album. Like a mysterious rock in the hallway, they squat in their place, emotional weight, demanding engagement.

"They're all about loss of some sort," she says, "loss of trust, loss of husband, loss of memory. It's about grieving, actually. It's not anger really. We know a lot of widows at the moment. There's a lot of people like Sheila Peel, Helen Walters, Paul Haines's wife, Jo. People who've been part of a partnership, absolutely solid, and their husbands have died. It's really horrible, tragic. So there's thinking about them in "You You "and "AWOL".

"But the other one, "Just As You Are", the one that Robert sings as a duet, it's not exactly disillusionment." She laughs, sighs, looks at Robert.

"Can I say what it's about?"

"Of course," he says. "It's about bereavement during a relationship."

"It seems as if it might be about some kind of unfaithfulness but it's not about that all. It's about one of you..."

"Let's say, for the sake of argument," he says, "the bloke..."

"... deciding it might be rather fun to become an alcoholic, and the other one, who has quite a lot in their life to deal with - a mum whose mind is drifting, lives in a place not surrounded by friends, relies very, very hard on the one thing she married her husband for, which is intelligent conversation, and finds that the only time they ever meet, early evening when they've all done their work, he's downed another little bottle of vodka and says he hasn't. She can tell out of the corner in a microsecond whether he's had a drink or not. Then he becomes totally and utterly boring all evening and then she thinks, God, life is so fucking lonely. You've tricked me. I thought for the last 30 years you would provide me with the one thing that I need in my life - an intelligent pal, and look what you're doing now, you arsehole. There's a lot of anger there. But there may come a day when he's weak and he's stupid no longer and that day seems to have almost come, because he's now for five months..."

"Sober," he says.

"All my anger and rampaging and complaining seems to have worked," she says, "and I've got my old Bertie back."

Rather unfairly, I suggest to Robert that his remark of 20 minutes past, that he is unable to mature as an artist, has just been disproved by this painful revelation of very adult themes: bereavement, alcoholism, loneliness, deception, abandonment and acceptance.

"It's not abstract art," he says, "Abstract art would just be endlessly working out ideas. I'm trying to live through what I do. You do grow older and you do learn stuff, and if you let it, it will get into your music."

One of the advantages of getting older, I venture.

"Yes," he says, "there are several and that's probably the main one. Going back to that Italian bloke you were talking about, it's a useful though and it's exactly the same as my dad's thought, that pop culture is just not enough. Without knowing why, as a youth, I was always looking for an extension, what happens next, where does this go? The explosive moment of excitement, then what? Anticipating adulthood, in that sense. I know it sounds impossibly pretentious but it's just a fact. Being taken to lots of very grown-up concerts as a child, I didn't know why they were going on and on and now I do, because life does."

In the current era of all-ages concerts, pre-18s festivals and pensioner crèches at Glastonbury, the notion of popular music as a teenage moment has become hopelessly muddled.

> Zoom

"If you want to see youth still wet from the womb in its sylph-like prancingness," he says, "you have to go to ballet or a classical music concert. It's all upside down. I feel, clumsily, just trying to take on the extra equipment I find I need when what started out as a sprint turns into a marathon. So these great weights my parents put on me, of museums and operas, after a few more decades I'm really glad they said to me, 'You must take a woolly and a handkerchief and a change of underwear.' I now know why they did that and I'm grateful. A sprint won't get you through."

That was how I remember you playing the drums, I say, 100 metres dash, stripped to the waist, voice, arms and legs, words and 13/8 or whatever time, simultaneous and full tilt.

"For about two fucking hours," he says, "soaking wet with sweat. Like a lot of jazz it was a combination of aesthetics and athletics. For ten years, more or less every night, I did it like a sprint."

Later, in a moment when Robert has left the room, Alfie joins me, sits down, makes her decision to be absolutely clear.

"I can't do unconditional love," she says. "Robert can." How to accept human frailty when the sprint is over and done? That's the question.

"Some hours later, driving me back to the spot where I pick up my transport to London, she explains in more detail about Robert's drinking, how it came to a head during the making of the album because of his fear that the spirit of the music could only emerge through the spirit of the bottle. The song, "Just As You Are", came about during a session at which the engineer, Jamie Johnson, had come down with a stomach bug. Brian Eno had dropped by, and this is his genius, pushed them both to use time otherwise lost. Write a Country song, he said; play some piano Robert, write a line Alfie. Desperate in the headwind of this oblique strategy, they wrote a song that blew the cover of their central problem. Since then, Robert has been going to Alcoholics Anonymous, and perhaps as a consequence of his new sobriety, looks about as fit and strong as I have ever seen him.

But the subject troubles me, generates feelings of disloyalty, is the gist of what I say.

To speak about such secrets in public, making hidden addictions common property, can transform them into tangible, negotiable conditions, is the gist of what she says.

Certain relationships are described in terms of records, I notice. When Robert and Alfie met, at the beginning of the 1970s, he was impressed by her record collection: John Coltrane, Sly And The Family Stone, alto saxophonist John Handy's Recorded Live At The Monterey Jazz Festival. Later, he talks about his current listening habits, which have moved back into the 1940s, to Ellington, Glenn Miller even, and Eddie Haywood, the pianist who accompanied Billie Holiday.

"I seem to be going back to the 40s in tandem with Alfie," he says, "who has become terrifically interested in finding photographs of her middle European ancestors. She's got extraordinary roots in Slovenia, Roland, Trieste, Austria. She spent the first seven years being carted around Europe by her mother before being brought to England in 1947. I've been doing a strange parallel thing.

"I was born at the end of the war. My dad had Vera Lynn records - they were some of the few pop records that he allowed that had an importance that transcended what he considered their merit, as a trained musician that he aspired to having been. Professionally he was a psychologist, but as a young man in the 1930s he'd been a pianist and had in fact made a few 78s accompanying some Italian tenor, playing a few arias. He played Debussy and Ravel, though only on record by the time I knew him. I didn't meet him until I was six and within two or three years he developed multiple sclerosis and couldn't read music any more, hadn't learnt any and couldn't improvise. He was with his first family until I was about six and he didn't join my mother until I was about six. He left his first family behind and joined his second one. I have no idea what that was about, really. He was married to somebody else when I was born. By the time I knew him the only things he could play by memory were folk tunes and Christmas songs, so he'd play "Little Brown Jug Don't I Love Thee" and "Away In A Manger" and at Christmas I would sing those with him. That's what I remember."

There's an uncomfortable parallel here: two men, father and son, prevented by disability from pursuing their music, except for the fact that Robert has taken that initial loss as a form of liberation, rebuilding it into music that is deeply personal yet speaks to listeners of all generations, all proclivities, all allegiances. Just run through a partial list of collaborators: Jimi Hendrix, members of Pink Floyd, Scritti Politti, Mongezi Feza, Ivor Cutler, Elvis Costello, Paul Weller, The Raincoats, Evan Parker, Ultramarine, Mike Mantler, Björk, Anja Garbarek, Brian Eno. Just his minimal piano part on Brian Eno's Music For Airports has launched a thousand Ambient, post-Ambient, television and movie soundtracks.

"I never thought I'd be a musician when I was a teenager," he says. "I tried to learn a couple of instruments when I was younger - violin and trumpet - but couldn't read music and left school in disgrace when I was 16."

What did you hope to be?

"A painter, an artist," he says. "I thought it'd be great if you had a tube of toothpaste the size of a lamppost all bent on a lawn with stuff like squeezed toothpaste coming down the side. Eventually pop artists did that so I thought, there you go, I'll be a conceptual artist. René Magritte had a composer brother who never bothered to compose anything at all and I thought that was so fucking Zen. So this was my idea of being a truly conceptual artist. I think it may be why I got on so well with Brian Eno later on. We'd Just sit around thinking of things that could be done. I'm not a great believer in individualism. I think things are around to be done and if one person doesn't do it another will."

You like your songs to sound unfinished, I say, a bit rough round the edges, a bit abrasive in the mix, like everybody is in the room, air stiff with fags, the playing is in the moment, and what is left suspended after the event can take its Darwinian chances out in the world.

"I got that a lot from painting," he says. "From the late 19th century, painters stopped finishing things off. Before photographs, the ideal painter finished. I Just grew up with post-Cezanne artwork where the brushstrokes are fairly scruffy. As long as you got the structure right."

You like a thick sound, I say, a kind of wheezing, wall to wall, portative organ meets harmonium earth to sky privet hedge seething with bees.

"That's Cezanne as well," he says. "A lot of it comes from painters. In Cezanne you don't have many clear horizons or skies. It's texture to all four edges. It's like looking at a text, or something; you're not going to get a landscape or even a person out of it. You've just got this dense, arbitrarily hacked-out oblong of texture. It's taken to its extremes on Comicopera - the semi-instrumental - "Anachronist" - it's floor to ceiling stuff. I like Cezanne, I like Vuillard. That's what I like.

"It's difficult if you're a singer because singers make very clear landscapes, the backing, the ground and the sky, then the voice is a person in it and maybe the other instruments are the trees in this landscape. I always feel that an awful lot of music has done that - you've got the bedrock and then you've got these people standing up in it - the voice and the soloist. I just got used to the idea of an almost underwater thing, of great swirling mixtures without a horizon, without a top or a bottom, just a great churning mix of stuff. I would do that a lot more than I actually do, but being a singer I feel obliged to identify the singer and say yeah, hands up, I'm the singer. Otherwise how could I put 'Robert Wyatt' on front of the record? Otherwise ideally I'd just disappear in with the mesh."

He moves into the hallway, by the front door, where a reproduction of Samuel Palmer's astonishing brown ink and sepia drawing, Early Morning, is fixed to the wall. Teeming with life, picked out with microscopic details, full to the edges with mystic intensity, it portrays a woodland as seen by a travelling knight, "When that misty vapour was agone and cleare and faire was the morning". In the foreground quivers a rabbit, fixed as the fallen log, and at a central point to which the eye is drawn, almost hidden in the shade of a mushrooming oak tree, sits a group of four people, perhaps praying.

"In a painting," Robert says, back to me and looking into the image, "if there is a person in it you scan it in a much more detailed way. There's this drawing out here, Samuel Palmer. It's extraordinary for the era, 1825, way before the impressionists. There's a little huddle in the middle. There's no question that for a human being looking at the painting that huddle becomes the main event. Next is the rabbit. There is no objective animal that can look at that. Presumably if you were a member of the tree race, the thing you would notice is that log down there and think, that's awful, like a dismembered arm.

"The equivalent of that is hearing a voice on a record. You cannot help but pick it out and to the extent you get into the record what that voice is doing and to the extent that you can recognise it as a fellow human and what it's asking of you. There's no avoiding that. On this record most of the time I've stuck the voice fairly up front. I listened to a lot of Johnny Cash, thinking, yeah, better or worse, that is how people communicate with the voice. You are not Mozart after all, old son."

This leads to a conversation about Palmer and William Blake (and I'd add writer John Cowper Powys), in which Robert talks about the romantic local sensibility of Britain. "You don't have to go to Italy for romance," he says. "It was here all along. I feel really in tune with that." The subject of folk music has emerged at various points during the day, with Robert and I both admitting our struggles and changing attitudes regarding English folk. In the 1960s, like me, he rejected most of it, James Brown's brand new bag being far more immediate. James Brown is still up there, but for the rest of it, now he's not so sure. I ask if he and Alfie had heard Rachel Unthank & The Winterset's new album, The Bairns, with its deeply moving version of Robert's "Sea Song"? The room explodes for a moment, yes and yes, Robert in wonderment that she has captured the core of his song so completely.

The ghost of James Brown having entered the room, I mention a concert I watched on television earlier this year, one of Brown's last performances before his death. I was puzzled by his frequent mentions of Wes Montgomery, who probably meant nothing to the audience. "I'm so glad about that" Robert says, "because Wes Montgomery is someone I'd been listening to on my own. That's when you know you really like music, when you don't expect anybody else to be interested." We listen to a track from one of Robert's recent acquisitions, Montgomery playing "Twisted Blues", live in Belgium, 1965, the drive and economy of the solo making both of us realise why this guitarist who looked like a middleweight boxer meant so much to James Brown. A little bit later we listen to a record of alto saxophonist Charles McPherson, with strings. I'd like to hear you record an album with string, I say, like Ray Charles, "Lucky Old Sun", Chet Baker, "Grey December", Charlie Parker, "Just Friends". He laughs, tells me certain people ask him why he can't just make easy music.

We've been talking for quite a few hours. Are you tired of this, bored, fed up?

"No, I'm all right," he says. "I've just run out of fags."

Comicopera is released this month on Domino. Robert Wyatt will appear in conversation at London Purcell Rooms on 15 October: see Out There.

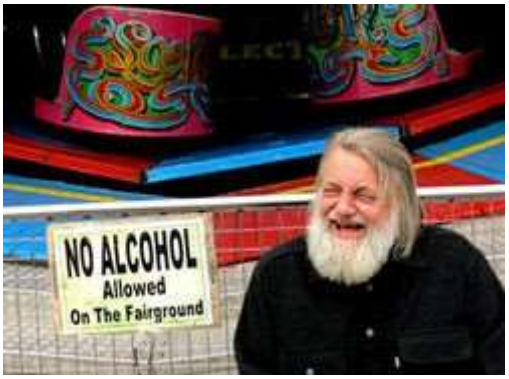
> Zoom



Previous article

Next article

Back to the list

'Other' Music - The Village Voice - October 23, 2007

'Other' Music
Robert Wyatt gets subversive and operatic

Inexplicably, Robert Wyatt finds this sign hilarious.

"Hullo?"

Alfreda Benge's sleepy voice answers from the other side of the Atlantic, her English accent wool-thick. It takes all of my effort not to reply by bursting into song: "Allllllifi, my larder," the refrain to "Alifib," Canterbury legend Robert Wyatt's sweet if strange ode to his muse–partner, taken from his sublime 1974 solo album, Rock Bottom. In my mind's eye I see that famous photo of the couple from around that time, scant months after Wyatt's wine-sodden plunge from a third-story window rendered the once octopus-like prog-rock drummer of Soft Machine and Matching Mole a paraplegic. Wheelchair-bound, Wyatt bears a shaggy, sheepish smirk in the pic, while Alfreda stands beside him, a stern look on her face, a gleaming butcher knife in her hand. I have but a nervous five-word exchange with her before strains of some lost bebop recording come onto the line and Wyatt issues his own warm "Hullo."

. He has agreed to discuss the release of Comicopera, his ninth studio album in 30-plus years. Just don't call it an "opera" in the literal sense. "I find the blank canvas of a CD with the potential to be 80 minutes daunting," Wyatt divulges from his home in Louth, Lincolnshire, saying that superimposing three dramatic acts helped organize the album: "The dramatic structure was simply because there were different songs on there. They're not all singer-songwriter me-me-me things in the sense that there are quite different characters on it. There's someone whose idea of happiness is going on a successful bombing run. There's a nihilist who feels alone cuz he doesn't have religion. There's a woman telling a man off. There's all kinds of emotions in there."

As on previous efforts, Wyatt still builds songs up on his keyboard (with what the Voice once deemed "some of the most god-awful synthesizer presets ever") at a pace part jazz-shuffle, part somnambulism, with horns, violins, and the sonority of friends gently accruing around his sage voice. Wyatt again draws on a remarkable group of musical conspirators for Comicopera, including the likes of Brian Eno, Paul Weller, Annie Whitehead, singer Monica Vasconcelos, and Alfie herself. (FYI: She portrays that woman telling a man off.) The two trade verses on Act I's painfully honest "Just As You Are," both attempting to love despite infuriating shortcomings on either side. That personal rift widens over the course of the album, expanding outward to comment on worldly conflicts as well. If lovers can't understand the person beside them, then how could a bombardier and the bombarded?

"[It's] something Susan Sontag said quite late on," Wyatt explains. "The question is not just compassion, but to really empathize with the Other. . . . It's that kind of thing . . . to distance myself from that with the slogan 'Not in my name.'" So while the middle part of the album has Wyatt, in his words, "bemused by little country towns and boring council meetings" in the English countryside, the bombing of helpless civilians on "A Beautiful War" is the last indignation. Amid the eerie intonations of Eno's voice on "Out of the Blue" at the end of Act II, Wyatt's character rasps about his house being blown apart, that "you've planted your everlasting hatred in my heart." For the remainder of the album, that Other is present, eschewing English altogether and singing instead in Italian and Spanish throughout Act III.

It's not an unfamiliar stratagem for Wyatt. Even while releasing curious Top 40 fare like "Shipbuilding" and his take on the Monkees' "I'm a Believer," he also sang Spanish tunes like "Yolanda" and "Te Reuerdo Amanda" (all collected on his CD EPs). A lifelong admirer of figures like Federico García Lorca and Che Guevara, he now sets Lorca's surrealistic imagery to song and sings Carlos Puebla's ode to the fallen revolutionary, "Hasta Siempre Comandante," at the end of Comicopera. "They're all bits of me," Wyatt realizes. "When you got different characters in a sort of sequence and there's music and singing, it's kinda like an opera." He pauses. "But it's not a serious opera."

Andy Beta

Previous article

Next article

Back to the list

ABÉCÉDAIRE

Les années Before | Soft Machine | Matching Mole | Solo | With Friends | Samples | Compilations | V.A. | Bootlegs | Reprises

HOME

The freewheelin' Robert Wyatt - Uncut N° 125 - October 2007

The freewheelin' Robert Wyatt

"What I do," he says, "just doesn't come out normal." One of British music's great eccentrics leads us through a life of drink and cigarettes, Hendrix, Moon and Syd, strange records and terrible accidents...

INTERVIEW by JOHN MULVEY
PHOTOGRAPHS by DEAN CHALKLEY

Robert Wyatt's home is in the centre of Louth, a quiet town in the Lincolnshire, hinterlands. A swift, wheelchair ride down the road from his house, there's the Co-Op where Robert was shopping when the first of the summer's floods arrived. Nearer still, there's the market square where he goes for sausage sandwiches a few lunchtimes a week. "Tea 40p. Not bad, is it?" he notes approvingly.

It's a strange place to find a man like Robert Wyatt. He has, after all, followed an idiosyncratic and cosmopolitan musical path for over 40 years, with Soft Machine, Matching Mole and on his own rare and lovely solo records. He has consorted with musical legends - from Hendrix, Moon and Syd to Weller, Eno and Phil Manzanera. He has been steadfastly radical in his politics, and global in his outlook. By the end of his new album Comicopera, in fact, Wyatt is so disgusted with the behaviour of the British and American governments, he abandons his mother tongue and sings in Italian and Spanish instead.

For such a committed internationalist, you'd imagine Lincolnshire would be a little too parochial and conservative. But Wyatt and his wife, Alfie Benge, have lived in Louth for some two decades. This is where Alfie, an artist, found a house that they could afford and which was big enough to accommodate her husband - wheelchair-bound since he fell out of a window in 1973- on the ground floor.

Robert's lair is the front room, just past the step with "R ♥ A" drawn into the cement and the door decorated with a photograph of Picasso. Here, he plays Gil Evans albums, makes tea, smokes endlessly and records his impressionistic, entrancing songs. Here, too, he welcomes us for a leisurely amble through an extraordinary career.
"I have no agenda, as they say on Big Brother,"he says, arranging cigarettes, two pouches of tobacco, papers, matches and lighter on the table in front of him. "Gameplan? Me? No, I'm just here for the crack, man."

Do you watch Big Brother, then?
Alfie watches it, I see it. I can't believe how rude people are to each other. Andy Warhol would absolutely love it.

Did you ever meet Warhol?
No, although I met Warhol's associates in 1967 when we [Soft Machine] were playing in the south of France, adjacent to a German beer festival, basically living on the beach... Grey, actually. People always think beaches are pinky orange, but this was grey with dirt. Or was it pine needles? I don't remember. Rubbish for sex, actually.

Anyway, yeah, we were doing music for a play: written by Picasso, I think. And among the people involved were Factory stars and starlets. They were very nice, very funny.

There were few people you didn't meet...
Well, I haven't gone out of my way to meet people. It's because I've been at it a long time now. I'm in my sixties and my first paid job as a drummer was in 1963, so it's been getting on for 35 years, hasn't it?

Forty-four.
Is it really? For the first 10 years I was going round drumming, and it's a social activity. Drumming is like being the engine of a car. Somebody else has to be the car.

Your parents seemed to be quite bohemian, being friends with the poet Robert Graves and all. What was your childhood like?
My dad was an industrial psychologist, my mum was a journalist, and it was a fairly straight upbringing. We just had a lot of nice artbooks around the house. I struggled through grammar school, which I absolutely hated. I got caned a lot when I was at school. I think that's what put me off.

Why were you caned?
We lived near Canterbury Cathedral, we used to sing there and once, in a casual moment of hubris, I wrote "Jesus Christ" in a visitor's book. I was caned for that. Then, when we got to the fifth form, the headmaster gave us boaters, because he fancied we were a public school. I steamed mine up into a sort of cowboy hat, and I was caned for letting the school image down. Blimey, my bum was sore by the end of all that.

All the way through Soft Machine you seem to have been a bit of a troublemaker, as well.
I was always getting into trouble, but I'm not sure that's the same thing. I was never a born rebel. I think there's something utterly meaningless about that, it's totally posey. I liked my parents, I tried to fit in. Half my recording is an attempt to make normal records, seriously, but what I do just doesn't come out normal. That's not deliberate troublemaking.

When I joined the Communist Party, someone said, "Don't you mind being told what to do?" and I said,"No, not at all."

I thought that the band [Soft Machine] was being taken in a direction to compete with American jazz rock and I couldn't or didn't want to do that. I remember the organist [Mike Ratledge] once said to me, "Why don't you learn to read music?" and I answered, "So that you can't tell me what to play." That was probably the nail in my coffin as far as that band was concerned.

> Zoom

What about the drinking? Weren't you on a slightly different social path to the other Softs?
Well we all know that young drunken men are a terrible pain, and the others didn't really drink. They weren't always kind, but they were well-behaved, and I wasn't.

Didn't you end up spending time in Laurel Canyon with Hendrix at the end of the second Hendrix/Soft Machine American tour?

That's true. The whole of'68, we were there with the Experience, and at the end of it, our group broke up, basically. I hung on because Noel and Mitch and Hendrix said, "We've got this place and there's a spare room if you want to stay." I'd hung out more with them than with the members of the band I was in, as they were all drinkers like me.
Listening to Hendrix play every night, he was absolutely wonderful, and I knew it then.
What he did was just eyewateringly magical. He would transform hotel rooms into magic little rooms, turn them into some curious little temple of a hitherto unknown sect. He was very shy and polite; courteous to a Victorian extreme.

Did you do drugs with him?
I didn't take drugs, no, I just drank. Since you can get completely out of your brain on legal drugs, why bring the law into it?

More proof that you're not a rebel, I guess.
I don't like breaking the law; it embarrasses me. The idea of hanging round policemen is dull.

So you never took acid?
I don't think so. I think I took some substitute - was it TCP? No, that's what you cure cuts with. Knowing me, I probably did take TCP! I didn't like it at all. I associate certain conversations with rooms full of drugs, like [adopts whiney American voice], "What sign are you?" and "Do you like The Doors?" And the record would be The Grateful Dead, always. Was it always the same record? Who could tell? I got claustrophobia in that atmosphere. The thing I didn't understand about white American rock was that they were loud folk bands, whereas the English scene was much blacker. Even before rock'n'roll, the tradjazz musicians had this fantasy New Orleans they took around in their heads. The modernists had an imaginary Harlem - which I still have.

You recorded with Syd Barrett...
Well he asked us. We were two bands [Soft Machine and The Pink Floyd] that played in the same places and who weren't playing "In The Midnight Hour" because neither of us could play it very well, probably. I liked working with people from the Floyd, because they were so different from us. We would play 100 notes, as many as possible, and they would play as few as possible. I was fascinated by that, and I was very pleased to go and do [Barrett's first solo LP] The Madcap Laughs. It's a lovely record.

What was he like at the time?
I didn't know he was meant to be mad or disturbed or anything. He just seemed very well brought-up and polite. Jolly good songs, that's all I knew.

Did you play the UFO Club a lot with the Floyd?
We did. I remember the dressing room at UFO was very small, with benches either side. The Pink Floyd had incredibly long legs, so their legs would come across and cross each other in the middle, like the giant scissors they did in The Wall. They were very kind to us. We had crap equipment that tended to blow up, they had good equipment - they were never poor - and they would let us use their gear - actually quite unusual in those days.

What about Keith Moon? You drank with him?
He took me down the blissful road to hell, several steps at once. Hendrix and I used to go down to the Scene Club in New York, and there would be Keith at the bar. His arm would go around your neck and say,"What are you drinking? Look, try this Southern Comfort." I'd go,"It's a bit sweet." He'd say,"Yes it is, so what you need now is a tequila." We'd do it with the salt and lemon. I'd say,"Oh, that's a bit salty. "He'd say, "Yes it is, so what you now need is another shot of Southern Comfort." He taught me how to get completely blasted very quickly, so within 40 minutes you were on another planet. Thanks, Keith, I enjoyed it, but it probably wasn't good for me in the long run, and it certainly wasn't good for you, old son.

Was that what you were drinking the night of your accident in l973?
What I remember is mostly punch - what on earth is that'? - but Kevin [Ayers], I think, brought out a bottle of scotch whisky, and then I felt like I was flying out of the window. Turned out I was [laughs]. That's all I remember.

Did that stop you drinking?
No. The first time I got out of hospital, Alfie wheeled me off to the pub. We were really broke - we had about £15, and then the Pink Floyd did a benefit for us for a few thousand. We'd just heard about it and it was fantastic for us. So we went out and got drunk, and when we got back in, Alfie was reprimanded for being drunk in charge of a wheelchair. No, it didn't stop me at all. We both used to drink a lot, me and Alfie.

> Zoom

When did you calm down?
About two months ago. I finished this record and then I stopped. I've had about six relapses, which sounds like a lot, but it's fantastic for me. I tried to write a tune the other day, and I can't remember writing a tune sober ever before. I couldn't imagine normally even sitting down at a keyboard Without the bottle of wine on the left hand side and the packet of fags on the right hand side.

Did you have a drink problem all that time?
It seems like I had, yeah. Answering the questionnaire for alcoholics, it turns out I'm one of the unlucky ones who's an alcoholic, so I can't drink moderately or anything. We'll see how it goes.

It's incredible that, looking through 40 years of photos, you're smoking in nearly all of them.
People ask how many I smoke and I say, "As many as possible." If there was a mile-long cigarette that I could have suspended in front of my mouth, it would go straight into my mouth in the morning and come out at night before I go to sleep.

It's interesting that Rock Bottom [Wyatt's second, greatest solo LP, from'74] was partially written before the accident, because it's so often stereotyped as your post-traumatic record.
It's a funny thing, I always feel embarrassed to say this, but I don't mind being in a wheelchair. There are aspects of it that I find quite novel and entertaining. I didn't see it as a record about a tragic trauma. It's actually quite euphoric, to me it's more like the phoenix out of the ashes. Having the nerve to play my own keyboards, having played with all those brilliant keyboards players - trying to get away with it was exciting.

I think Rock Bottom is about the possibilities of love: what someone who loves you will do, and the gratitude that comes in response.
That's much more I like it. I'd been with Alfie a couple of years, and I'd been quite rotten to her while I was in hospital. Me and Alfie had already been married before, we'd had about three decades each of bipedal life. I say it was all right for me, but a lot of people come out of hospital and it's not all right at all. I had Alfie, and Alfie with her friends really helped. I felt like life was making more sense afterwards than it had done before. I was actually very unhappy through the'60s. Being thrown out of Soft Machine, the damage it did to my confidence was far greater than the physical damage of breaking my back. It was like being washed up on a really nice desert island from a ship that had come from a port in a grubby cold northern town. It's terrible but it's not that terrible [Laughs]. Alfie has suggested that I'm much sadder and more traumatised than I allow myself to think. I don't know. How can I know if I'm kidding myself?

You seem to flourish as a collaborator with friends, but not as a bandmember.
That's exactly right. The trouble with a band is I can't take orders and I can't give orders. The people I choose vary enormously because it's not for the instrument they play or their style but what kind of company they are. With the final record I believe in a sort of benign dictatorship. I will edit ruthlessly'til every thing sounds good to me, simple as that, 'cos my name's on the cover.

With the last three records [Shleep, Cuckooland and Comicopera] I found my imaginary band. It's a lovely band because it's not any band that could exist in real life on the road or any thing like that. It's a basic team; there's Annie Whitehead [trombone], Yaron Stavi on bass, Gilad [Atzmon, saxophone], that's the core. Then people like Phil Manzanera, Eno and Paul Weller do cameo roles. It's like a little musical family.

There's something incredibly English about your music, even when you sing in Italian or Spanish...

I am totally English. I love the lyrics of Noel Coward, I even like Gilbert & Sullivan. But the point I would make, to the BNP and people who go on about their culture being threatened by alien things, is that no one has allowed and welcomed non-English cultures so wholeheartedly into their lives and into their brains and into their food more than I have. Yet I don't feel the slightest bit compromised or diluted as a human being. I'm as English as my Staffordshire great-grandparents. As my Lancashire dad would say, what the fuck are you all scared of? What kind of wimps are you that if the man standing behind you in the checkout queue is wearing a turban, how does that threaten your identity, you twats? Get over it, for fuck's sake.

> Zoom

On Comicopera, there's a song called "Something Unbelievable" where you voice the anger of a bombed Palestinian. The last lyric is, "You have planted an everlasting hatred in my heart," and after that you refuse to sing in English for the rest of the album. Why is that?

Susan Sontag said that people can moralise in politics, but in the end morals in politics are about empathising with the other. Instinctively, that's what I've always done. It's to do with a craving - it's not so much a principled stance, it's much more primitive than that - for cultural biodiversity, and a fear of cultural incest.

During my lifetime, the English-speaking people have bombed about 25 countries. It seemed to me legitimate that anyone who had been bombed like that might be feeling that they're going to hate the bombers for the rest of their lives. The children and the families of your victims will rise up, and they won't like you. I wanted to disassociate myself from the English-speaking trajectory abroad.

The middle chunk of this record is England, and it's not all bad. There's nice tunes, a good laugh, scepticism and grumbling. But at the end I think, 'Oh fuck, I'm off', and the last chunk is all about different ways of getting away from the mainstream, whether it's the avant garde or singing in a foreign language or singing surrealist songs.

It seems very odd that you should end up in a county as conservative as Lincolnshire.

Henry VIII called it this "brute and beastly shire", hanged a few recalcitrant Catholics and went back home. He's not entirely wrong, but he's not entirely right. There's a village up the road where they're saying,"We don't need any Kosovans here," and I'm looking at the women thinking, "Yes, you do!"

I miss London life, the cosmopolitan thing, and we do go back there several times a year. It's a local joke that life is cheap in Lincolnshire, and we can have a house here for the price of a flat in the south. I can make all the racket I like and no one's going to bother about it. I can get everything I want just around the corner, it's like the imaginary community in a child's train set.

Everyone here seems to know you.
Well, I like buzzing about town, it takes me away from the prison of the keyboard. I'm just one of the local derelicts.

Comicopera is released on October 8 on Domino

Previous article

Next article

Back to the list

ABÉCÉDAIRE

Les années Before | Soft Machine | Matching Mole | Solo | With Friends | Samples | Compilations | V.A. | Bootlegs | Reprises

HOME

"Sing like you speak" - The Word - n°55 - september 2007

"SING LIKE YOU SPEAK"

Unimpeachable vocalist, jazz journeyman, storm-tossed philosopher and political sage, Robert Wyatt looks back at what life has taught him

INTERVIEW BY TOBY MANNING
PORTRAIT BY MUIR VIDLER

ROBERT WYATT is BOTH A disarmingly ordinary bloke and a figure of extraordinary charisma. Not many interviewees include Richard Dawkins, Kropotkin and Benjamin Britten in their discourse; fewer still ring you up afterwards to check you got home safely.

The son of liberal parents, Wyatt left school at 16, because "I was fed up of being caned. I'd no ideological objection - it just fucking hurt." He became the drummer and singer of progressive jazz voyagers Soft Machine, lords of misrule of London's psychedelic revels. Wyatt was the Softs' heart and soul. With his Kentish vowels, forlorn falsetto and conversational lyrics, he was a deliberate antidote to countercultural whimsy. He describes being kicked out of the band as one of the most painful experiences of his life. As painful as the drunken fall from a window in 1973 that brought his drumming career to an abrupt halt and has consigned him to a wheelchair ever since. Back broken, spirit anything but, Wyatt married artist Alfreda Benge, who became his cover artist, manager, and - since 1991's Dondestan - co-lyricist. His work took on new energy, from 1974's Rock Bottom through unlikely hits I'm A Believer and Elvis Costello's Shipbuilding right up to his forthcoming, magically eccentric Comicopera - a wonderful body of work. He's also pursued an astonishing array of collaborations: who else could get Brian Eno and Paul Weller into the same studio?

"Exiled" in a delightful market town in Lincolnshire, in a Bohemian house stuffed with art, percussion instruments and jazz records, Wyatt has only very recently given up alcohol, and says ruefully, "It's very hard to write sober. Sundown's the difficult thing. What are you going to do? Have another cup of tea?"

Well in this case, yes. Alongside a roll-up, a pensive tug of his Lenin beard, and the offer of his wisdom for THE WORD.

"NEVER PRESUME"

"Presumption is the biggest cause of human traffic accidents. Never assume you know what's going on in someone else's mind. Because as far as I can see no one knows why we're here at all, so we all have to invent a reason and everyone will have invented a slightly different one. Even if a relationship has a name like son, daughter, wife, that doesn't give you the right to trample over each others' private dreams and fantasies. Treat other people's minds with respect. Even your nearest and dearest have a silent solitary part of themselves that's as inviolable to you as if they were a complete stranger."

"LOVE IS THE BRAKE TO YOUTH'S RECKLESSNESS"

"As a young man I lived rather recklessly and just about half got away with it. I say only half obviously 'cos I'm in a wheelchair. One of the corollaries to thinking I'd have been quite happy not being born is that the concept of danger changes completely. The only enemy becomes boredom. And the only limits to what you do about that are an education - and I'd like to think, via Kropotkin [Russian anarcho-communist], an inner desire to not cause harm to other people. Whereas I'm quite likely to -and indeed did - jump out of a window just to see what it was like, I don't think I'd have ever pushed anybody else out of a window. Because it might not have suited them as an activity.

"Did I jump or fall? Well, I was so drunk... But it's not kind of normal, is it, climbing on to a window ledge. But I didn't give up drinking afterwards. The thought that I might drink myself to death seemed a good way to go. I've never been interested in my health. I'm very touched that someone else wants me to keep healthy for as long as possible and as that's as good a motive as any I could cook up for myself. Alfie tends to guide me from obvious harm. So out of respect for that I try to look after myself.

Before the "horrible crash": (clockwise from left) Wyatt, Mike Ratledge, Andy Summers and Kevin Ayers in Soft Machine.

"I've been more at ease since I've been in a wheelchair and more clear what on earth to do with myself than I was before. It coincided with marrying Alfie - maybe it was just that that was the just right team I needed all along rather than being in the testosterone-fuelled nightmare of an avant-garde boy band. So when I hit rock bottom, it was anything but rock bottom - it was like being washed up on a really nice desert island. With me and my mate. And it was a pleasant surprise that the kind of people who previously regarded long-haired jazzers with suspicion and hostility suddenly started treating me with courtesy and consideration - I made a smooth transition to a kind of Winnie the Pooh-like harmlessness, which disarmed hostility all around me.

"I'm perfectly alright in a wheelchair. I find it...interesting. It's another place to be. I had 28 years as a biped. I've had much longer now in a wheelchair. And apart from my childhood I've never really been happier than I am now."

"SING LIKE YOU SPEAK"

"Songs work best when they seem to resonate with conversational patterns. You go back to Ogden Nash and Noel Coward and find kindred spirits. My goodness what a beautiful voice Noel Coward has got - and utterly and totally English. I extended the same thing to lyric writing. I prefer to use phrases I would use anyway. One of the Englishnesses I was brought up on was Edward Lear, Hilaire Belloc and Lewis Carroll. Gobbledegook. That sort of game is also part of what I draw on - before conscious thought. Dada too, of course, follows straight on. The surrealists said do an intellect bypass and get straight to what's going on in the head without monitoring it."

"RULES ARE PRACTICAL, NOT MORAL"

"It's been a very great preoccupation of the extreme right to establish the existence of evil: they think the trouble with liberal thinking is that comparative moralities give people no guidance. So I say call it evil then, but then what? If someone's actually born evil, wouldn't that mean they'd be completely blameless? To make murder illegal is just a practical issue, like driving on a certain side of the road. That's not a moral question, it's practical."

> zoom

"BEING MARRIED TO A TOURING ROCK MUSICIAN IS LIKE BEING MARRIED TO A SAILOR"

"I was not a conscientious father. I put my music and drumming first. And it's not at all surprising that someone took over [fellow bury drummer Pip Pyle married Wyatt's first wife Pam, bringing up his son, Sam]. And as far as I know there's no ill feeling among any of us. "I've been punished, it's that Sam doesn't have anything in common with me in terms of cultural pursuits. But we love each to death.

"Shared tastes have nothing to do with empathy. As a youth I remember voluntarily ghettoising myself into various gangs, whether it was avant garde or jazz or the new rock and roll, and getting terribly het up if people didn't want to heart Stockhausen. But some of the nicest people I know never listen to anything apart from Gilbert and Sullivan, and I know some people with terrific taste whose behaviour strikes me as really misanthropic. »

"I was wheeling through Soho Square, early on in my wheelchair. And I slipped out of the chair right forward into the road into the traffic. A lot of people ignored it, but one bloke ran across from the other side of the road, picked me up, helped Alfie get me back in the chair and disappeared into the night. I didn't say, "You look like a jazz musician, but if you only like country and western then I don't want your help.' Kindness can't be legislated."

"RECORDS ARE LIKE FADING TATTOOS"

"My biggest influence is records I don't like. Including my own. It's a bit like if you have tattoos saying I Love Ann. Then she dumps you a month later and you're going out with Mandy. You think, 'If I add an M and a Y...' and it all gets a bit scratchy. Records are like fading tattoos. They're eradicable more or less, and if you knew that when you were making them you'd have been much more circumspect.

"Writing lyrics is one thing, writing tunes another, singing songs another. I try to do each one as well as if it was the only thing I did. But I find it a challenge to get all three in one place for three or four minutes, and if my words won't fit the music I don't use them. I like not to be able to spot the join. I can sometimes tell with Joni Mitchell that there was a bunch of lyrics here and the music came after. It's even worse with Benjamin Britten - phenomenal musical ideas, but too much recitative! It's hard work - I don't listen to verbal narrative with the same brain muscles as I fall into music."

"THE PAST IS A REFERENCE POINT FOR WHAT NOT TO REPEAT"

"For a long time my biggest regret - apart from being born, I wouldn't have done that if I'd thought it through beforehand! - was going to school in East Kent and meeting the Soft Machine guys. For a long time afterwards it felt like a complete waste of time. It's like a train journey - you can't think of it without thinking of the horrible crash that ended it. But I'm glad I'm not nostalgic, because I find some people sort of trapped in nostalgia. I'm still trying to get things right. Just an hour's music that I wouldn't change. I don't think I'll ever manage it, but it's an exercise that's taken up most of my life. The past is a useful reference point for what not to do again."

COMICOPERA is out on October 8 on Domino

Previous article

Next article

Back to the list

ABÉCÉDAIRE

Les années Before | Soft Machine | Matching Mole | Solo | With Friends | Samples | Compilations | V.A. | Bootlegs | Reprises

HOME

Q&A: Robert Wyatt - The Birth Of The Cool - Stop Smiling - July, 12 2006

THE BIRTH OF THE COOL

The Stop Smiling Interview with Robert Wyatt
By Anthony Reynolds

The following piece originally appeared in The U.K. Issue. Presented here is the unabridged, 5,700-word Q&A.

I arrive around five. Being England in January it's dark and raining. The house is fronted by black railings to which bicycles are chained. There are two gates. I ring the bell and Robert Wyatt appears. We shake hands and he leads me into the warm, low-lit front room that has the feeling of a well-heeled bedsit. It's tidy but lived in, with a hotplate beside a baby grand piano. There is a basic recording setup in the corner: a microphone, small mixing desk, a keyboard and various percussion instruments. On the wall is a Basquiat and smaller framed portraits are around the room.

Robert offers tea, but I pull two bottles of Bordeaux from my bag. He tells me to take a seat in the dining room while he finishes his business in the music room. Alone, I scan the bookshelves: Picasso, Beuys, Hockney.

Wyatt's wife, Alfreda Benge, joins me. "Alfie" is also Wyatt's professional collaborator, providing occasional lyrics and record art. She has just written lyrics for four tracks of Parisian DJ Bertrand Burgalat's most recent album, Portrait Robot. It's her first writing gig for someone other than her husband. As Alfie disappears into the back of the house, I am joined by Robert, who decides to take up smoking again. (He had given up three days previously.)

Wyatt was a founding member of the Soft Machine, (named after the William S. Burroughs book, although he no longer recalls why). Along with Pink Floyd, the group transformed the late '60s psychedelic scene of the U.K. into a new and valid form of musical expression. They soon evolved into a jazz-rock fusion group, punctuated by Wyatt's passionate, disciplined drumming and unique vocals. A substantial cult following bloomed across Europe. After countless sessions, extensive touring (including a 1971 trip to the States with the Jimi Hendrix Experience), Wyatt was sacked. He immediately assembled the improv fusion combo Matching Mole. (The name was a pun on machine mole, which is Soft Machine in French). They released two critically acclaimed LPs before splitting in 1972.

In 1973, after consuming considerable amounts of alcohol at a party in London, Wyatt fell from a third floor window, leaving him paralyzed from the waist down. After recuperating in the hospital for a year, Wyatt married Alfie and embarked on a solo career. He emerged as a vocalist with a singing style that was both refined and haunting. (Ryuichi Sakamoto has called Wyatt's voice "the saddest sound in the world.")

In 1997, a new audience was introduced to Wyatt with the release of a long-awaited album, titled Shleep. Though self-produced, Wyatt benefited from the participation of friends like Brian Eno, Paul Weller, Evan Parker and Phil Manzanera. Another critically acclaimed album, Cuckooland, was released in late 2003, preceding a collaboration with Björk on Medulla in 2004. Wyatt is presently recording his next solo album.

Robert Wyatt in his home, photographed by Anthony Reynolds

Stop Smiling: Tell me about getting older.

Robert Wyatt: Getting older gives you a long time to think. If you're a slow thinker, you need that time. I was lucky with music. It's a humble aspiration to find a way to make a living. When I was a child my parents used to get me to sing along with Christmas carols and I thought, I can hear the difference between this note and that note. It was a thrilling moment. Like when you learn to ride a bicycle. To me, that's what all music is. I thank God for it, because it gave me a living. When people would say, "What motivates you? Did you want to be a rock star, a pop star, an artist?" I said, "I want to earn a fucking living."

I can't read music. I know the names of the notes. I know the wrong note from a right note, even on a fast bebop solo. I know music aurally, not orally. Listening to music is instinctive, enjoying it is instinctive. But as a writer I approach it as craftsmanship. I might have a drum part on tape for 10 years before I hear a bassline that will go with it. I don't like to force tunes into existence before they are ready to come alive. They come out right if you wait for the tune. You can't say, "I want a baby a month from now." It takes time. But even then, the only reason I'm creative publicly is because we need the money. If I didn't have to earn a living I would sit around listening to jazz records and never write a tune in my life. There are a lot of things the world is short of — for instance, enough fresh water for everyone to drink. But it's not short of songs. I'm embarrassed about that, in a way. I could spend the rest of my life listening to music that already exists.

As far as I'm concerned about music, the last thing that really mattered to me, that could save my life, ended when John Coltrane died in 1967. But when I started, I was so bloody lucky the beat scene came along. The standards were so low that even someone who had no idea what they were doing could actually earn a living.

SS: Some would say, with your voice, that you're gifted.

RW: I don't know. When I open my mouth, I do the best I can. That's all I can tell you. But compared to the people that inspire me, I know fuck all. And that's not a choice. That's why I wonder about the idea of free will.

I think it's particularly hard for people brought up in the Western individualist tradition to accept the fact that ecstasy comes from losing yourself within something else. The simplest way you can do this is through sex — when you lose yourself in someone else. That contradicts the intellectual tradition of finding yourself. Instead, you surrender yourself and become a voice in the choir, where the choir is going on and you can't even tell which voice is your voice and which voice is that of the person next to you. That to me is ecstasy. This isn't something that's available only to artists, although they may articulate it more expressly. But it's the same thing that makes advertisers realize why they should do these kitsch little dreamscapes of some kind of pinky, bluey dreamy landscape that adverts are full of. To me it's the only possible explanation as to why people yearn for the utter idiocy of religion, for example. It's so tiring to carry the physical weight of your body.

This will probably be the last interview I'll do as a 60 year old. I suppose I'm now entering the land of Old Man. It disappoints and frightens me that a lot of the things we thought we'd do never happened — I mean, you never expected to win the war. But we thought we'd win a few little battles along the way. Against racism, for instance. And we haven't really because it just gets transferred to Arabs or immigrants, Gypsies or something or other. I mean, I understand it. I don't expect a great deal from humans. The only thing I'm prepared to stand by are the actual lyrics and tunes of my songs. The only times I think, I'm going to hang this on the hook and leave it to dry, are when I actually write a song and put it on the washing line. I would defend any song I've written. If someone says, "Well, that's an anachronism," I think, "Good, because any song I've sung that is no longer necessary means there's a battle that has in some way been won." I've written songs about Nelson Mandela being in prison, which is where I assumed he'd spend his life. But I was wrong about that. I'm happy that song is an anachronism. Another song is "Born Again Cretin" [from the Nothing Can Stop Us album] which is about the blatantly idiotic Christian movement in North America. Which now, in fact, runs America. I was writing about the mindset that somehow means that if you're attracted to Christianity, the people who represent it are basically arseholes. You think, "Well, if Jesus was such a nice man, did he need this kind of help?" [Laughs]

SS: Did you have a university education?

RW: No. People are quite shocked when they find out about the number of people I haven't heard of — people who are terribly important to know about. There are a few people I've read who really helped me when I've felt I was getting intellectual claustrophobia. These people tend not to be artists at all. People like Noam Chomsky. I'm not very good at repertoire. It takes me ages to think through what anybody says, which is why I wouldn't stick by anything that is said in a conversation of this nature. I react quickly, and I'm just as stupid as everybody else. I've found this magical area where if I've written 20 or 30 songs. Those songs, from the last 30 years or so, will certainly stand up. I'll defend them. But I won't defend all the bullshit I've talked in the middle.

SS: As an American voice, I suppose Chomsky is unique.

RW: Oh yes. There was a wonderful period, from the American Civil War, or even before that, from the war with the British Empire. That's an interesting one — it's the one that seems to be dead and buried. It's neither dead nor buried, to the extent that Americans retain an extraordinary envy not of Britain as a democracy, but as an empire. They are more intrigued by our imperialist past than by our democratic modern era. Whenever they make films about the European past they always romanticize royalty over the mob.

Orson Welles's The Magnificent Ambersons, for example. Even when they romanticize the [American] upper classes as evil, they are still considered much more interesting than the people they were oppressing. Even American intellectuals are quite unable, it seems to me, to transcend this crazy lust for imperial status, which you get from being Greek or Roman or British. People say, "Robert, everything you do is based on what happened on the American continent." I don't accept that there's such a thing as the American people.

Speaking about this is so hard. I do it much better in songs. I get embarrassed by the differences between English culture and American culture when I'm trying to communicate with American intellectuals. The problem I have with intellectuals is that they start from a level of expectation so unutterably precious that it reminds me of the old French aristocracy. So, while seeming pluralistic, American culture has so far presented toward us a fake conflict between the squirearchy and the mob. They play this delightful game among themselves and it's none of my business. They've got a democracy, they can vote for whom the hell they like and they can buy the books they like. But what I don't like is when they apply this to everybody else.

There's one great thing about me being as old as I am: I remember a wonderful thing that happened with the 20th century avant-garde. It blew the century off course, and I hope future centuries will be grateful. I sort of depend on the idea, intellectually, that they will be grateful, because something happened to European art when it transferred itself to America. It mixed with the rest of the world, particularly Africa. Constantin Brancusi was a sculptor from Eastern Europe. He was one of the late 19th century sculptors who set up the possibilities in his studios for the entire 20th century European art movement. He set up giant quasi-African sculptures and he turned the perception of the third world as a source of cheap materials, like oil and cotton, into a continent of peoples who had great imaginations. In the process of discovering and using these people, we have destroyed their imaginations. This gave me my political angle. And maybe it's a given now, but the first person to whom this change of awareness occurred, so far as I know, was Brancusi. He started looking at these little artifacts that grave robbers and gold diggers had brought back from Africa.

The history of European art in relation to the third world is basically scalp-hunting. "Look at this nice pretty curved shape we have here. Turn it upside down and you have a little bowl." What is it? Someone's head. The history of scalping is that in fact, the Europeans in America basically used it. American soldiers were rewarded and praised for their conquest against the indigenous inhabitants. That is the origin of scalping. And then the American Indian picked up on that.

The most important thing in my life is the inspiration of black music in America. I was saying that this black music, which is dismissed as a kind of black underground, it's the survival in the only way it knows how to survive, of the black culture which gave you the only valuable thing your civilization has come up with. So you can sit and snigger if you like but say thank you once in a while. I also have to like the tune. A piece of music can't just be a bit of polemic for me. I can't just make a speech and put music to it — that's bollocks. I hate that. That's why I don't really like a lot of stuff that's called folk music, just speeches set to music. Boring. I like music. Songs. Tunes.

Whenever critics put something down it's because they don't understand it. The only thing I would want to be noted for are the things I praised and loved and take no notice of things I hate — because they're just things I don't understand. And I'm burying myself here because I'm almost immediately discrediting everything I've just said. But I don't care. I don't have hubris. I stumble across occasional bits of beauty and truth. So if I describe myself as the quintessential anti-American, then I have to qualify that by saying, "Ah, but Chomsky, Charlie Parker, Thelonious Monk!" But then again, I don't know the half of it. Like a lot of revolutionaries, I'm conservative in a hopeless way. I think that all the things I fought for have already been killed. So, I live in a strange twilight world. A ghostland.

SS: You sound quite alive on your records.

RW: It's that Dylan Thomas thing: Go out whimpering or raging. I will go out fucking angry. All that beauty, all those different ways of living. Turning it into some kitsch shit, a cola-and-hamburger culture. How dare you? How fucking dare you!

SS: Yet you've covered many songs by American songwriters. Why?

RW: Many great Americans were anti-capitalist or involved with the left, like the lyricist of "Autumn Leaves," Joseph Kosma. Or Yip Harburg, who wrote "Brother Can You Spare a Dime?" and "Over the Rainbow." Or Abel Meeropol, who wrote the lyrics to "Strange Fruit." Many of them had sympathy with the left. It's amazing how many of the young American Jewish and Italian radicals in the '30s were against capitalism. During the Depression, it looked like capitalism had failed. Communism was a legitimate alternative until it was wiped out in the '50s by Joseph McCarthy.

This is a good moment to ask, "Am I grateful that America exists at all?" I think if it weren't for jazz, I would say it would have been better if America had not existed at all. But because jazz existed, personally I'm grateful for it. Because I don't see how the rest of us would have quite broken through to that level of intense beauty without the existence of jazz. I think what the best people do is lose themselves in the greatness of everything else. It's a pluralistic thing and it's not a Western thing. The Western thing is the individual dominating the landscape. The greater thing is to lose yourself within the greater incomprehensible vastness, a collective majesty.

SS: You started as a drummer. Miles Davis said all white drummers play slightly behind the beat.

RW: I conquered my fear of what jazz fans would compare white drummers with by watching Keith Moon, who didn't give a shit. He wasn't sitting there thinking, "Am I reaching some standard set by somebody else?" Keith freed me from trying to think about standards set by someone else. Moon sustained a kind of momentum on the kit, plus a kind of human uncertainty about what was going to happen next. Which is what I wanted to do with my drumming. So, while I got my inspiration from black drummers, I got my confidence from Keith Moon. As for my own music, there's nothing I've really done since the mid-'70s that I haven't done because I needed to make a living. Saying that, I'm thrilled and amazed that there were other things yet to come out of my head after the mid-'70s. Creatively, I felt a terrific sense of relief about that because, since the mid-'70s, I've felt a weird resignation, a feeling of depression that relates to the political climate and the state of the world. And the triviality and silliness of being a musician or even an artist in that world. Politically, I'm one of the last survivors of a lost war.

SS: You recently worked with Björk on her Medulla album. How was that collaboration?

RW: Björk came here in the spring of 2004. It was a surprise visit for a night or two. She was working on a vocal album and she asked if she could come and stick my voice on a couple tunes. She sent me a few tunes she hadn't completed. I had a listen and thought that I'd like to do as much as I could on all of them, but in particular the first track, "Submarine." So I threw everything I could at it on a demo and played it to her over the phone. And she said, "Yeah, we'll have a go with that." So she came along with her engineer and I was so shy of her hearing me trying to stumble through doing a vocal that I sent her away. I made her go for a walk. When she came back I still hadn't finished, so I sent her out again. The poor woman had to spend several hours walking around. I sang every note I knew. We sampled them all so she could play them through a keyboard. I threw everything at the track on the assumption they would pick out two or three bleating notes to go with hers. The engineer kept everything I did on it, to my great embarrassment. I myself would have cut most of it out. She ended up sampling my voice on another track too, "Oceania," which ended up being the tune that opened the Olympics. My voice is just in there at the beginning. That was my little anonymous moment, opening the 2004 Olympics. But we spent an evening here as we have, drinking wine and playing records and talking. I thought she was charming, funny and intelligent. She came and went. It was an absolute fizzing buzz to have her around. I was honored that she wanted to come here. She's one of the greats. I'd put her up there with Nina Simone.

SS: Did you and Björk sing together while she was here? You know, a few bottles of wine and then around the piano for a singsong?

RW: That would never occur to me. A singsong? Blimey! You're kidding, son. I'm not a singer.

SS: Did you go to many gigs when you lived in London?

RW: Alfie and I used to frequent Ronnie Scott's a lot in the '60s. It was a place you'd go to after you'd done a rock gig and wanted to hear some decent music after all the rubbish you'd been playing. One night, someone was complaining because Spike Milligan [of "The Goon Show"] decided to stand on his head on a table. Some fat old Tory was moaning and Ronnie told him: "Shut up. You come for music, Spike comes to stand on his head."

That night, Bill Evans was playing the piano with his head. You know when you're having a meal with someone and they're eating a bowl of soup and their hair is actually in the soup? When they are totally out of it? Bill Evans sat at the piano like a man dead drunk. He played piano with his hands way above his head because his face was dipped in a bowl of piano. I don't know how he lived as long as he did.

Ronnie's place was like the London equivalent of the Village Vanguard. Ronnie was a great host. He was so out of it, he blew so many rules. I loved Ronnie. I cried for Ronnie's death. And I still do sometimes. I've got a photo of him propped up on my piano at the moment. He's one of my reasons to live. Even though it was rumored that his death — at 70 — was suicide, he didn't want to be a bad saxophonist. He realized that once he'd got his false teeth in, which they were about to fix for him, he wouldn't be quite a good saxophonist because his mouth wouldn't be as sensitive anymore. He didn't want to be a second rate saxophonist. So many of my heroes have done this. Roland Kirk, who was always a regular at Ronnie's, had a stroke. He could play with only one arm, which is quite hard on a saxophone. He was told, "Stop playing or you'll die." He said, "What will I do if I stop playing?" He just laughed it off. And he played and he died.

SS: I'd like to ask you about a few specific songs.

RW: Sure. Go ahead.

SS: Where did you get the nerve to sing "Strange Fruit"?

RW: Alfie asked me that same thing. But, you know, why not? I first heard it as a teenager in the '50s. The words were written by a young Jewish radical, a white guy, Lewis Alan. I did feel tentative about singing it, but at the time black music was the Three Degrees and glitzy showbiz stuff. I thought, Hang on, white kids think they've invented the protest song. Disco was part of the mainstream then. I wanted to point out that protest music wasn't just saying fuck on a record — there's a long history of this stuff, way back before World War II. There's some advanced protest poetry coming out of America long before the folk movement of the '60s kicked in. An example of this was "Strange Fruit." I was representing a piece of black and communist history to a generation that didn't associate black culture with protest music anymore. And although the lyrics were written by a white guy [Abel Meeropol] it was written specifically for Billie Holiday, who wrote the actual music. She didn't have to sing it. But she sang it a lot, especially during her old age — and a few people picked up on it, like Nina Simone. Musically, it's extraordinary. If you write music to words that aren't really written for music, you have to make strange music to fit the words, because the words are untidy rhythmically. "Strange Fruit" is an odd piece of music; there's this interlude before the piece begins and then there's this tune that doesn't really repeat itself. It's such a unique, odd shape. There's no real repetition, it's one thread that starts and carries onto the end.

SS: John Lennon's "Love" (From an Uncut magazine Lennon Tribute album, 2003)

RW: I was asked to sing a John Lennon song, and I thought the one that I could sing was that. I didn't know afterward that it was one of his own favorite songs. I just tried to sing it as faithfully as I could, according to what I felt it meant to be. I thought the Beatles were okay. I would never have bought their records. As white musicians go, I found some of them the least embarrassing. I did buy Lennon's Imagine album at the time.

SS: "Soup Song" (From Ruth is Stranger than Richard, 1975)

RW: I was singing about being some bacon in that song. What I'm complaining about is the way bacon was used as mere wobbly bits in other meals. It was also used in quiches, which I thought, What the fuck was that all about? If you're going to eat a slice of pig, then eat a slice of pig. Don't piss me about with your little wibbly, wobbly bits of bacon.

SS: "Memories of You" (B-side of Shipbuilding, 1982)

RW: This is a song by Eubie Blake, an American pianist born around the beginning of the 20th century. He died at 102. He invented a lot of the stuff before jazz, like the Charleston. He wrote this tune and I wanted to do it, but I didn't really understand the chords. So we got the sheet music and Alfie played them to me. I couldn't have got my head around it if Alfie wasn't able to read the sheet music.

SS: "At Last I Am Free" (From Nothing Can Stop Us, 1982)

RW: Around that time there was something happening, historically, that was quite wrong.

There was a pattern forming where young white singers were singing serious stuff — political stuff, punk. Black people were assigned the role of popular entertainers who just did disco music. This was not my experience when I was a youth. It was the other way around. The whole idea of music — of opposition, of music, of seriousness — that rock inherited, actually came from black music. So the idea that the historical consciousness of the history of popular music was so short that young white punks could claim seriousness as their own. Any white group who grew their hair long and wore jeans when they could actually afford corduroy is acting poor. Whereas black people at that time weren't doing that because young black people weren't hoping, like young whites, to drop out of the system. They were people from working class origins aspiring to belong. So the idea was to get away from the raggedy ass stuff of the blues and to present a more sophisticated veneer. So they would wear shiny suits, ties, nice haircut, smart stuff. Chic. It was an aspiration toward what 19th century white people aspired toward. A kind of chic European, end-of-empire poshness. This was completely against the grain of what white kids were going through, which was to ostentatiously behave in a vulgar fashion that didn't glorify their parents' postwar aspirations toward suburban respectability. So the great white thing was: Fuck our great suburban ancestors, we're going to grow our hair, not bathe, we're going to say swear words in public, we're going to try and look like the Rolling Stones and all that kind of stuff.

So this absurd Alice in Wonderland contradiction had arrived in pop music whereby black pop musicians as epitomized by say Michael Jackson were respected bourgeoisie. They were respectable people to be laughed at by the rebels, who were the white long-haired people. This is a complete reversal of the historical truth of their music. I didn't want to lose my grip on the fact that the only reason America is any more significant culturally than New Zealand and Tasmania is thanks to the black American contribution. I wanted to say even in the degrading position of having to be circus performers in Las Vegas, they come out with better tunes than you lot. Here's one. ["At Last I Am Free"] It was filler track on one of Chic's LPs. A throwaway. I thought, What a lovely phrase. I was a kind of hangover from a Martin Luther King-era consciousness transmuted into a smooth love ballad. It's something that only a black person of that time would have written that time and in that way. So you have that chorus: "At last I am free / I can hardly see in front of me." That struck me as one of the most moving couplets I'd ever heard. It's like a fantastic blues couplet, and it doesn't sound like much unless for years you've been in some kind of struggle where for ages you've longed to be free. Then suddenly you were and you think, "What the fuck do I do now?" It had been constructed from various mindsets that had been going on in the battle for the brains of young Americans at the time. I'm not saying that this is what they intended, but this is what it meant to me. Their version was so clean and neat — it wasn't presented in a rebellious way. It was presented in a kind of way that aspiring pop wannabes presented themselves in — and still do — which is, "We don't want to be drop-outs, we want to be allowed to drop in." It was a completely different mindset than punk. I wanted to take a thread out of that.

SS: "Raining In My Heart" (From Cuckooland, 2003)

RW: I did try and sing this, but it wasn't good enough. The reason I put it out as an instrumental was because — say you did a tribute to the Mona Lisa, and you couldn't paint it, you couldn't pull it off. Well then, maybe do a reproduction of the frame it was in and left it blank just to say, "I remember that painting." Plus, the piano I used was from an old ship from the '30s and it was designed to play background music. I tried to imagine the two people who wrote it. She was a lift operator and he was a jazz violinist. I was trying to imagine the early rock and roll atmosphere from when they wrote that song, when they would have met. They would have been horrified by rock and roll — all that sex and nastiness. But they were deeply conservative, weird and children of immigrants — respectable working class provincials. But they wrote nice little tunes that you'd play in a Victorian parlor. They were covered by people like Buddy Holly, the Everly Brothers. So I wanted to go before that to this little couple from almost pre-rock and roll American history. The kind of people you might see in the background in a film with Katharine Hepburn. So I did it as an instrumental. But it's my little piece in the middle of my record — my little thought about my roots. I have a reputation for being knowledgeable about Bartok and Stravinsky and Charlie Parker and all that. I wanted to point out that it wasn't the roots of my music. My roots are simple, popular, pre-rock and roll rebel songs. But there's nothing perverse or ironic about it. I'm not like that.

SS: "Heaps Of Sheeps" (From Schleep, 1998)

RW: Alfie wrote the words to that one.

Alfie Benge: "I realized my fists were clenched / I stretched my fingers to relax / Still not sleeping / I tried counting sheep." I'm not an insomniac. It was written one morning in Spain after I'd spent the night trying to get to sleep, and I tried counting sheep and the fuckers were just piling up in some terrible heap. I thought it was funny, so I wrote it down. It's one of many poems I wrote in Spain. When Robert started getting word-starved as it were, he pinched my poetry book and started doing things to them. I thought it was so banal and trivial that it was beneath him to actually do that song. I always felt it was a bit vulgar.

RW: It's my job as a songwriter to find things that will work.

AB: He's the insomniac, and he hasn't written about that.

RW: That piece took years. The actual piece of music was a piano exercise, which I had on bits and pieces of tapes for years and then I combined it with a drum exercise I'd had — a Bo Diddley thing. I took it from there. The only battle was with Alfie, who is quite posh about which of her words get used for lyrics. That's one of the two or three times when I've taken words she's written from her notebooks.

AB: My notebooks only exist when I'm somewhere else. I don't get a lot from home. When we're in Spain and Italy, I take bits from my diaries, have a few brandies and make little poems. I had about 20 or 30 from Spain. The fait accompli was that some of them got turned into songs. But he didn't ask me. That was the beginning of it. I thought you'd hear it once, laugh, and then not want to hear it again.

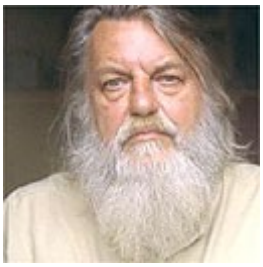
RW: Yes, but when Brian Eno came into the studio and read your lyrics, he laughed and laughed and laughed. I thought, It's nice to see Brian laughing. It was a happy moment for me. He came in and got really stuck in. So, that's a trio performance at the end.

Previous article

Next article

Back to the list

ABÉCÉDAIRE



Les années Before | Soft Machine | Matching Mole | Solo | With Friends | Samples | Compilations | V.A. | Bootlegs | Reprises

HOME

Wyatting (vb): when jukeboxes go mad - The Guardian - July 10, 2006

WYATTING (VB): WHEN JUKEBOXES GO MAD

Ned Beauman
Monday July 10, 2006
The Guardian

Robert Wyatt: the perfect way to clear a pub

Just as the best way to judge an adult is by his or her record collection, the best way to judge a pub is by the albums on its jukebox. Or it was, until the 21st-century caught up with the noisy machine in the corner. There are now nearly 2,000 internet-connected jukeboxes in the UK, each of which can access as many as 2m tracks - and with them has come Wyatting, which is either a fearless act of situationist cultural warfare or a nauseatingly snobbish prank, depending on who you ask.

The phenomenon was first identified in the New York Times by Wendy McClure. She was in a grimy rock bar when someone pulled up Brian Eno's Thursday Afternoon, which consists of a single distant piano phrase repeated for more than an hour, and found herself too mesmerised to leave. "Imagine replacing the brass cylinder in a music box with a Möbius strip made from nerve endings," she wrote. The rest of the bar's patrons , however, were soon in revolt.

This wasn't to be an isolated incident. After music critic Simon Reynolds linked to McClure's article on his weblog, several of his readers wrote in to confess that this is a game they regularly play. Carl Neville, a 36-year-old English teacher from London, coined the term "Wyatting" because sticking on Dondestan, the 1991 avant-garde jazz-rock LP by ex-Soft Machine singer Robert Wyatt, is the perfect way to disrupt a busy Friday night in a high street pub. Other favourites are free-jazz clarinetist Evan Parker and surrealist Japanese noise producer Merzbow. In theoretical terms, Wyatting has been explained as enacting the theories of Adorno, who believed that subverting pop music would help to bring down capitalism. Alternatively, if you listen to Neville, it's simply "childish, futile, but finally hilarious".

Inevitably a backlash has arrived with other bloggers claiming Wyatting is just a way for those who feel superior, both in terms of class and musical taste, to bait those beneath them. But Inspired Broadcast Networks, which run most of the internet jukeboxes in the UK, insists it has not unleashed a monster.

"Most people won't spend money on making the pub an irritating environment," says Anne de Kerckhove, Inspired's chief operating officer. If landlords do have problems with inappropriate selections, she says, it is usually hip-hop with lots of swearing and in that case, "they can kill a track while it's playing and reimburse the customer". Has she thought of limiting the available tracks to those appropriate for drinking and socialising? "The minute we say, 'You can't play that,' then people want to play that. We're all a bit contrarian in nature."

Perhaps Wyatting will be added to flicking peanuts and talking loudly about your sex life as Adorno behaviour. But what about the man after whom this controversial sport was named? "I think it's really funny," says the 61-year-old Robert Wyatt, whose most recent album, Cuckooland, was nominated for the 2004 Mercury music prize. "I'm very honoured at the idea of becoming a verb." Would he ever try it himself? "Oh no. I don't really like disconcerting people. Although often when I try to be normal I disconcert anyway".

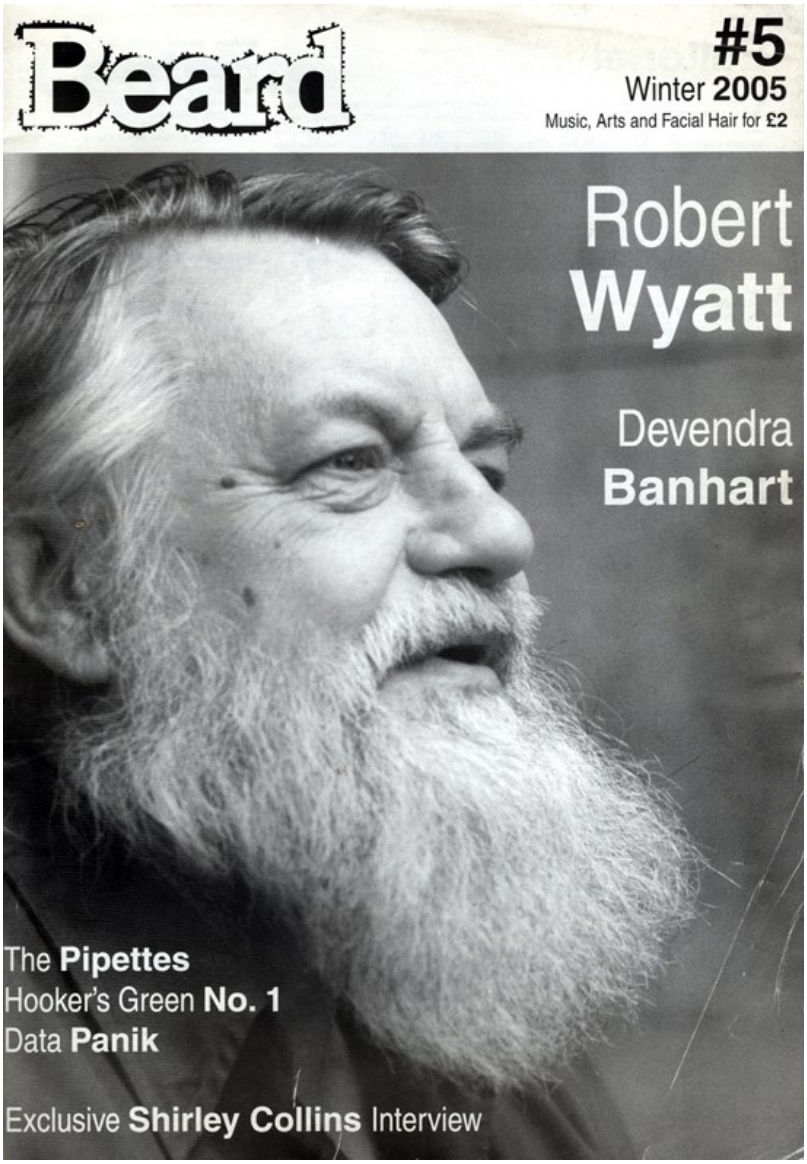
>> The original interview

Previous article

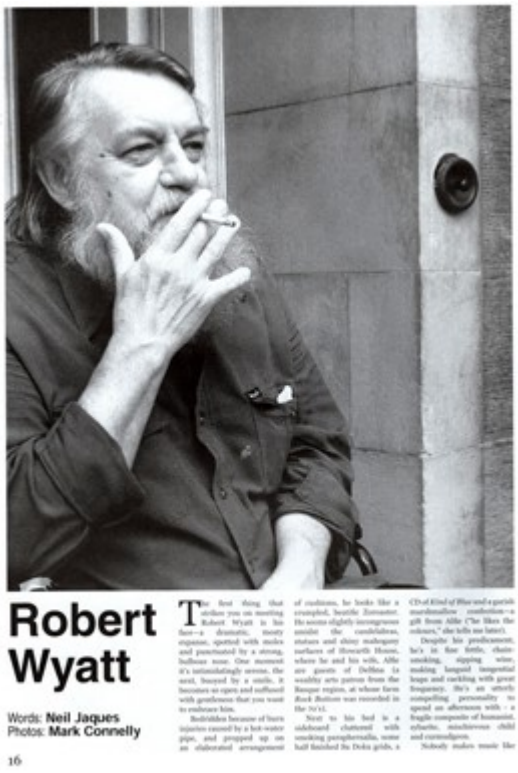
Next article



Back to the list

ABÉCÉDAIRE

Les années Before | Soft Machine | Matching Mole | Solo | With Friends | Samples | Compilations | V.A. | Bootlegs | Reprises



HOME

Robert Wyatt - Beard - #5 - Winter 2005

> Zoom

Robert

Robert Wyatt

Words: Neil Jaques
Photos: Mark Connelly

16

> Zoom

Wyatt

Words : Neil Jaques
Photos : Mark Connelly

The first thing that strikes you on meeting Robert Wyatt is his face - a dramatic, meaty expanse, spotted with moles and punctuated by a strong, bulbous nose. One moment it's intimidatingly serene, the next, buoyed by a smile, it becomes so open and suffused with gentleness that you want to embrace him.

Bedridden because of burn injuries caused by a hot-water pipe, and propped up on an elaborated arrangement of cushions, he looks like a crumpled, beatific Zoroaster. He seems slightly incongruous amidst the candelabras, statues and shiny mahogany surfaces of Howarth House, where he and his wife, Alfie are guests of Delfina (a wealthy arts patron from the Basque region, at whose farm Rock Bottom was recorded in the 70's).

Next to his bed is a sideboard cluttered with smoking paraphernalia, some half finished Su Doku grids, a CD of Kind of Blue and a garish marshmallow confection - a gift from Alfie ("he likes the colours," she tells me later).

Despite his predicament, he's in fine fettle, chain-smoking, sipping wine, making languid tangential leaps and cackling with great frequency. He's an utterly compelling personality to spend an afternoon with - a fragile composite of humanist, sybarite, mischievous child and curmudgeon.

Nobody makes music like Robert Wyatt. Since he became a paraplegic in 1973 the former drummer with the effeminate singing voice has hewn a musical vision that defies the parameters of musical logic. With a dizzying amalgam of jazz, soulful ascetic prog, the avant-garde, melody and unpretentious poetry, he always threatens to make no sense. But somehow, and with a disarming directness, always does. He's never released a bad album (some of his best have come in what most would consider the twilight years of an artist's life), and he has never sounded anything less than startlingly relevant. You would have a hard time convincing him of this though.

"I'm not particularly tuned into my times," he says, eventually, following a lengthy attempt at positioning himself in the contemporary musical landscape.

"Except you always know what the latest sylph-like black ladies are up to," interjects Alfie.

"One of the joys of music is that it is beyond pinned-down sex. I feel that in music I have the right to be any fucking sex I like!"

"Yeah, I do like black ladies," he retorts, flashing her a seraphic smile. "Sylph-like. Preferably in very short skirts - I think they're terribly good!"

"In fact, the only LP I really sang along with all the way through was a Dionne Warwick record. And Dionne Warwick had a very long skirt so I'm y'know, very broad-minded about skirt lengths!"

I'm half-way through asking him if that could account for the femininity of his own vocals, when he stops me short:

"One of the joys of music is that it is beyond pinned-down sex. I feel that in music I have the right to be any fucking sex I like!"

As an adolescent, Robert Wyatt Ellidge's mindset was, in his own words, "unreconstructed 1940's Harlem". A jazz obsessive, he was able to hum labyrinthine solos verbatim, and spent hours beating out Jimmy Cobb rhythms on a drum kit constructed from a typewriter, clothes rail and an old ammunition box. He even gave illustrated jazz lectures for anyone who would listen during school lunch breaks.

He's wary of calling his upbringing bohemian, but his home - a 14 room Georgian home (known as Wellington House), populated by a cavalcade of lodgers - was at least somewhat anomalous against the staid backdrop of 1950'$ Canterbury.

One of the Wellington House lodgers was an Australian beatnik called Daevid Allen (briefly a member of Soft Machine, and later, Gong). Allen had hung out with William Burroughs, smoked a lot of pot and owned a sizable collection of jazz records. He influenced Robert immensely, turning him on to the Beats, and, crucially, introduced him to George Niedorf, an American jazz drummer, who offered drumming lessons in lieu of rent.

Predictably, school paled by comparison.

"I just hated it, provincial English grammar school life. I really hated it. It was absolutely dismal," he says angrily.

"I should have been sent to a secondary modern and learned carpentry and would have been happy as you like. My big mistake was to pass my 11 plus. I should have just failed it and I think I would have been a happy adolescent."

"I just thought I don't want to be in this world. I just don't want to do any of the things they're teaching me."

It was an existential crisis that led to a suicide attempt at the age of 16, using Allen's stash of sleeping pills. He left school with no qualifications. Instead, he followed George Niedorf drifting around Europe, at one point staying with his mother's friend Robert Graves in Majorca. On his return to England he became involved in some brief, though inspired, tomfoolery with Canterbury band The Wilde Flowers (alongside Hugh Hopper and Kevin Avers) and by 1966, he was Soft Machine's singing drummer.

Soft Machine's lunatic blend of jazz, homegrown British whimsy and Wyatt's propensity for a good tune had them pegged as the ultimate cult band, earned them a place on tours with Hendrix ("Courteous, considerate and witty") and opening stints for Miles Davis ("I think rock n' roll made him really cross. He felt, y'know, 'who are these kids?'"). Nevertheless, it's not a time he recalls fondly.

"I found that, to me, the 6o's thing was a bit ostentatious. I mean, I got drunk and did it but I could see why people didn't like it," he says flatly.

"People are surprised about that, they always think I'm a sort of classic 60's person. I'm not: I was a so's person and then I became a 7o's person. The 60's were just the thing in the middle between childhood and adulthood. To me it's just excruciating adolescence, that's how I'd sum it up. Deeply embarrassing. "

Objectively he's got nothing to be embarrassed about—he'd become one of the most imaginative drummers around (a single listen to Why Are We Sleeping dispels any doubts), an accomplished songwriter and an integral part of two indisputably essential recordings (Soft Machine Vols. I & II).

Towards the end of the decade, however, Wyatt's idiosyncratic vocals and pop sensibilities were being marginalised in favour of a purer jazz sound, and his heavy drinking habit had begun to annoy the stoic Ratledge and Hopper. He recorded his first album, the much overlooked End of an Ear (1971), as an outlet for his suppressed creative urges, emblazoning the sleeve with the legend "Out of Work Pop Singer Currently on Drums with Soft Machine." After four albums he walked out. Any conversation about those final days is met with uncharacteristic reticence.

"I don't like bands; I think they're too bloke-ish for me. I can't give orders, I can't take orders, so it doesn't leave you much option in a group—you've got to be able to do one or the other and I could never do either," he says, by way of summation.

It was somewhat surprising then that his next move was to form another group, Matching Mole (a cheeky French pun on Soft Machine), who produced two, equally overlooked, albums in their short lifespan. They were about to reform in 1973 when, drunk out of his mind at a party, Wyatt fell from a third storey window, paralyzing himself from the waist down. "This was how the accident went: in order, wine, whiskey, Southern Comfort then the window," he remarked in Michael King's biography, Wrong Movements. His doctor informed him that if he hadn't been so drunk and had fallen more rigidly, he would have been dead.

I feel apprehensive discussing the circumstances surrounding the accident, but Robert is comfortable and candid.

"I'm missing the moderate gene. I don't understand moderation," he says simply. "My dad, wicked chap, lovely man, used to come out with sayings like 'if a thing's worth doing, it's worth overdoing!' Lovely saying. And I've always thought that. I've never understood this thing about drinking in moderation. I thought, what's the fucking point of that?"

Was alcohol always your vice?

"I stick to the legal drugs. I found a wonderful thing—which is don't worry about breaking the law. You can get completely smashed out of your brain on legal drugs. Just don't worry about it. Believe me, the right combination of serious amounts of wine and brandy and vodka and then a bit of Tia Maria and lots of fags...believe me, you're sailing. You're out there."

He gives a raucous laugh and adds solemnly: "You have to know where to draw the line. There's this thing called a line, which we have to draw apparently. You just have to know where it is - and I'm crap at that."

Following a lengthy, painful recuperation he recorded arguably his finest work, Rock Bottom (1974). Through a precarious morass of hypnotic drones, Wyatt's uninhibited singing, which at times is reduced to high-pitched yelps and percussive, rhythmic breathing patterns, becomes the sound of expiation, of coping with the aftershocks of paraplegia, and a tear-inducing expression of his love for Alfie (whom he married that year).

> Zoom

There's a dense, dreamlike quality to the sound, lyrics and imagery—a common theme in much of his later work.

"Partly it's a negative thing because my dreams are much more physically active and varied than my waking life can possibly be," he explains.

"I think they're extraordinary little journeys— the stories that happen and all the things you can do....

He pauses, dragging heavily on his cigarette.

"...and find yourself doing and if it's a nightmare, that's alright 'cause you wake up and think, well that's not true! Fantastic! And if it's a nice dream, it's a nice dream. Gravity has gone. Being awake is like you're being anchored and when you're asleep it's like 'anchor's away!' Off you go, just let the wind blow you wherever," he says, making wave-like movements with his hand.

Outside of music, Robert Wyatt is probably best known for his politics. After a fallow period in the late 70's and early 80's, he began explicitly fusing his political beliefs—an ideological strain of communism—with music, releasing the musical call to arms Nothing Can Stop Us (a compilation of overtly politicised covers). He also had his biggest hit with the intensely moving anti-Falklands song Shipbuilding, which was penned especially for him by Elvis Costello and Clive Langer.

These days you're not likely to see Wyatt - still a communist cardholder - handing out copies of The Morning Star in the rain. He's aware of the flaws of socialism but still clings to it as distant, symbolic hope. Talking to him about politics, he doesn't seem as trenchant as before. For instance, he doesn't follow current affairs that closely.

"I don't get my sense of the world from journalism," he says. "I always come up with these crap analogies, but I wouldn't get my knowledge of the oceans from surfers and speedboat drivers.

"I'd get my knowledge of the ocean from deep-sea oceanographers, not from people just endlessly zooming around the waves at the top, which is what I think news journalism is. I am actually interested in the undercurrents, the stream of history. My reference points tend to be more cultural and how people treat each other."

The calmness in his voice comes to an abrupt halt when I mention Blair et al.

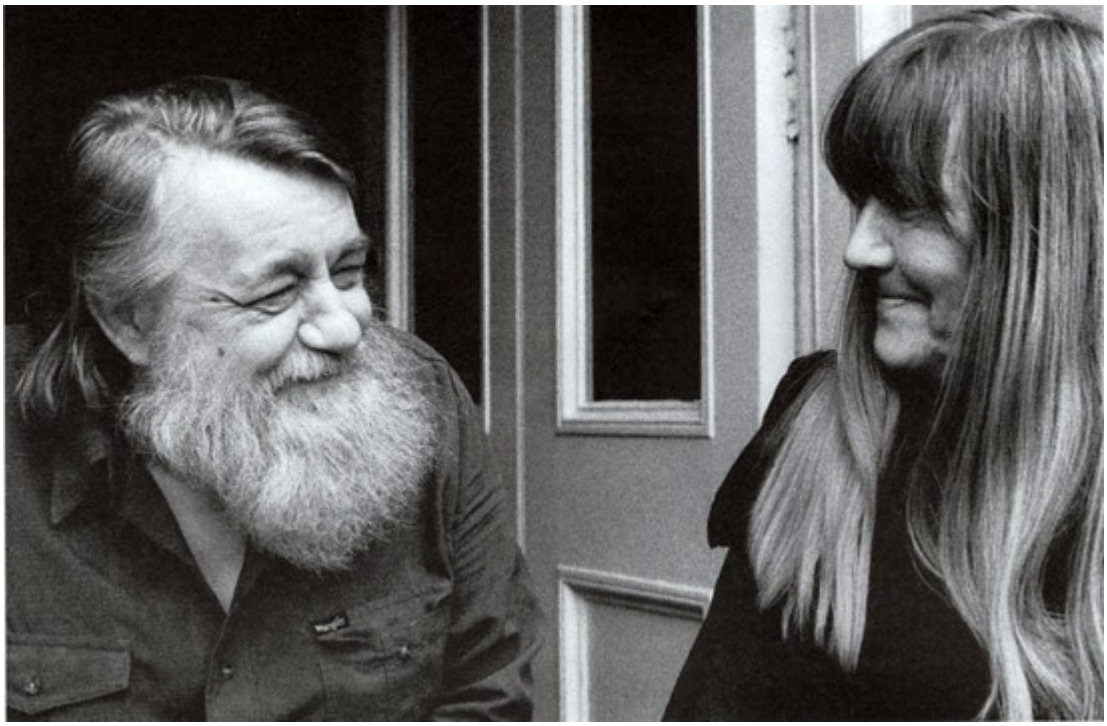
"I find that our government is a completely alien collection of horrible monsters," he spits building up a vituperative momentum:

"I scarcely recognise them as being members of the same species - let alone the same country! I just think that we haven't got the hang of this leadership business at all. We keep clinging on to a kind of 'Boy's Own' mentally retarded leadership, like boy scouts charging off into the wilderness to sort out Johnny Foreigner, I think 'Oh, for fuck's sake! I thought we finished all of that in the 19* century.

"My dad, wicked chap, lovely man, used to come out with sayings like 'if a thing's worth doing, it's worth overdoing!' Lovely saying."

"I'm just too vain, intellectually vain, to even take much interest really. I think fuck it, there's nothing I can do about it."

What about the responsibility of art?



"I don't think art should have any more responsibility than anything else," he replies, sounding irritated.

"I think it's quite vain of artists to think that they are the engine of anything. There is a relationship between art and politics, but it's a response to politics. I'm not in the business of making people feel bad about being apolitical and I think it's none of my business to tell people what to do at all!"

He stops himself and sighs wearily:

"I say things and read them in interviews and it looks so sort of bleak and I think 'I was only fucking joking!'. I think if you make certain commitments like joining the communist party the automatic assumption is that I must be incapable of levity and there must be some kind of utter solemn groove but it just happens to be...I mean, I looked at all the various analyses of the world and it seemed to me about right, y'know. I read the Marxist analysis and thought yeah, that's the world I recognise. Well, that must be what I am."

What he is when he's back home in semi-rural Louth, Lincolnshire, is a fairly unassuming man. He fills his time with music, ephemeral entertainments such as TV - he's a huge comedy fan, effusively praising everyone from Chris Morris, Victoria Wood, Spaced and "that amazing guy off Green Wing" (Mark Heap) - the occasional drink, and quiet domesticity. He'll trundle around anonymously, pop into Woollies for Janet Jackson albums ("Some people feel guilty about liking Janet Jackson, not me mate. I think she's terrific"), and socialise with neighbours. Generally, within Alfie's limits, he does what he likes, when he likes.

> Zoom

Alfie's influence is inestimable. She designs his album covers, writes some of his lyrics (they've written 20 songs together) and looks after him, loves him and protects him. Without her a combination of procrastination, perfectionism and fear would prevent him from achieving anything. He'd rather listen to jazz all day.

When he first met her she came across like a "Mongolian princess", who didn't throw herself at him like the usual groupies, instead remaining coolly aloof.

"She had a very stately way of going about things. I was dead impressed. She had all these books on politics and stuff and, y'know, she was much better educated than me, reading all sorts of philosophers I hadn't heard of. We'd go a see long foreign films with subtitles. It was a great adventure for me. It's just the best company I've ever had really."

When I ask him to identify the point at which he is happiest, he begins mumbling something vague about finishing a record before he pinpoints the exact moment:

"Drunken evenings with Alfie," he says assertively.

"She doesn't really do it as a habit as I would, but occasionally she does and she remembers all these old songs and gets out her singles starts dancing around to Motown classics or whatever and old jazz records and the brandy keeps flowing and then it gets heavier and heavier and she starts getting out the flamenco and then she gets back to her people and it'll be Polish things [Alfie is of Polish descent] and Neapolitan songs and the candles are burning and I love that. That's the most fun I can think of."

Previous article

Next article

Back to the list

ABÉCÉDAIRE

Les années Before | Soft Machine | Matching Mole | Solo | With Friends | Samples | Compilations | V.A. | Bootlegs | Reprises

HOME

Robert Wyatt & Friends + Q&A Robert Wyatt - Record Collector - issue 318 - Christmas 2005

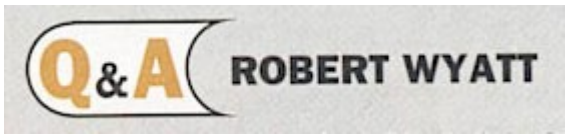
ROBERT WYATT & FRIENDS + Q&A ROBERT WYATT

In Concert - Theatre Royal, Drury Lane 1974

★★★★

Hannibal HNCD 1507/ADV (76:07)

Wyatt's first and last solo gig gets a proper release at last



"And now, for Robert Wyatt of Twickenham... Opportunity Knocks!" So Robert's old mate John Peel rounds off his amiable, rambling intro, welcoming onstage yet more of the headliner's extended family of Canterbury Scene musos and art-rocking mukkas.

Just a year after Wyatt's fall from a fifth-floor window left him permanently wheelchair-bound, he bravely took to the stage for this debut solo gig, understandably surrounding himself with characters who would offer great support in every sense. The now-former drummer roped in his 'dream rhythm section' of Laurie 'Gong' Allen, Hugh 'Soft Machine' Hopper and Dave 'Hatfield' Stewart, plus an all-stars cast including Nick Mason, Mike Oldfield, Fred Frith, Julie Tippetts and Ivor Cutler.

Kicking off with a couple of Soft Machine oldies, Wyatt feels his way through all of his classic Rock Bottom LP, heading off into uncharted territory as he warbles, yodels and breaks in his brandnew heartbreaking voice of a child over his own piano and tumbling waves of psychprog jazz. The triumphally shambling party climaxes with I'm A Believer breaking down into Knees Up Mother brown.

Full minutes of encore calls are captured on the CD. But there would be no more.

What are your memories of that night 31 years ago?

All I remember was a euphoric feeling of a whole band who were just going to play my tunes and help me get my songs right, instead of being a bit-part player in other people's musical projects.

This must be one of the most bootlegged gigs ever.
Some of the stuff that went out simply shouldn't have. It's a bit like Dylan complaining about people rummaging around in his dustbin! I didn't want mislead people into thinking that this was a new or perfectly formed recording - I always think it's unfair when it only says in small print 'oh, by the way, this was recorded in a club'.

Back in '74, people must have thought you'd be playing live with this band for years to come.
Yeah, I wish.

Did you know this was the beginning of the end, live-wise?
I can't remember. I don't think ahead like that. I don't think I even knew how to spell 'career'. I left school at 16 and did washing up jobs, I was just amazed you could get a job playing drums in a beat group. I was grateful to string it out for 10 years. After I did Rock Bottom, I thought 'that's all I've got, the tank is now empty - I've now got to sign on and I hope there's a good disability allowance'. But other things cropped up, and other little tunelets appeared in [my] head. I just kept trundling on and, fuck me, 30 years later, I'm still trundling on - extraordinary!

Do I sense a note of regret?
Yes, you do. I'm sure I could have done more gigs than that, and I do wish I had. What I love is that, although it's no a jazz session, they have that jazz sensibility, and they're reacting quite spontaneously to me and to each other, and you can tell every night it would have been different. I would have enjoyed to hear how they dealt with it, different nights at different places. I'm pretty hard on myself and curse the mistakes I've made in my life, but I'm really happy to hear this gig - that it happened at all. And I do think 'blimey, that could've been a whole new thing in the 70's...

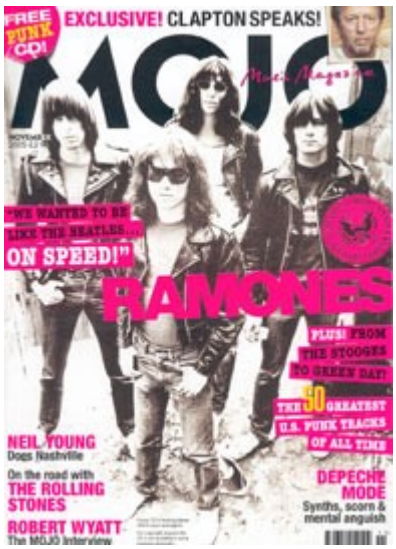
ROBERT WYATT & FRIENDS
In Concert – Theatre Royal, Drury Lane 1974

Q&A ROBERT WYATT

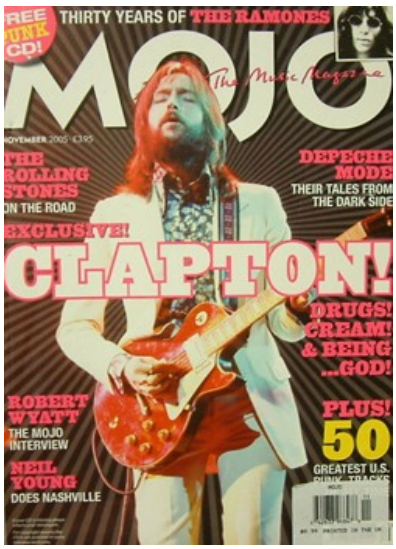
> Zoom

Would it have been difficult in reality?
One of the things I do blank out is the difficulties I might have had getting around the world in a wheelchair. To be honest, although I don't think it's tragic, it's bloody inconvenient - going to a place and then finding that you can't get on and off stage without four people to help you, and that you can't fit into the toilet. I realised fairly early on that a regular touring life was out of the question. I'd done that in the 60s and the result was the disintegration of my first marriage - I was just on the road all the time, and that was a plant that collapsed through lack of watering, really. I was already in my late 20s by the time of that concert, and the most exciting thing happening at that time was the fact that Alfie had just married me. My private life started to become the main event in my life...

Derek Hammond



Previous article



Next article

Back to the list

The MOJO Interview - Mojo N° 144 - November 2005

THE MOJO INTERVIEW

alternative cover

Soft Machine made him miserable. Falling from a window in 1973 was "a good career move". Enter the topsy-turvy world of rock's reluctant Mr Nice Guy, Robert Wyatt.

Interview by MARK PAYTRESS
Portrait by ROSS HALFIN

ROBERT WYATT IS MAKING HIS WAY TO THE nearest mirror. "My wife goes mad if it looks crap," he says, teasing unruly strands of silvery hair away from his face. It doesn't seem to make much difference. As he poses affably in his small front garden, oblivious to the bustle of the Lincolnshire market town passing by his gate, this softly-spoken god of small things still sports the unkempt 19th century Russian thinker look he's maintained for over a decade. He's all facial hair and kind, youthful eyes, and no 10-second makeover can alter that.

Inside, across a wooden dining table, Wyatt discusses everything that's thrown at him with generosity and insight. Moving effortlessly from Richard Dawkins to Don Covay, from father of anarchism Peter Kropotkin to flamenco siren La Niña de la Puebla over wine, fags and omelette, Wyatt is fascinated equally by musicians and ideas. Especially those, such as Hendrix and Miles Davis as well as innumerable unnamed fighters for economic and social justice, who push themselves a bit beyond what we know.

Wyatt, too, inhabits the realm of the unthinkable. Less than two years after the singing sticksman had been unceremoniously dumped by The Soft Machine, on June 1,1973 he fell from a fourth-floor window ("I'd always been a bit reckless," he explains) during a party, which turned his life round for a second time. Left paralysed and wheelchair-bound, he insists he simply got on with the job. But when he leaves the room, his wife Alfie helpfully suggests that "the trick has been denial". Ostensibly, MOJO is here to discuss the release of Theatre Royal Drury Lane. This September 1974 set chronicles his one and only solo live show, including his masterpiece, Rock Bottom, in its entirety. Since then, he's become a cherished institution, thanks to a string of inimitable and idiosyncratic, keyboard-led solo records. Unafraid to speak up for the common people, Wyatt won the respect of punk audiences, who loudly applauded his integrity. But most cherished of all is his voice, the most plaintive, deeply affecting in popular music. Refreshingly unassuming, Robert Wyatt is rock's most reluctant legend.

We're not WORTHY

"He's unique," says Roxy Music's Phil Manzanera

"Robert makes entertainment matter. He's got a unique British voice. The minute you hear him you know it's him, his voice touches you. He's like Dylan in that respect. His personality is in the music he makes. It's a testament to his life. He'll hate me for saying it, but it's very real."

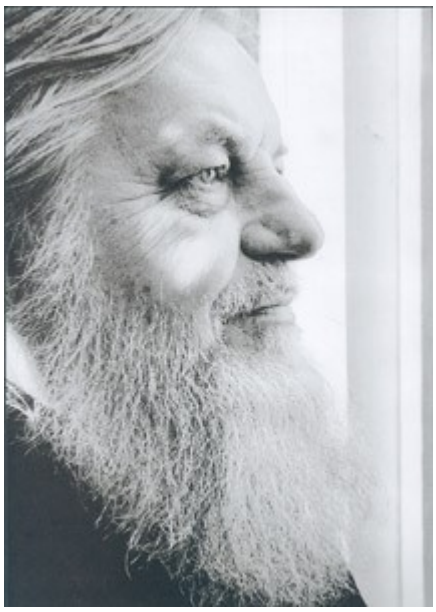
This latest archive release [Theatre Royal, Drury Lane] was your coming out a year on from the accident in 1973. Was it difficult to listen to?

No. It's the sound of freedom compared with my previous responsibilities as a drummer. What I hear are the technical things, the purely musical things. The content I have to take for granted.I don't listen like a listener.I would have loved to have taken that band on the road, though with Fred Frith, Mike Oldfield and Nick Mason involved, that was clearly never gonna happen. And John Peel's intro is one of the best solos on the record. He sets up an atmosphere that a good MC would have done opening a 19th century music hall show - very light and easy.

Privately, it must have been a different matter. How low did you go?

The truth is I wasn't low after the accident. I may have had the bends coming up too fast, so I may have been a bit deranged, but I can't call it sadness. I'd just got together with Alfie. For the first time I had people helping me do my own tunes. Being rejected by the burgeoning jazz-rock community [dismissal from The Soft Machine] was far more humiliating. That was when I was miserable, before I broke my back, before I met Alfie, before I started a new year zero in '74. It's actually quite a celebratory moment for me.

So, contrary to popular opinion, Rock Bottom wasn't a direct response to your new state?



My overall view of life, not my circumstances, is that I am rather sad. I think life is wonderful, but my tendency is towards great sadness about things. I don't know why. While that may come out, it's not something I consciously put in. I operate like an animal - I just go for what feels right. People say humans have a fantastic ability for selective memory, that they erase pain because a certain amount can't be lived with. So it may be possible I was more distressed than I remember. But when you've fallen down a hole, and are scrambling out, you're not really sad.

One night, you're a well-known party animal. The next you're sobering up in a hospital bed and have just been told you've lost the use of your legs. What was your first thought?

I thought it was interesting, odd. It was a bit like being lifted up by helicopter off a street and dumped on a beach in Java. You think, Where am I? Is anybody here? I don't know the language. The world looks the same, but you're so different in a wheelchair that you have to re-learn how to live, the oddness of being in the same place but not being able to participate in the same way. I must emphasise that I was very unhappy in the late '60s, deeply uncomfortable. It's not as if I'd lost something that was very precious to me.

Did you tell yourself: I'm gonna beat this?

No, I'm too short term for that. I thought, Blimey, I think I might have enough material here for another record - that'll be good. But I only had about three or four chords I liked.

> Zoom

I wanted to expand the repertoire... to about six.

Where did you look for inspiration ?

Alfie taught me how to look at films in a more educated way, and though we had a lot of music in common - Sly Stone, Mingus - she listened to flamenco, Bulgarian folk music and so on, which had an enormous effect on me. To discover that the spirit of soul music is all over the world was a revelation.

From a young age, you'd cherished outsiders through your admiration of jazz musicians and bohemian culture. Did this help?

I hadn't thought of it like that, but the answer is yes. If you're feeling lonely with the world because it seems to be made for somebody else but not for you, then to find other people that it's not made for either, who are uncomfortable in their own ways, you get a certain fraternal sense of relief from that.

What did music, especially your early passion for jazz, first mean to you. Escape? Intoxication? Removal from the humdrum?

You've nailed it!

There's a childlike sense of wonder to your work, and hints of Christmas carols and nursery rhymes in your melodies.

The first songs I sang were with my dad round the piano at Christmas - Away In A Manger and Silent Night. It's folk music, but like a lot of folklore, it survives as children's music and stories. It's not a deliberate, 'Life is complicated, I'm going back to my childhood' thing. It's simply that when you're a child you experience things for the first time, and a lot of things are astonishing. And it's that astonishment that's the basis of the art I like. That's what I try and release when I turn my [creative] tap on. But you can be made to feel a bit of a fool. I had an LP once, and the back cover was just a blank blue piece of shiny cardboard. And I said to the person I was with at the time, "Isn't this beautiful?" She said, "Not really, it's just a bit of blue cardboard." That made me feel a bit sheepish about it. I don't know if that's right or wrong. Maybe I'm retarded.

Your parents both knew the writer Robert Graves, were well travelled and seemed to provide you with an aestheticised world view.

> Zoom

Yes. The only thing that doesn't ring true is that it's always described as if there was something luxurious about my upbringing. But my parents were fairly poor and we lived a fairly scruffy life, as most people did after the war. It wasn't as grand or precious as the word 'aesthetic' makes it sound. As far as my dad was concerned, the world revolved around wine, women and song. If that's aesthetics, then I'm an aesthete!

> Zoom

I sense you had a smell under your nose when beat music arrived in 1963.

Beat music was a bit too boy-next-door to get romantic about. But it was encouraging to think that there was something I could do. I'd been interested in Eric Dolphy and Dada and Picasso, and I didn't want to work in an idiom that closed that off.

In fact, you have a quite jaundiced view of the entire '60s decade.

There's this surrealist map of the world where they made some places very big, like Africa. My surrealist calendar of the 20th century would go straight from 1959 to 1971. People say that life was so boring in the '50s, and thank goodness for the '60s. My life wasn't boring in the '5Os. As a young teenager, the whole business of beats and beatniks, and the music, these incomprehensible French films, the berets and the wines and the strange back alleys of Soho and Paris that went with it, was so exotic and romantic. I didn't need the breakthrough the '60s provided for others.

You were a significant part of The Soft Machine, an adventurous pop group doing something unprecedented. Thrilling, surely?

We were just trying to harness the various things that came into our heads and make something of it. That's all remember. Only recently when some labels started digging up old concerts from the late '60s and early '70s, I'd listen to them and think, Blimey, we weren't half going at it. It's a relief that it's not always as embarrassing as I thought it might be, though some of it is. There's an awful one that should be burned, destroyed, but you know how perverse people are, they'll go and buy it! It's like having a tattoo on your arm that you can't get rid of.

You were with The Soft Machine musicians in various guises for the best part of a decade. You must have believed in what you were doing.

It was important for me to be with musicians that might not normally play together, rather like putting garlic on cornflakes. The people I played with wouldn't try to play like somebody else. I liked the idea that what they played came out of themselves, and was not prompted by wanting to make, say, a jazz-rock record. I remember thinking it was better to be original and get it wrong than be derivative and get it right. It was an adventure to the point of recklessness.

You're very open in interviews yet always profess near total amnesia when discussing Soft Machine. Can the collapse of relationships in a pop group really have been of more significance to you than the accident?

I once asked Nick Mason why the Pink Floyd keep going. He said, 'We haven't finished with each other yet." But we had, obviously. Well, they'd finished with me. It's silly to talk about a group. It's not a living thing, just a word to put on a concert bill or a record cover. I'd rather work the way they do in cinema, where you get a bunch of people together for a particular project. But I'm grateful for the discipline and the training that being in a young group gave me.

"Harmless is as good as I dare aspire to. Beyond that I'm totally self-indulgent and hedonistic."

Your gorgeous, side-long solo epic, Moon In June, on [Soft Machine's] Third must have suggested a possible way out.

The only way to play that was for me to do it virtually myself. The dominant thing in my head was to take responsibility. I was doing more and more things that were quite incompatible with the band I was with, that weren't really rock band things at all. Moon In June was the second of two things I'd done myself. The first was taking these fragments of tunes that Hugh Hopper had written which I stitched together on the second Soft Machine record. The next was my stitching my own bits and pieces into a sustained sequence which became Moon In June.

By calling your next band Matching Mole, which roughly translates as "Soft Machine" in French, was that a case of not letting go?

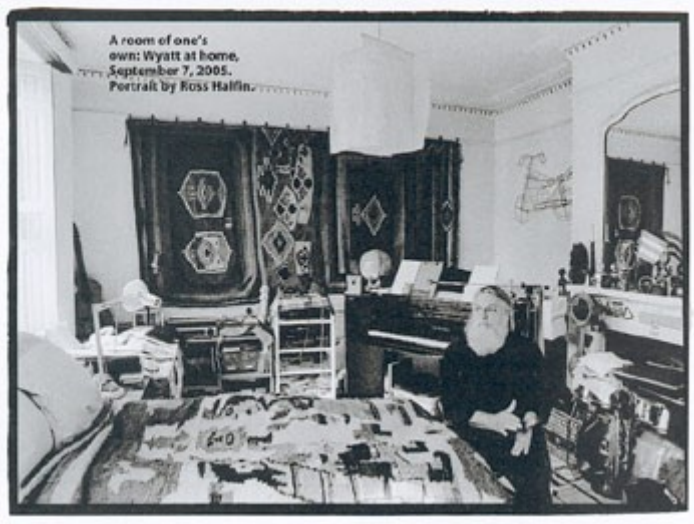
It was me saying I was still in that band in my head. I could have called it Soft Machine. I can now announce to the public that in fact we were never allowed to register the name. Anyone can call themselves Soft Machine if they want a quick shufti to the top of the bill!

How did you cope now you were the boss?

To my dismay, just as I wasn't very good at being told what do to, neither could I tell other people what to do. I now think that everything was leading to me making my own records. But the musicians I worked with were terrific. Phil [Miller] wrote the tune for God Song. O Caroline was basically a duet with David Sinclair. But we didn't have any money or resources. The others took all that. It was very hard.

The title and cover of Matching Mole's Little Red Record clearly suggests you'd become politicised by the early '70s.

The cover was actually chosen by someone at CBS who'd heard the lyrics, found this poster of the imaginary liberation of Taiwan, and put our faces on it. However, the world drifting to the right took me by surprise. I thought the era of moustached racist colonels in their mock Tudor houses in Whitstable was becoming a thing of the past, but to see whole new generations picking up on those ideologies, that imperial nostalgia, made my skin prickle. I thought my parents' generation sorted all this. It was quite clear. Are we on the side of the rich, trying to stay exclusive, engineering this endless character assassination against less lucky people? When the guns are firing, there is no middle ground. My tendency is always to err on the side of the exploited.



Did the accident make you more militant?

Not directly. I've disappointed some disabled people by not using my work as a platform to fight for our rights of access. But if it hasn't caught your imagination, you can't pretend it has. Yet having to yield control of the situation you're in, a dilemma most severely disabled people know well, I can recognise in a lot of the battles going on in the world.

Do you need to be a good man?

I want to be harmless. That's as good as I dare aspire to. Beyond that, I'm totally self-indulgent and hedonistic.

You're famous for your postcards, written on the back of cereal packets, sent to friends and admirers. My sister still has one from the early '80s where you complain about your nice guy image and sign off as "Bolshie Bertie". Are you uncomfortable with the Mr Nice reputation?

> Zoom

Sometimes I have to work at a compassionate view towards what other people have done. I can get very impatient and angry as an initial reaction. But ideally the goal would be, to understand all is to forgive all. It's a magical phrase.

But when a population votes in a government hellbent on destroying their livelihoods, as in the case of Thatcher, you must despair.

Well, I'm quite happy to sing a song like Shipbuilding by Costello, who felt exactly that, a rage that had to be exorcised in some way. That kind of rage can give you energy. But it's different from the cool mantle of wisdom that judges assume, which is almost inevitably bullshit. It seems to me that a nice person wouldn't have such a battle with all this stuff.

Earlier on, you mentioned hedonism. Is intoxication important to you?

I do have an intense greediness for stimuli. I get bored quickly. But I'm really scared of breaking the law. Pathetic, isn't it? Some musicians blast themselves with stimuli in order to blast their own rockets off to go into outer space. I wouldn't be alive if I were on my own. Alfie's kept me alive. My ideal state is to do absolutely nothing in a complete stupor listening to Charlie Mingus records very loud in a candle-lit room - with Alfie.

So your fall in 1973 saved you?

Yes, that's the way it looks to me. It was a good career move.

Keith Moon apparently taught you how to drink heavily. What is it with drummers?

I learnt how to get very drunk very quickly with him in New York. Drummers are hopeless; we don't get our things together. Maybe because it is extremely physical, it's possible you get into a certain state, that some chemical thing happens.

It's obvious that Alfie is your inspiration, your sounding-board, your collaborator. And, as she says, also "your guarder". Do you ever yearn to nip out and have a few sneaky beers?

I do. The trouble is it's hurtful for Alfie. If I'm left to my own devices, I do seem to be amazingly irresponsible, so I have to be grateful for someone who points these dangers out in advance. I'm not quite sure how to function safely in the world. I would be much better for her if I looked after myself better.

You survived punk. Did you feel a genuine affinity with it?

Yeah, the working methods, the attitude and

Solar flares for YOU...

How to buy Robert Wyatt.
By Mark Paytress.

THE SINGING DRUMMER ALBUM

Out-Bloody-Rageous 1967-73
★★★★ Sony 2005

An instant guide to the 'pre-history', this recent primer documents The Soft Machine's mutation from psychedelicised soul boys (Love Makes Sweet Music) to the instrumental wastelands of the post-Wyatt era. Includes phased drumming, a recitation of the British alphabet and Wyatt's landmark epic Moon In June, the template for his future solo career.

THE MASTERPIECE

Rock Bottom ★★★★★ Virgin 1974

Serene, melancholy and very occasionally sinister, this first post-accident LP is classic Wyatt. Assisted by a cast of British jazz-rock luminaries, and produced by Nick Mason, he assembles a seamless suite of songs that allude both to his new circumstances and to Venice, where the album was partly written, hence the aquatic subtext.

THE ELDER STATESMAN ALBUM

Cuckooland ★★★★ Rykodisc, 2003

An unlikely mix of nostalgia (Old Europe), quiet indignation (Lullaby For Hamza) and ageing (Lullaloop) lends a lovely dignity to Wyatt's most recent studio set. Brian Eno, Karen Mantler and David Gilmour confirm the singer's gift for the well-chosen cameo, but it's his continued quest for simplicity with sophistication that astonishes most.

the tunings. It was a very witty movement, an autonomous one that wasn't invented by fashion stylists. I thought they were very moral young people. A lot of people were thinking hard about the rise of the National Front, and the relationship between young rastas and punks was very ahead of its time. Some cracking records too.

In the '80s you spent quite a bit of time in Spain and Italy. Then you moved from west London to Lincolnshire. Is this indicative of a make-the-world-go-away philosophy?

We had a busy life abroad, recording, doing television and attending ANC meetings. I didn't need to be part of the rock world back here. But sometimes a certain distance is required. If you create a comfortable distance between yourself and the world you have to deal with, you can keep control of your own bit of it. But if I'm asked my ethnic group, I always say "Soho". In my heart I'm still hanging round Ronnie Scott's foyer. I could spend the rest of my life there, and I do in my head, just by choosing the right records.

Over the past 20 years, you've released a record roughly once every five years. The curse of perfectionism, perhaps?

I'd love to be a perfectionist. I always think I am until I hear the results, then I realise I'm not.

Cuckooland*, the title of your last album is such a Wyatt word, vaguely archaic, full of echoes.

I'm really amused by words that have some sort of folk memory, and I love half making up words, because that's how they came to be in the first place. Cuckooland is ambiguous. Either the world is really as mad as it looks to me, or because that's how my brain is, it's me that's in Cuckooland.

John Peel was a long-time friend. How did his death affect you?

